There is No Such Thing as a Conservative-Republican Christian
There is No Such Thing as a Conservative-Republican Christian

Jesus is a small-c communist

Tom Usher of the Real Liberal Christian Church
THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS A CONSERVATIVE-REPUBLICAN CHRISTIAN:
Jesus is a small-c communist.

Copyright © 2006 by the Real Liberal Christian Church and Tom Usher. All rights reserved.
Printed in the United States of America.
No part of this work may be reproduced in any manner without prior written permission with the exception of the following: brief quotations in critiques or news reporting; and, nonprofit educational purposes (e.g., teaching, scholarship, research, and spreading the word and deeds of God).

Please do not reproduce this work while having mammon-profit as an aim or to solicit on behalf of other than deeds fully consistent with the views of the Real Liberal Christian Church:

http://www.RealLiberalChristianChurch.org

Real Liberal Christian Church Press™ and Real Liberal Christian Church™ are trade marks of the Real Liberal Christian Church.

Library of Congress Control Number:

ISBN: (pbk.)
To The Unity

To Audra
I and my Father are one. Then the Jews took up stones again to stone him. Jesus answered them, Many good works have I shewed you from my Father; for which of those works do ye stone me? The Jews answered him, saying, For a good work we stone thee not; but for blasphemy; and because that thou, being a man, makest thyself God. Jesus answered them, Is it not written in your law, I said, Ye are gods? If he called them gods, unto whom the word of God came, and the scripture cannot be broken; Say ye of him, whom the Father hath sanctified, and sent into the world, Thou blasphemest; because I said, I am the Son of God? If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him. – Jesus Christ to the Jews (KJV—John 10:30-38).
I have said, Ye are gods; and all of you are children of the most High. – (KJV—Psalm 82:6).

I will be his father, and he shall be my son. If he commit iniquity, I will chasten him with the rod of men, and with the stripes of the children of men. – Nathan with the word of God to King David (KJV—2 Samuel 7:14).
Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Preface</td>
<td>cxxiii</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Introduction (To Be Read)</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bringing the biggest picture into focus</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chapter 1</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>There is No Such Thing as a Conservative-Republican Christian</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clarifying &quot;conservatism&quot;</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biblical liberalism</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figurative thinking and word usage</td>
<td>38</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The real bread</td>
<td>41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Self-sufficiency</td>
<td>44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Capitalist charity</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Salvation from capitalism</td>
<td>47</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The more you know, the more you're obligated</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thou shalt not kill</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Convert to wealth from real service</td>
<td>56</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Giving all</td>
<td>58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The honest minister</td>
<td>60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Professing versus having the Holy Spirit</td>
<td>61</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Be better toward the grassroots than the hope of militant Marxism ........................................... 214
Suharto ....................................................................................................................................................... 216
It is not brilliant to work the dark side ........................................................................................................ 217
Stealing has been masquerading as for-selfish-profit merchandising .............................................. 224
Universities shall teach nations to be Good Samaritans ..................................................................... 226
Worldly expansionism hastens its death .................................................................................................... 226
Blame the sheep ....................................................................................................................................... 227
False democracy ......................................................................................................................................... 227
Capitalism can't live with real democracy ............................................................................................... 229
Capitalism is coercion .............................................................................................................................. 231
No automatic guilt by association ........................................................................................................... 234
There is nothing wrong with keeping company with the rich, provided ........................................... 234
Robin Hood ............................................................................................................................................. 234
You cannot serve God and capitalism .................................................................................................... 235
The worldly Empire has lost its disguise and is now fighting to its death ........................................... 235
The New Deal fell ...................................................................................................................................... 236
Not falling but rising ................................................................................................................................. 239
The neo's are withholding ........................................................................................................................ 241
There are no loopholes ............................................................................................................................ 241
The New Deal fell, continued ................................................................................................................... 241
Capitalism strives to stifle the word of God................................................................. 242
The business of America is the evil of war................................................................. 246
Sabotage designed into the welfare state................................................................. 250
Trading one form of debt to evil for another: American style consumerism........ 251
Poverty in America................................................................. 252
Selfish development is hell...................................................................................... 253
Global industrialization is destruction...................................................................... 255
Obscene spirit of hoarding...................................................................................... 255
False prosperity, false bounty................................................................................ 256
Sin of the World Bank, continued........................................................................... 259
Satan's temporary superpower status........................................................................ 262
To hell with the oil economy................................................................................ 263
The environmental movement................................................................................ 263
The real economy, real quality of life....................................................................... 264
The White House, conservatives, oil, and killing the planet.................................... 266
ExxonMobil............................................................................................................. 267
What is happening to the earth? ............................................................................. 270
Natural disasters are consequences of the selfish spirit........................................ 271
Emotions are power............................................................................................... 272
The power of God's sensibilities............................................................................. 272
Harmless rebuking................................................................................................. 273
Kinds of prophets ................................................................................................. 274
China has already started running into the wall ................................................................. 303
Capitalist hypocrisy ............................................................................................................. 303
Survival of the fittest, the cooperative ............................................................................... 304
The prophets of capitalism are false .................................................................................. 304
Prophesy now .................................................................................................................... 305
Worker rights in China ........................................................................................................ 307
Working conditions in China .............................................................................................. 307
Living conditions in China ................................................................................................. 308
Dickensian development .................................................................................................... 310
Hobbesian world error ....................................................................................................... 312
Rushing to crash ................................................................................................................ 315
Democracy in the workplace and employee ownership .................................................... 316
Residency rights in China .................................................................................................. 317
Child labor in China .......................................................................................................... 318
Slave labor in China .......................................................................................................... 318
Contracts for employment in China .................................................................................. 318
Collective bargaining in China ......................................................................................... 318
Taft-Hartley China ............................................................................................................ 319
Occupational safety and health in China .......................................................................... 320
Time compression heightens contradictions .................................................................... 321
Unemployment in China .................................................................................................. 321
Wages in China ................................................................................................................ 322
Environmental protections in China.................................................................................................................. 322
Retirement security in China............................................................................................................................... 322
The right to dissent and protest in China........................................................................................................... 322
Coercion is satanic ................................................................................................................................................ 323
Satan versus Jesus ................................................................................................................................................ 324
Sifting versus Jesus ............................................................................................................................................... 324
Religious rights in China .................................................................................................................................... 327
The right to peaceably assemble in China .......................................................................................................... 329
Freedom of the press in China ........................................................................................................................... 331
Opposition political parties in China .................................................................................................................. 332
Due process in China .......................................................................................................................................... 333
Make not my Father's house an house of merchandise ..................................................................................... 334
Corruption in China ........................................................................................................................................... 336
Where the rich got their start ............................................................................................................................... 336
Jesus raised the standard ..................................................................................................................................... 337
Warning is love ................................................................................................................................................... 339
There is no mere scapegoat ................................................................................................................................. 340
The golden rule says people are not a mere commodity .................................................................................... 343
Capitalists are pushers ....................................................................................................................................... 345
Mammon nonsense ............................................................................................................................................. 345
The oxymoronic evil that is Christian capitalism (Calvinism).......................................................... 349
Feed the flock the whole truth.................................................................................................................. 350
Everyone on the planet cannot live the middle-class American lifestyle nor should anyone want to, considering.................................................................................................................. 351
Evil thinking.............................................................................................................................................. 352
Whom do you trust? ................................................................................................................................ 353
Environmental disaster in China and for the world.............................................................................. 355
Insatiable lust............................................................................................................................................. 356
China is lost with the world..................................................................................................................... 357
China's better efforts are signs it yearns for the real message of Christ.................................................. 358
The failure of China's best effort to be full, small-c communism.......................................................... 359
India too is making such mistakes........................................................................................................ 360
The error of excessive urbanization and overpopulation........................................................................ 361
European Union....................................................................................................................................... 362
Russia's misguided reaction..................................................................................................................... 362
Fear hypocritical Americanization......................................................................................................... 363
Environmental disaster, continued.......................................................................................................... 364
What the conservatives want to remain occulted..................................................................................... 366
George W. Bush, Biblical prince of this world, antichrist for a time....................................................... 367
Scandinavia's relative sanity.................................................................................................................... 368
Stingy, violent America............................................................................................................................ 369
US war crimes and incendiary weapons .................................................................................................. 373
Conservative outward appearance intended to deceive, pretext
God the tangible; God the ineffable
What woe awaits the ones by whom the offence cometh?
Sanitized war
Human rights and capitalism are incompatible
Thou shalt never preempt
How gullible are the elect?
Choose your side
Thou shalt never retaliate
Satan races the mind to distract it from considering and clearly identifying Satan’s fruit and hence Satan himself
Kill the slightly reformed CIA
Satancracy
Shame on false-Christians
How gullible are the elect? (continued)
Follow the money
How far do they want to go toward empire?
Original sin
Definition of terrorism
Resistance
The global Wild West ........................................................................................................................................... 401
Total takeover .................................................................................................................................................... 401
The US military world coup is already well underway ................................................................. 402
Latin American awareness ...................................................................................................................... 404
Capitalism leads to fascism .................................................................................................................... 404
Pentagon speaks against the poor ....................................................................................................... 406
Jesus, number one enemy of the state .................................................................................................. 406
The princes of this world speak dangerous lies for selfishness ....................................................... 407
Big Brother is not God .......................................................................................................................... 407
Selfishness is the plague of humanity that manifests in every form of evil ........................................ 410
The US conservatives are selfish and, therefore, anti-environmental, uncooperative, and rebellious against God ............................................................................................................ 410
Capitalist strings attached to debt relief, continued ........................................................................ 412
Cooperating with competition is impossible ..................................................................................... 413
They deliberately obstruct proven cooperation ..................................................................................... 415
Hutterites ................................................................................................................................................ 416
Labor unions ........................................................................................................................................... 418
An issue is persecution ............................................................................................................................ 420
New Testament church .......................................................................................................................... 421
The Roman church hoarded communism .......................................................................................... 423
St. Augustine misled ............................................................................................................................. 424
The apostate church and the for-selfish-profit state ........................................................................ 425
Real church and state ........................................................................................................................................426
The Essenes ..................................................................................................................................................427
Nazarites ......................................................................................................................................................429
To each according to need, and from each according to ability ...............................................................434
Shine the truth on the whole world forever .................................................................................................434
Separate to connect and come together ..................................................................................................436
Kibbutzim ..................................................................................................................................................437
They deliberately obstruct proven cooperation, continued ....................................................................438
Conservatives hate God's commons and seek to privatize ....................................................................439
Conservative blasphemy: Telling half-truths: Large-c Communism versus the small-c communism of Jesus and the Apostles ........................................................................................................................................439
Stalin's state capitalism .............................................................................................................................440
Lenin's one-party forced dictatorship .........................................................................................................443
Spanish Civil War ......................................................................................................................................444
Fascist wing of the church of Rome ...........................................................................................................446
Franco .........................................................................................................................................................447
Misrepresenting all communes ..................................................................................................................448
Capitalist cover-up of communism ...........................................................................................................448
Capitalists fear truth ..................................................................................................................................449
The real Christian ......................................................................................................................................450
Chapter 2  Christian Conservatism: The Most Significant Confusion

If they were real liberals ................................................................. 455
Giving Jesus a hardhearted reputation ........................................... 455
When we turn ............................................................................... 456
Where is the Apostolic Succession? .............................................. 457
Where is the faith? ...................................................................... 458
The prophecy is no dispensation to complacency ......................... 459
Spread the word: The Apostles lived communistically ................. 460
Black Budget: Built on embezzlement ......................................... 461
Office of Special Plans: The lie factory ........................................ 462
False Zionist, neocons ................................................................. 462
Satan's think tank: American Enterprise Institute ....................... 464
They are all disciples of Machiavelli: The old way ..................... 465
Neoconservative/antichrist conspiracy ................................ ....... 470
Do not lump all Hebrews under one banner ............................... 473
False versus real hate-crimes ...................................................... 474
False Zionism ........................................................................... 475
The conditional rights of Israel .................................................... 477
Forms of Zionism ..................................................................... 478
Real Zionism ............................................................................ 480
The Real Temple is already standing ............................................ 481
The official position of the US intelligence community against the case for war against Iraq................................................................. 519
White House lie-coordination................................................................................................................................................... 521
Fake news, continued.............................................................................................................................................................. 521
Far from liberators......................................................................................................................................................... 522
The antiwar movement was right about what would happen.............................................................................................. 523
Do not support violent troops.............................................................................................................................................. 523
The Pentagon and Hollywood............................................................................................................................................. 524
Vietnam War revisionism...................................................................................................................................................... 525
Controlling the message..................................................................................................................................................... 526
Killing public media......................................................................................................................................................... 529
The spirit of privatization is rebellion against God........................................................................................................... 529
Overthrowing evil............................................................................................................................................................. 533
The Pentagon and Hollywood, continued....................................................................................................................... 534
Is home hell or heaven?.................................................................................................................................................... 536
Pentagon antichrist........................................................................................................................................................... 538
The counterculture and antiestablishment movement ................................................................................................. 538
Christianity within, not the whole of, counterculture and antiestablishment.......................................................... 539
Traditions of men, not God.............................................................................................................................................. 540
Martial arts....................................................................................................................................................................... 541
Where are the body bags?.................................................................................................................................................. 542
Too sophisticated to be duped?......................................................................................................................................... 544
Capitalism fears Christianity .................................................................................................................................................................................. 545
We make ourselves the spirit we choose ............................................................................................................................................................ 546
Marxism's mistake......................................................................................................................................................................................... 546
Honor what?........................................................................................................................................................................................................... 547
Do not support violent troops, continued.................................................................................................................................................. 547
Universal Soldier.................................................................................................................................................................................................. 548
The Pentagon buys souls with lies................................................................................................................................................................. 551
More neocon lies about Saddam Hussein..................................................................................................................................................... 552
Mundane impunity only....................................................................................................................................................................................... 555
Lies too about hurricane Katrina............................................................................................................................................................................. 558
Lies and Christ don't mix................................................................................................................................................................................... 559
Worldly government and heaven don't mix.................................................................................................................................................... 559
More neocon lies about Saddam Hussein..................................................................................................................................................... 561
Growing sheep's clothing.................................................................................................................................................................................... 566
Illusory civil and human rights.......................................................................................................................................................................... 567
The real United Nations.................................................................................................................................................................................................. 568
Hurricane Katrina followed by dirty conservative political tricks.................................................................................................................. 577
Widespread, systematic, conservative election fraud....................................................................................................................................... 577
Souls valued in dollars................................................................................................................................................................................................... 580
Real logic ..................................................................................................................................................................................................................... 583
Real management, democracy in the workplace, employee ownership, the sooner the better............................................................................................................................................ 585
Making it against US law for Christians to help illegal immigrants............................................. 586
Katrina and the invasion of Baghdad, Iraq, are the result of the same lies.................................... 588
The US merchants of death, hypocritical weapons suppliers to Saddam Hussein....................... 591
Misleading, mundane impunity ........................................................................................................... 596
Republican cover-ups: The Franklin Community Federal Credit Union pedophile case, and more .................................................................................................................................. 598
Roman Catholic Church seal of confession, barring anyone from exposing sexual depravity amongst clergy ........................................................................................................................................... 600
Can't leave the lie of "God and country"............................................................................................... 603
Project Monarch....................................................................................................................................... 604
Covering up and ignoring the noble-lie rationale ................................................................................... 609
Presidents lie to take the nation to war .................................................................................................. 609
Pearl Harbor and 9-11 ............................................................................................................................. 613
The plan to attack the free flow of information on the Internet....................................................... 622
The worldly elite are not the elect ......................................................................................................... 623
Presidents lie, continued.......................................................................................................................... 625
The general direction has been satanic ................................................................................................. 627
How satanic? ........................................................................................................................................... 629
Move on, get over it............................................................................................................................... 630
Whose side are you on?.......................................................................................................................... 632
Republican cover-ups: The Franklin Community Federal Credit Union pedophile case, and more, continued...............................................................................................................632
How satanic?, continued..................................................................................................................634
Depravity is commonplace and must be faced.................................................................................636
All evil is a conspiracy.......................................................................................................................640
The case of the Finders ......................................................................................................................644
Can you see the patterns......................................................................................................................650
Torture is Satanism..............................................................................................................................652
The Son of man and the Son of man.................................................................................................653
The difference is everything................................................................................................................654
The fire of evil isn't put out with evil..................................................................................................656
The conscious decision by the Pentagon openly to embrace Satan for temporal Empire..........................657
MindWar..............................................................................................................................................660
Show me real bounty, and I'll show you real victory........................................................................663
Designer operatives............................................................................................................................664
Fox News..........................................................................................................................................668
Euphemizing: The party line................................................................................................................669
Defining the enemy: The poor and needy..........................................................................................670
Conservatives refuse to listen to Christians.......................................................................................671
Militarism is idiotic................................................................................................................................... 672
Fox News and pornography under the same roof................................................................. 673
Pledge and flag as official blasphemy and idolatry.......................................................... 675
US Constitution as sacrilege ............................................................................................. 676
Look at the pattern.............................................................................................................. 677
Johnny Gosch ..................................................................................................................... 677
Look at the pattern, continued.......................................................................................... 679
The only path to God is Jesus, not syncretism or ecumenicalism ........................................ 686
War for false unity: Cretans .............................................................................................. 688
The falsehood that there are many paths to God ............................................................... 688
The devil preempt love ...................................................................................................... 690
The house of coercive checks and balances will fall ......................................................... 691
No privacy .......................................................................................................................... 694
Privatized US concentration camps for dissenters ......................................................... 695
Damascus ......................................................................................................................... 697
Breaking the broken at Waco ........................................................................................... 699
Compartmentalization ........................................................................................................ 702
Everything is mine ............................................................................................................. 704
Homosexuality: Relative and different kinds of sin ......................................................... 705
Reaganites: The rebellious ............................................................................................... 706
Psychological weapons ...................................................................................................... 707
Who can beat Satan at developing and using evil weapons? ......................................... 711
Compartmentalization, continued ......................................................................................................... 713
Operation Midnight Climax ................................................................................................................... 718
MKULTRA ........................................................................................................................................... 718
The Empire builds up the dark arts ....................................................................................................... 720
Fiction depicting truisms ........................................................................................................................ 725
Violence corrupts ................................................................................................................................... 726
The US created Saddam Hussein and Osama bin Laden .................................................................... 729
Iraqgate ............................................................................................................................................... 730
Neoliberal Democrat collusion ............................................................................................................. 731
The mistake that is Burkean conservatism ............................................................................................. 731
The conservative Republic elite laugh at the voters .......................................................................... 733
Coalition of the bribed ........................................................................................................................... 734
Cover-up of the Iraqi Weapons Report ................................................................................................. 735
Republicans helped gas the Iranians .................................................................................................... 736
Republicans overthrew the Iranian democracy ................................................................................... 736
The US and other major powers complicit in war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide ......................................................................................................................................... 739
Mainstream media cover-up of Iraqgate ............................................................................................... 740
Election fraud ........................................................................................................................................ 741
No clean and fair elections possible with capitalism .......................................................................... 743
The capitalists have purchased mundane science................................. 768
Don't learn about Jesus from those who don't know him.......................... 771
Evil is a conspiracy .............................................................................. 774
The remnant of America will have turned .............................................. 775
American duplicity in the Iraq-Iran War ................................................. 775
George W. Bush doesn't know, because he's spiritually dead .................. 777
Gaming the UN ................................................................................. 779
Blair government: American, European, or both? ................................. 779
Anglo-American Empire ..................................................................... 781
The build-up to the US bombing of Iran ............................................... 783
US aid to Israel .................................................................................. 786
International law and the Palestinian Occupied Territories .................. 788
Conservatives always negotiate in bad faith ......................................... 789
US Nazi doctrine ............................................................................... 790
USA Patriot Act ................................................................................ 790
US fascist treatment of Arabs .............................................................. 791
US working to turn dissenters into terrorists ........................................ 792
George W. Bush won't let the US Supreme Court have the final word .... 795
US Napoleonic law ............................................................................ 796
Global larceny .................................................................................... 797
Big Lie .........................................................................................................................................................828
Stop baiting and taking the bait .....................................................................................................................832
George's unresolved boyhood frustrations taken out on the world .................................................................835
Killing people for political capital .................................................................................................................836
Which liar to believe .......................................................................................................................................839
Pat Robertson, real Christian leaders don't issue calls to take out people ......................................................839
Neither Jesus nor his disciples sought office in the worldly Empire ............................................................844
False Christians filling the offices of the worldly Empire ...............................................................................844
False Christians hide their full agenda .........................................................................................................845
False Christians and the Klan .......................................................................................................................846
Changing of the false-Christian guard ..........................................................................................................848
Those who yell the loudest are often just doing so to rake in selfish gain ....................................................849
Discern the charlatans ....................................................................................................................................852
False Christians for the Old Testament against the New ..............................................................................853
False Jews for the Old Testament against the New ......................................................................................853
Self-styled Fundamentalists of each major religion are of the same hard-hearted spirit ................................854
Moses's law and Jesus's law .............................................................................................................................855
Why did Sharon suffer a stroke? ....................................................................................................................857
Doctors get rich off suffering ..........................................................................................................................860
Bush professes, but where’s the Holy Spirit? ................................................................. 863
Haiti: More shame on America.............................................................................................. 864
Can’t just take the mainstream’s word.................................................................................. 866
What did George W. Bush say when he was running and what happened? .......................... 868
Facilitating 9-11 ...................................................................................................................... 870
The United States is the spirit of the Roman Empire......................................................... 874
False-flag operations ............................................................................................................. 875
Impunity is their plan ............................................................................................................ 885
Privatization for impunity .................................................................................................... 886
Under privatization, voting shares replaces one-person-one-vote ...................................... 889
The beginning of the end of the current age ........................................................................ 890
Living soil ............................................................................................................................... 891
What we need to do .............................................................................................................. 891
Their philanthropy isn’t properly aimed ............................................................................. 892
Privatizing everything ......................................................................................................... 893
The false messiah .................................................................................................................. 893
The US is making itself a growing target ............................................................................ 894
The US is not bringing forth real bounty ............................................................................ 896
Duping recruits with lies ..................................................................................................... 899
Mixed signals from society and the military rips souls in half ........................................... 901
Not the way to Muslim hearts ............................................................................................. 901
US concentration camps ...................................................................................................... 902
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>US, a nation that maintains torturers in the highest offices..........</td>
<td>903</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abu Ghraib</td>
<td>905</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No more mainstream investigative journalism</td>
<td>905</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The end of the Internet frontier</td>
<td>907</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Democracy and capitalism clash heads</td>
<td>910</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Internet neutrality is an illusion</td>
<td>912</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Self-hating</td>
<td>913</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What is Semitism?</td>
<td>914</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why Christ rejecters fall short</td>
<td>915</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Real Christians and the current state of Israel</td>
<td>916</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What is Americanism?</td>
<td>918</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No public trials</td>
<td>921</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Torture by the US is no aberration, nothing new</td>
<td>922</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bush is responsible</td>
<td>925</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rendition</td>
<td>930</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unitary Executive Doctrine</td>
<td>931</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Human laws sit in the sea of dead qualifications</td>
<td>932</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The new commandment is God</td>
<td>932</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Extraordinary rendition</td>
<td>936</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bush and Powell used false confession made under torture</td>
<td>938</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
US double standard as to the efficacy of torture for reliable information ................................. 940
The US led into the dark ............................................................................................................. 941
To neocon lawyers, Jesus wasn't tortured ............................................................................... 945
Jesus was murdered for the sake of national security ............................................................ 945
Jesus was tried in a kangaroo court ......................................................................................... 946
Federalist Society ..................................................................................................................... 947
Phony image builders .............................................................................................................. 949
The Joe Pyne style .................................................................................................................... 949
The president now rules by secret decree ................................................................................... 952
We better get to the so-called tough questions ...................................................................... 952
Education fails collective memory .......................................................................................... 955
Logic ........................................................................................................................................ 957
Science shows God's existence ............................................................................................... 957
No taxes .................................................................................................................................... 958
Signing statements confrontation ............................................................................................ 960
At the mercy of the coercive ..................................................................................................... 962
Coup d'état plan against Nixon? ............................................................................................ 962
Coup d'état against the neocons? ........................................................................................... 962
All's fair in war: War is unfair .................................................................................................. 964
Global capitalists police state is their mundane answer ......................................................... 965
Embarrassment, not national security .................................................................................... 967
Vigilance until the tribulation ................................................................................................. 968
Historicism of Jesus.................................................................................................................................. 971
Sanitizing war........................................................................................................................................... 973
Megalomania............................................................................................................................................ 974
Inferring the Apostles were godless........................................................................................................... 976
The Apostles were not Marxists................................................................................................................ 977
Jesus was a communist, not a Communist................................................................................................. 978
Capitalism is godless................................................................................................................................ 981
Overpopulation.......................................................................................................................................... 982
Stark contrast.............................................................................................................................................. 984
Conservatives try God to justify themselves.............................................................................................. 987
The Marines............................................................................................................................................... 988
National governments are preaching and doing exactly against sacred truth............................................ 988
The new nation .......................................................................................................................................... 990
Americanization destroys the earth........................................................................................................... 990
Scientific explanation for tribulation........................................................................................................... 991
Jesus doesn’t know the exact moment, but he knows it’s coming................................................................. 991
The signs are here: The beginning of the end of this age.......................................................................... 992
Matthew 24 ............................................................................................................................................ 993
Free will versus instant gratification........................................................................................................... 993
Answering Epicurus .................................................................................................................................. 994
The sons of man............................................................................................................................................... 995
Answering C. S. Lewis (Matthew 24:34: "the most embarrassing verse in the Bible").......................... 996
Foreshadowing the millennium ................................................................................................................. 999
Preterism.................................................................................................................................................... 999
Who knows Jesus?.................................................................................................................................... 1000
We can do nothing real without God....................................................................................................... 1001
Righteousness and softheartedness, not Republican conservatism, are synonymous...................... 1002

Chapter 3 Irrefutable Proof Will Increase Division.................................................................................. 1005
Irrevocably incompatible with the lust of the worldly Empire ............................................................... 1005
Christians and political parties ................................................................................................................ 1007
Worldly political parties necessarily involve coercion ........................................................................... 1009
Real born-again nation............................................................................................................................. 1010
No part in the prince of darkness of this world ....................................................................................... 1011
Still engaging the world............................................................................................................................ 1013
Stark line..................................................................................................................................................... 1014
The truth about Capitalism will divide every house ............................................................................. 1016
Your outward projection is conducive to what? ..................................................................................... 1016
What is ugly or beautiful?........................................................................................................................ 1019
Everyone serves everyone....................................................................................................................... 1020
Money is the root of evil........................................................................................................................... 1022
Capitalism is pharaoh............................................................................................................................. 1024
Chapter 4  This Work Ought to Cause Conflation ................................................................. 1057

Earliest church: All things were held in common .......................................................... 1058
Satanic spirit tries to put Jesus out of reach ................................................................. 1059
Jesus is taking back heaven ......................................................................................... 1059
Lip-service is death ....................................................................................................... 1061
Unselfishness means crediting God and Jesus ........................................................... 1061
False conservatives twist selfishness into unselfishness .............................................. 1062
The half-truth, conservative version of substitutionary atonement .............................. 1063
Jesus wants atonement from us all .............................................................................. 1064
Conservative die-hardism ............................................................................................ 1066

Chapter 5  A Wonderfully Blessed World Were All to Conflate ................................ 1069
The prophecy ................................................................................................................ 1069
Truisms ......................................................................................................................... 1070
Truth isn't cliché .......................................................................................................... 1070
Worldly Empire spirit ................................................................................................. 1071
False-Christian dominionists are Old-Testament-only Jews ...................................... 1073
The Zealots lost and will lose again ............................................................................. 1075
False Zionists: Running Rome, caesar's prime counselors ......................................... 1076
Pax Americana (false peace through war) .................................................................. 1076
The neocon error since the beginning ........................................................................ 1078
Convict your conscience ............................................................................................. 1080
The greedy are buying up the educational system to spew falsehood ...................... 1084
The greedy bought up the media to spew falsehood .................................................. 1085
Al Jazeera.................................................................................................................................................... 1086
The greedy bought up the media to spew falsehood: Fox News................................................................. 1090
Profiting from hypocrisy ............................................................................................................................... 1091
Not the wholesome nakedness of Eden....................................................................................................... 1091
Casual sex................................................................................................................................................... 1092
Destroy the messenger............................................................................................................................... 1094
Unnamed news sources for profit ........................................................................................................... 1094
They limit your ability to make an informed choice............................................................................... 1096
What’s really happening in Bolivia? ....................................................................................................... 1097
Killing farmers........................................................................................................................................... 1098
Farmer suicides........................................................................................................................................ 1098
Capitalist lies to farmers about genetically modified (GM) crops and other dangers .................. 1099
Monsanto Corporation ............................................................................................................................ 1100
Roundup Ready......................................................................................................................................... 1100
Bt crops ..................................................................................................................................................... 1101
Cross-pollination....................................................................................................................................... 1102
Posilac......................................................................................................................................................... 1103
The selfish are the worst stewards........................................................................................................... 1105
Bolivia ....................................................................................................................................................... 1105
Privatizing water........................................................................................................................................ 1106
Democratic nationalization is closer to the commons the US will seek to kill

Say one thing and do another

Great White Throne Judgment

Struggle over the free flow of political expression

Evo Morales

Neoliberalism was a disaster in Bolivia

Capitalist offer only choices among poisons

Growth for growth sake or quality of life?

America's false democracy

Censoring the discussion of the message of Jesus

Building on selfishness is building on quicksand

Jesus makes Satan doubt Satan

Real grassroots democracy

History is not finished unfolding

False-libertarian capitalists give themselves credit for bringing forth unwitting hell

Double standard of self-styled libertarians who aren't libertarians at all

Real, fair economy

Economic miracle in Chile?

Evil is not the commons but rather central dictatorship

Unionism under capitalism isn't good enough

Where to invest

What is poverty?
Libertarians move left instead of right

Neoliberalism is past its peak

Privatization isn't free trade

World government

Supranational corporatization and hence de-democratization of the world

Killing farmers, continued

Privatization itself is a tax break for the wealthy

False arguments of huge corporate-farming

Capitalist privatizers are divided against themselves

Fortune and Forbes are not the books of life

The conscience is to censor

Conservatives bring out the worst; bad influences

Hooverville think tanks

No capitalist is Christian

Christianity is and is not anarchy

Hooverville think tanks, continued

Duped economists and academics

God, Jesus, Christians judge no man

Truth upside down

The devil is devouring God's great Amazon rainforest

Destroy them which destroy the earth

Pristine wilderness to commune with God
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Destroying the earth</td>
<td>1179</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sacred environmentalism</td>
<td>1180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Selfish prophets are always false</td>
<td>1180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moonies</td>
<td>1181</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>End Times-unification-ecumenicalism is a mess</td>
<td>1183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>End Times is their excuse</td>
<td>1185</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cascading environmental failure</td>
<td>1186</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Using imperfection in others as one's excuse</td>
<td>1187</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>To hell with posterity they say</td>
<td>1189</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dangerous nuclear energy scam</td>
<td>1194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peak oil</td>
<td>1194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Capitalism is inherently anti-environmental</td>
<td>1195</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Our real environmental choices</td>
<td>1196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Population explosion</td>
<td>1198</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The solution: Controlling appetites across-the-board</td>
<td>1199</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Consumer contraception</td>
<td>1200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The real right side</td>
<td>1201</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Selfishness disturbs nature</td>
<td>1202</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What is the new nation doing so far?</td>
<td>1203</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What's really cost-effective?</td>
<td>1204</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Human selfishness is felt as the threat it is to the rest of creation .............................. 1205
The whole earth, the universe, reacting: Tribulation .................................................... 1207
Selfishness: Cause and effect: The divine law .............................................................. 1210
Tom DeLay ...................................................................................................................... 1214
Materialism leads to depravity .................................................................................... 1217
Jack Abramoff ................................................................................................................ 1219
Ralph Reed ..................................................................................................................... 1221
The conservatives give God a bad name, but so too do the false liberals ................. 1222
The Episcopal Church ................................................................................................. 1222
On homosexuality ....................................................................................................... 1223
Enron Corporation ...................................................................................................... 1224
Global racketeering .................................................................................................... 1226
The whole earth, the universe, reacting: Tribulation, continued .............................. 1227
Kill the messenger ...................................................................................................... 1228
Don’t wax cold ............................................................................................................. 1228
Mark of the Beast ....................................................................................................... 1229
Biometrics .................................................................................................................... 1232
Eliminating freewill to choose real righteousness ..................................................... 1234
The system crashes .................................................................................................... 1235
Darkness is not excuse for evil: Good deeds only ..................................................... 1236

Chapter 6 Conservative Christians Press For Family Values ...................................... 1239
Chapter 7
EQUATING ECONOMIC PROSPERITY WITH BLESSINGS ................................................................. 1305

Pyramid scheme ................................................................................................................................. 1307
Open books, secret giving ................................................................................................................... 1308

Chapter 8
EQUATING GOD AND COUNTRY .................................................................................................. 1315

White man's burden ............................................................................................................................. 1316
Selfishness engenders wars to come .................................................................................................. 1316
Winston Churchill ............................................................................................................................... 1318
Muslims can be reached peacefully ................................................................................................... 1322
The US against workable regimes ...................................................................................................... 1324
US eugenics ........................................................................................................................................ 1325
Frequency, vibration .......................................................................................................................... 1348
Cleans your temple .............................................................................................................................. 1350
Emotional expression: Harmony or discord .......................................................................................... 1351
Self-mutilation ........................................................................................................................................ 1353
Wearing contrived darkness .................................................................................................................. 1354
Not manlier to fight .............................................................................................................................. 1356
Overcome the savage beast within ....................................................................................................... 1356
Don't fall to militancy ............................................................................................................................ 1357
Civil disobedience and passive resistance, continued ............................................................................ 1358
Blocking isn't doing .............................................................................................................................. 1360
Our job .................................................................................................................................................. 1361
The argument between the Pauline and Johnnine ................................................................................. 1362
Trust giving, sharing, and non-violence ............................................................................................... 1364
Swearwords .......................................................................................................................................... 1364
Children shall rise up against their parents .......................................................................................... 1365
Parents aren't teaching their children what the parents never learned ... ........................................... 1367
The military thrives on discordance ........................................................................................................ 1369
Michael Persinger ................................................................................................................................. 1369
Neurotheology ..................................................................................................................................... 1369
Directed energy weaponry ..................................................................................................................... 1370
Mind control and mind reading ............................................................................................................ 1371
American intelligence community projects and atrocities ...................................................................... 1373
Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments................................................................. 1376
McCarthyism........................................................................................................................................ 1377
J. Edgar Hoover.................................................................................................................................. 1379
COINTELPRO..................................................................................................................................... 1379
Palmer Raids....................................................................................................................................... 1380
Vendettas............................................................................................................................................... 1380
Smith Act trials.................................................................................................................................... 1380
Sedition Trials...................................................................................................................................... 1381
Conservatives: Always against justice and fairness.......................................................................... 1381
Wobblies: Wobbly Shops and Semco SA............................................................................................ 1382
USA Patriot Act II.............................................................................................................................. 1384
Pentagon Papers................................................................................................................................. 1385
Government of, by, and for the rich................................................................................................. 1386
What brings real national security?.................................................................................................... 1387
Leveling upwards............................................................................................................................... 1389
US Constitution................................................................................................................................. 1390
US tilt to West Pakistan...................................................................................................................... 1393
Still a cancer on the presidency.......................................................................................................... 1394
Deprogramming the youth.................................................................................................................. 1396
Whistleblowers................................................................................................................................. 1397
Dick Cheney.................................................................................................................................................. 1404
One lie for invading Iraq the first time........................................................................................................ 1405
Halliburton..................................................................................................................................................... 1406
Financing.......................................................................................................................................................... 1408
Booms and busts.............................................................................................................................................. 1409
Insider military contracting.......................................................................................................................... 1411
War crimes...................................................................................................................................................... 1413
Agent Orange (dioxin)...................................................................................................................................... 1414
Watergate ....................................................................................................................................................... 1416
Iran-Contra....................................................................................................................................................... 1416
CIA crack cocaine .......................................................................................................................................... 1416
Oliver North .................................................................................................................................................... 1418
Yellowcake Forgery ........................................................................................................................................ 1418
White House deliberate leaks: Plame ............................................................................................................ 1419
No check, no balance .................................................................................................................................... 1422
Karl Rove and the spirit of Machiavelli........................................................................................................ 1423
Activist judges............................................................................................................................................... 1431
Federal Reserve ............................................................................................................................................. 1433
Colin Powell ................................................................................................................................................... 1435
Bush's insider trading...................................................................................................................................... 1436
John Negroponte and the death squads........................................................................................................ 1439
Smedley Butler ............................................................................................................................................... 1440
They are farther along then the grassroots imagines ................................................................. 1508
Some of why people don't trust Bush's domestic spying .......................................................... 1509
Total Information Awareness ....................................................................................................... 1512
Control of the entire electromagnetic spectrum ....................................................................... 1513
Semantic warfare ......................................................................................................................... 1515
Undoing protection against police state ..................................................................................... 1517
Compartmentalization, continued ............................................................................................ 1518
The Empire is not good enough .................................................................................................. 1520
How to see through secrets ......................................................................................................... 1521
Total Information Awareness, continued .................................................................................. 1522
Predictive software; preventing thought-crime ........................................................................ 1523
New world order ......................................................................................................................... 1525
Building omnipresent surveillance in the United Kingdom ..................................................... 1529
Uncoerced redemption to become extinct .................................................................................. 1533
NSA cheating for industrial espionage ...................................................................................... 1536
Privatized, for-profit intelligence .............................................................................................. 1537
Impeachable ................................................................................................................................ 1538
Ronald Reagan lied to the people .............................................................................................. 1540
Reaganite corruption .................................................................................................................. 1543
Racist Reagan .............................................................................................................................. 1543
The current state of Israel was formed on Israeli terrorism even against fellow Jews........... 1578
Moshe Dayan........................................................................................................................................... 1578
David Ben Gurion and the Lavon Affair or Operation Suzannah.............................................. 1579
Plan Dalet, or Plan D......................................................................................................................... 1579
Theodor Herzl and the birth of overt false-Zionism................................................................. 1580
Simeon Bar Giora, not a good omen............................................................................................... 1583
Cycle of hardheartedness against hardheartedness: The example of false Jews................ 1583
Real Zionism........................................................................................................................................ 1585
Vladimir Jabotinsky, Betar, another bad omen. ........................................................................ 1586
Menachem Begin and the terrorist group Irgun............................................................... 1586
Yitzhak Shamir and the terrorist group Stern Gang (Lehi)........................................... 1586
SS Patria............................................................................................................................................. 1587
King David Hotel .............................................................................................................................. 1588
Deir Yassin massacre ..................................................................................................................... 1589
Deir Yassin deniers............................................................................................................................. 1590
Holocaust survivors as confused victimizers............................................................................ 1591
Kufr Qasim massacre....................................................................................................................... 1592
Temple Mount Faithful .................................................................................................................... 1592
Turning in the right direction.......................................................................................................... 1593
Operation Grapes of Wrath ................................................................. 1594
Jacob de Haan assassination .............................................................. 1596
Folke Bernadotte assassination ......................................................... 1596
Yitzhak Rabin assassination .............................................................. 1597
Ariel Sharon deliberately set off an intifada ....................................... 1597
Assault on Palestinian refugee camp, Jenin ...................................... 1597
Destroyed tens of thousands of houses and over a million life-giving and sustaining olive trees from God................................. 1599
Caterpillar ............................................................................................. 1599
Left versus right .................................................................................. 1600
Qibya massacre ................................................................................... 1601 Living space (lebensraum) for the Jews ............................................. 1601
Loopholes, rationalizing ..................................................................... 1602
First principle ....................................................................................... 1603
Judge not ............................................................................................. 1605
Semantic reality .................................................................................. 1606
God versus Satan ................................................................................ 1608
John Bolton .......................................................................................... 1610
Mahmoud Ahmadinejad ................................................................. 1610
Spiritline over bloodline .................................................................... 1614
Leon Trotsky and Karl Marx ............................................................... 1616
The Jewish Lobby .................................................................................. 1618
Chapter 10  American Founding Fathers: Demigods

The founders: An antichrist state ........................................ 1715
Thomas Jefferson .......................................................... 1717
Bush's Faith-based initiative ........................................... 1719
The US, no system of genius ........................................... 1721
Adam Weishaupt ........................................................... 1722
Secret societies ............................................................ 1723
Thomas Paine ............................................................... 1724
Jefferson and Paine: Confusing the apostate with Christianity ........................................ 1725
Intelligence design ........................................................ 1727
Deism ............................................................................. 1727
Begat, begotten ............................................................ 1728
Chaos is relative only to humans ................................................................. 1760
The errors of the founding fathers ............................................................. 1762
Publicly funded schools devoid of religious historical context .......... 1762
George Washington ............................................................................... 1763
James Madison ..................................................................................... 1764
John Adams .......................................................................................... 1765
Benjamin Franklin ............................................................................... 1765
Organizing a perfect union was not in their hearts.......................... 1767
America: A house built on division ......................................................... 1768
Jesus: The highest lawgiver ................................................................. 1769
Why no eugenics or social Darwinism ............................................... 1771
Eugenicists: Defective and killers ..................................................... 1772
Moses .................................................................................................. 1775
Wrath is, and is from, abuse ................................................................. 1776
Real Church and real state ................................................................. 1780
The golden rule ............................................................................... 1782
We have been rebuked .................................................................. 1782
Hating what is right to hate is love ..................................................... 1784
Fables and myths as truths .............................................................. 1784
Human traditional doctrine misleads ............................................. 1786
Doctrine of Biblical inerrancy ......................................................... 1786
False fundamentalists conveniently select figures of speech to reject divine humanitarianism .......................................................... 1789
When is Jerusalem also Sodom? .................................................................................................................. 1789
The giants (Nephilim) .............................................................................................................................. 1793
The real fundamentalists .......................................................................................................................... 1795
The Bible contains the figurative .................................................................................................................. 1795
Doctrine of justification by faith alone ........................................................................................................ 1797
Martin Luther ............................................................................................................................................ 1797
There are works and then there are works .................................................................................................. 1798
Grace distorted by Platonism ...................................................................................................................... 1799
Augustine (bishop of Hippo) ...................................................................................................................... 1799
There is law and then there is law ............................................................................................................. 1799
Augustinianism mistaken .......................................................................................................................... 1802
Connotations of grace ............................................................................................................................... 1803
Calvinism is error ....................................................................................................................................... 1804
Paul has been misused ............................................................................................................................... 1806
Lip-service faith ......................................................................................................................................... 1807
Thy kingdom come ..................................................................................................................................... 1808
"Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing" ........................................... 1809
Thomas Aquinas, where's the fruit? ........................................................................................................... 1810
More on Martin Luther........................................................................................................................... 1811
Indulgences, simony........................................................................................................................................ 1811
Contemplation better lead to action ........................................................................................................... 1814
Consistent deeds justify .............................................................................................................................. 1815
Luther of the dark side................................................................................................................................ 1816
Calvin of the dark side................................................................................................................................. 1816
Loving Jesus signifies.................................................................................................................................... 1818
More errors of Calvin.................................................................................................................................... 1819
More on publicly funded schools devoid of religious historical context...................................................... 1820
Ecumenicalism........................................................................................................................................... 1822
False ecumenicalism..................................................................................................................................... 1823
Syncretism.................................................................................................................................................... 1823
Syncretism and the ancient Cretans from which the concept derives ......................................................... 1824
Paul, Epimenides, the Cretans, paradoxes, and burying God .................................................................... 1824
Twisting bigotry under false ecumenicalism................................................................................................. 1825
Against sexual desecration of the Holy temple that is the flesh vessel holding the Holy Spirit within........ 1826
False toleration............................................................................................................................................. 1828
Letting in division......................................................................................................................................... 1828
More on publicly funded schools devoid of religious historical context...................................................... 1830
Human percepts and traditions in churches gave ammunition to the enemies of the divine...................... 1830
Neocon Trotskyites.............................................................................................................................. 1876
Islam: The new "Communists"................................................................................................................. 1877
US military: Cold blooded murders........................................................................................................ 1879
Bear false witness against Iraq, now Iran............................................................................................. 1881
Donald Rumsfeld's dark scientific, technological vision........................................................................ 1883
Military transhumanism, technological singularity................................................................................ 1884
War is false............................................................................................................................................... 1885
Screaming to bomb Iran.......................................................................................................................... 1886
Recent, historical, bad-planning parallels: Hitler.................................................................................... 1888
Conservatives who remain conservative will be continuing in sin......................................................... 1889
US malfeasance and Iraqi oil.................................................................................................................. 1890
Intelligence community was divided....................................................................................................... 1891
Hypocrisy now just as when Jesus walked the earth............................................................................... 1891
H. R. Haldeman: The implicit infallibility of presidents; the president can be wrong......................... 1892
No anti-Semitism attaching to the truths in this work .......................................................................... 1895
Jewish Anti-Defamation League............................................................................................................. 1897
Antichrist and the Antichrist.................................................................................................................... 1898
The synagogue of Satan............................................................................................................................ 1898
Plato's fear of the mob: The noble lie........................................................................................................ 1901
Jesus: No fear of the mob or the elites..................................................................................................... 1902
Machiavellian, Nietzschean, serpentine.................................................................................................... 1903
Jesus turned Plato on his head; Noble lie............................................................................................... 1903
Babri Mosque destruction .............................................................................................................................. 1931
Common ground with Hinduism and Buddhism from which to start .......................................................... 1932
Gurus .......................................................................................................................................................... 1932
Om ........................................................................................................................................................... 1933
Mantras ....................................................................................................................................................... 1935
Dharma ....................................................................................................................................................... 1936
Karma ........................................................................................................................................................ 1936
Overcoming the impact of the generations ................................................................................................. 1938
No blood require at Jesus's hand ............................................................................................................... 1942
Bhakti .......................................................................................................................................................... 1943
Moksha (liberation) .................................................................................................................................. 1943
Renunciation ........................................................................................................................................... 1944
Ahimsa ...................................................................................................................................................... 1944
Vegetarianism ....................................................................................................................................... 1944
Caste system ........................................................................................................................................... 1945
Capitalism too creates a caste system ....................................................................................................... 1947
Gnosticism, some background .................................................................................................................. 1951
Constantine I .......................................................................................................................................... 1951
Cheat to win ............................................................................................................................................ 1954
Redistribution .......................................................................................................................................... 1954
 Nicene Creed ......................................................................................................................................... 1957
Mysticism .................................................................................................................................................. 1958
Mohammed hated Jesus by Jesus's standard........................................................... 2069
Sonship.................................................................................................................... 2071
More on the illogic of Mohammed ....................................................................... 2073
So-called honor killings ......................................................................................... 2074
Islam: Not the real peace ...................................................................................... 2075
The Crusades.......................................................................................................... 2075
Sexual slavery......................................................................................................... 2076
All the onus on women ........................................................................................ 2076
The voices of women ............................................................................................. 2078
Prayer five times a day .......................................................................................... 2078
Hajj: Stampeding one another to death ............................................................... 2079
Islam is afraid of open debate, continued ............................................................ 2080
Mohammed's error about persecution .................................................................. 2082
Mohammed: Extortionist....................................................................................... 2086
Islam: Protection racket........................................................................................ 2086
Osama bin Laden .................................................................................................. 2087
al Qaeda............................................................................................................... 2087 bin Laden's complained about economic sanctions against Muslims .............. 2087 bin Laden's complained about Israel and Palestine ........................................... 2088
Memorandum on British Commitments to King Hussein ................................. 2089
Islamic errors and the founding fathers?.............................................................. 2090
War of religions..................................................................................................... 2095
Enoch

Speaking the opposite of revering the Holy Spirit

Mercy, justice, and love are never evil

Not knowing everything discredits no child of God

Blasphemy to deny the children of God

False Lucifer (light bearer)

Nebuchadnezzar II

Terrors to good works

Better to lose your life in this world by refusing to do the orders of evil

Who is capable of judging who will not yet turn: Only God

The prodigal: Lucifer repented

We are not judging or condemning

We prophesy

George W. Bush misstating the mind that was Mohammed

A big lie

Don’t fall for the so-called moderate or tolerant or peaceful interpretation of the Qur’an

Judaism, false

False Jews worship Satan

The truth charged the false Jews

"If"

Confess to God and yourself and don’t deny it to others
The current state of Israel is illegitimate.................................................................2153
False Zionism: Racism..................................................................................................2155
Why don't they believe?..............................................................................................2156
The Jews were chosen for what?.................................................................................2157
The prophecy continues..............................................................................................2160
Noahide laws...............................................................................................................2163
Spirit over genetics is not anti-Semitic.................................................................2165
The golden rule is the spirit.........................................................................................2166
They ignore the Gospel and focus on the apostate.............................................2167
The prophecy is in the signs of the times.................................................................2167
The spirit is felt emotionally......................................................................................2167
Kabbalists, Sufis, Pentecostals, and charismatics.................................................2167
Speaking in tongues.................................................................................................2168
Some false Jews say prophecy ended before Jesus.............................................2169
They argue genealogies............................................................................................2170
God certainly could impregnate Mary with the male genetic line of David.............2173
Interpret the law.........................................................................................................2175
The false Jews want the Old Testament sacrificial system.................................2176
Interpret Isaiah 52-53...............................................................................................2177
They equate Jesus with an idol..................................................................................2181
Chapter 11  Prideful, Boastful Americans ................................................................. 2213

Pride is sin, and they have it................................................................. 2214
Pejoration ......................................................................................... 2214
Pride in the killing machine............................................................... 2216
Working for Satan ........................................................................... 2216
First the rich and famous and then the Americans......................... 2217
God is not on America's side.............................................................. 2220
The dissenters have spared America ............................................... 2221
Blood on the watchmen's hands ....................................................... 2223
Saddam Hussein's mock trial ......................................................... 2224
Inviting wrath ................................................................................ 2226
Victor's history is in the prophecy .................................................. 2227

Chapter 12  Lauding Military Service .............................................................. 2229

Violence completely forbidden ....................................................... 2230
Their false peace dividend .............................................................. 2231
New boogeyman ............................................................................. 2232
Military strength is the reward of evil ........................................... 2234
The Second Coming shall be more of the first .............................. 2235
Self-defense is offensive ................................................................. 2237
Difference between God and Satan ................................................................. 2239
The prophet ..................................................................................................... 2241

Chapter 13   Living in Apostasy ................................................................. 2245

Tricking the people ...................................................................................... 2245
Soul searching .............................................................................................. 2247
Soul searching, continued .......................................................................... 2249
Honoring parents ....................................................................................... 2250
It is not suppose to be painful to be a parent ........................................... 2252
Abusive situations ...................................................................................... 2253
Abuse versus rebuke .................................................................................. 2254
To the willful child ..................................................................................... 2255
Obtaining assistance ................................................................................... 2255
Beating a dead horse: Continuing to offer the peace or pearls to swine .... 2257
Remove all violence .................................................................................... 2257
Censorship ................................................................................................... 2258
Violent games .............................................................................................. 2258
Culture: Decadent conditioning ................................................................. 2259
Depravity in sheep’s clothing ..................................................................... 2260
Parents are undercut by society ................................................................. 2261
Dungeons & Dragons .................................................................................. 2262
Grand Theft Auto ....................................................................................... 2262
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter 14</th>
<th>How and Why the Elite Subvert the Faith</th>
<th>2317</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Haves and the have-nots</td>
<td>2317</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Coercive Empire the churl</td>
<td>2318</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Sold their souls: Buy it back</td>
<td>2330</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Chapter 15  A Liberal: Not a Villain ................................................................. 2361

Repetitive on purpose....................................................................................... 2361
Strict..................................................................................................................... 2363
Cannot force people.......................................................................................... 2365
False liberal ideology........................................................................................ 2366 Secularism and separation of God (love) from the nation-state (the peoples' ordering) ........................................................................................................... 2366
False ecumenicalism, continued........................................................................ 2368
Avenge: Not retaliation...................................................................................... 2370
Wrong reaction................................................................................................... 2371
Real humanism................................................................................................... 2372
Magnified libertinism......................................................................................... 2372
Protestant Reich Church.................................................................................... 2374
Theological Declaration of Barmen .................................................................. 2375
Compartmentalizing Christianity....................................................................... 2376
Antinomianism.................................................................................................... 2378
Emotions create mundane reality....................................................................... 2381
Other people do it: The excuse......................................................................... 2382
Doing evil just because they can....................................................................... 2383
Families divide into new families ........................................................................................................... 2403
Real family, real Church, real nation, real state .................................................................................. 2404
Real liberal, real liberty ....................................................................................................................... 2405
No mundanely legislated, coercive, morality police ........................................................................... 2406
Priesthood and sovereignty of all believers (universal, royal priesthood) forever ......................... 2406
Coming out of nowhere mystifying the powers that be ................................................................. 2409
Raising the bottom ............................................................................................................................... 2409
Haves and the have-nots, continued ................................................................................................. 2410
Traditional hierarchy ......................................................................................................................... 2411
Real ordination ................................................................................................................................... 2411
On the order of Melchizedek .............................................................................................................. 2412
Archangel Michael ............................................................................................................................. 2414
Believe in the meaning of his name .................................................................................................... 2414
The child within ................................................................................................................................... 2416
If they won't turn ................................................................................................................................... 2418
Avenging angels ................................................................................................................................. 2421
Mark of sin .......................................................................................................................................... 2421
Neocons: Their angels are Satan's ....................................................................................................... 2423
Dispensationalism ............................................................................................................................... 2423
Two covenant peoples ....................................................................................................................... 2424
Covenant theologians ......................................................................................................................... 2425
One covenant people .......................................................................................................................... 2425
Two covenants which are one covenant ................................................................. 2426
False Jews .............................................................................................................. 2427
Amillennialism, premillennialism, and postmillennialism .............................. 2428
Premillennialism ............................................................................................... 2429
Postmillennialism ............................................................................................. 2430
Amillennialism ..................................................................................................... 2430
Three are right and wrong .............................................................................. 2430
The tribulation came and is coming again ...................................................... 2432
Pretribulation, midtribulation, posttribulation, and partial rapture ............. 2433
Pretribulation rapture ....................................................................................... 2433
Midtribulationists rapture .............................................................................. 2433
Posttribulationists rapture ............................................................................. 2433
Partial rapture .................................................................................................... 2433
Rapture ................................................................................................................ 2434
Bringing in the kingdom by war: Impossible .................................................. 2436
Supersessionism (one covenant people) ......................................................... 2437
Salvation by way of the Jews revealed .............................................................. 2438
The tribulation came and is coming again, continued .................................. 2440
Patience saves ................................................................................................... 2441
Avenge versus vengeance .............................................................................. 2442
The Jews wouldn't turn ................................................................. 2442
Let's take care of the weightier matters, shall we ..................... 2446
Real versus false theocracy......................................................... 2448
Their unholy vision: Calvinist, reconstructionists, dominionists, postmillennialists, coercive Covenant theocracy lording it over the world .... 2448
Calvinism is error, continued ...................................................... 2450
Rousas John Rushdoony .............................................................. 2450
Theocracy lording it over the people: Contradicting Jesus .... 2451
Coming persecution .................................................................. 2453
Our peaceful declaration ......................................................... 2454
Reject the government of the lairs .............................................. 2454
Roundheads: Violent and fell short ......................................... 2455
The capitalists ......................................................................... 2458
Being God is being the new commandment .......................... 2459
Doves don't kill hawks .............................................................. 2460
Real Christians don't vote for, or hold, secular, coercive offices 2460
George W. Bush duped false-Christians .................................. 2461
Deficit scheme to ruin social welfare ....................................... 2461
Bush-43's fragile political coalition: His juggling act ............. 2462
Bush-43's many-hats ............................................................... 2462
Common false-Christian evangelicals are uniformed: Tricked by their leaders 2463
Bush-43 and the Jewish Lobby .................................................. 2464
False comfort............................................................................................................................................. 2545
Discretion is not a barrier.............................................................................................................................. 2546
Real liberty.................................................................................................................................................... 2547
Negative fantasizing: Practicing to fall........................................................................................................ 2549
Horrible errors of the First Council of Nicaea............................................................................................ 2553
Fathers of the church of Rome fell to Pharisaism..................................................................................... 2554
New Christian commons.............................................................................................................................. 2554
Fasting.......................................................................................................................................................... 2555
Freedom to be Christian.............................................................................................................................. 2560
Will your church, group, or mundane family hear and share?................................................................. 2561
Meat industry............................................................................................................................................... 2562
Vegetarianism............................................................................................................................................ 2563
Good stewardship of one's body.................................................................................................................. 2564
Forced cannibalism within herbivore species: Mad cow disease............................................................ 2566

Chapter 18  State the Truth For Righteousness' Sake............................................................................... 2571
The takers .................................................................................................................................................... 2571
The golden rule............................................................................................................................................ 2571
The devil also quotes the scripture.............................................................................................................. 2572
The mote and beam, continued.................................................................................................................. 2572
Don't scorn.................................................................................................................................................. 2574
Selfish interpretation of The Bible................................................................................................................ 2575
Chapter 19  Truth From Under Oppression .................................................2585

Rules of existence, continued .................................................................2585
Not interested, too busy, it's boring..........................................................2587
No human being can do it alone...............................................................2588
It is our fault, always.................................................................................2589
Mansions of God......................................................................................2589
Just and faithful deserve .........................................................................2590
One wants the saints to have their reward.............................................2591

Chapter 20  Christianity Is the Entire Way ..............................................2593

The "Real": Contextual language .............................................................2595
Chapter 21: Spread the Word ................................................................. 2605

- The prophecy: One-third remnant ........................................................ 2607
- Fulfill the prophecy of salvation together ............................................ 2608

Chapter 22: Proceeds to Teach and Do ................................................. 2611

- Practice what we preach ...................................................................... 2612
- Buying back the commons ................................................................. 2612
- Money is not the means ....................................................................... 2613
- Taxes .................................................................................................... 2614
- Denominated: Real Liberal Christian Church ..................................... 2616
- Language divided divine from mundane .......................................... 2617
- The meaning of the name: Real Liberal Christian Church ............. 2617
- Secular political campaigns ............................................................... 2621
- No tax evasion .................................................................................... 2623
- Cesar's system will fall way ............................................................... 2626
Other tax matters......................................................................................................................................2628
Unrelated Business Income Tax ............................................................................................................2628
Social Security and Medicare Taxes........................................................................................................2628
Unemployment Tax ..................................................................................................................................2629
Tax Withholding .......................................................................................................................................2629
Parsonages, rectories, housing allowances ...........................................................................................2629
Duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister ................................................................................2630
Qualifications for leadership within the Real Church .............................................................................2631 communist (small-c) living ......................................................................................................................2635
Worldwide common Church treasury ......................................................................................................2635
House churches.........................................................................................................................................2636
Common treasury: Not Congregationalist loose affiliation ...............................................................2639
Governance................................................................................................................................................2640
Real democracy of the Holy Spirit ..........................................................................................................2640
Worship services.......................................................................................................................................2642
Common meals.........................................................................................................................................2642
Sacraments.................................................................................................................................................2643
Baptism.......................................................................................................................................................2643
Infant baptism...........................................................................................................................................2643
Matrimony...................................................................................................................................................2644
Broad canon...............................................................................................................................................2683
Narrow canon...............................................................................................................................................2684
Broader canon ...........................................................................................................................................2685
Broadest canon ..........................................................................................................................................2686
Canonical supporting documents ..........................................................................................................2688
Zeus? God? Yahveh? ................................................................................................................................2688
Christianity: Proto-religion .....................................................................................................................2691
No tax, continue .......................................................................................................................................2693
Paul and Zeus, John and the Logos, and Jesus and the goddess Wisdom ..............................................2694
The Gnostic and Platonic texts: Not God's law, but Jesus knew their teachings ........................................2694
Justification by deeds ..................................................................................................................................2697
The ultimate question .................................................................................................................................2700
Gnostic Valentinian ..................................................................................................................................2702
Reading widely without being corrupted .................................................................................................2709
Relative inspiration: Close and closer to the kingdom .............................................................................2709
Credentials from God .................................................................................................................................2711
Stoicism ......................................................................................................................................................2712
Where nature leaves off and God and spirit begins .................................................................................2713
General and special revelation conflate ....................................................................................................2713
Obvious scientific pragmatism of the golden rule .....................................................................................2713
Why not just duplicate the traditional method of collecting food to give it away?.................2742
More, practical, mundane evidence that Christian ecologically sound, agriculturally grounded communes will work.................................................................2743
Employee ownership; Open-book finances; Democracy in the workplace.................................2744
This is no Stalinist vision........................................................................2745
This is not socialism in one country..............................................................................................................2745
How far does holding things in common go? ....................................................................................2746
Don't begrudge basic possessions ...........................................................................................................2748
Hi-tech equipment.................................................................................................................................2748
How does one have people born into heaven and warn them of evil without their being tempted simply by virtue of the warning?.......................................................................................2749
Disturbing the natural peace of the house ...............................................................................................2751
Noise, light, odor, and pollution ..............................................................................................................2751
Loving and living the right priorities ........................................................................................................2752
Rule of considerateness ..........................................................................................................................2753
The mundane harm and unhealthiness of noise ....................................................................................2754
Basic manners and politeness ................................................................................................................2754
What about vehicles?...............................................................................................................................2755
The incentive is righteousness..................................................................................................................2757
It is not the sabotaged welfare state ......................................................................................................2757
Heaven reconciles into perfection, conflates
False conservatives claim to protect real-liberal works while undermining them
Archer Daniels Midland Company’s government-subsidized ethanol scheme
General Electric’s new generation of private nuclear power plants scheme
Pandering to Latin Americans Ethanol and biodiesel: Bad ideas from hell
What we promote: Where the flesh and spirit are a continuum Freely running waters
Nature does not have to be the enemy
Beaver dams Contribute
Spread the word
US Library of Congress discriminates against start-up publishing companies Above and beyond the traditional call of duty
Plan, execute, and follow up
Shy: Abused, sinful, needing rescuing
Buy the truth
Moved by the Holy Spirit to self-start
Not for the faint at heart
Backsliders
Donating farms.........................................................................................................................................2799
Organic.......................................................................................................................................................2799
Monsanto Corporation, continued........................................................................................................2799
Ocean dead zone......................................................................................................................................2800
Composting...............................................................................................................................................2801
Greenhouses and hothouses ..................................................................................................................2801
Cuban farming..........................................................................................................................................2802
Skills and gifts needed..............................................................................................................................2802
Faith in God or faith in Satan..................................................................................................................2803
Natural buildings......................................................................................................................................2805
Cross-training............................................................................................................................................2805
Spending with a social conscience........................................................................................................2806
On taking money from those who gained it by selfish means...............................................................2806 Capitalism rejects perfectible human nature........................................................................................2807
It isn't money that brings forth...............................................................................................................2810
Turning money: Turning swords into plowshares.................................................................................2811
Skills and gifts needed, continued........................................................................................................2811
Oil sands and oil shale ............................................................................................................................2812
Hydogen..................................................................................................................................................2813
Public works............................................................................................................................................2813
What stops public works?.......................................................................................................................2814
The world has never democratically chosen capitalism........................................................................2814
Put it to the vote ........................................................................................................................................... 2815
Build environmentally and ecologically ........................................................................................................ 2815
Scientific environmental knowledge ................................................................................................................ 2815
Not nature worship but the thoughtful concern for others .............................................................................. 2816
The superrich let tens of thousands die in pain and suffering each day on purpose .................................. 2817
Not lazy, but mindful ...................................................................................................................................... 2817
Knowing the priorities ................................................................................................................................... 2819
Hearts are even harder now due to brainwashing commercialism .............................................................. 2821
Contextual revelatory language ...................................................................................................................... 2822
Justice: Finally proportionate and equal .......................................................................................................... 2822
Evil emotions defile, but good emotions purify ............................................................................................. 2823
Sons of man? .................................................................................................................................................. 2824
Cleansing the temple ..................................................................................................................................... 2824
What the children need .................................................................................................................................. 2826
Rich in the spirit and not in mammon ............................................................................................................. 2827
No abandoning those already doing the work .............................................................................................. 2829
The crux of the calling .................................................................................................................................... 2829
False ministers: Liars, thieves, and hypocrites .............................................................................................. 2830
Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord ....................................................................................... 2831

King James Version Only Movement ........................................................................................................ 2832
King James: Homosexual........................................................................................................................2832

Geneva Bible.................................................................................................................................................2833

King James Version, Textus Receptus, Desiderius Erasmus, Comma Johanneum or Johannine comma............................................................................................................................................2834

Erasmus: Revelation 22:16-21.....................................................................................................................2836

Publishing mainstream suppresses moralizing and dire warnings.........................................................2837

No selling souls to sell manuscripts...............................................................................................................2839

Internet and websites.....................................................................................................................................2840

Even Jesus used marketing metaphors........................................................................................................2842

Not to be intimidated and ignorable..........................................................................................................2843

Money won't be necessary.............................................................................................................................2844

Never required money.................................................................................................................................2847

The communes without the worldly system..............................................................................................2847

Taxes: Evil ......................................................................................................................................................2848

The hardhearted will die in false riches .........................................................................................................2851

Beware the rich ............................................................................................................................................2852

Redistribution of wealth.................................................................................................................................2852

Proceeds will go for.....................................................................................................................................2853

Pruning............................................................................................................................................................2856

What happens to the unselfish, non-testing giver? ......................................................................................2856

Pharisees proselytize.......................................................................................................................................2857

Small-c communism of the New Testament ...............................................................................................2858
Everyone doesn't know his or her mistakes
Don't drop it for false pleasantness
Physical discipline is failing Nightmares, waking and sleeping Damage control without repentance
On schizophrenia Fight-or-flight
Pharisees: Backwards
Take personal responsibility but not to the exclusion of blaming the causal chain
The real king
Our God: Our servant whom we serve
The Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives
The guilty: First victims
Psychiatry: Convert
The Holy Spirit is taking away the excuse Hallucinations
Suicidal thoughts at four
I repent
Wicked temper
The seeds of fragmentation set back the peace and love movement
Jesus Freaks
Free love
Soft drugs, alcohol, and agoraphobia................................................................. 2906
The root cause........................................................................................................ 2906
Come in off the dead limb..................................................................................... 2908
The prophecy of the third...................................................................................... 2910
The name of the repentant..................................................................................... 2910
Don't let those who refuse to join you turn you around....................................... 2911
Reading diagonally.............................................................................................. 2912
Knowing everything............................................................................................. 2913
Communes under other denominations.............................................................. 2914
Condoning sexual confusion................................................................................ 2914
Devising real communist places necessarily based upon real liberalism............ 2915
Commune foundation......................................................................................... 2916
Dress codes, uniforms, vestments........................................................................ 2917
Dress codes.......................................................................................................... 2918
Uniforms.............................................................................................................. 2919
Vestments............................................................................................................ 2920
Skin color............................................................................................................ 2921
Creeds.................................................................................................................. 2921
What we aren't.................................................................................................... 2922
Ante-Nicene Creed............................................................................................. 2922
Chapter 23  Separate Christianity from Denominations .......................................................... 2993

No compromising the truth........................................................................................................ 2995
Be a peacemaker....................................................................................................................... 2997
Be a child of God....................................................................................................................... 2997
Bring forth.................................................................................................................................. 2997
How do you know that Jesus is right?..................................................................................... 2999
"Church"....................................................................................................................................... 3000
False churches and worldly politics......................................................................................... 3002
The Real Church: The new nation........................................................................................... 3003
Princes of the false world.......................................................................................................... 3004
Communicating directly with God

Collapse

Will power is God's

The standard of judgment: Your own

Many know and reject

No to lukewarm

Conflate: Come together

No barriers or secrets within Worthiness for healing

Obligation here and now

With persecutions

Torture and torturers: Woe

Abuse

Posttraumatic stress disorder

Autonomic nervous system response: Fight-or-flight damage

Hormone triggers: Cortisol and adrenaline

Hippocampus degradation

Brain waves

Exercise and work for unselfishness to treat trauma

Imprinting

Exercising the unselfish lobes: Do unselfishness
Dopamine regulation......................................................................................................................................... 3022
Predatory, selfish, beastly mind........................................................................................................................ 3022
Christlike paradigm repairs.............................................................................................................................. 3023
Intense repentance activates unselfish lobes and repairs............................................................................... 3023
The communes for raising up unselfish people and children....................................................................... 3024
False churches doubt it.................................................................................................................................... 3025
Reactive patterns.......................................................................................................................................... 3026
Jesus overcame........................................................................................................................................... 3026
Anxiety for love............................................................................................................................................ 3027
Don’t take your cues from the flesh but the spirit of unselfishness................................................................. 3028
God has feelings: All yours and mine, everyone’s...................................................................................... 3029
With persecutions, continued........................................................................................................................ 3031
Nurturing begins long before conception: Generations................................................................................ 3032
Acts of God................................................................................................................................................... 3033
End times...................................................................................................................................................... 3034
Don’t hold out for signs................................................................................................................................. 3035
Do and teach at your appointed time............................................................................................................ 3037
Diplomas?..................................................................................................................................................... 3039
For righteousness’ sake................................................................................................................................. 3040
Altruism and Lincoln’s error........................................................................................................................... 3040
Learn to trust again: Be trustworthy ................................................................. 3063
Scientists fail interpretation ................................................................................. 3064
Stop repeating the sins of the fathers ................................................................. 3065
Our faith effects the past and future ................................................................. 3068
Genetic descent is subservient ........................................................................... 3069
False-Zionists ignore prophecy ........................................................................... 3069
Teach of the spiritual family ............................................................................... 3071
Self-examination: Soul searching ....................................................................... 3071
Synagogue of Satan ........................................................................................... 3073
Scoffer at repentance .......................................................................................... 3074
Scorners turn "prude" and "puritan" into pejoratives only ....................................... 3074
The good prude ................................................................................................... 3075
False puritans ...................................................................................................... 3075
Zwingli .................................................................................................................. 3076
One perfect theology .......................................................................................... 3077
No coercive bishops ............................................................................................ 3077
Baptism, continued .............................................................................................. 3077
Lukewarmness ..................................................................................................... 3078

Chapter 24 Christianity: How to Organize Humanity ........................................... 3081
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter 25</th>
<th>Know Them By Their Fruit: Do and Teach</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Socialism..................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Harry Potter: Faith breaker.....................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Fundraising..............................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The new liberal device.............................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Buildings: Ecological...............................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Water usage and sanitation......................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Humanure.................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Greywater...............................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Peak water...............................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Food pressures...........................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>About happiness.........................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>No sprawling, no joining...........................</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Preface

The reasons for undertaking this work are infinite. This work covers highly controversial, pivotal political truth that divides the world and upon which you must unhesitatingly act to save your soul and the world through conflating the souls of billions. It is revealed truth and necessarily supported by a proper reading of scripture. The truth is, every time I asked the question as to what I should do with what was revealed, the answer came back instantly and emphatically, "Write the book."

I am using the 1987 printing of the Authorized Version (AV) {versus the Revised Version (RV)} of the King James Version (KJV) of The Bible for this work, because The KJV is in the public domain in the United States without qualification and is in the public domain in the United Kingdom provided it is used in commentary form. The KJV is an English translation of The Bible from Hebrew and Greek and was first published in 1611 under the auspices of James I, king of Great Britain.

There are controversies raging at the time of this writing about which version of The Bible is the most accurate. There are Biblical scholars who are Fundamentalists (believe in the literal interpretation of The Bible) and earnestly believe that the KJV is the only Bible extant written directly by God through the hands of men. Their position is known as the King James Version Only position. There are gradients of this position. There are other Biblical scholars who insist that scripture has been subject to so much editing and language translation making it well-nigh impossible to have an exact version of the original scripture. These positions by no means sum up all the views on this subject.

The KJV makes use of the term "Father" for God. The use of Father in lieu of God should not be construed as sexist. Jesus said, "For in the resurrection they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but are as the angels of God in heaven." (Matthew 22:30). This renders gender issues moot. People of any gender may become full members in the family of the spirit. This includes eunuchs and hermaphrodites. The kingdom is genderless. Procreation is unnecessary. It is transcended.

Concerning ellipses, I have foregone adding traditional ellipses at the beginnings and endings of every quote from The Bible. I have used them within quoted material where I am aware that words have been left out. For consistency of punctuation and to not confuse readers with seemingly inappropriate terminating punctuation within quoted verses, I have used periods as the terminating punctuation in lieu of colons, semicolons, or the like used in The Bible where the material continues. Also, I have removed the verse numbering in line with the text to make reading flow more readily for the sake of emphasizing comprehension. To any purists who might take exception to doing that, I remind them that the numbering is not in original scripture. I left all spelling, verse-leading capitalization, and all punctuation internal to verses unchanged. Lastly, wherever straight brackets are used to set off language within verses, that set-off language is an editor's insertion for the sake of contextual clarity. Straight brackets look like this [ ].

I wish to acknowledge the contribution my daughter, Mary "Audra" Usher, made to this effort. She was just beginning her teen years when I developed a single vision concerning this work. It wasn't easy for a young girl to watch her father work at home non-stop in search of the answers and then watch him write this work. She had to adjust so the home would be conducive to the work of opening up the scriptures and revelation for the sake of righteousness. Now that the work is done in terms of this first edition, I trust once she reads it, she will see even more clearly how it was all very much worth the sacrifice.

I wish also to acknowledge my mother's (Mildred Irene Usher) contribution. Without her generosity, this work would not have been possible.

These particular acknowledgements are not intended to slight anyone not mentioned. Only God in heaven knows all about the contributions others have made to this work. Also, the acknowledgements are not to suggest that I love my daughter or mother more than I love my brother, Jesus Christ.

As you read this work, the dualistic relationship you ought to have with all your fellow human beings may unfold for you. May you be worthy to forsake anyone and everyone for the sake of righteousness. "Can two walk together, except they be agreed?" (Amos 3:3).
Tom Usher
Introduction  (To Be Read)

➢ Contrary to the general consensus of the American mainstream, there is no such thing as a conservative-Republican Christian. "Conservative Christian" is an oxymoron (a contradiction in terms). It's proven. This work shows it.

➢ Also, this mistaken notion, that a Christian may be a political conservative, as that expression "political conservative" is understood in the current American vernacular (the common, everyday language as used by most Americans), is the most pivotally significant confusion in the world. If every American calling himself or herself a conservative Christian were to become a real Christian, more of the troubles of the world would be over than with the wholesale change of any other group on the planet. Coming to understand this, which also means doing the right things about it, is required to save the world.

➢ Furthermore and despite how counterintuitive it may seem to you at this point, even though we prove that such a conservative may not be a Christian, the divide will increase. Jesus said, "Suppose ye that I come to give peace on earth? I tell you, Nay: but rather division." {The Holy Bible, The Gospel According to St. Luke, Chapter 12, Verse 51
(hereinafter, citations will be in the following format: Luke 12:51). If the thought that irrefutable proof of this would increase division throws you at all, you will not be left in the dark after reading this work. This work contains proof positive and sufficient explanations. It will not leave you hanging or unsatisfied concerning that unless you are beyond the reach of truth.

In the remainder of this Introduction, I strive to address a number of points in near checklist, non-transitionary fashion. You are forewarned so the style ought not to throw you off. If you are concerned, let me tell you that the whole book isn’t written this way. That's not to say that this work is written in a traditional manner. It isn’t. Just a little further on in this Introduction, I'll briefly explain why that's the case. This work does flesh things out. It just doesn't do it in a way in which you may be accustomed. Although some parts of this work flow smoothly more so than others, it's all a by-product of the endeavor to spell out clearly and plainly what's wrong, why, and the solution.

In addition, I don't take five hundred pages before supplying some satisfying material either. Far too often, I've read things that promote and promote stretching one out to the end only to find that the answers weren't there. The proofs in this work really are scattered throughout. They aren't though laid out as one might expect in a textbook with a bold and all capitalized, italicized and bulleted announcement at each proof. Perhaps I'll do that in a subsequent edition if there is one.
In putting forth the proof, I have used what the so-called conservative-Republican Christians claim to revere the most: The Bible.

For those inclined to pick up this work because the title piques their curiosity and they are anticonservative but have no grounding in Christian theology, upon first consideration the idea of reading Biblical evidence may seem daunting. So many books that refer to The Bible force the reader to turn to The Bible for verification without having stated the name of the book in The Bible or its chapter or verse numbers. Unlike those other books, I have endeavored often here to include the referenced verses right in line with the text so the evidence of what I am putting forth is readily available to the reader. In as few places as possible, as this work's size has allowed, have I alluded to a verse or verses without supplying at least the Book name, chapter number, and verse number or numbers. You will forgive me for not having entirely reproduced The Bible here with commentary or for not giving chapter and verse references every time I bring to mind The Bible.

The time and effort to read through the entirety of this work will be time and effort well spent. Everyone should become well versed in the evidence presented. It is pivotal. People are sanctioning war in the name of Christianity. They are doing all manner of other evils, yes evils, and they must be confronted with the errors of their ways.

This work is not a revision of The Bible message. It is also not a patchwork quilt of human traditions and doctrines. Although, depending upon the reader's background, one may find interpretations or doctrines in this work where the writings of others bear a resemblance. However, where those other writings and this work part company is what matters or what is most revealing.

- This work has no intermediaries between it and Jesus. It doesn't build upon any philosophical or theological school. I'm not a disciple of any disciple, per se, unless I may be considered a disciple of all Jesus's true disciples. This is not said to sound esoteric. In fact, a major aspect of this work is that it renders much that was esoteric more meaningful.

- Also, this work came about as a direct result of the question of why things are bad and getting worse. The answer turned out to provide the solution to all suffering at the individual level right on up to the whole of humanity.

When I started that search, I did so with an open mind prepared to be enlightened concerning any belief I held. I was not a Christian and never had been. My fleshly father was an Episcopal minister, and I was raised in the church until age eleven when all the hypocrisy that is mixed messages I had witnessed in the church left me cold and sent me packing. At age eighteen while recovering from back surgery and general disillusionment brought on by the death and mental destruction of the hard-drug culture that killed the peace, love, and trustworthiness aspects of the worldwide Hippy movement, I began investigating the Great Books of the Western World and was led by the Syntopicon to the Gospel of Matthew and to the Book of Job. From there, I read the Interpreter's Bible through the Books of Moses if memory serves. After that, I withdrew into myself and turned my shaky and ambivalent attention to matters distinctively terrestrial such as money and college. I had never reached the stage of grasping Jesus enough to follow him.

- This work is also not an academic essay or a series of essays with long footnotes or extensive bibliography. Don't expect to find a citation for every source of information. When I began again searching fulltime for answers, I didn't know I'd be writing a book. The reading and other things I did was not research for an essay or essays or a book. I wasn't called to be a mere scholar of other people's interpretations. I thank God I was rejected by the conformists. God calls to be a lover of wisdom.

Many, if not most, of the observations I've made here come from memory spanning my whole life. While writing, however, I kept somewhat abreast of the common news of the day and tied it in with the message. The message is real-life. Don't expect typical journalistic fact-checking. I didn't have the resources or network for that. Those with the time, resources, and inclination, can work at verifying or disputing anything they wish.

The scriptural interpretations in this work will seem complicated to those unaccustomed to being moved by the spirit. They are spelled out in clear and plain language. They do not lend themselves to that effort even after a second or third reading for many. That's not because they are unclear or incoherent. It is because the language cannot do all the moving toward the reader. The reader must come to the words. "Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you." (James 4:8).
There is a point in the revelation where no matter how clear the truth is, there are those who will turn away. This is not the fault of the words or the way in which those words have been organized. This truth about the word is part of the very revelation itself. It sheds light upon the reason there is so much suffering in the world.

There are many calling themselves philosophers, scientists, and logicians who will take immediate exception to this; however, all of their specious refutations are dealt with in this work.

Once the points are made more public via readers, those points will be subjected to questions that will cause the gap to be increasingly narrowed for more and more souls. It will continually all become more comprehensible. In any event, only those moved by the Holy Spirit will ever truly understand.

There are many who will know what that means about the Holy Spirit before even reading this work. They will have been exposed to such concepts and manner of speaking. For others, just coming to understand on that level won't be a guarantee of enlightenment, but it is guaranteed that enlightenment won't come without it. It is certain that reading this work will allow so-called liberal non-Christians to understand better what makes the so-called conservative, Republican, evangelical and fundamentalist Christians tick. It also should help shed some light on the fact that they aren't nearly as monolithic as outsiders have imagined. They do all share one feature and error in common though, hence the title of this work.
Many people will find the subject matter and conclusions very comfortably consistent with their Christian understanding. Others will be troubled by it. It will disturb them. Some will be incensed. Yet others will find it all too controversial.

- No matter how controversial it may be, the world must come to understand that the current Christianity espoused particularly by the American conservative televangelists and others is flat out wrong and the most dangerous deception in the world. They are leading inevitably toward World War III. You may say then that all is lost and why bother. The reason is that those who knowingly side with them are in danger of damnation. Just because people are going wrong and it will lead to disasters does not mean all is lost. As bad as another world war will be, there is more to existence.

- Even though the contents of this work ought to cause all to conflate by the Holy Spirit of truth, according to the prophecy, that great conflation will include only the remnant after the Greatest War to come. This and much more is covered within. It is covered in a way that many of those who traditionally have mocked such religious-speak will be able to start comprehending what's really going on.

You may be thinking what's he talking about. You may be thinking that I sound just like one of them (conservative, evangelical or fundamentalist). This is why the truth eludes so many. The conservatives who believe that there is prophecy, even though they cannot get it right, they are right that it exists. Many conservatives will not convert and will, therefore, hold out for ever-more literal fulfillment in the sense they understand "literal" while the real thing passes them by. Every person who dismisses the events whether those events seem to stand sometimes on the literal and sometimes on the figurative will stand by while it all passes by. It takes a bit of writing to be able to bring people to the level of emotion necessary to grasp this if they ever will, so prepare yourself to read and allow your mind to work in ways it has never worked before.

The Introduction checklist, so to speak, is nearly finished, so bear with me while we tick off the remaining subjects. Just allow me to make these several statements to both preclude some of the more obvious erroneous conclusions some would jump to otherwise and to set the stage for more in-depth evaluation of things raised in this Introduction and many things that lead into, and follow on from, the matters raised here.

➢ People think, and some will say, how they want answers, how they want the truth. Unfortunately, many, upon hearing the truth, stay turned away. For them, it is too confusing, too painful, too much effort. That is their human nature, but it isn't everyone's. Thank God.

➢ What a wonderfully blessed world this would be now were all to conflate by the Holy Spirit of truth, precluding the necessity for that terrible and dark period of tribulation that will come. If only the world would do as those of Nineveh did in the time of Jonah but then never backslide. Those Ninevites "turned from their evil way" (Jonah 3:10) and were spared. It will not happen though, due to increasing hardheartedness.

- The preponderance of those in America today referring to themselves as conservative Christians press for what they call family values. They equate personal economic prosperity with the blessings of God. They equate God and country. To many of them, the American Dream is a vision from God. The American founding fathers are to them as demigods, despite the obvious antipathy a number of the leading founders had toward Christianity and especially the mainstream denominations. The conservative Americans calling themselves Christians are prideful and boastful of being American, despite the Biblical admonitions against such pride and boasting. That they laud military service is not inconsistent with their emphasis on closely related flesh-and-blood family and monetary and material prosperity. Their path is at odds with real Christianity. It is hardhearted, and the message of Jesus is against such hardheartedness. This work shows all of that.

- The conservative-Republican’s path is false. It is a fake Christianity, albeit many have been unaware (deliberately kept in the dark) that they have been living in a state of apostasy (rebellion against God's way). The reason for such ignorance is multifaceted but always comes around to the co-opting and revisionism of real Christianity by those who have subverted it for personal gain at the expense of righteousness. I will explain in greater detail how and why the elite subvert the faith. Do not doubt though that they know who they are. US president George W. Bush said the following to the rich attendants of a dinner:

This is an impressive crowd, the haves and the have-mores. Some people call you the elite. I call you my base.

That's right. That was his base of support, and those are the people for whom he held himself out to be working. Those are the people who sold themselves in his cause.

However, because it is important that this work be read by as many as possible, I must allay several potential early stumbling blocks for a large number of readers. First, many will be tempted instantly to dismiss this work for the reason that they find it ridiculous on its face that so many people who call themselves Christians could be misled. Second, that because I say God's words prove that conservatives are not Christians, I must be a politically ideological liberal. Third, by exposing falsehood within churches, I will cause ostensibly good people to find it harder to be Christian and, therefore, fall further away from God.

Concerning the first point (that many will be tempted instantly to dismiss this work for the reason that they find it ridiculous on its face that so many people who call themselves Christians could be so misled), the first exposure most people now have to a concept represented as Christianity comes from those who say that in order to be forgiven and saved all that is necessary is to mouth acceptance of Jesus Christ. From there, many claim that true prosperity (the prosperity from God and not evil) will rain down in the form of jobs, promotions, money, material goods, and the like. In addition, justification by faith alone is emphasized to the exclusion of good works. One is taught to rest on one's laurels—those laurels being simply professing the faith and not having to bear fruit that is both tangible and spiritual results.

The language that follows may be foreign to your ears; however, bear with me, because it will all make sense by the end of this work. You cannot just skip to the end to see how it turns out. You ought to read through the positions in the order in which they are given, because they are built upon preceding points made in this work. Concerning bearing fruit, Jesus spoke as follows:

But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. (Matthew 13:23).

And if it bear fruit, well: and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down. (Luke 13:9).

Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit. (John 15:2).

Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. (John 15:4).

Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples. (John 15:8).

James the Just, the brother of Jesus and the leader of the church in Jerusalem wrote as follows:

Was not Abraham our father justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar? Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect? And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the Friend of God. Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only. (James 2:21-24).

Many who say "by faith alone" don't believe the requirement set down by Jesus for his followers to bear fruit, the result of good works. Now James was speaking about following the law of Moses and doing good works such as remembering the poor. It must be stated that Jesus still told the Pharisees (the leading religious sect that hated Jesus) that they were to follow the law plus do the good works.

Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone. (Matthew 23:23).

The importance of good works as emphasized by Jesus cannot be overstated. The lip-service-only approach becomes the easy-to-live, comfortable, pleasant, even constantly luxurious, false Christianity that allows for more easy converts that further allows for a greater contribution-base for those heading up the particular ministries. The implications upon one’s life of accepting the full-service teachings of Jesus into one’s heart are deliberately avoided in that approach. The hands of the false teachers simply go out for contributions for their personal gain first and foremost and in order to invest in the method to generate still more and greater contributions. If everything that is implied by the true teaching and deeds of Jesus were revealed and accepted, the teachers of falsehood would no longer be made infernally rich off the word and name of God.

Also, sheer numbers of lip-service converts is anything but proof of correctness. Jesus said, "Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." (Matthew 7:14). Few indeed find it.

- Concerning the second point above (that because I say God’s words prove that conservatives are not Christians, I must be a politically ideological liberal), the currently espoused dichotomy (contradiction) between politically conservative and liberal is false. The meanings of the two concepts (liberal and conservative) have been severely mangled over the millennia. This point goes to the heart and soul of this work and will be explained. The term "liberal" in true Christianity bears only a half resemblance to the commonly understood usage. The real meaning will be revealed and spread for righteousness' sake.

➢ To the third point (that by exposing falsehood, I will cause ostensibly good people to find it harder to be Christians and, therefore, fall further away from God), this work is written in order to state the truth, to increase the gain of wholesomeness. What about those who will read this or hear of it and become discouraged and quit professing Christ? Well, that is part of the process of division. As Jesus explained, we will all be separated into the true believers who work good works and, therefore, bring forth good fruit versus those who don't believe and don't do the works bringing forth good fruit. The truth offends those who hate it.

And before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats: And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. (Matthew 25:32-34).
Those who become discouraged and quit after being exposed to the truth will not be among those who persevered to the end. Those who persevere to the end will be amongst the sheep and not the goats. This is what the truth does. It brings about this division of nations and separation of families (and even within oneself, one's heart, to the utter displacement of evil) of which Jesus spoke. It is not that Jesus or real Christians desire the existence of an unfaithful group or wish people to be unable to join the faithful. It is that one wants those who love the truth to be out from under the oppression caused by those who turn from the light of truth to the darkness of lies.

Some people's heads may be swimming about now, and they may be tempted to give up on this work because of terms such as "evil" and "lies" and so forth. You may feel that you will not be able to become accustomed to the language. Persevere if you want to know the truth about how and why things became the way they are and what is going to happen and why. Persevere if you want to know what to do. "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." (Matthew 7:7).

You may have difficulty with the style of the King James Version. This is usual for first-time readers especially. I assure you that the style will become more and more comfortable the more you read on. You will begin to recognize the patterns in style, just as with any other written material. To the uninitiated, The Bible, especially in an older-language style, can appear overly esoteric (in this case, full of hidden meanings... too difficult to discover except by the very few). It is true that The Bible message is understood only by those moved by the Holy Spirit of truth. It is true that only the few find the perfect. It is also true that it is cryptic (secret) but that is due only to the hardheartedness of people who are known by their failure to bring forth and persevere.

- The truth is that the word, the message of The Bible, would not have survived had the powers that be (those with political, social, or economic control) understood it. They would have burned every bit of it, since the word (the message) is their undoing. Now it is not to remain a mystery anymore but is rather to be publicly disclosed in plain and clear terms as part of the division process in the fulfillment of the prophecy. Then they can attempt to kill it without any cover, but will fail miserably and rightfully. This must happen but without glee except in consideration of those who will be freed from the oppression of evil.

Addressing some additional matters up front may make things more comprehensible.

- There is too much subject matter to cover in one volume. Christianity is an entire way of life now and to come. It touches upon everything and in the final analysis really is everything. Conceptualizing how Christianity is all-encompassing is something that can be explained. Whether or not one finally understands and accepts it is indicative of one's fate.

- Also, proceeds will be used to further teach and do in accordance with Jesus's teachings and doings. We desire to be good stewards over all proceeds, as they always remain God's. Meeting minimum maintenance and support levels to keep body and soul together will be for the purpose of furthering the message which is also doing the requisite deeds. Someday the world will be such that declarations of this kind will not be felt necessary in anticipation of, and to negate, false criticisms.

In addition to exposing the falsehood that is conservative Christianity, I will deal, of necessity, with many subjects. The issue of conservative Christianity is truly a lead-in for addressing the full spectrum of reality toward which this volume proceeds. Those professing to be conservative Christians cause such confusion among humanity that it is now best to lead by debunking that falsehood. It is best to expose that eternally fatal contradiction. This is not to say that the word "conservative" is inherently flawed. It is not flawed when it is not the distorted and false meaning exposed in The Bible and clarified and made plain here by the grace of God through the Holy Spirit of truth.

➢ As part of this, it becomes necessary to separate out from Christianity the denominations that are not practicing true Christianity. Such denominations and true Christianity are not synonymous. This is not to say that organization, per se, is antichristian. In fact, how humanity organizes has everything to do with Christianity. It is though to say that the current way and reason for nearly all of what is called organized Christianity is antichristian, really antichrist. In a nutshell, Jesus said that you will know them by their fruit (their result) and he gave the commandment to his followers to do and teach.

Do not let the word "commandment" throw you. It sounds overbearing to many of today's ears. Many have been improperly instructed as to the real meaning of divine commandments. They actually liberate. It takes some explaining to make that clear, and that is what this work does. Down through history since the commandments were issued, many leaders usurped authority and distorted the meanings of the commandments or harkened back to the time when such commandments were interpreted in a hardhearted manner for hardhearted people. Jesus did not shove people around but rather warned them for their sakes.

And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables. (John 2:15).

Even when he turned over the tables in the temple, it is critical to understand that no one was harmed. Only good resulted. He was cleansing the temple. He was purging it of evil doings. In fact, he was foreshadowing what would happen on a nation-state-wide scale so that the people could heed before time ran out for them. Some heeded. Most did not. Those who heeded knew that Jesus did it out of love. It is love to warn people from evil and its consequences. The people today face the same choice and similar consequences. Jesus was also foreshadowing what will happen on a worldwide scale so that the people can yet heed before time runs out in this age.

The truth is that the current denominations do not generate results that are consistent with what Jesus said his followers were to do and teach. The truth is that true Christianity can only do and teach what Jesus Christ said must be done and taught. I will show this further on. However, until I've fleshed that out for you, whenever I use the term "Christianity," the reader is well advised to keep the distinction clear in his or her mind between real Christianity, which strives mightily to do and teach consistent only with what Jesus did and said, as opposed to those who do not.

If exposure to weighty matters is new to you and you already find the reading rough going or difficult to comprehend, things will become clearer and clearer to you as you read on. Consider and meditate on the subject points while also consulting The Bible as you may be moved to do so, even though chapters and verses are usually quoted. Think of it as the only solution for obtaining freedom for the world, because the Gospel message is exactly that. At this point, I will assume that those new to this type of subject have been sufficiently induced to press on with the reading.

As you read along, if you are continually moved to consult your bible or perhaps commentaries or the like, which is not discouraged by any means, you may wish to make personal notes so that by the time you are finished reading, you will be able to identify that questions stimulated in your mind earlier in this work were subsequently answered. If you are already finding fault based upon traditional doctrinal reasons, postpone your final judgment until you've read the entire work and taken some time to digest it in its entirety. Traditional doctrine is debunked within.

➢ Also, a person may write a book leaving out references to specific events thereby giving the work a sense of timelessness and longer-term value in the eyes of some. History, however, is best viewed in multiple ways at the same time: Each time within its own time and each time relative to all other times and to the whole of divine time that is timeless and eternal. Many events cited in this edition are recent history as of the time of this writing. Subsequent editions, if it be God's will that there be any, will keep accounts relatively recent.

➢ Many readers take recent events as inherently more relevant. They believe that the fact that humanity has already gone through dark periods somehow makes the future immune. Many people think now just as people thought in earlier times, how could people have been so ignorant as to have fallen into such darkness. They imagine that had they been alive then, they would not have engaged in such mistakes. It is not necessarily the case, just as we see people falling into darkness now without seeing it. Jesus said to the pharisaic of his day as follows:

Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garnish the sepulchres of the righteous, And say, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets. (Matthew 23:29-30).

You see, they thought that the hundreds of years that had passed since the prophets and the righteous were so obviously persecuted and murdered by their fellow countrymen, that they, the then present day scribes (copyist of scriptures) and Pharisees (the leading Hebrew religious sect of the day; a strange admix of strict constructionism, originalism, and oral traditions concerning the interpretation of the Mosaic law and religious beliefs and practices), had risen above stooping to such evils. It was not the case.

Wherefore ye be witnesses unto yourselves, that ye are the children of them which killed the prophets.

Fill ye up then the measure of your fathers. Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell? Wherefore, behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city: That upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar. (Matthew 23:31-35).
Having more history behind one does not automatically remove one from jeopardy. Thinking that time alone heals, or that the more human history the more humans become immune, lulls one into a false sense of security. Invariably, all such thinkers end up rueing their lack of longer-term discernment. Truly learning the lessons is the only thing that removes the final jeopardy. This is the critical point to grasp. Also, truly learning is much more than it appears at first blush, which will be made clear further on in this work. It is much more than what the conservatives are spreading about the globe.

People have a mistaken tendency to ascribe to the concept of modernity imperviousness to severe backsliding into iniquity. However, no matter how recent or ancient the events upon which this observation is based, the point that the dark spirit is now operating under the distortion of the word "conservatism" will remain valid for all time. The dark spirit is dark for all time no matter what word it is distorting at any particular point. Modernity can discard what it mistakenly sees as antiquated traditions that are really divine truths. That leaves a void for iniquity to be greatly magnified, as will be seen. Modernity sweeps the house only to find more problems than it thought it had cleaned out.

When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest, and findeth none. Then he saith, I will return into my house from whence I came out; and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished. Then goeth he, and taketh with himself seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there: and the last state of that man is worse than the first. Even so shall it be also unto this wicked generation. (Matthew 12:43-45).

This modernity has the mistaken idea that the best of times are the most recent. The truth is though that there was a time and place when and where iniquities were not. Jesus said that "from the beginning it was not so" (Matthew 19:8) that there was hardheartedness which lead to adultery and other hypocrisies. The current modernity is promoting decay. The current modernity is retarded. It is the same old evil in different clothes.

Furthermore, in rendering the proofs in this work and giving supporting concepts as well, it is not possible to write the entire history of the world in detail.

And there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which, if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written. Amen. (John 21:25).

The point is that the events and support included in this work should by no means be construed as an attempt to be exhaustively detailed or specific or that there are not many other events and supporting points that would carry great weight. What is here though is more than enough for anyone whose heart is reachable. It is enough for anyone willing to overcome backsliding, for backsliding is the greatest difficulty for the vast majority. People try to be better people, but upon meeting the first obstacle or subsequent obstacles, backslide and give up. That is never the right choice. Rather than give up, do the following: Be sorry, ask to be forgiven, get back up spiritually every time, dust yourself off or with the help of others, and proceed again into the light with deeds. "Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down: for the LORD upholdeth him with his hand." (Psalm 37:24).

In addition, I mentioned that this is not an academic essay or group of essays. The method of writing is untraditional. Starting without an outline, for instance, I also did not labor under the distractions of fastidious paragraphing with topic sentences and constant attention to contrived transitioning. There is transitioning and there is a topic or thesis; however, those things are not handled in the customary manner. There is a good reason for that. There is a godly reason for it.

The title of this work is not a thesis statement argued with traditional design. Chapters are not topically rigid. Everything in this work though does support the statement that there is no such thing as a conservative-Republican Christian. It also supports the statement that Jesus was a small-c communist. It just doesn't do it in subjugation to arbitrary dictates of style authorities. This places a higher requirement upon the reader to see what is to be understood or what is implied. That's the whole point. Let me explain.

Truly, I did not know why I was being moved to write in this manner. I had been steeped in the rigid writing techniques mentioned above. History and especially Political Science required many research papers. If memory serves, I received all A's on those papers save one. On that one, the lower grade was not due to the use of a free-flowing style but rather content. I took exception to Burkean conservatism. The system does downgrade free-flowing thought but also the questioning of pet ideologies. I had never written extensively before without a high degree of structural conformity. I actually asked the Holy Spirit to tell me why I was being guided to write contrary to my training. It was made clear.

- The Holy Spirit is increasing its appearance. It is the inception of greater, obvious manifestation. At the time of this writing, it is in the early relative stages in the revealing process begun by the prophets and Jesus—relative in terms of the quality and widespread awareness of, and by, the people.

This work began incipiently. It unfolded in process. The vision is one of coming into singleness: Separate and collective uniformity in righteousness. It was not all received and then written. The result is continuous straitening.

The truth is coming out.

The mentality of one able to grasp the revelation is the mentality of one able to see through to what I just mentioned above that is what is to be taken as understood or implied. In the final analysis, the emotions bridge the gap. The heart gives definition to the words used and the organization of those words and to all of life. It is the emotional state that interprets scripture. The proper emotional condition allows one to receive what is at first seemingly only implied by the scriptures but in continuing in the process of reception turns what appeared as implication into the hard and fast law of God. This emotional receptivity is consistent with the reason for Jesus's use of parables and expounding upon them to his disciples.

You see that Jesus didn't write research papers with citations of those traditionally understood as experts. You see that the prophets didn't write that way either. They wrote from the heart. This is why one must read them from the heart and hear Jesus that way. This is why this work is written to help bridge the gap with no fear of letting over the sinister. They can't see the bridge or hear the voice leading them to it. The traditional rules won't get one there. In fact, they are a hindrance. That's why the worldly way of today is so far from heavenly. If I were to try to express in the traditional manner everything being put forth in this work, the reception and transmission would stop. You will have to read through this work to see, hear, and feel more of that big picture.

There is an ongoing struggle over you. It is over whether or not to allow you to open your emotions to feeling (sensing) the movement of what is absolutely best (without qualification or equivocation): Not just better or more, but best and most. Tradition has either led to the wrong heightened emotional condition or suppressed emotions across the board to below the level necessary to do what is the solution to all suffering. As you will see from this work and from the Gospels thereafter, provided they are opened up to you and you open up to them since that is the same thing, there is the right flow of emotion and then everything else.

The proper emotional state is unrehearsed and not posed.

Settle it therefore in your hearts, not to meditate before what ye shall answer: For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, which all your adversaries shall not be able to gainsay nor resist. (Luke 21:14-15).

It is practiced though in a different sense, on another level. The right emotional state practices (does) righteousness and not falsehood. That is why it is just constantly flowing in righteousness rather than having to rehearse a pretense to righteousness. Jesus didn't rehearse what he went through. Others fall short for the very reason that they rehearse rather than just do. They try rather than do. Jesus didn't try to save the world. What he did is the salvation of the world. Every soul will come to see that the climax of the story is inherent in the beginning and the end.

The proper emotional state opens up the contexts to lead us into doing what is true and real. This does not come by way of tradition. Tradition stops short; otherwise, tradition would have seen the earth clear to heaven.

To be moved by the Holy Spirit is to be emotionally moved. There is immediacy to it without which the movement cannot be shared. Rehearsing, posing, testing, excessive polishing, and like emotional states, are not conducive to imparting what happens when one is moved to righteousness. They are misleading conditions. It isn't regurgitation. It is immediate creation. Inspiration is spontaneous even as it is eternal.

The kind of thinking necessary to not be confused by statements such as "the climax of the story is inherent in the beginning and the end" and "inspiration is spontaneous even as it is eternal" is completely explained in this work. It is really in the Gospels, and this work is intended to help souls see that.

- As part of this, my emotional state is to show through in the work. Stress, anxiety, and sorrow over persecution and oppression on the individual level and the worldwide level are to show through. Relief in the certain knowledge of redemption of the worthy persecuted and oppressed is also to show through. These emotions are tied directly to prophecy and what is called the wrath of God.

While writing this work, I was attacked on a number of fronts. Through those ordeals, I learned a great deal about others and myself. I won't go into all the details. That wouldn't serve the good. The lessons are reflected in this work however. I will say upfront though that we are a work in progress. Jesus said about himself, "I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how am I straitened till it be accomplished!" (Luke 12:50). We too undergo a narrowing process. We have to learn to leave behind the impediments otherwise we feel the wrong feelings and will do and say the wrong things.
I learned a great deal about Jesus through my own ordeals. His silence in the face of the accusations leveled against him at his false trial and then before the Roman prefect is all the more remarkable to me now. Next time someone or some group impugns your character or intentions in public in a very indelible manner such as what happened to Jesus, catch yourself rushing to your own defense. Then realize how you haven't gone through the narrow gate yet, because you're still carrying all the impedimenta. If you don't already know what that baggage consists of through your reading of scripture, read on. It all comes out. Hopefully after reading this work you will never again view scripture the way you did before.

Belief in Jesus and missionary work both have been ridiculed directly to me by those who hoped for roadblocks to be erected before me. Some hope that resources to further the things in this work will not be forthcoming. People will help though to justify God. They will see to it that the resources are provided, just as those in the time of Jesus justified God.

All the people that heard him, and the publicans, justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John. (Luke 7:29).

➤ Had you noticed that before that Christians justify God? They do it by right actions, by working solely in his cause. Some churches completely ignore this. Others totally misinterpret or deliberately twist or obfuscate his real cause.
I won't go on about my personal ordeals any further since it is not my intention to engage in recrimination or bitterness. It is my intention rather to help show the connection between root emotions and what shows through in communications and other actions and their results. Doing that ought to help the reader to see the direct connections between the fruits (results) of one's deeds with one's heart or spirit. These things will be made clear. It is my intention to share the truth that rather than give up or fear exposure of emotions or fear inevitable ridicule and efforts of thwarting spirits, it is good not to mask such emotions. It is good to channel such emotions into the narrow way of Jesus to develop perseverance in the face of the road blocks deliberately erected against Jesus's message.

The Holy Spirit moves in not so mysterious ways but also in mysterious ways. This has been a learning experience. The spirit has shown me a great deal about how easy it is to fall into the trap of defending oneself and how those who call one enemy will turn such defense to recrimination. This can quickly become a never-ending spiral downward.

- Silence or a lack of defense is wrongly engrained within society as being synonymous with guilt. It is important to learn to overcome conditioned, defensive responses to sudden, stealthy, and unmerited attacks. One certainly must be prepared for an increase in vindictiveness from nonbelievers once one witnesses for the real revelation of Christ. All the reason people hate God and Jesus will be aimed right at one.
When we say stress, anxiety, and sorrow over persecution and oppression are to show through, we are not even speaking primarily about what people would consider our own direct, personal experience. We are speaking more so about all the persecution or oppression going on in the world. The whole world's problem is the impetus behind this work. Our individual, personal, direct experience is a reminder of what others go through, much of it worse beyond words. It is to soften our hearts for their sakes.

So, for those who read this and conclude that it should have been rewritten in conformity with all the traditional academic expectations, we say that that would have masked the impact of emotion upon the work and would not have required of the reader the necessary revelatory spirit to grasp yet more of the revelation.

- Lastly, in addition to covering all the things mentioned above and much more, this work puts forth in unambiguous terms exactly what Christians are to do. If you want to know and to understand the very meaning of life and, therefore, what we are all supposed to be doing and how to actually do it, read this entire book.

If you wish to know more of what this volume covers than what is obvious from this Introduction, please see the Table of Contents. Also see the Bibliographies and the Index at the end.

- You may be wondering why this Introduction doesn't cover the subtitle topic of this work, namely that Jesus is a small-c communist. That aspect is impossible to discuss absent the proofs. You will simply have to read this work to come to understand how Jesus's message is one of complete communism but way beyond the traditionally understood sense of that term.

I use the term "communism" with a lowercase "c" rather than opting for some other term, because in doing so, I aid in undoing the stream of consciousness that has usurped and abused the term and process of coming to fruition. That will become clearer as you read on.

➢ The truth is that Jesus was and is in ultimate reality the answer to the ultimate desires of anarchist, libertarians, and authoritarians and much more all at the same time and all without any hypocrisy, paradoxes, or evil. It’s all in the word. It’s clearly and plainly interpreted and placed within the all-important contexts for you in the following pages.

All credit to God.

This work covers many events also covered by others. Many of the complaints and observations of those opposed to the direction of humanity overlap. They do not agree about the exact right direction for humanity or the guide to lead there, but they agree that much of humanity is heading in far from the right direction, generally and specifically. The truth is that many guides are permanently intoxicated by power and authority granted to them by their followers.

This work is long and redundant; however, repetition is necessary to counteract the repetition of the big-lie tactic employed in sinister propaganda techniques as you will see. The Roman senator and historian Tacitus, in exposing the sins of the caesars of the dictatorship of the Roman Empire, many of whom were lauded in their time by the Empire's propaganda machine wrote the following:

I realize that many writers omit numerous trials and condemnations, bored by repetition or afraid that catalogues they themselves have found over-long and dismal may equally depress their readers.

Well, don't be depressed, because the truth will set you free so long as after reading the truth, you go on to do what is outlined in this work that is wholly consistent with the commandment of love given by Jesus.

This work covers what are termed history and current events (current at the moment of actual writing). The current events will age of course. The points made though will remain valid for all time. The work is for action, not just for the sake of pointing things out. Things pointed out are pointed out for the sake of taking right action.

Bringing the biggest picture into focus

Also, we cannot be expected to vouch for others just because some of what they've said or done is reproduced or discussed or alluded to here. This cannot be overstated. It is up to each individual to discern. The pattern or big picture is our point. If we consider the words of someone who turns out to be false, the whole pattern, the whole picture, does not disappear. A blurry picture coming into focus is full of falsehood, but the direction of coming clear is true. That direction is taken by virtue of what truth can be discerned despite the blur, despite the misguidance by others.

For anyone inclined to condemn this as relativism, that is one of the reasons for this work, to set things straight concerning Jesus's true nature, which was both relative and absolute. You will have to read the work to find out how.

Before you read on, let me reiterate that this work flows but it doesn't. That statement isn't designed to be either deliberately vacuous or mysterious. This work flows more so in the order in which the revelation unfolded. It was written while it was still unfolding. It doesn't flow in the way people are accustomed to finding preplanned arrangement or organization. It takes some getting used to, to read and think in this way, but it is the same way in which The Bible and other scripture fits together. History is an unfolding, written as it unfolds. Then people come back to it, for better or worse, organizing it into themes they wish to project.
Chapter 1  There is No Such Thing as a Conservative-Republican Christian

If you have not read the Introduction, please do so before reading on. The Introduction contains important clarifying information helpful in understanding this work.

As I stated in the Introduction, contrary to the general consensus, especially within the American mainstream, there are no conservative Christians. For clarity, I am referring to the current political, economic, organizational system of ideas and doctrines known as conservative Western ideology primarily found in the United Kingdom and United States, with emphasis upon the United States, hence the identification of Republicans. As you will see, this conservatism stems from the very beginnings of what is called civilization, lauded by many and grossly misunderstood.

Clarifying "conservatism"

There are several relatively prominent connotations of the term "conservative" often associated with Christianity. One is the belief in the literal interpretation of The Bible. However, not everyone who calls him or herself a conservative Republican Christian rejects Biblical figurativeness. Also, many so-called liberals believe in the literal resurrection of Jesus.

Defining terms is essential to the understanding of real Christianity. The revelation is an unfolding. The meaning of terms will unfold within this work for the patient and persevering.

For the most part, the Conservative-Republican mentality shares much in common with all fundamentalism and traditionalism around the globe regardless of the name of the religion or political party.

Considering the economic and military weight of the Empire that is the combination of the United States and United Kingdom, with their shared Anglo-Saxon heritage, conservatism within this greater Empire is the most pressing danger, hence our focus. I tie the United Kingdom to the United States, in as much as the United States is the offspring of England and England is living, to no insignificant degree, a vicarious empire through that offspring.

A way to handle this subject of conservative Christianity is by giving the Biblical sense back to the meaning of the word "liberal" and then showing how that sense is the same sense as real Christianity.

Biblical liberalism

Understanding the Biblical sense of liberalism is dependant upon viewing the concept from within a number of timeframes and informed by different meanings of other terms depending upon context. The Biblical sense of liberalism from one perspective antedates (predates) the Christian faith when one dates Christianity from the context of the time Jesus walked the earth in the flesh as completely human as you are. However, the Biblical sense of liberalism and Christian faith are one and the same when one views both in continuity with the Biblical prophetic desire for messianic salvation. In that sense, the Christian faith began with prophetic pleas and prophetic knowledge: Reception from the Holy Spirit. The prophets were already believers in the coming Messiah.

If you find yourself already frustrated and arguing semantically, that's understandable given that the training from this world including in the churches has run counter to the revelation. It is unsettling to find out that the world says it is either or whereas the truth is that it is both or neither.

Real liberalism is inherent in the message of Jesus, so there is no hypocrisy in being simultaneously a true liberal and a true Christian. In fact, one cannot be one without being the other. It takes the spirit of faith of, and in, Jesus to be a true liberal. The law and the prophets pointed to a true liberal when they prophesized the advent of Christ incarnate (in the flesh). Also, that true sense of liberalism must be contrasted with the current notion of conservatism. In addition, in making it plain that there are no conservative Christians, I will also be making plain that there is no such thing as a liberal Christian, as the term "liberal" prevalently is used today. The prevalent use is a distorted, unreal meaning.
Figurative thinking and word usage

A place to begin restoring the Biblical meaning and concept of liberalism is with (Proverbs 11:25), which says, "The liberal soul shall be made fat: and he that watereth shall be watered also himself." Fat in this Proverb means bountiful. In the context of this Proverb, it is a good thing. The fat of the land is the land's bounty. Rich soil, with the right light and water, may yield abundance (fat). As a clarification, everywhere the word "fat" comes up in The Bible does not mean real bounty, because bounty has two distinct and diametrically opposed meanings depending upon the context. One meaning is bounty from God for direct righteousness. The other is bounty from the spoils of evil. The word "bounty" has been hijacked in this case by those who call booty (property seized in war) bounty. Booty is the reward of piracy or robbery. All war profit is plunder and booty. All war-profiteers are a kind of pirate. Those who call war profitable side with piracy. Also, the words "watereth" and "watered" in the proverb means "help" and "helped" respectively and in their simplest terms.

This is the type of figurative thinking and word usage you will need to put into practice to become literate in the language of the revelation of Jesus. Jesus was perfectly fluent in the revelation. Everyone else is either learning as an ever-becoming child of God or turned away orphaning him or herself from God.

In the Introduction, I raised the issue of people becoming discouraged and quitting the faith (to the extent they had it) once they find out the greater truth leading to the absolute. If this happens, they professed Christ without having been looking for the truth. I further introduced the concept that by being exposed to the truth and then renouncing faith, they would be worsening their separation from the elect (the chosen, the anointed). I went on to quote Jesus as follows:

And before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats: And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. (Matthew 25:32-34).

The verse that follows, which is Matthew 25:35, harkens back to the Proverb 11:25 that I quoted above ("The liberal soul shall be made fat: and he that watereth shall be watered also himself."). Make the connection in your mind between these cited Bible verses. Matthew 25:35 quotes Jesus as continuing, "For I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye have me drink."

Now, just as with the word "fat" above, the word "meat" here is not confined to the word meaning animal muscle tissue or organ tissue. There are those Christians who would insist that animal flesh is actually precluded from the Biblical understanding by logical, emotional extension. However, coming to understand how they have arrived at their position requires a broad and deep understanding of the scriptures and history as a whole. That will not come to anyone who does not make the effort to understand the emotional language of the revelation. I will say that meat is often used in The Bible synonymously with mundane food in general. Actually, there is a place where the mundane food {taken for granted by so many, especially those rich in mammon (money)} and the divine food are a continuum just as Jesus showed the continuum as he was enabled by God our Father to move back and forth from the incarnate to spirit. It is profound yet it is right there in front of us.

The term meat is still used today when referring to the edible flesh or tissue of fruits, vegetables, nuts and the like. Therefore, do not jump to conclusions based upon narrow, current word usages. Doing so can close the door to further understanding and enlightenment.

Jesus went on to explain that those who gave food and drink, etcetera, to those with the least (the needy) thereby also gave Jesus, the Son of God, food and drink. You feed and water any of, or all of, his flock; you, thereby, feed and water him (the good shepherd, the Lamb of God). This is the heart of understanding true liberalism. It is infinite oneness.

In the interest of disclosure, I am a vegetarian (vegan often: no animal products) when able to choose; however, I have eaten what has been placed before me knowing full well that all such food is a type of flesh shed for the life of my body, for which I am grateful, and knowing also that all such flesh (animal, plant, earth) is not the real bread, per se, from heaven and for my soul.

The real bread

The Hebrews with Moses living in the desert received manna that fell from the sky. It was not food for their souls except by implication. One must draw the connections between receiving the different kinds of breads: Grain bread and such, manna from the sky, and spiritual bread from heaven. Jesus taught as follows:

> Our fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat. (John 6:31).

> Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead. (John 6:49).

> This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever. (John 6:58).

The "this bread" is the spiritual bread: The words of absolute truth. You will please note that Jesus added to scripture. He enhanced the understanding going well beyond the level of miracle that was the manna falling from the sky.

> Then said the LORD unto Moses, Behold, I will rain bread from heaven for you; and the people shall go out and gather a certain... rate every day, that I may prove them, whether they will walk in my law, or no. (Exodus 16:4)

Then Jesus said that what was written was wrong. Now how can that be? It is not that Jesus was saying that it was wrong. He explained that the traditional interpretation of the meanings was less than he was revealing. Heaven has more than one sense, connotation, or meaning. In The Bible, heaven can mean the sky and it can also mean the kingdom of God. The real bread did not fall from the sky as the manna did. The real bread comes from the heaven that is the kingdom of God that transcends the mundane sky. It is not dependant upon the sky we see when we look up outdoors. This does not mean the food (manna) did not fall from that sky or that it was not provided by God from heaven. Everything is provided by God. It means that one eating that manna was not necessarily filled with the Holy Spirit. In fact, many who ate that type of bread (meat) were still just as devoid of the Holy Spirit (truth) as they had been before eating the manna. That is Jesus's point. That's why so many of them died spiritually as well as physically. They did not live on eternally in the spirit. The manna did not impart justice. The bread that came from heaven that if we eat we live forever is the real bread or the true spiritual bread: The truth from Jesus.

I wish to avoid getting ahead of the subject matter, but it bears introducing at this point that even the word "real" as used above is to be understood within the highest sense of the revelation. You will be able more readily to identify contextually sensitive word meanings within the revelation as you continue. On the highest level, reality is the absolute truth of the spiritual, manifest, and incarnate nature of God. All else is false or unreal (unreality) in this absolute sense where Christianity holds that all things ultimately resolve to, or depend upon, God. Satan, the spirit of imagining oneself as God's arch nemesis (equal rival), is in denial, or unreality, that he or she cannot be, or has not already been, beaten or overcome.

In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world. (John 16:33).

This all will become clearer as you read on and become fluent in this language that may yet be foreign to your mind. I will address contextual sensitivity several more times in this work, so do not despair if you feel lost. Just considering these matters can constitute progress.

Eventually, you will become able to flow from word sense to word sense as the contexts change.

You will come to understand that the blind leading the blind are those who are not born of the spirit but are those who are dead of the spirit. They are not truly or really living (in that sense-context). Once you come to grasp this, door after door will continue opening to you.

Let me emphasize now that this is not a word-game. This is not a work of fiction. This is real and the most serious of matters. It is not for entertainment. It is for edification that is spiritual enlightenment. It is a matter of the eternal life and death of souls. What can be more important here and now? It is not to be read and put down. It is to be acted upon now, always, and forever.

Self-sufficiency

Now, contrary to Jesus's teaching that as you feed and water any of, or all of, his flock (the needy, his believers, and all others really); you, thereby, feed and water him (the good shepherd, the Lamb of God), conservatives emphasize so-called self-sufficiency. Pause on that and consider it. Digest it, for it is undeniable truth. It is an unavoidable contradiction, hypocrisy on the highest order, of so-called conservative Christians. Everything said in defense of such self-sufficiency is obfuscation and rationalization or worse. No Christian has any excuse concerning this. The true Christian will love hearing this reproof. All others will be anywhere from indifferent to hating it. The doctrine of self-sufficiency as opposed to the teachings of Jesus is proof that there is no such thing as a Christian conservative, but there is more. It never ends in fact. After all, the truth is infinite.

Helping all the needy is far from the highest priority of the conservatives, as demonstrated by their failure to have ever done it, despite collectively having the wherewithal to do it. They do help to some degree under the proviso that it be in what the rich conservatives deem is in their best selfish interest. It is ironic that helping the poor is always best, but one must see the whole picture to know that. One can never see that whole picture by viewing through the dark glass of selfishness. To the Christian however, helping the needy is the highest priority. It is right up there with finding lost souls and bringing them to the faith of true liberalism. It is teaching what must be done. It is teaching the soft-hearted condition that will undertake that work. The conservative though is more about taking care of self and immediate family and network of associates, provided those associates and even family members can further the material and monetary gain of the conservative.

Those who bristle at this do not know their own hearts. The conservative movement is not focused upon the most rapid elimination of starvation regardless of any degree of perceived shared global sacrifice necessary to see to it. The question from the conservatives has always been, "Where is the money [mammon] going to come from?" Well, where is their faith in God?

Capitalist charity
Some will say that they show their faith by charitable giving. They have the accounting proof as back-up. They need to understand that being wealthy and even a large donor is not listed among the Beatitudes (declarations of the blessed) as given by Jesus in his Sermon on the Mount. It is a matter of which spirit is the continuing source of funds and whether recompense is in the thought process (more on those points later). Do they give to be seen by others? Do they continue perpetuating the taking of other people’s fair share in the inheritance from God?
Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. (Matthew 5:3-11).

It does not say blessed are those with vast personal worldly riches who continue extolling capitalism and who also give with huge purchased publicity. It is a small blessing that does not cover a larger sin. People with vast personal wealth are still hoarding enough to satisfy the needs of great numbers of people. Jesus further said that "it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." (Matthew 19:24). However, the fact that the rich are missing from the Beatitudes and will find it more difficult to enter the kingdom of God than for a camel to go through the eye of a needle does not preclude salvation for the rich.
The difficulty for the rich and conservatives stems from the fact that the entire worldly process (especially the capitalist system) of obtaining wealth is through force, exploitation, hording, and the like. Upon first consideration, many will baulk, because they will cite in their minds and amongst themselves that capitalism has many examples where it is not forced and, in fact, is the basis of their freedom. Well, to those who feel and react that way, I say press on with this reading, because it will become clear as a bell that capitalism is not treated as an option by capitalists and the concept of freedom within that system with no other options is not the concept of freedom Jesus or his Apostles and disciples taught and lived.

There is no way around it. Capitalism is accumulation and reinvestment first and foremost for self. Self-interest comes first, and that is diametrically opposed to Christ. It will never result in righteousness.

Salvation from capitalism

In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour under the vine and under the fig tree. (Zechariah 3:10).

The meaning of every person being every person's neighbor and the meaning of the vine and fig tree will become clear as the opposite of the capitalist system. After the salvation of the world is brought to complete fruition (when all the people are actually living it) built upon the complete fulfillment of Jesus on the cross, everyone will love everyone as Jesus loved his disciples. Everyone will share ownership together of all that God has given for the inheritance of all.

This is mindful of Jesus's saying that life does not consist of how much material we possess.1 Nevertheless, the real bounty is a reflection of righteousness. The real bounty is shared by all, and all of it belongs to God.

No one will have evil power over anyone as is now the case. All will be endowed with righteous power emanating directly from God within each. All will respect this within every other.

1 Luke 12:15 "And he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

This sharing message of Jesus is most certainly a message of redistribution of wealth regardless of the fear such a thought strikes in the hearts of the selfish. It is though in no uncertain terms nonviolent on the part of all real Christians. There is no advocacy for a violent overthrow. It will happen though by sources both diametrically opposed to and in complete accordance with Christianity.

He may prepare it, but the just shall put it on, and the innocent shall divide the silver. (Job 27:17).

He that by usury and unjust gain increaseth his substance, he shall gather it for him that will pity the poor. (Proverbs 28:8).
And I will punish Bel in Babylon, and I will bring forth out of his mouth that which he hath swallowed up: and the nations shall not flow together any more unto him: yea, the wall of Babylon shall fall. (Jeremiah 51:44).

All the fowls of heaven made their nests in his boughs, and under his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their young, and under his shadow dwelt all great nations. (Ezekiel 31:6).

And Jesus said to the world as follows:

Therefore say I unto you, The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof. (Matthew 21:43).

The soul of the conservative though holds a dark spirit that wants to amass for self. This is the world before the salvation has been brought to fruition (bearing fruit; brought into actuality). This is the world still failing that is falling. The conservatives' power will be taken from them and given to the real liberals who will bring forth the real fruit with patience. The conservative spirit is lacking when it comes to giving and sharing all for the sake of those with nothing even when the pleas of the needy are righteous. Being desirous to give and share all and gladly following through is required for entrance into the kingdom of God.

Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver. (2 Corinthians 9:7).

Necessity here means, because one is compelled out of fear (the dark spirit) rather than love and compassion. Be compelled out of a spirit of love and mercy and not fear of reprisal. Being motivated out of fear of reprisal is to miss the confidence-building (not arrogance-building) healing of God that is the Holy Spirit living within and that existed before human kind in the flesh.

And Jesus sat over against the treasury, and beheld how the people cast money into the treasury: and many that were rich cast in much. And there came a certain poor widow, and she threw in two mites, which make a farthing. And he called unto him his disciples, and saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, That this poor widow hath cast more in, than all they which have cast into the treasury: For all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want did cast in all that she had, even all her living. (Mark 12:41-44).

The King James Version says farthing. A farthing was worth a quarter of an old British penny. They did not use farthings in Jesus's time, but suffice it to say, she threw in two small coins which were all she had. The others gave more, but they gave only a percentage of what they had. They were not willing to go down to nothing in the faith of godliness. Do you think that poor widow was admitted to paradise? Did she show the kind of spirit you would want in paradise with you?

The more you know, the more you're obligated

The requirements for attaining eternal life change once possessions are shown to be vanity: Hypocrisy.

When confronted by a rich man about what that rich man ought to do, Jesus told him to follow the commandments. Jesus did not tell him at first to sell everything, give all the money to the poor, and then follow Jesus.

The people foundational to the real Church are those who will see it through to the end so that construction will not stop until completion. Those people are the ones he called, calls, chose, and chooses to drop everything they were, or are, doing, convert all their worldly possessions and wealth to the needs of the poor by putting all that into the real Christian common treasury, and follow Jesus in faith doing the work of the Gospel.

Only after the rich man pressed Jesus if there were things he could do beyond keeping the commandments did Jesus tell him that to be perfect, he must sell all, give the money to the poor, and follow Jesus.

And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good?
there is none good but one, that is,
God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments. He saith unto him, Which? Jesus said, Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Honour thy father and thy mother: and, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. The young man saith unto him, All these things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet? Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me. But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions. Then said Jesus unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, That a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew 19:16-23).

How do the conservatives read, meaning interpret, those verses? Jesus made clear that by following six commandments, the rich man could reach eternal life of a degree.

Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear
false witness, Honour thy father
and thy mother: and, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.
(Matthew 19:18-19).
Thou shalt not kill

You will note that the translators used the word "murder" rather than "kill" or "slay." The current connotation of the word "murder," as used under the non-divine meaning, that is the mundane meaning or the meaning typically applied in this world, suggests that there is a human legal time and place for killing people. However, the spirit of the commandment when carried out to its completely non-hypocritical New Testament state precludes that mundane legality. The real spirit of the commandment given in the Old Testament to which Jesus was referring means not to kill, as in inflicting punishment or a penalty or for any reason of vengeance. There is no place for humans killing, slaying, murdering, inflicting capital punishment, warring, or any other thing of the kind. All these are the same thing prohibited under the commandment.

Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not commit adultery. Thou shalt not steal. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour. (Exodus 20:13-16).

Honor your father and mother. Then you will live a long, full life in the land the LORD your God will give you. (Exodus 20:12).

Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself: I am the LORD. (Leviticus 19:18).
The King James Version Old Testament Hebrew word used in the commandment is "רָטָשׁ," transliterated as "ratsach," and was translated into the English as "kill." The King James Version New Testament Greek word used in Matthew 19:18 is "φόνοιον," transliterated as "phonoio," and was translated into the English as do "murder," even though it also connotes kill or slay. Regardless, Leviticus 19:18 immediately above says, "Thou shalt not avenge." That is the sense in which all of these admonitions against killing, slaying, or murdering is to be understood. It is also to be understood in the bright light of the Gospel message that is adamantly in opposition to all violence as will be shown further on. We will also show that the Gospel shows that the scope of the people and one's neighbors has been expanded.

In addition, Jesus further made clear that in order to enter the kingdom of God and be perfect one must live up to one's potential: One's understanding or grasping of the full implication of faith in God. The young man comprehended that he ought to have done what Jesus said. That is one of the reasons he went away sad. One must show understanding on the divine level (follow through) by acting in accordance with the full spirit of the law, entailing converting all of one's wealth for the sake of the poor and following Jesus. Doing that, of course, is clearly implied by the spirit of the commandment to love one's neighbor as oneself. It is no mystery. It is not hidden. It is as plain as day. Only liars want to obfuscate (dim, darken, fog, blur, or the like) this clear and revealed truth. So, a Christian, knowing these things and being a professed follower of Jesus, must be an exceedingly beneficent person or more so pass on the beneficence of God.

Do not fret if you do not understand what is meant by the full spirit of the law. It will be made plain and clear in this work. You will know everything you need to know to continue on with a solid start. That's what Jesus's message does. It gives all the essentials for the eternal journey. Always come back to the fundamentals, which is not to say the human traditions. The fundamental human traditions and the fundamental precepts of God will remain two different things until the kingdom comes.

If after reading this work, you are emotionally moved, as you ought to be, you will share your new knowledge with others that will teach them. You will read and re-read the Gospels and the rest of The Bible. You will continue sharing (that is teaching) and learning and most importantly, doing the deeds in accordance with (consistent with) what you are learning and teaching. That is the thing that is lacking the most in this world: Putting into practice what is preached. There have been thousands of years of talk and thousands of years of excuses and procrastination. It speaks volumes about the churches.

In order to understand how everything is given freely by God and that one must be beneficent as God is beneficent, one must understand that God, by definition, created everything and that humans simply rearrange things by God's grace. Everything (existence) comes from God. We make nothing. We can do nothing without God. The fact that God has given us a certain degree of freedom in this way of rearranging is necessary for our edification (our learning): For our own good and the good of all. If we will truly see the consequences of our behavior, we will be properly conditioned to repentance. This freedom separates and divides us, the repentant from the unrepentant. It reunites us in enlightenment and newly reacquired and permanent trustworthiness. Part of this understanding is the knowledge that God's is what everything is made of and is still God's to do with as God sees fit. God shares freely his creation with his creatures of which we are a distinct type. For the sake of righteousness, all which one receives should be shared freely also. Doing so is being godly, Godlike, and Christlike. How can one come by way of monetary and material wealth and retain it in the face of so much deprivation in the world and be called Christian? One cannot. The free will that God has allowed us has been abused by humans. God is not responsible for the disparity in the possession of the common inheritance of all that is everything. We exist so that we may learn to remove the unfair disparity and be made worthy in the eyes of the LORD.

Convert to wealth from real service

Not only must one share freely of all things given freely by God, but the method used to receive such wealth must be righteous. No wealth may come by way of murdering, adultery, cheating, stealing, lying about others, dishonoring (being a real disgrace to) one's parent or parents, neglecting the needy, selfishly exploiting others, or any other evil, else the law of God is violated as you shall see. All of this presents a dilemma for anyone professing conservatism or capitalism and especially if one also simultaneously professes Jesus or knows he or she ought to. This does not, however, express the full extent to which one must go in order to be perfectly good.

It is not enough just not to do murder, which in the mundane (non-divine) sense means take a human life in violation of human law. It means not to destroy a human life period. It goes further than that though. One cannot come by way of riches by even being angry with anyone let alone by other violations of the commandments.

Ye have heard that it was said of them of old time, Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment: But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire. (Matthew 5:21-22).

Do not use any pretext (strategy to conceal an ulterior or hidden negative motive) to take away from anyone or to rebuke anyone. If you call someone empty headed or a fool without real cause or without real justification and not as a sincere warning for that person's good and the good of others, you are being what you are calling the other person and will be treated accordingly come judgment. It is justice as you will see. It is for your edification.

Who said that "Our grief has turned to anger and anger to resolution"? Who has profited? Who is in danger of hell fire? Which brother(s) is he angry with? Is there cause (sufficient reason) on either side or both sides? Did they try to settle before both will be hauled before the highest court?

Agree with thine adversary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. (Matthew 5:25).

Did the conservatives try to settle or did they ignore their brother's pleas? Are they too selfish on both sides? Is the life in this world of selfishness worth taking a life in selfishness?

Giving all

Note that in the lesson of the rich young man who came to Jesus, the requirements for attaining eternal life changed once the young man's possessions showed his vanity (self-centeredness). His hypocrisy was revealed. His heart was in his money and possessions. His faith was not fully in God. This is important for the conservative to hear. To do enough means to do everything one is able. The rich young man could have done what Jesus asked. Others did. Wealthy people gave all they had to the ministry of the Apostles. Yet this one rich young man could not bring himself to do it. He did not believe enough.

And Joses, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas, (which is, being interpreted, The son of consolation,) a Levite, and of the country of Cyprus, Having land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet. (Acts 4:36-37).

Barnabas was landed. He was wealthy. He gave it as Jesus asked. However, the rich young man who had come to Jesus earlier could not bring himself to do it. He could have done it, but he could not do it. This is not a contradiction. There are two contexts here at the same time. Put into practice what you have learned thus far. Interpret the two contexts for your enlightenment. He knew he should, but he did not know enough to do it. Do you know enough to judge him? Ought you to judge him? Will he be amongst the sheep (saved) or goats (damned)? Are all the damned sent to the same place? Do they all spend the same amount of time where they are sent? Once the Gospel message from the Holy Spirit of truth is written on your heart, you will know the answers. Perhaps he came later to think the better of it and finally overcame by giving as Jesus had said. He did not immediately overcome his enslavement to his wealth and his fear in being without all he thought it bought him. This is the dilemma for the conservative. The true liberal can do it and does it and will do it.
The honest minister

Lest you jump to the false-conservative conclusion that the Apostles were making money for themselves and being lazy, think again. Paul for instance crisscrossed much of the Mediterranean area spreading the word as best he knew it, and he did on apparently long occasions work as a tentmaker (some say a sail maker or both) in order to keep body and soul together while doing that evangelizing work of God. "And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, and wrought: for by their occupation they were tentmakers." (Acts 18:3). Since the other Apostles reminded Paul to his face to remember the poor, it is logical to conclude that they too were not living much, if at all, above subsistence for the sake of the poor and all.

As said, the requirements for attaining eternal life changed once the young man's possessions showed his vanity (self-centeredness). The same holds true for everyone who has read the New Testament and the rest of The Bible who then does not give all and follow Jesus. This work hopefully helps in that regard: Gives light and not darkness. The divine bar is necessarily moved higher. It is more clearly revealed.
Professing versus having the Holy Spirit

Being baptized with water versus being baptized with the Holy Spirit

Being baptized with the Holy Spirit, persecution, fire, and even martyrdom

In addition, the requirements also change once someone’s hypocrisy is pointed out concerning professing belief versus having the Holy Spirit of truth descend upon one to dwell within one. This is also true concerning being baptized with water versus being baptized with the Holy Spirit and being baptized in persecutions and even martyrdom. This pattern of shedding light never ends with the revelation of Jesus. As you will see, this pattern is true concerning all human, ungodly traditions, precepts, and Biblical interpretations that are inconsistent.

This teaching, about merely professing and being dunked in water versus having the Holy Spirit descend upon one, is contrary to traditional teachings: Conservative doctrine.

I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire.

(Matthew 3:11).

That is what John the Baptist said about himself concerning the baptism with water and about Jesus concerning the real baptism with the spirit for the soul, with the Holy Ghost and with the purgative fire of truth.

You will notice how John compared himself relative to Jesus. John knew. The conservatives call this teaching heresy. They say just professing and being baptized once and in water is enough. Their teaching is as teaching that manna was the bread for the spirit from heaven rather than bread for the flesh from the sky. Their teaching inhibits or retards the growth in enlightenment of the soul. Neither is mere professing and water baptism the real belief or real baptism.

This is not to say that what John was doing was wrong or inconsequential. In fact, John made clear that he was preparing the way for Jesus. What John was doing was right and good. The current human, conservative traditions or doctrines stop even short of where John left off. They don't go on to the message of Jesus.

The act of professing can be mere mouthing. It can be mere rote. The act of being immersed in water surrounded by ritual can miss the point. The act can be false through deliberate deception of through misdirected, ignorant intention confused with the truth. The truth of the act is all in the heart. The proof is in the consistency of all acts. The acts of people, baptized in water or not, become their heart and visa versa. It is all a matter of authenticity that is being free of hypocrisy.

It is all relative to the absolute that is God. It is becoming and being at the same time. It is stages in the awakening process, the birthing process. "John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins." (Mark 1:4). Here, repentance is confession of sins to reduce the disease. It is to see the evil trail one has left behind oneself, all the consequences of falling to temptation, all the harm done and suffered. It is a conscience awakening. The baptism is symbolic of that event in the heart, the change of heart. The disease can remain due to false-heartedness. The disease can return due to hypocrisy being magnified again, doubt creeping back in.

The act of acknowledging one's errors is the beginning. The relative truth of that act is seen by one's results from that point on into absolute eternity.

For I say unto you, Among those that are born of women there is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist: but he that is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he. And all the people that heard him, and the publicans, justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John. But the Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God against themselves, being not baptized of Jesus pointed out that the most hypocritical were unwilling to even take the first step. They didn't acknowledge God: Truth. John spoke the beginning of the whole truth.

Heresy means choosing an unorthodox belief (from the transliterated Greek _hairesis_, which means chosen or to choose). In terms of the study of God (theology), it means not choosing the traditional religious precepts of human beings. The conservatives' predecessors called Jesus a blasphemer and thought Jesus a heretic. He was a heretic in their eyes, but he was faithful and loyal in God's eyes.

Traditionalist churches

The Roman church and many of the Protestant churches followed in the footsteps of these traditionalist, conservative Pharisees. They came up with their own human doctrines rather than reading the scriptures and staying consistent with them, including admitting what they had not yet received from the Holy Spirit or in other words admitting what they did not know. They read into the scriptures what would justify selfish desires for power, control, worldly riches, and the rest. Rather than following the teachings and examples of the real saints and earlier the Biblical prophets, the Roman church and many Protestant denominations murdered saints as the scribes and Pharisees murdered Jesus and as Hebrews murdered the prophets before Jesus. It is painfully obvious that the organized churches have not followed the teachings or examples of the Apostles.

On the other hand, the example of the Apostles was that they allowed each other to be considered worthy enough to speak the revelation as each received it. Each acknowledged the other's reception of the Holy Spirit of truth even when it meant challenging each other and changing positions for the sake of righteousness. They strove to influence each other for the better, just the opposite of leading each other astray.
Yeast or leaven of the Pharisees

Contrary to what has been done in the West in the name of Jesus by the Roman church and Protestant denominations, none of the Apostles or true disciples of Christ would ever have beaten, maimed, or killed another on account of anyone believing he or she was hearing the truth directly from the Holy Spirit. They knew better the truth when they heard it. They ultimately conformed themselves. To the extent that they remembered Jesus, they did not let their imaginations run away with them into falsehood, which is hypocrisy, the yeast of the Pharisees, their doubt in God and faith in their supposed autonomous selves or in the dark prince of this world or in that prince's system that is money.

One is always to be on the lookout for this leaven (yeast) of the Pharisees creeping in to rob the believer of the real spirit. It puffs itself up as bread rising. It is full of air. It is full of hypocrisy and doubt about the real power of God to transform everything. Many of the current denominations contain that yeast or leaven of the Pharisees.

The Pharisees were the main Jewish sect in opposition to Jesus. The Sadducees and scribes also arrayed against Jesus. Their doctrines were hypocritical (selfish) as Jesus proved and as you will see further on in this work. One is always to be ready to acknowledge to God how one has been hypocritical. It is essential for the growth in the spirit. The Pharisees were not willing. Many of the ostensible churches today are not willing either, not enough to do the necessary deeds required by Jesus, the founder of the real Church. That is all one needs to know about them to know which side they are on: Sheep or goats. It is the criteria Jesus used, also as you will see. It really is that simple. They try to make it complicated to get out of doing the work. Just listen to them when you ask them about selfishness and why we all do not just give and share freely as God intends for us. You will hear it. They will hem and haw, sidestep the issue, change the subject, narrowly focus in on something that is not operative (something upon which things do not rise or fall), and imagine that they have no responsibility for the welfare of others. If you persist, they will become angry and even admit that they are selfish and that selfishness is evil, but that they are not going to change, because change would mean giving up convenience and creature comforts for the sake of others being able to share even enough to eat. It is eye opening. It is completely revealing of the core spirit. It is one of the things that disgusted Jesus.

They want to enter their confused version of the kingdom on the cheap. They diminish its value. They do not want to pay the price of admission. They want to do nothing or fight and murder and yet enter.

The kingdom of God

Entering the kingdom of God insures one the free choice of eternal life. For some, it will mean godly powers. The water of eternal life flows freely within the kingdom. Immortality and godly powers are not given to the unworthy, the untrustworthy, the ones who imagine that they can remake the rules to suit their own imaginations. It is not given to those of the so-called noble lie (the leader lies to the people, because the people are seen as being too stupid to know what is good for them). What kind of heavenly host would that be?

God is the ultimate in trustworthiness. To be close to God is to be as trustworthy as possible. There is no room for this thing called the noble lie. (There will be much more on that later in this work.) There is no room for anyone who continues on willingly in the spirit of hypocrisy. This is why few there be that find it (heaven).

The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest. (Luke 10:2).

One cannot enter the kingdom on the cheap. The conservatives are being told this in broad daylight, because it is inevitable, for the sake of all the oppressed of the world that each person be confronted with the hypocrisy of excessive possessions. Each must also be confronted with the hypocrisy of the limited effects of just professing and undergoing water baptism without the firer (purging) of baptism with that Holy Spirit of truth. "He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire." (Matthew 3:11). Rather than the cheap and easy way or the violent way to enter the kingdom of God, one must know what it takes and teach it and do it. One must have enough faith to give all freely.
and live to the best of one's ability without sin on a level acceptable to God.

The Good Samaritan

And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life? He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou? And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself. And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live.

But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour? And Jesus answering said,

A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead. And by chance there came down a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side. And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side. But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him. And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.

Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves? And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise. (Luke 10:25-37).

There is much here. Had the lawyer gone and done the opposite of what Jesus explained to him, he would have been sinning and spiritually dead. You see, there is the death of the body but there is the death of the spirit. There are many walking around alive in the body but dead that means unborn and devoid of the spirit of truth that is the real life that is mercy.

Close to the kingdom versus in the kingdom

You may understand the living spirit of the commandment to love your neighbor as yourself by understanding the direction in which it compels one away from the spiritually unborn which is the fallen, blind, dead, unreal, and considerably imperfect or rather polluted condition. The direction is moving from loving oneself more than one's neighbor to loving one's neighbor as oneself. Continue in that same spiritually awakening direction and a greater sense will be given to the individual words. The word "neighbor" will no longer be confined to the sense of those who live as one's near dwellers in physical proximity but rather as near-dwellers in spiritual proximity that is emotional connectedness to start with. "Neighbor" is then understood as a term of relationship transcending physical distance.

How close is one to God? Spiritually, God is everywhere underpinning the whole of existence. How far is that physically? Is it a question of apples and oranges: Physical and spiritual? Is it more akin to both being different levels of perception? If one is close to God emotionally, is not one also aware physically? One wakes up from the physical only into that which transcends what we think of as the physical. The spirit though is manifest in the physical, else Jesus would not have been the incarnate spirit neither would he have told us that we too may enter also right from where we find ourselves: Carnal and then reborn in the fire of truth becoming spirit transcending being carnal only. Being emotionally close to God means having the spirit dwell within. How close is that physically? How small or how large does one go before running into spirit only? Where is the line of demarcation? Is there a line, or is small or large irrelevant to the question of spirit that is also outside such dimensions? Is demarcation in our minds only? Is that why Jesus could ask and God would grant whatever Jesus did not doubt? Was it not Jesus's trustworthiness: Closeness? Is not the breath of life and the Holy Spirit of eternal life then immediately in the same place at the same time as what we call the physical? That was the case with Jesus. Is not one actually one and the same with that spirit by knowing absolutely that it is so? How close is one to those in need, regardless of the level of one's perception of physical distance? What is the emotional relationship? How then are the mind and brain informed, transformed spiritually and physically, by this perception?

Anyone who, to a point, comprehends intellectually the spirit of the commandment to love one's neighbor as oneself, as did the lawyer, and then does the opposite is really still ignorant of the divine knowledge. The soul of one who comprehends but does otherwise is infinitely lacking the trustworthiness to be free to be immortal, humble, and empowered through God at the highest level. The intellect, the mind, has been insufficiently informed by, impressed by, emotional interconnectedness and interdependence. That mind mistakenly goes on to proselytize to others.

Woe unto you, lawyers! for ye have taken away the key of knowledge: ye entered not in yourselves, and them that were entering in ye hindered. (Luke 11:52).

Therefore, Jesus is the most brilliant jurist who ever lived, the greatest lawgiver who ever lived, for he gave the ultimate divine law. He was there. He arrived. He showed the truth: God, the new commandment.

The Good Samaritan related with the one who fell among the thieves. He did the will of God. He saw himself lying there. Jesus was lying there. You were lying there. Had he not related with the one lying there, and had nobody else come along, willing to do God's will, the half-dead man would have died. What is more, the Samaritan magnified the good whereas the priest and Levite magnified the bad.

The one who was hurt and cared for was forever changed for the better by the experience. The innkeeper was given a beautiful living example of mercy (divine humanitarianism) by what the Samaritan did. Those two would have then also spread the goodness, provided they allowed the experience truly to soften their hearts. The Samaritan justified their faith in humanity. Just as Jesus justified God's faith in humanity.

The Samaritan's unselfishness actually atoned with God for some of the sin of humanity. It silenced somewhat the accuser who is Satan who is forever railing to sift everyone out of existence as being forever reprobates. Is he right? Do you prove him right concerning you, or do you prove Jesus right that all humanity is not irredeemable? Yet God sees the likes of the Good Samaritans of the world and knows that Satan is wrong. The Samaritan was a compassionate person; therefore, he was already spiritually alive and prepared to reach out to the one who fell in among the thieves. What is more, he was not a genetic Jew.
The priest and the Levite kept their emotional distance. They did not want the attachment. They were too self-consumed: Too busy. The half-dead man, after all, was not their beloved close flesh-and-blood brethren known to them by name. They did not overcome their selfishness.

The degree to which they comprehended what they ought to have done and, therefore, the degree to which they sinned is not stated. Of course, the priest had read the commandments. The Levite was of the tribe of Mosaic priest-assistants and one is not unjustified in assuming he too had a thorough background in the commandments, hence the standout nature of the parable: The two who were held in such high esteem by birth and primary occupation versus the one usually looked down upon within Hebrew circles: A Samaritan.

Understand that Jesus came to call the lost of the house of Israel and he called the Samaritan woman at Jacob's Well.

The woman saith unto him, I know that Messias cometh, which is called Christ: when he is come, he will tell us all things. Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee am he. (John 4:25-26).

Jesus did this, because the Samaritans were descendents of Israel who were left behind during the Babylonian exile and who intermarried with those sent to the area.
And the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and from Seharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel: and they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof. (2 Kings 17:24).

They were discriminated against by Babylonian Jews returning from that exile.

Had the priest and Levite grasped the commandment? Had they even taught it for real without doing it? Jesus grasped it, taught it, and did it. Now we know. We have been taught. We grasp it enough that, therefore, we now knowingly sin when we do otherwise. Let us do it collectively for one and all.

Is the story of the Good Samaritan pure fiction or did Jesus base it upon an actual event? Jesus was sent to teach in parables. Parables contain truisms; therefore, what is fiction? We must become conversant in semantics to grasp the revelation of Christ. Furthermore, even if I have been full of failings, if I relate the story of the Good Samaritan and follow the truth related by that story by serving my neighbors who are the whole of humanity, do my former failings alter the truth of the parable or render my new deeds false. No. Even if the whole of The Bible were a great parable not based upon actual events (a false claim), the truisms would still speak the truth of what humanity ought to be doing verses what humanity is doing as I write this.

Once we know we have all been called by our Father to toil in his vineyard (do the work of saving bodies and souls through the spirit), then we must not throw stones (punish); fight or kill (use the sword); amass for ourselves (become rich); stand in the way (be as dogs in the manger) of those who want to know and put into fulltime practice; or even fantasize in our hearts about being violent, rich in money or material possessions, or depraved, let alone do or be those things. Once we know we have been called, we must give all and share all as a universal, royal priesthood forever holding all things in common, support this cause of righteousness through word and deed, and teach it and show it in every nation. Once we know, then we know we have nothing but false excuses. These things will be expanded upon further on.

The terms used in this work will become clearer and clearer the more you read on and the more you go on to read The Bible and other works.
You will then see Biblical allusions (indirect references) in many works, especially works of fiction. You'll become better able to identify those spirits that are close to the kingdom versus those that are far from it.

Truly knowing perfectly divine knowledge precludes going out and doing the opposite.
Truly knowing, one cannot do other than the divine will. This is the heart and soul of true knowledge. When one knows righteousness, one has no choice but to do it and only it. Truly knowing is truly doing. One who does not do it does not truly know what it is. He or she is devoid of the absolute knowledge. The concept of the infinitely righteous is incomprehensible to him or her. To him or her, there always has to be something more righteous. No. The infinitely righteous is the inexhaustibility of love and mercy. No matter how much love God gives out, it will never run out. The rest is relative falsehood. It is in this context that the message is about comprehending the language of both relative (mundane and divine) and absolute (divine) truth.

Relativism and absolutism

God comprehends our level of understanding. God knows our perspective. The message points out the relative nature of sin and knowledge on the mundane (ordinary) level and knowledge on the more divine level right up to the perfectly divine, which is pure godliness and absolute.

And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but he: And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices. And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durst ask him any question. (Mark 12:32-34).

That particular scribe showed at that moment wisdom, sensibleness, and carefulness. Note carefully here yourself that Jesus used the relative expression "not far from." Jesus was both a relativist and an absolutist. Real Christians are, therefore, also. Now, how close is one to God when one shares all with God? Does God share all with any who are not wholly of God's whole being? This never results in exceeding or supplanting God. It results in one's rejoining God from the fallen condition that is the selfish, hardhearted condition. It is the culmination of the direction moving from the fallen state to grasping the spirit of the commandments that is also the revelation of the Messiah.

One may see the relativity in the parables quoted above. What was required of the young man who went away sorrowful because he had great possessions became greater the more he suggested he wanted to know and do. The lawyer too would have been doing enough for eternal life were he legitimately to have thought that his neighbors consisted simply of those who lived in near physical proximity to him; however, since he asked, especially in the manner that revealed his presumptuous logic, he became completely, unavoidably tasked with helping any who may need it. The moral here is not, do not ask. "Ask, and it shall be given you." (Matthew 7:7). Be as the scribe above. Be discreet. Then be alert for the results.

Real logic

The truth is that there is no logical or philosophical escape from the obligation to strive for righteousness. Righteousness and real logic are the same, regardless of how those who have called themselves logicians have contrived false meanings (etymological distortions) and human traditions as rules for the concept call logic. There are no false premises in divine logic. Righteousness, logic, intelligence, sanity, truth, love, mercy, peace...are all the same. They culminate (join) in the wholeness that is the Holy Spirit. One is not perfectly of one without inherently being perfectly of the others, always. That was the godly example of Jesus exemplifying the Holy Father in heaven.

The conservative Christians in claiming to obey the will of God and Jesus render themselves hypocrites, spiritually blind, if they grasp the lessons above and are not immediately tasked with repenting and being transformed into true liberals. Those who love the truth will see this instantly and rather than be angered, will be gladdened at the revelation shining light into their lives.

Transformational power
Transformational power is something the conservative Christians profess to believe, as demonstrated by their statements concerning homosexuals being able to change by the power of faith. This truth holds the same implication for the conservatives concerning their hypocritical priorities. All are able to be transformed by the faith in the power of God.
Professing versus having the Holy Spirit, continued

The requirements also change once someone's hypocrisy is pointed out concerning professing belief versus having the Holy Spirit upon one.

But there was a certain man, called Simon, which beforetime in the same city used sorcery, and bewitched the people of Samaria, giving out that himself was some great one: To whom they all gave heed, from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is the great power of God. And to him they had regard, because that of long time he had bewitched them with sorceries. But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women. Then Simon himself believed also: and when he was baptized, he continued with Philip, and wondered, beholding the miracles and signs which were done. Now when the apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John: Who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost: (For as yet he was fallen upon none of them: only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.) Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost. And when Simon saw that through laying on of the apostles' hands the Holy Ghost was given, he offered them money, Saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay hands, he may receive the Holy Ghost. But Peter said unto him, Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money. Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy heart is not right in the sight of God. Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee. For I perceive that thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity. Then answered Simon, and said, Pray ye to the LORD for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me. (Acts 8:9-24).

So Simon had believed but had not the truth at the same time.

Being baptized with water versus being baptized with the Holy Spirit, continued

The requirements also change concerning being baptized with water versus being baptized with the Holy Spirit.
Now when the apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John: Who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost: (For as yet he was fallen upon none of them: only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.) (Acts 8:14-16).

So they had been baptized in water unto repentance and in the name of Jesus, but they had not had the laying on of hands: Been born again, anew, in the Holy Spirit of truth. This does not mean that one must have hands laid upon one for this to occur. Jesus showed that the miracles of God's power are not limited in any way by virtue of physical distance or physical contact by human beings. You will see this further on.

The conservative who also calls himself Christian often leads people falsely to believe that all they need to do to be saved is profess belief. Some also add that they must also simply be baptized in water. However, for eternal life they must also adhere to the few commandments told by Jesus to those who asked, provided they can honestly say that they have not been told (heard the word) and do not know (comprehend) the higher duties of righteousness. After reading this work, can one rightfully claim that he or she doesn't know? Truthfully, it is disingenuous of anyone to have read one of the four canonical Gospels (four books in the New Testament of The Bible.
Matthew, Mark, Luke, or John) and yet claim he or she has not been told and does not comprehend enough.

To enter the perfect kingdom of God, the highest heaven, they must enter the strait gate and follow the narrow way of truth known as the new commandment in all its implications.

If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me. (Matthew 19:21).

We must do everything required beyond simply professing and being baptized in water or doing the other human traditional things.

As shown earlier, this is not to say that John the Baptist was not a proper preacher. He was. It is to say that one greater than John taught us more. John the Baptist knew this and loved it. He was watching and waiting making straight the way of the people readying them to receive the rightful king, Jesus. The door to heaven certainly was not, and is not, closed to John.

With all that has been said above, can anyone be rich in worldly possessions while so many are hungry and thirsty and otherwise needy in body and lost in spirit? Can those calling themselves conservative keep their worldly wealth to themselves and not yield it up for the sake of the needy and as an example? Will they help with all their love of God so that the voices calling out to the world for the rich to repent will be heard the world over? Will they doubt? Will they fail to justify God, acknowledge God, and accept the counsel of God against themselves? If they refuse, they were not even baptized in earnest in water for the remission of sins. Their consciences were not awakened by their baptism in water. Their profession was not rooted in God.

Conservative Americans’ divergence from true Christianity

How does the system of the conservative Americans demonstrate further divergence from the teachings and actions of true Christians? Do American troops and covert operatives kill, maim, torture, imprison or do any other manner of evil for the acquisition of wealth, power, and control for the American economy that is dominated by wealthy conservatives? In acquiring global power and dominance, are conservatives stealing the inheritance of other people throughout the globe and making those people virtual economic slaves to the capitalistic system of greed, violence, and decadence? In laying the pretext for acquiring such dominance by violence and threats of violence and threats of economic harm and by offering bribes to foreign leaders, do the representatives of the conservatives bear false witness in the name of the conservatives? Do they bear false witness or conceal the truth about the relationships of non-American leaders and others with the powers that be in the United States or any other state? If any one of these is known to be true by the conservative, then the conservative, in acquiescing, rationalizing, or turning a blind eye, is knowingly violating the commandments in order to acquire and secure wealth, power, control, and false safety. They are rejecting the counsel of God against themselves.
Regardless of whether a wealthy conservative then goes on to give away some of the ill-gotten gain to the poor, the entire worldly wealth acquiring process remains riddled with hypocrisy and is unjustifiable. The conservative, being one who supports that wealth-acquiring process, is, by his clear and plain choice, not a Biblical liberal and not a Christian.

The scriptural definition of real liberalism

Concerning being conservative versus being Christian (the spirit of true liberalism), Isaiah 32:5 reads, "The vile person shall be no more called liberal, nor the churl said to be bountiful." This sums it up. It is prima facie proof. It is self-evident. It requires no deliberation. Those who love the truth see it instantly and love it. All others hate the truth. It is the dividing line between the unselfish and the selfish: Sheep and goats. Now, perhaps the terms need to be explained. If you didn't understand readily, it was not my intention to cause you concern that you are not a lover of truth. I am saying that for anyone who does understand the terms ("vile," "churl," and "bountiful") he or she must love it or hate it instantly. Once you understand the terms in the context of the verse, you may gauge your own heart.

You see, true liberals are not involved in decadence, debauchery, or other depravities. True liberals are not into sexual suggestiveness: Temptation and encouragement to selfish gratification especially for monetary acquisition and accumulation for other than all godliness, such acquisition and accumulation being false profit and negative gain. True liberals are purely beneficent and, therefore, truly bountiful. They seek the system of God that is freely receiving from God and freely giving and sharing what they receive, which will become abundant because of their very spirit. True liberals are headed in the right direction. They are becoming what they ought to be.

The current notion of liberalism, on the other hand, connotes a license or tolerance for the unwholesome. That is what degenerates into disease, meaning the fracturing of both body and soul. The current notion of liberalism connotes hedonism: Self-gratification of lusts that is ruination. There is nothing like hedonism to spoil a good time.

Children's playing in innocence is not hedonistic. They are not satisfying their lust so long as they have remained innocent that is not exposed to, offended by, and fallen to the lusting appetites of those sick, depraved, unhealed, and still contagious.

The vile soul though is dressed in a false cloak vocally and actively demanding a silent toleration for certain forms of iniquity. They condemn John the Baptist for preaching hate. He did hate. He hated iniquity and rightly so.

They do not yield forth the real peace. Neither do they hold their peace. They condemn both those who do not hold their peace and those who yield forth the peace (truth). Holding the peace in this context is to not yield forth maliciousness that is harmful. They fail to warn with the whole truth. They warn with half-truths. They shield evil from constructive criticism as if doing so is keeping the golden rule. They strive to shield the demons from the voice of Jesus.

And, behold, they cried out, saying, What have we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to torment us before the time? (Matthew 8:29).

And devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying, Thou art Christ the Son of God. And he rebuking them suffered them not to speak: for they knew that he was Christ. (Luke 4:41)

When he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God most high? I beseech thee, torment me not. (Luke 8:28).

You hear them whining that they can't give up their ways. The healing process for them is suffering they plead to postpone. They truly hope to put it off eternally regardless of the pain and suffering, the stress and temptation, they bring on others.

Real toleration

Now, every word comes with the baggage of the listener's or reader's past. We jump to conclusions that way. We instantly assign ideas to speakers and writers that may be far from the definitions they intend. The thoughts that are brought to mind by the word "toleration" very from person to person and culture to culture. Its opposite that is intolerance also brings much to mind. What might your first impressions be concerning where I am headed with the use of the word "tolerance"? What does being intolerant look like? What fruits does it necessarily have to bear? Was Jesus tolerant? Yes and no.

If you are not willing to consider these things that you've never heard before, you are consigning Christianity to the falseness that is sound-bite religion by dark artists of half-truths.

Learning to discern (perceive but not damn; judge but not judge) the meanings of words and how to communicate the range of meanings sits on a huge learning curve. How long does it take to understand the meaning Jesus intended with each word he chose to use considering the immensity of his message or put another way, the full context of what he was putting forth to enlighten us?

Don't hastily finalize your conclusions in this case. Just because others have used words or taken positions that seem to have much in common with what is being put forth does not necessarily mean that the same messages are intended. Toleration, for example, is good or bad depending upon the full context. The final outcome, the final fruit, determines. Consistency determines. After all, hypocrisy is inconsistency and failure.

What does it mean to tolerate utter greed, violence, and depravity? Did Jesus tolerate them? In one sense he did. In another sense he didn't. Was he bias or prejudice in any way? It depends on how one is defining the terms. He certainly discriminated between righteousness and evil. He cast out evil. We need to think and act on his wavelength concerning all concepts or words. It is the act of truth-seeking.

So, where is the line drawn between such discernments (judgments) that are acceptable in God's eyes and those judgments that cross the line becoming unacceptable? This is where many left off when they murdered Jesus. This is the point at which many demand to pin down Jesus, or as Jesus's disciples would put it "entangle him in his talk." (Matthew 22:15). They demanded, and demand, a firm and precise sense for their satisfaction. Really, Jesus gave the answer in the form of his new commandment that we are to love one another as he loved his friends. If one isn't satisfied with the truth of that summation, one will never be satisfied with any answer. One cannot in that case hear the truth when it is being spoken. That's the truth, and it will judge. Read on.

Satan, Abaddon in the transliterated Greek to English from Hebrew, Apollyon in the transliterated Greek to English, the angel of the bottomless pit, the destroyer, appears as an angel of light. False liberalism is the appearance of the angel of light whose results (fruits) give him away as the destroyer.

The current form of liberalism is condoning, through silence and the call to silence, and more so through defending, the so-called right of some to teach and do what is unwholesome even to the point of wholesale depravity being placed directly in front of innocent eyes, tempting them, corrupting them. They elevate a false right of depravity above the real right of innocence and purity to remain so. On the other hand, contrary to the current false liberalism, the real liberalism is speaking and doing the truth always that includes speaking against depravity wherever it raises its ugly head.

Speak against coercion. Coercion is harm. Don't stop there. Stopping there is half true. Speak against all harm. Selfishness causes injury, the opposite of wholeness or wholesomeness. This is what is lacking in the usage of the term "liberal" today. It must, and will, be corrected.

Evil is both macrocosmic and microcosmic

Some today calling themselves liberals see evil on a macrocosmic level. They see evil especially in the international political arena. It is true that there is evil on that level. It is also true that the evil on that level reflects hearts on all levels. However, those same people calling themselves liberals do not believe that the same rules apply to their immediate families or to them as individuals. There is a disconnect. The gap appears when it comes time for the rules to be applied consistently to their own personal behavior. They maintain that their personal behavior does not necessarily translate into their actions on the larger level. It is not true. Everything one does on a more personal and individual level influences the correctness or incorrectness of that person's thinking on the macrocosmic level as well. If there is confusion on any level, it throws the whole off balance. The real liberalism is also never inflicting punishment but rather leaving that judgment and condemnation to be sorted out according to the measuring rod that is the truth itself. Understand, however, that a rebuke for cause is not punishment. Some may call it verbal or mental abuse; however, where any such reprimand is with cause, it is a real and appropriate warning against the real punishment that is the visitation of evil upon evil. It is purely a warning and cannot in honesty be called punishment. This notion of the just rebuke or reprimand being abuse is a contrivance of those who are not ever-mindful of the gravity of the situation in the whole world.

Speaking and doing the truth is never speaking in toleration of falsehood. It is falsehood to assert the right to defile. Such falsehood will not live eternally, because it is already spiritually dead. Truth does not respect falsehood. Truth does not grant rights to (bless) falsehood. Truth hates falsehood, and falsehood hates truth.

It may be painful to hear and watch people writhe in hatred of the truth, but that writhing is the result of evil within and not the result of pain being inflicted by the speaker and doer of truth. There is real writhing at the infliction of evil. But the truth has no cruelty in it. It is not beastly or animalistic. Truth hates cruelty and sadism.

Furthermore, the speaker and doer of truth, the non-vile but truly bountiful and beneficent person (Isaiah liberal—portrait of the coming Christ mind), seeks to conserve, preserve, and protect, as a good steward, God's gifts that includes what is called today the environment. The real liberal conserves.
Republican conservatism is not conservation but greed

Unfortunately, the current notion of one who conserves (conservatism) has been warped to connote churlishness that is stinginess. The churl is covetous. The churl acquires, accumulates, and hoards for self, not shared with Christians. Ebenezer Scrooge\(^2\) until his revelation, was a churl, a conservative’s conservative.

In The Bible, Nabal was called churlish.

Now the name of the man was Nabal; and the name of his wife Abigail: and she was a woman of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance: but the man was churlish and evil in his doings; and he was of the house of Caleb. (1 Samuel 25:3).

1 Samuel 25 tells how David had been good to Nabal’s shepherds. When David sent his men to ask for some food, Nabal insulted David. Before David arrived to kill Nabal and everyone associated with him, Nabal’s wife talked to David turning David from his wrath (intent to do evil) and gave David food for his troops. The next day when she told Nabal that Nabal had just missed being wiped out, Nabal had a heart attack and died ten days later. Nabal was stingy and self-centered. That’s what churlishness means in The Bible. He was rich and bountiful to those who did not understand that such people are really of the spirit that destroys the earth: Acquisitive and hoarding. He was not rich in the Holy Spirit of truth.

\(^2\) Charles Dickens. A Christmas Carol.

There are many ways in which Nabal is described depending upon which version of The Bible one consults. Generally though it is obvious that had Nabal not been a fool (the meaning of his name) and had been generous of spirit, he would have provided for David in a reciprocal manner, since David had protected Nabal's shepherds. Nabal had a stingy, greedy, conservative spirit. This is how we know the spirit to which Isaiah is referring when he says the churl. The many different Biblical synonyms of churlishness apply to the general description of the conservative direction of the spirit:
Brutish, cruel, dishonest, evil, hard, harsh, knaveish, mean, miserly, obstinate, rough, rude, scoundrelly, severe, surly, etcetera. All of those terms are heading in the direction away from real liberalism. When the sense in the verse of Isaiah is that of withholding generosity (such as Nabal's withholding from David), then the other term "bountiful" within the verse makes eminent sense.

"The vile person shall be no more called liberal, nor the churl said to be bountiful." (Isaiah 32:5).
The stingy person is not bountiful. The stingy person is just a hoarder who actually causes things to dry up. When the spirit of real generosity is pent up and not allowed to flow, the source of things hoarded begins to wither and is decreased reducing abundance overall.
We will see more and more of this in the United States as a direct result of the stinginess of the capitalistic system. Mark my words. It is prophetic.

Real liberals will be really bountiful

The term "bountiful" has been interchanged in different Bible versions with terms such as free, generous, respectable, honorable, important, independent, noble, outstanding, princely, rich, etcetera, and must include genuinely humble, not vain or prideful. All those terms in their highest that is divine sense apply only to those who truly deserve them: Real liberals. If one is reading scripture seeking the fullest sense and regardless of the synonyms used, each such synonym points the reader to all the other synonyms and then to the big picture that is the thrust of the direction in which the Biblical progression leads. It is from this that we are enabled to point toward perfection. It is from this that we are enabled to avoid spiritual regression.

Misguided Biblical commentaries

There are many commentaries on the verses of Isaiah in question. Many of those commentaries slant the interpretation away from the concept that the truly generous and beneficent will be the truly bountiful and will not destroy the planet in the process. Don't read the verses as interpreted by those commentaries. They are out of focus. They are not consistent with the entire thrust of The Bible and the Gospel message. They don't arrive at the plain and clear truth that selfishness goes together with false conservatism and false liberalism. The real interpretation is that the greedy don't bring forth real fruit with patience (adding that which is worthy of repentance) and should, therefore, not be given credit for any of the things any of the synonyms of bountiful suggest. The way they go about things (hoarding) reduces adding from God. They reduce what is available overall, whereas the real liberal causes adding from God. The more a person is a real liberal the better it is. The mirror image of this is also the truth of course. The more a person is vile or un-giving or un-sharing the worse it is.

The conservative of today conserves illiberal, anti-environmentalist traditions. However, the true conservationist and the true liberal are one and the same. The true conservationist seeks to protect the traditions of God and not men. Traditionally, before humanity polluted the planet, the planet was pristine. That was the condition in which God left it to us. How have those of the conservative spirit of today, historically traceable back to the beginning of civilization on earth, managed one of God’s estates while he has allowed them to be the stewards in authority?

Jesus's teachings and deeds and sacrifices saved this knowledge and brought it further to light as no other.

O generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things. (Matthew 12:34-35).

The real abundance is the real bounty. Isaiah and Jesus are in accord. The true liberal spirit cannot but give Jesus full credit and believe who he is, as what he said and did. The spirit that withholds is the churlish, stingy spirit: The conservative spirit. It does not love Jesus in earnest. It actually hates Jesus. It murdered Jesus, after all. The vile spirit too cannot bring itself truly to believe on all levels.

How the language has been distorted

This is the spiritual Tower of Babel. The people lost the way to speak the language of softheartedness. They were trying to build a tower to heaven founded upon the wrong, divided spirit.

The language has been distorted down through the ages. Distortion is built upon distortion.

Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! (Isaiah 5:20).

Woe unto them that call the vile liberal and the conservative bountiful. It means woe to those calling themselves liberal or conservative when they are neither but actually vile or stingy or both. The corruption must be removed. The meanings must be set right.
For then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may all call upon the name of the LORD, to serve him with one consent. (Zephaniah 3:9).

That one language is the language of the revelation of Jesus Christ.

Liberal and conservative must be made to mean what they originally meant. True liberalism and conservatism are only wholesomeness. They are only giving under good shepherding of all peoples. They are only good stewardship of all God's footstool that is the earth and all of creation. Isaiah goes on to say in 32:6 as follows:

For the vile person will speak villany, and his heart will work iniquity, to practice hypocrisy, and to utter error against the LORD, to make empty the soul of the hungry, and he will cause the drink of the thirsty to fail. (Isaiah 32:6).

The scriptural definition of real liberalism, continued

The things many of those who call themselves liberal today advocate are licenses for social malignancy. The hypocrisy is evident in that they profess to be in favor of what is best for humanity while feverishly advocating for the toleration of (silence in the face of and even defense of) that which is utterly corrupting. They stand up for what they mistakenly label as freedom. They say for example that to not allow some forms of expression in word and deed could be turned upon anyone, depending upon who is in power. The idea is that religious dictators had punished people for their beliefs and, therefore, believers cannot be trusted not to become dictators (coercive–forcible persons).

The laws and principles of these mislabeled liberals go beyond precluding coercion against defiling words, deeds, and such. They condone (inadvertently at best) and even promote defilement. It sends the wrong message. How do they do this? Remaining silent about defiling things is bad enough. However, the mislabeled liberals defend those who defile while they, these liberals, deliberately avoid rebuking the defilers. They defend so-called free expression against coercion, but they are an encouragement to body, mind, and soul pollution.

Jesus did not sanction depravity, but he did not punish it and neither did he resist violence. He openly rebuked both sides, as both were wrong. He was not silent even while he called for people not to punish but rather love in the hope that those astray would turn. He also fled as the spirit moved him from those who were trying to murder him not at the appointed hour. He did not though use violence to fight back. Do you see the difference between the approach of Jesus and the approach of the mislabeled liberals of today? The false liberals of today are torn in half, because they do not know the real message of the Gospel.

Under the mundane law, it is written that one has the right of so-called free political-speech. It means no one is to be punished for speaking his or her mind about vaguely defined political matters. The divine law though says no person is to be punished by any other person or persons, period. The divine law is correcting, but it corrects by simply speaking the truth. The divine law also says that no one should speak that which defiles. It is not in the furtherance of the spirit of the great commandment adherence to which precludes all evil. This will be made clear.

Hear, O Israel; The Lord our God is one Lord: And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength. (Mark 12:29-30).

Contrary to the great commandment, the mundane law gives the impression that depravity is sanctioned by default by the powers that be and that by extension it is a God given right to express things that ought not be expressed, thought, or really even felt, those things being selfish and, therefore, dangerous, hurtful, and unwholesome. The divine law is righteous self-censorship (God's will) down to the essence of one's being that is the spirit guiding one's soul.

It is an evil mind and generation that gives itself such license. People are taking such license now with ever-increasing iniquitous results. Those dangerous and hurtful expressions ought not be felt, thought, spoken, or acted upon. The divine law is that one is free to fall but ought not to. The law of God is written in the heart and tells one what not to say. The laws of humans, the traditions of humans, come along and say that one has a right to say what the law of God informs is not righteous to say.
For instance, if adultery hadn't begun, there never would have been a word for it. Now the word plants the seed for the temptable. Therefore, the full word must be there ahead of it, meaning the new commandment in all its implications must be on everyone's mind and heart and shown to the children, lived by example, from the beginning.

The false liberal is concerned with precluding the return of the demonic punishments that were historically inflicted by those who had distorted the message of Jesus. While Jesus said do not punish but rather be merciful, the liberals and conservatives passed all sorts of human laws that have fallen miserably short of the spirit of the commandments.

Jesus removed the excuse for tolerating depravity by removing punishment of one human being by another. There are no police in heaven. There are no criminals in heaven. No one may throw the stone here and now, because all have sinned. If one throws the stone, then in the divine order of things, that stone thrower is saying that he too deserves such punishment due to his sin or sins including the very act of stoning, which is inherently evil. Since there is not to be such punishment, the reasoning of the mislabeled liberals of today is removed. There can be no demonic punishments. Adhering to the divine law, there is nothing to punish and there are no punishers. Rather than using the coercion of punishment that is negative, the divine enlightenment concerning righteous existence is the basis of all enforcement of the real law. Rather than forcing all to live together with evil tolerated or indirectly condoned, all are to be enlightened to live righteously or be left spiritually dead at the end of this life in the flesh. This is not arbitrary. It is the mundane fallen condition that is truly arbitrary.

The mundane either assumes the incapability of human kind or is desirous of maintaining the status quo or their power, control, or whatever they see themselves gaining or avoiding. The call for the divine law is the call for humanity to rise out of the low state that is the current notion of civilization that is not moral, ethical, or humane.

Woe unto those who call the villainous tolerant. The Biblical toleration is the ability to withstand. The Biblically tolerant, the real liberal, practices self-censorship. The real liberal does not exhibit a broadmindedness that is courteous and polite but secretly a mask for superficiality and hypocriticalness. How tactful or polite was it of Jesus to turn over the tables of the thieves in the temple? Did he offend? People certainly were offended. It was though no offense. Others though loved it, albeit after getting over the shock of the boldness of truth. Jesus was not gunning for anyone. He was warning them as clearly as he could. What charges would today's prosecutors level against Jesus for his actions?

How politically incorrect do they claim the message of Jesus is today? Would they charge him with a hate crime? Would they say he violated the civil rights of those in the temple? Would they say his actions constituted religious bigotry? How ridiculous would all of that be?

How ridiculous is it now, since it is here? It is what is happening.

The current self-styled liberals are being warned that they have locked themselves in a losing gamble of the lesser of evils. The worse evil will continue to pull the lesser down lower and lower. Iniquity will be magnified. They want to protect what they call rights, but then are left with nobody being free of the resulting surrounding darkness that is the decadence of society. They believe theirs is the enlightened position; however, until they rid their position of the blind eye toward unwholesomeness, their generosity will forever be mired in hypocrisy. They simply must learn to tell and do the absolute truth of liberalism and let the outcome be the outcome. Instead, they argue for what they call civil liberties, which in the end are not liberties at all but rather bondage under wholesale licensing of unwholesomeness: Disunity, polluting the body, and fracturing the soul. It is not liberty but rather libertine.

How far down are they willing to defend? Down includes the licentious worship of gods via unspeakably abhorrent sexual depravity. There were Gnostic cults that saw the flesh as evil and it their religious duty to defile it to the maximum degree possible. They raised their children in such crime. The depths of depravity can reach down to include sacrificing and cannibalizing one's children. Will such rituals be defended as rights when iniquity returns with a vengeance? Will it be liberal to defend such things? Will it be defending liberties? Will it be to protect freedom of religion or expression? Do you imagine that this is a ridiculous stretch?

You've heard it said, "Give them an inch, and they'll take a mile." People judge via making comparisons. Simply by conceding spiritual ground, what was completely unacceptable, unthinkable, unspeakable, comes closer, becomes more acceptable, thinkable, speakable, and doable. What was considered terrible doesn’t look so awful now, because the whole has been degraded.

Those doing heinous iniquities before thought they were right. The Nazis thought they were right. It was not so long ago. Many fervent Nazi Party members still live as of the time of this writing. The neoconservatives today think they are right. The Israelis, who openly legalized torture, claim to be right. They claim it is a matter of survival. Well, that’s what Hitler said too about the Germans vis-à-vis false Jews.

Do you condemn hate speech but also condemn violations of free speech? Is it impolitic to call racism free political speech? Be careful what you defend with your own speech. Things are spoken into existence.

Racism is wrong. It’s damned; yet, we may not use violence or inflict injury to remove or check the evil that is racism. Doing so makes the whole worse, not better, not healthy. We must warn with the truth, which will separate us to God, which will heal us, make us whole, make us one. The damned will continue to struggle in confusion with disease.

The real liberal does not defend iniquity as a right. The real liberal says do not do iniquity. He turns to the punishers and says do not offend. An eye for an eye is blindness. Punishment is blindness beating and killing the blind. It is aggravation. It is counterproductive to the unity that is wholesomeness or healing. It is provocative: Antagonistic: Evil. The real liberal is the proponent of pure truth (i.e. righteousness). The real peace never comes through punishment. It comes when people stop doing what brings punishment. Those who continue to be punished for their real offenses will not enter heaven. Those who stop offending will enter the kingdom of God. They'll find none of the eternally dead spirit of infernal punishers or the iniquitous. Again, be careful what you defend with your speech and deeds. Do not lead others astray into outer darkness. Do not take vengeance, punishment, or coercion into your hands or have surrogates do it for you. It takes patience. It is right. Do not listen to those of the synagogue, the congregation, of Satan. They seek to pull you down or hold you down.

Language has two streams of consciousness

One can see how the language has two streams of consciousness running through it. One is churlish and vile and the other is purely liberal and Christian. The competing concepts of toleration show this clearly. The Christian, the true liberal, endures evil from all sides. That is the true toleration. The true liberal does not though authorize evil. The true liberal and Christian speaks the truth, and evil is, therefore, left exposed.

This does not mean that the idea is to go looking to uncover people's sins for retribution or to inflict. It is to shine the light of truth and let that do its work whether or not it brings shame into one's heart for one's shameful actions or inactions. Forgiveness is a kind of covering when the word "covering" is appreciated in its fullest Biblical sense. If the perpetrator does not avail him or herself of repentance and forgiveness it is not the fault of the light of truth. Let us all stop doing things concerning which to have guilty consciences to hide in shame. Let us all repent and forgive one another. That is the message. That is how it is in heaven.

Conservative Americans' divergence from true Christianity, continued

The conservative of today is just the flip side of the same confused penny of distorted meaning of the false liberals. Isaiah continued as follows:

The instruments also of the churl are evil: he deviseth wicked devices to destroy the poor with lying words, even when the needy speaketh right. (Isaiah 32:7).

Today's false liberal licenses decadence but is more generous by nature than is today's conservative. Today's conservative devises a morality police-state to clamp down on decadence, but also a police state to clamp down on speech against their capitalistic, neoliberal system, and is also much less generous and even downright stingy in the aggregate. They seek to destroy the poor. They refuse to address their legitimate grievances. Conservatives had been pushing for the poor to get by on less and less and even nothing. Now they push for the poor to become American-type consumers and laborers (without necessarily the right to organize or share equitably in the ownership and profits), because the capitalist conservatives see in this new push holding out more profit for them then in the old way of keeping the poor without jobs. This is not a push for real democracies around the world but rather a push for markets. Only democracies that do not allow for any options to laissez-faire capitalism will be allowed to go unmolested by global capitalists.

Around the world as a result of the way capitalists degrade other human beings, will there be more Haymarket Riots (unionists killed by Chicago police in 1886), Ludlow Massacres (massacre of organized labor by the National Guard, Ludlow, Colorado, 1914), and Palmer Raids (the illegal arrest and deportation of thousands of mostly Wobblies, America, 1918-21)? The Wobblies were the Industrial Workers of the World union founded in Chicago in 1905. They were for, among other things, the abolition of the wage system. It must be said that there are no wages in heaven. In fact, there is no money in heaven. It has no use there.

As the poor around the world are pushed to become American-type consumers and laborers, will there be child-labor protection? Will there be democracy in the workplace, since democracy is being paid lip-service by the conservatives? Will there be workplace safety and environmentalism? Will there be profit sharing for all? Will there be equal employee ownership?
New Fascism

This new push is very much like what happened in Italy and Germany before World War II, when US investors were heavily involved with the fascist regimes. Those regimes were touted by conservatives at the time as bulwarks against Marxist Communism (labor). Now the push for so-called free markets (unfair markets) is being shrouded with the mantel of democracy (a false democracy where the grassroots are suppressed by bribed governmental leaders and officials and others), for there will never be real democracy where the market interests of today's conservatives are the driving force.

The leaders of the multinational capitalist corporations buy off (bribe and corrupt) the state (governments) that then stand against the right of the people to vote in all the provisions those people want in their own countries. This is the new fascism.

3 "Adam Smith assumed that the labor surpluses in the poor, newly capitalized countries would be absorbed and competition for workers would drive living standards up. The current tendency is for money wages to grow while social wages decline in the so-called 'emerging countries' and both money and social wages to decline in the imperial centers."

"Supply and demand of labor has had little effect on the price of labor because it has been superseded by the corrupt interventionist state, repressing labor, co-opting trade union bosses and setting wage targets below what a free labor movement would secure."

These are corporations acting as imperial powers. Concerning the workforce or the locale, they don't care whether or not children are employed in long and dangerous work. They don't about slavery, abuse, torture, imprisonment, hunger, disease, injury, the environment, or anything really other than profits.

It is corporate imperial fascism. It is capitalistic, intolerant of opposition, and hostile to civil liberties and human rights. It is corrupt and corrupting. It turns states and governments against their people. It prevents social reform from the grassroots.

Heartless corporations run, by heartless people, make money and push the burden onto someone else who has nothing to do with it. It's called externalities.

Their petrochemicals are causing all sorts of problems throughout the entire biosphere: Cancer, birth defects, etc.

These corporations are run by extremely greedy, callous people. That's why corporations and the people who run them produce so much that is evil in the world (weapons and war and pollution, etc.) and why they push as far as the people are willing to be pushed.

These corporations are churlish. They do not produce wealth or value. They are not bountiful. They are a falsehood. They are a negative: Devouring, draining, corrupting, and lying.

These capitalist corporations are treated as human beings in the US under the Fourteenth Amendment of the US Constitution that was written to protect freed slaves.
Under the Fourteenth Amendment, capitalist corporations have been allowed to patent life forms. This violates the laws of God, and there will be hell to pay for it.

Not everyone working for these corporations is as relatively evil hearted as those at the top. Many yearn to be out from under, in fact. That's, among other things, what the Real Liberal Christian Church wants to bring forth: Being out from under.

Hypocritically, the poor are not allowed to be, or to remain, sovereign against the interests of greedy outsiders. Greed is sanctioned over fairness. The laissez-faire capitalists define as unfair anything that checks their greed. Their definition of unfair is evil. It is decidedly anti-Isaiah. It is decidedly antichrist. There is no such thing as a capitalist Christian.

This drive to produce laborers and consumers is under the guise of it being ultimately better for the poor to stand on their own feet, even though no conservative, no person, truly stands alone, as every true Christian knows. Also, no laborer-consumer stands on his own. He stands beholden to, and captive of, capitalism. The idea of standing on one's own is simply a figment of the conservative's imagination.

The poor used to be ignored under the guise of nation-state sovereignty and the so-called right of national self-determination and all other such excuses of that fading era. Now, the poor are seen as potential laborers and consumers, so capitalism and the falsely termed American democracy will be forced upon all the nations of the world in a reversal of the previous excuses (sovereignty and self-determination) all the while there will still be no true beneficence or bounty.

America, with Britain in tow, is causing turmoil to divide others to weaken them leading up to conquering them through American belligerence (wars of aggression) and economic bribery (making others prostitute themselves on the altar of greed), coercion, power, and control. This is all to create and own markets and control resources.

Debt slavery

Creating markets to dominate is the priority of the mammon (money) worshipers. Even controlling resources is for the sake of driving the polluting engine of growing commerce. Creating laborers and consumers is a ruse by the rich to not have to aid the poor in the right way (sustainable bountiful way) but rather keep more and more for themselves and their close family members and associates. This has all been happening while the poor have been crying out that, among other things, they have been under a landslide of debt to the rich.

That debt is a legacy of the sovereignty and self-determination era that followed the imperial and colonial era. Now the sovereignty and self-determination will be traded in for a new brand of imperialism and colonialism. This will be done with a sweetener of debt relief. The old debt will be traded in for a new brand of debt.

The rich have promoted all the methods for going into debt to the rich while chastising those who became overextended, often through no fault of their own, and even addicted in a free fall of borrowing. The poor speak the truth. The rich remain deaf for the sake of the rich. The rich offer bankruptcy, but that is a sword to fall on, branding the debtor with a poor reputation. It is a vicious, unfeeling system.

Consider the debtor nations that are poverty stricken and owe the riches countries in the world. They were told for decades to yet further tighten their belts and that that would be good for them. Many of the lender-nations claim to be Judeo-Christian nations, yet they do not practice no-strings-attached forgiveness of debts after seven years as advocated in the Old Testament. They also have charged usury contrary to even Old Testament teachings. It has been extortion, due to the poor having been driven to further borrowings and allowing greater encroachment by selfish-profit-driven investors. Where is the loud outcry of those who call themselves Christian and conservative for forgiveness of all debt and the removal of all interest rates with no limiting conditions attached (such as opening labor and consumer markets to the unbridled capitalist greedy insatiably to rape the land and sea)? How long before they charge admission just to breathe clean air.

How can they ignore the tens of thousands who die daily from want and sheer neglect and abandonment by the rich? Most of those dying are the aftermath of the earlier version of colonialism and imperialism. The blood is on their hands. The dead and dying are at their doorsteps.

Only when circumstances are so horrific that the rich are forced, for appearances sake, not to routinely ignore the plight of the poor in the world do they do much of anything (out of sight, out of mind). The help stops flowing once the news reporting has died down for selfish reasons and contrived lack of attention span. The corporations own the media and their selfish interest is not in promoting true liberalism. Then those with excess are relieved that the aid stops flowing before they shared what they see as too much.

Previous aid has been with so many onerous strings attached that the poor actually fear such aid. They struggle mightily to ward off such aid. Much of what has been held out as good for them has been forced upon them even at gun point by imperial powers and puppet dictators. The conservatives and false liberals say let us help you so that we may bleed you. The poor seek to throw off that heavy yoke. They may only trust real liberals. Where are the real liberals?

The old liberal movement co-opted then turned to greater evil

The flavor went out of the liberal movement that was in the direction of real liberalism, the salt of the earth. The movement was too slow to turn to take advantage of the exposed evils of the Vietnam War and Watergate scandal, etcetera. Nixon was allowed to co-opt the antiwar movement with his lie that he had a secret plan to end the war. Nixon was also allowed to co-opt the environmental movement and managed to keep it from going far enough. Then, the call to unity was allowed to be co-opted by the twisters, the leaders of the Reaganites. Reagan led the way to disunity with his call to unify under the banner of unbridling greed and via his appeal to the closet racism of the former Dixiecrat slavers. Bush-41 worked to further lower the guard of the movement with his lies about kinder and gentler. Expressions such as "compassionate conservatism" weakened minds.

The movement was then damaged from within by poor leadership from the Democratic Leadership Council (DLC) that sought the expedient for selfish gain rather than devising and standing by truly liberal, principled devices as counseled by Isaiah and Jesus.

The movement moved to the top those who preached that the movement too must co-opt. It must co-opt the center. However, the Reaganites were calling for unity around greed. The neolibs, therefore, called for co-opting greed. That shifted the entire center of the spectrum toward greater greed. You see the results, the fruit, that is the huge and growing wealth disparity around the globe and the secret military and paramilitary undertakings by the Pentagon that promise multiple flare ups all over.

The movement was not watchful while the dark sowers took over the field and sowed the seeds of selfishness. Those seeds took root and are being harvested as the vileness and churlishness of which Isaiah wrote. It was the seed of weeds that were allowed to be mixed in with the good wheat. Now there is a field of tares and wheat together. Wiping out the field to be rid of the tares would mean harming the good wheat as well. The field is the field of false liberalism and real liberalism. The only thing that can be done is to discern the truth and reject the vile and churlish ideas that are as weeds. No human is authorized by God to kill vile or churlish humans.

The misnamed neoliberals in the United States and the self-styled New Labour in the United Kingdom moved toward conservatism or churlishness after conservatism had gained favor during the backlash against, and reticence of, the more liberal movements of the 1960's and 70's.

Protection from neoliberal economics

Neoliberalism, under the guise of so-called free trade, calls for weak or weakening workers protections and environmental protections and for competition of huge corporations against tiny local concerns. However, what is really needed is cooperation. This so-called free trade is really an international license for unfair trade advantages for super wealthy corporations over poorer entities of locals. Those super wealthy corporations were raised up on an extremely uneven playing field that continues to increase its slant in favor of those wealthy corporations. Those poorer entities are comprised of people more often interested in the welfare of the people at their level and all levels. They may need help and assistance in attaining worker protections and environmental protections, but unlike the conservatives hiding behind neoliberalism, they are not conniving against such protections on a global scale.

This is not to say that the path to such protections lies through coldhearted legislation and enforcement. It lies in softheartedness that moves all people to be looking out for the real best interests of all people. These principles may, of course, be expressed in writing; however, it is the coercive aspect that runs counter to the softhearted spirit that will bring in the protections by having the law of unselfishness written on everyone’s heart. Coerciveness, you will understand, engenders mean spiritedness. Cooperation and fairness absent threats engender kindness and gentleness.

The movements of the 1960’s and 70’s

Contrary to the churlish movement that continues in full force today, the 1960’s and 70’s saw the civil-rights (antiracism) movement, the equal rights for women movement, the environmental movement, the peace movement, the disarmament movement, the open-government movement (anti-secrets), and many auxiliary movements. Those were a continuation of the spirit that brought forth the United Nations that looked to create peaceful means to settle disputes rather than the traditional evil way of war.

Unfortunately, the UN and many international institutions that were created also had the churlish and vile going about sowing the seeds of selfishness. Hence there is a growing menace in the world that is economic colonialism and imperialism operating under the guise of global corporatism and global privatization of every last thing people need to live right down to the air to breathe if the churlish get their way, if they are followed by enough willing goats.
Even though the domino theory was completely discredited by history, meaning that neighboring country after country did not become totalitarian Marxist Communist when the US pulled out of Vietnam, and even though the Soviet Union was interested still in socialism in one country rather than a worldwide violent Marxist-Communist revolution, the US military-industrial complex could not stand the loss in war profits. They could not stand peace. The conservatives worked against all the liberal-leaning causes. They were against the consumer-protection movement, the Nuclear-Freeze Movement, disarmament, civil rights, equal rights, women's rights, international human rights, environmental protection, peace, real love, giving and sharing (all forms of welfare), and the like. They co-opted what they couldn't stop. Then, they turned their fortunes toward creating reactionary causes to drive society back to a more selfish spirit, which is where we have found American society in the first decade of the 21st century.

They had co-opted some aspects of those movements to keep the leaders of those movements from being able to put through to the people the most meaningful reforms. One example is the Environmental Protection Agency started under conservative president Richard M. Nixon. A current example of a negative co-opting is with president George W. Bush's trying to put into high positions as many conservative ethnics as possible, which does not fix the problem but rather makes things worse.

The conservatives have always stood against every single liberal device. That is what they are by definition: Anti-real liberal. If it is a really liberal thing, as Isaiah and Jesus would stand by it, the conservatives will be dead set against it. They have obscured the way to heaven since the beginning. They are blocking the view right now. They have their backs to heaven, and they are pointing and leading everyone in the wrong direction. We are fools if we go where they want us to go. We will fall in the spiritual ditch with them. They are standing there telling the whole world that the world is not allowed by the conservatives to cooperate and share everything. They, the conservatives, who have taken the inheritance of all and bottled it up for just themselves, will not allow people to cooperate and own all things together. What right have they? Which spirit prevails?

Righteousness is all powerful

Well, the truth be told, they cannot stop cooperation and giving and sharing if the people really have their hearts fully in God. Sometimes the conservatives manage to stop things for awhile. When the people really take steps in mass for the sake of what is right that is fair, the conservatives are forced to back down. The reason for this is because the people en masse can shut down everything the conservatives cherish: All their selfishly oriented money-making schemes. That's how India finally stopped the exploitation and domination by the British colonial Empire. But rather than striking and leaving the churlish in charge, the real liberals, abiding in God and with God abiding within, will harmlessly change the world, save the world. That is what this work is about, as will be revealed to you.

With this knowledge, the idea is to not make a gain for real liberalism and then go home to rest and forget. That's falsehood. The idea is to make constant gains never stopping and never forgetting again so as never to be led astray by the conservatives or the villainous again. The idea is to not stop until all who are going to overcome have overcome.

The enemy sowed vileness in the movement

In addition to complacency that set in and the co-opting by the conservatives, the reason the more liberal-leaning movement lost energy was because those movements had within them some seeds of vileness that is the lust of the flesh primarily. Many people who favored the macrocosmic false-liberal agenda lacked an awareness of the dangers of indulging appetites or lusts. Within the youth movement in general that encompassed solidarity with the other main liberal movements, drug use and addiction became rampant. Unbridled drug use led to depression, anxiety, panic attacks (bummers or bad trips), personality disturbances, sexual promiscuity (free love or free sex), and even vegetative states. It was scary for many. They felt that they had to distance themselves as far as possible or lose their minds and even souls. Many of those who did not follow that lead died of drug overdoses, sexually transmitted or needle-transmitted diseases, or the violence that followed the lust of money that ended up surrounding drug trafficking even of just marijuana.

Selfishness was so greatly magnified that the door opened wide for violence and turfism. When people started hitting bottom due to selfishness, most overreacted in their desire to escape the downward spiral. In turning away from the lack of self-control concerning more promiscuous sex and drug addictions, they failed to hold onto the seeds of softheartedness that had brought forth so much of the macrocosmic real liberalism. Rather then holding onto that softheartedness and allowing it to permeate their own personal and family lives, they rejected everything liberal and adopted yuppieism and all of its self-centeredness. They burned the field leaving it for the churlish to reseed.

The message of faith though is that radical transformation can cause the soul to house without internal division the new commandment in action fulltime, always. The field can be transformed. The seed and soil and everything that goes in can be transformed. The hardheartedness, the spirit of doing harm, the spirit of selfishness, can be completely displaced by softheartedness, which is the uncoerced state in heaven.

The yuppies bought the seed of the conservatives and sowed their hearts full of selfish desires that were of the lust of the eye. They traded one form of evil for another that is even worse. Yet, they still did not rid themselves of the lust of the flesh. They traded the violence that was invading the drug culture for the greater violence that is war by proxy or surrogate that is the US military-industrial complex and its puppet regimes throughout the world. Then they wonder what has gone wrong now that their homeland has been attacked. Rather than turn to the solution getting at the root cause, they wish to increase the cause of the problem.

It is time to put the flavor back into the movement of real liberalism that is really Christianity. It is time to turn from the voices that work to dilute the Holy Spirit of truth. We must be enthusiastic. We must encourage one another.

The call to falsehood by New Labour

Clause IV of the Labour Party in the UK was rewritten by the current prime minister, Tony Blair, who has turned that party decidedly churlish and with dangerous autocratic leanings. Tony Blair is nearly out Bushing George W. Bush with his, Mr. Blair's, UK version of the USA Patriot Act.

Under the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act of 2005, the Blair government have made it illegal to express oneself politically within one kilometer of Parliament Square in London without first having obtained written permission from the commissioner of the Metropolitan Police. Under the Terrorism Act of 2000, the Blair government have made it legal for the police to stop anyone, anytime, and to search them. These are random searches with no standard of reasonable suspicion that a crime has been committed or is about to be committed. It is a completely arbitrary, authoritarian power granted to the state's police. Under the Protection from Harassment Act of 1997, the Blair government have created a right of entities to be free of constructive, repeat criticism. The Blair government have removed in certain circumstances, the right to a trial by jury. Protections against being tried twice for the same offense (double jeopardy) have been lifted. Napoleonic law has been introduced, where the person is guilty until he or she proves his or her innocence. It is a presumption of guilt rather than a presumption of innocence.

The Blair government are trying to legislate, via assumed executive power, that everyone must be milk toast. Blair would have imprisoned Jesus under an ASBO (Anti-Social Behavior Order). In fact, that's what the Pharisees did to Jesus. They defined what was acceptable social behavior and undertook a murder conspiracy to have Jesus killed by the state in order to shut him up.

It is often merely an officer's word against the alleged offender. The officer is always assumed to be truthful. How does an alleged offender prove the officer's bad faith when there were no witnesses? The potential for the state to harass the citizen under the power of ASBO's is very real.

The government has stretched their reach under the new laws to grab and restrain people in ways designed to eliminate constructive criticism by citizens concerning the state. The state under these circumstances is far from a servant of the people. It is much more akin to an omnipresent parent who wishes to set a tone where all the supposed naughty children will be compliant while the parent goes about his hypocritical business.

Hearsay is now acceptable evidence. I heard it said that so-and-so did this-or-that. It isn't firsthand knowledge. It's gossip. Is one faced by one's accusers?

The right of homosexuals to be free from anything in society that might offend his or her sense of self-worth (self-esteem) has been created and given the force of mundane law over the sacred obligation to warn the world that sodomy is unhealthy on all levels.

Blair doesn't respect the unselfish heart that cannot condone the harm done by homosexual behavior, which itself is truly anti-social. Blair doesn't respect the unselfish heart that holds the real spiritual welfare of the little lambs as inviolable. He doesn't listen. He doesn't hear. He doesn't comprehend. He's condoning his own selfishness. He is not leading the sheep and lambs to be fed the real food, the word of God, the truth. He has turned his back upon egalitarianism in favor of libertarian capitalism under the most highly regulated, deluded, and soon to be overwhelmingly coercive, oppressive true-thought control. He is not preaching or emulating the new commandment. He claims to be a Christian, but he is not. He is far from the kingdom of God. He is using the worldly state to force people to accept the unacceptable rather than appealing to the them to write the divine law on their hearts, thereby eliminating all real offense coming from them and also, thereby, requiring each to warn of the coming tribulation if society continues down its current wide path to hell.
This is the fundamental difference between Jesus's approach and the opposite approach. Jesus's approach has never been widely used. According to Jesus, it won't be until after the great tribulation yet to come.

The worldly states have all failed. They are stuck with an unaddressed paradox of their own making. That false paradox concerns a coercive state versus a servant state.

It is right and just and merciful and compassionate to be thoughtful, considerate, and the like. It is right that people not stress each other. It is inherent within the real meaning of these words that consistency dictates that no one fail to understand that the freedom to choose to be stressful is the freedom to choose to become enslaved under every increasing iniquity. It dictates that one see the light of cause and effect going back to the root evil that is caving into unhealthy lust, known by rotten fruits no matter how stealthy, no matter how well the wolf wraps himself in sheep's clothing. Blair's direction is stealthy to many. It is not stealthy to God. Nor is it stealthy, therefore, to the real Christian.

Tony Blair's mind is not heaven sent nor heaven bound. He is trying to create the all-seeing human eye that will be the conscience of humanity. The very attempt holds within it the seeds of its own destruction. It will be run by those with unclean spirits within that will not be driven out by the increasing pressure of the all-seeing human eye. Total information awareness by human beings who do not live, eat, breathe, and sleep the new commandment is opening up power to the untrustworthy and confused. It will fail in utter tribulation.
To be clear, the problem lies not in thoughtfulness. It lies in shortsightedness that ill-defines truth. It lies in half-truths. Blair is attempting to introduce the coercive power of the state at further unworkable levels. He is getting the state involved in forcing peace at the most microcosmic level, concerning the minutia of interpersonal relationships. This runs contrary to the real solution. The definition of real peace remains to be established in the hearts and minds and souls of the people, hence the Gospel and this work.
Just as in the US, the UK has moved vastly away from legislative oversight to executive authority. Just as in the US, the administrators are stealthily covering over for unbridled greed of those who wish to control markets and to sell weapons and to destabilize all opposition to such iniquitous, truly anti-social behavior. It is wrong. The State Secrets Act is just a cover for wrong-doing. It is just a means to keep the public and their elected representatives from being able to address the wrong direction in which the worldly Empire is headed, as always.
Britain is the most surveilled society in the world. The US is just a few steps behind in some areas and a few steps ahead in others. The Brits are doing it more openly. The US is using high technology to keep the details of its spying on dissenters more secret, although the details will continue to leak, thank God, literally. In London and elsewhere, as has been mentioned elsewhere in this work, government cameras are ubiquitous. They are tracking every movement in real time. Supercomputers are making the nanosecond decisions. Behavior patterns are being self-learned by what is called artificial intelligence.

The British people have accepted these developments with much less criticism than has been occurring in the US. That's why the US government becomes so upset by leaks. The Blair government aren't even trying to hide the types of things the Bush-43 administration desperately doesn't want the American public to know the Bush administration and particularly the Pentagon are doing.\(^4\)\(^5\) The British media often are out in the lead in criticizing and exposing the movement to fascism; however, the British people don't move on it. The US mainstream media are much more self-censored, because the American people are more likely to rise up against the movement to fascism once they feel they can get a grip on the government through voting, etc. There's a Wild West streak, an anarchist streak, that still runs in America. If the government here started putting cameras everywhere, if those cameras started being used to clamp down on dissent, they'd be destroyed by enraged citizens. Blair tries openly to http://www.vanityfair.com/commentary/content/articles/060619roco03

http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-4839556520925774502&sourceid=docidfeed&hl=en-GB.
(last accessed: Tuesday, November 28, 2006).
convince the people that they must submit to total control. Bush tries, when cornered, to convince the people that such revelations (methods and sources) aid enemies who want to control the people. Blair doesn't mind the enemy knowing that he wants to "harry, hassle and hound them until they give up or leave the country." Bush doesn't want it over that way. He wants more time and cover concerning what his ilk are up to concerning their domestic political opposition. He wants to destroy any chance for the real liberalism of Jesus Christ from coming too soon, before he and his kind have had a longest run possible being the opposite of the servant to the people but rather their masters served by them.

Under the guise of protecting the people, under the guise of giving them safety and security,
The call to falsehood by the neocons

In the US, probable cause and due process have been going down in fashion for decades but especially since September of 2001.

Administrative subpoena powers are being pushed. This is all heading toward fascism. Judges had been being pushed aside through the use of "National Security Letters" that are FBI, judgeless subpoenas that require no substantiation. They also gag recipients from divulging receipt of such letters/subpoenas. That gag is insidious. The public never hears the horror stories except from people brave enough to face the wrath of the FBI and US Justice Department for violating that gag rule. The government will say that such gags are to prevent suspected terrorists from being tipped off about being investigated. However, the power is so pervasive that the government can go on a fishing expedition without any judicial oversight and against anyone just by writing a letter that claims it's for national security. With the gag in place, no one need ever find out. The right hand never need know what the left hand is up to. The people never find out how invasive the government might be behaving. It is the ultimate power provision short of declaring martial law. In fact, much of what the government has been trying to put into place is de facto martial law without having to clear that hurdle all at once and in the open.

Now, the mundane laws of a nation reflect the hearts of the general population. In the final analysis, people get what they deserve in the aggregate. At the same time, there are severe injustices. This is no dichotomy or paradox. Reconcile them.

We are judged individually. We are judged together. We are judged as to how we interrelate. Individual souls will be judged and each nation will be judged as a whole.

The USA Patriot Act and its insidious provisions, ostensibly designed to thwart the insidious efforts of others labeled terrorists, reflects the condition of the hearts of this generation. The USA Patriot Act is hardhearted. It is designed by hardhearted people. Hardhearted people use powers in corrupt ways. We have seen that while the people slept, there has been much systemic barbarism including secret and non-secret prisons (CIA black sites, etcetera) and the torture and even murder of the innocent. These are the US version of the British concentration camps of the Boer War and the Russian gulags and Nazi extermination and forced-labor concentration camps. How far off are the US and Israel in beginning the use of nuclear, chemical, and biological weapons for wholesale extermination?

The Bush-43 administration issues National Security Letters (NSL’s) to any entity it wants requesting any data it wants concerning anyone it wants, with or without probable cause, and gags the recipient from ever divulging receipt of such letters even if the identity of the target of the search and seizure is revealed by the government. The executive branch of government does not go through the courts to issue these letters. These are letters issued by the FBI on its own say-so. They have issued tens of thousands of these since the 2001 USA Patriot Act. Understand here that targets do not have to be suspected of anything let alone terrorism.

We already know that the US has been doing dragnet surveillance of international and purely domestic communications.

Do you really believe, what with the long history of abuses of power in the US, that those in government won’t, and haven't already, used such NSL’s and surveillance powers for their own personal and private financial gain and to consolidate power to themselves? Have you really considered the potential for abuse now that so much of this worldly existence is recorded and traceable via computer, etcetera? What would J. Edgar Hoover have done with today’s computer power?

Under Hoover, nonviolent political groups with absolutely no ties to any foreign government were spied on, infiltrated, attacked, disrupted, frustrated, fractured, and turned on each other through lies and distortion spread by the FBI and others within organizations and in the public. The freedom to speak and the freedom to associate without government harassment were severely abused. The powers of the current FBI make Hoover's powers pale by comparison. Now they are merged with the entire international spy racket. Right now, there is a damper on people who are deliberately being made to feel afraid to voice their dissent against the immoral objectives and activities of the government and system. It won't last.

Absolutely no one is immune to fulltime, high-tech government spying. There is no protection against unreasonable search and seizure. They sneak and peek without ever letting anyone know. They sneak into your home or office or car or those of people with records concerning you or your associates. They do that bodily and via computer networks. They look at and copy records. They install bugs and tracking devices. They have the power to keep any so-called private security from protecting you. They force your alarm company to ignore their break-ins. They force your ISP (Internet Service Provider) to ignore their hacking. They have deals with Internet virus software firms that they aren't telling about. It is all supposed to be in the name of national security, but it is in the name of greed and fascism. The companies involved are intimidated into cooperating. They are threatened and not allowed to disclose the threats.

At the same time, there are deliberate leaks for the sake of intimidation. They want people knowing. They want to catch people, but they also want people oppressed. They can't control all the leaks, but that's factored in to some degree. They want people off balance. They want them guessing. They don't care that the people know they lie. They want to be feared. They don't want the people to know the truth. They don't want the people to know when the leaks are deliberate versus when they are genuine. They want them to give up. They want them to resign themselves. They want conformity. They want the other classes to stay enslaved in ignorance and under deception. They push everything just as far as they think they can get away with it.
As of this writing, the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court (FISC) constitutes a near rubber stamp for warrants. It also gags recipients. There is no public record of the warrants, and warrants do not have to be shown to recipients until after the search has been made. These are hypocritical powers: "Un-American," to use that term within its original intent.

Of course, nothing done from within the system will render the old wineskin capable of holding new wine. I will explain that in more detail further on.

Modernity is fascistic. Belligerent nationalism has been replaced with belligerent corporate, capitalist empire.

Jesus was denied due process

Is not the lack of due process exactly what happened to Jesus? Did not the Jewish leadership simply dispense with witnesses for the defense? "What further need have we of witnesses? behold, now ye have heard his blasphemy." (Matthew 26:65). This the high priest, Joseph Caiaphas, a Sadducee, said even though all knew what Jesus had said openly concerning when they had tempted him before with the question of whether or not Jesus was the Son of God. They had claimed that they were waiting for the Messiah, but when he showed up, they murdered him under disingenuous charges.

The Sadducees though, the wealthy priestly class, were not messianic. They didn't believe in that prophecy. They didn't believe in the resurrection of the just.

John 10:23-24 explains that when Jesus was walking in the temple in Solomon's porch, Jews approached him openly and wanted Jesus to tell them plainly whether or not he was the Messiah.

Jesus answered them, Is it not written in your law, I said, Ye are gods? If he called them gods, unto whom the word of God came, and the scripture cannot be broken; Say ye of him, whom the Father hath sanctified, and sent into the world, Thou blasphemest; because I said, I am the Son of God? (John 10:34-36).

The people, including the high priest, Joseph Caiaphas, and all the Sanhedrin members, knew what Jesus had been saying. He had been preaching openly. The spies reported back in detail. Those at the top, including Joseph Caiaphas, wanted the details so they could gauge what they were up against and decide, devise, and carry out what they and Caiaphas thought would be in their own most selfish interest.

Therefore, when Caiaphas later asked Jesus whether or not Jesus was the Son of God and Jesus acknowledged that he is, Caiaphas said they didn't need any further witnesses against Jesus since Jesus's claiming to be the Messiah, as prophesied in the scripture, and the Son of God according to Caiaphas's misleading pronouncements constituted blasphemy,⁶ which it isn't, as Jesus proved to the Jews at the Solomon's Porch in the Temple (John 10:34-36; the immediate quote above).

Now, Jesus could have defended and justified himself. He didn't though so we could see what injustice is. Caiaphas and the others at the so-called trial or hearing of Jesus before the Sanhedrin largely packed with religious leaders who were refusing to own up to their own hypocrisy shown to them by Jesus through the very scriptures of which those leaders claimed to have such a command and could grasp and teach better than anyone else.

---

⁶ Matthew 26:63-65; See: Bibliography.
ancestors and themselves (even confessing in secret to God) renders them incapable of bringing forth the real bounty of God. All they bring forth is falsehood: Mammon and its devouring spirit—not really adding but rather just stealing.

"Yet the LORD hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day." (Deuteronomy 29:4).

They tarnish the name of Israel. They bring dishonor to their nation. They forsake the covenant with God. They will bring a curse and plagues upon the land.

They refuse to understand that the covenant has been made with all those who upon hearing it will keep it, meaning bring forth, yield. It is with those who will not be self-deluded into thinking they will have peace even though they are unjust. It is with those who will do the word. They shall possess the land and not worship false gods such as mammon.

Neither with you only do I make this covenant and this oath; But with him that standeth here with us this day before the LORD our God, and also with him that is not here with us this day.

(Deuteronomy 29:14-15).

Lest there should be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, whose heart turneth away this day from the LORD our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations; lest there should be among you a root that beareth gall and wormwood; And it come to pass, when he heareth the words of this curse, that he bless himself in his heart, saying, I shall have peace, though I walk in the imagination of mine heart. (Deuteronomy 29:18-19).

Therefore say I unto you, The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof. (Matthew 21:43).

The word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it. (Deuteronomy 30:14).

If thine heart turn away, so that thou wilt not hear, but shalt be drawn away, and worship other gods, and serve them; I denounce unto you this day, that ye shall surely perish, and that ye shall not prolong your days upon the land. (Deuteronomy 30:17-18).

Oh how Jesus knew the scripture better manyfold over all the Pharisees, Sadducees, and scribes combined!

And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation. (Acts 17:26).
Babylon hath been a golden cup in the LORD's hand, that made all the earth drunken: the nations have drunken of her wine; therefore the nations are mad. (Jeremiah 51:7).

And the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee; and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard no more at all in thee: for thy merchants were the great men of the earth; for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived. (Revelation 18:23).

Jesus should never have been put on trial for anything. He had rightly cleansed the Temple of the selfish profiteers\(^7\) and taught the people the real love, peace, and truth as opposed to the lies taught by the Pharisees and others who set themselves up as epitomizing Zion (heavenly peace on earth) before the people. They are only bringing war of all nations against Israel and Judah. After which, Zion, Jerusalem, shall be an open city, a city of truth and peace, where all the nations of the earth will be free to come to commune with God in unity and love and where the real remnant of Abraham and Jacob in Jerusalem shall truly be a blessing upon the earth and never a curse again.

\(^7\) Mark 11:17; See: Bibliography.
For this to become true, the following must occur:

These are the things that ye shall do; Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour; execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates: And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbour; and love no false oath: for all these are things that I hate, saith the LORD. (Zechariah 8:16-17).

Square that with Machiavelli, your hero, if you think you can.

What Jesus had been saying spread as common knowledge. It was the talk of the town and the nation, since he went all about preaching the good news that the spirit lives beyond the grave and that we can change because the righteous spirit is all powerful over all flesh and matter. Jesus became exceedingly famous for all his doings and sayings. That is why so many people were there when he rode into Jerusalem on the young white donkey. The high priest was disingenuous in his examination of Jesus. Before the examination ever began, Joseph Cataphas had already decided that Jesus must be put to death. It is much the way the US led up to the invasion of Iraq. It was a foregone conclusion. All the lead-up was selling the idea. None was for finding the real truth or the real solution. As with the high priest, it was for a false sense of plausible deniability: Fake, phony, a kangaroo court, no real justice.
What is the spirit of the law of due process? It is, among other things, to uncover people bearing false witness if there be any? Rather than teaching, educating, the people about the rightness of unselfishness and also exemplifying that to the world, the neoliberals created the seedbed for the now neoconservatives who do not have to work at all to drag the New Labour along. Even older forms of conservatism in the US and the UK have to work to restrain the drive to fascism, which is forgoing due process. The neocons and New Labourites are making even reactionaries of a generation ago look more and more like leftist radicals. What is the reaction of the neoliberals to the new power of the neoconservatives? It is to call for being even more neoconservative. The drive to churlishness is still on with a fever pitch. We had better throw pails of ice water on them to cool them down and wake them up before their hotheaded imaginations and lusts ignite World War III.

These neo's are all doing what they are doing for the sake of personal profits. For the neoconservatives, it is all for the sake of world conquest.

This whole neo movement toward churlishness and the backlash reaction of the now less-closeted vile has come about, because the people have been insufficiently exposed to the meaning of the fulfilling spirit of the first and great commandment and the second like it by the shepherds in the failed churches.

The first great commandment was given above. The second commandment is like it. "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." (Mark 12:31).
The salty flavor of which Jesus spoke was ignored. No one showed the people how to be encouraged and enthusiastic about doing the righteous things that are the real liberal things fitting Isaiah's prophetic words restoring the word "liberal" to its rightful meaning by ridding it of the notion that liberals defend vileness and villainy.

Oxymoronic compassionate conservatism

Of course, real liberalism has no place at the table for churlishness in sheep's clothing that is the notion of compassionate conservatism. There just is no such thing. It is an oxymoron just as with conservative Christian. Today's conservatism, that has nothing to do with conserving the earth, means without compassion. Whenever anyone is truly compassionate that person is having a real-liberal moment. It is liberalism coming forth. The same holds for anyone conserving the earth. The real liberal conserves the earth and even saves it. Jesus was the real liberal of real liberals.

The mass of people have never been taught clearly and plainly (not in parables or analogies), because they were not ready to hear the direct truth about the simple difference between everything that is correct that will work perfectly and is unselfish and everything that is wrong that will never work and is selfish. Are they ready? Are you ready? Rather than tell the truth about this, the leadership around the world has simply caved into temptation and joined ranks in capitalism that is the heart and soul of the religion of mammon worship—the devil's favorite form of being worshipped. Money was invented because of that churlish spirit after all. It was an easy vehicle for the temptation of people to amass the inheritance of others.

All the neo's (neoliberals, neoconservatives, neo (new) Labour) are selling their souls. They too need turn around before it is too late.

But ye have set at nought all my counsel, and would none of my reproof: I also will laugh at your calamity; I will mock when your fear cometh; When your fear cometh as desolation, and your destruction cometh as a whirlwind; when distress and anguish cometh upon you. Then shall they call upon me, but I will not answer; they shall seek me early, but they shall not find me. (Proverbs 1:25-28).

The political theory called the Third Way in Britain, New Way in Spain, New Center in Germany, and neoliberalism in the US varies somewhat from nation to nation and party to party but is the same old wide path leading to hell. The false liberals, sell-out social democrats, and once labor-oriented parties, in the drive to regain power, adopted deregulation (a free hand for un-democratic, multinational corporations), lower taxes (the rich get richer while the gap widens between rich and poor), reductions in welfare assistance (let the poor suffer even if they cannot obtain slave wages), free-market capitalism (the hoarders are free to steal and exploit those without), privatization (corporations taking over all things the rightful inheritance of all that were to be owned and operated democratically in common), and selective decentralization (a method to remove the big issues from the places where they receive the widest attention and scrutiny).

The myth of deregulation

The deregulators, the libertarian capitalists (neoliberal economists) are taking so much credit; however, what would the capitalist world be like without regulations? We see it in 2006-China, and so do the Chinese authorities who are scrambling to gain some control over the recent unbridled capitalism causing so much inequality and bringing out the greed and hardheartedness in so many.

What restrains so-called libertarian capitalists? What restrains them from denuding all of the forest on the globe, fishing the seas and lakes and hunting all the wild animals into extinction, strip-mining the planet, and dumping toxics anyplace and anytime? The answer is regulation. These are rules, laws, or controls on behavior. The people don't have the new commandment written on their hearts.

The libertarian capitalists qualify their position in order to handle the logical conclusion of that position by appealing to having a human coercive force to insure that others won't interfere with the so-called economic laws of libertarian capitalism. The so-called free market under the libertarians precludes freedom to cooperate rather than compete. If you cooperate, you may not trade wherever they control the market. You will compete or be cut off. You will open up to competition so that you will be completely privatized by huge transnational monopolies or you will be forced to suffer being cut off.

Where does the hypocrisy start and end? They'll never be able to answer that question. There isn't an answer.

Libertarian capitalism is anarcho-capitalism. It means unrestrained capitalism or auto-regulated or without rules. This is the true meaning of a free-enterprise system under capitalism. It really means a license to steal and a government the only function of which is to protect the thieves and to set interest rates, if that. Coming from an extensively regulated mixed economy (socialism mixed with capitalism) toward fewer rules and turning over to private ownership the collectively owned organizations certainly revs up production and consumption for a time; however, there is a huge price to pay for it. Going all the way to anarcho-capitalism results in where capitalism came from which was the worst of the Industrial Revolution in Britain and elsewhere and now China (with India, Brazil, and others on its heels). In order for those capitalists at the top to maintain the most amount of freedom to act for themselves, they insist upon, and obtain for a time, a police state to control the forces that historically have shown a willingness to rise up. The heinous despotism leads to either a somewhat gradual change or a sudden violent insurrection to overthrow the police state. With the greater pressures on the world mounting, gradualism will be more readily shouted down by the swelling ranks of the wrathful.
Here comes left-wing communism

Meanwhile, here comes left-wing communism as never before.

The Bolsheviks

The Bolsheviks (rightwing Communists) were dead wrong. Violence fails. Lenin called left-wing communism "an Infantile Disorder." Well, it was not wisdom to undertake a violent revolution and then seize parliamentary control from fellow democratic revolutionaries at the barrel of a gun, which Lenin did just after the elections for the Russian Constituent Assembly which had taken its seats. The Assembly was for the purpose of writing a new constitution for Russia. Out of seven hundred three seats, the Bolsheviks were entitled to about twenty-five percent while the social democrats were entitled to upwards of sixty-two percent. Lenin was unwilling to go along with the will of the people at large. Since the Bolsheviks clearly did not have the majority, he declared that the Constituent Assembly did not have the same legitimacy as the Soviets (local workers' councils). In other words, the middle-class voice would be coerced away from them. The workers and the military, largely controlled by the Bolsheviks, ended up ceding dictatorial power to the hierarchical top led by Lenin and followed by Stalin and his centralized bureaucracy, ironically the antithesis of the soviets and council communism.

Lenin barely got his own Bolsheviks to go along with this Kissingeresque action a la Chilean elections, concerning which Kissinger said, "I don't see why we need to stand by and watch a country go communist due to the irresponsibility of its people." Lenin didn't see why he needed to stand by and watch Russia go liberal democrat due to the ignorance of the people. He couldn't bring the people socialism or communism, because he didn't know what they are. You can't get there via violence.

After it met only one time, Lenin locked out the Assembly. Also, within the soviets, every time the Bolsheviks lost a majority, they just dissolved the particular soviet. Real grassroots democracy wasn't allowed. It was all seen as premature. World War I was raging with Russia torn between staying in the war and getting out. Lenin had little trust in the common people. He wanted an elite and small group of intellectuals to run things from the top to supposedly take the country into socialism. It didn't work very well at all, since socialism cannot succeed under such a structure. Socialism is cooperation. There is no cooperation in being dictated to from on high by those who don't trust the common people.

You see, the problem is with trying to takeover. The problem is with coercion and force. It is right that the people should share ownership, but this has to come from within as a free choice. Any attempt to force people is the slippery slope one way or the other. You will slide into despotism by the few whether they claim to be for the few or for all. They are always for the few and for themselves whether they know it or not.
Left communism will be transcended to a state of Christianity

Spreading the real Church is the only way. The council communists (libertarian communists) are not going to coerce. Nothing will be cut off or blocked in any spirit of competition. Cooperation only will be the spirit. This will not work without the spirit of Christianity: The golden rule as magnified by the new commandment. That will become understood as never before. Then the left communism will be transcended to a state of Christianity. Then the capitalists and capitalism will be displaced. Satan and all his spirit will be banished for the proverbial thousand years.

Capitalism is not violently overthrown by Christianity. It withers away in sudden tribulation just like the fig tree that wouldn't bring forth fruit for Jesus when he was hungry. The people as spiritual beings, souls, church members, in spiritual oneness, will bring to one another the basic necessities of life through God. The surplus will be used to spread this inclusive system. This is direct non-violent action. It is not asking the current state to do it. They can if they want to. They ought to.

However, we know the current state is the old wineskin.

Take away the top-down violence, forget about a spiritual void and atheism, give credit where credit is due, to Jesus who could do nothing alone (without God), and you're well on your way to living in heaven under the golden rule.

This is leveling. This is putting everyone in the same class. This is raising everyone up to the ruling class. It is returning all the land to the free people to hold in common as God intended. Here, the people decide who represents them and when. There are no terms of any office. A person is followed and leads, as the will of the people, through God, decides. This is the real consent of the governed who govern themselves under the new commandment. Therein lies the only legitimacy. There is no gain through forced taking. There is only gain through giving and accepting in peace, love, and justice that is the love of God. It is the way it used to be, completely non-violent and completely unselfish. It is the exact opposite of the Biblical beast. It is the exact opposite of the tyrant. It is the furthest thing from tyrannical possible.

The True Levellers

After I had come to these conclusions by reading The Bible, I discovered that another mind had re-arrived at the nearly identical, pure interpretations of the message of Jesus Christ and foreshadowed by the prophets. We find that Gerrard Winstanley and the group calling themselves the True Levellers had issued written declarations that were closer to the kingdom relative than was, or even is yet, the status quo from the time Jesus walked the earth in the flesh.

Nevertheless, their statement was loaded with errors, consistent with their misdirecting interpretations of scripture and misplaced emphases. The right approach is outlined toward the end of this work.
In 1649 England, the True Levellers, who became known as the Diggers, started raising crops on vacant land and on the commons (for public non-spoiling use). The Diggers put the land to use for the general welfare. The crops they raised were given away free of charge to the hungry—a noble cause. They did away with money transactions for food by raising it themselves. They also didn't pay rent to anyone or charge rent to anyone. They were not homesteading on public property, since they were giving away all their surplus food for free and were not looking to be given title, per se, to the land. They just didn't want to be slaves, and they wanted to help feed others.

This of course took the rich out of the process. Under such circumstances, the rich couldn't live parasitically off the controlled and owned labors of the Diggers. The True Levellers did offer to raise food for any rich person who by reason of infirmity couldn't labor but would donate to the cause.

The Diggers represented a threat to the selfish way of life that had been set up by those whose ancestors had taken the commons (all the land was once the commons) for themselves by the sword and set themselves up as the landlords with the right to tell others of the now so-called lower classes what they could do for a living and where they could live.

The rich don't own what they've stolen

You see, if the sword was right in the first place, then it is still right now. That would mean that anyone has the right by might to come and take what you have away by force and to kill you if you resist. It wouldn't matter how rich or poor you are either. Well, it wasn't right in the first place.

Who among the superrich are saying to others, if you want what I've amassed, come and take it if you can? Bush was scolded by many of the rich for saying, "Bring it on." They aren't saying that. They are very afraid of that. That would be a violent revolution overthrowing them. They don't want people even thinking about it.

They are saying that it isn't lawful or right or justified to just come and forcefully take things that they, the rich, claim as their property obtained on the shoulders of warlord thieves. Their public position is that it isn't right now, but it was right when their ancestors did it and set up the legal system to protect the plunder.

Their public position is that it isn't right now, but they do it to others all over the world, including in the US, under the system called capitalism.

They fear the word

They don't want these words spoken. Wherever and whenever these words are spoken or written and read or acted upon, they seek to destroy. Feelings become thoughts, become words, become deeds, become the manifestation of the root spirit. The spirit is then reality, tangible. They know this, but they don't want you to. They don't want people thinking about bringing forth the kingdom of God on earth.

They reward people to plant disinformation in the minds of the congregations and general public to get them to think that bringing forth is evil. It's why they murdered Jesus.

Focus on this. Think about it. Dwell on it until you grasp it. It is what Jesus came to tell you. It is what he gave his life to give to you. He was so right that God gave him back his life. Think about that. Then decide whom to trust Jesus or the rich capitalists who lie boldfaced, torture, murder, and rape the planet.

The possessions of the rich really aren't their property, not under the divine law. It is still the commons that they have commandeered, seized, misappropriated, etcetera. They, their ancestors if they inherited it, did this justifying their actions by the irrational excuse that they were and are better than those from whom they stole, and still steal, under this class society.

So you see, the name True Levellers means to level the class to one level, which of course is the message of Jesus compatible with the other truths he taught, such as that there are real shepherds or leaders or rulers. They are known by what they say and if they do it. The highest is the lowest. The greatest servant is the greatest king. The King of kings is the Servant of servants. He is the supreme conqueror in peace, the one.

This is not what the conservative Republicans are preaching or bringing forth, and you know it!

The whole of Jesus's thrust concerns what the guide does in creating what kind of order, the fruits of following in his direction. The order that results from the golden rule, as Jesus expressed it with his words and life's example, removes classes (the shepherd being ministered to by his sheep). You see, the ruler bringing the order of God, the real lawgiver coming out from God, explains that the law of God was never that one would be set up to control others so that he who lorded it over those others gained for his own sake and the rest were "fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table." (Luke 16:21). That was a system that was, and remains, unsustainable. That's why Moses predicted that the hardhearted tendencies of his followers would cause them to fail. There is a lack of faith going back to before recorded history. That's because there has always been a divide between those who are desirous of unselfishness versus those who are wicked that is selfish. The prophecy from the beginning is about the final separation of the willful from the willing and further still from the doers, the overcomers, who are all both shepherd and sheep.

Oh, the consequences of breaking the real law are the real law.

Those who don't love the divine law will never live in the highest heaven. There are two divergent approaches to being the lord of the manor. One is that the lord puts his people first. The other is that he puts himself first. The first approach is the only correct approach. It is the divine approach. If you hate it, how will you escape damnation?

The Diggers were treated by the landlords as squatters on the commons and beaten and driven off the land. Their crops and commune buildings were destroyed.
Well, Winstanley retreated into government and trade, either having never figured out the proper steps to take or having been sufficiently terrorized into fearing reprisals even if he were to turn to doing things in accordance with the mundane rules.

We don't subscribe to every characterization or scriptural interpretation or behavior of Winstanley and his fellow Diggers. Simply putting vacant and common land to the use of growing free food shouldn't be viewed as illegal however. It wouldn't be if others would be of the merciful and beneficent spirit of God. Most are not however, and additional strife will, therefore, result from such unilateral implementation of the land. It will leave the members of such a movement to justify themselves in the face of restrictive laws written on hard hearts.

Jesus's proper way is to give no such entangling excuse to the hardhearted. Jesus's way was not to resist those who have been granted their authority from above, even as Jesus taught the people how to deserve real, good shepherds.

Unlock the scripture

I had heard of the Diggers and Levellers when studying English history in school, but I never went into a detailed study of them and the school course did not offer up any continuity of message with the scriptures. History in the secular schools is severely lacking for that reason. They don't want the scripture getting into the minds of the children, because then vileness will be seen for what it is.
The so-called conservatives, on the other hand, want home-schooling or all privatized schools teaching the other side of the half-truth version of scripture that leaves aside their churlishness.
Teaching history does not have to become advocacy or establishment of religion. The truth is sufficient. The truth establishes itself. The school can simply report the events and background materials as far into a subject as a student’s interest carries him or her, as far as he or she is stimulated by the learning environment. Otherwise, school is dull.
The children will learn that the devil’s advocate loses on moral grounds. They will really learn this by not censoring Jesus. Both the secularists and the false Christians seek to censor Jesus.

The Levellers didn’t go far enough
The Levellers were a different group from the True Levellers. The Levellers though held many of the same feelings about leveling things; however, they were not peaceful and they weren’t for holding all things in common. They were closer to the kingdom than were the ruling class, but they were not nearly as close as the Diggers. The Levellers though believed in their democratically elected representative being subject to instant recall. They were also for religious tolerance, meaning they were against religious coercion. They were against tolls. They were for giving the land seized by William the Conqueror back to the common people to hold as their private property. William had led the Norman invasion of England in AD 1066. He confiscated the lands of free Englishmen and gave it to the second and third sons of Normans who fought for William because otherwise they would not have inherited since they were not firstborn sons.

The evil of primogeniture

This is one of the reasons that Jacob's sons' tribes were each given lands—to avoid the inherent injustice of primogeniture (by default, the oldest son automatically inheriting the entire estate). The birthright belongs to all. We are one blood.

Many of the Anglo-Saxons and other Englishmen wanted back the open and freely shared lands (the original, uncorrupted concept of the commons).

This was the year that the Commonwealth of England, an ostensible republican government, was declared after the English Civil War. We can't go through the entire history here, which would include all the theological rationalizations on all sides. Suffice it to say that this declaration came from violent usurpers who overthrew a monarchy that was itself founded upon the long tradition of violent takings. The so-called principles of the commonwealth only went so far toward a more egalitarian society. The Commonwealth was simply trading one form of despotism for another.
James I and Charles I versus the Calvinists

This whole thing was very much a religious war over questions that came out of the process known as the Protestant Reformation. The king, Charles I, the son of James I, king of Great Britain, the bisexual king with decidedly absolutist leanings who authorized the Biblical translation that has come to be known as the King James Version AV (authorized version). James I leaned toward Roman Catholic hierarchical structure for the church seeing that as more conducive to supporting the divine right of kings. Charles I followed in his father’s footsteps leaning toward the hierarchical church. Charles married a Roman Catholic for instance, which was an affront to the Calvinists in England and Scotland. He, as his fathers before him, subscribed to Anglican high church, which leans toward the pomp and circumstance of the Roman Catholic liturgy versus the commoner’s approach embodied in for instance Puritanism.

He wanted to be set apart and higher than his subjects not because of his good works toward them but because it exercised his ego vicariously through church-state worldly and temporal power. He identified himself with the prince of this world (prince of darkness) of whom Jesus spoke in the Gospels. He wanted to be worshipped. He wanted devotion to him, obedience to his decrees as with papal infallibility. He subscribed to apostolic succession or the episcopacy (rule by bishops) versus the grassroots concept that the shepherd is chosen by the flock hearing, knowing, acknowledging, and following the truth of his words. He employed the Star Chamber court that tortured confessions out of the innocent. It was a reign of terror. It was a police state. Then it was replaced by a military dictatorship of his religious enemies the Calvinist Puritans.

The mistakes of the church of Rome
Many Calvinists were themselves extremely militant and dictatorial. It was in reaction to the earlier mistakes of the church of Rome, which had strayed far from the narrow way. In reaction to the Lutherans and Calvinists and others (called the Reformation), the Romans undertook a counter-reformation. That counter-reformation included the inquisition with burning dissenters (those who didn't accept church dogma) at the stake and a consolidation of power in highly strict and violent policies and procedures. This was trading one tyranny for another, as usual.

The Protestants had identified real abuses in the church of Rome; however, the prescriptions and proscriptions of the vast majority of Protestants in the aggregate completely missed the mark. The Romans acknowledged that they had been making serious mistakes; however, their internal prescriptions and proscriptions in the aggregate also widely missed the mark.

The ones who came the closest to the kingdom of heaven were the most peaceful (peace churches) and least selfish (communist churches), naturally.

Both the Protestant Reformation and the Roman Catholic Reformation were backlashes to the libertinism of the Renaissance. To counter that libertinism, rather than using truth and example, both sides used coercion—a great error. They took up arms against each other and internally. It really came down to the degree to which the leader would be forced upon the people. It was unchristian!

Jesus did not force himself upon anyone
The point missed is that Jesus did not force himself upon anyone. Caesars, popes, kings (whatever the label) used violence and threats of violence and other coercive means to force a following. It doesn't work that way in heaven. One cannot take heaven by force. One cannot create heaven by force. The temptation to use force is an evil temptation. Force destroys the state of heaven. There is no peace in violence. It is a temporary illusion and engenders more violence. It causes its own latent tendencies. It is self-perpetuating. The only path to heaven is overcoming the temptation to destroy men's lives and overcoming the temptations to do the other selfish and shortsighted things.

Evangelical, congregational, small-c communism
The point is missed that evangelical, congregational, small-c communism with a common treasury both locally and centrally employed to grow the church and spread the word as directed by a council of congregants is the structure that has been deliberately suppressed by the powers that be down through the ages. Under the new commandment though, it will lead to the following: Bringing forth worthy fruits, replacing faith in mammon with faith in God's way, and gradually eliminating mammon replacing it with things and ministrations as needed by all from all. It will remove the imposition of leaders being forced upon congregants or the community. The way to do this will be explained in detail further on in this work. The flock chooses it shepherd based upon the truth of the shepherds words, exemplary life, and ministerial capabilities as the congregants sense them and trust them. It is the real democracy that is, at the same time, the movement of the Holy Spirit of truth. The bottom is raised up. Humanity is leveled. This is in sync with the Alpha and Omega—Jesus's teaching of, among other things, being first by being last. The greatest servant is the greatest leader. God is glorified in that. The church is glorified in that. Nothing is lost in that. It is only real gain. There are no losers in it. When the word travels from the roots up and from the leaves back down, the word spreads throughout in greater uniformity, agreement, and harmony. All are leveled to being both root and leaf and everything else that is of the whole living entity. In this way, life becomes healthy. For many people considered the most radical at the time in England (those thinking they wanted to make root correction), issues were left unresolved by John Calvin specifically and also Martin Luther. Calvin and Luther were the main theological leaders of the Protestant Reformation against then prevailing errors in Roman Catholicism. There were real errors as we have seen. There still are. However, Luther and Calvin were not themselves on the narrow way nor were they leading the people to the strait gate.

The Diggers were trying to ferret out the truth and to live it. They had decidedly Calvinist leanings and subscribed to British Israelism, but they were also part of the peace-church movement (pacifists) and small-c communists. They were closer to the kingdom than Calvin and Luther, but Calvinism was still getting in the way in many ways.

Calvinism is a form of leaven or yeast from outside and within that is hypocrisy ruining any further movement closer to the kingdom. This, hypocrisy, is what is wrong with the world.

British Israelism

British Israelism stems from many ideas too numerous to cover in detail here. Basically though, the idea is that some of the ten Hebrew tribes in Samaria (Israel), who fled in 721 BC from the advancing armies of the Assyrians or were deported by the Assyrians after that invasion, ended up in Britain and Germany/Scandinavia as various tribes such as the Saxons and Scots, etcetera. I've discussed this elsewhere in this work (See: Index).

This is a bloodline concept. You will see that bloodline in the absence of spiritline is another half-truth. It is retarding and harmful.

Some have suggested that the Jews conjured up the link in order to convince Oliver Cromwell (the Calvinist Puritan who overthrew king Charles) to allow Jews who had been forced to convert to Christianity in Portugal into England after some three hundred fifty years of Jewish exile. This is simplified. The history is infinitely complex.

The idea that the whole of the tribes of Northern Europe came from the ten tribes of Israel won't pan out. Northern Europe was not empty of people at the time of the Assyrian invasion and destruction of Israel.

Did Israelites escape? Unless the prophecy of Jacob is wrong, at least some did. Did the disciples of Jesus travel to find the lost of Israel to other than where the Babylonian diaspora still were? Yes. Did any of those tribes travel en masse to Northern Europe? We shall see. What does it matter in terms of the birthright of the whole of humanity?

The old law is hardhearted, reactionary, upside down

How do we understand the law unless we understand its unfolding? How do we understand it unless we understand its relative state, our relative enlightenment, versus the absolute goal: God?

But I have said unto you, Ye shall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to possess it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: I am the LORD your God, which have separated you from other people. (Leviticus 20:24).

And ye shall take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them for a possession; they shall be your bondmen for ever: but over your brethren the children of Israel, ye shall not rule one over another with rigour. (Leviticus 25:46).

This is the result of falling to the temptation of hardheartedness and hypocrisy. It is covetousness and racism. It is rationalized away by the greater iniquity of those already possessing the land. It is hypocritical to have come out of slavery in Egypt only to imagine yourselves rightful slave owners. No such slavers could ever treat his brothers correctly. It is a doomed mentality that facilitates the continued fall.

It must, of course, be viewed in light of the relative place in the unfolding revelation. There is the vantage point, the advantage, of coming after the words of Jesus were given. We are supposed to be going up, not down.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. (John 14:12).

Here is what Leviticus 25:46 says in part and when understood within a fuller context of the law of Moses. Where there is idolatry, where strict law and order including religious ritual and ceremonial observance and devotion of your religion are lacking, wherever there is iniquity, go into that land. Slaughter the inhabitants down to the last person if necessary until they are completely brought to heel or eliminated. Take all the land and divide it up in direct proportion with the population of your families at that time. Take all the buildings and possessions in some cases. In other cases, level the buildings and leave all the possessions of those you've exterminated. Force all survivors to be your slaves forever. Don't neglect them or abuse them, but maintain strict discipline. Make sure that everyone, including visitors, obeys every law and worships according to the law. The only people on the land who are not to be treated as slaves are the direct male descendents of your paternal grandfather going back to one particular generation. If you break the law enough and don't repent, everything will be taken away from you. Your families will be killed, lost, scattered, and enslaved for a time determined. In some cases, you will be under rulers worse than you were. In other cases, you will be ruled better than you were ruling. After the determined time, you will be allowed again to try to get it right. Each time you get it wrong, it will be worse for you. Also, your punishers will themselves be punished.

It must be understood that the inhabitants at the time of the land known as the Promised Land were exceedingly perverted relative to the standards Moses had given to his fellow descendents of Jacob. It really was right that the people had to be and remain separate from such perversion. Such perversion had been a curse. Those who practice it were cursed and are cursed. Those who partake of such perversions join the Hamites, the Canaanites, and the Sodomites. It really was right that such perversion should be purged. The question is how? It really was right that such perversion left un-purged would continue to present a temptation to the people. The question was and is how best to overcome it? The choice is taking lives or saving souls.

What is the right way to go about it? Also, what is the right thing to do with the incorrigible or seemingly incorrigible? What affect will the choices of actions have upon those undertaking the actions they think will cleans the temple, which is the whole of the land and all the people?

The way of the inhabitants of Canaan really was false, ruinous, and brutal, etcetera. They were doing unimaginably wicked things. Moses had been a prince in the house of Pharaoh. He had also been across the Sinai Peninsula before. He knew, on several levels, of the depravity of those then inhabiting the land of Canaan. He had been highly educated in Egypt about righteousness, since even the Egyptian pantheon and mythology contained the dichotomy of lightheartedness versus heavy-hearted corruption. He had learned the stories about Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and the tribes of Jacob including the story of Joseph and how the Israelites had come to be enslaved by the house of Pharaoh. Moses was an extremely emotional and sensitive man. He hated the evil he saw all about. He wanted with all his being to overcome it all and to see his family members who had had righteous instruction before to overcome it all. He knew though that they would fail repeatedly going into the future. That's why he gave his sermons and songs and put them in writing and told the people never to lose them. They were a testimony against those who would hear the words yet fail to do what was right. He knew he was imperfect. He knew he was a part of the unfolding prophecy. What were the people ready for?

Jesus came and taught about hypocrisy to show the way passed everything that was causing the failures predicted by Moses. Jesus too knew that most of the people would continue to fail repeatedly. He also knew by firsthand experience, as did Moses, that God is living spirit. In addition to enlightening the receptive about hypocrisy, he also gave the good news that for those who practice the opposite of hypocrisy, there is salvation from that evil hypocrisy. This light has no end. This is how it is understood.

Prophesy against them

It simply means tell the truth.

Now we have the descendents of Jacob who have reoccupied part of Canaan and who are repeating the same mistakes as before, not only failing to apply the wisdom spoken to them by Jesus concerning avoiding treating others hypocritically, but not even being able to live up to the standard of the law set earlier by Moses. Do they really imagine that they aren't going to suffer defeat?

It is prophesied here that they will. Mark my words. No one but God our Father Almighty in heaven knows exactly when, but it will happen. The more they deviate from Jesus, the sooner it will happen. They are beating the Palestinians as they the Israelites were beaten. They are not a light on the land. They are astray.

If not for the sake of those among them who have softer hearts and are latent real Christians ripe for the harvest by the full implications of the new commandment, the tribulation would be great already.

Don't be tricked into worshipping Satan for God.

Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. (Matthew 4:8-10).

He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son. (Revelation 21:7).

Moses heard many righteous things. Moses stood for many righteous things. His conscience was the law for the people then, because none of them could bring forth better. Unlike Jesus, Moses wasn't always able to distinguish between the voice of God and evil. Jesus turned up the light infinitely brighter without faulting Moses and rightly so.

Capitalism does not, and cannot, bring forth the kingdom of heaven on earth

What does all this have to do with libertarian capitalism? Nothing within the system of capitalism can create heaven. Heaven is not the state of competition to get one’s own. Heaven is the state of cooperation to get everyone everyone’s. All of the recent changes in capitalism worldwide have fixed nothing. They have, in fact, helped magnify and speed hell on earth. They have encouraged the growth of death. They have not developed the infinite good. The conservative capitalist economists Ludwig von Mises, Friedrich von Hayek, and Milton Friedman and the political leaders Margaret Thatcher and Ronald Reagan were all wrong.

We know Reagan adopted a hybrid economy mixing in supply-side economics and the Laffer Curve, which really boiled down to tax cuts for the rich that were supposed to cause investment that would stimulate production of things people would buy. The whole economy was supposed to grow so tax revenues would be made up. Well, we ended up with massive debt just as we have today under George W. Bush and his tax cuts for the wealthy.

We know that such tax cuts are a ploy to reduce social spending that the rich see as a

---

"The Bush-43 administration’s latest budget-slashing demands include cuts in 141 domestic programs, including a $36 billion cut in Medicare spending for the elderly over the next five years. Bush has also proposed drastic cuts to Medicaid and Head Start, the elimination of $1 billion in child-care funds over five years, and termination of the Commodity Supplemental Food Program, which provides redistribution of wealth, which it rightly is. We know that deficits are a way to use tax dollars to pay interest to the wealthy. We know it is a way to get foreign entities invested in the US economy so that they will be more inclined to go along with US Empire policies and actions.

The Laffer Curve hasn't produced the increased revenue to pay for the social programs. They knew it wouldn't before they put it through again under Bush-43. It means tax cuts for the wealthy have not resulted in growth in the economy such that the government has taken in enough taxes to help the poor. It means that even though the pie grows, the piece the government gets relative to that pie has gone down too much to pay for entitlement programs. Now the rich scream for cuts in those programs. They don't want to share the wealth. They want more for themselves and to keep the poor very poor and to increase the number of the poor. Despoiling makes people work for less so the rich can keep more for themselves. Wake up! It is the long-term hope of the laissez-faire capitalists that all entitlements will be defined away. They don't want anyone thinking that he or she is entitled to anything unless it comes from his or her family's private estate. It is redistribution back to the wealthiest. The rest of the people must be told how to avoid it via real Christianity. They must be shown how Calvinism is a huge lie, a great evil.

The cuts just leave more wealth in the hands of the rich who rarely invest it in ways to bring food assistance to low-income seniors, needy pregnant women and children."
forth real bounty. They just bring forth the devouring spirit manifest in their corporations of greed.

With interest rates and inflation remaining relatively historically low and with systemic unemployment having been wrongfully accepted by the American people, Bush feels he can continue the tax cuts for the wealthy indefinitely and with impunity. If the US treasury weren't borrowing so much from overseas and wasn't actually borrowing against itself by buying back its own treasuries, interest rates would go down even further. However, businesses and individuals were so used to higher rates that they aren't asking for even lower rates. With wages being kept low through systemic unemployment and the failure to raise the minimum wage and through offshore slave wages, inflation has likewise been kept relatively low. This system can't last indefinitely.

Libertarian monetary policy

It is a maze, but in general, monetary policy is something like the following:

Higher wages are translated into higher prices. The government raises interest rates making the cost of producing higher. More income goes to paying interest on debts and new loans become less affordable or even cost-prohibitive. Producers react by slowing production and laying off workers. Consumers also react by reducing spending, since they are paying more in consumer debt to cover higher consumer interest rates or have been laid off. Prices come down, because inventories must be moved (sold) despite the artificially forced lower demand. The economy slows. The producers who are left (because they were richer to start with and could afford to operate at a loss longer if necessary, dipping into capital reserves, etc.) grab more market share. They start producing again at cut prices based on lower labor costs. They were able to extract wage and benefit concessions from laborers. They attract consumers back into spending. They hire more people at lower relative wages than before. They hire younger people who haven't earned longer vacations, don't have as many healthcare issues, and haven't been used to the higher economic standard of living. They don't have to pay into the lifetime pensions that the earlier workers were to enjoy. They break the unions. They keep the wages low even as they raise prices again, since they have a larger market share and less effective competition. The top executives pay themselves proportionately more money on the backs of the shrinking lower- and middle-income classes.

Consolidation occurs. Monopolization increases. The rich get richer. The leadership, the numbers of decision makers relative to the population as a whole, shrinks. Power increases in fewer and fewer hands, making it easier for the superrich to control the decisions and direction of society. The non-rich go down in the wealthiest nations and supposedly up in the industrializing nations.

If the economy slows too much, the government reduces interest rates. A supposed balance is constantly sought in advance, since the government (central bank; the Federal Reserve Bank in the US) must anticipate where the economy is heading.
The unemployed fight for jobs at lower wages. The world doesn't have to be that way, and it won't work out anyway.
The problems facing the world require voluntary cooperative and collective measures. The rich must stop having more than the rest of the people. The minimum wage could go up if the top wages would come down proportionately. Greed at the top is killing the poor below. It's that simple.
The US Congress continues to give itself raises and continues to cut taxes for the multibillionaires while it refuses to raise the minimum wage, which in buying power is at its lowest point in some fifty years. Do they want a violent revolution?

Real incentive
The incentive is all wrong. The incentive under capitalism is selfish. The incentive in heaven, the real incentive, the incentive that brings deliverance, is unselfish. It's that simple.
It all comes down to selfishness versus unselfishness and which is best. The selfish people measure success and victory, etcetera, by a standard that is shortsighted and built upon half-truths. They postpone dealing with the troubles caused by selfishness in the first place.
The unselfish would have been able to show the selfish long ago that the unselfish way will do everything that the selfish way constantly botches, only the selfish haven't stopped regulating, limiting, and otherwise interfering with and blocking unselfish developments. The selfish won't admit that leaving the half-dead individuals and nations by the side of the road is proof of botching.

Part of the unselfish definition of success is Good Samaritanism so complete that there are no people left by the wayside. The unselfish will not be satisfied until they overcome for righteousness' sake.

Hypocritical regulation

Dogs in the manger

The Austrian and Chicago schools of economic thought says leave us alone (the libertarian capitalists) to be selfish individual actors. Well, leave the collectivists alone to be unselfish collective actors. Quit trying to regulate the collectivist efforts of people. If you want to think of everything as a speculative investment, that's your error. You can't eat at the trough, from the manger. Well, get out of the way. Quit being the barking dog keeping the oxen from eating in the manger.

We aren't saying that social democracy or the social-welfare state or market socialism is right either. None is good enough. The commanding heights of the economy will never be governed correctly until all the people have the Gospel, which hangs on the new commandment, written on their hearts and it is the central focus of everyone's unselfish thoughts (spiritually written on foreheads—frontal lobes). Then power will be in the hands of all and decided justly always with the least in mind first and foremost. All rise then. That is incentivizing. That is motivating. That’s something and someone to work for vastly more inspiring than getting for self like an untrained pig.

What has been shown to work better than getting for self? FaSinPat in Argentina, Semco SA in Brazil, the Hutterites in Canada and the US, the experiments in China with democracy in the workplace and employee ownership, the kibbutzim in Israel, and the worker-state cooperatives in Venezuela have all shown to work better. I’ll have more to say on those throughout the work. They have all been better for society at-large, the environment, health, safety, and security of the right kind. We will cover these developments in greater detail further on in this work.

These examples have worked in hostile environments. Consider what would happen if they were not surrounded by hostility but rather encouragement and help. Consider further if they were to embrace the full-Gospel revelation where everything is freely given and shared for the pure sake of righteousness. Every last vestige of selfishness would be displaced. The only thing that could stop it would be violent, greedy, lustful intentions from the outside. However, with enough faith in the rightness of the cause, the movement would persevere through tribulation and spread worldwide, which it will. It is foreordained by God.

The welfare of the poor and oppressed and neglected is a central tenet of Jesus's teaching.
There is a right way to handle it in patience. The way of this current world is headed away from that. It is opening wider the gates of hell.

The stolen inheritance to be passed on to the few, even tax-free

Conservative word games

The top conservatives work hard to come up with what they think are clever tricks to conjure up in people's minds that which those conservatives want that is greater acceptance and tolerance of their insatiable greed. A prime example is when they start calling something by a different name. They began calling the "inheritance tax" the "death tax." Now, all taxes, per se, are inherently evil. All should be cooperation and all is the inheritance of all. However, no one is taxed by human beings upon that person's death. That person's personally accumulated wealth never should have existed in the first place. Now, the inheritance tax was the coercive means of the false liberals who sought to put back into the general weal some of the ill-gotten gain of the rich. Understand also that the estate tax (inheritance tax) only affects estates of more than four million dollars and that the strongest advocates for a repeal are some extremely wealthy people such as the Walton family of retail giant Wal-Mart fame and their flatterers.

Make no mistake. All that is acquired by the rich is ill-gotten. It is inherently evil to hoard for the reasons the rich accumulate. The distinction is that the people all together may stock or store for the sake of all as Joseph's actions in Egypt foreshadow.

The rich hire people to be word wizards to cast spells on people to conjure up ways to eliminate the movement of ill-gotten gain back to where it may be used for the sake of the general weal. They concoct ways, devise evil devices, to have that gain pass exclusively to those who did nothing to deserve it save be born into a house of ill-gotten gain: A rather onerous distinction until those of that house turn and give and share all for the sake of the poor and righteous. The rich lie that they create wealth and abundance by their accumulating when what they really bring forth is pollution from their hearts.

More conservative word games

Another example is with the conservatives calling "global warming" "climate change." They have begun to use this term exclusively to break the continuity of thought that the globe is warming up precipitously as a direct result of the greed of the conservative rich who are refusing to let go of their means for ill-gotten gain. They are selfishly dragging their feet and refusing to stop perpetuating the system that is causing global warming. Well, the greed of the conservative rich is causing the global climate to change and to warm up precipitously.

You may be taking exception to the term ill-gotten. If so, you are relying upon a diluted understanding of ill-gotten. Ill-gotten is to have obtained at the direct expense of others in greater need. There is no personal, private accumulation that does not ultimately arrive at this point. This is the great evil of the world. It is the capitalist way. It is the conservative-Republican way.

It was, and is, also the way of the Communists (note the large-c) who industrialize and highly urbanize and even turn to privately capitalize, bringing the world nothing but greater pollution of heart, mind, body, and soul, and ultimately sapping the strength of the people.

Private property

The term "private" above must be untangled from the exclusive concept that something is either private or governmental in the worldly sense. There is what is private versus that which is governmental in the worldly sense of the term "governmental." At the same time, it is completely public in the governmental sense of heaven. There are people who accumulate outside the worldly government not for their own personal gain but for the sake of the poor. That accumulation is known to them to be public property here on earth and in heaven for heavenly use. What the conservatives don't understand is that their accumulation doesn't belong to them. It too is public property in heaven for heavenly use. Heaven can't be forced, so that property is not forced from them by Jesus or his followers. They will lose that property though, and it will end up in the hands of the righteous.
Capitalism is a fallen condition, a lower state

It is the heavenly public property that we propose continually to bring to earth until the worldly government is completely displaced by the heavenly government, which will happen. Compare that with the motive of those who worked to eliminate paying taxes for the general weal on the accumulated wealth they have fraudulently inherited.

Again, you may not like the use of the term "fraudulent" here. Understand that it is a lie that everything God created is not a gift to all equally, as ability and need require. It is deception (fraud) to insist that human beings may rightfully pass on to some for their exclusive use that which has been given by God for the benefit of all his creatures and offspring.

What kind of heart wants such gain and the ability to waste so much in the face of the abysmal deprivation and suffering of others that could be put right by giving and sharing?

There is nothing free about the misnomered free-market economy. It is simply an open field day for those who wish to run over the top of everyone else as in king of the mammon mountain. It is futile. It is greedy, and no amount of garnish with lofty and fake words will mask its gaudiness and ugliness. It is lust of the eye, lust of the flesh, and pride in this life. Those are sins that kill the soul. They are sins that prevent the birth in the Holy Spirit.

The neo's are about development with the developers making and retaining the lion's share to the direct detriment of the wider general population. It is a grave error. It seeks to balance the un-balanceable.

Their economic theorists are teachers in falsehood. They teach the need for systemic poverty. They even see to its existence. They keep it in place as a cushion for the wealthy. Full employment is seen as inflationary and would drive up costs for the wealthy. They would have to share more. For the wealthy, it is better to have a certain percentage of people unemployed and competing for subsistence wages so that the rich will not have to pay much in relative wages. It is perverse. There is no compassion or mercy in it. It is ungodly and will not stand. There is no such thing as a healthy level of economic competition or people in want. Pitting people against each other in an economic pit fight is barbaric. We do not tolerate it with dogs, why do we have our whole world economy based upon it?

The word of the Holy Spirit is coming out against capitalism

Capitalist strings attached to debt relief

Remember that capitalism is about competition and private, special advantage and privilege. It is not about giving and sharing for the pure sake of righteousness. It is not about sacred stewardship that is sacred environmentalism. Even when plans are put forward to relax or forgive the debt of poor nations, such as that put forth by Gordon Brown, the British chancellor of the exchequer, the call is a cover for development of capitalistic societies, which is the catch or what is euphemistically called the limiting condition. The condition is that there must be agreement in advance by those originally disadvantaged by the very spirit that now insists upon the precondition of so-called economic reform. The strings are always attached in the furtherance of expanding dominance and control under mammon. Here we have the poor with food and other subsistence requirements being forced under economic duress into agreeing to sell their souls over to the very system that put them in the bind in the first place. The poor nations must agree to the privatization of their natural resources and to falsely termed open markets that will allow the ultra wealthy of other nations to profit off the poor. It is immoral economic duress, because if the poor do not agree, they are left in dire straits that are the aftermath of previous military colonialism and imperialism. It is a disgusting proposition that offends the sensibilities of any true Christian.

The poorer nations are really catching on to this dirty trick of the capitalists.

As Paul Wolfowitz, the new president of the World Bank, said June 10, 2005, regarding helping the poorest nations with debt relief, "The taxpayers in developed countries want to have some confidence that the money will be used well, that there's a deal for a deal." Listen to that: "A deal for a deal." It is exactly what I was just saying above about the strings attached for the sake of the rich. For "the money will be used well," conservatives would have to maintain the upper, private advantage over the markets in the poverty stricken nations. There will have to be private, international investment only: No nationalized sectors of the economies in any of the poor nations. It's the same old ravening wolf in new sheep's clothing.

No earthly borders when real heaven comes

We aren't saying that nationalization, per se, is right. It isn't. The people who have come to possess a land really need to share all as the inheritance of all with all for all, especially those with the least. There are no borders in the highest heaven.

None of this is to say that canceling the debts is wrong. It is right. However, there is recompense expected that makes it less than Christian. It is less than completely worthy. There should be no strings attached whatsoever. Help should go directly to the people. It is also being done in a way that says look at how generous we are.

There is political haymaking here. It is a political maneuver to deflect criticisms concerning stealing economic control of Iraq's oil among other numerous iniquities. Of course the riches nations imagine they can afford fifty-five billion US dollars in debt forgiveness, though the US does it begrudgingly. The US just took control of trillions of dollars in Iraqi oil after all. It also has its sights on Iran's and Venezuela's … fossil fuels as well. Even with that, the US is still bringing up the rear in debt forgiveness.

Why are the British out front on it and not the wealthier Americans? It is all the unrighteousness of mammon. Nevertheless, Gordon Brown's effort in this debt-relief plan is the lesser of the evils being offered up by the leaders of the world's richest nations. It still isn't pure righteousness.
It is far from doing alms in secret that God will reward openly. It is coerced giving, in as much as there are many taxpayers who do not want to forgive any debts. However, their money came from caesar, so caesar can use it as unrighteously as he wants, to his utter downfall.

Private, special advantage and privilege, antithetical to Christianity

In the European Union, they are apparently referring to this privatization and falsely termed free- and open-market system as liberalization. It is a neoliberal movement in Europe and the United Kingdom as opposed to a combination neoliberal and neoconservative movement in America. This is a push for private, special advantage and privilege. It is antithetical to Christianity whether neoliberal or neoconservative or any other ideology.

No one ought to have a special or private advantage or privilege set up by human beings.

All things of righteousness extend to each person as he or she has need. Anything else is unrighteous. All people are to be approached equally according to need. No one is to have special or private rights granted by human beings on account of any person's birth order or birth into any particular flesh-and-blood family. The inheritance is to be shared by all according to real need. Any way but this leads to disharmony and disunity. Basing things according to real needs creates not just a more perfect union but ultimately leads to perfect unity.

In addition, the neoliberal economic system in its drive for competitiveness weakens the overall real quality of life for those who work to produce the goods and services. It invariably leads to a widening in the gap between the haves and the have-nots: The rich and poor. The rabid capitalists are forever striving to increase the hours of work and to subject workers to blanket employment-at-will policies, meaning that people's livelihoods may be yanked out from under them without cause other than the wealthy owners (capitalists) see it as in their, the owners', best, short-term, selfish interest. This is done with little to no consideration for the future situation of those who suddenly will likely find themselves without financial wherewithal to meet their obligations. All this is while people are encouraged under that same system to take on more and more financial obligations. It is telling people that it is good to walk the tight rope higher and higher without a net even while others are continually falling through no fault of their own other than having trusted in the voices of falsehood.

The neoliberals are no liberals at all. They are those who have slid conservative, churlish tenets into what was otherwise headed toward that perfect union. As mentioned earlier, a prime example is the Democratic Leadership Council. Rather than convincing the people to become real liberals, the Democratic Leadership Council convinced the Democratic Party to turn toward greater selfishness. The DLC is still at it. They did that in order to obtain more votes of those who at the time considered themselves moderates or centrists. As a result, the entire political spectrum took a huge swing toward the conservative and, therefore, further away from real Christianity. The more the people listen to them, the further the fascists will pull the whole world into capitalist totalitarian dictatorship.

As for the Republicans being the only ones to engage in empire building, that is completely wrong. An important point of this work though is to dissuade people from joining the ranks of the false Christian reconstructionist/Dominionist and their agenda to be explained in greater detail further on. In doing so, it has been necessary to focus upon the conservative Republicans, because the reconstructionists/dominionists have sought to takeover that party via dirty tricks. They chose the Republican Party, because the Republicans more closely resembled them on domestic social issues and not because the Democrats were particularly more beneficent internationally.

The fact is that the Democrats have been every bit as much confused by the true nature of mammon and capitalism as have the Republicans. Since Communism was directly associated with totalitarian resistance of capitalism, the Democrats easily fell prey to the propaganda of the wealthy that small-c communism leads to serfdom, which is a complete falsehood no matter how one slices it. Also, because the Democrats were seen as softies or bleeding hearts on domestic issues relative to the hardhearted, cutthroat capitalism of the libertarian-capitalist Republicans, the Democrats had to be they thought staunchly anti-Communist and anti-socialist (even as they where for public education and public libraries and freeways rather than toll roads, etc.). Before that, regardless of which party, candidates could not be seen as weak on "national defense," euphonious for stealthy yet belligerent expansionism for capitalism's sake, or they would lose the financial backing of the superrich upon whom they depended. Things haven't changed.

Evil privatization

Now the capitalists are trying to get the governments to sell off the public roads and bridges into private hands. Those corporations buying the public roads will charge tolls to everyone who wants to travel. Now even moving about the country will not be free. Only those with the money will be able to move about via the road system. The freeways will be replaced by toll ways. It's a stealth tax by the superrich. It's serfdom.

There will be unanticipated financial bottlenecks that the private sector is not designed to withstand. The companies will end up citing a litany of excuses for why they couldn't keep their contractual obligations. By then, the government will be locked in. They will not be up to taking back what they let out to privatization. They will have to try to rehire all the government experts they let go. Many will have moved on. It's a grave mistake.

Governments are saying they can't afford the roads, but the citizens are going to be paying much hire tolls. Why couldn't the superrich citizens just be generous enough to have freeways so all the people could remain freer? That's much better than a few getting richer by owning or leasing the infrastructure as their private profit center.

They are raising money via revenue bonds. All that does is borrow money from the rich who will have to be paid back at usury above the rate of inflation. It is redistribution of wealth to the wealthy. It's a scheme, because it won't bring forth.

We are telling you, they are going to privatize your body. They are going to tell you that your body isn't yours. They have eminent domain over it. They'll give the outsourced military the right to draft you. You aren't free when they privatize everything for their private profit. You aren't free when you have to pay for a drink of clean water or pay for a breath of fresh air or pay a toll to walk down the sidewalk or pay a toll to travel the highways. You'll have to pay them if your heart is going to be allowed to beat. There won't be public schools. There won't be public parks. There won't be public libraries. If your house catches on fire, you'll have to pay the privatized fire department to put it out. If you want to vote, you'll have to pay the poll fee. It won't be a tax, because it won't go to the government but to the corporation fixing the elections. The system they are leading the people into is no better than a government that taxes sunshine. It is wicked—very wicked.

This greed has gone on too long. It has to stop! When are the people going to rise up to create a new wineskin to contain the unselfish spirit?

This is yet another method in the redistribution of wealth to the wealthy. The disparity is increasing and heading toward exponential acceleration. The robber barons are in full swing, and they are so giddy about it all that they don't see the coming wrath and their destruction.

This is all the fault of the libertarian capitalists. The mainstream Democrats are afraid of the superrich, because historically, the superrich have bought off law enforcement to do their bidding against labor movements with often illegal and deadly consequences and mass deportations.

Right now though, things are looking more and more the way they did when major strides were made by other than the upper class and the upper-middle class that runs things for that upper class. The disparity is beginning to exceed the Robber Baron era and the time just before the Great Depression that ushered in the New Deal.

In the US, pension plans are failing people left and right. Corporations are deliberately going through bankruptcy reorganization in order to alleviate themselves of the expense of the pensions they promised to pay their retired employees. They are leaving millions of lifetime employees with their pensions wiped out.

People are being expected to invest in 401K plans putting their life savings into equities (corporate stocks) and to run their portfolio-decisions themselves. This system was not set up to benefit middle- or lower-income employees. It was deliberately set up to allow the wealthy to earn even more, tax deferred. The wealthy, of course, have been able to afford private, fulltime, commercial, investment advisors to run their portfolios. The investment brokerages and bankers also give the wealthy much more individualized attention and offer them the so-called sweet deals, because the brokers stand to make so much more in commissions by handling a hand full of hugely rich clients than handling thousands of poor and unsophisticated investors. Therefore, the middle class and lower class just keep being left farther and farther behind. It's a crime, a real sin. The poor workers and average retirees are being asked to have faith in a system that has already failed people miserably.

We are saying that people need to think about how best, how most unselfishly, to help each other in the coming years and decades. We are saying that the best way is to pool efforts so that everyone will have a roof, clothes, good bed, healthy food, clean water, etc. while helping to spread that kind of support around the whole world the way Jesus intends it, which is what it is going to take in the face of the coming disaster and afterward.

The superrich in general are constantly trying to throw society back to before the Great Crash of 1929, even as some of them publicly claim that the rich are being excessive. What do they do about it other than talk and set up their foundations that perpetuate the system? They twist words to get the classes below them to mindlessly echo the upper-class mantra of deregulation, tax cuts, and false fear (xenophobia, fear of foreigners). Every move the rich make is designed to get more for themselves and to hell with the poor. They don't care about those without. They like inequality. They hire thugs to fight for disparity. There is no liberty in it. There is only libertinism for the superrich who purchase it for themselves.

Right now, we have the spoils system all over again. The Bush-43 cronies get all the government contracts without competitive bidding. We have business consolidation that amount to bad business trusts all over again. There is no trustbuster in sight even though the Republicans were the trustbusters at one point during the Progressive Era. They increase their monopolistic strangle hold on the people. We see the constant reduction of taxes for the extremely rich. We see the social security of the people eroding. The income disparity and the increase in equity speculation are more than reminiscent of the Robber Baron Era and the economy just before the Great Depression. Where are the muckrakers? Where are the courageous investigative journalists and their brave editors and publishers who will campaign in the press for clean and good government that is not coercive but rather peaceful, sharing, and beneficent? Where are the real Christians? Come forward. Rise.

Military coup d'état in America

If things continue down this path, we will have the American Liberty League all over again, with their plot of a military coup to overthrow the Franklin Roosevelt administration.

This planned coup was documented by the McCormack-Dickstein Committee of 1934. The full report remains highly censored. The reactionaries deny it, but why then is the report still secret after all these years? We all know why. It is the same reason that George W. Bush has refused to allow Bush-41 administration archives to be opened to researchers and historians. They have things to hide not from the Russians or Chinese but from the American voters and taxpayers.

The McCormack-Dickstein Committee hearing documents show that J. P. Morgan, the Du Pont family of DuPont (the huge chemical company), the Remington family of Remington Arms Company, Prescott Bush (father and grandfather of Bush-41 and Bush-43 respectively), and many others, were all dead set against the New Deal progressivism of Franklin Roosevelt. Understand that Prescott Bush's father-in-law, George Herbert Walker, was the president of Union Banking Corporation in 1942 when its assets were seized in the US as Nazi assets. For a good overview see the article referenced in the following footnote.9

There are those who try to make light of this. They treat such things as either thoroughly damning or of no consequence at all. The truth

This article makes light of the fact that profits from the military buildup of Nazi Germany were unethical to say the least. Just because it was mundanely legal doesn't mean it was right. Just because many other American families besides the Bush family were doing the same thing also doesn't mean it was right. In fact, it was dead wrong.
is that the Bush family certainly had fascist leanings rather than progressive ones. That much is clear by their business dealings and involvement in coup plotting against the elected president of the US. The Bushes are still anti-progressive and fascist leaning. Who can doubt it?

William Dodd was the US ambassador to Germany in 1936. At that time, he wrote the following to then president Franklin Roosevelt:

A clique of U.S. industrialists is hell-bent to bring a fascist state to supplant our democratic government and is working closely with the fascist regime in Germany and Italy. I have had plenty of opportunity in my post in Berlin to witness how close some of our American ruling families are to the Nazi regime.... A prominent executive of one of the largest corporations, told me point blank that he would be ready to take definite action to bring fascism into America if President Roosevelt continued his progressive policies. Certain American industrialists had a great deal to do with bringing fascist regimes into being in both Germany and Italy. They extended aid to help Fascism occupy the seat of power, and they are helping to keep it there. Propagandists for fascist groups try to dismiss the fascist scare. We should be aware of the symptoms. When industrialists ignore laws designed for social and economic progress they will seek recourse to a fascist state when the institutions of our government compel them to comply with the provisions.10

The same Wall Street fascistic forces are at work planning to overthrow the next more egalitarian administration. That more egalitarian administration will have to win despite the rigging of elections by the Republicans.

There will be upheaval brought on by the antichrist, false-libertarian capitalists.

Democratic backlash and excuses

The acceleration and increase in greed that is being manifest in privatization and the displacement and neglect of those who were already suffering under cruel capitalists policies is going to create a huge backlash. The ranks of the poor and lower class are growing. People who were solidly middle class are finding themselves unable to retire and are seeing their life savings wiped out. Many of these people have children and grandchildren who are going to become more and more upset with the rich and superrich in America. They are going to organize and mobilize to vote in a majority that will charge the rich and especially the superrich with progressive taxes to match their disparity in wealth and incomes.

10 Steven D. "The Real Plot to Overthrow FDR's America." Daily Kos, February 27, 2005.

This may sound good on paper to many, however, there will be unrest and the measures will offer only temporary relief. The movement will be driven by wrath and vengeance. The movement will be about coercive leveling. It will be a false leveling. It will be a divided nation still. It will not have the right spirit to move the people in the right direction. Due to the central focus on anger at injustices, the necessary truly and completely unselfish system will not be set up. That will have to wait for the selfish to be burned out at their own hands.

Don't be a party to any of this on either side.

Without going back to the beginning of time, it is correct to say that all Democratic presidents poured forth rhetorically designed to give the party a higher calling that would attract idealistic followers while not losing all the other voters equally duped but by the conservative message of selfishness and false self-reliance. At the same time though the party leadership was privately busy behind closed doors practicing so-called real politics that idealistic and radical followers would not support were they to make the direct connection with hypocrisy and atrocities around the world conducted by that party leadership. From Jefferson to Clinton, Democratic presidents have practice this policy to one degree or another.

Don't be a party to any of it. Join in bringing forth the new wineskin.

In the twentieth century, Wilson, Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy, Johnson, Carter, and Clinton all rhapsodized ideistically but practiced dhardnosed power politics internationally.

National Security Act of 1947, among other things, set up the National Security Council (NSC) within the White House and also started the CIA. The NSC and the CIA took the US into every war since 1941 without a formal declaration of war. It's unconstitutional. So what good is the constitutions?

Had either Gore or Kerry not had their elections defrauded out from under them, the policy would have continued, especially under Kerry.

Many will excuse all the Democratic presidents by suggesting those presidents didn't have any choice. They will say that idealistic goals can only be achieved gradually and only while powers that seek brutal totalitarianism are fought and killed at all cost in the interim. This is the central question of humanity posed by the life of Jesus Christ.

Coming wrath

Jesus tells us that there is a choice. We know in our hearts that the narrow way does not lie in maintaining disparity but in eliminating it. We also know that Jesus is a pacifist who understands where wrath comes from and how and why to overcome it.

And shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them? I tell you that he will avenge them speedily. Nevertheless when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth? (Luke 18:7-8).

Wrath visited Jerusalem and leveled the temple.
Wrath has visited many nations and every empire since. Now wrath is eyeing the US.
For you, the most important words are, "shall he find faith on the earth?"

God hears and feels all. The effects are cumulative. There is a point at which there must be separation. Endless pain and suffering by those who want only to share unselfishly is not acceptable. There must be consequences for causing that pain and suffering. Shall he find faith on the earth? Are those who want only to share unselfishly being worthy enough; serving enough; sharing enough; giving enough; doing for others what they want God to do for them; saving the poor, the oppressed, and the planet;

standing up to the greedy, violent, and depraved?

Let's bring forth in peace so that violence won't be the eternal standard used to judge us. Let's do that for the sake of others.

Radicalism is truth

The Democratic Leadership Council (DLC) and neoliberal capitalism came up hand-in-hand.
Adherents to the principles of that ideology will never arrive at righteous perfection. Neoliberal capitalism stops very far short of the call of Jesus. The idea that there is an inherent meritocracy in capitalism that is founded upon the incentivizing power of selfishness is a satanic concept. It is a snare, a temptation, designed to devour and kill.

The founders of the DLC know this. They just believe (due to their selfishness and hardheartedness) that the message of Jesus is too radical for much of the mass of the people to grasp. This is the Platonic philosophy. They fear telling the truth and getting to the tough questions, as do the neocons. They fear backlash. They fear the evil selfish spirits that would turn on them. This is the fear Jesus was sent to expose. The fear itself is the evil selfish spirit.

The DLC continues asking the liberals to fear that radicalism will never sell. They know it will ruin their living and expose their sins. Remember, radicalism means getting at the root cause. It is a lie that radicalism won't sell. Don't buy the lie. Don't sell your soul. Don't let them withhold the Holy Spirit from you and others. Use the true meaning of radical.

The DLC and those like them are working so hard on patching the leaking wineskin. We hear them in the US Congress and elsewhere listing off their institutions, degrees, accreditations and positions, etcetera, as if such things don't actually disqualify them unless they have repented, as if it is some major positive accomplishment to have sold out to the devil.

We hear them sounding passionately concerned about the balance between safety and security from their perceived outside threats on the one hand and safety and security from the real corruption of power on the inside. Yet, their system engenders both threats and corruption, inside and out.

We hear them in the US Supreme Court debating whether or not the supposed basis of the law, the self-evident truth of the inalienable right of all human beings to equal justice, should be afforded to non-citizens both outside and inside the borders of the country. It is incredible, meaning their speech and actions and inactions do not promote confidence in their wisdom and hence leadership capabilities, since wisdom is the only thing capable of leading in the right direction.

We don't hear them advocating radicalism. They don't discuss, and then make, the revolutionary changes that must be made and that will fix the root cause of injustice, which engenders terrorism and promotes corruption.

The error of grace and faith alone

From a real Christian standpoint, this problem persists on account of the misreading of scripture (law). Misinterpretation is embodied in the precepts of "sola gratia" and "sola fide." Those mean "grace alone" and "faith alone." In other words, they mean, as has been outlined elsewhere in this work, that solely based upon God's grace and one's professed belief in God, one will be saved regardless of one's evil deeds right up to the end. This view is about to undergo the scrutiny it has always deserved but never received in the open forum or marketplace. It will be corrected. The truth is that grace and faith are inextricable from righteousness, and righteousness is known through righteous deeds (causes) resulting in righteous fruit (results). The righteous fruit is never a trajectory at the expense of the poor or the planet. It is never an unsustainable trajectory. There is no way for the greedy, violent, or depraved, capitalist or otherwise, to escape this absolute truth that necessarily comes directly from God.

This is not to say that one is not going to be saved by the grace of God, meaning is not going to be saved because of God's mercy despite human shortcomings. God saves the earnestly-becoming. Salvation and damnation are proportionate to what we deserve. We don't all deserve what befalls us in this life. This is, because human beings make of themselves Satan and lash out harming also the innocent.

Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves. (Matthew 23:15).

Jesus was a full human being, innocent of the charges leveled against him and murdered when he truly deserved to be raised up and followed for his words and deeds of wisdom.

Certain forms of Protestantism have resulted in the rationalization of lust for selfishness in all its forms. They take the focus off the Sermon on the Mount that calls us to have the single vision of holy lives. That single vision includes leaving none to starve or to be oppressed under ideologies or violent and coercive religions. The Sermon on the Mount doesn't say sit back and rest on grace and faith. That's the lip-service Isaiah and Jesus denounced.

This people draw near me with their mouth, and with their lips do honour me, but have removed their heart far from me. (Isaiah 29:13).

He answered and said unto them, Well hath Esaias prophesied of you hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. (Mark 7:6).

Action consistent with conviction, that's what Jesus is looking for.

Certain forms of Protestantism teach that entrance to heaven is conditional on faith in Jesus Christ alone and the grace of God.

"Alone" though is right only if faith is shown in fruits: God's showing.

It is the devil who says "just believe" in a way that gives comfort to those who proceed on amassing for self and next of kin as the mammon worshippers and the collectors of taxes, tolls, and tribute. The tempter says you can have all the wealth that fallen spirits have craved since their fall if you will worship the tempter at the expense of your brothers and sisters and God's unifying message. It is as saying "to hell with the Good Samaritan." It is as saying "don't worry about God's offspring." Exorcise those lies.

God hates the demonization of real idealism, radicalism, pacifism, giving and sharing, good stewardship of the whole house (the commons), and sexual purity. Jesus said clearly and plainly that we are to feed our brothers and sisters, even those who are possessed of wrong feelings, since, among all the other good reasons, the example will help those who can be moved and since we ourselves have stumbled many times.

The idea that the way to peace and prosperity and mental and physical health is through everyone agreeing to remain silent about the opposites of the ideal and getting to the root cause of the problem is flat wrong. It is evil to consent to, or to comply passively with, or to go without protest against the wide path to hell. We are being asked to worship the diversity in mediocrity. That is not what God asks of us. We are not to use violence, but we are not to remain silent in the face of warning signs while our brothers and sisters rush zombie-like (dead of the spirit) over the edge of the bottomless pit.

Warn the whole world clearly

Let it be

We are to warn and then let it be. Shake the dust from our feet and continue on. As profoundly sad as it is, the sorting will happen and rightly so. It is the way it has to be. You can't force people to God. It isn't possible. You can't take heaven by violence or coercion. It is entered only through love, peace, and truth, being one.

Jesus voiced the truth for our edification (to educate us), for which they murdered him, as he knew they had to, and still persecute our flock, given the condition of their hearts. His love, peace, and truth saved him and lead to salvation. Those who believe will do. Those who refuse to do don't believe. God's grace remains. He is merciful. His opposite is unmerciful. Just before his death, Moses left these words:

Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth. My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass: Because I will publish the name of the LORD: ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he. They have corrupted themselves, their spot is not the spot of his children: they are a perverse and crooked generation. Do ye thus requite the LORD, O foolish people and unwise? is not he thy father that hath bought thee? hath he not made thee, and established thee? Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: ask thy father, and he will shew thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee. When the Most High divided to the nations their inheritance, when he separated the sons of Adam, he set the bounds of the people according to the number of the children of Israel. For the LORD's portion is his people; Jacob is the lot of his inheritance. He found him in a desert land, and in the waste howling wilderness; he led him about, he instructed him, he kept him as the apple of his eye. As an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings: So the LORD alone did lead him, and there was no strange god with him. He made him ride on the high places of the earth, that he might eat the increase of the fields; and he made him to suck honey out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty rock; Butter of kine, and milk of sheep, with fat of lambs, and rams of the breed of Bashan, and goats, with the fat of kidneys of wheat; and thou didst drink the pure blood of the grape. But Jeshurun [Israel] waxed fat, and kicked: thou art waxen fat, thou art grown thick, thou art covered with fatness; then he forsook God which made him, and lightly esteemed the Rock of his salvation. They provoked him to jealousy with strange gods, with abominations provoked they him to anger. They sacrificed unto devils, not to God; to gods whom they knew not, to new gods that came newly up, whom your fathers feared not. Of the Rock that begat thee thou art unmindful, and hast forgotten God that formed thee. And when the LORD saw it, he abhorred them, because of the provoking of his sons, and of his daughters. And he said, I will hide my face from them, I will see what their end shall be: for they are a very froward generation, children in whom is no faith. They have moved me to jealousy with that which is not God; they have provoked me to anger with their vanities: and I will move them to jealousy with those which are not a people; I will provoke them to anger with a foolish nation. For a fire is kindled in mine anger, and shall burn unto the lowest hell, and shall consume the earth with her increase, and set on fire the foundations of the mountains. I will heap mischiefs upon them; I will spend mine arrows upon them. They shall be burnt with hunger, and devoured with burning heat, and with bitter destruction: I will also send the teeth of beasts upon them, with the poison of serpents of the dust. The sword without, and terror within, shall destroy both the young man and the virgin, the suckling also with the man of gray hairs. I said, I would scatter them into corners, I would make the remembrance of them to cease from among men: Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy, lest their adversaries should behave themselves strangely, and lest they should say, Our hand is high, and the LORD hath not done all this. For they are a nation void of counsel, neither is there any understanding in them. O that they were wise, that they understood this, that they would consider their latter end! How should one chase a thousand, and two put ten thousand to flight, except their Rock had sold them, and the LORD had shut them up? For their rock is not as our Rock, even our enemies themselves being judges. For their vine is of the vine of Sodom, and of the fields of Gomorrah: their grapes are grapes of gall, their clusters are bitter: Their wine is the poison of dragons, and the cruel venom of asps. Is not this laid up in store with me, and sealed up among my treasures? To me belongeth vengeance and recompence; their foot shall slide in due time: for the day of their calamity is at hand, and the things that shall come upon them make haste. For the LORD shall judge his people, and repent himself for his servants, when he seeth that their power is gone, and there is none shut up, or left. And he shall say, Where are their gods, their rock in whom they trusted, Which did eat the fat of their sacrifices, and drank the wine of their drink offerings? let them rise up and help you, and be your protection. See now that I, even I, am he, and there is no god with me: I kill, and I make alive; I wound, and I heal: neither is there any that can deliver out of my hand. For I lift up my hand to heaven, and say, I live for ever. If I whet my glittering sword, and mine hand take hold on judgment; I will render vengeance to mine enemies, and will reward them that hate me. I will make mine arrows drunk with blood, and my sword shall devour flesh; and that with the blood of the slain and of the captives, from the beginning of revenges upon the enemy. Rejoice, O ye nations, with his people: for he will avenge the blood of his servants, and will render vengeance to his adversaries, and will be merciful unto his land, and to his people. (Deuteronomy 32:1-43).

Israel and all the nations of the world need to listen and hear more. The people are selfish. They fall to temptation. They visit wrath upon each other in the name of God. They suffer woe they bring upon themselves as a result of not overcoming. They are shortsighted and hypocritical. They don't know that their selfish, shortsighted emotional state is their false god. It is in them. It is them, even as that spirit also is without. This applies to every nation: Israel, the Arabs, and the Anglo-Saxons, etcetera. It is true that God is the power over all things. It is true that souls end up getting paid what each has earned, what each has sown. It is true that the innocent are visited by the wicked. Such is the nature of vengeance and recompense. Sow what you wish to reap. Sow righteousness, love, peace, food, water, shelter, clothing, a clean environment, justice, mercy, morality, ethics, virtuousness, and all the rest of the good, if you want to reap them eternally. Sow their opposites, and reap that harvest. Together and as individuals, we mound up what we will be paid in kind. We are allowed by God to change what is stored up however. We may in fact ransom ourselves and others as Jesus showed the way. We do this by following his new commandment to love each other as he loved his friends. This applies to everyone and every nation and to the whole of humanity.

The radicalization of part of America

What is happening now is the radicalization of part of America. Many people want to get at the root cause. They want the truth. They want answers. They want the real solution.

With people such as John Perkins coming forward as author of Confessions of an Economic Hit Man, more and more is coming out about the once censored history of sleazy American foreign policy and relations, imperial ambitions, and global economic and military takeover by covert and overt means. The shell game is being exposed. We've known for decades about the evils of the World Bank system. The underground knew about the covert CIA operations. It takes firsthand operators though to come clean in public about public affairs so the mainstream will be confronted with the undeniable truth.

---

Sin of the World Bank

The loans made to poor nations by the World Bank are not for the benefit of the poor people of those nations. The loans are used to pay for development constructed by, and often operated by and for, rich US international corporations to expropriate the mineral, agricultural, and other resources of poor nations using wage slaves in those nations. Then the poor of those nations are expected to pay back the loans with interest. It is immoral. The leaders of those nations are deliberately made rich by the system so that those leaders have a personal vested interest in the perpetuation of the polluting and immoral system. The selfish are the rulers of the exchange. If a leader won't go along, the US has historically eliminated that leader by one method or another with murder always being an option of last resort. One thing is certain. No leader has ever been left in place when US operatives have been able to get close enough to remove him or her. The basic forced expropriation tenet of Anglo-American capitalism has been a constant feature of the system since the moment the first capitalist set foot on the North American continent. It hasn't stopped since. It has been relentless. Exploitation of workers and expropriation of the wealth of the world commons is the foundation of the American-capitalist Empire.

Capitalism is selfishness, and selfishness is not the salvation

The business of capitalism is international expropriation. The business of the American neoliberal brand that is false democracy is to export the capitalist mentality of expropriation. China and India are the two most populous nations on the planet. They are both heading more and more to what the neoconservatives and neoliberals call an open-market economy where the market is open to only the ideas suitable to the American Empire. How are China and India going to develop into consumer nations on the model of middle- and upper-class America while it is already taking between twenty-five and forty percent on average of the world's resources to sustain the America bourgeoisie? Are science, engineering, and technology going to get out in front of the curve to develop and over take the markets with clean, sustainable, ecologically sound everything? Will the selfishness philosophy, the laissez-faire capitalism, of Milton Friedman save the day? Friedman was Ronald Reagan's favorite economist. Milton Friedman's favorite economist is Adam Smith. Adam Smith's favorite economist is an entity he didn't know.

Milton Friedman versus Jesus Christ

Is a working conscience really interference against free enterprise or is a working conscience the heart and soul of real freedom?
Is Milton Friedman right and Jesus wrong? It is an either-or question.

Everyone points to Chile as exemplifying the correctness of the invisible hand of laissez-faire capitalism. However, the government forced laissez-faire capitalism onto society. It was not freely chosen in the marketplace of open, honest, and direct choices and ideas. Now it is claimed that Chile is the best economy and model in South America and a vindication of laissez-faire capitalism. Is it?

Salvador Allende nationalized the copper mines. After the capitalists took over, Chile's government didn't re-privatize the copper mines. The revenue from those mines would have gone to US interests otherwise, as they had been before Allende nationalized the sector. That continued nationalization made a huge difference in the government's ability to fund things internally.

Is laissez-faire vindicated? To what degree is Chile polluting? To what degree is Chile expropriating? To what degree does Chile still not allow the open, honest, and direct debate concerning the best path? The workers are still locked into a model where the haves control with coercion.

Now, Milton Friedman didn't personally engage in running Chile's economy. Those who agreed with Milton, however, who were from the same school of thought as Milton, did work directly for the brutal Chilean coercive forces who had come to power under Augusto Pinochet by overthrowing a duly democratically elected president who didn't want his nation's resources to be expropriated or used not for the benefit of the poor of Chile. The US made sure that Salvador Allende was removed from leadership. "I don't see why we need to stand by and watch a country go communist due to the irresponsibility of its people." – Henry Kissinger.

Naming names

The following will sound very harsh. It isn't meant though in the spirit of getting someone. We aren't interested in nailing anyone. Punishment isn't our thing. Mercy is. We want hearts not to be exposed to punish them, but to soften them. First people must know though what is occulted (hidden) that constitutes wrong-doing. They also need the names of people, up to a point, attached to such wrong-doings. This is why The Bible contains the names and positions or titles of people who went astray to stay or went astray but turned and were salvaged. It must be understood that God has the history of everything. Nothing escapes God. We can only depend upon God's mercy and forgiving spirit to save us from Satan's tempting us and then prosecuting us and urging eternal condemnation when we fail whether or not we repent and atone. The names of people are covered by God when they repent and atone in time. Those who are very public and who have been told of their wrong-headedness by voices of righteousness and who still fail to repent but insist upon continuing in arrogance and rationalization must be held out to the people in general as the bad example they are. Also, the negative consequences of wrong-headed deeds must be connected with those misdeeds and the public figures who refuse to be corrected. It is for the edification of the people to aid in saving them that this exposure of evil occurs. It is why the Holy Spirit has been moving so many souls to expose the evil intentions of the conservative Republican so-called Christians and their neocon allies. It is why the Holy Spirit is moving also to expose the bankrupt positions of the false liberals to call bitter sweet and sweet bitter, many of whom call adultery, orgies, all abortions-on-demand, homosexuality, or even Satanism not only acceptable but even desirable. What ought not to ever happen is for the knowingly unrepentant and unatonning to be honored, covering over that rejection of God. The relative ignorance of people is factored in by God. What ought to be honored are repentance, atonement, and overcoming. That's why Jesus is honored and that glorifies love, peace, and truth that are God.

Anyone who realizes his or her misdeeds will be forgiven and allowed to join in heading in the opposite direction. Realization and deep commitment can replace the conditioning of punishment and vengeance.

We need though to nail (as in stop) all the harm being done in all of our relationships, one-on-one right through globally. We need to grow up into humility. Immaturity has been governing international relations for millennia. It's time to stop.

Henry Kissinger versus Jesus Christ

Henry Kissinger is a liar. It sounds harsh, but remember what is at risk. He believes that diplomacy and statesmanship is a different zone where lying is part of the art form or craft. The people are supposed to accept that lying comes with the territory of international relations. He or she who lies best while pulling off big deals maneuvering nations for nationalistic gains (claimed or imagined) is the best diplomat. It's what the American Indians called speaking with a forked tongue: The serpent’s tongue.

Breaking treaties was a given with the White Man. Did the US ever keep a treaty obligation with the Indians? I don't think so. Was every white person in favor of breaking the treaties? Of course they weren't. It's the same thing with slavery. There were plenty of white people who were completely opposed to slavery. It is helpful to remember that those who are out front on the narrow way are always in the minority as humanity is called by God through those out front into enlightenment.

It does not mean that being a the minority on every issue makes that issue correct.

It isn't that human nature is evil. The fact that there are good people shows that. Jesus was fully human and showed that. The problem has been that the died-hard selfish ones work so hard to control the dialogue so more people never get enough, or any, exposure to the real truth about human nature. They never get enough exposure to goodness. We can all use much more goodness in our lives. What's changed?

When Henry Kissinger was working for the Johnson administration, he secretly dealt with Richard Nixon. He worked out a deal where Nixon would sabotage the Paris Peace Talks in 1968. With a peace agreement in the offing and with the leader of South Vietnam about to sign on, the Nixon campaign sent secret messages to South Vietnam telling them not to agree to any deal, giving the South the impression that Nixon would cut a better deal for the South. He never did. What happened though was that the 1968 agreement fell through and millions more died than would have otherwise been the case. Also, Johnson's domestic plans, his War on Poverty, suffered greatly.

No guns, all butter

Johnson was a New Dealer, and his Great Society constituted some of the greatest domestic social and civil rights gains in the history the US. Many people said Johnson was the best domestic president in history. Because Johnson had made a terrible error in judgment in following the lead of all the presidents before him concerning Vietnam, his domestic gains were overshadowed by the turmoil caused by the immorality of war. The element that was missing in Johnson's efforts and is nearly always missing and at least underappreciated is the appeal to the full meaning of the implications of the new commandment. No efforts, whether church and state as rightly one, or separate, will ever succeed without the people having new commandments full import written on their hearts. That is why such laudable governmental programs do well but don't live up to expectations. That is why the naysayers programs and policies have never worked either to eliminate real poverty that is not having enough.
Death and destruction as sexual excitement

Kissinger through his double-dealing Machiavellianism, backstabbing president Johnson, then got to play head diplomat under Nixon and then president Gerald Ford. This cost the lives of countless people in Indochina and amongst the American military. It prolonged the war, prolonged the time the prisoners of war were held, increased all the agonies of war, all so men, primarily Kissinger and Nixon, could grab at power because it turned Kissinger on sexually, calling such power "the ultimate aphrodisiac."

Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it. (John 8:44).

From whence come wars and fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your lusts that war in your members? (James 4:1).

Those verses were written for Henry Kissinger and for many. Turn, repent, and atone with your entire being.

Kissinger was behind the secret bombing of Cambodia and backed Nixon's decision to invade Cambodia without a declaration of war. Kissinger was behind the CIA coup against Cambodia’s leader. Those actions resulted in millions dead directly from the bombing and resulting turmoil and famine and political upheaval bringing the dreaded Pol Pot to power who caused the killing fields of Cambodia.

Cambodia is very telling about US propaganda and the mainstream media aiding in duping the American people.

Capitalism is a double standard

When the US was devastating Cambodia with bombs and napalm and inciting a dictatorial civil war, the US mainstream news media were relatively silent. When the Khmer Rouge under Pol Pot came to power in the vacuum largely caused by US callousness, the mainstream news media came alive. When the capitalists are committing atrocities, it is excusable since it is fighting for the right of the superrich to own everything including whole countries and eventually the whole world. When the Communists are committing atrocities, it is terrible. That is a double standard. It is in defense of the indefensible position that is greed.

When Pol Pot was committing atrocities in Cambodia, the US was backing Indonesian atrocities against East Timor. The mainstream news media were nearly silent. When the military-industrial complex stands to make a profit selling arms to the side that will fall into line with capitalism, it will sell arms to those engaged in atrocities. The mainstream news media will look the other way.

---

Those who are promoted within the mainstream news media are those who gravitate to falling into line with this process. They willingly and knowingly practice self-censorship, because in their minds, to do otherwise would necessarily mean cutting their own financial throats. The corporations that own the mainstream media are deeply embedded with the entirety of the capitalistic war machine. When those media do expose US wrongdoing, it is still in service to capitalism. The superrich don't want to give an overly reckless leader his head (unbridled power), because that can backfire and bring down capitalism.

This is not a precise process. There are too many variables for the human mind to consciously process. It is a combination of twisted reasoning and emotion. However, that doesn't mean that people don't huddle to hatch plans. They do.

Conspiring

They get together. Individuals and groups say we should do this or that. They discuss things but not the root problem. They don't debate whether or not capitalism. They debate at most how best to forward capitalism. Is that a conspiracy? In the broad sense of the term, yes.
Is it criminal? Also in the broad sense of the term, yes.

The Gospel: Depressing or uplifting?
This would be all very depressing were it not for the good news that is to say the Gospel. One wonders how the truth will set one free when the truth is so depressing. Well, the truth contains the prophetic vision of salvation for those who are righteous and are oppressed under evil. The truth also informs one of how one has been duped into facilitating evil. By being so informed, one then is given the opportunity personally to change and to affect the environment so that evil is then less facilitated. That's the righteousness needed to attain that earlier mentioned salvation. This is the good news that is to say the Gospel message of Jesus.

It is a given that high-ranking diplomats of the US deny everything they can that the US is, or was, doing and the diplomats direct hand via policy and the communication he or she has with others. The language is almost always coded so that it may be taken two ways. One is benign for the general public if the communication should leak. The other is malignant, which is the real intention meant for the covert operatives and taken by them in that dark spirit. Kissinger sent such coded messages to various operatives scattered about the world. People were assassinated as a result with the US administrations blessing. Millions of lives were worsened.
Be better toward the grassroots than the hope of militant Marxism

There are those who will contend that the alternative of Stalinists taking over would have been worse. That's not the point, and it wouldn't have happened. What is the point is comparing what the US could have done. The US could have been for the grassroots. The US could have taken away the appeal of large-c Communism by being better toward the grassroots than the hope of militant Marxism. Marxism after all only succeeds because capitalism is so inherently unjust. Of course, it wasn't meant to be. The so-called libertarian capitalists have had their hearts hardened beyond such concerns.

Kissinger was well aware of the terrible atrocities going on around the world. So were all the other highly placed people in the US administration and covert agencies and military. The US had CIA agents all over the place. It had the NSA up and running and under so much cover hardly anyone knew it existed. The US policy was to look the other way and even help out monstrous rightwing dictatorships as a hedge against Communism. If a left-leaning government came to power anywhere in the world that was too weak or not aligned too closely with Russia or China, the US would see to the removal of the leader and to the weakening of that leader's support through whatever means the US would stoop to and it stooped as low as it took. There is no doubt about it. The entire Superman hero "truth, justice, and the American way" stuff was a huge propaganda deception.
Henry Kissinger had his hand in so many despicable things it isn't possible to even mention them all here. Operation Condor was a network of South American dictatorships all backed and facilitated by the US. They teamed up to engage in all the dictatorial nightmarish activities one associates with brutal, sadistic authoritarian dictatorships and police states. In order to fight Communism, US policy was to be exactly all the terrible things the Communists were saying the US represented.

What was Kissinger's plan? Work every angle. Work everyone against everyone. Work deals everywhere all for the sake of his lust and historical legacy and Empire. He loved the intrigue. Countless numbers of men, women, and children disappeared. There were many assassinations. Many political opponents of the dictators were targeted and assassinated wherever they were in the world. It was just as Stalin had Trotsky assassinated only it was fascists doing the assassinating with the blessing and guidance and assistance of Uncle Sam.

These activities and Henry Kissinger's and other's involvement in them constitute war crimes and crimes against humanity.

He was behind the coup in Chile that resulted in the assassination of general René Schneider for opposing a coup planned against Allende. Salvador Allende was also killed and replaced by the brutal regime of Augusto Pinochet, the poster boy for the Chicago School of economic thought headed up by Milton Friedman.
Suharto

Along with then president Gerald Ford, Henry Kissinger also sanctioned Indonesian president Suharto’s brutal attack against East Timor in 1975 that murdered hundreds of thousands of mostly civilians. Despicably, Ford and Kissinger had met with Suharto the day before the attacks began to assure him that the US would not only look the other way but would supply weapons, etcetera.

Kissinger has since claimed that the issue of East Timor was dwarfed by geopolitical issues at the time. It’s a boldface lie: Machiavellian. In exchange for Indonesia’s dictator, Suharto, being rightwing, that is anti giving and sharing, the US rewarded Indonesia with sanctioning the brutal takeover of defenseless East Timor. It was so central to US plans in the area that Kissinger had Daniel Patrick Moynihan, the then US ambassador to the UN and supposed liberal Democrat, do the following in Moynihan’s words:

> The United States wished things to turn out as they did, and worked to bring this about. The Department of State desired that the United Nations prove utterly ineffective in whatever measures it undertook. This task was given to me, and I carried it forward with no inconsiderable success.\(^\text{13}\)

---

Of course, the British, both Conservative and Labour governments, were selling billions of dollars worth of weapons to Indonesia as well. Henry was no neocon however. He was not a Zionist. The neocons appeal to realpolitiks when it serves their purposes and to a warped sense of idealism when that serves their purpose. It is warped, because it is based upon a superiority complex rooted in an inferiority complex that developed as a result of the violent swings from abuser to abused and back again going back to the beginning. It is incorrect reaction. It is shortsightedness. It portends the continuing cycle of failure.

It is not brilliant to work the dark side

Kissinger was, and still, is touted in the mainstream press as brilliant. They say it as if saying it makes it self-fulfilling. Henry Kissinger is not brilliant. Brilliance is light. Light is truth. It is stupid to be on the dark side. Henry did not shed light where he went. He did not enlighten. He worked to create the atmosphere and environment in which he could work the craft he chose in the way that stimulated him. He chose to work the dark side of the craft of diplomacy. That's not a wise choice. That's not a smart thing to do. It doesn't show intelligence. It shows the opposite. Where's the harmless dove in any of it? Being as harmless as a dove is the rest of intelligence. It completes intelligence. It goes to show what society and especially those at the top value. Henry Kissinger has been lauded despite his extant, extremely serious character flaws. Those flaws were readily apparent in his student days. His penchant and ideological leaning and taste for power, obsession with the historical practitioners of the dark side of international relations, etcetera, was all there to see and was encouraged by his mentors and schoolmasters. Once he left school, he was raised up, for calling for more and more horrendous weaponry. Once he had his foot in the door, he was highly valued for his expediency over principle. Where was the integrity? Compromising ethics in order to defeat those who stood in the way of the increase of the Empire was a sought after trait, and Henry Kissinger was ready, willing, and able. For that, he was called a genius. As my fleshly father would say, "Consider the source."

Consider the source of the grades being handed out.

Who passes out these judgments? The practitioners of realpolitik scorn anyone unwilling to compromise the precepts of God. They plot against them incessantly. They keep them down where and when possible. They assassinate such people. They murdered Jesus for the sake of realpolitiks. For the practitioners of this so-called practical way of conducting the affairs of state, others who want fairly to spread and increase the inheritance to those who want to share it thusly are enemies. Where though is the real practicality in murdering Jesus?

This realpolitik of Henry Kissinger, along with all the other garbage forwarded by conservatives, is not practical in the end. Their ethos subverts the best outcome. The only thing that comes out of their errors is the people coming to see that the way of the conservatives is what not to do. That's why everyone fell into place in the prophecy. That's why the high priest Joseph Caiaphas said the following to the rest of the Sanhedrin when they were debating about sentencing Jesus to death for speaking truth:

Ye know nothing at all, Nor consider that it is expedient for us, that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not. (John 11:49-50).

Listen to the conservative's words and watch what they do and consider what the outcome would have been by taking the narrow way. Listen to them say that the narrow way is "not useful" or is "unacceptable." What do they mean by "not useful"? It isn't that it isn't capable of being put into effect. It is that they don't want the outcome.

Caiaphas spoke the half-truth. It was expedient that one man should die for the people and that the whole nation perish not. The whole truth though is that its was evil to plot against Jesus. It was evil to murder Jesus. Jesus did die for the nation. He atoned for those who would come to him, be drawn to him by God, and whom Jesus would choose and hold: The real Christians and not Caiaphas and his Pharisee followers.

Realpolitik is trottled out when it is convenient to furthering preconceived, overarching, ideological positions of the practitioners. It is the tool of the pessimist. It is the tool of the unbeliever (non-believer in the real God). These people go around and around and never start through the strait gate down the narrow way.
The straight and narrow is just not practical for them. This is nonsense.

What they try to convince others of is that it is impossible to get people to agree to do the real right thing. Deep inside of course, and for some not so deep, they don't want a radical shift in the world for the better, because they fear they'd be put out of a job. Well, they would. The job of deception, obfuscation, rationalization, etcetera, would disappear. Consider though the opportunities that will open up that have not existed since your fall and the fall of those who came before you?

Who's right? Who's smart? What's expedient? What's practical? What's real politics? Well, it all depends upon the degree to which one believes in a god and confuses Satan with God. I've written enough about that here. The choices are clear.

Don't excuse yourself for using what you consider evils to fight what you consider greater evils. Use truth. Truth isn't evil. Truth is loving everyone as Jesus loved and loves. Truth is Christ. Be truth.

Good Samaritan nations

Don't fall for the lie that the truth that applies in interpersonal relations does not apply between and among the nations. The love of neighbor applies also to the whole family. There are nations lying by the side of the road half dead as a result of other nations (colonial, imperial, empire) who beset nations (occupied, dominated), beating them and robbing them and leaving them there to die. Where are the Good Samaritan nations who will bind up the wounds and lift up and carry their brothers and sisters and pay for their care until they are well again? Where are the real Christian nation-states? There aren't any. The kingdom shall be taken away and given to another nation bringing forth: The one and only Christian nation that is the spiritual brotherhood and sisterhood regardless of artificial boundaries set by covetous and hardhearted men and women.

He will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment. (John 16:8).

Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come. He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you. (John 16:13-14).

And before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats. (Matthew 25:32).

And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, My house shall be called of all nations the house of prayer? but ye have made it a den of thieves. (Mark 11:17).

And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem. (Luke 24:47).

And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation. (Acts 17:26).

And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations. (Revelation 2:26).

And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings. (Revelation 10:11).

For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies. (Revelation 18:3).

And the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee; and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard no more at all in thee: for thy merchants were the great men of the earth; for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived. (Revelation 18:23).
And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog, and Magog, to gather them together to battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea. (Revelation 20:8).

And the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour into it. (Revelation 21:24).

And they shall bring the glory and honour of the nations into it. (Revelation 21:26).

In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was there the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month: and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. (Revelation 22:2).

What does all this mean?

It means the Holy Spirit is absolute truth that exists whether or not humanity exists and can, will, and does come into the human heart to tell people the difference between all the wrong paths and the one right path.

Each person and every nation will receive the consequences of behavior. Those consequences do not disappear when the flesh dies. They outlast the grave. Everyone who ever lived will be resurrected. No one escapes the consequences whether good or bad. Death is no escape.
All the peoples and nations of the world are of one blood. All are to do good. None is to steal.
The Jews must hear this first, and everyone is to hear this. All must renounce and turn away from stealing the common inheritance.
The entire planet is one country.
Those who stop stealing and refuse to steal each others share of the inheritance no matter who does what to try to force them into stealing will end up higher than the great thieves in this life.
If all stop stealing and refuse to steal, all become equal leaders and followers of one another.
Hearts than will not tempt each other but will always lift each other.

Stealing has been masquerading as for-selfish-profit merchandising
There is no profit in selfishness. It leads to wrath and destruction. The biggest militants and merchants deceive all the people of the world into thinking that their way is right. This shall be set straight in the minds of all the nations. The deception shall end. Their way shall end in their own destruction.
Don't be led astray by merchants of the earth who are waxed rich and hold themselves out to be the great men of the earth. They are deceived and deceivers. They sold their souls to get theirs here and now at the expense of all others.
Once this is known and the people act rightly, God will bless the whole earth. There will be real abundance that comes of robbing no one.
Everyone will know that everything good comes from God. Everyone will praise God. God will be in everyone's heart.

Jesus says that your brethren constitutes those to whom the truth is given that your brethren constitutes the whole of humanity. These are different levels of brethren. These are different contexts of brethren. These are truths in the whole truth. He taught his disciples to say that God "hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth." (Acts 17:26). Therefore, over your brethren, humanity, ye shall not rule one over another with rigor but shall serve them in mercy. Therefore, how can you profit from your brethren via merchandising where that profit is not for the real profit of all but rather thieving for the few? The answer to this question confutes the capitalists who ought then to be convicted by their consciences and hold their peace.

The nations are being divided according to which are the Good Samaritan and which are not. The Good Samaritan nations are one spiritual nation: Real Christians.

The Jews who come to this will be great at looking after and raising up first and foremost those with the least of every nation, for the nations shall be one. All shall serve the cause of God via the new commandment.

The Jews and all others who come to this will credit Jesus. No one who fails to credit Jesus will be able to do it. Accepting Jesus is truth. Accepting Jesus is indispensable.
Universities shall teach nations to be Good Samaritans

As of the time of this writing, they aren't enlightened enough yet to be teaching this kind of foreign relations at any of the so-called great universities and colleges. When will they become intelligent enough to understand that right relations do away with "foreign"? Which human is a foreigner to earth? Which human is a foreigner to the cosmos? Only the disharmonious, uncooperative are a kind of foreigner.

What many are teaching in the universities is international relations via militarism and capitalism. Military and mammon power is though inherently disharmonious. Such power is foreign to heaven. Such power is native to the insecurity of hell. It is illusion. There is no realism in it. It is doomed. It is irrational. It is illiberal. There is no unifying aspect to it. Its foundation is fragmentation. It rejects heaven. It stands in the way each time there is a call to unity at any level, citing it's principle of the inherent selfish nature of humanity that cannot be overcome. At the same time, it turns to coercion to force people to unify around its disunifying principle. It calls the truth unreal. It is backwards, upside down, inside out, scattered, intoxicated, and poisonous.

Worldly expansionism hastens its death

Political, military, economic, cultural expansionism is at the heart of the worldly Empire. This is their defensive plan. What they are doing is spreading greed. They are engendering fear and hatred. They become global targets. Their supply lines are ubiquitous. Sabotage can occur anywhere. They want eyes everywhere, to be present everywhere, and to anticipate everywhere. They want to be God without being God. They want to accomplish this through science and technology irrespective of God.

Blame the sheep

You see, everyone who believes in (has faith in) this foreign policy of Henry Kissinger or in the limited-bloodline policy of the neocons as advanced by the nationalist Zionists, is a goat, not a sheep. The goat is metaphorically the purveyor of sin. Real goats scapegoat the sheep and their shepherd. It’s the sheep’s fault say the goats. Blame the sheep. To the goats, it is a sin to tell the people the truth.

The truth is that everyone can overcome the nastiness and brutishness of the modern jungle that is the dog-eat-dog, cutthroat, selfishly based world of merchandising, commerce, and nationalism for false profits.

That whole capitalistic system is a lie. It is deception. It is conjured up by the modern sorcerers, the wizards, the capitalist economists. They lead to ruination. The central planners of old-style Communism who didn't disseminate what is deliberately learned from the decentralized are also liars. All these types have no ability to trust, because they know they themselves are liars. They refuse to trust that anyone else can overcome. They refuse to trust that everyone can overcome.

Hence, they make of themselves goats in the resurrection. They will end up existing with one another in their eternal houses. The sheep will not be with them nor will any of them be among the sheep. Thank God! God saves!

Real Christianity is more than a paradigm for international relations. It is real international relations. Everything else is falsehood or the path to ruination, the opposite of salvation. Real Christianity is more than something to somewhat copy. The nations must become Christ that is to say really one in the spirit of love in the new commandment sense. This is more than striving to be Christlike where inaction and falling short is excused. Christ is a spirit. Messiahship is a spiritual state of being. It is the spirit of wholesomeness that is real oneness, real unity. God saves!

So, are Henry Kissinger and the others condemned and judged? Is that what this work is about? We want people to turn, to repent, to atone. Those who don't turn, repent, and atone will end up as the withered fig tree that didn't bring forth to feed at the time of its visitation by the Holy one.

And when he saw a fig tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaves only, and said unto it, Let no fruit grow on thee henceforward for ever.
And presently the fig tree withered away. (Matthew 21:19).

The people need food for their bodies and food for their souls now! Feed them, or wither away.

The sovereign in this case are the people from first to last with the last (the poor and half dead by the road) being served first and foremost by those who have. Then the real bounty will come, exceeding the peoples' expectations.

False democracy

Today, we have people in high places who are upset that democratic elections have brought to power groups those in high places don't like and don't want running nations. It has ever been so. This is no endorsement of democracy in the absence of the guiding spirit of righteousness that is pacifism and the rest of the good. Jesus didn't hold American-style elections to see if he would be the leader of his flock. However, each person voted by following. Those who refused to follow voted themselves out of the group. They didn't stay in the same house. There in lies the truth about democracy.

How could Jesus have taught democracy and then been voted out of his house by those who grasped less of the revealed truth? Is this a paradox? No. It states the truth about false democracy that is not inherently spirit led and where its constitution is not the new commandment.

In truth, there is no real democracy where the new commandment isn't unanimously applied at all times.

Can one remain in a house where he or she has been out voted? Yes. That can be the case so long as the out-voted agree that the movement of the Holy Spirit embodied in the new commandment is shown in the majority position. That is certain where souls have already been moved to give and share all for the sake of righteousness and justice and mercy, etcetera, and where souls work for and serve each other and the poor and all others really in the final analysis. Then the out-voted will see the light and not be as the heathen. This is where democracy conflates with unanimity. Such is the state in the highest heaven.

The CIA was ordered by the Nixon White House to "make the [Chilean] economy scream." It did that. It clamped down on that democracy with economic sanctions and covert activities. Chile was boxed in. The CIA, as it always does, trained fascists to destabilize and take control of the nation from within by horrendous means you have now seen with your own eyes in the photos coming out of Abu Ghraib Prison\textsuperscript{14} in Iraq and elsewhere.

October 16, 1970, the CIA in Chile was ordered as follows:

\begin{quote}
It is firm and continuing policy that Allende be overthrown by a coup. It would be much preferable.
\end{quote}

\textsuperscript{14} Abu Ghraib Prison was emptied in August, 2006. The prisoners were transferred to other, new, US prisons in Iraq such as at Camp Bucca in Iraq's south and Camp Cropper next to the Baghdad International Airport.

to have this transpire prior to 24 October but efforts in this regard will continue vigorously beyond this date. We are to continue to generate maximum pressure toward this end, utilizing every appropriate resource. It is imperative that these actions be implemented clandestinely and securely so that the USG [United States Government] and American hand be well hidden…. Please review all your present and possibly new activities to include propaganda, black operations, surfacing of intelligence and disinformation, personal contacts, or anything else your imagination can conjure which will permit you to continue to press forward toward our [word marked out] objective in a secure manner.

Capitalism can't live with real democracy

Why won't they let any nation trade openly that is a socialist nation? Well, because it would work better than capitalism. It would outperform the capitalist nations in providing a higher quality of life for all. In other words, capitalism cannot afford to compete without a stacked deck. If any nation that is not capitalist is allowed to compete internationally without any capitalist interference, the people of the world would then have proof positive that giving and sharing is superior to capitalism. Then, capitalism would lose every election everywhere.
Now, people ask why then didn't the Soviet Union succeed. The Soviet Union was not democratic any more than is the United States. In a pure, direct, participatory democracy, communism (lowercase or small-c) will always be the inevitable outcome, because that's God's way. There is not pure, direct, participatory democracy in the United States, because wherever and whenever people try to introduce it into the mainstream, the powers that be who have their power by undemocratic means, put the squeeze on, just as Nixon and Kissinger put the squeeze on Chile and just as the United States has put the squeeze on every other nation in the world really. There is no nation that has escaped the power politics of the United States.
This same pattern used against the poorest people of Chile has been repeated and repeated and repeated throughout the world by the US for the benefit of the rich against the middle and lower classes. It really is a class struggle. That's what Jesus said when he chastened the rich who murdered him, as they have murdered and murdered every radical for the poor.

Capitalism is coercion

Why was and is Milton Friedman so popular then? Why is he lauded? Why isn't Jesus lauded as the greatest economic thinker of all time? Well, Jesus certainly was a libertarian; however, he was for the collective conscience of God, which is not a free-for-all of selfishness. Milton is correct that the state should not coerce between and among people engaging in giving and sharing; however, he is inconsistent. He is wrong that the state should coerce the populations of the world to the free-for-all of selfishness. He is wrong that the state should use military and police to enforce such so-called selfish laws of economics. His so-called laws of economics are unconvincing. His arguments are false; therefore, he needs a violent army to cow the people.

The only way the best will surface for all to see, is for everyone to stop coercing anyone else. The American state has no business coercing (bullying) other states into accepting liberal, capitalist economics.

Americans only have a right and duty to promote non-coercion, non-harm, non-offense throughout the planet.

Unfortunately, America has had a dark, dark spirit that every time any duly democratically elected leader of any less militarized nation has said that his nation will not allow expropriation by American corporations of that nation's resources, America has caused a regime change in that nation.

Now, this has been America proclaiming to the world that the strong (really weak) have a right to take from the meek. Also, so-called liberals (who are far from really liberal), such as Bill Clinton, sit on the fence and compromise and hobnob and hobnob at the country, yacht, or hunt club, etcetera.
No automatic guilt by association

There is nothing wrong with keeping company with the rich, provided

Oh, there is nothing wrong with associating with the rich who sin, hoarding for self. It's actually required so long as one remains spiritually separated from them and calls them to change spiritually. That isn't what the false, new liberals are doing though. Jesus associated with tax collectors and prostitutes not to use them to gain a personal cut or sexually but to call them out of sin to help them see how what they were doing was detrimental to unity in God. Jesus also kept company with the rich to call upon them to repent for the remission of sin. There is no automatic guilt by association.

Everything depends upon intent and action, not just association. The neoliberals, however, use what the neocons offer for personal gain. That is using the ill-gotten gain of others in the furtherance of sin.

Robin Hood

I must tell you that there is never anything wrong with using ill-gotten gain for good. In truth, Robin Hood could never rob from the rich. The mistake of Robin Hood lies in coercion. It isn't robbery to take from someone that which he had expropriated by coercion himself and backed by further coercive forces supporting that systemic, organized crime of the state. If Robin Hood asked for donations to help the poor and the robber vassals were moved by conscience to throw Robin their purse, Robin would be right to take that money and to use it for the sake of the poor.

You cannot serve God and capitalism

However, Milton doesn't believe in that. He believes in the use of coercive power to force people into positions where others may expropriate their resources. Milton doesn't believe in Jesus. None of the capitalist economists has faith in Jesus. Think about it. How can they have faith in God and Jesus and also have faith in capitalism? "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." (Matthew 6:24; Luke 16:13).

What you don't want to do is follow Milton and not Christ. What you want to do is call Milton to Christ. What you want to do is explain to Milton and others how the economics of Christ are superior to their own. It is in their best interest to see this; however, the only way that it is true is because it is in the best interest of the greatest whole conceivable. That is what they must be brought to see and to support. Milton's path is closer than others; however, unless it is changed, it will miss the destination.

The worldly Empire has lost its disguise and is now fighting to its death

The Empire, the Beast, will fight back against these obvious truths though. The United States is the most lustful nation in history. That's why it has been so crafty were other empires in the stream of the empire-spirit were more obvious. Look at how long it took before the Empire began to be called by its rightful title of Empire.
While the US was pointing the finger at Communism claiming it wanted to take over the world and was evil if for that reason alone, the US was busy taking over the world. It hid behind its sound bites against the Soviet Union's own police state. Well, the Chinese will rue the day they opened the door to capitalism rather than turning to real, small-c communism. The appetite of the US knows no bounds. It is the fattest-spirited nation and getting fatter by the second. It is on an unsustainable path to utter ruination. It will bribe leaders the world over. It will overthrow and murder those who won't go along. It will install and prop up the most heinous dictators. It will do all that and more. It will turn on its own. It has done it before and will do it again as never before, before the fight is over. It will lie, cheat, steal, murder, rape, torture, falsely imprison, maim, assassinate, poison, and do every disgusting thing imaginable to feed its defiled soul. Yet, the American people can turn to God and be saved. The only way for this to continue is via a severe clamp down. The Beast will become more and more a police state built upon propaganda and psychological operations turned inwardly in a very aggressive manner. It is going to get much, much worse before it gets better.

The New Deal fell

Franklin Roosevelt attempted to harness that truth that fear itself is the evil selfish spirit when he told America in his first inaugural address in the midst of the Great Depression that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." He also said the following:
Plenty is at our doorstep, but a generous use of it languishes in the very sight of the supply. Primarily this is because the rulers of the exchange of mankind's goods have failed.

He spoke half-truths, knowingly stopping short, as did the founders and as have all the presidents. He didn't call for the institution of real Christianity. Since the time of the original Apostles, absolutely no top leader of a large church and no leader of any large nation has either. It has been wrong. It has been the fault of the flock and their shepherds. With the Gospels there in writing for the flock to read, it is very much the failure of the flock. It has been harmful that this has not been said and changed.

We must repent, forgive, and atone. We can scarcely have faith without doing all of these.

Franklin tweaked capitalism and used coercion just as all before and since. He was great among lesser lights. Why not shine with the real light of Christ? He let the opportunity go by.

Many things happened at the generous collective level that had never happened before in America and that haven't happened so clearly since. The spirit of the right direction was captured in the novel The Grapes of Wrath, by John Steinbeck, and in the movie of the same name based upon the novel. In the movie when the Joad family, hard hit in the depression, arrives at a descent camp that is governmentally owned but democratically operated and protected by the campers backed by the Bill of Rights, the character Tom Joad asks the campground caretaker, "Say, who runs this place?" The caretaker says, "Government." Tom asks, "Why ain't they more like it?" The caretaker responds, "You find out. I can't." Now that is the question the answer to which the people must have the courage to relate to one another over the objections of powerful voices that when confronted by the truth of the answer do everything they can to avoid it coming out further. Of course, the answer is that there were not more of those camps and more of the other things more in the stream of the real solution to all that ails the entire planet because powerful selfish interests do everything they can to retain as much of slavery as possible. The Joads were turned into wage-slaves to be owned and operated by rich, huge-farm owners. Now both the neocons and neolibs fall short of the spirit of the government camp where pure and direct democracy from the bottom controls. Why? Well, the next question out of Tom's mouth is, "Anything like work around' here?" The caretaker's answer is, "Can't promise you that…" Of course, during the era there was limited government employment through the Civilian Conservation Corps and the Works Projects Administration. However, the pure and direct democracy of the camp was not translated into the workplace. Also, the broader concept that every person owns an equal share in the government and in everything was not forwarded. Private, special advantage and privilege was unfortunately not ruled out of the people's hearts. Here, I would like to express that the operative word above is "private."
Not falling but rising

Where all the people have in equal voice and vote and they grant spiritual and manifest favor, it constitutes publicly granted advantage and privilege. In the right spirit, no one is put at a disadvantage by such grants. Naturally, the wise leader accepts the grants of followers while completely sharing the wealth. We grant Jesus what God grants Jesus so that all are granted what God grants all. Jesus accepted glorification, because Godliness was, thereby, rightly, and had to be, glorified. Jesus, thereby, glorified others through the giving and sharing spirit. It is this full-circle truth (there isn't any other kind of real truth) that the neocons and neolibs censor truth. They can't comprehend it. They fear it. They see that when the people hear it, absorb it, and assimilate it into themselves, becoming it, being it, the people become free, are free, and won't compete to the detriment of the narrow way. Therefore, the neocons and neolibs (so-called), censor the truth.

The more we glorify the real God, the more the real God ministers to the real people. When you look in the mirror, you can see God or you can see Satan. Which are you becoming? Are you made in the image of God or the image of Satan? Satan was made in the image of God, the reflection of God, but fell. He was superficial reflection. On the surface, he appears as the sheep. Look deeper, and his evil, devouring results give him away. He fell from the beginning, and therefore, was never there, in heaven. He can't return. Are you of that root?
Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves. (Matthew 23:15).

You are made by, and of, spirits from souls. You become the spirit they give off of which you partake. You make of yourself by partaking. You make of others what you give and of which they partake. Which spirit made you? Which spirit is making you? Of which spirit are you partaking? Which are you emanating? How are you leading, influencing, others? Reconcile the contexts. Doing so is the key to heaven. It removes the illogic of mundane paradoxes.

And when ye spread forth your hands, I will hide mine eyes from you: yea, when ye make many prayers, I will not hear: your hands are full of blood. Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil; Learn to do well; seek judgment, relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow. (Isaiah 1:15-17).

What will the American people make of themselves? What will each nation and the whole of humanity make of itself: God or Satan?
The neo's are withholding
The neo's do not allow it to be discussed openly, honestly, and directly before the entire people. They own the means of communication and use it to suppress the truth. Where people manage to open things up a bit, capitalist-militarist efforts ensue to close those openings. Where capitalists are confronted by tough questions, they shut down communications. They don't want the erroneous perceptions they foster to be closed. They want the conversation to stop short of exposing the fallacy of the loopholes they finagle. They look for loopholes so they may use evil means. They don't want the truth coming out.

There are no loopholes
There are no loopholes in the new commandment. The new commandment is the law. It is the whole law. Jesus was, and is, the lawgiver. The law he gave has not been overturned. God is still God and will be forever. There are no loopholes. There is only mercy.

The New Deal fell, continued
What ended even the limited inroads of the more giving and sharing light of the New Deal? Unfortunately, the Great Depression was the high point of the American spirit. World War II ruined the momentum. When American aspirations came to logger heads with Hitler's aspirations to be the emperor of a global empire desired by most of the German people, Franklin Roosevelt declared war on the German Empire for the sake of liberal capitalism even though Roosevelt stated openly that he was not a capitalist but rather a Christian. The message that "the rulers of the exchange of mankind's goods have failed" was forgotten, because the capitalist military-industrial complex was the outcome of the so-called just war.

The so-called tough questions are not being asked. What is the tide of human kind? At what expense are any ships defined as rising? What are these trade agreements and military treaties set out by "the rulers of the exchange of mankind's goods"? What is being lost while claims of gain are put forth? What way is forward? Are these agreements to compete really the policy of being a good neighbor? What is this agreeing to cooperate in competition?

Where are the agreements simply to cooperate so that there are no real losers even temporarily? That is the Christian way.

The problem is that the high-up leaders of those the conservatives call liberals lack bravery about their convictions. They refuse to go to the cross. They don’t understand that their holding back is just that. They hold back the real bounty. They agree to a compromise of silence with the devouring, selfish spirit. They are not real liberals.

Capitalism strives to stifle the word of God

Today, we have the transnational media corporations swallowing up all the competition via mergers and acquisitions and takeovers.
According to Ben Bagdikian in his book, The New Media Monopoly, there were fifty corporations in America controlling most of the media in 1983 and by 2004, there were only five. That's a ten-fold consolidation. This doesn't mean that there are five corporations controlling television and a different five control radio, etcetera. It means that the same five that control TV also control radio. That same five also control all the other sectors of media. They control most of the industry: Book publishing houses, magazines, movie studios, music labels, news wire services, newspapers, photo agencies, radio stations, TV, and music videos, etcetera.

They are also deeply involved in the Internet and seeking to gain control of it as well. Now, the technology is a moving target, and the lines are being forever blurred between industrial sectors. Where telecommunications starts and stops is rapidly changing. Regardless, the overall trend is to consolidation of power. Some of the main holding companies involved are Time Warner, The Walt Disney Company, News Corporation (Rupert Murdoch), Bertelsmann (German), Viacom, CBS Corporation, and General Electric. They control together over ninety percent (90%) of the media industry in the US.

General Electric is a huge war manufacturer. It was recently the number three US war contractor. Standings change, so its ranking could easily be up or down when you read this. It also owns NBC Universal. Are NBC

---

Universal and the others going to put on antiwar news and antiwar movement leaders and damage General Electric's and other war contractor's profits from the new world order of the perpetual war? No. The interlocking directorates include media corporations and war contractors and oil companies and the nuclear-energy industry. Rather than have on experts from the antiwar movement to go head to head with equal time for opposing views and free ranging topics against those in favor of war every time those pro-war voices are heard, the media licensed by the capitalistic government restrict the debate. That's because the warmongers would lose the debate and the corporate powers know it. They do not want the people to give their informed consent. They don't want them informed. They don't want them knowing the truth.

Donald Rumsfeld gave a talk entitled, "New Realities in the Media Age" to the Council on Foreign Relations on February 17, 2006. In it, he tipped off the powers that be in the establishment that the Empire wants the general population of American people to be kept in the dark about the propaganda being used outside the US. He sent the signal that the leaks of truth must stop.

What democracy? What liberty? They murdered Jesus for speaking out. Do you see that? This is the ministry of propaganda at work in the military-industrial complex.

General Electric (GE) has been fined by the government many times for illegal activities. It is responsible for having caused the pollution at many superfund sites (toxic sites marked for cleanup) around America. GE spends over fifteen million dollars a year lobbying the US Congress. It gives billions to politicians under the guise of political-campaign contributions. It also has military contracts in Iraq with the contract amount being held secret from the American people who pay the taxes that pay GE. In addition, GE was awarded a 5.9 billion dollar contract in Afghanistan. Many of its directors and executives are part of the revolving door between government, the military, and GE. The fox is guarding the chicken coop. GE is the most military oriented of the media holding-companies; however, the pattern of interlocking directorates and revolving doors holds across the American Corporate Empire. GE is not, however, the number one contractor in Iraq and Afghanistan. That dubious distinction goes to Kellogg, Brown & Root (Halliburton), the vice president's company, which was awarded untold billions.

Of course, the total dollar figure of Halliburton's military contracts pales next to Lockheed Martin and Boeing, who supply the military with high-tech planes among other things. Don't lose sight of the fact that these corporations sell to other nations all over.

All the major corporations pollute. They all lobby and give money to politicians. They all are in the revolving-door system. They all have interlocking directorates. They have propagandists (public-relations workers) on staff and firms they hire. Their top owners and executives all socialize with each other and with government and media powerbrokers to varying degrees. They all participate in family favoritism (nepotism) when spirit, merit, and trustworthiness ought to be the considerations. They are not all Republican, but most are. Of those who are Democrats, they are also neoliberal capitalists. It means they are for what they euphemistically call free-and-open markets when they know all the abuses of US corporations around the world. They know that those corporations corrupt government officials around the world. They know the lack of environmental and worker protections around the world.

The business of America is the evil of war

They have weaponized the sky and are weaponizing space.

Wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience. (Ephesians 2:2). The Lord rebukes us all, because he loves us. We neither judge nor condemn any entity for all have sinned and all ought to seek forgiveness through repentance and atonement. Jesus said that God wants mercy. However, the US has been merciless.

The US has been the instrument of Satan. It teaches its youth to become soldier devils. It teaches them to show no compassion, to have no mercy, to destroy the poor even when their grievances about the US are true.
The message the people are given through the mainstream media is brought into conformance under a private, but for the most part publicly traded corporate, vision far from the Messianic (saving) message of Jesus. The people are told what they want. I mean they are fed stories telling them what the corporations want the people to want and telling the people that this is what the people want. They manufacture the idea in the people's heads that the people want things that they hadn't necessarily wanted. It becomes keeping up with the contrived neighbors in material goods and the other things corporations are pushing. What really matters goes by the wayside. The real message of Jesus is nowhere to be found. The same minds of the people are of course the same minds that vote for leaders in also contrived (controlled and undemocratic) elections. The competition is priced out, and regulated out, and deregulated out of the economic and political marketplace. The hurdles for having one's message put before the people are deliberately set to exclude those who see the manipulation for the bad thing that it is. The result is that the government is purchased by the highest bidder who then pays himself back and then much more.

Through the spoils system (to the political victor belongs the spoils), the conservative, antichrist politicians appoint commissioners who will do the corporation's bidding by further eroding any safe guards against concentration of power over news. Public interest has been removed as a consideration and replaced by corporation-shareholder interest. The more shares one owns, the more the media shows that one's selfish interests. Pause and think about that.

You are the public and your interest is smaller than those who are richer than you are. You are worth less. If you have no shares, you are completely worthless. Well, if the public's interest doesn't matter, then whose does? The privately privileged is the answer. Now that's just antichrist. It's Satan by definition.

The so-called free press is anything but free in any sense of the term.

There are those who will say that anyone can jump into the market and the sky is the limit. Well, that's true; however, it says nothing about the tilt of the field. It is easy for the greedy to run down hill claiming all the territory while others have to climb up over vertical outcroppings just to gain a foothold.

The capitalist Empire's voice stifles the truth. The result is a population literally brainwashed by the monopolists. So-called competition does away with competition until only a handful of relatively like-minded individuals (the Machiavellian capitalists, the most selfish and deceptive) sitting at the top control the lives of the masses. They will allow competition in new fields only. Then people are forced out after ideas have been stolen or marginalized. The range of debate is highly controlled so as not to range far from the black hole that is servitude to the spirit of mammon. Servitude to mammon is not allowed to be questioned within earshot of the masses. It might give them ideas. Ideas among the masses are a danger. Casting doubt in mammon by increasing faith in Christ frightens mammon worshippers' power elite: Those who are charged with keeping the faithful in line within the capitalist system. The worst of the breed of the power elite are the so-called Christian preachers who preach capitalism and the virtues of the falsehood that is called the free-enterprise system and who bless the warmongering of the nation. They are a curse on the land.

Christ though is the spirit of giving and sharing all, cooperation, and not competition. Christ devours no souls. Christ is not the spiritual black hole. God is the truth of the commons. The commons is everything for those who will believe it. The commons was pristine. Look at it now under the stewardship of the selfish. What lies down the road? That's the truth they don't want discussed to conclusion openly, honestly, or directly in their controlled, corporate media. Those calling themselves neoliberals in America and Europe will claim that had they not moved toward conservatism, the more conservative elements would have prevailed in elections and the consequences would have been worse than they are now. That is wrong. What they have accomplished is the diminishment of the public discussion and awareness of the higher calling of higher consciousness that is real liberalism.

Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. (Matthew 5:15).
They have made the world darker. Dimness is the light they give the people. Soon, everyone will be in total darkness and falling into the bottomless pit.

They have lent excuses to increased personal greed and iniquity. They caved into materialism. Now they are militarists, when once the liberal movement was pulling the world toward total and permanent global disarmament. Such disarmament is required for an enlightened planet and for the protection of God for souls.

Now they have bought into the lie that only the selfish can be motivated and that people owning in common will become lazy and dependent.

Sabotage designed into the welfare state

The reason those arguments were ever received was because when the welfare state was created and being ramped up, the unselfish teachings of The Bible were not also being taught. The people did not actually own what they lived in. It belonged to the state and the state belonged and belongs to the rich. That was the mistake. Had the people been taught the principles of unselfishness and had the people actually owned their places as true community property and had the people been employed by each other in the development of those places, all the arguments of the conservatives against the ideals of welfare would have never arisen. The system would have worked. The rich did not want it to work however. They did not wish to lose control of the yokes around the necks of the poor.
Trading one form of debt to evil for another: American style consumerism

Now concerning the current wave of conservatism pushing the poor nations under economic duress into privatization or the misnomered liberalization and where the poor nations cave in under the pressure of devastating hardship, the debt of those nations will simply be replaced by the individual debt of consumers and all the attendant nightmares of the hyper-consumer society will follow on. The nations will be bought up by the multinational corporations. Also, since the plan is for all nations to get on this bandwagon, the resulting nightmare is to be greatly magnified. All the problems attendant in America will spread out into the world. The problems in America will deepen severely. There will be a generation of terrorists raised up right in American homes. It has already begun to be manifest with all the school shootings that come in waves. The symptoms will change and move around though as the diseased state worsens all on account of greed and hypocrisy. This plan for the poor is as Pharaoh saying you may leave but you may not go too far. You may get out of one kind of debt, but you will stay under my heavy yoke.

And Pharaoh said, I will let you go, that ye may sacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderness; only ye shall not go very far away: intreat for me. (Exodus 8:28).

The poverty of the nation will be replaced by the worsening taxation of the land and resources in the forms of pollution, both spiritual and consequently manifested physically. The poverty created by the greed of others will be replaced by a new order of poverty through exploitation of the labor class and the creation of a marketing- and advertising-manipulated consumer class. Individuals will still be neglected and ignored just as they are in the richest nation in the world, only then their children will be unruly; greedy; hyper, neurotic, or depressed or all three; materialistic; violent; destructive; and more sexually disturbed. The consequences will be horrendous.

Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no place, that they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth! (Isaiah 5:8).

Poverty in America

We must all remember that in that richest nation in the world, there are some thirty-seven million people living in poverty. That's over twelve percent. Why? The spirit of hoarding is why. It has always been the reason.

This is not to say that we should want everyone to become spoiled materialists. We all need to do with less (deny ourselves, as Jesus called upon his followers to do). We need to spread the wealth always remembering first the poorest of the poor and no less the health of the planet.

The US is doing worse in eliminating poverty than every other developed country in the world. The US superrich in general look down upon the poor. To the rich, the poor are mostly only fit to serve the rich and they need to keep their place or be punished. In that world, anyone who wants to raise the poor is uppity. Jesus was such a person. That's why they murdered him, because he was uppity in their eyes that didn't see.

Selfish development is hell

Unchecked development is an evil consequence of the ravenous wolf of greed no matter how well it is wrapped in sheep's clothing. Examine the ends you have in mind so that you will know the righteousness of the means. Examine the means you have in mind so that you will know the righteousness of the ends that will result. With the mindless rush to growth of the wrong kind of development, the people will be further spurred to sprawl and spurred to competition. The spirit of cooperation and being able to commune alone with God in the wilderness will be almost nonexistent. The means of the kind of growth being advocated by the greedy are the means to the end that is hell on earth.

The global plan for development and economic growth is as follows, despite the best intentions of some of those putting forth plans. The once poor and now laborers and consumers will be marketed to in the same way as in the nations now consuming the greatest share of the world's resources, already being outstripped. (The world can heal though once the disease of greed is killed.) The new laborers and consumers will be brain washed into putting themselves first that has been the ruination of the hyper-capitalistic so-called modern, developed world. The rich conservatives hope that the me-generation, rather than the we-generation, will be the whole next generation of the earth. The global corporate system will see to it that the most developed nations are the most heavily invested in the developing nations. The ownership of dominant enterprises within the developing nations will not be shared equally amongst all the people. With the built in structure of global trade, the riches nations will still reap the short-sighted harvest more then the poorer and poorest nations. The net profits of these multinational corporations will ultimately find their way into the personal accounts of the largest shareholders and executives of those corporations. Those individuals and families of capitalistic developing-nations who reap will have cooperated in sowing the enemy that is greed with the wealthiest and most influential capitalists in the world.

The development plans put forth (even by those calling themselves liberals or Labour) for alleviating the poverty of the world are totally inappropriate and unchristian. It is just a different form of regression that they are calling reform. It is lauded by many of the wealthiest, because they know they will reap the lion’s share. It is not as altruistic as it may appear on the surface. When do the wealthiest laud anything unless they will benefit most? The faith of the people in the God-given system of provisioning for all the people through everyone giving and sharing all fairly and equitably will be further eroded into greater false security and faith in mammon (money), economic growth and development that will not take all things into consideration such as the environment and posterity. Get it now is the call of the conservative capitalists. Get it while it lasts. Let posterity worry about it.

Global industrialization is destruction

The first Apostles were certainly not for the current global industrialization. They saw it for what it is: Destructive of the earth. "Destroy them which destroy the earth." (Revelation 11:18). That's how they saw it and still see it.

These development plans are just a way of increasing what already ails the poorest nations. The poor do not need to be taken over. They do not need to have their nations be open territories for predatory capital. They do not need all of their resources turned over to private hands headed up by those outside and owned by shareholders looking for private gain at the expense of the poor. This whole path has been a disaster for many decades coming out of the older style imperialism and colonialism.

Obscene spirit of hoarding

There are as of this writing, an estimated nearly seven hundred billionaires in the world with a combined worth of some 2.2 trillion US dollars. As of September of 2005 according to Forbes magazine, the richest four hundred Americans are worth some 1.13 trillion US dollars (£640bn). The top three billionaires in the world are worth more than the bottom forty-eight nations of the world combined. Imagine that.

Now with great fanfare they have started giving their money to their favorite causes in sheep's clothing, which causes further facilitate the greedy corporate takeover of the earth.

   Take heed that ye do not your alms before men, to be seen of them: otherwise ye have no reward of your Father which is in heaven. (Matthew 6:1).

They give to the rich. Jesus though said, "Give to the poor." (Matthew 19:21).

Over a billion people live on less than a dollar a day (not that we want everyone buying polluting consumer goods with an influx of cash). How many tens of millions of children have died as a direct result of the abject neglect by the rich conservatives over recent decades?

False prosperity, false bounty

Faith in mammon, in capitalistic development, twists the meaning of prosperity. It is the same mistake as labeling the churlish (the stingy) bountiful. Out pacing the planet's ability to keep the land fat does not produce real bounty or real prosperity. Real bounty lies in using God's provisioning design and not in our imaginations that we are providing anything for ourselves. God does not help those who help themselves in the sense that that expression arose. It was not always so that people thought they were beholden to the economic system devised by human kind, devised to gain advantage over each other using one another. God gave freely. Humans claimed ownership and started charging.
In addition, God especially helps those with no ulterior motive of recompense (being compensated) who help others help yet others. We need to reinforce one another in that way. That is God working through us to overcome the system of selfish greed.

We need to be resolute in our peace. That path, and not capitalistic development, is the path of giving and sharing everything with no villainy or deception (no unexamined motives) and in full faith in God's provisioning. When anyone in the group doubts God it can ruin it for the rest of the group. Giving and sharing all will automatically result in good shepherding and good stewardship and, therefore, inexhaustible bounty beyond the mundane. Jesus showed us that with the fishes and the loaves. In the absence of doubt, the food increased without human effort. I will cite this story as the "feeding of the five thousand" a little later on in this work. It will become clear to you if you truly want to see it.16

Real prosperity is not short-sighted. It is more than sustainable. The means to that end match that end. The means are giving and sharing all. The end is that there will be more than enough for all and the land, sea, and air will be replenished. It goes beyond that though. It goes to the spirit.

16 If you want to know now, see Mark 8:19 in the Bibliography for the page numbers where it is quoted. You may also see "feeding of the five thousand" in the Index for the other places in this work where the subject is discussed.
Jesus had to leave before he could show the world how to devise the liberal devices to accomplish the goal. However, we have the Holy Spirit of truth to guide us. If Jesus hadn't done what he did and gone on ahead, we wouldn't have the Holy Spirit now pointing the way. We know that we are to gather the resources to accomplish the global project, for the whole world is to be saved. God, we, I, and you save it.

Is this messianic arrogance? The patient, the humble, the gentle inherit the new earth conflated with the kingdom of God. Are they the arrogant one's? Haven't the arrogant ones attempted to turn the word "messianic" into a pejorative? Ask yourself what they are trying to hide and why? Jesus was, and is, the Messiah. He was messianic. He told us to be one with him. How can one be one with the Messiah and do as he did, be Christlike, without being messianic—saving?

Don't allow the arrogant to ruin the words, the language. Their language is confusion, and they are still trying to build their willful towers to heaven. They build the wrong things for the wrong reasons, hence their shall not stand.

The current global-development goals of the wealthy, operating through the international institutions they control, are based upon a system and foundation with built-in divisions (fractures). That system will never see everyone with enough or the world replenished. Capitalistic development contains the seeds of its own destruction. The inherent competition that spurs short-cutting the environment is divided against cooperation that is requisite for global salvation. It is at odds with itself. Recompense for the already too rich is no path to ending what it created: Poverty of body and soul.

The international institutions controlled by the wealthy are too numerous to name here, but they include The United Nations itself. This may seem strange to hear for many since so many conservatives in the US are constantly railing against the UN. The truth be told, that railing is simply a means of procuring greater control. US wealth pays for much of the UN. The wealthy conservatives in the US see the UN as being only as good as it facilitates their agenda for global economic domination and empire. By criticizing the UN, those conservatives place enough selfish concern within the hearts and minds of other UN member states that those states then cave into the demands of the conservatives. Then the UN is made in the image of the conservatives, from which no good will come.

Sin of the World Bank, continued

Some of the chief means or global institutions by which the wealthy conservative capitalists dominate the world were formed as a result of the Bretton Woods Conference of 1944, technically named the United Nations Monetary and Financial Conference. Out of that conference came the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development now called the World Bank. It is critical for the people of the world to understand that only the wealthiest nations hold voting shares in the World Bank.
The poorer nations have no say in how the global funds are used. It is not democratic.

The various central banks around the world, the World Trade Organization (WTO), the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the World Bank, and the Bank for International Settlements are the focal points for global currency transactions run by the global oligarchs. Add to that the equity and commodities markets, and one is looking at the vast majority of the system.

Beginning in the 1960's and emphasized in the 1980's, the World Bank which is a for-profit institution, has made loans (for profit) to poor UN member nations for capitalistic-developmental projects. This is by no means a purely altruistic endeavor. That is obvious by the fact that the loans are not made to further any nationalized industries. They are made to further what the World Bank calls Private Sector Development (PSD), which means privatization to further private, special advantages and privileges of the wealthy class at the expense of the underclass. It means that the poor are not to be allowed collectively through their government of choice to own an equal share in the organizations that are to employ them, or serve them, enslave them. (Not that we advocate nationalization—the lesser of evils, depending upon distribution). Only the rich with funds to invest in ownership of private entities shall hold the equity stakes: Ownership. Then, only the rich will be able to continue making all the rules in furtherance of the system keeping a heavy and unjust yoke on the necks of the poor and oppressed. The poor remain the tools (the labor) of the upper class who skim the cream of value off the production through the blood, sweat, and tears of labor.

In response to constant criticism and to deflect such criticism while the wealthy go about economically (and militarily) dominating the world through other institutions, the World Bank Group system has begun to work on smaller-scale projects that make it appear to have a softhearted agendum. However, all efforts of the capitalistic system of which the World Bank will remain an inherent part are ultimately designed for the private, special advantage and privilege of those at the pinnacle of that system. It is inherently antichristian.

The International Development Association, one of four affiliated agencies of the World Bank Group, makes zero-interest loans of contributed funds from wealthy nations to the poorest nations. These efforts can easily be mistaken for truly liberal devices. They are not. So-called liberals push these institutions to adopt less destructive methods, but the inherent basis for the very existence of these institutions is in the furtherance of selfishness that is the core of capitalism. It is not Christian. The Christian approach is not loaning to private enterprise, which loans are required to be guaranteed by the whole nation meaning including the poorest citizens who have no say in the matter. The Christian approach is to make pure gifts directly for the poor people to hold all things in common, regardless of whether or not their states are member states and while being not only totally benign concerning the environment but actually restorative.
Cooperation and not competition is the path to heaven. Even now, the two most populous nations in the world, China and India, are in fierce competition with each other and the United States and others for fossil-fuel energy contracts around the world. This is not the cooperative path to heaven. This is while the United States has gained dominance over Iraqi oil, the love of the monetary value of which was the ultimate reason why the US invaded Iraq. This is also while the US guns for Iranian oil, African oil, South American oil and gas, and on and on.

Satan's temporary superpower status

The neoconservatives have stated and written outright that they do not want to allow any other nation to gain superpower status. It is their intention to deny any other nation, or group of nations, access to the resources necessary to achieve superpower status. They intend to carry out that denial by controlling such access by whatever means necessary. They intend to put themselves into that position of control by, among other things, overwhelming military threats, invasions, and occupations; technologic and economic duress; appeals to greed; and bribery of the selfish throughout every region of the world.

The most important resource to them right now is oil. They want it for themselves for their personal wealth and to deny it to anyone they cannot completely control. The US gained control of Iraqi oil, because the neoconservative policy makers knew that China and India were going to drive for industrialization and so-called modernization which would necessitate those countries gaining vast flows of oil to burn for energy to drive their newly forming economies.

To hell with the oil economy

Concerning the oil economy, we have known for many decades now that oil is an unhealthy energy source, because it pollutes. The conservatives heading up the US administration as of this writing are what are still called oilmen. What kind of mindset have they had and still have since it has been known for nearly forty years that the economies of the world must break the oil addiction for the sake of the environment and, therefore, for the sake of all? Yet, they not only remained in oil but continue to this day to promote it. What does it say about them that they never joined the environmental movement even after so many decades?

The environmental movement

If not for the environmental movement, this nation of America would have choked to death by now. It was not the invisible hand of Adam Smith that started or promoted the environmental movement that has saved so many lives and made the lives of all of us so much better than they would have been otherwise. Had the oilmen had their way since the beginning of the environmental movement, this nation and the planet would be in a deeper nightmare than the one in which it remains. They want their way now to continue turning the world into that deeper darkness away from God.
Rather than put all the nation's resources into trying to block other nations from access to oil by trying to monopolize as much of it for America as possible, the Empire ought to throw its abilities behind completely renewable, sustainable, non-polluting energy development. That should have happened at least thirty-five years ago. If it had, we would have reached the goal by now. Then, those other nations attempting to rise out of poverty would not be looking to the polluting source that is oil but would be able to duplicate America's clean methods. Also, the Middle East would not be the powder keg that it remains because of its oil reserves. The Arabs and others there could have moved on to non-counterproductive means of sustaining their lives rather than relying upon being suppliers of filthy energy.

The real economy, real quality of life

The status quo seeks to protect its current investments in the fossil-fuels industry. This includes the personal-transportation sector. What these conservatives are missing is the understanding that society can shift anyway it chooses while improving the economy for all. By economy here, I mean in the ancient sense of the word, as in quality of life for all those in the house and not just for those at the top trying to amass money for themselves. If society chooses to shift to clean, safe, renewable energy to produce electricity or hydrogen, there will be no loss to economic vitality. In fact, the opposite is the case. The economy would experience a boom: Real abundance. This would not damage the status-quo investment holders at all. In fact, if they were to throw all their collective energies into such projects, they would discover at the end of the day that their personal quality of life would have risen dramatically, even though they would no longer have what they mistakenly think is a high personal net worth, as such worth is mundanely defined at the time of this writing. More importantly though for them, if their hearts get in the right place, the real quality of life for all others would have risen dramatically.

Such is the nature of the godly principle of unselfishness. The idea that clean, safe, renewable energy development could not replace fuel oil as the source of energy for transportation is nothing but shortsightedness, which is the plague of humanity. All it would take to change from fuel oil to renewables is a decision—that's all. It wouldn't be any different from the decision to go to the Moon as the Apollo Program, build the atom bomb under the Manhattan Project, supply hydroelectricity under the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Marshall Plan to rebuild Europe after World War II, the US Interstate Highway System, and myriad other projects including those undertaken by other than the US. The current system was built up. It can simply transfigure under a consensus decision that it is the right thing to do so we must do it.

I cite the examples above (Apollo Program, Manhattan Project, Tennessee Valley Authority, Marshall Plan, and the US Interstate Highway System) not to endorse those projects but rather as examples of decisions that were made for relatively major, somewhat cooperative, projects regardless of the fact that the US economic... system is corporatist and capitalistic. Many of the so-called Wonders of the World were not constructed via capitalism but rather simply decided upon. That any were done out of a spirit of cooperation is doubtful. However, that does not preclude that major undertakings could not result from allowing societies to move toward alternatives by taking away militant threats by capitalism or any other system be it Islam or a centralized, large-c Communist, planned economy.

Just to be clear, we are saying that the Chicago School of economic thought should not be afraid to compete against democracy in the workplace and full employee ownership. The Chicago School argues for economic libertarianism so long as the government uses military coercion to preclude people from joining together in cooperative projects. That’s far from fair.

As for the oil economy, even if shale oil and oil sands (tar sands) and coal can be refined into synthetic oil and further into gasoline and such, the problem of global warming would continue. Vehicular antipollution devices have not been brought to the fore that capture and store (sequester) all the carbon exhaust of fossil-fuel burning. The fossil-fuel industry is premised upon selfishness; hence, it cannot be pursued with a good outcome in its own right.

The White House, conservatives, oil, and killing the planet

The entire system of the oilmen, since the environmental hazards have been well established for nearly forty years now, has been totally shortsighted and insane. Look at the state of affairs when a former oil industry lobbyist (American Petroleum Institute) and lawyer, Philip Cooney, is found changing and deleting critical portions of White House documents concerning the science behind global warming. Philip Cooney altered the documents to paint a picture that scientists are informing the White House that global warming is nearly non-existent or at the least less likely or urgent than those scientists had reported. This same Philip Cooney was at the time the chairperson of the President's Council on Environmental Quality.

ExxonMobil

Where is his new job? ExxonMobil Corporation, the world's largest oil company, is the answer. ExxonMobil has spent many millions of dollars to do for the issue of global warming what the Tobacco Institute did for the issue of tobacco-caused cancer and other lung diseases and heart and other diseases. ExxonMobil has a public-relations, perception-management, psyops program going in order to throw the public off the scent of the root cause of global warming that is the selfishness and greed behind ExxonMobil's and the other oil companies' entire utterly evil industry.

This goes to show the mind-set of the president in having people in such important positions concerning the health of the entire planet.

Now, ExxonMobil is so powerful and so corrupt that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is conducting political tax-audits at ExxonMobil's behest against dissenting groups such as Greenpeace, who passed the audit with flying colors. This kind of political auditing hasn't happened since under Richard Nixon. This country is going to hell.

Greenpeace was audited because of the pressure caused by a group, Public Interest Watch, nearly entirely funded by ExxonMobil, of whom Greenpeace has been historically very critical for ExxonMobil's contribution to global warming. Public Interest Watch put pressure on the IRS by drumming up and spreading lies about Greenpeace finances. This is the same kind of garbage that the Tobacco Institute did, claiming nicotine isn't addictive. ExxonMobil is hiring scientists and others to say what ExxonMobil wants said to the people (that global warming isn't happening) and they want to crush anyone who tells the truth.

Now, even George W. Bush has admitted to global warming; however, he's calling for people not to focus on who is responsible. That way, the people won't make the connection of greed (upon which capitalism is based) as the root cause. Most importantly to George though is that the people not expect the rich to pay to reverse the situation. It will have to be a sacrifice made by the poor. That's always the way of the rich. It's sheer evil selfishness.

In the face of such revealing developments as Philip Cooney's being caught falsifying scientific evidence and reports for the White House, George W. Bush has been advised for political reasons to say, "I recognize that the surface of the earth is warmer and that an increase in greenhouse gases caused by humans is contributing to the problem." It is a change in political tactics. They don't want openly to fight the tide of awareness anymore. Now they will seek to use other delaying tactics still allowing the private industry to continue dictating policy and controlling the process from even deeper behind the scenes.

As with Philip Cooney, the former chairperson of the President's Council on Environmental Quality, who was falsifying scientific reports for the White House on global warming for president George W. Bush to make those reports conform with conservative-Republican policy (the same thing that happened with intelligence reports concerning Iraq and terrorism, etcetera), a Bush political appointee, George C. Deutsch, as a press officer to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has resigned after among other things having been shown to have issued directives in an attempt to gag NASA scientists from speaking publicly in an uncensored manner concerning human-caused air pollution that is further causing the rapid increase in global warming. The pollution is a direct result of industrialization spurred on by capitalism.

Now we see a mass movement of Christian evangelicals finally beginning to see the light that has been there since the beginning. They are starting to become environmentally aware now that disasters are upon them. This is not to say that there haven't always been some environmentalist, Christian evangelicals. There have been. They were just extremely few in number. The issue remains as to whether the evangelicals are being motivated selfishly out of fear or unselfishly out of love. If it is love, it is right. If it is fear, let us pray that it is out of respect for God and not fear for self first. It is not wrong to fear for self provided it is from the proper perspective, under the proper meaning of the terms involved. It is right to be moved first and always by fear out of a love of compassion and mercy for all.

What is happening to the earth?

For decades, groups such as the George C. Marshall Institute, a so-called think tank paid for by ultra conservatives and oil corporations, has been claiming that global warming is nonexistent or not a concern. Now we know that satellite data concerning the warming of the tropical regions were under reported due to using readings taken at night in those regions whereas the readings for the rest of the planet were daytime readings. This made the tropics appear to be cooling while they, as with the rest of the planet, were actually warming up.

We also have learned that gigantic peat bogs the size of France and Germany combined that had been frozen for some eleven thousand years in Siberia have begun dramatically to thaw starting just within the last three to four years. That will release huge quantities of methane gas (a greenhouse gas) into the atmosphere. That will accelerate the warming effect. All of the affects of warming will cascade. Also, the ice sheets of the world are melting at a rate that scientists predict could result in summers without ice in the Artic Ocean in as little as one hundred years. Without a dramatic change of heart, it will be sooner than that, a lot sooner. They estimate that the Artic has been covered with ice for at least one million years. Of course, they don't have it right. They are though on the right track for a while. Their models will fail with the ever accelerating rate of change. Even as their computers speed up, their models will still be unable to continue to predict the coming crisis. Selfishness is inherent within the whole system that is developing their very models and computers. It will insure failure. This is the direct impact of greed.

Mountains will fall in the seas. The earth will rise up against human kind.

Natural disasters are consequences of the selfish spirit

All of the things people call natural disasters are interrelated in ways not anticipated even by the highest science. The whole of the very skin of the earth will be affected. The whole of the oceans will be affected. Earthquakes and undersea frozen methane landslides and other events are inextricably interconnected. Why this is being missed is simply because the selfish mindset does not appreciate the degree to which all things are interconnected and interdependent.

The evil of the day is never over until the day is over. The old expression applies. Never count your chickens before they are hatched. At the same time, where there is no doubt, the opposite is true.
Emotions are power

Everything is interconnected. Every soul's emotions communicate even without a soul's having communicated in the mundane human-to-human verbal sense. Those emotions cause things to happen. The more a person is in tune with this reality, the more that person can affect things.

There are those who will read this in shock that I'm revealing it. They will fear that I am giving information to the enemy who will use it for evil ends. No. This power exists whether or not it is spoken now. It was spoken long ago in the beginning. It exists in the mundane world. The evil emotions are already bringing forth war and destruction. See it. People are already doing great harm via their emotions without being cognizant of it at all. The reason for sharing this is to make people cognizant so that their consciences can work to avoid the harm.

The power of God's sensibilities

Also, the emotions hold all the power to do the good. It was on account of Jesus's emotional state that through God miracles occurred. Jesus's emotional state was his spirit. He had God's emotions. That's why he brought forth healing as the opposite of war and destruction, devouring and corrupting.

For those who fear, have faith in God. God is the ultimate. There would be no emotions without God. Evil has actually been attempting to suppress the general knowledge of the power of good emotions. It is why the prince of this world is of the dark side. Fear not. The light is greater than the dark. Heaven is greater than hell. Satan ultimately fears God no matter what Satan claims. God has nothing to fear.

God is not the God of a little nation or a little people or a patch of land on the earth. God is the God of everything that exists seen and unseen. God is simply merciful. That's why we exist. That's why we keep on having the opportunity to turn to righteousness. It's wonderful. It's amazing love.

On one level, people attribute this to superstition. To those on the spiritual level, they know it is God. Those of superstition, think things can be jinxed. Those of God know the reason and meaning behind why things happen. They are being taught and guided by the Holy Spirit.

Harmless rebuking

They must become careful to be as harmless as doves, because the tool can be wielded with great consequences for good or inadvertent or ignorant evil. Being Christlike is the only thing that assures the proper use of the tool and no offense to God.

The line between righteous rebuking and becoming evilly wrathful can seem fuzzy at first glance. Some people respond to righteousness as provocation. Their nature is incorrigibility. They need to remake themselves. They need to get a new nature. Some people whip the easily correctable into threatening or even wrathful reactions. The would-be rebuker needs to read the correctability of the wayward.
God deals with each soul individually even as God can deal collectively with creation.

We should do unto others as we would have them do unto us, and we should have them tell us when we are astray but far short of beating us and even short of any hostile feelings toward us. We should have it that way for the sake of all souls. All should be rebuked for cause. Beating others is one of the things concerning which one ought to be rebuked. This is the way up and out of the bottomless pit of darkness. Silence in the face of, and anger and violence in reaction to, wrongdoing is the way down into that pit. To turn the other cheek might appear to require never rebuking; however, it is not a case of whether or not ever to rebuke. It is a question of how. Violent or abusive rebuking is what is to be avoided. It poisons the soul of the one rebuking and tempts the one being rebuked.

If words of truth won't reach the one, that one is outside the fold. That one can't hear God's voice. That one will be separated out with the goats. This is where perpetual backsliders cause their own rejection. This is where the righteous are delivered from the unrighteous.

Kinds of prophets

There are two kinds of prophets. One is told what will happen well out in advance. The other is given the power by God to make things happen through God even immediately. There are also prophets who are a combination of both. Daniel is a good example of the first kind. Moses and Elijah are good examples of the second. Moses and Elijah made horrific, immediate things happen. They could speak iniquity out of existence on this plane. God found faith in them. Moses also was told the future well out in advance. Jesus is also a prime example of the combination. Jesus though called for no harm. Horrific things did end up happening, but they happened on account of the harm done to Jesus and all that those things implied about the condition of the hearts of those who engaged in those horrors. Jesus spoke the highest justice, because the time had come for the people to be further enlightened and separated and because Jesus was closest to God, knew God best. The prophets did their jobs at their appointed times. It is not for us to judge or condemn the relative light revealed before Jesus. Our hindsight rests on the shoulders of both Moses and Jesus after all.

Within a given context, Moses was headed in the right direction relative to the place from which the people came: Egypt (the pharaonic). Jesus did not deny Moses.

You will please see though that with Jesus the standard went up infinitely by virtue of his doing away with hypocrisy within the faith. Also, the domain (the people's conception of God's kingdom) enlarged infinitely by no longer limiting the kingdom on earth to the mundane boundaries of Jerusalem or the Promised Land. One cannot conceive a better standard or a greater domain.

The mindset that cannot perceive the power of God's sensibilities, the correctness of harmless rebuking, and the revelation in the prophets coming to the new commandment, cannot either adequately perceive interconnectedness and interdependence. That mindset is just so steeped in the false notion of autonomy that it cannot bring itself to believe just how dependent each is and all are. It runs contrary to their whole philosophy of subduing the planet through competition. They seek to rule rather than be cooperatively rulable. They believe it is better to rule in hell than serve in heaven. They are so wrong and will rue their choices.

George W. Bush and neocons are anti-environmentalists

Because of this lack of understand of interconnectedness and interdependence, the current president (Bush-43) and his people are anti-environmental. There is no doubt about it. They are against doing much of anything to have a clean environment for you and for everyone else, because they see it as hurting their pocket books and power and control, etcetera. They claim it would cost US jobs. That's a smokescreen to cover their primary concern: The oil industry and other polluting industries that back George W. Bush. When compared with potential losses in stock values and profits of the major US oil corporations, they are hardly concerned about the negative health ramifications of pollution and the toll such pollution is having upon the entire biosphere including global climate, etc. The fascist Republicans have moved in the US Congress to do away with the Environmental Protection Agency's Toxics Release Inventory (TRI) program. The fascists want to do away with polluting industries having to track and report their toxic releases. This is more of the work of the prince of the world to bring back the more hellish days of the unbridled pollution of the 1940's through early 1980's only worse since there would be more release now than even then. We would have more Love Canals and superfund cleanup sites in the making again.

Why have the people rewarded such insanity with leadership? Those followers have been likewise of unsound minds.

How long will ye judge unjustly, and accept the persons of the wicked? (Psalm 82:2).

They have only served to harm their own posterity and all the other people of the world while selling their own souls to the devil.

Sacrifice for God or worldly Empire

Self-preservation and reproduction (our lives in the flesh and those of our physical posterity) were never intended to be sacrificed for the perpetuation of the Empire of lust. The Empire calls upon people to do that. The Empire frowns upon the impetus behind the self-sacrifice of Jesus. Jesus acted not for that empire but against everything for which it stands. He overcame the desire for self that the Empire depends upon in its herd. He showed that the Empire asks for us to be split down the middle for the Empire's sake. He showed that the leaders of the Empire spur people on to greed and then ask them to go out to kill and die for the sake of others to pursue that greed. They ask for selfishness and then a warped sense of unselfishness and cooperation: Greed and then military so-called sacrifices. Jesus showed the hypocrisy in it all.

We are born with urges designed into our bodies and lives. We are also born with the ability for higher consciousness that clearly tells us that the more uncontrolled our selfish appetites the greater is destruction. Why are we following those who encourage the mixed signals of feeding into uncontrolled appetites, and, therefore, destruction, and at the same time self-sacrifice (killing and being killed) for the perpetuation of that immoral path for the survivors? Why are we subjecting our children to that state of confusion? It is time to stop.

It is time for new leadership. It is time for a great change in the mindset of all the people of the world away from the message of greed and too the Gospel message of the greatest self-restraint through God for the sake of all.

The worldly Empire: Preempt to control energy

The 1992 policy statement entitled Defense Planning Guidance created by neoconservative Paul Wolfowitz, who was at the time the undersecretary of defense for policy stated the following:

Our first objective is to prevent the re-emergence of a new rival. This is a dominant consideration underlying the new regional defense strategy and requires that we endeavor to prevent any hostile power from dominating a region whose resources would, under consolidated control, be sufficient to generate global power. These regions include Western Europe, East Asia, the territory of the former Soviet Union, and Southwest Asia.

World War II saw a huge boost to US industrial capacity that was already the greatest in the world by a magnitude of order. Also, the US mainland was not devastated by the war, as were all the other powers. That left he US in a position that it immediately began to squander by selfishness. Since after World War II, the US has been steadily losing its preeminent position in the world. It's worried.

… the relative economic strength of the United States is continuing to weaken. In 1950 the United States accounted for about half of world GDP, falling to a little over a fifth by 2003. Likewise it accounted for almost half of the world’s stock of global foreign direct investment in 1960, compared to a little over 20 percent at the beginning of this century.\(^\text{17}\)

The US has gone from half to a fifth. It is becoming desperate. It feels very threatened. It is paranoid about losing its possessions and deliberately spreading fear. It is armed, intoxicated, and acting impulsively, creating mayhem. It is planting and reap the seeds of its own destruction.

Maintain disparity at all cost including the soul of the nation

Paul Wolfowitz didn't invent this ruinous path. The most important thing to US policy is to maintain disparity, as George F. Kennan put it.

…we [The US in 1948] have about 50% of the world's wealth but only 6.3% of its population. This disparity is particularly great as between ourselves and the peoples of Asia. In this situation, we cannot fail to be the object of envy and resentment. Our real task in the coming period is to devise a pattern of relationships which will permit us to maintain this position of disparity without positive detriment to our national security. To do so, we will have to dispense with all sentimentality and daydreaming; and our attention will have to be concentrated everywhere on our immediate national objectives. We need not deceive ourselves that we can afford today the luxury of altruism and world-benevolence.18

---

That's antichrist.

Without disparity, there can't be any capitalism. To maintain disparity, it is imperative to stamp out every effort in the world to eliminate disparity. There are disagreements between Republicans and Democrats as how to best do this and about the degree to which disparity need be pronounced, but the goal remains the same: Competition over cooperation. This is why the US government hates God and Jesus so much. This is why they conveniently select from traditional interpretations of Jesus's message rather than using Jesus's words directly.

They are liars. The US is a Beast of Biblical proportions.

You see, George F. Kennan didn't invent it either. It goes all the way back to the beginning of evil: Selfishness that ruins everything.

China becomes the greatest multifaceted threat the US has ever known

Today, empires run on oil. China and India are rising and requiring more and more oil to drive the engine of consumption. Contrary to the US government and those power elitists who own it and run it, China currently though is not interested in maintaining income and wealth disparity indefinitely. This makes China a huge threat to US false-libertarian and neoliberal... capitalism. Along with China’s competition for global oil and gas, this makes China a double threat. With China rapidly developing industrially, technologically, and militarily and with China having the largest population in the world able to supply the largest army, China becomes the greatest multifaceted threat the US has ever known.

Therefore, anywhere there is oil that can be denied China’s control, the US will become more and more involved in ways designed for the US to control that oil directly or through proxies and subservient allies such as Australia under the conservative Howard government.

East Timor, easy prey

John Howard, the prime minister of Australia, has been allowed to colonize East Timor as a reward for Australia's participation in Afghanistan and Iraq. East Timor, it was discovered in the 1970’s, has off shore oil and gas reserves, known as the Timor Sea fields, worth tens of billions of US dollars. It also sits at a strategic world shipping lane. Australia had already managed to do a totally undemocratic deal, called the Timor Gap Treaty with the Suharto dictatorship of Indonesia for East Timor's assets, and Howard simply wants greater control of the area. When East Timor started negotiations with other nations, such as China, to build refineries in East Timor, Australia invaded East Timor and has taken over.
The Australian Defence Force (ADF) wrote the following:

The first objective is to pursue Australia's broad strategic interests in East Timor, namely denial, access and influence. The strategic interest of denial seeks to ensure that no foreign power gains an unacceptable level of access to East Timor, and is coupled with the complementary objective of seeking access to East Timor for Australia, in particular the ADF. Australia’s strategic interests can also be protected and pursued more effectively if Australia maintains some degree of influence over East Timor's decision-making.

Right now, East Timor has been economically squeezed and crushed on purpose by Australia, the US, the World Bank, and the IMF. It is an economic basket case (a near failed state), made so by the unmitigated and un-forgiven greed of capitalists. They were forced to give away way too much of what is rightfully theirs just to be thrown royalty scraps far less than enough to feed their starving people with the rest being held back by the World Bank, as if the World Bank has a right to deny the poorest people on the planet from having access to money to pay for their social needs such as schools, replacing destroyed infrastructure, hospitals, farms, housing, etc. Where's the shame in Canberra, Australia and Washington, DC?
The US will also continually seek to control all the avenues for transporting materials and goods around the world. Watch the ocean shipping lanes. In doing this, they will allow any other nation to do anything it wants with human beings just so long as the rich in the US get materials, goods, services, and markets. Deny others the oil. Hog it all. That's the plan.

US Empire: Retread Britain

This is really just a retread of the British industrial revolution's answer to the then up-and-coming US and German industrial powerhouses. The British pushed for colonial and imperial control for the sake of British markets and to block others. They used the Russians as a pretext for Britain's expansionism in Afghanistan and India. Empires have been playing chess since the first empire, some more openly than others. It's time to grow up to bring forth sustained abundance for all God's children by following God's directives.

Now, how does the 1992 Defense Planning Guidance created by neoconservative Paul Wolfowitz square with the following?

The American people know the difference between responsible and irresponsible debate when they see it. They know the difference between honest critics who question the way the war is being prosecuted and partisan critics who claim that we acted in Iraq because of oil or because of Israel or because we misled the American people.
That was George W. Bush, January 10, 2006, speaking before the Veterans of Foreign Wars. One can hear Karl Rove coming through loud and clear. We discuss Karl Rove a bit later. He is Bush’s top advisor.

The Bush Doctrine: Shadow of the Beast
Bush’s doctrine is the Defense Planning Guidance mentioned above. Oil is a huge focus of their doctrine. People were murdered to deny oil to China and India and others. They died so that US oil corporations could dominate Iraqi oil, which they now do.

His statement, "The American people know the difference," doesn’t jibe with his doctrinal focus of supporting the false version of Zionism. His statement doesn’t jibe with the forgeries and distortions knowingly presented to the American public and the world as grounds for invasion. He knows these things and continues blatantly to lie about them hoping that the people will fall for his lies if they are repeated often enough. His doctrines are totally unchristian and will not stand.

His edifice will fall of its own top-heaviness and feet of clay shattered by the rock of truth crashing through, freeing the minds of the people from the shadow of the Beast.

Why America fights
There are debates about what the motives have been, and are, for why America fights: Money, profits, power, control, lust, revenge, resource expropriation, oil, land, covetousness, cheap labor, little or no worker-safety regulations, little or no environmental regulations, representative democracy, republican democracy, capitalism, open markets, liberty, freedom, lies, belief, religion, safety, security, rule of law, and on and on. The fact is that it is all of the above. Some things motivate some people more than they motivate others, and the terms overlap. The truth is that the leadership can convince itself that all the bad, applicable connotations of the terms are wrapped in and justified by good, noble, honorable, and dutiful notions. They can convince themselves that the bad are consequences of what they claim is a proper philosophy of life. The current leadership is not against any one of the above mentioned motivations. They may fudge at what they would call loaded terms such as "lust," "covetousness," and "lies," but qualify the terms the way they do, and they readily accept them as representative of their motives and claim they are proper.

Satan wants global thermonuclear war: Souls dead of the spirit of righteousness

Paul Wolfowitz, the author of the Defense Planning Guidance, also advocated preemptive strikes, unilateral if needed in his view, against any other nation or group perceived as a potential weapons threat. Preemptive strikes had always been denounced as insane due to the potential for increasing the likelihood for global thermonuclear exchange. Declarations against preemptive strikes were previously worded as "no first strike." The correct thinking was that a position such as that taken by Wolfowitz would increase the itchiness of trigger fingers. After all, a first strike might render the aggressor nation more survivable. Along with the no first strike or no preemptive strike doctrine went the idea that there was a high probability that a first strike would insure a full retaliatory response. This was due to the early warning systems still in place that would detect incoming missiles in time to assure a full launching of missiles by the side to be hit first. In the end, there would be a total exchange rendering much of the earth, if not all of the earth, uninhabitable by human beings for a number of reasons including radiation and nuclear winter.

Now the Wolfowitz Doctrine has actually hastened the day of thermonuclear war. The neocons are pushing again the concepts of limited nuclear war and tactical nuclear weapons. This has been approved by the US Congress when it approved the 2002 Nuclear Posture Review.

I wrote this here before Seymour Hersh was attacked by neocons for writing in The New Yorker, April 2006, that the Bush-43 administration was planning a tactical nuclear strike against Iranian deeply buried and harden targets.

We've known about the Pentagon's contractor's research and development of such weapons for decades. They've discussed such things in their meetings amongst themselves all along to keep the desensitization process active within in preparation for going public when the pretext could be drummed up. It was only a matter of time before the warmongers trotted out the concept again to try it out on a new generation of Americans. Is it going to fly? They just need another pretext. They need another 9-11, Pearl Harbor, sinking of the Maine, Alamo, or Gulf of Tonkin. They need to push people around enough so they push back. They need to pick a fight. Then they will scream terror to the Americans who will wink and nod at one another.

Bush called the revelation that he is planning to use nuclear weapons "wild speculation." It isn't wild speculation. It's absolute fact. Planning and doing are different phases.

They've done the targeting already. They've targeted everything, thousands of targets. They hate the Iranians, the Persians. They want to kill them, to destroy their nation. They want to take over the oil and gas. They want to feed their addiction, their lusts.

They're monitoring on the ground, via satellite, via drones, and via every other means they can muster. Their plans are huge. Their computer databases are huge. Their computers are super secret, supercomputers that are trying to sneak in everywhere. This wouldn't matter except they aren't trustworthy. They are corrupt. Their fruit is rotten.

The truth is that the US is planning belligerently to attack countries using precision-guided, so-called lower-yield nuclear weapons if it can create the right pretext. Many of these weapons will be deep-ground-penetrating to minimize fallout. The US neocons want to be able to conduct business on the ground afterwards after all. Iran, Syria, and North Korea are highest on the list of priority targets in that order. These nations have been deliberately goaded in order for the neocons to create a pretext and a lynch-mob mentality and atmosphere for attack. At the same time, the US also uses the exact opposite approach in order to bewilder the fabricated enemy.

Iraq is being used by the US military and capitalist power elite as an object lesson for the entire world. The rest of the world is to be made aware that the US has a side that is crazier than that of any other nation. The rest of the world is to be made so afraid of the insanity and ruthlessness of the US military that it won't even consider fighting the US. It's why the North Koreans quickly announced that they have nuclear weapons and why they've fired off test missiles with such publicity and over the heads of others, all really to grab the whole world's attention.

They want the US and others to know that if the US does anything to North Korea, the US will do so without being sure as to whether or not the North Koreans have operatives with weapons some where who will retaliate on a catastrophic global level. It's their insurance policy.

The US wants to circumvent due process. They are working now through the United Kingdom, Germany, and France to avoid the criticisms the Bush-43 administration faced going into Iraq. Tony Blair, with the understanding of the French and German leadership, is simply about creating a smoke screen as part of the evolved Bush Doctrine. He's providing himself cover as well by openly stating that Britain won't be entering the war against Iran.

That's what he thinks. Britain helped start this thing, and it will be sucked in when it is hit just to continue the process of spreading a lively terror.

Iran and nuclear weapons

How many innocents must die?

How many innocents must die in the misguided attempt to protect Dick Cheney's evil worldly gains?

Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently inquired of the wise men. (Matthew 2:16).

Cheney said that if there is just a "one-percent" possibility of so-called terrorists obtaining weapons, the US must strike as if that one percent is a sure thing. Even if the US intelligence community, what is left of it, believes that it is ninety-nine percent sure that Iran is not developing nuclear weapons to give to those who would use them to terrorize the Cheney clan, Cheney says bomb them back to the stone age.

This sort of strategy is not supposed to make the US a target? Such a policy by the US leadership simply convinces selfish others that the US is run by madmen and must be stopped at all costs.

Of course we know that Cheney doesn't need even that one percent as a reason to attack others. Just expanding the worldly Empire is reason enough. However, he use the one percent as a pretext, as the weakest of creditability that he is still human rather than making himself a full serpent at heart on the order of the Pharisees.

The US and UK are lying about Iran. They don't know that Iran is working on nuclear weapons. They have no proof at all. Iran has not been shown to be in violation of the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty. However, the US and UK are. Both the US and UK are supposed to be disarming. They are both working on a new generation of nuclear weapons. Less than a month ago, this being March 10, 2006, as I am entering this, the US was saying that Iran was many years from developing nuclear weapons. Suddenly, that changed without any new information. The claim became that Iran is only several months away from acquiring nuclear weapons manufacturing capability and materials. This is all a lie just as the lead-up to the Iraq War. The US wants to attack Iran, because the leaders of America are despicable belligerents: Hardhearted.

It is for cause that we say this openly. We say it not to punish the wicked, though they will suffer their consequences, but to save the innocent and to call to the lost of the fold to turn for home that is heaven.
Many were fooled by the lies of the greedy about Iraq, Panama, Grenada, Vietnam, Spain, the Philippines, Mexico, the American Indians, and on and on. There will be no excuse of being fooled for following the perjurers this time concerning Iran.

The only way to deal with Iran and every nation is through proving Jesus. There is no other right way. Anything else is cowardice, dishonor, and dereliction of duty to God.

The militant capitalist revolution (Satan’s revolution) undermines the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty (NPT) and the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty. Once upon a time, the US was moving in the direction of total disarmament and had a nuclear freeze mentality (freezing tests). The ravening wolves though talk up the need for bunker busters with nuclear tips. The capitalists want a new nuclear arms race so they can make huge profits off the taxpayers. The Nuclear Freeze Movement must now be revived. Other nations are refusing to sign on to the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty, because the US is not working to disarm. The world must totally disarm.

The American hit list

In addition, Venezuela and Cuba are not far below Iran on the list of countries to attack. Other nations are added and deleted and moved up and down on the list as the neocons sense relative anti-Empire sentiments and capabilities, etc. China has always been on the list, and Russia knows it is at much greater risk than is being let on in the US mainstream media. All nations have weighed their relative positions.
They have all weighed the degree to which they are willing to come to heel and actually share the neocon philosophy and ideology of coercion for the sake of the power of the prince of America.

Bringing out the worst in each other

Each nation-state and group is willing to prostitute itself to other nations or with other nations both for and against the US. Some will say they are against the US but for the American people. Some will say there is no difference. The worse the US becomes, the more the others will be willing to become worse themselves in reaction to what they see as the global dictatorship of the US system.

Hyper warmongers and military contractors in the US welcome this. They see it as their opportunity to expand the Empire and to make bigger war-profits.

This is the repetitive error of international relations since the beginning. It is what the prophets prophesied about. They warned and still warn Israel not to get into bed with doomed empires but to rather walk with God always being, therefore, a force for good in the world changing hearts.

Russia too embraces dictatorships

Vladimir Putin, president of Russia, for instance will embrace dictators in former Soviet states such as Alexander Lukashenko of Belarus, who has been running a command economy and has shut down most opposition voices and disbanded a parliament all in fear of capitalism and all in exactly the wrong reaction to capitalism. His fears of a capitalist takeover of course, if a more open giving and sharing society were promoted, are not unfounded where there is insufficient faith.

Lukashenko is supported by many people within Belarus who fear unbridled capitalism, because such capitalism is not egalitarian. It leaves people behind and destitute and starving. There are no starving people in Belarus. The old and those on the farms are not left behind.

Lukashenko built a socialist-oriented government, preserved Soviet-era industry and agriculture, held corruption in check, spoke his mind to Western powers and defturn, hasn't been unduly influenced by oligarchs.19

The choice though is false. The choice is not between coercive capitalism or Lukashenko's style of coercive governance. Jesus employed neither model.

Belarus could guarantee that the old, ruralists, and others are not neglected while still giving great voice to individuals acting in concert in the spirit of willing cooperation rather than having it forced upon them in fear.

Lukashenko is roundly criticized by hypocritical outsiders for unfair elections, no freedom of the press, no freedom of assembly, etc. The US government of George W. Bush publicly criticizes Lukashenko for these things while Bush steals elections, the huge corporations dominate the press in the US (with the exception of the Internet that they seek to also dominate), and while protesters are herded into protest pens farther away from the powers that be.

The economics of Jesus Christ: The only viable option

Capitalists wish for the people to think that the choice Jesus represents does not exist. They are forever lying that way. It is the biggest lie on earth. We hate it that the capitalists lie that there is no viable choice that is the economics of Jesus Christ. In fact, the economics of Jesus Christ is the only viable path. It is capitalism that is the false path, the lie. Lukashenko also plays into that same falsehood.

The choice is not between a centrally planned economy or a market economy. There is the local people-planned economy (truly purely democratically chosen). There is an economy based upon loving one's neighbor as oneself. There is an economy based upon loving one's neighbor as Jesus loved his closest disciples. That is the right economic model.

In addition to embracing Lukashenko, Russia under Putin embraced Viktor Yanukovich to replace Leonid Kuchma as president of Ukraine. Yanukovich lost as a result of the peaceful revolution in Ukraine out from under the severely authoritarian band of large-c Communism.

Russia under Putin also embraced Islam Karimov as president of Uzbekistan. Karimov is not a duly elected leader. Elections in Uzbekistan are not free or fair (not that they are truly free or fair in the US either). His political opposition, whether militant or not, is imprisoned and tortured. In a temporarily successful attempt to forestall revolutions such as have been seen in Georgia as the Rose Revolution of 2004 and Ukraine as the Orange Revolution also of 2004 and Kyrgyzstan as the Tulip Revolution of 2005, Karimov, under the guise of anti-Islamic terrorism, had some four hundred to one thousand protesters shot down in May of 2005 in what is called the Andijan massacre.

Before that, Karimov was cutting billion-dollar oil deals with George W. Bush's biggest campaign financial backer, Ken Lay's Enron Corporation before Enron's disgraceful greed and cruelty were exposed. 20

He was also meeting with a glad-handing and beaming George W. Bush in the Oval Office at the White House. Bush wasn't hoping that Karimov would turn real Christian. Bush was just going about the business of empire building.

Of course, revolutions flow back in history, both violent and non-violent, and movements are afoot going forward in time. All these revolutions have their unique aspects. Some are 20 Ken Lay died of an apparent heart attack on July 5, 2006.

more capitalistic and some are more socialistic (usually decentralized these days). The movements in many places are away from greater overt authoritarianism (coercion).

Then there are the Islamic revolutions where, for nationalistic reasons (Ishmael), Muslims are denied the truth about the pacifist message of God and are instead filled full of falsehoods about the teachings and life of Jesus—much more about that further on.

The overall worldwide secular trend has been for centuries now, and remains, toward a balance between centralized and decentralized socialism. It may seem to be toward laissez-faire capitalism, but it is not. The tug of war between laissez-faire and authoritarian, centralized, secular, large-c Communist simply exaggerated capitalism for a little season. Of course, secularism and socialism will give way to real Christianity which is the aim of history and not the end of it.

All the US-supported revolutions are part of the reason Putin has cracked down on the media and nongovernmental organizations (NGO's) in Russia. Certain NGO's, particularly the Open Society Institute, through the funding of billionaire George Soros, helped plan, fund, and execute the overthrow of former large-c Communist governments. Putin may not be a Stalinist, but he doesn't want to see an American neocon Russia. He fears that completely open doors would let in all the US corporate wolves who would completely eat the Russian people, as they have done where the doors have been forced open to hell. This is certainly not to say that mister Putin is doing everything he can to bring forth heaven on earth. The US, of course, hypocritically attacks Putin for his attitude about US NGO's.

The US State Department is emphasizing NGO's and the Internet as signs of a free society. The State Department criticizes other nations for clamping down on NGO's and Internet freedom while at the same time another hand of the US government, the Department of Defense, conducts war games in its plan to "fight the net" including to fight against Blogs of those considered leftwing. This is blatant hypocrisy.

As for NGO's, the CIA has infiltrated or used NGO's as fronts in other nations giving many NGO's a bad name and making it harder for real Christian efforts internationally.

Bringing out the worst in each other, continued

Russia and others band together under undesirable tenets against the undesirable tenets of the US dictatorship. It is exactly what the US did in reaction to the Soviet Union and still does in reaction to the forces of giving and sharing all in all.

Please don't tell yourself that the US is not a dictatorial Empire. John Bolton, the US ambassador to the UN has said flat out that the UN works when the US wants it to work and that if the UN won't go along with the US, the US will do what it wants in the world, which means militarily dictate terms to the world. Bolton is a deliberately loose cannon. The Bush-43 administration wants Bolton being the bad cop at the UN. It's evil.

21 December 9, 2006, John Bolton's appointed ended as US ambassador to the UN.

Warmingger's disease

Neoconservative doctrines must be denounced in no uncertain terms. Disarmament must be put to the fore. Other nuclear powers in the world have been weighing their odds of surviving a retaliatory strike by the US. They are hard at work in secret on weapons to exploit holes in the US strategic and tactical thinking. We have seen the increase in the use of asymmetrical warfare as used against the US on 9-11. The US is now also busying itself studying war making in light of all these developments. It is a race to the bottom as they say.

The Wolfowitz Doctrine has sent many nations to secret drawing boards to come up with technologies to increase their odds. The neocons have assured a new arms race that will make the last pale by comparison. It's what they want. It is insanity in the clinical sense and in every sense. It is a brain disease. The treatment is real Christianity.

Also, where nuclear is too expensive to develop or too difficult to conceal, other weapons will be developed and cheaper means will be employed. After all, 9-11 was not either expensive or high-tech for al Qaeda. The Wolfowitz/neocon mentality has made the world a much more dangerous place. It has headed us in exactly the wrong direction.

That Wolfowitz Doctrine, as contained in The National Security Strategy of the United States of America, as said, is the Bush Doctrine. That document states the whole tenor of the Bush-43 administration. The US president will do whatever he wants in pursuing creating the world in the neocon image of the US. The president will ignore international and national law in that pursuit. It is nothing short of a declaration of dictatorship. The neocons use propaganda techniques to try to convince the people that it is a benevolent dictatorship still subject to the term limits of the office. Of course, it is the neocon hope that another neocon will take office immediately following George W. Bush to continue the dictatorship of the neocon agenda.

This same Paul Wolfowitz has been named by the current president, George W. Bush, to head up the World Bank. He is the one who has told the world as the head of the World Bank that the rich nations will need "a deal for a deal" in relieving the debt of the poorest nations to the riches nations.

You can either believe Paul Wolfowitz or you can believe Jesus, but you cannot follow both. When Jesus spoke of those who wish to take heaven by force, he was speaking about the mentality of such neoconservatives.

And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force. (Matthew 11:12).

Paul Wolfowitz, along with billions of others, mistakenly believes that the path to improving the world lies through violence. He is wrong, and by his message, makes himself an enemy of Jesus.

Half-truth syndrome

It is easy to fall to the half-truths of the likes of Paul Wolfowitz and his mentors through the ages if you are not seeking the whole truth. Paul and the others can sound plausible if you don't seek more than one side of the story. An example of why Paul may sound as though he is sounding a real alarm is because China and India really are up and coming rivals to the US. However, the alarms need only be sounded for those who won't respond with the new commandment. There's your whole truth for the whole world and the whole of heaven.

If you think that China and India are not serious about the effort to be global powers, you are ill informed. China is already out consuming the US in some categories. The US though still consumes more oil. China though is so populous that there is no way that they can sustain their goal to have everyone in China living a middle-class American lifestyle or higher without severely adding to the rape of the planet and hastening the day of reckoning. China is already severely polluted. Its safety measures are extremely lacking. Its growth is wild. They are definitely setting themselves up for a bright shooting-star burnout. They must turn or fail. China is creating a huge economic bubble as the capitalist economists call it.
China and the lie: The spirit-of-capitalism and democracy

Why focus on China right now, here? What is happening in China, the rush to capitalism and industrialization at breakneck speed, is happening all over the world though on a smaller scale. In the case of India, it is not much smaller. Therefore, China serves as a huge example of the rotten fruit of capitalism. China is showing what happens when society heads in the direction of laissez-faire capitalism, the direction advocated by the self-styled conservative Christians and their temporary allies of convenience, the neocons, the false Zionists, the false libertarians, etc., all arrayed against the spirit of real Christianity. What is happening in China is the same thing that happened in Britain, the US, and the other capitalist nations to one degree or another only condensing centuries into decades. For other nations, smaller nations, it will be condensed into years. Therefore, we are not only seeing again the rotten results but the whole pattern, historically unfolding, in stark relief, in contrast with the more egalitarian direction of other, albeit suppressed, societies and cultures, especially those closest to real Christian, though they be few in number due to coercion and oppressive measures undertaken by the greedy and selfish spirit demanding to rule and ruin the world. What we are clearly seeing in China is what not to do.

There are those amongst the capitalist who will say that given time, capitalism will work out its problems, and that besides, capitalism is the best there is to offer the world. Well, China is condensing centuries into decades and some say China is simply going to catch up to the US and surpass it. Surpass it into what?

China has already started running into the wall

China has already started running into the same wall the US started hitting several decades ago. China, the US, and all the other capitalist nations are going to invest everywhere they can, and in the case of the US, continue to force entry everywhere it plots to do so, which ultimately is everywhere. The dark vision of capitalism is everywhere competing with everywhere else for what it will take to sustain the US-style consumer-class being stimulated globally. There will be wars and more wars to steal what capitalists incorrectly prophesy is necessary to survival. What their religion brings is death of both body and spirit.

Capitalist hypocrisy

At home, the capitalists teach don't steal and don't fight. However, out in the world, they steal and fight to take things from others. They teach be kind and thoughtful of your brother and neighbor at home. Jesus though enlightened the world by revealing the real meaning of "brother," "sibling," "home," and "neighbor" to include the whole world and all of humanity. What will the capitalists do now that the world is so small and getting smaller?
Survival of the fittest, the cooperative

The selfish, competitive spirit does not survive into the higher planes, more enlightened planes, of existence. It will lose out on this level also as the cooperative enlightenment is coming to this level to displace the darkness.

Even though there is such a thing as genetic selection, there is also the conscious choice to evolve. They have come about together. The consciousness of God though is not dependent upon chemicals but rather the other way around. At any rate, the experiment of beastly competition retards spiritual evolution.

Weapons technology is for such beastly competition and is a false profit-center. The hardhearted will become even harder hearted in their self-deceptive, satanic drive to devour for self. They will increase and increase weapons technology. This is what is reflected in what is going on in China and over most of the world right now. This is what the spirit of capitalism and selfishness brings.

To escape the coming wrath, the coming tribulation, and to be a part of the first resurrection (of the just) the Chinese and the world's nations must turn, repent, convert to unselfishness and non-coercion, and atone, all of which inextricably goes hand-in-hand.

The prophets of capitalism are false

It is proven. Selfishness never leads to heaven. It leads only to hell, injustice, unfairness, violence, wrath, iniquity, and all the rest of the darkness.
When the tribulation is over, with hindsight, the remnant will be reminded by history and the Holy Spirit of truth that the prophets of real Christianity were right. This is why the Holy Spirit is speaking. "For the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy." (Revelation 19:10). It means that history repeats itself, with larger changes. It means that what happened to Jesus and thereafter is a sure barometer. Jesus testified.

When it is evening, ye say, It will be fair weather: for the sky is red. And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day: for the sky is red and lowering. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times? (Matthew 16:2-3).

Woe unto the world because of offences! for it must needs be that offences come. (Matthew 18:7). He prophesied correctly.

Prophesy now

We warn and testify now that unless the people hold their peace and disarm turning their weapons into implements to feed the starving of the world and do all the other things consistent with the new commandment, the forests will burn away and all the other horrors will come to pass. There are those though who will refuse to be redeemed in this life, as has been prophesied by Jesus. They will continue their selfishness fighting against God in the here and now until the great separation.
Between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, that would come from thence. (Luke 16:26).

They will be completely separated out and put away not in vengeance on God's part but rather for righteousness' sake.

The world is pregnant with corruption and greater knowing willfulness—a plain sign. What happened to Israel (the "world" then within that given context) was just a microcosmic foreshadowing of what the whole world is facing now that the prince of this world and of the air is readying to rain down more and more of his technological evil wrath.

If China turns, repents, converts, and atones, God deserves all the credit. The capitalism, the mammon worshippers, those who put their faith in the system of filthy lucre (money), will have had no part in it.

Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money. Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy heart is not right in the sight of God. Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee. For I perceive that thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity. (Acts 8:20-23).
This is why we focus on China, among other reasons.

Worker rights in China

The workers have few real rights. They do what they are told, or the bosses and owners find someone else. The waiting lists for jobs are endless. The system need only pay enough to keep the bodies functioning as machines. They can burn out the workers, because there are many, many more where they came from. They simply balance the training investment against the cost of paying people more or giving any meaningful benefits. It is cheaper they think to train fresh, fast, young, healthy, poor workers than it is to care for those who have provided their bodies as machines for the capitalist wage-slavery system that is largely China at this time.

Don't imagine that this bad situation will improve and disappear until capitalism disappears. Jobs will simply move faster than ever to other parts of the world in search of the most vulnerable to exploit, to feed the greed of those at the top who have taken authority in all cases backed by force that is coercive threats of military and police. The world is a forced occupation by the spirit of violence and greed that always accompanies death, destruction, and moral decay on all fronts. China will not be able to stop the sexual degeneracy that is pouring into their system.

Working conditions in China

Many of the Chinese facilities are modern, clean, neat, well lit, etcetera. Much of that is a cover for sinister goings-on behind the scenes. Many of the smaller supplier facilities are literal sweatshops. In both the large, new facilities and the small and/or older facilities, working hours are usually seven days a week and twelve to sixteen hours a day. For most, there are no vacations. There are no holidays. There is no sick time. The pay is extremely low. The vast majority of workers cannot afford the things the owners and bosses at the top can easily afford. They cannot take time away from work to enjoy life, because they will lose their jobs. They are often locked into the facilities. They are not free to leave. They aren't allowed many bathroom or food breaks. They are threatened with losing their jobs if they complain.

These are all the same experiences the UK and US went through at the beginning of the Industrial Revolution right up through the height of the creation of the welfare state that the capitalists have worked busily to undo. The abuses still goes on in secret places within the US and UK of course. There are sweatshops. There is slave labor. This is true in all but the more enlightened places in extreme Northern Europe where social democracy has not been completely abandoned.

Family agriculture is not being allowed to pay enough for the fee-based services in the rural communities in China.

Living conditions in China

Workers are warehoused. They work nearly all their waking hours. Then they sleep in smallish rooms crammed with bunk beds. That might be fun for rich kids at summer camp in the rich western nations that got to the global race of imperialism and colonialism early to buy them time before the inevitable crash of capitalism, but young adults should not be forced by a system designed by the devil to live in such settings year after year with little prospect but becoming old and worn out before they are in their mid-thirties. It is a compassionless system—beasty. Some of the human warehouses are nothing more than terrible slums.

What is more, these warehouses that are euphemistically called dormitories are owned by the companies. The workers have rent deducted from their pay. They also have wages deducted for board. They have no choice in this matter. They live in the dorms and eat the company food or they don’t get, or keep, the job. It is very much like the company store scheme practiced in the primarily Deep South of the US before workers started getting rights.

Sanitation is low. The workers are rarely allowed to shower—perhaps once per week. Food is fit for the old workhouses of industrializing Britain. It is often little more than gruel of cabbage and potatoes over and over.

China has many unemployed people. It looks the other way while abuses occur. It encourages more factory production for exports so that its people will not rise up against the ruling elite of the Chinese Communist Party dictatorship. It is a race to keep out in front of the inevitable counter-revolution against the rightwing Communists who have converted to a capitalist police state in a conspiracy against the masses. Capitalism loves dictatorships.
That's why Rupert Murdoch has a home in Beijing, China. He gave a big advance to the daughter of the Chinese Communist Party leader, Hu Jintao, to write a book about her father. That certainly has ingratiated Murdoch with the Communist Party leader. When will Murdoch start a Chinese newspaper? He certainly will toe the party line on censorship.

The rich can grab much more of the profits in a dictatorship than they can in a free society where the workers have a real say in the workplace and actually own the workplace. Capitalists are parasites off the captive and forced labor of others.

The upper class in the US are getting richer leaving the lower class and middle class behind. They are simply exploiting the more vulnerable overseas. They are taking a bigger piece of the pie while the getting is good for them. It will catch up with them. Their hearts are cold, hard, and small. God knows. They choose to be unworthy even when things are explained to them very clearly by Christ.

Dickensian development

The owners and bosses don't deserve what they are taking at the expense of everyone and everything else. China is just following suit. It is now Dickensian. It is the Industrial Revolution that started with unbridled capitalism in Britain now come to China, and India and Brazil and is quickly seeking out the vulnerable in every part of the globe.

"Dickensian" is doubly apropos since Dickens was English and we have the English primarily to thank for starting highly developed industrialization and the current version of capitalism.

Least you think I'm just being anti-English, my lineage is English. I'm being no more anti-English than Jesus was being anti-Jewish. After all, if all our ancestors had always been perfect, we'd be living in heaven. It isn't dishonoring them to say that we need a course correction. In fact, I have no doubt that they very much want for us to make the course correction to the new commandment.

Infinite factors conspire to produce this effect (China is undergoing) in any given place and any given time. Only God knows them all. Only by communing with God can we anticipate. It is history unfolding, repeating, compounding, compressing before our eyes.

This evil revolution is happening at a dizzying pace for most. It is accompanied by the communications, computer, space, sexual, etcetera, revolutions all at once. It is not being accompanied necessarily by the political revolution. Politically, at best, it has been a throwback to the late 18th and early 19th centuries in Britain, a miserable time for the under classes.

What is more, the gains made by those in the under classes in Britain and the US are now more than threatened by the move to exploiting other workers around the planet by the forces of greed.

The same movements to egalitarianism that were purged, deported, censored, and repressed in the US will rise in the rest of the world causing great social and political upheaval, since the exploiters will run out of raw and unspoiled places and people to pit against one another. The capitalists also won’t be able to control the flow of information about their dastardly history and hence plans for the future.

Hobbesian world error

The capitalist drivers, those at the top of the economic food chain, the greatest human devourers, have a direct and continuous link with warlordism going back to the beginning. It is the root of all empires and what are called the great estates. So-called nobility came from the ignoble behavior of bullying, killing, and stealing one's way to the top of the world the self-centered conjured up. That's where the idea came from that the life of human beings in the state of nature was "nasty, brutish, and short."

Thomas Hobbes just looked inwardly and at the leadership of his day and assumed that that same selfish spirit must have dominated before so-called civilization. This is not the message of Jesus however.

The message of Jesus is that such hardheartedness was there from the entry of falsehood. That was the beginning of the fall. That was when the enemy began sowing the evil seed: The bad idea of selfishness. It led to doubt. It turned souls in the direction of savagery and beastliness. It made them more serpentine, snakes being unenlightened creatures that don't nurture.

No matter all the other redeeming qualities, hoarding in the face of want speaks volumes about the character of the individual. They may do what they think is nurturing, but they create a world which is more hostile even for their own offspring. That's shortsighted and certainly unenlightened.

Now we have had the Chinese leadership exclaiming to the people, "to get rich is glorious" and rationalizing with the concept "let a few get rich first." What has this brought? It has brought a booming sex trade. It has brought massive flare-ups in the cities and countryside numbering in the tens of thousands of incidences each year and involving millions of people around the nation.

Oh, when will all learn that the choice is not between a centralized Communist dictatorship versus a consolidating capitalist dictatorship? When will they see the way of in-touch, giving and sharing, freely flowing love on all levels?

Real personal wealth is everyone else’s. You are rich when all your brothers and sisters, humanity, has enough and nothing in excess, excess being detrimental to the well-being of the whole system extending out infinitely.

The so-called glorious richness that the misguided Chinese leader called for was excess. There is nothing glorious in such excess. Such excess is inherently denying others. Let some gain such excess first was a terrible idea. It says that someday the idea is that everyone will have in excess. That is the path to death. The cosmos was not created for, nor has it changed to exist for, that. The desire for excess and the glorying of excess is abominable. Deng Xiaoping certainly wasn't following the teachings of Christ.

He no doubt was under the spell of Marx, Lenin, Stalin, and Mao who couldn't separate out the false shepherds among those calling themselves Christians from the real Christians, who will bring forth the deeds and bounty worthy of repentance, as called for by righteous John the Baptist.

Now, you know that if the leadership is quoting Deng Xiaoping saying, "to get rich is glorious," then that is exactly what they are doing behind the scenes. The personal wealth being amassed by the false-socialists must be enormous. The secret accounts must be bulging. The landslide of corruption must be unprecedented in human history. Getting rich quick is the focus. The sights are off socialism. They are just getting theirs now and to hell with posterity. They've become full-fledged sell-outs.

Of course, we know Mao was always treating himself like the emperor he made of himself. He was no different than Stalin, who lived in luxury after all.

Jesus didn't want for food and he was rightly invited into the homes of the well-to-do so they could learn truth, but he never sold out even as the rich contributed to the common treasury of the Apostles for the cause of spreading the word that would lead to, and is still leading to, egalitarianism that will only result when all accept real Christianity.

China and the world are a pressure cooker, and the lid will blow off. The planet is teeming with the poor and abused and neglected. Pressures on the entire planet are building. The ameliorating efforts of the softhearted in the US are not keeping pace with the exportation of the terrible economic falsehoods that are being called neoconservatism and neoliberalism. The time to create real Christian communities is at hand.
We promote a culture of Christianity rather than competition.

Rushing to crash

The leadership in China is panicking behind the scenes. They are going to try to reinforce the lid on the pressure cooker while they let off steam. They have announced their eleventh five-year plan (2006-2010) that is a switch from "let a few get rich first" to "common prosperity" and a "harmonious society." This is a sudden lurch to the beginnings of the capitalist hybrid social-welfare state in China. China is just trying to rush through the negative industrialization experiences of Britain and the US and elsewhere. They can be assured of running into stiff opposition from the new superrich in China with their connection to the superrich in the US and elsewhere. They are going to come up against the forces of foreign investment that rushed to China for the very reason that there was no social-welfare state there. Milton Freidman's disciples won't take long to start looking elsewhere. Where is the next so-called best target for exploitation? For some industries, they want workers who are learning, or know enough of, the investor's language to follow instructions and who are educated in the things those capitalists value such as science, engineering, technology, and capitalist indoctrination. For some industries, the capitalists just need little more than trained monkeys, as they see their fellow human beings, some infrastructure, and political and military and police control to carry out the takeover. Whose next?

Even monkeys don't deserve what the capitalists dish out. After all, there are plenty of monkeys and other primates being put through a living hell of nightmarish proportions just for the profits of some sick, sadistic, capitalists.

The income disparity in China is obscene. In 2006, the top ten percent of families own forty percent of the wealth and it's getting worse. The top twenty percent of earners take half of all the income. This is while tens of millions in China live in abject poverty. The Chinese leadership knows this.

Democracy in the workplace and employee ownership

To their credit, they have been allowing some democracy in the workplace and employee ownership. They have seen the impressive results relative to raw capitalism. As with the Hutterites in Canada and the US, the kibbutzim in Israel, FaSinPat in Argentina, Semco SA in Brazil, and the worker-state cooperatives in Venezuela, some Chinese leaders at the very top are aware that power exercised by all people is the only way.

They are wasting time and losing souls by experimenting though. They don't trust in God, so they test. On account of their lack of God, the spirits are really jostling them around. The Chinese people are reaping a combination of what their ancestors sowed and what the living have been sowing over the last two to three decades. Their current leadership still doesn't have what it takes to see them through. They need the new commandment. Therein lies bounty. That's the only path open for bringing forth real abundance. Hu Jintao's Eight Honors and Disgraces, his moral code for the Chinese people, are not good enough. While on its face there is much merit in his code, it falls short. It must be viewed in light of the hypocrisy of the Communist dictatorship and atheism.

The recent tidal wave of greed has only compounded incendiary debris. The Chinese underestimate the forces at work against their policy of trying to persuade the pendulum to swing back to imagined equilibrium under what they call market socialism versus Wild West capitalism. The greedy will ignite the fuel.

Why is the capitalist police state ripping ahead? China has no religion, no belief system that informs them that they are headed toward disaster. They have embraced the devil's religion of mammon. They have listened to the old tempters wrapped up in new business suits. Now the Chinese have fallen further into darkness. Continuing on as prey, they are being devoured at an alarming rate.

Residency rights in China
People in China are not being allowed to live where they want. The cities that are rising up with skyscrapers are redlined. This is controlled migration. If you can't find a job, you have to leave. Where will the workers go?
Child labor in China

Children are working in factories as adults when they ought to be learning and playing. Learning to help is not a bad thing, but children are being brutally exploited in dangerous and unhealthy work for extremely long hours.

Slave labor in China

Prisoners are working in factories for the state and private, special advantages and privileges for the elite who control the prison-labor scheme. Many prisoners are political prisoners. The lack of due process also guarantees a high percentage of prisoners wrongfully convicted for real crimes.

Contracts for employment in China

Many workers are forced to sign contracts that are different from the terms which lured them to the jobs. They commit to a term of employment where they have to pay to get out of the contract. Room and board is deducted from their wages. They are promised bonuses they never see, because it is impossible for them to produce the output to earn the bonuses.

Collective bargaining in China

The people do not have the right to unionize. They don't have the right to strike in China. The state, the one party dictatorship, is not the people. Disallowing unions is the elite dictators' way of maintaining the greatest control over the grassroots. Will they come to compromise just as the US did?

_Taft-Hartley China_

These rights have been largely reduced even in the US by the actions of the conservatives such as the Palmer Raids in 1920 against the Wobblies, the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947 against unionism in general (called the "slave-labor bill" by then president Harry Truman), and the Reaganites against the Air Traffic Controllers in 1981. The same happened in Britain culminating in the UK coal miners' strike of 1984-1985.

The Taft-Hartley Act in 1947 was designed to reverse the most powerful aspects of the _National Labor Relations Act_ (or _Wagner Act_) of 1935. "_Taft-Hartley" prohibited jurisdictional strikes, secondary boycotts and 'common situs' picketing, closed shops, and monetary donations by unions to federal political campaigns."22

These things did limit the power of the Mafia that was coming to dominate certain unions, but that wasn't the reason behind _Taft-Hartley_. Rather, _Taft-Hartley_ was about moving back from the New Deal that was itself designed to hold back real Christianity, which requires egalitarianism, by compromising _laissez-faire_ capitalism.

We don't say that unions and strikes and walkouts are the right path. They aren't. They are stopgap measures on the wrong path. We say that fundamental unfairness of the owners and bosses is wrong. We say that collective bargaining isn't the answer but rather collective ownership at the grassroots level under the golden rule.

---

Occupational safety and health in China

Safety and health of the workers have been sacrificed on the altar of greedy so-called development.

Making a living off the land in a nonpolluting, sustainable manner using appropriate technology to that end is looked down upon as backward and antiquated. Progress is measured in the Americanization of society. Money, science, and technology are paramount. Humans are technological entities. They are builder ants. They are human-machine tools. They are servers to the emerging expanded elite. This is entirely antichrist.

When people are injured or incapacitated on the job, there is no worker's compensation. The lack of such a safety net is simply considered a price of progress. The system owes the worker nothing even though the system is built on the backs of its workers. The Chinese Communist Party (communist in name only) even points to the history of the so-called developed countries saying "you did the same thing," meaning those nations also built up their economic systems by exploiting their workers. It is true; however, it is no excuse for China or any other nation, since such exploitation is not necessary to achieve real bounty, quite the contrary.
Rather than the system taking responsibility for the injured or sick worker, the worker's family and friends can just look after him or her. It is exactly the same mentality of the fat cats at the top prevalent in the British industrial revolution and pushed out onto its colonies.

Time compression heightens contradictions

What a contradiction it is. Here is China with a one-party dictatorship named Communist and claiming to be protecting the revolution that was supposed to be socialist built upon an agrarian society that sought to skip capitalism that is now racing to capitalism while clinging to the hope that the so-called socialist dictators can supposedly maintain control through the cycle and death of capitalism leading to socialism.

All of that is due to their not knowing what real communism is. They don't know it, because they followed Marx and Mao, both of whom had it wrong because both were coercive at heart. What an inevitable shame it is.

The pace is a warning sign of the times. Things are speeding up. Change is coming faster and faster. The contrasts are becoming starker. Selfishness is being exposed for what it is wherever it is on the false right and the false left. Excuses are being stripped away. You better find the narrow way, and stay on it.

Unemployment in China

When a worker is laid off, he or she has nothing upon which to fall back but meager savings squirreled away if any. There is no unemployment compensation.

Wages in China

Many people are not paid. They do the work; yet, the companies refuse to pay them. They have little to no redress. It is the company’s word against the peasant’s from the countryside. The suicide rate due to such abusive treatment is very high in China.

Environmental protections in China

The environment is suffering untold damage. Protection is exceedingly lax. Workers are directly exposed to all sorts of toxics during the manufacturing process. The waste is dumped often in totally unregulated and secret fashion.

The system cannot keep pace with the cancerous growth of capitalism. They have unleashed many demons that will haunt them for a long time to come.

Retirement security in China

Old people are less protected now than they were under Mao's repressive and backward regime. China has gone from one backward mode to another. They've jump to another track racing even faster away from the right end by the right means.

The right to dissent and protest in China

The people have been protesting all over China. Often, they protest against frequent land grabbing by ruthless capitalists. They are being brutally beaten and in many cases killed.
The people in such regions are already very poor and make only a scratch-living, if that, off what little land they were being allowed to cultivate under harmful global warming and deleterious weather changes brought on as a consequence of, and direct punishment for, the spirit of greed and selfishness in general.
Many of the poor try to voice very legitimate grievances. They protest. They dissent against the evil at the top and throughout. Those grievances need to, and will, be redressed but not under capitalism or large-c Communism.
The poor farmers' services and rights have been stripped under the so-called free market. What was once a right and guaranteed under socialism is now fee-based. The people can ill afford to pay for education and health services. They needlessly suffer. The promises claimed by the capitalists are illusory. The poor still suffer in the US and everywhere else there is laissez faire.
Egalitarianism has been pushed back for the greed of capitalism. China was headed in the wrong direction before with coercive and centralized Communism. It has switch to a new wrong direction under authoritarian capitalism.

Coercion is satanic
The people weren't allowed to protest or dissent before in China, and they still aren't. Those at the top, those who simply took control through coercion, through their fall into satanism, still refuse to listen to the people.
Satan versus Jesus

Jesus did not attempt to whip the flock into submission. Satan though whipped Jesus and still whips the flock, but Jesus did not cave into Satan’s evil. That’s Satan’s recourse, not Jesus’s. Jesus though simply speaks the truth about the evils that lurk to corrupt those who stray into the world of selfishness that includes wrath.

Jesus serves the flock as the good shepherd and as one with God, the whole flock, seen and unseen, for those given to know it. Satan wants to be served. It is the spirit of capitalism.

The world is still in its mess, hellishness, because it has yet to heed the wisdom of Jesus given him by God: Mercy.

The Chinese, self-appointed, coercive leaders, who have fallen down to worship Satan, their godless willpower they imagine, still think they know better and that the people are too stupid. How wrong they are. The people are the children of God if they will only see it.

Sifting versus Jesus

The un-coercive people are revealing this truth from God. Jesus is a climax in this unfolding story. The enlightenment about this is coming again. It will separate and save the people who persevere, spiritually escape the wrath to come, and don’t cave into the temptations of Satan to sift one another. Sifting another is the state of wrath. The state of wrath is hell.

Satan’s sifting action is contrary to the golden rule and the new commandment. Grasp this.
And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat. (Luke 22:31).

This is such a profound insight revealed by Jesus. Peter imagined that his ego could withstand Satan. Jesus though knew that Peter wasn't ready. Jesus was protecting Peter from himself. Only God can be all powerful without rubbing out humanity but rather still loving his wayward children in mercy allowing them the opportunity to see the light. This is the kind and degree of love Jesus calls each of us to have to save one and all who will accept it, to whom it is given.

The capitalists sift others. Large-c Communists sift others. Gangsters sift others. Terrorists sift. Hindus and Muslims do it also. In their way, Buddhists still sift themselves by not crediting other and self together as one (God). They detach rather than join the spirit of God that is love.

Real Christians do not sift and are not then spiritually sifted. They want all the wrathful sifting to stop. They want all to recognize that all selfishness is part and parcel of this sifting and evil. Without one, there is not the other. Without selfishness there is not Satan.

Don't confuse warning for wrathfulness. Jesus warned. His warning was either heeded or not by individuals and groups. They marked themselves by their hearts and actions. Therefore, he came to divide them, but he did not destroy the lives of those who marked themselves with the mark of Satan. Satan devours his own.
Satan seeks to extinguish the light. Jesus does the opposite. Wrath is darkness. Wrath sifts. China, to be saved as a nation, must disavow sifting, capitalism, and coercion. China and the world must convert to real Christianity to avoid the sifting, the wrath to come, the great tribulation, death, and the corruption of hell.

Capitalism guarantees its fruits that are self-evident everywhere there is capitalism. There will be no real democracy within. There will be sifting. It guarantees that China will implode and explode coming to loggerheads with the US, EU, Russia, India, Brazil, and others over ultimate control of everything capitalism craves that comes from the earth being poorly stewarded and depleted at an exponential rate worldwide.

We hear people lauding the so-called free market even saying to hell with democracy. This guiding principle of the Chicago School of economic thought means that the regulating force in life is selfishness being self-regulating and ultimately dynamically self-balancing while it creates the best possible environment. Well, if people would come to realize that what is in their best interest is first what is in everyone else’s, it would work. However, given infinite time, which they don’t have, the disciples of Adam Smith (who had major reservations which are not given much consideration by his conveniently selective disciples), capitalism never need arrive at the best possible environment. The reason for that is simple. The adherents aren’t worried about the long-term. They are in a mad scramble to get and take what they can while the getting is good. This leads to devouring and a ruined and spoiled planet and culture. The logic that selfishness can arrive at what is best is insane. It always has been. It always will be.

Religious rights in China

People in other parts of the world are worried about the censoring of the political history of China within China. Well, China's dictators imprison and kill people for giving the real message of love, peace, and truth that is the story of the teachings and life example of Jesus Christ. Christian denominations in China, in order to hold land as a church for church purposes, must be registered and in fact government affiliated. There is a house-church movement where people gather in homes. This is not technically illegal, but the Party watches it and discriminates against it often persecuting the movement's members. The Party fears movements that can develop into rivals to the Party.

In 1851–1864, China suffered through what is called the Taiping Rebellion establishing for a time what was called the Kingdom of Heavenly Peace. Most estimates say that the rebellion resulted in twenty million dead. It was a self-styled Christian uprising. Obviously, it was off course since it was militaristic.

The Chinese government is even more repressive against the Falun Gong movement that was started by one Li Hongzhi in 1992. Li Hongzhi is a self-styled savior. He claims he is greater than Jesus. This is much like Sun Myung Moon's so-called Unification Church, Wallace Fard Muhammad's Nation of Islam, Bahaullah and his Baha’i Faith, Mohammed and Islam, and some include Bar Kokba of the Second Jewish Revolt against Rome, etcetera.

Li Hongzhi has borrowed from a number of religious traditions in coming up with his system. That’s a rather common practice.

The Taiping Rebellion mentioned above was started by one Hong Xiuquan who fancied himself the Second Coming as Jesus’s younger brother. Even Hitler saw himself in the second-coming light. The messianic complex is common.

There is a fine line that is at once also a huge gap between being in the Holy Spirit and being confused in arrogance and half-truths. You will remember that the devil tempted Jesus to fall to half-truths. Jesus regularly prayed in secret not to fall. It worked.

People become confused or hung up, because they just can’t seem to accept that everyone who saves anyone is a savior. Of course, it is saving another through God's doing the actual saving. No one can do anything alone. No one can do anything without God. One is then the agent of God through whom God works for good. It is how God has chosen to do some things.

That’s good, but it is no excuse for becoming conceited, allowing one's ego to inflate. One must always keep things in perspective.

As strange as it may sound to people, God isn’t egotistical. In human impatience, humans misinterpret God, assigning God all sorts of fallen confusion.
The right to peaceably assemble in China

In China, the people will be arrested for peaceably assembling openly or in secret to discuss dissenting ideas. The Tiananmen Square bloodbath of 1989 is the prime example. The people wanted a voice. The Communist Party denied them, using the coercion of the army and other means to silence the people. Many were killed, arrested, imprisoned, etc. The protesters had been peaceful. This event is completely censored in China. The Chinese government hates truth. They don't respect God.

Of course, this phenomena can be found to some degree in the US and UK as well. There are unconstitutional permits required in the US and people are cordoned off so that the effect upon the perceptions of the wider population will be kept to a minimum while the government maintains plausible deniability that it isn't suppressing dissenting voices. Often though, the blatancy of the suppression becomes obvious.

During the 2004 Republican National Convention in New York City for example, some one thousand eight hundred people were arrested by the New York Police Department for protesting. Ninety-one percent of those were either exonerated of any wrong-doing or agreed to something like what the police and prosecutors call an Adjournment in Contemplation of Dismissal (ACD's), which is a quick agreement that if the person arrested agrees not to engage in civil disobedience over a certain timeframe, the original charges will be dropped. Some four hundred of those were spared from the false arrests and fraudulent police reports (signed and sworn to by the police officers who weren't even the officers who did the actual arrests), because video showed that they weren't doing anything illegal when they were arrested.\textsuperscript{23} That constitutes a huge conspiracy within the NYPD to violate the civil rights of those who disagree with the Republican Party. The NYPD had even edited video to make it appear as if crimes had been committed.\textsuperscript{24} This was all for intimidation purposes to try to convince people not to engage in protesting or dissenting or to go anywhere near anyone who is involved in those activities.

The government in China, as elsewhere, works to avoid redressing legitimate grievances of the poor and marginalized. The government seeks to maintain control over the voices it hears. It seeks to keep things arranged so that it will be recompensed for showing favoritism.

Freedom of the press in China

Just as with the right to peaceably assemble, the right of the people to disseminate ideas is severely suppressed in China.

Bear in mind that under real Christianity, the idea is be as harmless as a dove with ideas put forth for consideration by others. Under real Christianity, self-censorship is completely without coercive threat coming from the Christian. The Christian will not resist the evildoer with counter-evil. The Christian will inform others of the mistaken path and expose the hypocrisy as best they are able. That's required warning. That's being as intelligent (more intelligent in the divine context) as the serpent while being as harmless as a dove.

The real Christian's goal is not to put all ideas before the people, but rather to put the one right idea before the people. That one right idea has within it the silencing of all wrong ideas not by force but by free choice. The only truth and action of the real Christian when confronted by wrong ideas is to council that those ideas are harmful (ultimately selfish; failure) and those putting them forth ought not to want to do it.

Wrong ideas are to be dispelled by the appeal of softheartedness that is love, peace, and truth.

Self-censorship through having God in one's heart is what will make temptation disappear. Under every system, there is a yoke to wear. We are yoked to speak the truth, which does not tempt others to fall. They are to discern the real source of their temptation especially when truth is spoken. Jesus did not tempt the Pharisees, Satan did. We are to say things to raise up others if they will hear it.

God wears a yoke of censorship: His. He keeps to his own rules that we are able to follow if we ask, seek, and knock. "I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." (Luke 11:9).

Opposition political parties in China

With the lack of all the other rights, naturally opposition political parties are not allowed in China. This is such a cowardly and weak position.

It is the same cowardliness and weakness that we find in Islam and strains of Hinduism.

We also find it in the US in the form of laws designed to prevent voices, so far primarily of other than of the largest political parties, from being heard. Ballot and debate laws and practices are designed to keep mammon in power over God. Of course, the greediest do the most to put into place laws to coerce silence even by the righteous. Therefore, the Republicans push the hardest for such laws.

The laws are most specifically designed to keep real Christianity from being ushered in. That should be plain for all to see. Real Christianity is what Satan hates most. Selfishness hates unselfishness and will do whatever it can to restrain it from ruling the world.

Remember, real Christianity is not about diversity of political opinion. There is only the new commandment with all it implies. Those who choose something else are mundanely free to be wrong. They are free to head into servitude to evil, the dark, even that they falsely imagine is an enlightened place. Christianity is not a political party in a system. Christianity is the one and only real system. Everything else is false and misleading and misled by definition. This is not arrogance. This is the opposite. It is humility (repentance) without vanity (recompense for ego). We seek it, for it is right.

Due process in China

What is due process of law in China? We are not going to say that the leaders of China are devoid in caring about justice. It is a matter of what they think is justice.

Of course, the new commandment is the only fundamentally fair law. It is the only real justice. Jesus was not afforded due process. We are to react as he reacted. We ought not to have to defend ourselves for trying to do right. We must strive not to fall to temptation to engage in the adversarial system. Nevertheless, this never excuses the system. Pontius Pilate was engaging in sin by falling to the temptations handed him by the high priest and Jewish rabbis of the day. The Chinese authorities are no less Pontius Pilate or Joseph Caiaphas, the false high priest, or Herod Antipas, the false king. They hated and murdered Jesus for exposing the truth about their economic system. They still hate him.
Make not my Father's house an house of merchandise

For the zeal of thine house hath eaten me up; and the reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me. (Psalm 69:9).

And the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. And found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting: And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables; And said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house an house of merchandise. And his disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up. (John 2:13-17).

The false hearted say every manner of thing to obfuscate Jewish complicity and to obfuscate the truth of the evil of their own economic system. They even strive to deny Jesus ever faced a trial. They offer up endless speculation and specious reasoning for why the applicable Jews would never have handled things the way they were handled, as if they were sticklers for proper justice rather than saving their mundane necks and positions they lost on account of their very worldliness. They find inoperative contradictions as reason enough to excuse wholesale the Sadducees and Pharisees who plotted Jesus's murder and reason enough to reject outright the message of Jesus. It is rationalization so as not to inconvenience the continuing sin of selfish means and ends.

Merchandising isn't good enough for the house of God. Think about that. There is what is called the house of David. God's house is the same kind of house. All those who descend from David are of the house of David. All those who descend from God are of the house of God. The house of God isn't confined to a manmade building of any kind, not a temple made of stones or a church made of wood (buildings raised up by human hands). God can be present in those structures, but not necessarily as pleased. God's house is really the whole of heaven and material creation and beyond. The house of Satan is only tolerated for a time until excuses run out universally due to the truth being clear enough to have displaced ignorance about good and evil that is to say unselfishness and selfishness. It is not condoned.

Merchandising isn't fitting in the house of God. Selling things to your family to make a profit from them for your selfish gain is contrary to what God provided humanity. Who's your family? What is a nation? What is humanity? Where does the house of God start and end? The money from selling sacrificial doves in the temple went to line the pockets of the rich. It did not go to aiding the poor. The poor and unwashed were looked down upon in the temple.

God is still giving us the opportunity to get it right else we wouldn't exist.

Corruption in China

The capitalist system, being based upon selfishness, invites unethical practices. It is inherently unethical, so it facilitates and stimulates further degradation. It encourages bribes and kickbacks.

As an example that China is following, US foreign policy is actually built upon, among other things, bribes, and kickbacks. There are the bribes and kickbacks that are sanctioned and then there are the ones that aren't. Those that are sanctioned are the result of the combination of the so-called well-intentioned regulators on the one hand and the monopolists on the other who continue to take unfair advantage of the compromises granted by the well-intentioned who imagine they cannot obtain a better agreement. The sanctioned companies engage in bribes and kickbacks and enjoy going after the non-sanctioned or using them on the sly in the black market and under the cover of national security.

Where the rich got their start

Look, queen Elizabeth I of England had her sanctioned pirates. It was a state enterprise for British ships to ply the high seas attacking the ships of other nations for the plunder to be brought back to England where the royal treasury would receive its tithe.
Now, nations competed imperially and colonially. Plundering other nations is how the developed European nations made their fortunes. Fortunes rose and fell and rose again and fell again.

Nations are made up of their families. Plundering other nations, other families, is how the wealthy European and US families started making their fortunes. To date, the world remains locked into bloodline and class warfare.

I only single out Britain and the US, because the US is the top empire in the world right now and comes off as holier than thou, even though their underlying practices are just covered over with brainwashing propaganda.

Plundering and piracy, on land and sea, has been going on globally for many thousands of years. Stealing has been the stock-in-trade of nations (families) as far back as recorded history.

Even though the Ten Commandments say "thou shalt not steal," it only meant in letter that thou shalt not steal within your family or from righteous people. How hypocritical that was. Jesus saw it and proclaimed it. It was okay under the Ten Commandments to slaughter and plunder the wicked so long as they were not also your family (one of the twelve tribes).

Jesus raised the standard

Jesus though said turn the other cheek to every person regardless of family, tribe, or nation. He said don't steal period, from the righteous or the wicked. He said don't take back by force what has been stolen from you. Don't even ask for or expect it back.

Now these aren't verbatim quotations. Anyone who is unable to be moved by the Holy Spirit to know by extension the meaning of Jesus's teachings, what is and what is not consistent with them, is missing the entire point of the Holy Spirit.

Things haven't changed in spirit from the interpretation of the hardhearted letter. Only the perceptions of the people have been more greatly controlled. Piracy is only bad when others practice it. The British-sanctioned pirates were the Skull and Bones set. It is perception management.

This is the serious understanding, and also the joke, with Yale's self-selected highest aristocrats, where the sons of the sons of the sons know all about where the greedy wealth of nations really comes from. This applies to more than Yale of course. It applies wherever great wealth exists.

Absolutely no fortunes are made or held or increased without expediency, ignoring some portion of righteousness. It isn't a question of whether. It is a question of degree and type. There is not real honor among thieves. No thief can be trusted with the keys to heaven. That's why they don't have them.

The offspring of yesterday's traffickers, gangsters, and terrorists are today's noble lords who simply redefine their activities that are still trafficking by gangsters. It is still terrorism foisted off on the naïve and gullible as the right path for the given nation or nations. It is a complete farce. They wrap all their misdeeds in flowing and lofty, ambiguous language, devil-hero worship, and the flag. Then they murder those who expose the fraud. Yet, it is ignorance on a certain level.

Warning is love

They say that you better respect those who are winning at this game: Capitalism. However, the winners are losers, and they either don't know it or they don't care for now. They are willing to satisfy their own habits no matter what the ultimate price is down the road. If that kind of respect means not warning them, then to hell with that kind of respect. Such respect isn't love. It's selfish cowardice. Such respect is no respect at all. One cannot love one's enemies (those who think of themselves in that position) without having regard for their futures enough to warn them as you yourself would wished to be warned if you have a heart that isn't made of stone like an idol god. One has a duty to offer the right path, which includes no force. One cannot force someone not to go down the wrong path. Force itself is on the wrong path. Heaven and hell cannot share the same place after all. Heaven is peace and it cannot exist where there is war. Peace begins within. The internal war must stop first. Then the light may be magnified to shine externally bearing good consequences.

The Mafia is a business. It is a family-controlled business. The opium trade spurred on by the British East India Company, for instance, was a business then, and it is today. Alcoholic beverages are a business. Tobacco is a business. Pornography is a business—an industry.
Christian bookstores are a business. Christian broadcasting is an industry. These things don't have to be capitalist businesses; but, there are people who handle them that way, so they are. Our Father's real house is not a house of such commerce. We don't need buying and selling, making false profit (detrimental to brothers and sisters). We need giving and sharing and cooperation where each and all are valued as the first by the last. Our Parent's house by rights is the whole planet and the entire cosmos seen and unseen. It is never right to be shortsighted. Being shortsighted is a contrivance designed to postpone giving your all for the flock, one with God. It is selfish fear that keeps us from it. It is a lack of faith in God that keeps us from it. Jesus showed us that his self-sacrifice, his trust in God, was rewarded with his resurrection as promised.

There is no mere scapegoat

Face the error of selfishness now.

Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows: yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted. But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. (Isaiah 53:4-5).

Yet it pleased the LORD to bruise him; he hath put him to grief:
when thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in his hand. (Isaiah 53:10).

Jesus atoned for the many, but he did so in order that we will do likewise for the same reason that is the new commandment. Living the new commandment is not standing back doing nothing.

A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. (John 13:34).

Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. (John 15:13).

Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. (Matthew 16:24).

Do you see? He atoned so we would believe and do and, therefore, be healed by his stripes.

The opposite of diminishing what Jesus did is to pick up our crosses. It honors and glorifies God. He taught it. It shows and proves him. He saves.

It is an error to accept the crucifixion as atoning and then stand back doing nothing. Each person is still required to repent in all that that means. We must give our all and carry our crosses to unburden each other, to ransom one another. We must make amends. We are responsible and accountable. We are our brother's keepers if they and we will accept it. We pay for each other out of love. Jesus was and is what each of us is to be. We are to do as he did. That is the only way. Don't listen to those who tell you otherwise. They will lead you astray on the wide path to hell.

Back when China was under Mao Zedong and struggling to make steel in backyard furnaces and turning all the students and intellectuals out to work on collective farms under forced labor for the state that was supposed to belong to all but really belonged to and still belongs to the takers of authority, the US began engagement. They debated economic trade with China. The argument put forth was that economic trade would lead to the opening of society to American-touted liberty, as in freedom of thought and expression, etcetera. It hasn't turned out to be the case. In fact, the failure has served to draw attention to the charade of capitalism. It is the wide path to hell, and there is none to scapegoat.

China is seething. The country will burst from evil growth. Those from the West who have invested in China's capitalist revolution will rue their duplicity and complicity in the here and now or in the hereafter. The Western corporations are facilitating widening persecution of saintly souls. Lip service to Jesus won't protect those corporate executives or their stockholders.
The golden rule says people are not a mere commodity

The problem is the selfish way in which people value each other. People are not a commodity, unless they turn themselves into that lower state by treating others that way. They are not expendable. There is no acceptable loss. Those who treat others as commodities and as expendable, if they don't repent in time, will themselves be subjected to their own standard, even more so if they profess Jesus. This is why Jesus said they will be bundled as weeds and burned up.

Jesus wasn't sentencing them. He was warning them. Jesus does not make the fallen fall nor does he punish the wicked. They do that to each other. They make themselves weeds by treating others that way. What could Jesus do but tell the truth to them?

The truth of peace could not be whipped into them. He did the best anyone could do, and he resigned himself to God's will.

The tendency is that the more people at the top put their faith in the laissez-faire doctrine, the more people become trapped by unscrupulous exploiters making the people a mere expendable commodity. Those exploiters select the areas where the people may come together to cooperate. In other words, there is no laissez-faire. The moment the workers come together is the moment the owners and bosses scream for governmental regulation and interference and will even kill the workers if they don't return to enslavement. However, the owners and bosses can do what the workers are not allowed to do.
The owners and bosses can combine all they want under the one sided one-way so-called laissez-faire or free-market economy. It's total hypocrisy. It's a farce. The economic laws the owners and bosses and their governmental and military cronies put forth is that they have the freedom to do whatever they want while the people are to simply do what they are told. It is a totally false doctrine as implemented and practiced. It is the mental illness of the owners. They have the disease of selfishness and the people suffer on account of the symptoms of the diseased. All that is required for the cure is a change of mind, a change in where they place value.

All they need to do is value others as much or more than they value themselves. If all do that, there will be a perfect harmony between self-regulation and external regulation, because they will be the same thing. The real economic law is the new commandment. The real system is Christianity. Jesus is the real political economist.

Under the capitalists system, there is an inherent global net loss. So-called developed countries lose jobs to so-called developing nations. The rich exploiters (owners) in those developed countries benefit by simply moving to where the exploitation and expropriation of the inheritance of all is easier.

This weakens the mass of people in the developed nations making them also more easily exploited again. The gains made in earlier struggles for greater fundamental fairness are lost.
This system is one of pitting people against each other and not allowing them, the people, to join together to stop the global pit-fight that is organized and run by the capitalists for their benefit at the expense of the fighters who get beaten up to satisfy lust that is stimulated in the first place by the tempters, the capitalists.

Capitalists are pushers
They mix together what the people really need with contrived addictions. They make a killing supplying the temporary fix. Get the people hooked on what you control. It's really evil. Get the people to fear doing without what they don't really need. Increase the people's insecurities. Make the people judge each other based upon only what money can buy. Make them artificial. Also, strive to control what the people really need so they must come to you even to eat or get a drink of water or be sheltered and clothed, etc. Is this how a good sibling treats his or her brothers and sisters?
Why then is the world-house being run this way? Why are those who run it this way being followed, chosen by the people, deserved by the people?

Mammon nonsense
Under capitalism in the developed nations, the prices of products and services are going down in some sectors, but salaries and wages likewise are going down or disappearing except for those who are the richest, the greediest, and the most unscrupulous. What do the rich care? They have theirs now. They have their reward for serving Satan.

The numbers of sectors also increase. In order to remain valuable to the system, the individual is required to buy into more and more sectors and sub-sectors. One must have all the latest gadgets. One must pay to be networked in as close to Satan as possible or be cut off as the system continues to disintegrate, which is and has been since the rise of Sumer.

Everyone is standing on thin ice. A loss in confidence in the mammon-faith system can bring the whole thing down, and it will.

So-called savings come in the form of bets (stock buys) upon the various capitalist enterprises. Which one will do the supposedly best job of dancing between doing the most exploiting and expropriating while controlling and corrupting the regulators? It's licensed gangsterism. It's piracy wrapped in the flag of falsehood.

What is the difference between the poppy farmer and the tobacco farmer? They both raise highly addictive, dangerous, and unhealthful crops. Mundanely, one is legal. Is it then legitimate to invest in cigarette companies?

Where does one draw the line in profiting off the demise of one's siblings? Jesus would say don't profit off the demise of anyone. He would say it is no profit at all. There is only loss all the way around in such transactions.

Why then are the nations, China and the US and others, doing exactly the wrong things? Why indeed?
Also, promised reductions in prices with improved quality from so-called deregulation is in the eye of the beholder. Quality is only real in the aggregate. If bringing the people all the so-called quality improvements in products comes at the greater expense of the overall environment in which we live, what has deregulation brought but a lower quality of life and a deferred higher cost at best? It is shortsightedness.

The capitalists simply tier everything so that what was promised is, in the end, priced higher and the so-called competition is shaken out by the deepest pockets. Its been a sham. The rich get richer and can afford it. The gap with the poor just grows. Ronald Reagan would say "get big government off our backs." However, the people have just ended up with big business running the government in the interest of big business.

Consolidation under capitalism with zero anti-trust activity is leading to vertical and horizontal corporate monopolies. Where does that leave the individual other than enslaved under mammon. Where does it leave them other than with big business on their backs.

After all, the laborers are the ones who do the work. The investors don't sweat. They don't get any calluses. They are waited on hand and foot. They are there not to serve but to be waited upon. Its antichristian. They are antichrists. They just cut deals and watch their passive investments swell at the expense of the rest of the world.
They also seek to further eliminate cooperative mandates from the people. They can't make as large a selfish profit off the public sector so they seek to eliminate it everywhere they can dupe the people into faith in their false religion of mammon. They claim they can do a better job by stimulating competition and thereby choice. However, competition gives everything a feel and style of being whitewashed on the outside but dead on the inside and always comes with a fee. The commons disappears, and everything increasingly becomes contrivance and more costly. In addition, through mergers and acquisitions and the lobbying and campaign financing and revolving-door efforts of the superrich through their paid minions, real choice disappears. They bring you hundreds and thousands of varieties of what isn't good for you. Where's the choice of what is good? It's more expensive. They seek to eliminate what is good. Barring that, the system makes sure it costs more.

It doesn't have to be that way.

They claim they want more choice in healthcare, for instance, when their whole system is simply a band aid on the diseases they are causing in the first place. Get rich making people and the world sick and then get richer whitewashing so the people won't see the greater symptoms that are about to develop. It's insane. It's not healing.

The control by the few ends up increasing under their combinations and consolidations. Capitalists say that the poor, in what the capitalists call the developing world, benefit by capitalism and that in the aggregate, the whole world benefits. This is falsehood. There is a net loss in resources and environmental quality and, therefore, aggregate quality of life (wholesomeness). The capitalists system can never out pace the loss.

Capitalism is entropic. With capitalism there is no win-win situation. There is not even a breakeven. It is not even a zero-sum game where the gain of one is matched by the loss of another. It is a lose-lose game, and the souls of the takers are in real big trouble.

Their trouble is matched by their taking. The biggest winners in capitalism are the biggest losers in the end. Net loss for humanity is inherent in capitalism. There is no real value added.

The oxymoronic evil that is Christian capitalism (Calvinism)

They corrupt the message of Jesus Christ. They use a distortion of his message to further capitalism around the world. They fund all sorts of entities pushing the false version of Christianity that excuses their predatory tactics. They push the erroneous Calvinist doctrine of the Protestant work ethic that came out of Calvin's twisted concept that those who work hard and save for self are proven blessed by God and predestined for heaven. In Calvin's estimation and in the estimation of his wicked and confused followers and disciples, especially the reconstructionists/dominionists (ultra-false conservative so-called Christians), in America today, Jesus was unworthy because Jesus wasn't laded down with money bags.
Jesus though called on his closest followers to give everything they had to the cause of the poor leaving those followers to live on faith in God's system of giving and sharing all freely, communally, and not living in faith in the system of capitalism as the supposed Christian reconstructionists/dominionists call upon their followers to do.

John Calvin was wrong. The conservative, false Christians in America get most of their misdirection from Calvinism. His hardheartedness led him to half-truths. He missed the fuller Gospel message, which is very easy to do.

"Half-truths," of course, is an imprecise and relative term. In the pure language of the revelation, there aren't even any half-truths. At that level, one either gets and lives the whole point of the new commandment or one doesn't get the revelation at all. Perfection is absolute, and Jesus went back to God.

The term "half-truths" if employed, explained, and understood correctly, is a term to lead from the mundane into the divine, the whole truth, the truth of the whole, the truth of real peace.

Feed the flock the whole truth

The Bible is replete with advice and warnings to rulers (shepherds) to see to it that no one goes without or is lost. Calvin didn't see it. He was consumed with being wrathful in reaction to iniquity. Calvinists are spiritually blind to pacifism. They are the spiritually walking dead, as are all militants. Calvin was a man who utterly rejected Christ. He rejected Jesus when he read Jesus's words. The current conservatives also reject Jesus.

Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me. (Matthew 19:21).

Do you doubt that Calvin rejected this? It is clear and plain in Calvin's words, deeds, and those of Calvin's followers that he did not lead his people to Jesus. Calvinism has to go and it will. It was never the light. The entire world in Calvinism would still be hardhearted darkness. It is mercilessness.

The Calvinists, the capitalists, receive their reward here and forego heaven. They ignore the truth of Jesus. They choose hoarding over faith in the face of want. They aid in the destruction of the earth. They are doing it now on a global scale.

It is time to change or else. It is time to stop listening to merchants of death and destruction who reject Jesus. They are a brood of vipers who ultimately care nothing about offspring.

Everyone on the planet cannot live the middle-class American lifestyle nor should anyone want to, considering

The only way the middle-class American lifestyle arose was due to abundant negatively exploitable material resources, labor, and markets, first within America and then around the world.
Will humanity have the wherewithal to exploit the matter of the solar system and beyond to sustain such a lifestyle on a global basis? Will humanity reduce in size so that the earth can carry everyone at such levels of consumption? Will science and technology reach the point in time of being able to transmute matter into whatever is needed to sustain all of humanity in that lifestyle? Has humanity shown the self-restraint and unselfishness necessary to do any of these things for the sake of all? Are each of these measures equally compatible with, or ultimately compatible at all with, the kind and degree of unselfishness necessary to see to the real needs and health of all of humanity?

Evil thinking

Who cares? We're all going to die, extinguish, be annihilated out of existence, anyway. Get it while it lasts. Grab as much of it as you can while you're here, and to hell with humanity. Take care of you and yours. The rest are all just chumps and weaklings, sissies, and chickens if they cannot grab and hold enough for themselves. They're worthless.

That's evil thinking. That's evil doing the thinking or, more correctly, lack of it. That's the emotional constitution driving humanity to failure. It is insane and is driving others crazy.

Well, Jesus came to show us sanity by showing us the truth about insanity that is selfishness, by seeing it for what it is, by what it does, by its results: Everything of which we end up wishing we hadn't partaken, because those who told us to go ahead were moved in the spirit of lying about the ultimate negative consequences, ultimate cost—our souls.

Who cares? You're just going to die anyway. That's what the liars say. The same spiritually lost and blind souls who have always led others and themselves into evil consequences are the ones still promoting this excuse that death is the ultimate escape and that, therefore, the yoke of righteousness is really just an illusion for the weak-minded.

Jesus though more than surmised that he existed, lived, before he was here incarnate. He knew it. He also knew that he would live on. The reason he knew what he knew better than anyone other than God our Father, was because Jesus was made the most consistent person who ever lived, the least hypocritical, the most real, the least false. "I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how am I straitened till it be accomplished!" (Luke 12:50). He was called and chosen, because he did it. To be the most consistent requires one to have the longest view, to see the big picture the best, to see beyond mundane birth and death, to see and comprehend and live spiritual eternity and infinity, to be truth, to be one with perfection that is God. Now, it is up to you to decide whom to believe.

Whom do you trust?

Do you believe the ones who tell you to go ahead and be crooked (selfish), or do you believe Jesus who was resurrected in pure faith? Are you going to believe the ones who say Jesus was not resurrected? That same spirit crucified him, murdered him who was innocent, and then was destroyed by the Roman legions. Who was right? Who told the truth? Which way is the right way to live, to be?

The spirit that murdered Jesus says the neoliberal economic way is right. How can that be right? Does a rotten tree bring forth good fruit or does a good tree bring forth rotten fruit? What is the pattern of cause and effect? What have they been bringing humanity other than the current state of affairs?

The desires of the selfish are misguided and misleading.

American enterprise is still in the process of going out into the world to gobble up what it wants by force. Competitive capital rushed to cheaper, unregulated, unprotected, labor and commodities markets.

China and other places are supplying that labor now and at rates against which American labor cannot compete due to the higher cost of living in the US. However, as China and India and places on the rise heat up their economies, the same demands will be placed upon them that are now placed upon the American economy. The Chinese and Indian peoples and others will insist upon greater environmental and worker-safety protections. They will want more benefits. They will want the neoliberal version of the standard of living to rise to encompass the mass of the people. They will price themselves out of the labor market.

How long will it take for everywhere to have gone through this cycle at least once so that the labor market will be equalized around the world? How long will it take before transportation makes everywhere one market and the standard of living and cost of living is leveled? It cannot happen under capitalism. Selfishness is never a leveler. It is never fair or just. The people of the world will continue to experience the rise and fall of economies until they wholeheartedly embrace the unselfish spirit embodied in the new commandment. Then the kingdom of light will come to the earth and displace the empire of darkness.

Environmental disaster in China and for the world

Right now, China is waking up to the reality of its terrible miscalculations. It is waking up to its terrible, yet preventable, environmental accidents and exceedingly high, but likewise preventable, number of worker injuries and deaths, especially within the mining industry (coal mining in particular).

Coal burning is causing acid rain that is killing lakes and streams and burning crops and trees with the sulfur acid. It is causing respiratory diseases all over the region. It is a major contributor to global warming over the long haul. It is also not only polluting China, it is polluting the world. Pollution monitoring equipment in the Western US is picking up coal pollution from China that blows across the entire Pacific Ocean.

Right now, the Chinese are opening a new huge coal-fired power plant every ten days or less. The Indians are not far behind them in coal burning either. Neither country is using much air-scrubbing equipment to prevent pollution. They are reluctant to charge customers higher rates that would defray costs for better equipment.

Coal-gasification technologies are available that allow the mercury and sulfur to be filtered before burning. Also, greenhouse gasses such as carbon dioxide can be sequestered that is pumped into the ground rather then emitted into the atmosphere, but China so far has been unwilling to invest in the technologies in any meaningful way.

Insatiable lust

The real problem has been uncurbed lust resulting in a population explosion. If the Chinese people, and all peoples really, were not so hell bent for attempting to satisfy insatiable lust of all kinds, the world wouldn't be facing all these pollution problems. They are getting all their energy-drinking, hi-tech appliances and toys just as many Americans and Europeans have and at exactly the time when the world needs to curb its insatiable lusts across-the-board.

The Chinese are also facing the issue of land grabbing for industrial and commercial development. People have been protesting, and many have been injured or killed by those answerable so far only to greedy authorities. These things are not happening on a small scale mind you. These are widespread, systemic problems the details of which have been heavily censored by the Chinese Communist Party. They don’t want to scare off foreign investment. They are having to face the problems more openly though, because they know things are out of hand and they are afraid they don’t know how to get a handle on them. They’ve opened Pandora’s box full of evils unleashing those evils upon their own people.

China is lost with the world

Only the new commandment can handle the problems of the world; however, the leaders of China are not Christians. How can they lead the people to salvation and not into hell? They cannot without Christ. Without Christ, there is no new commandment.

The greater point though is that China will have to correct these problems invariably increasing their prices for their labor, etc. The result will be that capital will seek out and find cheaper, more exploitable labor elsewhere. This pattern will continue until the fall of capitalism do to a scarcity of certain material resources, environmental degradation, along with all the Biblical horrors such as wars, famines, plagues, earthquakes, and the like.

The wake it will leave will be a shrinking, unsustainable middle class. There will be the upper class and the lower class much as was the case in the earliest days of capitalism. Societies will plateau out, and then turmoil and tribulation will heat up to unbearable.
China has definitely been headed in the wrong direction.

China's better efforts are signs it yearns for the real message of Christ

Humans have passed the rats in number to become the most populous mammals on earth. Now with the great migration in China, we've also become more city-dwellers than people living on the land. Pity the earth. Also, fully one-third of the world's city-dwellers are living in slums. That's over a billion slum-dwellers with the populations of cities exploding. Despite this, China is trying. Huaxi Village in East China's Jiangsu Province is what China holds up as a model village. It is China's wealthiest village per capita. Once all its villagers were peasants. Now they are still commune-dwellers, but each resident, or citizen if you will, automatically owns shares in the village factories. We aren't advocating that anyone duplicate this effort precisely. We are though saying that it does go to show that employee ownership makes a difference. This village's leadership has been asked to train many thousands of leaders of other villages. It is socialism. It is egalitarian with qualifications.

This training is to be tied into the new Chinese policy on better public education, universal health insurance, other social welfare projects, sustainable development, and environmental protection. They will get into recycling in a big way. They are really wasteful. They waste lots of fuel relative to other industrial nations for the amount of production that results. They use many fold what the US uses to produce the same unit of GDP. The US itself uses twice what Western Europe uses. The Chinese know these things and have turned some of their attention to these issues. Too bad they are taking so long to learn that they are going about things backwards. That's inherent in every system but Christ's real system.

The fact is, what China is planning is to head toward a Scandinavian social conscience but made up of village communes (mini-cities) in the more rural areas to catch up with the megalopolises springing up as weeds in China. They are sticking with being decidedly and exceedingly materialistic however. That's a legacy of the atheism of Marxism. They need the spirit of Christ to correct the error of materialism.

Depression, anxiety, insomnia, and suicide are all up in China. Health problems are up due to the increase in pollution, especially air pollution in the numerous huge cities. Drug use is up. The sex trade is booming. Organized criminals are operating throughout the cities. There has been an illicit trade in executed-prisoner's, harvested body parts used in transplantations for wealthy patients in China and from around the world. The Chinese are clamping down on this great evil, to their relative credit.

The failure of China's best effort to be full, small-c communism

Their model village isn't really sharing everything equally either. They don't see the light. The commune actually employs tens of thousands of migrant workers who don't get to share any of the equity (capital equipment and facilities). That's not what we have in mind. It still antichrist. It is closer to the kingdom, but will never arrive.

Unlike the conservative politicians in the US, the Chinese government isn't shying away from every issue. They are talking openly about, and taking action concerning, certain issues that the US government calls upon Americans to ignore to their own peril, such as the root cause of global warming that is greed and the greedy (capitalism and the capitalists). The Chinese are implementing large-scope projects in relative egalitarianism. They know they don't have the time to just study things to death and try endless tiny pilot projects.

They must though come to see the light or fail and their nation perish from the earth.

Unfortunately, Christian speech in China is not respected. It really isn't yet respected anywhere but in heaven. US corporations for instance, with the full sanctioning by the hypocritical US government, are helping China track Christians and are supplying police with equipment used to suppress Christianity and persecute any would-be Christians.

Piracy is also a huge issue as Chinese manufacturers counterfeit all sorts of products and pirate what is called intellectual property or copyrighted materials.

India too is making such mistakes

They did the swing from centralized control to so-called libertarian capitalism.
India is in a mad scramble to catch up and even wishes to surpass. The current leadership is interested in the expedient. They are talking about privatization as a key to reducing the number of people in poverty. There are some three hundred fifty million people in India right now living below the poverty line established by India, which is the equivalent of one US dollar per day. It is understandable that the leadership wants to do what it can to change the situation; however, privatization is certainly not the long-term solution but rather a short-term expedient thing that will cause greater harm in the long run.

The error of excessive urbanization and overpopulation

Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no place, that they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth! (Isaiah 5:8).

Both China and India are heading toward greater urbanization and industrialization in an effort to provide for their overly populated countries. That is exactly the wrong thing to do. People need to be careful not to congregate in population centers that are too large for health. People are moving off the land. The agricultural way is going to be lost. People will suffer greatly in the future on account of that. Everything these two nations (China and India) are heading toward spells greater problems than the problems they think they are remedying now with their push for superpower status.

European Union

The European Union is the method by which Europe plans to rival the United States and the other upcoming superpowers. However, many in Europe see unbridled capitalism as the menace it is. They rightly mistrust the neoliberal agenda of rabid corporatism, privatization, globalization, and mislabeled free- and open-market economies (mislabeled because people are not truly free to be other than capitalists and, therefore, those markets are not open to non-capitalist endeavors). They are being pressured to increase their competitive spirit rather than cooperative spirit and to increase advocacy of open markets (markets open to external capitalist domination and exploitation).

Russia's misguided reaction

Russia has no intention of sitting out the race. They just could not keep up with the capitalists in Cold War spending. They know they can attempt to regroup under a different approach including a hybrid economy, not exactly the American model, much as the Chinese are attempting now.

I've been telling people for many years now that Russia will not sit by. Now Russia has announced its new Topol-M missile. This missile, according to the Russians, can change direction in flight to evade anti-missile missiles and also is immune to electromagnetic pulse technology used to knock out electronics systems. The Russians are a severely underestimated people. Their decades old rocket-engine technology is just now being somewhat matched by current US technology. Also, Russia has vast oil reserves, which means wealth to tap.

Russia simply responded to the Bush-43 administration's neocon-rejection of the ABM treaty (Anti-Ballistic Missile treaty) between the US and Russia early on in George W. Bush's presidency. The Russians see the new go-it-alone US moves for world dominance and are countering those moves for fear of future domination otherwise. The Chinese, Indians, Brazilians, and others cautiously are doing likewise.

Russia is making a serious mistake in going in the direction of governmental forced takeover of television and other means of mass communication, but it is predictable considering the US drive for world hegemony. Other nations may follow if the US continues to become more fascist. Putin wants to control the influx of Americanization. He is going about it the wrong way and for the wrong reasons though, of course, because he is not a real Christian.

Fear hypocritical Americanization

Other nations as well do not wish to be caught unprepared against complete Americanization. They too will make themselves a target of the US.
Nevertheless, no nation should remain silent about the dangerous swing in the US to belligerence in the face of portraying only one side of every grievance that being the US conservative-Republican side.

All the belligerence and bullying and defensive posturing is only increasing the targets. Everyone will make everyone else a target. It is exactly the wrong approach. It is antichristian and backward.

Do not be fooled. All of this is not an argument for the Wolfowitz Doctrine. No military dominance will keep a lid on the world in some imagined new global version of Pax Romana (so-called Roman peace) in the form of Pax Americana (American peace). The genie is out of the bottle concerning weapons of mass destruction.

The enemies of Rome did not have access to technologies that could be so environmentally devastating. That is no longer the case concerning the current manifestation of the Empire. Peaceful settlement of differences, as Jesus showed, is the only path to heaven. Otherwise, there is the devil to pay.

Environmental disaster, continued

If both China\(^\text{26}\) and India put the short-sighted desire for worldly riches ahead of the long-term

\(^{26}\) On November 13, 2005, a petrochemical (oil chemical) plant owned by Jilin Petrochemical Corporation exploded in China just north of North Korea causing a huge spill of the highly toxic chemicals benzene and nitrobenzene into the Songhua River, which supplies the water for many millions of people in China and Russia and ends up health of the environment, they will be terrible stewards of the planet modeling themselves after the US conservatives. The resulting calamity will be on their heads since they have been warned and they do grasp (they have written it themselves) the connection between their economic rush to worldly riches and environmental disasters waiting in the wings, in the making.

No nation is ever going to be of the right spirit without real Christianity. It is the only path to saving the world, because it is the only message that requires the solution. Someday, the whole world will see that and live accordingly.

dumping into the Pacific Ocean. This is what massive industrialization and an oil economy is bringing China.

Carbon dioxide from burning fossil fuels such as oil and coal for powering vehicles, industry, and energy utilities, is causing most of the greenhouse-gas buildup. There are other greenhouse gases contributing to the problem. Humanity cannot act with impunity (exemption from penalty). Yet, the industrial and industrializing nations act as if they can. They want their cake and to eat it too. They want their over-populated, selfish-centered consumeristic society but to also have a healthy world at least for their offspring. It does not work that way. Some conservatives just do not care about even their own offspring. It is the viperous mentality, as snakes do not raise their brood. Humanity cannot have a consumeristic society as in the United States spread to the world and avoid huge negative and even fatal environmental and worldwide societal ills.
Even the United Nations Kyoto Protocol if ratified by every country would only slow the pace of pouring greenhouse gases into the atmosphere. That is just slowing the inevitable unless cleanup measures become available to extract such gases or the population of humanity is dramatically reduced and the selfish system is dropped that is the cause for all the greenhouse-gas buildup in the first place.

Even though the Kyoto Protocol only slows the rate of increase, the US, the largest greenhouse-gas emitter, responsible for approximately twenty-five percent of the world's emissions, had been selfishly refusing under George W. Bush to sign on until a backlash in December, 2005, when the US press ripped him for his team having walked out on Kyoto climate change negotiations in Montreal, Canada. The US reversed course suddenly and signed onto the Montreal Climate Action Plan. Of course, it is still way too little.

What the conservatives want to remain occulted

The nations of the world must come to understand that humanity must take much more drastic actions then outlined in their Action Plan. It must also all must be done much sooner. They aren't properly anticipating the cascading effects of greed. Their hearts aren't in the right place enough to see what is coming if they don't turn. They aren't pursuing the plan comprehensively. Greenhouse buildup is a manifestation of the interconnected problems of the globe. It is wrong to go at these things piecemeal. All global issues should be dealt with in a coordinated and simultaneous effort to eliminate all want and pollution in the world. The problem of the gross and unjustifiable disparity in wealth in the world has to be addressed and corrected. It is the only path to salvation.

Bush was against the Kyoto Protocol right from the start of his presidency. His position has been insane. The excuse he was using is the potential loss of jobs and harm to the US economy. It was subterfuge. Again, the concern has been with oil stocks and profits. The George W. Bush administration’s base is after all the elite and not common workers, per George W. Bush. The conservatives' answer is to, among other things, increase the use of nuclear energy and coal burning. Those are very bad ideas that will definitely come back to haunt societies that embrace them.

George W. Bush, Biblical prince of this world, antichrist for a time

Things are heating up due to greed. Greed and the buildup of greenhouse gases are the same thing. The earth cannot be expected to handle it within a range suitable for all human tolerances. People are dying, and billions will die on account of all the selfishness. More selfishness is no solution. Trying to divert attention away from the root cause is the evil of Satan. It is just enlarging the problem. Don't listen to George W. Bush. He is the Biblical prince of this world. He is antichrist. He must repent.
We see the human-selfishness-caused degradation of the environment in all the negative health impacts of ubiquitous and concentrated environmental toxins. Disease, birth defects, on-going chromosomal damage, and all manner of problems have resulted from the conservative's deficiency of conscience and mercy. They do not let these things bother them while they get theirs, but for how long?

You can not take it with you. Jesus spoke of people who build up their estates and imagined that then they could eat, drink, and be merry without a care. However, their souls will be called and all they built up for self will not be for them. His teachings also explain that being selfish is getting your reward in the here and now and it is short lived versus eternity. He spoke of those who do things such as pray and fast and wear long, fancy robes to be seen of people. That is the selfish mentality and it definitely extends to those who amass for self.

Do the conservatives imagine that they are gambling on the sure things that are what they see as the here and now? What a mistake it is not to see everything here and now as pointing to that there is so much elsewhere and after. This plane of existence would not be without God. God is not limited to the creation of just this plane. Don't put your heart into worldly treasure here.

Scandinavia’s relative sanity

China, India, and the United States are aware that the three largest Scandinavian countries score at the top of the world's list of environmental sanity. The other nations of the world need to look closely at Norway for example since it is, as of this writing, at the top in the world in giving and nearly the top in environmental stewardship (Environmental Sustainability Index). Of course, Norway is no where near as good as we all must be to save the world. Norway is still contributing to environmental destruction and could easily do much more to turn that around. The greater sinning just does not happen to be Norway's, Sweden's, or Finland's. It is also noteworthy here that the Scandinavian countries are the least involved of the so-called developed countries in the push for the neoliberal's agenda.

For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew 5:20).

The worse nation today must become far better than the best Scandinavian nation today to even remotely bring in the kingdom, bring forth the real bounty.

Stingy, violent America

The United States by direct comparison ranks poorly environmentally and in proportionate giving. As of this writing, the latest figure is that the United States donates 0.13 percent of its Gross Domestic Product (GDP) for international development aid to the poorest of the poor nations. That's only thirteen cents out of every one hundred dollars. Now, we are saying that anything less than what it would take for the elimination of worldwide depravation is contemptible. What is the reaction of the current conservative administration of the US to calls for slight increases in aid to Africa's poorest nations? George W. Bush had been rejecting calls for any such increases but has been pushed by public opinion into relenting somewhat.

We are not saying that such monies should be ploughed into creating the current American lifestyle around the globe. That drive is already having catastrophic consequences. We are saying that all the wealthy in the world should give whatever it takes to raise the bottom out of poverty while at the same time repairing the environment and, therefore, without any motivation of personal recompense. We are saying that in actuality everyone should give everything (literally everything) over to this effort to finally make the world a righteous place for all. Percentages of gross domestic product are of no concern to the truly repentant, the merciful, the compassionate, the Christian.

Now, the US has a reactionary ambassador to the United Nations. John Bolton, an extreme hawk, hardline neoconservative, was appointed to the UN by George W. Bush while the US Senate was in recess. George W. Bush did that to circumvent the Senate's constitutional role to advise and consent concerning all ambassadorships. John Bolton had run into trouble concerning confirmation by the Senate. A number of Republicans, including former Republican secretary of state, Colin Powell, were dismayed at Bolton's comments about the UN in addition to other questions concerning John Bolton's antichrist, hyper-neoconservative, super-nationalist worldview.

As of this writing, the UN is undergoing reform negotiations. Under John Bolton, the US administration's position is that the US wishes to reduce the importance and visibility of the UN's Millennium Development Goals, which are goals to reduce extreme monetary poverty, among other goals, via mundane development (capitalistic development—privatization). Bolton and other neocons are not interested in emphasizing giving by wealthy nations, especially the US, even if it is to be via the unrighteousness of mammon, which they serve. They want to keep more for themselves. After all, the abject poor around the world are not their closest bloodline relatives. It's racism.

In addition, Bolton and the Bush-43 administration are against the UN reform proposal that calls for further reductions in nuclear weapons by the US and others. The US is, in fact, interested in increasing its nuclear weapons. The US is specifically interested in developing and deploying and using a variety of tactical nuclear weapons.

They are also against further UN moves concerning global warming. The US still wants to pursue fossil-fuel development around the world. Strong moves to cut pollution and global warming would, they imagine, dig too deeply into their pocket books. They want their Empire now, and to hell with posterity.

They will of course pay lip service to measures. They will be pushed into doing the right things only to the extent that they calculate that they will otherwise be driven from power. They will later attempt to co-opt and take credit for the movement to reverse global warming as if they were the ones who cried that global warming.

Of course, they are also against increasing overall foreign aid. They will give in when the media are spotlighting a particular group of the poor, but they will make a cut somewhere else to make up for any highly visible giving. They always must come out ahead in any deal.

Rather than pushing for the elimination of nuclear-arms and other weapons, human causes for excessive global warming, and poverty in all nations, the neocons push for more nuclear weapons (so long as the US has them), more use of greenhouse-gas causing fossil fuels (so long as the US dominates), and more pseudo-democracy for the nations.

That pseudo-democracy is a cover for unregulated, capitalistic takeover. They also want an increase in the war on what they call terrorism.

They want that so they may have cover for their so-called preemptive military strikes and invasions for the sake of imperial gains and for profiteering under the military-industrial complex.

They want the world to look the other way when they use radioactive, carcinogenic (cancer causing) depleted uranium in their conventional anti-armored vehicle artillery and tank shells. Each one of those shells constitutes a dirty shell as with dirty bombs. It leaves cancer-causing radioactive dust and fragments all over.
They will want the world to look the other way when they use all the new generations of weapons by which they will further enrich themselves. They want the world to look the other way when they use incendiary weapons on people.

US war crimes and incendiary weapons

The weapons range in size up to 750 lb (340 kg) bombs. The US military denied that these are chemical weapons. They also claimed they are used only to illuminate targets, create smoke screens, and to terrorize and confuse the enemy. They denied using them directly on people. The soldiers on the ground call the white-phosphorus mortar shells "shake 'n bake." The air support calls white phosphorus "whiskey Pete."

The reasons the US military both had been refusing to acknowledge that the weapons are chemical weapons and that they had used them in Iraq on people, including civilians, women and children, are twofold.

Firstly, the Bush-43 administration has spoken out so loudly against the use of chemical weapons by people such as Saddam Hussein. During, and since, the Bush-43 administration's run-up to the invasion of Baghdad, they referred to Saddam's use of chemical weapons as one reason he was reprehensible and should be removed from power. They made Saddam out to be a war criminal for having used chemical weapons particularly indiscriminately against civilian populations.

Secondly, the US now uses MK 77 and other compounds as modernized incendiary devices.
on people while they claimed they were only used to illuminate and screen. The US military is trying to use technical loopholes, of course, to skirt the spirit of the law, as always.

The US is signatory to the Chemical Weapons Convention (Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production, Stockpiling and Use of Chemical Weapons and on their Destruction). The intent of all treaties is the spirit of the law that informs the interpretation thereof. The Preamble of that Convention states in part that the intention of the Convention and, therefore, of the US, as a signatory party, is "to exclude completely the possibility of the use of chemical weapons." However, the Convention states as follows:

Incendiary agents such as napalm and phosphorus are not considered to be CW agents since they achieve their effect mainly through thermal energy. Certain types of smoke screen may be poisonous in extremely high concentrations but, nonetheless, smoke ammunition is not classed as a chemical weapon since the poisonous effect is not the reason for their use.

Therefore, the US military cover against allegations of war crimes concerning its use of phosphorus is that when it uses phosphorus on people, it is not the toxic, poisonous aspect that maims and kills. It is the thermal effect. Nevertheless, phosphorus is being used by the US as a weapon of mass, indiscriminate destruction. The Preamble of the Convention also states the intent of the Parties as, "general and complete disarmament." Now we see the hypocrisy laid bare. Now we see antichrist.

With the Vietnam War where it was widely learned by US civilians back home that the US was using napalm, there has been a concerted and more effective censoring effort by the US government to cover up the use by the US of MK 77 in Iraq against civilians. A website concerning atrocities in Iraq by the US military which website was put up by returning veterans was shut down by the government. It was only a delaying tactic by the military of course. They knew the truth would leak out. It is just an on-going process of first screening things from the general population and then following up with desensitizing them once the smoke screen stops working.

Usually, these bombs are kerosene jellied in soap with white phosphorus. This sets off a fire that keeps burning after the kerosene is spent. The phosphorus super reacts with the oxygen in the air and water in flesh and results in an extremely intense chemical burning that can't be put out without being completely deprived of oxygen and without a different source of water other than that in the flesh. It burns to the bone. It leaves the clothes unburned while under the clothes the flesh is burned and eaten away. It is monstrous, as all weapons are monstrous. It is indiscriminate. It is no precision weapon. These weapons are the descendents of the dreaded napalm weapons of the Vietnam War and the incendiary bombs such as those used in the fire-bombing of Dresden in World War II and even the early incendiary weapons of World War I.

Conservative outward appearance intended to deceive, pretext

The fire-bombing of Dresden was expressly for the purpose of terror and revenge. Winston Churchill wrote as follows:

> It seems to me that the moment has come when the question of bombing of German cities simply for the sake of increasing the terror, though under other pretexts, should be reviewed.

This was vintage Churchill, as you will see later on in this work. That's the typical, conservative, lying mentality still in use today. Note the words "under other pretexts."

That bombing resulted in a fire so gasping for air that it created a wind into the fires center that literally sucked in people even those clinging to buildings and poles and such. Their strength though could not withstand Churchill's madness and wrath. Churchill heard the Gospel and rejected it.

Incendiary weapons are used on people to this day for, among other reasons, their terror effect on the population as a whole. It is designed to break the people. The US rained down white phosphorus from helicopters on the heart of Fallujah, Iraq, and the civilians below who had been trapped in the city by US forces that had surrounded it. As the only international news medium within Fallujah at the time, Al Jazeera caught it on video from within the city. Where were the US journalists who were embedded with the US military units? Where is their video of the fire bombing? Where is the satellite video of everything that happened? Where is the video from the helicopters? Where are the sound recordings of every sound and word of the entire US military during the attacks? It was unmerciful. It was vengeance. It was terror. It was Satan.

The US military is Satan's arm. The Pentagon is Satan's worldly headquarters.

In addition to the illegal use of white phosphorus as an incendiary weapon especially against civilians, the US military also used cluster bombs (bombs loaded with explosive fragments that shred people over a wide area), depleted uranium (still radio active), and fleshettes (artillery shells loaded with thousands of darts) in Fallujah against civilians. These acts constitute war crimes and crimes against humanity. That's why the military lied about using them for so long. They had to admit it though when there was too much evidence and testimony by US troops to deny it any longer. Therefore, the US military has admitted massive war crimes. Fallujah, a city of some three hundred fifty thousand civilians, was declared a free-fire zone (the rules of engagement were shoot anything that moves at will) by the US military. Where's the humanity claimed by Donald Rumsfeld?

Some Iraqis had killed some five US soldiers and four contractors from Blackwater Security Consulting. A mob mutilated and burned bodies and hanged remains from a bridge in Fallujah.
This was shades of Mogadishu, Somalia, from October of 1993 when the remains of US soldiers were the object of similar sick treatment. The Bush-43 administration and US military command decided to answer what happened in Fallujah with overwhelming brutality of their own to shock the sensibilities and horrify the people into submission.

This is standard US war policy. It is stated openly in the Pentagon planning. They don't mind making it public. They want to psych-out the world into giving up. It's what Osama bin Laden has also been trying to do. It is all sadomasochistic. They say we will horrify you to the degree necessary to show you that you cannot be more degrading than we are. We will show you that resistance is futile. We will show you the bottomless pit and our capacity to rain down evil upon you until you submit and conform to our will (not God's will, but man's will). That is the neocon military plan: Breaking the world's spirit to resist their religion of neoliberal capitalism.

aaa

Before continuing on, let us qualify the immediately following with the cautionary words concerning relativism and absolutism. Everything must be viewed in these terms simultaneously for the darkness to be displaced by the light. Goodness and evil are known to us in both relative and absolute terms. From the point of infinite goodness, all else is relatively evil and absolutely evil. These terms are always contextual. Therefore, when one says that this or that is evil, how evil must also come to mind. For instance, we will say much about Mohammed and Islam in this work. We will say much about many people and religions and ideologies, etc. In raising each, we will always be speaking in terms of the relative or the absolute or both. Mohammed for instance was not a Christian. However, he was certainly not the most unrighteous soul who ever lived. Reconciling the seeming paradoxes is requisite.

So, when we say that as the neocons do, Mohammed advocated breaking the world's spirit through militant coercion so that the world would be too fearful to resist Mohammed's religion, Mohammed's view of the God of Abraham. Mohammed was a capitalist after all. He was a trader, a man of commerce, a worldly empire builder, who said God Most High is also Allah, the name of Mohammed's chief tribal-deity. What other name could he have used? Did he know the Hebrew name of God: Yahweh? No doubt. Yahweh is the Hebrew name of God Most High. There are many names of God Most High. They just don't all bring forth the same thing. They don't have continuity with Jesus.

God the tangible; God the ineffable

They are all utterances that bring to mind the concept of God from God's tangible aspects (indications of God's existence and presence; which really is all of creation) to God's ineffable aspects (nevertheless God's reality). The name of God should bring to mind, should remind us, that there are things about God we do not know and which are, therefore, unutterable. The words are not there yet. The conceptualizations are not there yet. At the same time, Jesus showed God. Jesus did God.

Evil, relative and absolute, fools itself by dressing itself in sheep's clothing. It looks in the mirror and convinces itself that it has not the slightest trace of rottenness at its core. Don't partake. Don't fall for that. Until the spirit and soul are completely about unselfishness, there is still at the very least, a hint of corruption. We are to be about overcoming. It is process.

So, that is the neocon military plan: Breaking the world's spirit to resist their religion of neoliberal capitalism, to resist their lordship as the highest caste on earth, which they can never be until they serve as Jesus served (in humility).

Iraqis in Fallujah had violently reacted to the violent invasion and occupation and the violence of US corporate security contractors who act with impunity and a law unto themselves, as planned by the privatizers. The US reacted violently to the violence in kind, which is the pattern that is the evil spirit since the beginning and until the end. Don't partake.

What woe awaits the ones by whom the offence cometh?

The souls of those who use these incendiary and other weapons and order their use and manufacture them and design and engineer them and supply aid and comfort to any of those people and who facilitate it and fund the whole septic system who do not repent down to their own bones and atone will suffer themselves great wrath and terror according to the measure of their selfishness that is their knowing sin. The unrepentant will feel the pain and suffering they've caused, not for vengeance by God but for the sake of righteousness. When will Satan really learn the golden rule? The good father wishes his son already knew.

If you doubt that the US has used such weapons in Iraq and against civilians, you should go out of your way to view the film, Fallujah: The Hidden Massacre, by Sigfrido Ranucci, RAI News 24, dated November, 8, 2005. At the time of this writing, it is still available as streaming video over the Internet. Of course, there is no telling when the state will shut it down. They don't want the truth out even though they've already admitted using white phosphorus on people. They are likely to try to backtrack to revise history. That's why they are reclassifying so many once declassified archives.

Sanitized war

If you never saw any of the Vietnam coverage because you were too young, be prepared after seeing Sigfrido's film to come to understand why the antiwar movement had such a profound effect upon the youth during the Vietnam War. It was on the TV daily. That's why the actual frontline Iraq War including all the maimed and dead bodies doesn't make it on the TV at all now. That's why even the flag-draped coffins of US soldiers coming home by the thousands now aren't shown on the TV or in the magazines or newspaper front pages. You are being allowed to go about your comfortable, pleasant un-discerning and un-dissenting life while atrocities are committed in the name of America and for the sake of great mammon, power, and control for the prince of darkness and his few lackeys.

27 http://www.truthout.org/multimedia

Also understand that the invasion of Fallujah was kept on hold until John Kerry conceded the presidential election to George W. Bush. Think about what that means even though Kerry vowed to continue the war and even increase the number of troops.

Human rights and capitalism are incompatible

The neocons want human rights to be redefined as primarily capitalistic and commercial, corporate rights. They want greater control over UN spending, which they want directed toward their neocon goals of Empire building for the capital of capitalism: The US.

They don't see the root causes for the problems they are insisting require ever quicker and less substantiated violent and unjust responses. They are trying to convince themselves and others that there just isn't time to get to the bottom of problems. They are drumming up a sense of hyper urgency that itself is part of the cause for increasing problems. Under this sense of urgency, they push for what will bring them profits and ascendance to the thrones of the world. They try desperately not to look in the mirror to see that their lusts are at the bottom of the problem. They want to rationalize that away by substituting in all sorts of other explanations that convince those who have fallen prey to the hyper-urgency approach. They suck in each other making the world a more hellish place.

Of course, those who argue against them manage to make strides also. Under their countervailing pressure, positive turns occur. The truth peeks out. No thanks go to the neocons for that though, because their agenda are without any such intention.

Thou shalt never preempt

What happens as a result of strikes and invasions under the guise of preemption when the justification used to sell the nations on such strikes and invasions do not pan out? The threshold for war drops precipitously until the countervailing, saner pressures win out.

Shall God preempt them? Is that the standard they want used upon them? They would already be non-existent. Where is the golden rule in their fallible preemption? There is nothing there but hypocrisy and those who follow their doctrine of preemption shall go with it. Satan is his image.

Look at the mentality that has brought on the problems. Look at the methods to which they have stooped and that have been outraged by the Holy Spirit. I speak of all the secret prisons and tortures, etc. I speak of the centuries of US history documenting atrocities done in the name of market gains for the ultra greedy.

There are those who will doubt the killing of the civilians, but they were all shot in the head in one room. People are shot in their homes by the US military who claim that the people were killed in a roadside bombing. However, they were all dressed in pajamas and found in their house in an unmistakable and documented crime scene investigated by US backed and sanctioned Iraqi police. The scene could not have been created by the Iraqis. The US military instantly admitted to the deaths but just not the real cause: Murder in cold blood. It is not possible for them to have taken bodies supposedly killed by bomb blasts according to lying US troops and somehow make those dead bodies show no signs of bomb blasts but rather show forensic proof of death by gun shots to the backs of their heads.

How gullible are the elect?

The elect know them by their results, fruit. When they bring nothing but love, peace, and truth, then they are of God. When they bring the opposite, they are of Satan.

The US military personnel are told that the Iraqis were responsible for 9-11. They are led to believe that Muslims are valueless as human beings. They are told falsely that preemption is right. They are also told that this is not right. They are even told that by some in the military. They are given mixed signals that confuse them and break and kill their souls. That is why there are atrocities. Join the elect, and don't be fooled.

The US military has stooped to taking in openly neo-Nazis and white supremacists. They claim they don't want them; however, that's a lie. Nazis and white racists are exactly the kind of fascists the capitalists military has been thriving upon. It is being exposed by the Holy Spirit of truth to place light and dark in stark relief where it used to be considered shades of grey.

Choose your side

You are being confronted by the spirit to make up your mind. Which side are you on? Are you with the violent or are you with the peace-loving? You cannot be both. What are you making of yourself? What will you make of yourself? Which spirit are you spreading? Which domain is your home? Peace.

Every time there is any suggestion of atrocity, the US military pumps out disinformation and the US mainstream media are as hushed on the story as they think they can get away with.

Soldiers are more so predisposed to sociopathy. Wait until the soldiers get home. Some will turn on their families. Some will turn on society at-large. Some will turn on the government.

Thou shalt never retaliate

If preemptive war is right, then one should kill everyone for the potential threat posed. Even Otto Eduard Leopold von Bismarck knew it was stupid. He said, "Preventive war is like committing suicide out of fear of death." Such preemption is the great devourer's doctrine. The commandment of God is thou shalt never preempt. In fact, the Holy Spirit of God our Father speaking through Jesus said that thou shalt never retaliate, much less preempt, regardless of whether multi- or unilaterally.

The Holy Spirit is answering the prayers of people with this outing of the secrets of the rich, powerful, and elite. It is an amazing sign for those who see it. People have been praying for an end to the insanity and lies. They aren't praying for retribution. They are praying for love to prevail. Oh, there are some people who pray for vengeance, but the Holy Spirit isn't exposing the sins of the unrepentant on account of prayers for vengeance. The Holy Spirit is responding to the truly repentant who are not calling for wrath.

Satan races the mind to distract it from considering and clearly identifying Satan's fruit and hence Satan himself

They said there just isn't time to allow the UN weapons inspectors to comb Iraq for evidence of weapons of mass destruction. The greedy had a sinking feeling that with no such evidence turning up their opportunity would slip away from them for personal political and economic gain. They had to act before the people and the nations could rightly consider. They had to rush to attack Iraq based upon what they now call the universal belief of all the intelligence agencies at the time that there were weapons of mass destruction and terrorists connections, etc. The so-called intelligence was below flimsy. At least half the career intelligence officers in the US CIA knew it and would not support the neocon's knowingly fabricated findings. The "universal" claim is a flat out lie.

Kill the slightly reformed CIA

The neocons hate the CIA. The CIA had been changed some what from being the strong instrument of the imperial presidency by the revelations and legislation that came as a result of the Church Committee findings (See: Index). It was still doing bad things in covert operations. It was still being shortsighted. Its judgments were still wrong and selfish. It just wasn't the president's complete lap dog. The Bush-43 neocons wanted out-and-out liars in the CIA. They wanted a CIA that would lie right along with them. Cheney and his chief of staff, the indicted Scooter Libby, made numerous, unprecedented trips to the CIA personally to pressure CIA analysts to toe the party line lies about Iraq. Bush, Cheney, Rumsfeld, and Rice wanted the CIA to feed the Pentagon's Office of Special Plans with garbage to the twisted into a huge, fabricated pretext for the biggest crime in history: Stealing the Middle East's oil. Gangsters run the Empire.

Cheney had to have the Pentagon replace the CIA and had to destroy the CIA. He hated the CIA, because it wasn't oriented enough toward the military-industrial complex and the oil industry. The CIA wanted to go after al Qaeda covertly everywhere in the world. It didn't want to be sidetracked by going into Iraq. That though wouldn't have resulted in Halliburton getting billions and billions of dollars in no-bid contracts. That wouldn't have resulted in paying off the US oil companies for their support of George W. Bush. That wouldn't have lined Cheney's pockets. It wouldn't have done enough to deny the Chinese. It wouldn't have done enough to increase the imperial power of the presidency. It wasn't greedy enough. It wasn't big-business enough. It wasn't oligarchical and plutocratic enough.

Those of the false wealth run the world. That's a plutocracy. Certain so-called wealthy families run that plutocracy and, therefore, run the world. Cheney has broken into that circle and is insatiable.

Satancracy

Plutocracy literally means power from below, from false wealth. It means Satan, death, is the power running the world. That's the spirit of competition rather than universal cooperation. Those of the false bounty, the devourers, run the worldly system.

They control the world through evil scheming, illiberal devices (which really means hardhearted, mean, violent, and stingy, rather than meaning broadminded—the wide path). Real liberalism is the narrow way.

The powers that be, who gain their power from the dark side, control the world through their private, secretive central banks that print privatized currencies (counterfeit in the eyes of God and real heaven) such as the US dollar.

They make their fortunes, which they use to control world and local affairs (literally buying people's souls), through usury (interest) and usury charged on simply printing funny money.
that is treated as a loan to the people (but for absolutely nothing in return).

They use that money to issue and buy and sell stocks (and bonds) to control the corporate boardrooms including of all the major media corporations and the politicians (including all the US presidents) whom they have chosen and financed.

They cause wars for war profits (lending to all sides and choosing the so-called victors).

They scientifically cause booms and busts so they may buy low and sell high as insiders and to ruin their competitors (to monopolize the world).

They punish their competitors through economic sanctions and deliberate, malignant neglect such as ignoring drought, pestilence, famine, and all the other degradations and the refugees the Satanocrats (Plutocrats), in the end, create.

Please also read our Supplement to this work to help you grasp the magnitude of evil's grip on this world and the conniving individuals running it so you may better work to displace that evil with righteousness. No matter how bad you think it is, it's worse.

Shame on false-Christians

The neocons (rightwing false-Jews, false-Zionist racists) and the rightwing false-Christians are currently the primary tools of the anti-democratic oligarchs perpetrating the worst offenses. They will shift that focus around some to maximize the effect of their death wish.
Shame on anyone calling himself or herself a Christian who supports the false Zionists who have built their current nation-state (Israel) on racism, terror, theft, and death and for supporting the anti-democratic, inegalitarian, tyrannical, global oligarchs.

We know that the CIA and the State Department lost the arguments within the White House, because Cheney and Rumsfeld appealed to George W. Bush's selfishness. George's predatory brain is his default plane of consciousness. George had his own ideas about Saddam Hussein after all. George's father had a history concerning Iraq, and George came up politically as an insider in his father's administration. George was also a dirty-trick artist and had Karl Rove in his ear the whole time that Cheney, Rumsfeld, and Condi Rice were buzzing against the CIA's George Tenet and the State Department's Colin Powell and the terrorism czar, Richard Clarke.

George Tenet told Condi Rice a couple of months before 9-11 that an attack was imminent in the then near future. He was marginalized. They was a different agenda at work other than foiling al Qaeda. Also, Colin Powell was pushed out so Condi Rice could take his place as secretary of state for the second term of Bush-43. She was willing to cooperate with Cheney and Rumsfeld.

How gullible are the elect? (continued)

The rest of the story has been about twisting the history and trying to move on, putting the past behind us all. In other words, they want the people to give them all a pass on responsibility and accountability.

Well, the people don't have to do that. They don't have to support the perjurers. They ought not to support them. They ought to demand that they repent and atone or be treated as the self-separating heathens they are otherwise.

It isn't that people want self-separating heathens. They don't. The clear and plain truth of peace is either accepted by people or it is rejected. That's why Jesus didn't beat people over the head. People ought to be chastised enough by their own consciences once they are confronted with the words of truth.

The biggest hawks in the administration knew it was all false. It was the big lie used just as the Nazis had used it. The American people fell for it for a time, because they are not the elect. They don't discern people's fruits to know them, to know their spirits, to identify their core beings, to identify and change themselves.

Since the CIA staff wouldn't do what Bush wanted, he set out to destroy it. He put it under John Negroponte as the director of National Intelligence (DNI). He took away all the CIA director's oversight of other agencies. He installed Porter Goss who couldn't, wouldn't, hold back the force of John Negroponte and Donald Rumsfeld and Dick Cheney who set about destroying the agency by destroying its sole reason for existing, objective intelligence-analysis and covert operations. Analysis has been moved largely to DNI (Negroponte's staff) and both covert operations and further analysis to the Pentagon.
Some will say that Bush-43 was just following the recommendations of the US Congress and others concerning reforming the CIA; however, that ignores the fact that those who gave such recommendations were against the Church Committee or were duped by the neocons into believing that 9-11 was an intelligence failure when it most certainly was not.

That excuse was drummed up to consolidate power into the president's hands by merging domestic and foreign spying in such a way that would preclude one agency watching another to make sure there were no coup d'états by the president or others in the works. That small degree of protection has now been largely removed. With a docile US Congress and neocons being named to the Supreme Court and lower courts, the executive branch is being turned into the only branch that will have any power. That wouldn't be bad except for the bad intentions of those who are turning it into their instrument for evil.

Porter Goss put into place a litmus test of loyalty to political policies of George W. Bush. He started giving polygraph tests asking people their political-party affiliation. Truth was out. Empire building and propaganda was its replacement. Anyone who didn't like it could leave, and many have. Now all that's left are yes men and women. That's just how Bush likes it. Now he can tell the intelligence community to conjure up whatever lies he wants to substantiate whatever wars he wants to undertake. Also, his political enemies become enemies of the state, since he has made himself the state. The continuity with all the Democrats who had been built up in the CIA with Republicans is broken. Consolidation is occurring in the Military. It won't be long before civilian authority over the military will be brought into direct question.

If the US is hit hard by an attack, it will mean overt martial law.

There is more to Porter Goss than this though. When Goss was a Republican congressmen, he was chosen to co-chair the House-Senate joint inquiry into 9-11, officially called the "Joint Inquiry into Intelligence Community Activities before and after the Terrorist Attacks of September 11, 2001."

Follow the money

For some background, Pakistan has an intelligence service called the Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI). On 9-11, Pakistani lieutenant general Mahmoud Ahmad was the head of ISI. In late August 2001 just before the 9-11 attacks, Porter Goss and his later co-chairmen, Florida Democratic senator Bob Graham, along with Arizona Republican senator John Kyl, were in Islamabad, Pakistan, meeting with Pakistan's dictator president, Pervez Musharraf, and general Ahmad and others. On 9-11, those same members of US Congress were in Washington having breakfast with general Ahmad.

It has been reported that general Ahmad ordered a money transfer of one hundred thousand dollars to Mohamed Atta of al Qaeda... who was the supposed lead terrorist in the US supervising the 9-11 attacks.

A few other things to keep in mind are that Porter Goss had been ten years in the CIA dealing directly with covert operations. When it later came out that George W. Bush had been briefed by the CIA some five weeks before 9-11 that al Qaeda was planning to attack the US by commercial airline hijackings, Goss called "a lot of nonsense" the indignation of people that the president knew about the attacks but they were still easily pulled off while US fighter jets were far away in war games or were ordered to sit on the ground (highly unusual) until it was too late.

Does any of this prove complicity? It is very telling that the results of tracing all the money transfers that took place have never been made public. It is also highly telling that the part the Inter-Services Intelligence and general Ahmad played in 9-11 was not reported on by the joint inquiry co-chaired by two of those just cited. It is also telling that then Goss was made director of the CIA to ruin it. Fruit! You shall know them by their fruit! Their results prove who they are.

There is no doubt that deals have been made around the world to insure the future performance of certain foreign leaders. Look how quickly Muammar Gaddafi of Libya turned from terrorism against the US. Look how quickly Pervez Musharraf of Pakistan turned. Look how chummy the house of Saud is with the house of Bush. Those Muslim leaders know that if they want to survive, and the US needs them since it can't install stable leadership everywhere, those leaders must do what they are told to a great degree. If they start to become too independent, they know the US will take 'em out to use Bush-43's expression.

Retired Army general Tommy Franks, who led the invasion of Iraq in March of 2003, summed it up as "convince, coerce, compel." First they try diplomacy (deals, bribes, and threats). If they can't convince them, they ratchet up sanctions or coercive measures. If they don't knuckle under as a result of those sanctions, the plan is to compel them via the heavy-handed coercion of military strikes and invasions. Does that sound like the doctrine of Jesus Christ to you?

How far do they want to go toward empire?

The neocons and other conservatives and most of the more left-leaning Democrats in the US Congress will deny it all, but the thought has more than crossed the neocons minds of revving up enough war(s) through false-flag terrorist attacks (terrorist attacks made to look like the work of foreign Islamic terrorists) on the US that Bush would declare extremely strict martial law and indefinitely postpone the next national election for president and thereafter. They would love any opposition party to be declared illegal. They envy what Stalin had.

The military is getting the lion's share of the intelligence budget now at about eighty percent. The military is to be privatized too. All of this is designed to remove oversight from the equation. It is all design to set the stage for an out-of-the-closet dictator and then crowned emperor and then anointed living god on the order of the worst caesar. "Hail the president for life" is the idea of the fascists. "Long live the president and his self-appointed heir" they yearn in their hearts even now. Someday, they will say and even yell out loud for all to hear, "To hell with the Republic." Julius Caesar was beloved by the duped Roman populous so much so that they were going to kill his assassins who had to flee Rome.

It is all a question of just how reckless and bold the person is. The capitalist, fascist-leaning, empire builders of the US have a blood thirsty pseudo-messianic element cloaking itself in The Bible. It is highly nationalistic. It wants the US to be the chosen nations so much that it is willing to kill everyone rather than fall short of that dark vision. They are Reaganites in the ideological sense. Now they are Bushites.

They will look the other way on nearly everything so long as the leader is stamping out anything that isn't in line with their conception of the wrath-filled, avenging angel of death getting back at anything that didn't fall down to worship the one who promised Bush the whole world for a while. The US Constitution is not that to which they pledge ultimate allegiance.

As you have seen, George W. Bush swore to preserve, protect, and defend that constitution, but he did so with the view that he was all-powerful under it. He uses signing statements and then goes ahead daring anyone, the other branches, to stop him in a time of so-called war, as if by his vague standard there hasn't been a constant state of war since the state's inception. On a certain level there has: Light versus dark. The conservatives have reached to grab the power, thereby, exposing themselves for what they are: Satan's minions until they turn. The wrath-filled, bitter, hardhearted people will not simply stop and give up if George W. Bush doesn't completely take over. They are very upset that they see the self-styled liberals grabbing more of the seeming political center with the potential of making big gains in federal elections this year, 2006, and then again in 2008. They know that when the Democrats control both houses of the US Congress and the presidency, it will set back the plan for a theocracy of mammon ostensibly under Moses's law of an eye-for-an-eye.

The only way right now for them to keep hold of overt power they think is by a huge attack on the US by sworn enemies, marshal law, and postponed or greatly rigged elections. George W. Bush doesn't seem particularly worried though. Is that because he has that much confidence in the planned dirty tricks?

If Bush doesn't pull it off, the power elite will just re-double their efforts. The Democrats won't get it right, and the hardcore Reaganites and Bushites will be poised to pounce for another attempt at their backward revolution. Only the next time, the conservatives will rush to get everything locked up before things have a chance to fall apart due to the backlash.
Original sin

Right now, the Bush-43 administration just makes it up as it goes along—not the rules of the game but the justification for the game invented long before they got back into power: Plato's rules, which Plato learned from the history of the power elite who came before him. Those rules go back to the first person who violated God's law by just grabbing the other person's fair share of the food, raping anyone he wanted, looking out for himself, sacrificing anyone else for his own safety, and generally tormenting and terrorizing others into doing whatever he wanted of them. Then one generation, he put a crown on his head. He also started calling himself a god and convinced others that it was in their best selfish interest to kill anyone who disagreed.

Not all chiefs or fathers were evil. The brutal ones though, at first when they grew old, they were overthrown, often violently, by one of the younger male victims. As history shows, replacements can be beneficent or sick enough to match or better the tyranny of the one overthrown.

The Platonic plan now is for the military to be morphed into a centralized, computer-run, privatized, global, secret, security force. It will do all the security surveillance and enforcement everywhere. There will be no seams.

It won't work though. The very nature of heaven is that it is voluntary. You go on the word of God, or you don't go at all. There is no Pentagon in heaven. The Pentagon is in hell. It wants total control of the world. It wants to be God, but its Satan's.
They claim their people are focused upon anti-terrorism, but they are really targeting anyone who dares to disagree. They are making up lies left and right about people all over the world and supplying zero proof. They do this in the international arena, because there, there is lawlessness, just the way they like it.

Definition of terrorism

With the movement afoot to have all criminal activity anywhere in the world defined as terrorism, we are seeing that people who merely dissent against oppressive government policies and practices are being lumped together with real terrorists. With terrorism being defined as an international danger to national security, we are seeing that governmental treatment of people simply for being poor or oppressed or abused is being covered up and kept from open and public investigation under the guise of state secrets and matters of national security. This is darkness for humanity.

Resistance

Resistance of any kind (from militant to simple, peaceful opposing thought), to rabid-capitalist hegemony is terrorism. Resistance is futile in the face of the ever-increasing and overwhelming military technology and endless financial resources. This has been the combined message of the US nationalist-expansionists (financial and market domination) and neocons and secretly, the pinnacle of the global oligarchy.

We see in the United States that families are being broken up in the name of secure borders and to prevent mundanely illegal immigration. Young children who are United States citizens are having their parents who are not citizens deported from the US. Ultraconservatives are having them deported as a political measure. Those conservatives do not want the population of browner-skinned people to increase. If the conservatives aren't able to finish the job started by the Reagan, backward revolution to dismantle the acts of the major civil-rights and voting-rights movements of the 1960's and the remainder of the New Deal from the 1930's, many immigrants will vote for greater fairness across the board. We are witnessing the systematic attack on fundamental fairness. To secure borders everywhere in the world, there will be no distinction between policing and military action. They are going to make war on, or take police action against (take your choice of descriptions), anyone who is not in lockstep with libertarian-capitalist consolidation (read monopoly on everything; literally everything: all matter and energy; all of creation supposedly controllable human science and technology). If you are not with them, you will be defined as a terrorist or potential terrorist fit for preempt, exactly what they did to Jesus. You know how that turned out for those who murdered Jesus.

The mammon theocrats really are going to try to make independent giving, sharing, and commune-living illegal. If you want to give or share, you'll have to do it as an authorized faith-based organization. You'll have to give and share only those things that come by way of capitalist production. If you don't, you'll be a terrorist. That's their goal. It won't work. It can't. It isn't workable.

The global Wild West

The whole world is now the Wild West to the neocons. They are the US marshal come to town with the whole world being that town. That's why the US is moving so quickly toward beam weapons in space and on airplanes, etc. The plan is to vaporize all the warheads and other weapons any group could throw at the US. Read the signs of the times.

The neocons are much farther along in their operations then you think. That's why they didn't put many troops into Iraq. They have bands all over stirring up trouble. Then they have some twelve aircraft carriers loaded with planes and bombs and missiles, with more on the way. There are also huge Air Force bases loaded with planes and bombs. Their time is running out. They are looking to start World War III and to win it with superior, secret technology.

Total takeover

The plan is for the US military to take over. The plan is to aggregate and consolidate all power into one unified security force. There are only two basic concerns, which are the two dimensions of their flat worldview. Trade and security are the two aspects for the coming total world-market monopoly of the supreme capitalist corporation. That will be the sovereignty, and its leader will be emperor/god of the earth.
This of course constitutes mammon, the prince of darkness, as king of the world. Well, it has ever been so for those who have never seen the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus as the move to inevitable checkmate. They can't see it. They refuse to see it. They insist upon raising their strangling thorn bushes (competitiveness rather than cooperativeness) while God through grace allows the sun to still shine and rain to still fall on them.

It won't last. It won't work. It can't work any more than Nimrod could dominate God. No matter how much human, mundane science and technology there comes to be, God will always have the upper hand.

The US military world coup is already well underway

The US military has effectively usurped the civilian-driven CIA and State Department. Foreign policy is being made at the Pentagon. Congressional oversight of Pentagon spending in aiding foreign militaries has been removed. Terrorism is defined now as the threat that reaches into, or is aided and abetted by, common criminal activity anywhere and anytime. The Pentagon is to see to ending everything illegal worldwide, defined as anything the capitalist mainstream doesn’t control. This is not making the world safe for democracy but rather for capitalism.

The neocons seek to keep power through nightmarish means and to further move the military line by doing to the FBI what they have done to the CIA and then privatizing the function.

Remember that the base of all wealth and value under capitalism comes out of warlordism. It was fine for the ancestors of the capitalists according to them to go fight and kill to take property from others whether or not those others were competitive warlords or pirates themselves. Now that they have amassed so much plunder, they twist and spin their rationalization in loftier sounding terms. They are for the "rule of law." Hogwash! They are simply attempting to close the door behind them. It's still slavery, gangsterism, and racketeering that stand at the base of capitalism. They've just garbled the definition of what is right versus what is wrong, just as Isaiah said.

Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! (Isaiah 5:20).

This is pronouncing woe on the rabid, militant capitalists who destroy and devour the earth with their word games.

The neocons are using part of the Pentagon's budget for training throughout the third world. They call it the Counter-Terrorism Fellowship Program. That program is part of the Pentagon's plan for Total Information Awareness and total control. The Pentagon wants to consolidate to itself all intelligence and security policy and operations at every level everywhere in the world. It is training tens of thousands of people around the world each year and in the US along those lines.
Of course, part of the training is how to fight fire with fire, meaning how to terrorize people to side with the US rather than egalitarianism or anything else.

Latin American awareness

Many Latin Americans for their part are trying to reject most of the US neocon’s overtures for hemispheric solidarity under total US domination. They were never stupid. Now, many more are vastly better informed than in the old days when the US would just move in and push everyone around. That trend of awareness is going to continue despite Pentagon efforts to the contrary.

The Pentagon is always the arm of capitalism to force open markets to take them over with investments that drain the locale of its wealth sending it abroad and to the top where there already is unethical, immoral, antichristian consolidation of wealth.

Capitalism leads to fascism

The Pentagon and neocons in general, including all libertarian capitalists by default, are still cozying up to purchasable regimes. They still gravitate toward fascists as a hedge against egalitarianism and now so-called terrorism being blurred to include all crime that is being further blurred to include all dissent, even thoughts, against fascist capitalism.
They still lean toward the mentality that calls ancient military conquerors and Mussolini, Franco, Churchill, Reagan, and others great leaders. They mean great in the sense of good. Do they believe God and Satan are one? Hitler, Mussolini, and Franco supposedly saved their nations from Communism; however, including Churchill and Reagan, each was fallen away. Each was apostate to the degree each was far from following the new commandment. That is the measure of God versus Satan. That is the measure of man.

The main reason Hitler isn't lauded more openly is because he created the extermination camps that wiped out an estimated eleven million people in them with some six million of those being Jews and there are many neocon Jews. Otherwise, there are many in the US military-industrial complex who secretly admire Hitler most of all.

Today, the Pentagon is closest to Columbia and Paraguay in South America for example. Both of those countries are decidedly more fascist than any of the other nations on the continent. Face it; America is very fascist-leaning relative to any other major nation in the world.

It has over seven hundred fifty declared military bases about the globe many of those run by private for-profit corporations not subject to congressional oversight, unless the US Congress exerts itself. Those bases are to promote and defend not grassroots democracy but to open markets to capitalism and control from the top (superrich) down.
The Pentagon's Southern Command has taken over foreign affairs with Latin America. The CIA has been benched for not being willing to lie enough for Bush. The State Department is also completely cowed by the Pentagon. The most fascistic of the US capitalists have managed to gain consolidated control under the Pentagon. The line has been blurred between foreign and domestic, so the FBI will toe the Pentagon line too if the Bushites stay in power.

Pentagon speaks against the poor

Now, the Southern Command has been pumping out propaganda against indigenous peoples in Latin America having the say over resources in their countries. This propaganda is an appeal by the Southern Command to Americans to rise up in yet greater selfishness.

The Pentagon is stimulating American self-centeredness so that public opinion will go along with the Pentagon controlling Latin America for the sake of rich Americans and at the direct expense of the abject poor in Latin America. The Pentagon is a curse on the land.

Jesus, number one enemy of the state

The real enemy is greed! This of course, the self-styled conservative Christians don't worry about. They look at Christ through the lens of America and capitalism rather than looking at America and capitalism and the world through the lens of Christ. These people would label Jesus a terrorist for speaking out on behalf of the abused and needy. He would be a populist. He would be a radical. He would be a demagogue and a dangerous extremist, an enemy of the state just as they thought he was then. They would seek ways to silence him, to murder him.

It is true that Jesus was a radical, populist, and a demagogue. He was all of those in their best senses! He was for root change. He was for the people. He was a popular leader. He appealed to the unselfishness, the Godliness, in the people. He was the most extreme yet least dangerous human voice that ever spoke on earth.

The princes of this world speak dangerous lies for selfishness

President George W. Bush continues to more than strain credibility with his assertions. He said that the reason for going to war was not oil. However, everyone knows that his administration is full of neocons and that the neocon Project for the New American Century wrote in no uncertain terms before George W. Bush was ever president that the US must secure the world's oil supply to prevent any potential empire from rivaling the US. Why does George W. Bush speak as if there is no such thing as the Project for the New American Century or the Wolfowitz Doctrine of preemption not against terrorists but for purely empire sake upon which it is based?

Big Brother is not God

They say there just isn't time to wait for probable cause before snooping into everyone's international relationships. Big Brother has to listen in and read all electronic communications ostensibly to detect those they must then monitor under warrants obtained from secret courts also ostensibly issuing such warrants only in cases with reasonably demonstrated probable cause. Is there any line across which they will not cross to do this so-called detection? It is true that we are not supposed to even entertain sinful thoughts. God though affords each of us the opportunity to be repentant in our minds for our misguided thoughts and to learn and grow without being rendered, tortured, or killed for our missteps. God also knows full-well all sides of the story. Big Brother is not capable of meting out perfect justice.

Big Brother's way is not the way to deliver the poor and needy ridding them out of the hand of the wicked. Big Brother is largely responsible for having caused there to be so many poor and needy in the first place.

Big Brother and God are not and never will be synonymous. The people are to just trust Big Brother that he won't use what he gleans for his further private, special advantage and privilege. "Trust me," he says. He puts forth that he is only being benevolent and protective. It is the "only" part that is not right. It is also that the self-styled benevolence and protection is directed at such a narrow spectrum of the people. The innocent are severely neglected throughout the world. Meanwhile, the rich become richer.

What does this human preemption and hyper invasiveness wrought? The apostate attempt more and more to put their will in the place of God's will for the nations. God, however, knows everything without the help of the NSA. His justice is perfect and will be meted out upon those who assert their will in the place of doing what God wants for us, which is to follow Jesus's new commandment to love one another as Jesus loved his friends. He does not want us focusing upon those things that the warmongers wish for us to focus upon with a sense of hyper urgency, thoughtlessness, and recklessness.

Big Brother and the warmongers (the anti-peacemakers, the unblessed) drum up rashness. Rather than following God's desires, they use their own lustful calculations to assess risks versus benefits. When they do that, they always punish the innocent with the guilty. They don't even know what a real benefit is. They put right for wrong and wrong for right. They throw the foundations of the earth out of course.

They know not, neither will they understand; they walk on in darkness: all the foundations of the earth are out of course. (Psalm 82:5).

The consequences for that will come back to haunt those who remain unwilling to be reformed, stiff-necked, still insisting they made the right decision preemptively to strike others for the sake of selfish, worldly empire building. They ignore the commandments of God. The house is, thereby, divided and will not stand.

Consider how far from the kingdom of God the neocons are. Jesus said turn the other cheek. The neocons say not only fight back but hit first. It is satanic. It is usurping. It is arrogance. It is willful and rebellious. It is wicked. It is not good government.
You see, the US conservatives are for selfishness. That selfishness, that competition, causes more then just external environmental damage.

Selfishness is the plague of humanity that manifests in every form of evil

Cancer, cholera, dengue fever, diabetes, diarrhea, Ebola fever, heart disease, hepatitis, HIV/AIDS, influenza, leprosy, malaria, malnutrition, parasites, pneumonia, premature births, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, yellow fever, etc., are all symptoms of collective and individual human selfishness. It attacks the guilty and the innocent. Humanity's completely overcoming selfishness is the answer to ending all symptoms of that single plague: Evil.

Universal, permanent repentance is the answer.

Giving and sharing all, seeing to it that no one goes without is the answer. Treating the earth as the gift from God that it is, is the answer.

The US conservatives are selfish and, therefore, anti-environmental, uncooperative, and rebellious against God

Unselfishness, cooperation, environmentalism are all atoning. They work together internally and externally. It is a sacred obligation under the great commandment. "Whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven." (Matthew 16:19). That means that those who loose it will inherit it after all.

Which spirit is responsible for environmental gains, unselfishness, and cooperation? Which spirit has always fought against those things? When someone says we ought to recycle, do you rebel at being told what we ought to do? Where is the spirit of cooperation, or are people going to live competitively all their lives: Oppositional and defiant in the face of godliness?

We need cooperation to make the right things happen. We cannot do anything alone. Can one person clean up all the mess of the world alone? Jesus did not act alone. He had God and his Apostles and disciples after him, and they in turn had God, Jesus, the Holy Spirit, and all the other followers of righteousness: The real Church.

The rebellious against righteousness say they want to be free, but they are not free of the rebellion within. They are completely controlled by that rebellion against righteousness. They say they will not do anything anyone tells them to do. When someone comes to them and tells them the truth of how we all ought to behave, they call it controlling and insist that they will refuse simply based upon that groundless position. They will stubbornly refuse. They will deliberately do wrong and call it right. This is what Isaiah warned against. It's worth repeating.

Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! (Isaiah 5:20).

They will eat their words, and rightly so. It will be a growth experience for them if they then finally face the truth and repent.
What has humanity done? Where are God's cedars of Lebanon? Where are God's American buffalo? Where is the Amazon rainforest going? Where are the rivers that once poured into the oceans? These are but a few of myriad examples. They are gone and going to greed. Why are the bark beetles so hard at work in the forests? They attack weakened trees. Trees weakened by what? The prime mover of destruction is greed. Greed is the cause of the coming disaster.

Good shepherding and good stewarding go hand-in-hand. One cannot be at the expense of the other.

Capitalist strings attached to debt relief, continued

Debt relief for education, healthcare, and poverty reduction cannot be at the expense of the people's right to share fully in the whole inheritance of the planet. They cannot be at the expense of the planet itself through which God provides the daily bread, and water and air, for the life of the flesh. Unbridled development is greedy, and it is choking the life of the planet, which will revolt to be rid of the pathogen that is greedy people. We cannot be indifferent to this.

So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth. (Revelation 3:16).
And the land is defiled: therefore I do visit the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land itself vomiteth out her inhabitants. Ye shall therefore keep my statutes and my judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation, nor any stranger that sojourneth among you: (For all these abominations have the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled;) That the land spue not you out also, when ye defile it, as it spued out the nations that were before you. (Leviticus 18:25-28).

Cooperating with competition is impossible

Any notion that this new debt relief scheme is somehow altruistic is absurd. The poor were unable to repay anyway to the International Monetary Fund, World Bank, and others. It is for selfish reasons that this debt relief plan has been put forward. This is not a cynical evaluation. Selfish interest is, and has always been, openly the heart and soul of the capitalistic system and capitalist foreign policy. It is not a hidden or hushed-over tenet of the religion of capitalism. Selfish interest is a clarion call used by presidents and policy makers in the highest places. The selfish are constantly appealing to others to look at what is in those others' ostensible best selfish interest. The selfish are constantly appealing to others to come to the selfish conclusion that butting heads with greater hardheadedness (American competitive spirit) is futile. The selfish are constantly appealing to others, therefore, to cooperate with competition. It is impossible.

Even so, the self-centered calling themselves conservative Christians will not go nearly as far in debt relief as those calling themselves liberal or Labour. Those conservative Christians may even scramble to the Old Testament saying, "Of a foreigner thou mayest exact it again," meaning that the debt may be renewed after the seventh-year release that must apply to one's brethren. (Deuteronomy 15:3). However, in citing this as their excuse, they would be ignoring the teaching of Christ on this subject.

And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again. (Luke 6:34).

What is more, Jesus made clear that for the true Christian, one's brethren are the brethren in the spirit. He said, "For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother." (Matthew 12:50). Even more so, Jesus showed the lawyer via the parable of the Good Samaritan that the lawyer's neighbors are any who are in need.

Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves? And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus
They deliberately obstruct proven cooperation

The churlish devise and advocate economic systems to convince people that competition via the oxymoronic free-enterprise system is the only method of individuals, families, whole nations, and the whole world rising out of poverty. They deliberately fail to discuss the non-competitive, cooperative successes evidenced around the world. In fact, they create obstructions around the world. In fact, they create obstructions for those non-competitive, cooperative efforts in the hopes of preventing further progress or even to cause the failure of cooperative undertakings. They do this to protect their competitive system wherein their churlish natures they will remain at the top of the money pyramid. They pervert people's better inclinations. That is the underpinning of... the World Bank for instance as shown above. However, it is also the underpinning of the entire economic system.

Hutterites

The Hutterites are a prime example of the better inclination. They are a prime example that the non-competitive, cooperative, communism spirit is very successful (more successful) despite the obstructionism of external selfish powers. The Hutterites live with all things in common in over four hundred communities with a total population of around forty thousand or even fifty thousand. Their farming efforts in Canada were so successful that laws were passed there to deliberately obstruct the Hutterites' ability to purchase additional lands for their communities. The Communal Property Act of Alberta, Canada, limited the amount of land that may be owned communistically. In the Hutterite example, the collective is not owned by the state, as that term "state" is commonly understood. The Hutterite example is the application of the earliest Christian church following the teachings of Jesus where all things are shared in love, where the good of the group and the good of the individual is the same thing. Both the individual and the group benefit most under that most perfect of systems.

The capitalists always pass laws against the people sharing freely in the inheritance of all. The US passes all sorts of laws against the people having power. There are places in the US, such as Black Jack, Missouri, outside St. Louis, with zoning laws that claim the legal right to tell people who are not related that they can't Even if they own the property together, they are denied the right to live together on that property for no other reason than they are not immediate family members. Now, the real reason is to make it more difficult for unmarried people to live with each other; however, some of these zoning ordinances have behind them the intention also of making the communist living of The Bible illegal as well. Think about that.

And when they were come in, they went up into an upper room, where abode both Peter, and

In such US cities, even the Apostles of Christ couldn't share a room. It is okay for distantly related people to bunk in the same room in the military, in hospital wards, in school dormitories, at summer camps, and such places but not in their own homes. That's a ploy of capitalism to keep Christianity from spreading in earnest. As I said, the capitalists always pass laws against the people sharing freely in the inheritance of all.

James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon Zelotes, and Judas the brother of James. (Acts 1:13).
Labor unions

To keep the common people from gaining a greater and fairer share, the greedy conservatives passed the Taft-Hartley Act, otherwise known as the Labor-Management Relations Act, in 1947. That US law deliberately takes away the power of the workers, the vast, vast majority of people, to run their own inheritance from God. It is a law by, for, and of the devil.

Of course, no workers have a right to keep anyone from working who wants to (strikebreaking), which is one of the rationales of the Taft-Hartley Act, to prevent abuses by labor unions. We don't say that US style unions, per se, are the solution. They aren't.

They are a stopgap measure used by the corporate owners as a buttress against greater giving and sharing that is real Christianity.

We know that real small-c communism is the right direction toward the destination of God's provisioning without toil. We simply point out that the takers of the inheritance are those who have set up the system in a rigged manner without asking the people.

The Hutterite example would be made better were it to shine its cooperative light into the world, engaging the world in teaching and doing. They appear to be doing more of that as their Internet presence attests. Unfortunately, many communists fear outside spiritual pollution getting into their communities. They also fear the return of persecutions of the past when many hundreds of their fellows were brutally tortured, imprisoned, and murdered for their peaceful beliefs and communities of good. However, Jesus taught as follows:

For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it. (Matthew 16:25).

They have reason to fear for their fleshy lives in this world. It is just unfortunate that this is such a world were they are placed in that difficult position. They save their lives here, but at what expense?

They believe in pacifism, that infants cannot make the knowing decision to believe in Christ (hence be truly baptized), holding all things in common, and in the strict separation of church and state because the state-church combination had historically resulted in much evil.

Now, one may wonder why the Hutterites would have been so vehemently persecuted by what were the powerful denominations of the time. Well, those denominations considered the Hutterites heretics, along with many other sects. The Hutterites and other groups that were persecuted interpreted scripture differently from the most powerful denominations.

Make no mistake; there were many sects that were espousing things far from the kingdom. Some were even murdering each other and engaging in diabolical orgies and worse in what they considered religious rites of a sort. That isn't the issue.
An issue is persecution

The largest church wasn't attempting to save the persecuted. That church was simply killing them. When the church killed the Hutterites for instance, the church was killing the message of Jesus that was the call to pacifism.

The Hutterites are pacifists as Jesus was a pacifist. This much is fairly common knowledge.

The larger church was often reverting to being exclusively Old Testament.

When the LORD thy God shall bring thee into the land whither thou goest to possess it, and hath cast out many nations before thee, the Hittites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, seven nations greater and mightier than thou; And when the LORD thy God shall deliver them before thee; thou shalt smite them, and utterly destroy them; thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor shew mercy unto them.
(Deuteronomy 7:1-2).

That isn't Christian is it? No, it isn't. Jesus never taught "smite them." Jesus taught us to always show mercy, for mercy is what we want shown to us. So, who grew, God or the people's understanding of God? Who was closer to God? Was it Moses or Jesus? Real Christians say that Jesus is more enlightening than Moses, because Jesus was closer to God. Real Christians will add that Jesus has also drawn Moses closer in heaven.

New Testament church

Don't be confused by Jesus's parables wherein he related that there will be a purging of the unworthy. "But those mine enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me." (Luke 19:27). This is language to reach minds on their level. The parables are full of that device. It had to be that way else Jesus would have gotten through to no one.

This is not to say that souls will not be purged. They will. It is to say that we must come to understand that we do it to ourselves. People are choosing the hard way, Satan's way. This isn't where Jesus has come to tell us to just do as Satan wants and Satan will stop tormenting us. It is saying that God can take any soul out of the hand of Satan and keep Satan from ever having that one again. It is saying that where we refuse to be ruled over by righteousness, Satan will have us. To be slain is to be given over to Satan: Death, corruption.

The parables are representative in human terms of higher spiritual realms that pass all human comprehension otherwise. The disciples would ask Jesus what heaven is like. Jesus would say it is like this or that. The real highest heaven, perfection, is beyond human words save the sublime spirit-connection that is made with "love."
It is all so we will be righteous, but it has been esoteric so that coercion won't be the motivation but rather love.

It isn't remaining esoteric. It is being revealed openly and in commonly understandable terms. Joshua leading the Israelites against the Canaanites was the hardhearted power who slew them in their sin. David was the hardhearted power who slew Goliath of the Philistines in his sin. The Romans were the hardhearted power who slew them who would not be reigned over by the righteousness. The Muslims were the hardhearted power who slew them. The Nazis were the hardhearted power who slew them. Those who allied themselves against the Romans and the Arabs and the Germans were the hardhearted power who slew them. Al Qaeda was the hardhearted power. Hurricane Katrina is the consequence of hardheartedness and slew them. Those who have allied themselves against al Qaeda are the power who slew them. Great earthquakes slay them. It has all been so and won't stop until the world is rid of evil. It has been, and is, a warning sign for those with eyes and ears and soft hearts. We are being warned constantly. People are praying for deliverance and prophesying wrath and it has come and is coming. It has to come but woe to the wrathful and to those who do not pray to be led out of all temptation including wrath. This is prophecy against prophecy and it is true. We must be ruled over by righteousness of the kind and degree that Jesus pointed to giving full credit to our creator or we fail to pass the test and make the grade. We flunk because of wickedness and laziness and are cast out. We speak of the evil of those we've made our enemies. We are Romans. We are Arabs. We are Germans. We are Hebrews. We are the people. We are our own enemies. We must stop. God is warning us. We must stop before it is too late. Join God. Be one with God. Be peaceful always. Be generous. Be wholesome.

Purge your heart of hardness. Pacifism will be all that is left to you. You will not tempt the saints to unleash the wrath to come. Be ready at the same time to forgive the wrathful: Those who fall to the temptation. Melchizedek was more enlightened than was Abraham. He did not though reject Abraham for slaughtering. He understood the limitations of Abraham’s revelatory capability at the time.

Jesus did not slaughter. He set a higher standard for us in the flesh than Melchizedek. It has to be or else things cannot become perfect. We are not to slaughter literal or proverbial sodomites. We are to convert them: To save sinners. Jesus came to save sinners. We are to reach out to end temptation to iniquity, including to wrath and vengeance.

The Roman church hoarded communism

What isn't so commonly known or appreciated is that the Hutterites along, with nearly all other communists, is that the Roman church in particular had long since come to view communism as something that ought to be reserved to those the church considered apostolic. In other words, people not specifically chosen by the church to live communistically were not allowed to live that way. Even the laity of the Roman church according to the church was unqualified to live apostolically, meaning here as the Apostles lived. Even though Jesus told people to give all to the cause of the poor and to follow him, the Roman church stood in the way of anyone's doing that without that church's prior approval. Only those approved by the church were allowed to live communistically.

Communist living in the church was monastic living. Most had to be secluded, live austere and highly regimented lives under an unquestioned hierarchy, remain celibate, and be nearly constantly contemplative. Monks and nuns were not to rub elbows with the great spiritually unwashed so to speak. They were to stay put. Independent travel to spread the word was more than frowned upon. Those allowed to spread the word had to be beholden to the apostate church-state. The suppression of the word was truly antichrist. The church controlled the temporal power, today called the state, and with that power, the church made sure that all communist living was in accord with the church's dogma. The hierarchical leaders asserted their authority over the entire society and withheld from the general population the spirit of living with all things in common. Standing in the way of the people living with all things in common was, and is, diametrically opposed to the teaching of Jesus.

St. Augustine misled

Now, much of this position of the Roman church and also powerful protestant denominations came from the teachings of St. Augustine who considered the Roman church to be the seat of the kingdom of heaven on earth. That seat certainly didn't bring in the kingdom but actually far from it. Therefore, Augustine was mistaken.

Augustine was the bishop of Hippo from AD 396 to 430. For Augustine, the church in his time was the millennium kingdom (Christ returned). Absent the succession of violent coercion used by the church, Augustine wouldn't have been far off. However, Augustine's view adopted by the churches excused those churches in their minds for meting out punishment or wrath in the here and now. They took, and still excuse taking, God into their own hands. It is their great failure.

Mind you, we don't judge or condemn Augustine. Augustine's misdirection is a relative thing. He was certainly closer to the kingdom than others were. Nevertheless, anything off course will miss arriving in the highest. We don't want to distract, or be distracted, from the narrow way that leads all the way there.

The apostate church and the for-selfish-profit state

The apostate (selfish) church mixed with the false state, the selfish, merciless state, rather than the church holding out and replacing that selfish state with the new wineskin. The falsehood in people's hearts shall fall away and be replaced with the real light. The selfishness that is being pawned off as acceptable to God will be cleared away. This is why heaven and earth shall be replaced with the new heaven and new earth: The real vision of Jesus Christ that still will be tested and pass. We are tasked with this as humanity to see it through.

With the apostate church in control of the worldly for-selfish-profit (false profit) state, is it any wonder that communist living was forcibly suppressed, that the teachings of Jesus that directly implied such living was prohibited, and that the church, therefore, suppressed and prohibited Christianity to keep the spirit from being revealed to the whole population? That church hid the fact that Jesus died, for among all the other things, so the people could have the very knowledge that unselfish living, communist living, was for them all.

The church suppressed that knowledge so it could maintain control, to keep the people from knowing that they could have a direct, personal relationship with our Father in heaven without the intercession of apostate church leadership. The capitalists have continued in that same antichristian vein. This, among other reasons, is why there has not been as much Christian communist living as there would otherwise have been.

Real church and state

Of course, the church that was of that historic combination of church and selfish state, worldly state, could not be the real Church. It was not the state of God. That is the whole point of Jesus's message.

The truth of historically erring churches and erring states cannot, however, preclude heaven coming to earth. The real Church and state are one, meaning among things, in heaven, no persecutions occur. The supreme monarch and high priest are one and share all in all. It is the only path to salvation. However, by leaving their candle off the candle stick, some Hutterites and others do not magnify that light to the degree they ought to about communal living. Therefore, I hold up their limited but significant communist success as proof for others to see. I say that were they not to fear persecution from greedy people, they would be even more successful (bountiful).

No man, when he hath lighted a candle, putteth it in a secret place, neither under a bushel, but on a candlestick, that they which come in may see the light. (Luke 11:33).

This is not to say that we agree with all the tenets of the Hutterites. Only males may vote in Hutterite communes (called colonies) for instance. There are other things as well that we will do differently. Eventually, we will grow everything we eat, we will grow everything organically, and we will not be so live-stock intensive as the Hutterites, who are major for-profit hog farmers.

The Essenes

From what is written about the Essenes, a Jewish sect at the time of Christ not mentioned in any of the canonized scriptures, they fit very much into the category of those who kept their light under the bushel. Those of the selfish spirit who saw the Essenes as foes (a threat) would have been glad to erase them from history to break the continuity of knowledge of the cooperative and all-things-in-common way. The Hutterites too were marked by some for extermination and erasure from history. Writings suggest that the Essenes shared much in common with the teachings of Christ. They were close to the kingdom.

Many Essenes lived pure, ascetic, lives to the best of their knowledge, much of it consistent with the teachings of Jesus and far from the corruption of the cities. However, compared with Jesus, they hid their light under the bushel. They strove to protect the scriptures from revision. Jesus though said his words would never die. They interpreted scripture very mystically and secretly, believing scripture contained esoteric knowledge too sublime for the hardhearted, who misleadingly altered and misinterpreted the original word and who would use the power for evil if the real power were revealed to them. Jesus taught the scripture openly knowing that the evil root cannot bring forth the power of God. It is true that only the softhearted understood. The Essenes also spurned the commercial, competitive life, consistent with Jesus's cleansing the temple of for-selfish-profit merchandising. Such commerce was incompatible with the giving and sharing life of the Essenes. Jesus too taught this giving and sharing way of God.

They apparently ranged from extreme monasticism and celibacy to family oriented cooperative living. Also, they believed in Apocalypse (destruction and secret salvation) and in transcending the flesh body.
Nazarites

The Essenes were giving and sharing in spirit and great stewards of the land. Their organic-farming and desert-irrigation systems were reportedly marvelous. There are instances where the Essenes reportedly though simply had to reopen earlier irrigation systems put in place long before. Their orchards were truly bountiful. In some instances, the Essenes were the closest thing to full-time Nazarites possible in a communist setting. This means they were living as nearly as possible consistent with pristine wilderness existence completely dependant upon God. It is for this reason that it is thought that some did not even ferment the fruit of the vine (make wine from grapes) or cut their hair or shave often.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When either man or woman shall separate themselves to vow a vow of a Nazarite, to separate themselves unto the LORD:

He shall separate himself from wine and strong drink, and shall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink, neither shall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moist grapes, or dried. All the days of his separation shall he eat nothing that is made of the vine tree, from the kernels even to the husk.
All the days of the vow of his separation there shall no razor come upon his head: until the days be fulfilled, in the which he separateth himself unto the LORD, he shall be holy, and shall let the locks of the hair of his head grow.

All the days that he separateth himself unto the LORD he shall come at no dead body. He shall not make himself unclean for his father, or for his mother, for his brother, or for his sister, when they die: because the consecration of his God is upon his head. All the days of his separation he is holy unto the LORD. And if any man die very suddenly by him, and he hath defiled the head of his consecration; then he shall shave his head in the day of his cleansing, on the seventh day shall he shave it. And on the eighth day he shall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons, to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: And the priest shall offer the one for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering, and make an atonement for him, for that he sinned by the dead, and shall hallow his head that same day. And he shall consecrate unto the LORD the days of his separation, and shall bring a lamb of the first year for a trespass offering: but the days that were before shall be lost, because his separation was defiled.

And this is the law of the Nazarite, when the days of his separation are fulfilled: he shall be brought unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: And he shall offer his offering unto the LORD, one he lamb of the first year without blemish for a burnt offering, and one ewe lamb of the first year without blemish for a sin offering, and one ram without blemish for peace offerings, And a basket of unleavened bread, cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, and wafers of unleavened bread anointed with oil, and their meat offering, and their drink offerings. And the priest shall bring them before the LORD, and shall offer his sin offering, and his burnt offering: And he shall offer the ram for a sacrifice of peace offerings unto the LORD, with the basket of unleavened bread: the priest shall offer also his meat offering, and his drink offering. And the Nazarite shall shave the head of his separation at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and shall take the hair of the head of his separation, and put it in the fire which is under the sacrifice of the peace offerings. And the priest shall take the sodden shoulder of the ram, and one unleavened cake out of the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and shall put them upon the hands of the Nazarite, after the hair of his separation is shaven: And the priest shall wave them for a wave offering before the LORD: this is holy for the priest, with the wave breast and heave shoulder: and after that the Nazarite may drink wine.

This is the law of the Nazarite who hath vowed, and of his offering unto the LORD for his separation, beside that that his hand shall get: according to the vow which he vowed, so he must do after the law of his separation.
(Numbers 6:1-21).

This separation is akin to going out into the wilderness alone with God and relying upon no food cultivated or manipulated by human kind and in some cases fasting from all food and drink in order to reestablish one's closeness to God. It is to drop away all the contrivances and traditions of humanity, including all the rituals and ceremonies and all money and fleshly attachments (weaknesses of the flesh, including death). This is what Moses did for forty days and nights and Jesus also. Samson and Samuel were Nazarites for life. Elijah and John the Baptist may be seen as types of Nazarites. The separation is a time for the greatest degree of introspection and connection. The whole nation of Israel was to be a kind of Nazarite for forty years in the wilderness. Joseph was separated and anointed as a foreshadowing of Jesus. The Nazarite vow of Moses's time was a foreshadowing of Jesus's message. That the Nazarites were to stay away from the dead is a foreshadowing of Jesus's revelation about the spiritually dead, even one's parents if that be the case (forsaking them for truth). We are to overcome the temptations that lead us to remain unborn of the Holy Spirit or dead of the Holy Spirit of truth. We do not have to go through the exact ritualistic aspects of the Nazarite vow to begin to understand. Jesus said the ultimate "I will" to God and then did.

The blessings of thy father have prevailed above the blessings of my progenitors unto the utmost bound of the everlasting hills: they shall be on the head of Joseph, and on the crown of the head of him that was separate from his brethren. (Genesis 49:26).

The Essenes were separated from the crassness of commercial society of their mundane bloodline brethren profiting selfishly off one another even watching some starve to death in the face of plenty.

The Essenes reportedly practiced healing with God's natural remedies such as herbs and earth materials, but were also true believers in spiritual healing. They had a central teacher (The Teacher of Righteousness, the interpreter of scripture), and that teacher was closest to an inner circle of three (as Jesus was with Peter, James, and John) chosen by the central teacher. Then there was a circle of twelve (as with the twelve first disciples) also chosen. These twelve with the head (as friends and co-equals but not begrudging of deeper insight of the head or required balancing aspects of the inner three) were the core protectors and teachers of the nonviolent faith. Under that protectorate, the communities practiced universal, pure democracy.

To each according to need, and from each according to ability

They believed in the concept: To each according to need, and from each according to ability. The Apostles of Jesus practiced this also. They "sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need." (Acts 2:45). (Despite popular opinion, Karl Marx did not invent the concept.)

The Essenes cared for guests and strangers. They fed the hungry, raised the orphaned, and took care of the elderly. They lived consistently with all these concepts.

Shine the truth on the whole world forever

There is no doubt that Jesus was raised within many, if not all, of the tenets of the Essenes or he exposed himself to their teachings. The similarities are unmistakable with the exception that Jesus did not keep the teachings within the community, hiding them under the bushel. This of course constitutes a necessary act of Messiahship. He did what others could not bring themselves to do. He took the teachings out into the whole world by taking them into the center of the "world" (as the word is used within the scriptures), Jerusalem. He did that all in accordance with the scriptures. We are to see that and make the connections.

Jesus engaged the common people everywhere he went regardless of their backgrounds or occupations. He did not keep to the ceremonial notions of cleanliness. He saw through to the spirit behind such notions and could then see the real versus the simply traditional. The people were not inherently spiritually unclean just because they had not been ceremonially, physically washed. Some Essenes were extremely strict concerning ceremonial cleanings. To Jesus, the unclean are unclean in their emotions and thoughts (hearts and minds). Speaking unclean thoughts simply reinforced that uncleanness which is their selfishness.

"Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man." (Matthew 15:11). Of course, Jesus was referring to a particular connotation of the term "defile." He was speaking of what corrupts the soul and how it comes out of one's heart. One's expressed emotions affect the essence of one's being.

Those who don't believe in the spirit, still believe that one can defile the flesh by partaking of filth. Jesus though taught that one can defile the soul and flesh by partaking of spiritual disease. He also taught that spiritual healing and protection can supersede all disease of body and soul. He taught that in fact, the body and soul are one even though the body is merely the vessel. The soul is more real and absolutely real.

Jesus taught that the spirit, being over the flesh, can preserve both the soul and the flesh given enough of the right kind of faith and worthiness. His resurrection showed it.

This is why ultimately, in his spiritual context, nothing could harm him, even though evil ones would spike him to the cross and kill his flesh. His real self, his spirit, his soul, was preserved by God, by his unwavering trust in God. So, there is harm and then there is harm—same word, different contexts.

Jesus engaged the people of the world in a perfect way to teach and show the world the truth to spread it so the world would learn to live it.

Separate to connect and come together

Therefore, reaching out is required of the Christian in addition to the Christian experience of separation to better connect with the Holy Spirit without distracting, mundane attachments. Better connecting with God helps one better connect in the real way one should be connected with other people, reaching them. Connection through God displaces the distortions of the tentacles of competition that warp human interaction. Until all things have been accomplished and fulfilled (the real good news of the kingdom and nothing but in every nation), there is a time to be in the spiritual, communist environment; there is a time to be alone with God; and there is a time to go into the center of the world to find and save the lost sheep. We must shine the light around the earth.
Kibbutzim

In addition to the Hutterites today and the Essenes of the time of Jesus and people today who are attempting to recapture some of that communist spirit, another example of successful communist ownership concerns the kibbutzim in the current State of Israel. In a kibbutz, depending upon the strictness of the practice, all property is own collectively. Despite the long success of that communist living arrangement, the conservative Israeli government passed laws designed to abolish kibbutzim over time. It is as it was for the Hutterites in Alberta, Canada. Conservatives don't want successful communist ownership. They hate the truthful implications of such successes. They hate unselfishness. Also, in describing kibbutzim historically, the forces of anti-communism stress that the kibbutzim were more a necessity than a desired choice. However, many of the first kibbutzim were formed by socialist opposed to a Jewish state. They wanted to see a socialist Palestine and not a Jewish state, per se. The pro-kibbutzim voices are not put to the fore. There is also the example of the Israeli moshav in which small family farms cooperate in marketing. Kibbutzim and moshavim are, as of the time of this writing, responsible for providing much of Israel's farm produce. Likewise, the Hutterites also provide the bulk of some products within given states in the United States and provinces in Canada.
They deliberately obstruct proven cooperation, continued

There would be many more such examples, as the Hutterites and kibbutzim, in the world were it not for laws put forth by those envious and covetous of communist-ownership successes. It is why there is such a push for privatization, for private, special advantage and privilege for certain people and their certain offspring. Such laws subvert, undermine, and even destroy communist successes. They do so for violent, lustful, selfish interests. They exploit and manipulate the minds of the general population turning them against the likes of communists even though it is directly contravening godliness. In short, it is treason against God. It is revealing that those who claim to stand up for civil liberties say that the government has the right to force people out of the broadest communist ownership and the purest democracy of the heart. They force more churlish forms of ownership upon people who do not want it but want love, peace, giving, and sharing as freely as they are able as all things are from the commons (communist property) that is the whole rightful inheritance of all people.

There are those who rationalize that the commons cannot be allowed to exist because people abuse it. That argument nullifies Christianity and the first and great commandment and the second like it, because the first great commandment if adhered to compels each and all not to abuse the commons for selfishness. Besides, the Hutterites don't intentionally abuse their commons. The members of the kibbutzim don't abuse their commons either.

Conservatives hate God's commons and seek to privatize

The conservatives do not want the existence of the commons. They want all things, even every bit of land, all the water, even the very air to be owned by private interests (privatization) for their special privilege and special advantage. They want a monopoly on everything necessary to sustain life. They want to own life itself. After all, they have actually patented life forms. They want everyone to have to work for them in order for each to earn to pay them for even the most basic necessities: Food, water, shelter, clothing, and on and on, covering everything. They want to own everything that God gave for the benefit of everyone. They steal the gift of God from God's children. They want special privileges that only money can buy, and they want to control all the money: Who may have it, what each must do to get it, etc. It is all the height of selfishness. It is greed, the devil, incarnate in them.

Conservative blasphemy: Telling half-truths: Large-c Communism versus the small-c communism of Jesus and the Apostles

Those conservatives, who hold to violent, lustig, selfish interests, point to the failure of unmerciful dictators successfully to ward off those capitalists and failure successfully to lead communist organizations as proof of the unworkable and undesirable nature of holding all things in common. The fact that unmerciful dictators cannot succeed in creating or running the commons of the world proves nothing against the righteousness of all things in common. It proves nothing against the teachings of Jesus or the lives of the Apostles. At the same time the conservatives point to unmerciful dictators as their proof against the lifestyle of Jesus, they are simultaneously deliberately concealing the successes of communists around the world from the people whose minds the capitalists have captured and brainwashed. By their actions against all things held commonly, they put the Apostles in the same class with Stalinists and Maoists and Jesus on a par with Vladimir Ilyich Lenin and Trotsky. Their method must be rejected for the lie that it is. Such lies cannot stand the light of day. It is blasphemy against the Lord and shall not stand.

Stalin's state capitalism

These lies about Jesus cannot be allowed by the people as excuses for declaring communist, cooperative, collective living as an inherently evil and unworkable way of life. The people must be taught the truth so that heaven may come to earth. The conservatives attempt to lump together all living-together, as if the Hutterites and the Stalinists have more thinking in common than do the capitalists and Stalinists. Stalin, in fact, suppressed the communes that had arisen in Russia after the Communist Revolution of 1917 there. He was opposed to such voluntary, communist living arrangements as not being focused upon the goals of the centralized and industrializing state (the five-year planned economy). Now how could Stalin be against communist living and supposedly be for the workers owning the means of production? It was inherently hypocritical. It lacked the true spirit of giving and sharing all. It was not real communism.

Stalin instituted forced collectivization of agriculture and the liquidation of the kulaks (peasant farmland owners), who knew the most about farming.

The kulaks were small-farm owners. The land they farmed was not the commons. The kulaks asked for their property titles to be honored under the banner of egalitarianism (equal political, economic, social, and civil rights) of the small farmers with the factory workers.

Stalin though, lacked the spirit correctly to approach this issue. He simply denounced egalitarianism as being "petit-bourgeois," meaning small capitalist or lower-class capitalist against the propertyless class (the proletariat; labor). Well, it wasn't.

True egalitarianism is real Christianity and real communism, bypassing feudalism, capitalism, and socialism, getting right to heaven and earth conflating. Stalin just couldn't see through his hardheartedness. He couldn't bring the farmers, convince them peacefully, to be truly egalitarian and communist, which are the same thing.

Stalin hated decentralized, spontaneous, communal-living arrangements. He hated the grassroots. This is why he had no patience with the kulaks or anyone else who voiced dissent.
He rebelled against the authority of the czar, but deep down inside, he wanted the feeling of control that he had lacked under the czar and his own father's brutality. To obtain that feeling, he had to take power and lord it over others. To take power, he had first to side with those revolutionaries who wanted to take it away from the then current ruler and ruling class.

He was not the philosopher of the bunch. He was not the out-front revolutionary. He was just behind them out foxing them.

He sided with Lenin, because Lenin twisted the underlying motivation of the people just enough that it would deny them the power.

Lenin too was feeding Lenin's ego.

Stalin didn't side with the Mensheviks, because they were more about power being closer to the universal grassroots, although not enough of course. He didn't side with Trotsky, because Trotsky's way would have led to a situation where Stalin would not have been able to personally control the Russian Empire. If the other nations of the world were revolutionized, there would be too many voices with too much grassroots freedom. They would have outnumbered the rightwing Bolsheviks.

Stalin was simply a new czar who consolidated all power to himself and who ordered the industrialization of the Russian Empire. The Empire would own and control all the means of production and Stalin was the Empire. It wasn't communism in any sense.

Russia was a police state. The people were still serfs. The people weren't allowed to go where they wanted. They weren't allowed to change crafts. They were coerced by the coercive state. That's why that system finally fell.

Lenin's one-party forced dictatorship

The one-party dictatorship was not of the proletariat (the lower class) but was of the new masters in sheep's clothing. The people were still forced, as they were under Russian-style feudalism, into what jobs they could do and where they could live. The state would decide, they were told. The state is run by the vanguard for the ultimate benefit of all, they were told. It was the same old lie wrapped up in lofty ideals. The people were forced at the barrel of a gun to digest a bill of goods.

Lenin couldn't win byconvincing the people of the justice of his cause. He had to overthrow the body that was somewhat openly debating the right direction. To Lenin, as with Plato and all the other ignoble liars (for that's the only kind of liar there is), the people are just too stupid to decide. After all, didn't the mob kill Socrates? No, the mob didn't vote to kill Socrates. The elite killed Socrates. Those recognized by the state as the voting citizenry were a very limited bunch far from the grassroots. The grassroots were slaves in Athens unfit for democracy.

The vanguard in Russia was Russia's version of the brown shirts and then black shirts of the Nazis. Lenin was a militant dictator. He was less malignant than Stalin, but he was the instrument of unbridled selfishness simply more enigmatic, to some minds, than the declared capitalist robber barons.
The movement to unselfishness is always faced by subversive hijackers who don’t even know themselves enough to see what motivates them. They don’t know the spirit under which they misbehave. This is why they are not Christians regardless of what they mouth.

Spanish Civil War

The Spanish Civil War of 1936-39 is a telling event in this regard. General Francisco Franco of Spain was a fascist. He conducted a fascist, militant (since the fascist mind is always violent) insurrection to seize dictatorial control of Spain from the Republicans. Of the Republicans, which was not a party but a Cretan union (always based on the lie that is the coalition of devils for good), of those labeled "Republicans," those on the right end of the spectrum favored controlling a capitalistic system via the form of representative democracy falling roughly midway between dictatorship in the hands of one person or monarch on one end and the grassroots on the other. Those on the false-left end of the spectrum ostensibly favored the grassroots.

The real spectrum though always boils down to violent coercion versus freely chosen pacifism. Pacifism is always correct. It is God calling and people choosing to be chosen. The only way to rescue the grassroots is to rescue it from the spirit of violence.

The spirit of violence will burn two-thirds of the grass taking the innocent with the broken and guilty. Wrath becomes indiscriminate. Rage is blinding. It darkens the light of truth.
Unfortunately for those calling themselves Roman Catholics in Spain, the line between church and dictator was decidedly blurred. The Roman Catholics felt the wrath. Many bishops, priests, and nuns were put to death. Many of the wealthiest were anti-Republican and called themselves Catholics. The church of course read Marx and knew he was an atheist. They chose sides on the false spectrum. Things become muddled (indiscriminate) quickly for those who cannot sort out the truth. Jesus could.

Just as Stalin in Russia had destroyed the farming communes that sprang up after the Communist Revolution of 1917, Stalin’s representatives in Spain during the Civil War did what they could to destroy the grassroots, democratic collectives in Spain. The grassroots collectives increased yield by fifty percent in some cases and that was under the constraints of a nation at war. This was showing up the forced and centrally planned collectives of the Soviet Union.

Stalin’s ego demanded personal dictatorial control to soothe his pain from abuses he had suffered at the hands of brutal dictators. He had to gain control for a sense of security and safety he didn’t feel growing up, since he was both predisposed to caving in and he was truly lacking the nurturing necessary to not trigger the fall.

The grassroots, the peasants, of Spain became a mass-pawn on Stalin’s chessboard. This is why the Soviet’s were false communists. This is why both Marx and Lenin were false communists. Russia was still a giant fiefdom in the worst sense. The people were served up falsehoods. The violent always lie. Violence is lying.

Fascist wing of the church of Rome

The force lined up against the Republicans in Spain called themselves the Nationalists. Just as the Republicans had a spectrum, so too did the Nationalists. They ran from the center to the most reactionary right, which ended up prevailing for a season. The Nationalists fought for the strong fascist wing in the church of Rome.

That church has never devised real liberal devices nor has it taken its stand by such. Its popes have always been, from mundane left to right, worldly diplomats and statesman. Not one has gone to the cross for the people. This isn't a condemnation or judgment consigning them. That's not the spirit from which the truth flows. The truth convicts the conscience of the individual.

The Republic was the mundanely democratically elected government of Spain. The fascist Nationalists were the insurrectionists, the rebels. How did the world line up?

Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany strongly supported the fascist Nationalists in Spain. They sent plenty of weapons, and Italy supplied sixty-thousand troops. Russia supplied weapons mostly to the Stalinists in Spain. They also sent a couple of thousand advisors and troops. Britain, France, and the US remained ostensibly neutral.

The author George Orwell from Britain volunteered to fight with the Republicans. He wrote of the pigs in his novel Animal Farm. The pigs were Lenin's vanguard of the Communist Party. The pigs said that everyone is equal but that some are just more equal than others.

Stalin was an opportunistic usurper. He ruined the spirit. He turned the communist movement that had already been corrupted by Marx and Lenin, back further to a vast manorialism where he actually was the sole, un-sharing, anti-giving, antichrist sovereign. There was no progress back to the garden. There was no progress forward to the conflation of heaven and earth.

Franco

Francisco Franco led the fascist Nationalists to the military control of Spain, stealing the democracy from the people. He ruled as the de facto king of Spain until his death in 1975.

He had, along with his rich backers, co-opted and twisted the power of religion to other than the solution that is the new commandment of Jesus that cannot be had via violence but only by overcoming the temptation to make that mistake. The same thing is being attempted in the US by the fascist and false-Christian reconstructionists and dominionists, about whom we will have much more to say later on in this work.

Neither the Apostles nor the Hutterites nor any of the other successful communists we are aware of are, or were, for one-party dictatorship of a violent (global or one-state) revolutionary proletariat (industrial wage earners who under capitalism have no equal share in ownership of the enterprise), of which Stalin was a brutal totalitarian dictator. Stalin was brutalized and took out his wrath on millions. This is the pattern of wrathfulness. On the contrary, Jesus was not wrathful. He warned against it.

Misrepresenting all communes

The capitalists undermine the efforts of communist societies and then claim that failures of communes are due to internal, unavoidable, societal flaws inherent within an unselfish system. They represent communes as dangerous cults or places where all the people are dirty, etc. There may be dangerous, dirty people living communistically, but they are not successful at it. To be dangerous, one must be selfish. Selfish people do not have the necessary communist spirit to succeed. They are not of the Christian spirit to give and share all as freely as possible. Also, there are plenty of extremely dangerous people living as highly successful capitalists. Anyone who will send others out to kill, maim, torture, die, or be wounded in body and soul for the sake of the system that supports non-universal distribution of the inheritance of all from God is extremely dangerous.

Capitalist cover-up of communism

Contrary to the cover up by capitalists, there are thousands of examples of successful communist living arrangements. There are currently thousands of such communities around the world. There are hundreds of thousands of people living in such communities. Some communities have hundreds of members. Some groups have been living communistically for hundreds of years. There are many names by which these arrangements are known, such as monastery, convent, commune, and collective.

Many communal arrangements fall under the broader term of "intentional community," such as the Integrierte Gemeinde (Integrated Community), which is a Roman Catholic community where some private ownership remains but surplus is shared for the mission. Within all these arrangements is the understanding that sharing and cooperation are better than hoarding and competition.

These communities are microcosmic proof that human beings can live in harmony. Their example will be translated to the macrocosm and enhanced. It is prophetic. These are causal words. Mark them.

Some capitalists will attempt to twist these words to claim that these words advocate that capitalism be outlawed for all by a majority under human, traditional, mundane law and that all private property be taken from people against their will. It is not so. Contrary to that, we are saying to the capitalists that they are the one's who have no right under God to prevent others from holding all things in common amongst as wide a group of those in the spirit as wish to share.

Capitalists fear truth

Why do people make peaceful communist living difficult and in some cases illegal if not because they fear its natural superiority that will entice people out from under slavery under competition, acquisitiveness, and accumulation? Where would the wage earners be for the rich to continually exploit, mislead, and with whom not to share equity equally? Why are there those who think they are better just because they have stolen the inheritance of others? Why are there those who imagine themselves superior simply because they were born into the plunder amassed by greedy ancestors?

We are saying that we are against violently over throwing anything. We are saying that we are against taking things from people who do not wish freely to give of them and to share them. We are for people freely coming to the knowledge that selfishness is the wide path that leads to hell.

We are saying that it is self-evident hypocrisy that the capitalists block others from disseminating the truth of God's plan that we hold all things in common amongst as wide a group of those in the spirit as wish to give and share.

The real Christian

It becomes clear and plain that the real Christian is liberal and that means in full keeping with the spirit versus the mundane, hypocritically interpreted letter, which has been foisted upon the world by villainous and stingy, unrepentant souls. The real Christian is beneficent (giving and sharing all), not silent about, or respectful of, that which corrupts, and non-punishing but rather merciful and nonviolent in overcoming the temptation to do evil. The real Christian understands that evil comes from a selfish, rationalizing, impatient heart that is ultimately ignorant of divine truth. Jeremiah wrote the following:

Yet, LORD, thou knowest all their counsel against me to slay me: forgive not their iniquity, neither blot out their sin from thy sight, but let them be overthrown before thee; deal thus with them in the time of thine anger. (Jeremiah 18:23).

Then said Jesus, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." (Luke 23:34). This means that Jesus showed a great sense of mercy. This is no condemnation of Jeremiah. Of course, Jesus, as with Jeremiah, knew that tribulation would come. It does not mean that God did not show mercy. God can show mercy even after the death of the body.

Just as Jesus showed the greater mercy, the true Christian goes beyond conservation and even restoration. The Christian is not stingy but works not only to restore but also to enhance, through love, God's once bountiful creation. That enhancement will come by the light being magnified by billions of the faithful. God will respond accordingly even during tribulation.

The conservative of today must convert to be the liberal (good shepherd and steward) prophesied by Isaiah and exemplified by Jesus.

When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not they friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor they rich neighbours; lest they also bid thee again, and a recompense be made thee. But when thou makest a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind: and thou shalt be blessed; for they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just. (Luke 14:12-14).

That is beautiful. That is far from the typical guest list of a conservative's dinner party. They do not give the best to those with the least. Will many think the better of it and repent, converting from their apostatized (far from godly) position to that which is consistent with the intention of the revelation of Jesus Christ?

He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed; for he giveth of his bread to the poor. (Proverbs 22:9).

Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God who giveth us richly all things to enjoy; that they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate. (1 Timothy 6:17-18).

But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion for him, how dwelleth the love of God in him? (1 John 3:17).

There are no conservative Christians.
Chapter 2  Christian Conservatism: The Most Significant Confusion

The mistaken notion, that a Christian may be a conservative, is the cause of the most pivotally significant confusion in the world.

If they were real liberals

If the liberalism of Isaiah and Jesus were to pervade all that is now called conservative Christianity, the resulting beneficence and real bounty, real abundance, would cause blessings to rain down upon humanity. All the objections of the poor to America would be removed. Love would abound. The competition between religions would cease. There would be no contest. The fruits of Christianity would be too overwhelming for any to fail to see the correctness in the way of peace, love, and truth Jesus taught that came from God within him. As it is though, the world receives endless, mixed (hypocritical) signals from the self-proclaimed conservative Christians and others.

Giving Jesus a hardhearted reputation

Of professing Christians, those calling themselves conservative evangelical and fundamentalist Christians are getting the most powerful attention in America. The media are covering their domestic and international power politics. The conservatives are using militant power as in the police, military, and paramilitary. They are using coercive economic power also for punitive reasons. This is all in their selfish interest. This sends the wrong signal to non-Christians as to what Christ was and is all about. They are buying huge blocks of the media to deliver throughout the world their ungodly propaganda and precepts that torture is fun, a good time, and other such evil human doctrines. Some of their chief spokespersons (such as Rush Limbaugh) talk of taking delight in inflicting pain, breaking bodies, tormenting souls, causing agony and suffering. They gain satisfaction and pleasure through the vicarious fulfillment of their sadistic lusts and cravings. Many gain sexual excitement and disgusting gratification through their beastliness and ferociousness. Now they have been exposed as the wicked. Cruel interrogation techniques are hated by God. All cruelty is hated by God. God wants lovingkindness: Mercy.

When we turn

Jesus had to be mercilessly sacrificed. God knew the hearts of the Jewish leadership. However, had the whole nation earnestly turned to God and repented and atoned, would God have forsaken them (evil overtaken any of them) or would righteousness have been reciprocated, reflected, even ameliorating the Roman Empire? You know the answer. Much of the historically non-evangelized world is now being exposed to a false message purported by the conservatives to be the word of God and Jesus. The conservative Christians are zealously spreading anti-Isaiah-liberal precepts. This is a great problem, albeit a prophetically expected one. Add the conservatives’ newfound ecumenicalism (uniting with foes against a common foe) to their anti-real-liberal evangelizing, power politics, and high-tech marketing glitz and it is no wonder that their worldly princes live in the White House. Flattery will get one the whole world, but only for a while and only by bowing down and worshipping self-centeredness. The self-styled neoconservatives are bowing and worshipping, as are senators, representatives, and governors, etc., in the United States. They all make no bones about their agenda. They sell themselves for unworthy purposes.

Where is the Apostolic Succession?
Continuity with the seeking-spirit of the Apostles is not in evidence much anywhere. Where is the light in the center of the world as Jesus once showed it in Jerusalem? Where is the truth being shined so as to be unavoidable in the middle of the capitals of capitalism? Is that truth blazing from those claiming an uninterrupted flow from the Apostles to them? What is this assertion of primacy? How was it achieved and maintained? Was it and is it by the flame of the Holy Spirit or by prostitution to the rich and powerful?
The bishops of the traditional capital of the Roman Empire are known by their fruit. Their right of succession descends through the nightmare of the inquisition (torture, public beating, imprisonment, execution) and other intolerable corruptions and confusion that brought on the Protestant Reformation. Many of those bishops came from the rich and powerful worldly families. They retained their wealth and worldly power. Have they redeemed themselves? Are they still hoarding accumulated wealth? They do not give all they have to holding all things in common with the poor leaving enough for themselves for subsistence (not obsessively so but to do the job until the resurrection of the just).

Where is the faith?

To understand more of how they have not brought forth the true bounty, read of the feeding of the five thousand.

When I brake the five loaves among five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? They say unto him, Twelve. And when the seven among four thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? And they said, Seven. And he said unto them, How is it that ye do not understand? (Mark 8:19-21).

Dwell on it. It is about the conflation of the physical and spiritual bread. It both reveals and falls within the wholeness-context of Jesus. What was the difference between the five thousand and the seven thousand? What does it mean?

While ye have light, believe in the light, that ye may be the children of light. These things spake Jesus, and departed, and did hide himself from them. But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him. (John 12:36-37).

Needing signs, testing, tempting, being hypocritical, doubting God, these things keep the kingdom of God from coming nigh unto the earth. They keep back confusion, salvation.

Believe it, live it, be it, in earnest, persevering.

Therefore, the clergy who do not bring forth the real bounty are not being his real disciples. This is not to say that everything within the Protestant Reformation movement was correct.

The fruit of the Protestants is not what Jesus called for either. Many Protestants were themselves responsible for murdering many, very notably the Anabaptists. They engaged in numerous wars and atrocities and were often truly evil authoritarians.

Through it all though, notwithstanding themselves, the word still exists in the Roman church and all the Protestant and Orthodox churches, provided all the human traditions, all of which are conducive to worthless, idle procrastination, are filtered out.

The prophecy is no dispensation to complacency

The prophecy is unfolding even with procrastinators. It will unfold with you or without you. Woe to those by whom offenses come, and woe to the fence sitters and lukewarm for they facilitate the offenders. The word survives, and its revelatory interpretation is restored by the Holy Spirit. The culmination will come. That truth is no dispensation to be content in the face of, or to be unaware of, the coming trouble. Souls must be prepared. There is work to be done exemplifying, emulating, being Christ-minded. We are called upon to shine the light and do the deeds enduring to the end. "And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved." (Mark 13:13).

Spread the word: The Apostles lived communistically

Rather than having the fullness of the original message, the sacrifices of all, emphasized to the world, the world is instead being told to Americanize. Meanwhile, many people who do not like this trend are complacent or lukewarm about doing anything about it. The poor and all others have not been told, but must be told with boldness, that the first church was a group including the Apostles of Jesus who lived communistically that is holding all things in common. It is part of their salvation. God is in these words.

And all that believed were together, and had all things common; And sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need. (Acts 2:44-45).

And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and of one soul: neither said any of them that ought of the things which he possessed was his own; but they had all things common. (Acts 4:32).

Let no man seek his own, but every man another's wealth. (1 Corinthians 10:24).

Rather than being told to live with all things in common, to give generously to the poor, and be more than content with what is enough, the self-styled Christian-right tells the world that the belligerent military and industry of American capitalism is a bountiful system that should be copied worldwide, short of rivaling American military supremacy of course but certainly purchasing military arms from American manufacturers. This is abomination.

Black Budget: Built on embezzlement

Remember that within this mislabeled bountiful enterprise system, the United States Department of Defense has not yet accounted for undocumented adjustments amounting to 1.1 trillion dollars for 1999 and 2.3 trillion for 2000. Donald Rumsfeld announced the fraud on September 10, 2001, the day before 9-11. That means that the Pentagon has stolen and redistributed 3.4 trillion US dollars of the American people's money. That amount, of course, by no means constitutes the full amount of money that has been defrauded from the American people. Are the people in charge or are the false overlords?

The Pentagon is an embezzler.
Of course, this lack of accountability, these secrets held back from the people who labored to create that supposed value and who will pay dearly with their bodies and even souls because of those secrets and lies, has been known about for many decades. Only recently, have some of those who are more liberal within the government made the appearance of concern.

Also, most people have heard about the US Black Budget. This money is spent on the dark, shadowy government within the government (the secret government within the public government). This budget is obtained in ways that are kept unknown to the general population and that can be, and is, denied. They attempt to keep it secret while leaking some information and disinformation for effect: Intimidation and confusion.

They used to keep the network diffuse. Now they are consolidating, because they feel they have less to fear. The plebeians (common people) are placated in their class by mammon.

Office of Special Plans: The lie factory

A somewhat now visible example of this secret government is the Office of Special Plans, renamed the Northern Gulf Affairs Office deliberately in order to break continuity with its nefarious recent past in the lead-up to the invasion of Baghdad, Iraq.

False Zionist, neocons

US secretary of defense Donald Rumsfeld set up the Office of Special Plans with his fellow neoconservative underlings, Paul Wolfowitz, then deputy secretary of defense, and Douglas J. Feith, then undersecretary of defense for policy. They set it up beyond the reach of the Central Intelligence Agency and those within the Defense Intelligence Agency who were not already onboard with the neocon, neoliberal (economic), and false Zionist admixed agenda for world domination.

Douglas J. Feith is a protégé of Richard Perle and an ardent arch-conservative, false Zionist\(^\text{30}\)

---

"Fox News reporter, Carl Cameron, relying on FBI reports, documented the arrest and expulsion of over one hundred Israeli spies blatantly prowling Pentagon and other government and military facilities between September 11 to December 30, 2001. The sheer scale of Israeli espionage operations in the US and their high-level intelligence and military operatives' access to the offices and intelligence of the US Pentagon during the Paul Wolfowitz-Douglas Feith (numbers 2 and 3 at the Pentagon) tenure may have created a sense of immunity for the AIPAC operatives in passing secret information to Israeli agents."
reported that Feith advocated the US attack Argentina, Brazil, and/or other countries in South America as well as Southeast Asia, countries he wrote that he knew had nothing to do with al Qaeda. Now, just how insane is that, and just how typical is it of neocon, merciless, megalomania?

Of course we know that Bush-43 authorized the Worldwide Attack Matrix presented to him just four days after 9-11. That plan calls for covert CIA operations in eighty countries in Africa, Asia, and the Middle East in preparation for military involvement. The operations are wide ranging, including assassinations of suspected (not proven) terrorists. George Tenet’s plan included allying with despicable war lords. He also asked for and was granted the right to use lethal force without having to come back each time for authorization.

Now, that plan is no longer going forward as a CIA plan but rather has been co-opted by the Pentagon and military special forces operations. Rumsfeld has been pulling the US toward consolidation of all intelligence and all militant force to be under the Pentagon—the better to control public perceptions for the sake of the military-industrial complex.

Satan’s think tank: American Enterprise Institute

Along with Harold Rhode and others, they used the conservative American Enterprise Institute to recruit people to concoct a picture of Iraq. They recruited, for instance, David Wurmser, false Zionist and director of Middle East Studies at the American Enterprise Institute.

A good example of the neocons at the American Enterprise Institute is Michael Ledeen. Ledeen preaches the following:

Peace cannot be accomplished simply because some visiting envoy...sits everyone down around a table so they can all reason together. In every case I can think of, peace has come about at the end of a war in which there was a winner and a loser. The winner imposed terms on the loser, and those terms were called "peace."31

They are all disciples of Machiavelli:

The old way

That was pre-September 11th. Now, Ledeen strives mightily to impress upon Americans and Jews of the current state of Israel that they must go to total, all-out war, against Islamic, militant expansionism. He preaches against Jesus. He preaches for destroying people's lives. He preaches that which is against saving souls. He wrote the following:

…the best guide for leaders is Machiavelli. Candidates for officer rank in our special forces are required to read The Prince and then, after weeks of punishing challenges to mind and body, must write an essay applying his lessons to terrible decisions they might face while commanding our finest soldiers…. 1. Man is more inclined to do evil than to do good…. 2. The only important thing is winning or losing…. 3. If you have to do unpleasant things, it is best to do them all at once, rather than to do a long series of little ones…. 4. It is better to be more feared than loved….32

…we must not, not, not show compassion too soon. Compassion comes after victory, not before it, not alongside it.

We need to sustain our game face, we must keep our fangs bared, we must remind them daily that we Americans are in a rage, and we will not rest until we have avenged our dead, we will not be sated until we have had the blood of every miserable little tyrant in the Middle East, until every leader of every cell of the terror network is dead or locked securely away, and every last drooling anti-Semitic and anti-American mullah, imam, sheikh, and ayatollah is either singing the praises of the United States of America, or pumping gasoline, for a dime a gallon, on an American military base near the Arctic Circle.

So, there you have it. You can be a disciple of Machiavelli, who advocated for the evil prince of this world, or you can be a disciple of Jesus Christ. You can listen to and fall for the neocons' call to hardheartedness, or you can rise out of that darkness by listening to and following Jesus's call.

As for Michael Ledeen and the other neocon warmongers and their enemies, the militant Muslims, we have only to look at their personal life experiences to discover they each were abused and are making the dreadful error of turning to abuse to repay that error. They increase and compound the error. Ledeen preaches that if only we can wipe them out, then we will be free of those who attack others. He preaches that once and for all, we must clean the world in a complete bloodbath and then lord it over all so that they will fear to cross us. There is scant difference between this message and the message preached by Mohammed. Ledeen could just as easily tear pages from Mohammed's Qur'an as from Machiavelli's, The Prince. What he and all the rest of the hardhearted need to do is learn the Gospel message.

You see Michael is possessed with vengeance and wrath. He has violence in his heart. He follows Satan by definition.

And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house. And if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it: if not, it shall turn to you again. (Luke 10:5-6).

Suppose ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you, Nay; but rather division. (Luke 12:51).

Jesus came to separate those who will perpetually fall to violence from those who will overcome that temptation. Those who reject peace destroy themselves by their ignorant willfulness.

And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and wept over it, Saying, If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes. For the days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep

It came to pass for Jerusalem just as Jesus said. Now what? Do you believe the rules have changed? They have not!

These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world. (John 16:33).

Is it a waste of time to tell Michael Ledeen and his kind to turn to Jesus? No.

Agree with thine adversary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. (Matthew 5:25).

What is it to which all must agree for peace?

And he spake also a parable unto them; No man putteth a piece of a new garment upon an old; if otherwise, then both the new maketh a rent, and the piece that was taken out of the new agreeth not with the old. (Luke 5:36).

The old way, the way of violence, is unwholesomeness. It is Michael Ledeen's way, unless he repents of it and atones, etc. That old way has never worked and never will. The new way actually predates that old. It is the new commandment that is the original word of God.
revealed now to all those to whom it is given. The new and old are incompatible. The old cannot hold the real, revealed spirit, the truth. The new is new, because one is born anew back into it. One is born again into the kingdom of God from whenst one came.

The time is approaching when the separation will occur. Exactly when it will happen, only God our Father in heaven knows. The tribulation is coming though. It is inevitable. The redemption is inevitable. The truth has been spoken. It must be spread so all have a clear and plain choice and make it. Will the Son of man find real faith on earth? Will the Son of man find those who refuse to do iniquitous works but who rather find the lost and serve the needs of those trampled down by the self-appointed arrogant ones, the ones who lie that God appointed them?

And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name. And he said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven. Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you. (Luke 10:17-19).

Neoconservative/antichrist conspiracy

All the leaders within the Bush-43 camp are part of the antichrist conspiracy of neoconservatives following after the likes of Leo Strauss (of the noble-lie school of philosophy used also by the false Christians). They follow Irving Kristol, and military hawk Richard Perle, also a false Zionist who was chairman of the Defense Policy Board and who is headquartered in the American Enterprise Institute and whose mentor was Albert Wohlstetter, one of the earliest neoconservatives.

This is the neocon method that has also been adopted by the so-called Christian Dominionists who have also taken over the Republican Party: "One ought not to say to those whom one wants to kill, 'Give me your votes, because your votes will enable me to kill you and I want to kill you,' but merely, 'Give me your votes,' for once you have the power of the votes in your hand, you can satisfy your desire." Machiavelli stated, "...one ought not to say to someone whom one wants to kill, 'Give me your gun, I want to kill you with it,' but merely, 'Give me your gun,' for once you have the gun in your hand, you can satisfy your desire."

The Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he should be put out of the synagogue. (John 9:22).

On Albert Wohlstetter, his ideas perpetuate satanism (root evil). They are responsible for today's errors in high places in the US. The opposite of peace is contained in the falsehood expounded by Wohlstetter. That falsehood has poisoned the minds of many. Wohlstetter was a teacher at UCLA, UC Berkeley, and the University of Chicago.

[If you want to know more about this issue, please see the Supplements to this work.]

He made a calculated assumption that the US could embark upon more warfare using new-generation weapons. That brings us closer to the great tribulation to come. It brings forth Armageddon. Armageddon must come, but woe to him who brings it.

Don't partake of the lies of the neocons. Don't risk your immortal soul or the souls of others by buying into their lesser-of-evils deception. They sugarcoat poison. There is no peace through strength (military). It's a big lie. Such military strength is an oxymoron.

These unwise people are doing everything they can to elevate certain of their progenitors with the view of making it easier to lure and indoctrinate those with a predilection to hyper selfishness. They are working evil and will pay the devil with their souls.

David Wurmser, a long-time neocon recruit to the Bush-43 administration, had written extensively in favor of joint US-Israeli policy to destabilize the entire region. He advocated belligerently invading Iraq and Baghdad and attacking also Syria to threaten its territorial integrity. He advocated that as a prelude to redrawing by the powers that be (the US and Israel) the national boundaries of the entire Middle East. That had happened before, especially as an aftermath of World War I. This time though, Wurmser and others wanted the redrawing to be for the sake of conservative Zionism, that is, of course, anything but Christian.

I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan. (Revelation 2:9).

Do not lump all Hebrews under one banner

I will explain more about Leo Strauss and Irving Kristol further on in this work. First though, let me explain that in no way are we saying that all Hebrews are any one thing other than genetic descendants of Jacob. The descendants of Jacob have views practically as varied as there are views in the world. This work does not lump all Hebrews under any one banner.

It is true though that there is now an Israeli state that was not there before 1948, since A.D. 70. It is also true that there is a history of what people have labeled as Zionism that led up to the 1948 declaration of Israel and that there has been a history since and under that distorted use of the term "Zionism." It is also true that those who run Israel call themselves Jews but reject Jesus. I say these obvious things, because there are many who insist that the world turn a blind eye to all things coming from certain descendants of Jacob regardless of any despicable nature of the sins involved while at the same time insisting that the world use the most powerful microscope to view the sins of others.
False versus real hate-crimes

We must also, in anticipation of false criticisms, dispense with the connection of the concept of hate crimes with the Biblical verse above (Revelation 2:9) about false Jews and the synagogue of Satan. It is a crime not to hate iniquity, but there are those though who desire to redefine and then reprioritize iniquity. In one fell swoop, they seek to convince the world that it is iniquitous to speak out against selfishness that steals the inheritance of all and, thereby, causes starvation and want and other abominations. They seek to gag the prophets. They seek to gag Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit of truth. However, it is right and proper to hate selfishness. It is right and proper to say openly that selfishness is of the spirit of Satan. In saying that, however, it does not mean that one is advocating offensive (evil, sinning) measures be taken against anyone.

(From the cross, Jesus asked God to forgive Jesus's murderers, because they were ignorant even while being guilty.) In fact, it is impossible to hold to the spirit of unselfishness and desire the use of offensive measures. Crime comes in the form of offenses. Offenses must come, but woe to the one by whom they do. We are to subdue the wrathful, indignant, spirit within. That is the warning of love. Those who heed may be worthy to escape the tribulation and worthy to suffer and surmount persecution.

This does not mean that offenses are just anything that the iniquitous consider as hurting their feelings. One can be hurt by another imagining the one could be capable of some iniquity. It is another thing, however, to take offense upon realizing that one has been properly identified with iniquity. This is what happened time and again with Jesus and the Pharisees, as is shown throughout this work and the Gospels. The Pharisees saw themselves in the parables of Jesus and sought to murder Jesus on account of it. Those parables were not hate crimes by Jesus. The hate crimes were the actions of the Pharisees and others that neglected the just pleas of those in need. The hate crime was the murder of Jesus. The hate crime was the crime of hating the truth about themselves and rather than changing (softening) their hearts, hardening up even further leading to their ultimate discomfort and aggravation, hopefully, God having mercy on their souls, to finally see the light that connects cause and effect.

False Zionism

Now to continue and to explain further about false Zionism, it is not some benign (kind and gentle) force that ought to go un-critiqued. It must be stated clearly and plainly that false Zionism is a dangerous antithesis of real Zionism (more on that further on). Extreme false Zionism for instance takes the form of Revava and Temple Mount Faithful that are Jewish groups planning to tear down the Islamic Al Aqsa Mosque compound and Dome of the Rock on the Temple Mount in Jerusalem. Such groups intend to build a third temple on the site where they would no doubt reinstitute daily animal sacrifices. They would be doing that despite the Biblical admonitions that clearly explain that God does not want such sacrifices but rather mercy. That is in both the Old and New Testament teachings. "For I desired mercy, and not sacrifice; and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings." (Hosea 6:6). Also, God does not need or want such a temple built by human hands.

Thus saith the LORD, The heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool: where is the house that ye build unto me? and where is the place of my rest? For all those things hath mine hand made, and all those things have been, saith the LORD: but to this man will I look, even to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and trembleth at my word. (Isaiah 66:1-2).

This third temple would be the tangible representation of the synagogue of Satan, as these extreme false-Zionist groups are part of that unreal Jewish religion. It would be built in the face of God’s words against that spirit. Not until all the people accept Jesus as the Messiah will any temple of those people be the house of God. They build in pride and haughtiness, but the just shall inhabit it.

This is no endorsement of the Al Aqsa Mosque or Dome of the Rock. The more militant of the Muslims have openly stated that they would take it as a formal declaration of war were that mosque and dome to be torn down. All their rules against non-Muslims praying at the Temple Mount just show the weakness of their own faith. Both sides in this matter need to turn to the teachings of Jesus before it becomes too late.
Revava and other such groups are totally nationalistic and highly militant. They take great pride (a sin) in the military exploits of Israel.

Pride goeth before destruction, and an haughty spirit before a fall. (Proverbs 16:18).

They believe only in conveniently selected Old Testament values. They totally reject all of what real Christianity (real Judaism; real liberalism) is all about. They are not interested in the spirit of the first and great commandment and the second like it. They are interested in their selfish desires. They are in favor of Israel taking more and more of the land in the area exclusively for their false Judaism.

The conditional rights of Israel

They believe that God has given the land back to them. The important thing is how they obtained it each time, why they lost it each time, and whether they are making the same errors again.

Are they back on the land as a reward? For what? Is it to help make up for what happened to them at the hands of the Gentiles down through the centuries, especially the Nazis? Were they punished to excess? Does that relieve anyone of responsibilities?

They were told that they could take the land from those who severely defiled it. They were told that they could keep the land. Even though these acts were selfish, they were told that this relative selfishness would be overlooked provided the people kept to a certain minimum standard. Well, they didn't keep to it, as was prophesied by their leader, Moses, and they still aren't living up to even the provisions of that old, voided contract. Not only that, but the standard has gone way up since then, per Jesus. Now what do you think is going to happen?

Who warned them about the error of their ways before the land was taken from them? Each time the people failed to listen, they suffered the gravest of consequences that they brought down upon themselves. Now, here is this group, which represents the views of many more, repeating all the same old errors that caused hot coals to be heaped upon the heads of the people. When will they learn that their militant and covetous, un-giving and un-sharing spirit spells downfall?

They have not come to realize that the whole planet is holy: The whole of creation is holy. Yet, each human soul is worth more than all the dirt of the earth. This may sound like a contradiction, but it is not.

Forms of Zionism

Zionism has many connotations. One is the political, secular, definitely nationalistic form. This is a highly conservative form. Much of the state organization of Israel is run along that line. Those of that brand of Zionism have pushed those with a more liberal (giving, sharing, and peaceful) leaning off to the margins.

Another form of Zionism is the religious form of those who have maintained all the pre-Jesus doctrines and traditions of the old Jewish religion and tacked on many new, borrowed, and apologetic traditions. These are the old-school conservative Fundamentalists who break down into various sects. They see the current State of Israel in purely Old Testament Biblical terms. Many of them have a huge stake in the nationalistic Israel.

A small minority is split off and is still deliberately of the diaspora (Jewish dispersion outside Israel), because they believe it was improper that the current incarnation of the state was formed for such political, secular, and nationalistic reasons. They view it with a sense of foreboding.

Yet another form is a diluted form sharing with varying degrees the views of all the foregoing. It maintains selected pre-Jesus doctrines and traditions of the old Jewish religion. However, in general this group is not rabid about the Zionism that is akin to nationalism.

These groups are variously known outside Israel as Orthodox Judaism, Conservative Judaism, and Reformed Judaism. Within Israel, the terms are different but cover essentially the same tenets. Many in Israel and of the diaspora are purely non-practicing or secular.

Those currently known as Rabbinic Jews are of the pharisaic tradition. They are of the vine and root of those same Pharisees who murdered Jesus. They reject Jesus now, just as did those who murdered him. They reject Jesus for the same reasons Jesus explained in the Gospel message that the Pharisees of his day rejected him. When most people say Judaism, they are referring in general to those whose religious lineage stems from the pharisaic traditions that Jesus showed were hypocritical. The above is far from exhaustive. There are numerous sub-sects and offshoots. Some have returned to tenets of the Sadducees who were in competition with the Pharisees at the time of Jesus.

Real Zionism

Finally, there are the true Zionists who are the real Jews who are the Christians. Contrary to popular traditional beliefs, Christianity is not a wholly new religion. It is the real Judaism with a new name. It is not nor has it ever been pharisaic. True Zionists are in the spirit and believe the New Covenant (New Testament) message. They do not put the geographical before the spiritual. Zion is peace. It is the ideal. It is perfect. It is historically associated with the name-place that is now the physical city of Jerusalem, because the teachings of Melchizedek were of God Most High. However, those teachings are not about a purely physical place, for in reality, the place where God is in the heart is Holy ground. If Jesus goes to hell to save the souls there, his love of our Father goes with him. Wherever that love is, is Holy ground. Even when one believes that God's love is everywhere if we will only open our hearts everywhere, in that context, everywhere is Holy ground. That is why Jesus said that we would worship not just on a central, physical mountain but rather in the spirit, which is as the wind he said. It goes everywhere. There is even the cosmic wind. There are winds beyond that also. Therefore, for the real Christian, Zion is in the heart. Peace is in the heart. It is the core emotional desire, inextricable from love and truth.

Now, many Christians think of this third-temple stone-building concept incorrectly on account of Jesus having been at the Herod temple and having said things about it. They are not looking at the entire context of what Jesus said. Jesus was dedicated in the Herod temple and he visited there as a boy (bar mitzvah). He taught in the temple. He cleansed the temple. He also called the temple his Father's house. However, he also said that the people would no longer worship there. That is what he told to the Samaritan woman at Jacob's well. He said that the Herod temple would be torn down completely, which it was. Even the bit of the Western Wall or Wailing Wall, a piece of the retaining wall of the outer court-yard, is not a part of the temple building, per se. Jesus reiterated that our Father wants mercy and not sacrifices. Those are but a few of the reasons that the stone temple planned by the antichrists of the Hebrews, especially with their daily sacrifices, is just an attempt to obfuscate Jesus's new-commandment, messianic teaching and example. It will not work.

The Real Temple is already standing

Jesus already raised up the new temple in three days. He is the stone they rejected. Nothing they can build with their hands can replace him or tear him down. God's real house is Jesus's house—all of it. When you glorify God with mercy, then, and only then, will you be in his house and his house will be in you.
Had the people turned in accordance with the message of Jesus, had their hearts not been too hard, the temple building, per se, would not have been crushed. It is important to note that it was prophesied that their hearts would not be sufficiently softened. It is how we have history as our teacher if we will but open our eyes and soften our hearts. We will not repeat the same mistakes if we will learn rather than having to experience the tribulations firsthand to that end.

These things are said not because the prophecy can be changed. It can't be changed. They are said so that people will see and heed now before it is too late. Many will. That's the prophecy. Those who live will be living proof of what they knew for sure before the tribulation.

It is also important here to note that buildings, per se, are not important to God for worshipping God. Rather than temple buildings, God wants mercy, a giving and sharing spirit, and proper, high emotion about the truth.

The buildings God is alright with are those that are consistent with the priorities of the new commandment. Those buildings are constructed heading toward the proper spirit. Any temples or church buildings constructed by and for lip service are actually disgusting to God. Do you see that?

Antichrist

Those professing to be Christians also need to understand that there are rabbis who say that the third temple will be built when their first messiah comes. This is a direct statement from their religious teachers that Jesus was not the Messiah. How can real Christians condone the building of a third temple under a messiah that is not the Messiah? Their first messiah will be the Antichrist and a false messiah. Yet, there are many ostensible Christian Fundamentalists and others who believe that these same false Jews are God’s elect along with the followers of Jesus. They are not. Only Christians are God’s elect. It doesn't matter what their ethnic background, only that they are real Christians. This is because of the whole truth of the peace (pacifism) of Jesus that the non-Christian Hebrews reject.

This is not to say that Jesus did not come to save the lost of Israel. He did. He focused on that. It was what he was supposed to do. Jesus was not though prideful about being a Hebrew. He was not bigoted. He knew and understood his pivotal role and the role of Israel. He knew he was also a light to other than Israel. He accepted non-Hebrew believers. He has made a place for them.

It is important to understand that the temple will require spiritual cleaning. The Son of man will have to do that. The temple will be ostensibly for the greater glory of God. However, until it is cleansed and the hearts of all the worshippers adequately softened as demonstrated by their fruits, the temple will be a place from which darkness shall emanate.

Unfortunately, many ostensible Christians and Jews for Jesus are conservatives. They have confused the political, secular, nationalistic Zionism with real Zionism (peace). They are touting terrorist leaders of that nationalistic, false Zionism as godsend. They are not godsend. They are false shepherds.

Nationalism

Why is nationalism considered bad in every state except Israel? Why do Jews advocate tolerance in the US but don't practice it in the false-Zionists state of Israel? Either nationalism is good or bad. What would the Zionists think if the Anglo-Saxon-Celts (a nation; family) in America decided to transfer all the Hebrews out of America? They would say it is unfair. Then why was it fair of those they support in Israel to do that to the Arabs in Palestine? It's hypocrisy.

False Evangelicals

An official in Ariel Sharon's office said Ted Haggard told Ariel Sharon that George W. Bush told a group of (false-Christian reconstructionists/dominionists) evangelical leaders that the United States will support Israel "come hell or high water." That of course means supporting the political, secular, nationalistic, false Zionism now running the State of Israel.

Ted Haggard is the head pastor of the fourteen-thousand-member New Life Church in 35 January 4, 2006, Ariel Sharon, the eleventh prime minister of Israel, suffered a massive hemorrhagic stroke.

Colorado Springs, Colorado, home of the US Air Force Academy, to which the New Life Church has an extremely strong affinity. He is also the president of the National Association of Evangelicals that, as of the time of this writing, claims seventy-nine denominations with thirty-million members.37

For those who don't understand the expression "come hell or high water," it means that Bush said, and Haggard agrees, that the US is to support Israel militarily against the devil or God whichever seeks to punish Israel. Most people understand that hell comes from Satan. "High water," of course, alludes to the Great Flood of Noah's time, which The Bible says was the result of the iniquity and constant incorrigibility of the whole of humanity.

37 Ted Haggard, president of the U.S. National Association of Evangelicals, resigned on Thursday, November 2, 2006 after being accused of involvement with illegal drugs and having a sexual relationship with a male escort. He denied it. However, on Sunday, November 05, 2006, a letter from him was read to his church. The letter said the following in part:

The fact is I am guilty of sexual immorality. And I take responsibility for the entire problem. I am a deceiver and a liar. There's a part of my life that is so repulsive and dark that I have been warring against it for all of my adult life.

Racism

We are not to be against Israel in the racist sense. We are not to be against people of Hebrew extraction simply because they are of Hebrew extraction. That's racism, and its wrong. It is racist when any people or state practices segregation based solely upon ethnicity.

A new law passed by the Israeli parliament on 31 July 2003 bars family unification for Israelis who are married to Palestinians from the Occupied Territories. The Citizenship and Entry into Israel Law(1) explicitly discriminates against Palestinians from the West Bank and Gaza Strip. It also implicitly discriminates against Palestinian citizens of Israel, who constitute some 20% of the Israeli population, and against Palestinian residents of Jerusalem(2), for it is they who usually marry Palestinians from the Occupied Territories. As such, the law formally institutionalizes a form of racial discrimination based on ethnicity or nationality.\(^3\)

That law applies solely to Palestinians. That's exactly the kind of treatment that many who quickly holler "anti-Semitism" deplored when http://web.amnesty.org/library/index/engmde150632004 laws were leveled against Jews simply for being ethnically Hebrew. It is a double standard. It says, do as we say and not as we do. It is the opposite of the golden rule. It is in direct violation of the commandment.

Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself: I am the LORD." (Leviticus 19:18).

The Palestinians are the children of Abraham. They are the children of Adam (literally, proverbially), as are we all. Yet, the state of Israel forced its way into existence shoving people out of their homes and off the land. The Israelis take revenge against the Palestinians for the acts of the Nazis and others before them. They bear grudges against the children of their people. They do not love the Palestinians as they love themselves. The LORD sees what Israel is doing and hates it, even though God also sees the error of their, the Palestinian’s, way.

Contrary to what the white supremacists, such as the Ku Klux Klan in the US assert, being Hebrew does not necessitate an irredeemable character. We are to advocate for all righteous people of Hebrew extraction. We are to advocate for righteous people regardless of ethnicity. We are to pray for the fallen to turn to become one with the Messiahship: To soften. We are not though to destroy men’s lives for Israel or ourselves. To do so is to lose souls, not save them.

There are different kinds of support. Militarily supporting racism is a double error. It is not real support. It actually aids in further lowering of the souls of the racists.

False Christian churches are temptations to violence with their emphasis upon military, weapons, fighting, and killing in the name of Jesus. Jesus said to overcome such temptations. False Christian churches are temptations to greed with their emphasis upon so-called free-market capitalism and materialism, which is for getting more for self by taking at the expense of others. It is negative profit making off one's neighbors, which is far from loving one's neighbors (humanity). It is the incentive of selfishness, exactly the opposite of what Jesus calls for. False Christian churches are temptations to sexual depravity with their emphasis upon the other two lusts: Bloodlust and material and monetary lust. Also the sexual lust leads likewise back into the bloodlust and monetary lust. It is a vicious circle on the same spectrum of disorder and disunity. Undisciplined desires of the flesh make the world comfortable for evil in general.

Real Christians are not anti-Semitic. In fact, real Christians are the spiritual brothers and sisters of the real Jews, making us one.

Judah is a lion's whelp: from the prey, my son, thou art gone up: he stooped down, he couched as a lion, and as an old lion; who shall rouse him up? The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh come; and unto him shall the gathering of the people be. (Genesis 49:9-10).

When Shiloh comes, the scepter shall depart from Judah, the name sake of Judaism or the Jews, and the lawgiver shall depart from between his feet. What does it mean? Shiloh was where the Ark of the Covenant (built in the time of Moses long after Jacob), was kept. During a war with the Philistines which Israel was losing, the Israelis brought out the ark from Shiloh so they, the Israelis, would win the war. However, the Philistines still prevailed and took the ark. This is related in 1 Samuel 4 of The Bible. However, handling the ark resulted in severe consequences for the Philistines. It finally ended up back in Jewish hands. After the Babylonian invasion of Israel, however, the ark disappeared and has not been returned to the Hebrews to date.

[It may be disconcerting to you that there are, what many may consider inappropriate, parenthetical departures from the main subject matter in given sections of this work. However, it is critical at times to dispense in a timely manner with certain anticipated false criticisms so readers may move forward with a greater depth of understanding. Having too many unanswered questions can be a greater distraction than so-called parenthetical digressions. Therefore, within the subject of the Office of Special Plans set up by US Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, I have dealt directly with neoconservatism and false, dangerous Zionism versus real Zionism (the peace) that is real Christianity.]
Office of Special Plans, continued

Now, getting back specifically to the subject of the Office of Special Plans and the plan to redraw the boundaries of the Middle East, the neoconservatives are US terrorists seeking to bomb whomever stands in the way of their megalomaniacal scheme. They do this under the banner of false Christianity. They do this to force the world into letting the US and Israel move the boundaries of nations around in the selfish interest of the Anglo-American-Jewish Empire, the anti-democratic, antichrist, capitalist, global Empire, and for the sake of greater Israeli false-Zionist ambition.

The Office of Special Plans was under William Luti, a neoconservative and deputy undersecretary of defense in charge of Near East and South Asia affairs. Luti was rewarded for his deceptions by being taken in to the National Security Council at the White House.

The Office of Special Plans was directed by Abram N. Shulsky, also a neoconservative. The office was dedicated to the creation of disinformation (lies) so-called intelligence reports as a smoke screen for invading Iraq. The reports were just lies as talking points filtered through the theory of plausible deniability. Rumsfeld euphemistically calls this process of generating evil propaganda "perception management." I call it a theory, because they wrongly believe that they won't be caught if they work it just so.

God sees everything that Satan does. Only fools won't see that.
It has been reported that the payroll was unofficial. The office was not under congressional oversight. It was outside the usual intelligence community (Central Intelligence Agency and Defense Intelligence Agency). Career professionals were pushed aside and forced out on a whim. The people staffing this office were mostly without intelligence experience. They were there for the express purpose of creating a false picture for going to war for the sake of churlish empire building. That was their task. That is what they did.

The raw intelligence they gleaned for talking points or sound bites for administration officials did not go through the usual thorough examination or evaluation process (called the vetting process) but found its way into the president's and vice president's and other top-ranking administration officials' public speeches to the American people for the purposes of leading the nation into belligerent attacks on other nations starting with Iraq.

The office also leaked to Israel. Larry Franklin worked out of that office. He pleaded guilty to giving secret information to Israel through the American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC) about the US government's plans about Iran.

Presidents lie

The president knew that the materials coming to him were created that way. He also knew that the Central Intelligence Agency and regular Defense Intelligence Agency staff did not agree with the created picture painted by the Office of Special Plans. The director of the Central Intelligence Agency at the time, George J. Tenet, said that the CIA analysts were split in their views as to the interpretation of the data. It was cooked intelligence (falsified to make an impression). There is no doubt about it. The president's policy drove intelligence and not the other way around. The Office of Special Plans created a deliberately distorted picture of Iraq. The president knew it, wanted it, and called for it.

It does absolutely no good for George W. Bush to claim others are trying to rewrite history. He claims that everyone came to the same conclusion based upon the same intelligence. The so-called intelligence was supplied by Bush and his cronies. In addition, everyone didn't buy into even that phony intelligence. Millions of people said openly during the lead up to the invasion of Iraq that George W. Bush and his neocons were lying. It was obvious to them. They prophesied correctly. He can't talk his way out of it. He must repent; otherwise, how may he escape damnation?

Lie to invade Vietnam

John F. Kennedy lied when he said that the US couldn't compete using the dirty tricks of adversaries. Even as he was saying that, the US was attempting to assassinate Castro and to do other such covert activities around the world. Kennedy also put many thousands of troops into Vietnam claiming they were merely advisers.
To be fair here, it must be said that presidents don't have the kind of power people imagine they do. Kennedy, for instance, apparently did not authorize the CIA invasion of Cuba. The CIA went ahead with anyway. In addition, when Kennedy had cut a deal with the Soviets that they would back off if the US pulled its missiles from Turkey, the Pentagon and CIA ignored Kennedy's order to pull the missiles from Turkey. He later forced them to do it after he was caught off guard by the Soviets who complained to him that he hadn't kept to the US side of the deal.

Also Kennedy was in the process of defusing the CIA of its more roguish aspects and has been reported as actually drawing down the number of US covert operatives and military "advisors" from Vietnam before he was so brutally assassinated. 39

What does this mean? It means that this kind of power, this dark power, is the power of those who back one. Kennedy didn't have power in his own right. He had become wildly popular with the compliant masses, the general public, but he didn't have his own loyal Praetorian Guard, so to speak. He wasn't some general with the strongest of loyalty amongst the whole body of some huge army he had commanded.

He had some people around him he could trust, his brother Bobby for instance; but, he didn't have too many others. They were just a hand full at best and up against an ingrained elite from the oligarchy that hadn't want him as president in the first place. He was up against the Yale graduates.

39 For information on the Kennedy assassinations, start with the Supplement: There is No Such Thing as a Conservative-Republican Christian.

The same thing applies to every president to some degree, especially the more liberal.

We have to remember that presidents deliberately act on unsubstantiated information. Before the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, president Lyndon Baines Johnson lied about the Gulf of Tonkin Incident. He claimed the American people with certainty that the North Vietnamese had attempted to attack a US ship August 2, 1964. However, squadron commander James Stockdale was flying right over the area at the time. He wrote:

> I had the best seat in the house to watch that event, and our destroyers were just shooting at phantom targets — there were no [North Vietnamese] PT boats there. There was nothing but black water and American firepower.

James Stockdale ran for vice president in 1992 on the Reform Party ticket with Ross Perot.

The US though had been engaged in covert military operations in and against North Vietnam before that. Johnson's indignation would have been disingenuous even if North Vietnam had attacked first. The fact is the US was itching to go to war in Vietnam.
Official whitewash of Bush-43 lies

Concerning this ad hoc political group, the Office of Special Plans, constituted to fabricate a sense of imminence and urgency concerning Iraq, the Commission on the Intelligence Capabilities of the United States Regarding Weapons of Mass Destruction issued its report, March 31, 2005, on the failure of US intelligence leading up to the complete invasion of Iraq. The report is dishonest about the Office of Special Plans. The report does not cover the political takeover of intelligence. That report is 618 pages. In doing a search of that report, "Office of Special Plans" does not come up. Why not?

This report speaks of the intelligence community as if what came out of the secret Office of Special Plans, initially termed a Pentagon cell, came un-manipulated and directly out of that intelligence community. It did not. The Office of Special Plans was kept out of the view of the so-called intelligence community. Had the Office of Special Plans never existed and had the president gone solely on the advice coming directly out of the traditional intelligence community, the president could not have taken the US to war, unless he managed without any hint of congressional acquiescence. He would have then had to take America to war over the huge protestations of the vast majority of the American people. The people would have long ago demanded George W. Bush's resignation or impeachment and removal from office for high crimes.

The only thing that happened is a blatant attempt at obfuscation: Taking the blood hounds off the trail and shifting the focus to those known not to be responsible.

Up until November 1, 2005, the Democratic Party had done little. They were giving the appearance of acquiescing. They left open speculation that there might be too much Democratic dirt under the carpet with Republican dirt for them to brave exposure. Then they moved for a closed-door session of the US Senate over the issue of investigating whether the Bush-43 administration took the country to war based upon knowingly phoned-up intelligence. They claimed that their intent was to focus upon Douglas J. Feith and the Office of Special Plans. What has happened?

March 2006 call for censuring (rebuking) the president

Senator Russ Feingold introduced a motion of censure. He wanted it as a matter of public record that the Republicans refused to rebuke George W. Bush, one of their own, for reaching for the imperial presidency. John Dean testified. Dean had been Nixon's White House counsel. Dean correctly pointed out that the neocons will grab all the power the US Congress will concede. He correctly pointed out that this has been their long-running plan. (We heard it all along coming from Dick Cheney and others how the presidency was too weakened after Watergate, etc.) I paraphrase Dean's testimony here, since Dean was cut off from fleshing out the observations. The Republicans in power now do not want the public associating the Nixon abuses with the Bush excesses, although the comparisons are inescapable for any thinking person.

1. The FISA was set up, because the then president (Nixon) had been engaged in illegally spying on people for political reasons under the guise of national security. There is no way of knowing whether or not the current president has not been doing the same thing. The idea behind FISA is the constitutional protection of the common citizen from the abuse of power by the executive. The president is given powers under the US Constitution but so are the people. The president is given the power especially in times of war to surveil the enemy. War has not been declared. The enemy has not been defined. The duration of the supposed war is undefined. The people have a right to guarantees that their private conversations, including with people in other countries, including in Arab and Islamic countries, including in Afghanistan and Pakistan, will not be listened in on without probable cause (reasonable suspicion) first having been established with a court of jurisdiction.

2. The president has known full well that FISA was set up to protect the constitutional rights of US citizens. He has made a conscious decision. He has chosen between a philosophy of life that promotes US corporatism/capitalism versus any other choice (including love, peace, and truth). He has known that the office of the president had construed the meaning of national security in a way that rationalized all the abuses leveled against truth seekers and tellers. He has known that open discussion about the course of the nation was, is, and will be, stifled by such construing and abusing. He has known that the same effort was afoot long before the Nixon administration, in fact going back to the beginning of empire building. He has known that such construing and abusing will continue so long as there is a neoconservative or neoliberal corporate-capitalist, or any other being dead set against real Christianity, on the face of the planet.

3. Those in the US Senate whom the president informed about warrantless spying were gagged from speaking out against the program. They were threatened with national security, meaning if they were to leak the existence of the program even to take legal exception within the Senate they would run the risk of the executive branch going after them for leaking so-called national-security secrets.

4. Bush and his people want to take the nation back to the imperial presidency and beyond. They want to undo all the Church Committee work.

5. Bush lied when he said that his administration was always obtaining court orders when, in fact, he had already had the NSA listening in on citizens. He plays fast and loose with the truth. He has his fingers crossed behind his back when he speaks. He gets court orders when he has to by law, and he interprets the law to say that he doesn't have to get any court orders. He's had the NSA create a database of billions of phone calls made by hundreds of millions of American citizens. Your phone records, if you are a customer of one of the huge phone-service providers that gave the NSA the information, are in the government's hands not necessarily for probable cause. Probable cause is a verbatim constitutional requirement in the US, despite general Michael Hayden's incorrect assertions to the contrary. Hayden had just finished as the NSA's director. He was subsequently confirmed as director of the CIA at the end of May, 2006. Also, when George W. Bush stands before the nation's cameras and says that the database involves searching solely for al Qaeda, he lies. They are searching for all terrorist possibilities and national security leaks under the broadest definitions conceivable to the point of ridiculous. They define potential terrorists as anyone who might attack to terrorize the US or its allies or any criminal activity by which a potential terrorist might profit. They define national security as anything they want to hide, including their own illegal activities. They are claiming, although they have not themselves connected it openly with this database, that criminal activity of all kinds is being used to support terrorism, and potential terrorism, both of which includes dissenting against the government's policies of neoliberal economics, etc. It is almost impossible to keep up with the flood of leaks happening on account of the movement of the Holy Spirit to reveal all the putrefaction. Now it has leaked that they have been matching up the numbers of government workers who have phoned journalists and vice versa. Who leaked the illegal CIA black sites (illegal prisons)? Who leaked the illegal NSA snooping on purely domestic phone calls and Internet traffic? Well, who leaked Valerie Plame's identity as a CIA covert agent to the press? The unitary executive did. The White House did with George W. Bush's blessing. After the leak was revealed, Bush claimed that he had "contempt and anger" for those who outhed Plame's identity. They are [40 It turns out that Richard Armitage, who was at the time, US deputy secretary of state, also outhed Valerie Plame's identity as a CIA agent. Apparently, there are some people who are interpreting this revelation as proof that the White House did not deliberately leak Plame's identity to throw fear into the hearts of other agent-spouses about calling into question the failsafe-characterizations made by the president in claiming a case for wars of aggression. It doesn't prove that at all. Armitage signed the neocon Project for the New American Century letter to then president Clinton calling for the ouster of Saddam Hussein.] listening to the content of conversations that the general population, the reasonable person, would say is not covered under the characterization Bush is asserting that being al Qaeda-linked. When a person communicates anything overseas that shows any sign of dissent regardless of the recipient, that sender is targeted domestically. That's been the case for many decades. When the target communicates solely within US borders, he or she is spied upon including listened to by computers and then directly by human ears if the computer flags them for trigger words within certain contexts. Then he asks people to trust him. His people, and he, ask the people to just trust the president in the face of the endless stream of lies that have come from him. Even as they defend the president, they claim he is honest. They tell such lies rationalizing away the dishonesty under the spirit of the liar from the beginning, the serpent/dragon, who concocted the noble-lie excuse that is a cover for endless defilement and has led billions of souls astray into utter darkness, pain, and suffering. Even as they defend him, you hear them and see them ignore the answers given them for why their course is wrong. They stuff their ears and hearts and repeat the same falsehoods even though those falsehoods have already been confuted. They are confounded but don't have the sufficiently well-working consciences to admit it to themselves. They make those who brought the adulteress to Jesus look as saints, for those in Jesus's time were convicted by their consciences and dropped their stones and walked away to the man when Jesus confounded them with their hypocrisy. Today, the unrepentant Bush apologists lie about their opponent's positions and motives. They claim that if one is against the administration's blanket assertion of unlimited power that that means that that opponent is against any power of the president to surveil. It is a distortion. When they discover that their cover is coming off, they quickly reach for a new cover. They attempt to hide themselves under blanket after blanket, each being pulled away to expose the deception beneath.

6. The attorney general, Alberto Gonzales, refused to say that the National Security Agency program as revealed by the president is the limit of on-going warrantless surveillance. Of course, it is not. It is far from it. The Total Information Awareness program, no matter what they rename it or where they seek to hide it, is the dead spirit devouring away.

7. As I have written elsewhere in this work and as has been stated by others to whom such matters also rightly and independently (original with them) occurred and has also been repeated by the like-minded looking toward greater unselfishness in this world, there is not now any limit on presidential power if FISA is not a constitutional check on presidential power. Of course, the people should never follow (lend their vote to or pay homage to or support or condone or tolerate) a would-be leader who is not first, foremost, and always about doing justice for the needy, justice being without coercion.

8. The empire builders have been arguing that the only way to be safe is to takeover everything for the sake of the injustice that is capitalism. There is no safety in it. They have been arguing for the people to sanction disappearing people, torturing people, wrongfully imprisoning people, murdering people, and preemtping all without due process or oversight of any kind. They have, in very truth, done all these things, and their lawyers have, in fact, argued openly that the president has those powers over the entire population of the world including over US citizens on US soil. This is a blank check to destroy the philosophical and religious opposition, including all real Christians. In very truth, they see real Christians as the greatest threat of all. Real Christians are the greatest threat only because the neoconservatives and more importantly the false Christians who back them are the most dangerous apostates of this worldly realm of theirs for awhile.
9. The US Congress has the constitutional power to regulate everything in government.

The US Constitution is not the new commandment

However, the ambiguity built into the US Constitution, built in on account of the incorrect direction of the founders’ hearts away from the new commandment they neither endorsed nor sought to follow, causes both sides to be hypocritically unable rightfully to check the other. The system was dead on arrival. It is broken, fractured, fragmented, far from perfect or unified. Of course, they thought incorrectly that they were being realists, rejecting the practicality of the ideal, selling souls short, claiming that human kind is incapable of righteousness. That is the conservative describing his view of his own nature and falsely assigning that nature to all human beings.

Protestant rationalizing away the duty to give and share

The most liberalism they could summon was that akin to the position of John Calvin that the Protestant work ethic and capitalist accumulation is proof of the predestined salvation of Christians. That position of course is bunk. They simply have received their reward here and now if they do not give it and share it freely and joyously for the sake of righteousness.

The current-day throwbacks to Calvin want to do away with the Christian emphasis upon aiding the poor. They are rabid free-market libertarian capitalists first and foremost. The Christian label is just a cover for the exercise of their personal egos and pride. They license themselves under supralapsarianism, Hyper-Calvinism, predestination, antinomianism, and certain aspects shared by arminianism and amylladism, etc. It means they claim in their minds that their names have been written in the Book of Life since the beginning and cannot be erased by their sins. In this way, they deny that their iniquitous behavior will keep them from entering heaven and that, therefore, whatever they do is actually right and proper. It is a very twisted concept of liberty in Christ and is definitely far, far from the kingdom. It is a huge problem that facilitates war and torture and all manner of sin.

Supralapsarianism means that God's design included the fall of mankind. It raises the issue of whether or not God is the author of evil. Well, the liar from the beginning, the one who fell away from God, is the author of sin. God warned, and still warns, against sin. God calls all. Not all know his voice though. They make of themselves devils, fallen angels, fallen spirits, souls bound for damnation, negative consequences, if they continue to refuse to turn back to God. God did not author sin. God allows the willfulness of human beings and the consequences that follow for edification if people will accept it. God's will is righteousness. God chooses those who choose God. Our righteous deeds come with the increase in our faith.
Hyper-Calvinism contends that the call is not universal. Of course, this is contextual. The call is heard, or one isn't called. At the same time, coming at it from a different perspective, context, or language still within the revelation, the call is there even for those who don't hear it. This is not a paradox. It is being able to speak more than one context at a time. It reconciles the infinite. It is the only way it may be scrutinized.

Arminianism contends in favor of grace alone where even earnest deeds don't signify. They contend against supralapsarianism, meaning they avoid the stumbling block that God authored sin. Arminianism is not Calvinism, per se. It just shares some aspects in common.

Amyraldism contends that the call from God is for universal repentance. However, it maintains at the same time that grace and not deeds (earnest or not) determines (identifies) to whom that call is given. This is just more of the same non-reconciled, paradoxical thinking of false Christianity.

"God" is a noun-verb

A bad tree cannot bring forth good fruit. Jesus said it, and he was right. The deeds called for by Jesus result in the kingdom of God on earth as it is in heaven. The right emotions and God's grace come together, neither lagging the other. The right feelings are God. Amyraldism and the other precepts argue everything from within a finite, temporal perspective whereas God is not so limited, since God is also infinite and eternal. God inhabits both realms. God is always infinite, eternal, and absolute. God has shown God in the finite and temporal to lead us who will follow into the infinite, eternal, and absolute. God wants us to understand God, to comprehend real love, wholeness, unselfishness, oneness, the new commandment, the highest calling, and to do it, do God as Jesus did.

"God" is both a noun and verb.

Jesus said we are to ask. That's a deed. That's an action on our part. We are to seek. That's human activity. We are to knock. That's more of the same. God's grace allows us to ask, seek, and knock. God calls us to do these things. God chooses those who do not give up but who continue to grow in his knowledge. It's mutual real love, and we are obligated thereby to do the deeds to bring more souls to it.

We and all the people are known by our fruits, the results of our deeds. We all will be measured and sorted according to our works. Without the deeds of feeding our spiritual siblings, the sheep and lambs, in body and soul, we will be nothing more than unrepentant, wicked, slothful servants who squandered our inheritance and who will be cast out into outer darkness where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. If we don't love those who call us enemy just as we ought to be loved by them, the same fate awaits us. This though is not the teaching of the worldly leaders. They are liars.

Everything inconsistent with the new commandment is falsehood

All theological doctrines, traditions, and histories that are not exactly in line with the new commandment are false. They come from the devil who seeks to prove that we cannot overcome the selfish, lustng tricks of the mind and flesh. They are imaginary loopholes. They are dark, bottomless holes along the way to hell. They facilitate the thinking that it is fine not to do the requisite deeds called for by Jesus who was sent by God to give these words of the one. Only by landing on the truth can anyone be stopped from further falling. Only then can the truth lift one out of the darkness and place one on the narrow way into the light. The truth is real rising. The truth is real light. The truth is oneness of being.

These precepts of men and not God hearken to violence, greed, stinginess, and all manner of sins. They are terrible willfulness unleashed on an unsuspecting humanity. They are wrapped up in the twisted ideologies of capitalist conservatism, libertarianism, and classical economic liberalism (neoliberalism). These errors come from the root essence of evil. They have polluted the churches as they have contributed to polluting the whole of the environment of the earth. They have led all astray. We must awaken each other from the nightmare conjured up by evil.

Real deeds are everything. What God does is who God is. Jesus was, and is, what he did, and does. Real deeds are faith. Real deeds show no doubt.

Co-opted ancient church

Don't imagine for a moment that this constructive criticism only applies to certain Protestants. All those who swallowed the worldly Empire's co-optation of the faith fell prey. The church of Rome is centrally responsible for beginning this slide into the pit. None had the courage of his convictions to stand before Constantine I to rebuke him for taking men's lives. None told him to comprehend David's introspection, his soul searching, that led David to conclude that David had bloody hands and what that meant in relative terms. Rather than speaking truth to power, they caved in. They were swallowed as they swallowed. They rationalized away their obligation to be Christlike here and now that is to dedicate everything to the cause of righteousness. Rather than that, they grew fat in their unshared material possessions; ostentatious, gaudy, and luxurious accommodations; fancy clothes and robes; precious jewelry; vanity; unclean relics; worldly, coercive power; vast, hoarded monetary wealth; control of the congregations' perceptions; sexual predations; and all manner of temptation coming from the spirit of error rejected by the Messiah.

Now is the time to clear the air. Real Christians are not wicked and slothful servants refusing publicly to speak the truth that saves souls. Real Christians not only speak for real justice but they cooperate together, they organize together, they pool together, they blow together by the Holy Spirit, they conflate, to bring forth here and now, come what may from the devil who persecutes them because he has no respect for God.

These precepts are where the mistaken notion comes from that we are not supposed to lead holy lives. They are where aggression, belligerence, militarism, war, greed, covetousness, sexual depravity, perjury (bearing false witness, stating lies for pretexts), and truly disgracing one's parents come from, all banned, accursed things leading to utter damnation.

Woe unto the world because of offences! for it must needs be that offences come; but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh! (Matthew 18:7).

They are where persecution of the righteous comes from. It is utter hypocrisy.

Wherefore ye be witnesses unto yourselves, that ye are the children of them which killed the prophets. Fill ye up then the measure of your fathers. Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell? Wherefore, behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city: That upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar. (Matthew 23:31-35).

Jesus flat out said he would not gather as sheep the iniquitous. The names of the unrepentant iniquitous and those who neglect the poor and beat or kill their fellow servants will not be found in the Book of Life. Calvin was wrong.

Christ is sanity

They think they can kill and torture and steal with eternal impunity. It is insanity. Under this doctrine, Bush-43 was right to lie about Iraq and to continue lying. It’s the ungodly noble lie of the neocons. It is the path to hell. It is might makes right. Isn’t Satan mighty? He isn’t the mightiest, but he’s mighty in taking lives. He is the lord of death. He is God's greatest fallen angel bound but unleashed for wrathful consequences. He is the son of man for wrath. He is insanity. Don't partake. Don't become Satan. Only woe will await you if you do. Overcome. That's what Jesus did. Jesus was made strait to point the way to salvation: God. Be Christ, not Satan. Christ is sanity.

Currently in the US, Calvinism is being further stimulated by the likes of the Lilly Endowment, which has provided much funding through its Programs for the Theological Exploration of Vocation (PTEV). The Lilly Endowment funds many rightwing think tanks with the global privatization agenda and other antichristian undertakings. The Lilly Endowment has given over one hundred seventy-six million US dollars to universities of its choice to fund courses the endowment sees as being compatible with the conservative capitalist co-opting/distortion of the message of Jesus Christ. This includes ecumenicalism to that end. It is even polluting the pacifist denominations despite the fact that the Lilly Endowment supports and funds think tanks for the military-industrial complex.

Does this mean that one may not take money from capitalists? No. It means that no matter where the coins came from that were in Jesus’s disciples’ common treasury, it did not influence what they said or did.

Government of, by, and for the rich

The Lilly Endowment was established by the Eli Lilly family. The Lilly family obtained much of its wealth via the pharmaceutical giant Eli Lilly and Company the makers of the antidepressant Prozac among other drugs. Prozac was announced four days after the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), a revolving door for the pharmaceutical industry, banned public sale of L-tryptophan as a dietary supplement that was being used by millions as a natural antidepressant. L-tryptophan is a naturally occurring and essential amino acid found in a number of foods. Japanese manufacturer, Showa Denko KK, had failed to filter out a toxic by-product of its manufacturing process for the supplement. Rather than just insuring a proper manufacturing process, the FDA banned all over-the-counter tryptophan sales for over ten years. That was at best a huge financial windfall for Eli Lilly and the Lilly family, as people went to their doctors for symptoms of depression and were subsequently prescribed Prozac.

There is no doubt that the FDA has a bias toward large pharmaceutical companies, which are among the most profitable companies in the world. There is no doubt that the FDA is complicit in attacking the healing properties of God's natural foods.\footnote{William Faloon. "FDA Threatens To Raid Cherry Orchards." LE Magazine. March 2006. http://www.lef.org/magazine/mag2006/mar2006_awsi_01.htm} The huge corporations can't gouge humanity as successfully by producing and promoting organically grown non-processed foods.

On October 17, 2006, the former FDA head for the Bush-43 Administration, Lester Crawford, pleaded guilty to conflict-of-interest and false reporting concerning his ownership of stocks in companies he was overseeing as FDA head. This is typical of Republican dealings.

A lot of this can be traced to what Max Weber identified in his book, \textit{The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism}. I make this connection, because we are talking here about US capitalism and not capitalism in general. US capitalism came out of the United Kingdom, which was heavily influenced by the Calvinists in the form of the Puritans who migrated to North America. Mostly, Calvin's demonizing the poor as lazy and un-prosperous as indicative of predestined damnation has been used subconsciously and consciously to excuse American's obsessively amassing and hoarding and so-called personal responsibility and other conservative notions such as "God helps those who help themselves" that has led to the global dominance of the US Empire. This connection cannot be denied. The corruption of Christianity has led to it.
This whole thing boils down to those who want cover to continue expropriation and exploitation of the needy so they, the power elite, may lord it over the whole world as Satan versus those who want the exact opposite. Everything between is just a matter of relative degree of wrong versus right.

Office of Special Plans, continued

This whole ethos is found mingled with the neocon agenda in the Office of Special Plans. It was designed to give political cover for the plan to invade Iraq that existed before George W. Bush ever took office. The information that had come through the regular intelligence channels of the Central Intelligence Agency and Defense Intelligence Agency was scoured for anything that might be used to construe that Iraq had sponsored the 9-11 attacks upon the US. Without going through the usual process of thoroughly examining the information for possible misinterpretation and to find corroborating evidence before sending troops to kill people and be killed, the information was sent to the president who wanted any pretext (excuse to conceal the real reasons) for attacking Iraq.

Fake news

The Office of Special Plans knew that aluminum tubes for Iraq were not designed for atomic weapons but rockets at best. Even still, that lie was leaked by the Office of Special Plans and the White House Iraq Group to The New York Times reporter Judith Miller. Then, the president pointed to The New York Times report to lend credence to the distortion to set the people's minds at ease that the information about Iraq's atomic weapons plan was accepted by more than just hawks. Only devious minds can manipulate and twist the news in such a way.

What does one expect from people who pay pundits to laud administration policy and pay newspapers in Iraq to print stories without attribution that have been written by neocon contractors, which stories are nothing more than false propaganda? This is part of the relentless privatization of everything. Even military psyops is being privatized, meaning turned into a vehicle of capitalistic profits. Satan sure is busy lending out current rewards with souls as collateral. Who will pay the debt? Will the unrepentant liars? No one can trust anyone who puts out such fake news. Are they worthy?

The lie about aluminum tubes

Bush knowingly lied about the aluminum tubes. In his State of the Union Address, he said, "Our intelligence sources tell us that he [Saddam Hussein] has attempted to purchase high-strength aluminum tubes suitable for nuclear weapons production." He used the term "suitable." Were they? Regardless, lots of things are dual- or multi-use. Many things could be used nefariously. The use of the term "suitable" without qualification is a case in point. George W. Bush, with malice aforethought, concealed from the American people that he, Bush, had been told, officially and expressly (in writing) and in no uncertain terms, that the US intelligence community was clearly split on the question of whether or not the aluminum tubes were intended for nuclear weapons use. This fact is shown in the President’s Summary of a National Intelligence Estimate of October 2002 that Bush had read three months before his State of the Union Address. We know about the lies about the yellowcake. The Bush-43 administration, under Karl Rove, simply said oops, we forgot that we weren’t supposed to use that already vetted-out information. However, we see that they also conveniently slipped in the aluminum tubes as well using the term "suitable." Now we will hear them make the claim that they didn’t really say that he was going to use the tubes for nuclear weapons but that he could have been.

Everyone knows though that they submitted it to the American people as a piece of proof for the case they were making against Iraq. What the American people were gullible enough to imagine is that the president would have weighed the information against any other potential possibility. The fact is though that the president deliberately disregarded the information he had that the tubes were not suitable for nuclear-weapons manufacturing. He deliberately gave the American people the wrong information so that they would support going to war. He played to their fear and self-centeredness. It speaks about him, and it speaks about the American people who have not been concern enough with the plight of the downtrodden to see through the lies of the oppressors.
October 7, 2002, Bush had given a speech in Cincinnati, Ohio, in which he said, "Evidence indicates that Iraq is reconstituting its nuclear weapons program." You will notice that he did not say "could be." He said "is." Bush knew that seasoned intelligence analysts were saying that there is far from enough proof to take the country to war against Iraq. His closest circle, such as Dick Cheney, Condoleezza Rice, Donald Rumsfeld, and John Negroponte, and he, Bush, knew it before they all repeated and repeated statements that Saddam was doing all the things he wasn't actually doing. Ever since, we've seen the revisionism and lying cover-up surrounding the entire administration even as conservative Republicans in the House and Senate rally around the failed presidency with statements such as Bush is honest, which itself is a lie and everyone who says it is a deliberate liar.

Lies about evidence of an Iranian nuclear weapons program

The Bush-43 administration did, and continues to do against Iran and other nations, what one calls building a case on less than flimsy circumstantial evidence. The evidence that Iran is building a nuclear weapons program isn't just flimsy. It's nonexistent. It's made up. It doesn't mean it isn't true. It just means Bush has zero proof.

Children have been traditionally spanked and sent to bed without supper for such blatant fabricating. Of course, the saber rattling certainly could push Iran and others exactly where Bush and his neocons want them, where the neocons can attack with greater plausible deniability, not that the absence of such fabricated plausibility will stop them.

Even Colin Powell is reported to have expressed doubts about such nuclear intentions of the Iraqi's before the State of the Union Address and his own ridiculous presentation to the United Nations, in which he showed computer graphics of imagined mobile labs.

It was the same thing Rumsfeld did concerning the supposed caves in Tora Bora, Afghanistan.
Rumsfeld's Pentagon, remember, created computer graphics that were shown on national TV showing elaborate underground installations way beyond the resources of al Qaeda to construct in Tora Bora. Now they have spread the lie that Iran has such underground facilities that would be the envy of even the US. They have based that on Hezbollah's small tunneling in Lebanon. Well, the Vietnamese had tunnels too, but they weren't on a par with what the US constructed and constructs. Just because the US has done it or does it doesn't mean everyone else has or can. It takes resources to do these things. Those resources have to be diverted away from other things. Most nations refuse to waste their few resources trying to compete with the covetousness and paranoia of the US oligarchy. The Soviet Union tried mightily, but it was spent under the table. The Chinese are gaining financial abilities, but they still have a huge population living in abject poverty that they want to pull up. Iran has spent on weapons, no doubt. They have some underground facilities, but there is no way that they are as elaborate as the neocons want to conjure up in the minds of the general American population. They are just trying to drum up baseless fear as they did concerning Iraq. Powell's State Department Bureau of Intelligence and Research, along with the Department of Energy, was stating in the National Intelligence Estimate that it believed that the aluminum tubes were for conventional military purposes, as turned out to be the case, as the US military couldn't hide after the invasion. Their assessment had all along been that the aluminum tubes were "poorly suited for use in gas centrifuges to be used for uranium enrichment." That just makes the choice of the word "suitable" by Bush even more transparently designed to deceive American voters.

Also, the International Atomic Energy Agency had reported that the tubes were "not directly suitable" for centrifuges. Powell though refused to tell the truth to the American people. He hedged some here and there but mostly touted the party line then quit the administration after one term in office.

Bush is a conman, a confidence man, one who swindles victims (the whole world) via the tricks and games he plays on them. He must repent, as must we all.

The official position of the US intelligence community against the case for war against Iraq

The State Department's Bureau of Intelligence and Research was also saying that it believed Saddam Hussein would not attack the US in some terrorist type attack. It was the consensus, the unanimous position, of all the intelligence agencies. In other words, everyone was telling the president that Saddam Hussein did not pose an immediate, clear and present, imminent, or other danger or threat to the US proper.

Therefore, Bush took the nation to war against Iraq for reasons he had before 9-11. 9-11 was simply a pretext.

Bush decided to cover his hands in the blood of every single person who has died or been maimed on both sides. As of the date of this writing, he remains unrepentant. How can he escape damnation?

Bush was hearing and seeing this, but he was not going to allow that side of the debate to leak from his White House since he had long prior decided as he said, "F--k Saddam. We're taking him out."

Don't just look at Bush though. Senior Executive Intelligence Briefs were written daily intelligence briefs that went to hundreds of people in the administration and to the intelligence committees of the US Congress. Who spoke out? Who was and is culpable? Who's now echoing the administration's saber rattling against Iran and others? Who's on whose side? Who's on God's side and whose side is God on? You better think!

White House lie-coordination

The White House Iraq Group, formed in August 2002, was the propaganda-management group chaired by Karl Rove. That group included Nicholas Calio (legislative liaison and assistant to the president), Stephen Hadley (deputy national security advisor), Karen Hughes (advisor to the president), I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby (office of the vice president chief of staff), Mary Matalin (senior advisor to the vice president), Condoleezza Rice (national security advisor), and James Wilkinson (White House deputy director of communications).

These people sat around conjuring up ways to deliberately spread knowing lies worldwide. They saw to it that flat out fabrications were used by senior Bush-43 administration officials when on TV and in official speeches and presentations given by the president, vice president, secretaries of state and defense, and others. All the conservatives know this, but they turn a blind eye as accomplices to the gigantic crime.

Fake news, continued

The George W. Bush administration is expert in such misuse of the news media. They have been exposed for paying pseudo-news talk-show types tax dollars to plug administration political views. They have produced with tax dollars and disseminated to many TV news outlets administration agency propaganda videos that have been played in news programs without citing the source of the video clips, leaving viewers thinking that the clips were produced by news investigators or journalists rather than video producers and writers under contract with the administration.

Wednesday, October 04, 2006: The Bush administration has paid reporters to appear on Radio and TV Marti, the US government's anti-Castro media beamed at Cuba.

The US military has also paid for articles to be placed in Iraqi newspapers to appear as if those articles were written by Iraqi or other independent journalists, which they were not. It is all fake news.

All the assertions leading up to the war such as the yellowcake, the mobile weapons labs, the al Qaeda 9-11 attack linkages, the harboring of al Qaeda members that Donald Rumsfeld had said was "bulletproof," the promise that the US would be greeted as liberators showered in flowers, etc., were manipulation and connivance.

Far from liberators

Instead of being greeted as liberators, the Iraqis mistrusted the US from the very start with good reason. Rather than protecting the nation, the US deliberately allowed rampant looting. Also, many dozens of highly educated people such as university professors, medical doctors and teachers, research scientist, archaeologist, etc., were assassinated. This was deliberate neglect by the US.
The antiwar movement was right about what would happen

Don't say that no one said such things were going to happen. There were plenty of people predicting a disaster and quagmire. They were deliberately ignored and drowned out by devils.

Irreplaceable artifacts were looted and destroyed. Those artifacts include tablets that could have shed more and more light upon the roots of Judeo-Christianity. After all, Abraham came from Ur in Iraq.

The Bush-people want to destroy continuity, because continuity has implications beyond what they want the people to care about.

Regardless of whether or not the Iraqi's are Christian-spirit family, there were people with talents and capabilities, gifts from God, needed by the people, who were killed simply because shortsighted, incompetent, people run America.

Innocent ones, little children, have been severely harmed, losing limbs, eyes, hearing, parents and other relatives, all under the terrible and wicked policies and practices of George W. Bush and his US militarists with their pre-World War I, nationalistic, imperialistic, mentalities.

Do not support violent troops

A Zogby International poll of US troops in Iraq as late as February, 2006, indicated that eighty-five percent still believed at that time that the US mission in Iraq was "to retaliate for Saddam's role in the 9-11 attacks." Think about that. It is straight out of Fox News's playbook. Get the people to believe a lie, and be sure emphatically to avoid setting the facts straight after the lie is exposed.

The troops that the neocons are saying must be supported, meaning they must be supported in their mission, don't know what their mission is.
Their real mission is to make the rich richer at the expense of everyone and everything else. We cannot support that mission or the troops in carrying it out. We support peace, not violence.

We understand how they, the troops, have been duped. The fake news, the lies, the Machiavellians, have twisted their minds and hearts. We sympathize, to a degree. Of course, we want troop members to learn and turn, to repent and atone. We support them wholeheartedly in that and all things consistent with it.

The Pentagon and Hollywood

Those troops bought into the violent pro-military video games and the pro-military propaganda movies. They bought into the asinine idea that "might makes right." They bought into the lie that it is cool to use hi-tech weapons to murder people. They were brainwashed by all the lies put out by the hawks.

Why did they buy into the Rambo series of movies, which excused the soldier for being the instrument of wrath, the abomination of desolation, as if each soldier had had no choice?
Why did they buy into amnesia? The US fought that war in Vietnam on a side of expropriation and exploitation that serve always in taking away the voice of the needy.
The US murders the spirit of the Good Samaritan.

Oh, I don't mean that the Communists were the epitome of the Good Samaritan. There were plenty of brutal Communists. Large-e Communism hasn't been practiced yet without violence and coercion. Capitalism is sin, but large-e Communism so far has been sin too, just of another color.

The US had installed puppet, wealthy-class dictators in South Vietnam. That deliberately took away the potential for the voices of the neediest. Capitalists fought hot and cold wars and covert actions against the Communists because the super-rich power elite, the military-industrial complex, valued personal estates above fairness. It still does.

They are ferocious beasts living on theta waves: Predators.

Vietnam War revisionism

It is the worst species of revisionism to put forth that the only thing wrong with the Vietnam War was the antiwar movement. Walter Cronkite, the news anchor of the CBS Evening News from 1962-1981, was right when he announced that the Vietnam War could not be won.

Winning would not have been destroying Hanoi, the capital of North Vietnam at the time and still capital of the unified Vietnam, with a nuclear bomb ten or a hundred times more powerful than the US dropped on Hiroshima, Japan. Winning would not have been any form of wholesale slaughter advocated by the hawks.

That would have been the outcome of an unrestrained spoiled brat throwing a violent temper tantrum because other people were unwilling passively to submit to being treated as dispensable toys in a misguided child's power game. That would have been losing all the way around, as it has been since the beginning of the rebellion against God.

The same truth has been unfolding in Iraq, just as predicted by the prophets who spoke clearly and plainly on the subject well before the US attacked. The pattern of truth cannot be broken. War does not work. Force does not work. Competition does not work. Selfishness does not work. Those things have always been shortsighted. That's basic to the message of Jesus.

The Vietnamese people did not see the US as the US militarists saw themselves. US policy and practices in Vietnam served to confirm many of the things the Communists had been teaching for decades about the inherent unfairness and invidious discrimination in capitalism. Capitalism engenders hostile reactions, not that those hostile reactions are proper, but because capitalism is fundamentally and fatally flawed. It is inherent injustice.

Controlling the message

The conservatives hated Walter Cronkite, just as they hated Edward R. Murrow before him. Murrow had reported war-as-hell more so than anyone before and in a way that debunked the tin soldier, noble warrior, sanitized warfare of nursery stories. He did that rather cautiously. Murrow's greatest moment though was when at CBS Corporation in 1954 he stood up to archconservative-Republican senator Joseph McCarthy. McCarthy had been fabricating much of the Red Scare (anti-Communism) and had been instrumental in Hollywood black listing and other censorship by the capitalist power elite. To the nation's credit, the nation did not completely fall for the obfuscation and half-truths and even wholesale lies of McCarthy.

The ultraconservatives didn't bring down Murrow. Murrow though exposed the ultraconservatives' champion on the merits.

The ultraconservatives never openly went after Walter Cronkite, loved as a father figure of honesty and sincerity ("the most trusted man in America") by the majority of Americans. They did though hate Cronkite. They saw him as being in the tradition of a long line of journalists going back through the muckrakers who exposed the sins of unbridled capitalism.

Under Cronkite, CBS News showed in graphic detail the horrible civil-rights abuses against the Blacks, especially in the South. They showed the environmental problems. They showed the deep poverty still in the country. They covered in detail the horrors of the Vietnam War. They didn't mince words about Nixon and the Watergate cover-up. They showed the student unrest from the students' side. They weren't afraid to show unarmed civilians being machine gunned by the dozens on the steps of churches in Latin America by rightwing, military, police states supported by the US government. The conservatives also hated the coverage of equal rights movement.

The ultraconservatives really hated Eric Sevareid doing editorials on the CBS Evening News until 1977. Sevareid's editorials were arguably the pinnacle of American liberal-leaning television. He had a long run with CBS Corporation and CBS was dominant at the time. He was telling the truth to the American people each evening around dinnertime.

Of course, CBS Corporation didn't have the vision to spin off its News division into a twenty-four hour news service. That lack of vision cost it dearly as CNN and others showed up on the scene. The CBS Evening News no longer had the corporate financial backing to do the kind of research and fact-checking that it once had been able to do under Cronkite. That was the plan of the corporatists who wanted to emasculate CBS News for its heresy or anti-orthodoxy concerning the military-industrial complex.

As for Cronkite's retiring from CBS, the corporatists at CBS Corporation treated Walter Cronkite in a shabby manner, summarily pushing him out apparently six months early rather than celebrating him. They failed to do any build up. They failed to give him a huge send off. They failed to do primetime retrospectives. They failed to have a formal transitioning to the new anchor. They also failed to replace him with Roger Mudd, who seemed perfectly groomed and best suited for the handoff. As a result, CBS News quickly sank to the bottom of the major networks.
Killing public media

The conservatives brought much heat against Morrow and others, but the ire of the conservatives really turned against Bill Moyers.

The spirit of privatization is rebellion against God

A little background: As I mentioned elsewhere in this work, the neoconservatives have undertaken a violent global revolution to privatize literally everything. Privatize means steal. The inheritance of the earth belongs to all God's creatures. Human beings are supposed to be the most enlightened beings of the flesh and spirit on earth. We are supposed to be the stewards, shepherds, vineyardists, arborists, and the like of the earth all for the sake of righteousness. We are supposed to share everything fairly and justly with all of God's creation. The capitalists are dead set against this rule by God. They are prepared to kill and die to take more then their share. Privatizing is the spirit of rebellion against God. It is apostasy. It is evil. It is the satanic spirit: Selfish.

Everything would boil down to having to pay the troll to cross every bridge.

Now, we have the cable medium and satellite medium. Within these media, there is a limited spectrum or bandwidth. It rightly belongs to all the people. Collectively, they have the right to decide how it ought to be used (righteously). It all has to do with use of the commons. There isn't anything that doesn't come through the commons. There is the so-called private sector (the publicly traded corporations owned, operated, and controlled by, and for, the superrich) and there are the public media and then there is public access by various organizations of various forms both profit and nonprofit. The huge corporations hate the public media and public access. They seek to crush it and devour it so as to corner the market (monopolize) for private profit-oriented organizations only, again which the superrich control and from which they become richer while the rest are enslaved to them, literally.

Within the public media in the US, we currently have several entities of note.

The Broadcasting Board of Governors is responsible for governmental, non-military, international broadcasting. This is a propaganda arm of the US government. What goes out on the services run by this organization is not intended for domestic consumption. In fact, it is hoped that the domestic audience will not consume what is going out. The reason for that is because the domestic audience would discern that much of what is pumped out is deliberately false information or what is called disinformation. This is psyops. You see, psyops certainly does not have to come directly from the military. Its budget is larger than for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting yet you don't hear the conservatives complaining. In fact, they are probably profiting through contracts with the system, just as Halliburton doesn't complain about governmental expenditures for illegally occupying foreign nations.

You see, it isn't principle that the capitalists stand on. It's money. If the flow is to them, they're for it. That's all that matters. That's how they keep score. That's what they use to judge the right or wrong of everything—theyir net worth.

The Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB) handles the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) and National Public Radio (NPR).

Here's the deal. Conservatives hate tax dollars being used for the general good. Hypocritically as always, they don't mind, and even advocate for, governmental expenditures on anything that will enhance their personal ability to amass more selfishly (some libertarians excluded). Since PBS was designed to be sure that public affairs programs would not be wiped out by commercial and entertainment programming, many conservatives hate PBS. They have been complaining about it since its inception under Democrat president Lyndon Johnson, who had had a desire to be the best domestic president ever, even to eclipse Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal. If not for the huge Vietnam War mistake, Johnson would have had a great legacy relative to nearly all other presidents. Forget the guns. God is for all butter.

This is where Bill Moyers comes in for the conservative, laissez-faire capitalist hosing. Moyers was too liberal for the corporate media. Moyers was looking for real answers. He didn't want to just accept the orthodoxy of the power elite. In looking for the truth and seeking to get viewers to think, he gave space in his program for wide-ranging voices. Of course, the power elite cannot allow that. Unrestricted questions and answers at the grassroots leads to thoughts of sharing and cooperation. That's not capitalism. That’s democracy. So they targeted Moyers.

Kenneth Tomlinson was appointed to the board of directors of the CPS by Bill Clinton. The board must have a certain number of Republicans on it even during a Democrat presidency and vice versa. George W. Bush elevated Tomlinson to chair the board. Tomlinson is a close associate of the infamous Karl Rove. He is a Fox News type neocon. His agenda, as with Rove and Bush, are to kill public media and access. To do that, he attacked them at their strength, meaning where they are most able to expose conservative abuses. That meant targeting Bill Moyers. PBS pulled funding for the program Now with Bill Moyers. They worked on that while creating new decidedly conservative platforms in the form of the Wall Street Journal’s Paul Gigot’s PBS show, Journal Editorial Report and a little earlier, Tucker Carlson: Unfiltered. Gigot has since moved to Fox News and Carlson to MSNBC.

The plan is ultimately to end all public funding and, hence, all public broadcasting. As a result of the attack, Moyers left PBS. However, Tomlinson shot himself in the foot in the process, since he use typical conservative corrupt practices to do it. This sticks out more here than elsewhere, because he did it in the well-financed territory of those who believe in the mission of public media for public interest programming and access. Tomlinson was forced out of his position at the CPB.

The public media are charged with being objective. Conservatives have been attacking it as partisan. Moyers aired both sides of many issues. Fox News does not. However, many conservatives will say Fox is not partisan and is fair, objective, and balanced while claiming that Moyers was not.

As for the Fox News motto of "fair and balanced," they lie, blatantly. It's their philosophy, remember. Lying is right according to them. Lie for the Empire. Lie for greed. After all, according to them, the underclass is stupid. It will always fall for the lies of the rich. This is the philosophy of the Pharisees Jesus exposed.

This is not an endorsement of all of Bill Moyers' views. He is a traditional patriot.

We, however, know that the US Constitution and the people are not synonymous. The US Constitution was born in, and is sustained by, violence and coercion. It didn't come from real people. It came from the false. We disagree, for instance, with Max Weber's assertion that the government has a monopoly on the legitimate use of physical force. We disagree that any human entity has a right, let alone a monopoly, to use violence. Violence is false, a mistake, deception, faithless.

Overthrowing evil

We oppose human beings violently overthrowing the US Constitution. We oppose deliberately looking for times and places to cause civil disobedience or to undertake passive resistance (of anything but temptation to cause harm) as the means to the end that is the kingdom of heaven. Jesus didn't use those tactics or advocate them. He couldn't help but disobey the civil authorities in terms of their edicts that contradicted the spirit and letter of the law those authorities were sworn to uphold. He could only follow the highest law from which all the so-called lesser laws are held out to derive.

We are for actively bringing in the kingdom by the constant example of doing the work of the Good Samaritan. Try as they might, the Calvinists can’t outlaw being the Good Samaritan. They have been trying to say that anyone aiding an illegal alien or undocumented immigrant even lying half-dead by the side of the road in the US would be committing a felony. Any such law would not stand the test of constitutionality (free exercise of religious duty to aid others). That means being the Good Samaritan is always legal, even mundanely. The religious faith of the real Christian requires the Christian to render aid. This is not to say that those who practice non-violent civil disobedience and passive resistance are not doing the lesser evil. The greater evil has historically belonged to those against whom such tactics have been aimed.

The Pentagon and Hollywood, continued

The power elite want to control the message. They want to change people's perceptions. They want to overwrite truth. They want the error of the Vietnam War to appear as the decision not to wipe out all the Vietnamese rather than appear to lose. They want to kill public media. They want everything privatized so that they can control it for the sake of the superrich getting even richer and to hell with everyone else. They want to lure the youth into hell. They put out bait. Then the trap is sprung.

The demons were angels who were themselves lured and fell for the bait and now work for evil's sake baiting others. They do it for the temporary rewards of falsehood.

If all of this has been known, why did the US youth culture turn from antiwar to buying into Top Gun, which was a recruiting film for the US Navy? Why did they buy into HBO's Band of Brothers, which was a pure propaganda film? It was scripted with the US Army and the Army's public relations firm, Manning, Selvage & Lee (MS&L), owned by the huge French advertising, marketing, public relations, transnational corporation Publicis Groupe. MS&L was also instrumental in developing the 2004 false US documentary entitled Voices of Iraq, which continued to put forth, among other falsehoods, the unsubstantiated claim that Saddam Hussein had funded al Qaeda.

In addition to Top Gun and Band of Brothers, the following movies received free military equipment use, military cooperation, base use, script change orders, etc., all to make the military look good for recruiting (fool the youth by hiding the truth that war is hell, literally), to stimulate budget increases, to psych out potential adversaries, to boost morale, to further the military-industrial-complex profits, and on and on:

A Few Good Men, Air Force One, Apollo 13, Black Hawk Down, From Here to Eternity, G.I. Jane, Pearl Harbor, Stripes, The Great Santini, The Green Berets,
The Hunt for Red October, The Jackal, The Right
Stuff, The Tuskegee Airmen, Top Gun, and Tora Tora Tora!

It is diabolical to manipulate impressionable minds to slaughter.

Heartbreak Ridge received Military aid up front, but Clint Eastwood failed to remove a war-crime scene, so the military withdrew support. From Here to Eternity was made before the extreme sanitization efforts took effect.

The military saves the movie companies hundreds of millions of dollars and gives the movies access to real equipment (even aircraft carriers) that cannot otherwise be utilized. The movie makers though have to agree to accept every change that the Pentagon wants. Nothing that will hamper the Pentagon's image-propaganda will be allowed to stay in any film.

In this way, Hollywood becomes a recruiting arm for the Pentagon. It becomes a propaganda machine deceiving the youth, leading them into literally becoming hypnotized demons. It does it all ultimately for the love of mammon and the sin that money buys, all of which Jesus preached against.

The following films would not cave into the military's censorship so apparently they didn't receive any aid from the Pentagon:

An Officer and a Gentleman, Apocalypse Now, Catch 22, Dr. Strangelove, Forrest Gump, Platoon, Sgt. Bilko, and Thirteen Days.

Is home hell or heaven?

There is a constant tug of nostalgia. It is a longing to return home. It is literally homesickness. The word "nostalgia" means "homesickness."

People want to belong. They grasp onto falsehood for comfort, for reassurance. The Pentagon and parts of Hollywood play off this lost and longing emotion. They lure people with an image of security and justness. They appeal on the basis of all sorts of correct emotions that their false master above endlessly twists for selfish, evil means and ends: Ravening wolf in sheep's clothing.

Unfortunately, the vast majority of people at the beginning of the twenty-first century don't understand what home truly is. They want to go backwards but not all the way home, which is really all the way to the state of heaven for those who will accept it and act accordingly.

For the most part, people seek comfort in false traditions so that the answers and new feelings and thoughts that come out of honest seeking do not disturb them in their desired complacency. They seek comfort in a false past that they have been given to imagine was a time their minds were less confounded. They've forgotten how lost they were. They fight off being reminded. Unfortunately, they fight off the light.

That is where Jesus stopped. He didn't attempt to beat it into them, because the moment he would have attempted that is the moment he would have been in the dark and beating others into that darkness. So, his words and deeds of truth are sufficient. He finds all the findable. The souls sort themselves. There is nothing else that a child of God is to do.
Pentagon antichrist

The Pentagon and those in Hollywood who kowtow to the dark, worldly Empire teach all the opposite from Jesus. That makes them antichrist by definition. They put darkness for light.

Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness. (Isaiah 5:20).

See it for what it is. See them for who they are. If you are one of them, if you have been lured and taken the bait, convert. It is never too late if you will see the light.

The counterculture and antiestablishment movement

In recent history, we see the theme of a false nostalgia in the shortsighted conservative-traditionalist backlash (in the forms of the Reagan revolution and the current neocon insurgency) after the Nixon debacle and all the attending searching in the stream of consciousness that was, and remains, the counterculture and antiestablishment movement. As seen with the Pharisees, Sadducees, scribes, many publicans, and other traditionalists of the worldly empire spirit going back to the liar from the beginning, Jesus was part of the counterculture and antiestablishment movement of his time. As the Pharisees and Sadducees and Hellenized Romans and others held sway over the mainstream culture of the day, Jesus saw himself as a counter to them and an opposing voice for love and peace, which are the truth and are God. Jesus was the voice of true home.

Christianity within, not the whole of, counterculture and antiestablishment

Together, the counterculture and antiestablishment movement constitute a set that holds Christianity while also holding other subsets which, unlike Christianity, are false paths. The whole set is a matter of point of view. God's and Satan's respective points of view diverge and are actually diametrically opposite. In the final analysis, regardless of all the seeming paradoxes, ambiguities, and the satanic use of the same terms God uses (but within a different context, from a different spirit), God and Satan don't see eye to eye. They don't have a meeting of the minds. In fact, the point at which they diverge is infinite. The difference is what matters, not the mundane, false overlap.

This is not merely an analogy concerning the human spirit. The story is not merely a mythical allegory. The names "God" and "Satan" stand for actual things. God is actually perfect. Satan is actually error-ridden. God is real life. Satan is death. Jesus is with God. The Pentagon is with Satan. All militancy is with Satan.

The spirit of Jesus really heals people, makes them whole and real (being the same things), by his connectedness with the real and living spirit who is God. The spirit of the Pentagon has never been able to do that and never will.
Once heaven is the culture and establishment here and now, there will be no counterculture or antiestablishment. Until heaven comes, one must be counterculture and antiestablishment. Until heaven and earth conflate, the culture and establishment are satanic, error-ridden, death.

This is not the same thing as being against the law and against order. Heaven is the law and is order, perfect law and perfect order.

Traditions of men, not God

Remember that the traditionalists seek to return to places far short of that home, state, condition, realm, and sovereignty. Their traditions are of men and not God.

From Satan's perspective, which is by definition the incorrect perspective, the current status quo of humanity is right. He has it upside down. He overthrew God in his, Satan's, mind. He didn't like the restraints of righteousness. He desired to be selfish, so he lusted in the wrong direction and regretfully became a selfish drunk, addict, and insatiable glutton concerning all manner of temptations he authorized himself. This is what is meant by the fat spirit, the spirit of fatness.

Now, all the traditions that have built up and that don't go all the way to heaven have within them seeds of this perspective of Satan that inevitably leads to the regrettable harvest.

So, how did the shortsightedness manifest out of the conservative-traditionalist backlash after the Nixon debacle and all the attending searching in the stream of consciousness that was, and remains, the counterculture and antiestablishment movement? It manifested in the resurgence of the insurgency of Satan that is the cultural dominance of selfishness. It manifested in the misdirection of minds away from the focus (the single vision) that is righteousness. It manifested throughout the culture as a direct result of the emotions, thoughts, words, and deeds of those who were and remain enemies to Christ. Everything and anything that facilitates the worldly way is part of it. In addition to all the Hollywood military-industrial complex handouts and cooperation leading the youth astray and into the hands of Satan, we see many, many examples of the false piper.

After Nixon was exposed for his and the nation's confusion regarding law and order and safety and national security, after the peace movement had rightly been led toward the pacifist message that could have led all the way to the new commandment (the real law) had there not been attending fitness in the form of intoxication in selfish pursuits such as drug abuse and sexual promiscuity and other libertinism, after Nixon and many of his detractors had all proven wrong, rather than seek and knock with greater enthusiasm (salty flavor), most of the seekers grew tired of vigilance. Those who had hated the seeking all along hatched schemes to make future seeking all the harder. The cultural of the military-industrial complex crept in again.

Martial arts

Fighting as a method for settling disputes kept roaring with a vengeance from outside the counterculture message of peace and love.
Those who had never been a part of the movement or who forsook it brought us the current culture. Pro-war, martial arts, cop and other movies, dealt with violence as the means to defeat the even darker mentality. Oriental martial arts were particularly chosen for the link to supposed spirituality. Of course, everything exists within a spiritual context. However, martial arts were an exploit of the search by many within the counterculture movement for an answer to what they saw as the hypocrisy and lack of fulfillment in mainstream American Christianity. Many within the counterculture looked to the East and especially Eastern mysticism for answers. The Buddhist connection with martial arts was especially used as an exploit to lure the antiestablishment crowd back into the fold of the military-industrial complex.

The culture was turned to continue serving the message of evil that violence can be glorious and heroic. It served to sanitize the entrance to hell and desensitize minds to the descent to early steps leading to the place where the foot slides and the fall becomes a free fall into utter darkness. It proselytized to the young. It tempted the young. It aided in the fall of the young. Demons did it—unclean spirits.

Where are the body bags?

In 1983, many youths at the end of their teen years where swept up by Reaganism, brought to them by their parents, many of whom sat out the counterculture. When I asked one such teen why he was in the ROTC (Reserve Officers'

---

0/the_worst_president_in_history

"... the most scandal-ridden administration in the modern era, apart from Nixon's [and before Bush-43's], was Ronald Reagan's, now widely remembered through a haze of nostalgia as a paragon of virtue. A total of twenty-nine Reagan officials, including White House national security adviser Robert McFarlane and deputy chief of staff Michael Deaver, were convicted on charges stemming from the Iran-Contra affair, illegal lobbying and a looting scandal inside the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Three Cabinet officers -- HUD Secretary Samuel Pierce, Attorney General Edwin Meese and Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger -- left their posts under clouds of scandal. In contrast, not a single official in the Clinton administration was even indicted over his or her White House duties ...."

Training Corps), he told me, "You had your war. Now it's our turn." I knew he was too young to remember the nightly news images of body bags. He hadn't heard the mounting body counts. He hadn't heard about the lies and distortions that took the US into Vietnam. I knew he had been brainwashed by the cultural twisting of the neocon Reaganites who wanted youths duped as cannon fodder so they, the elite, could make more money.

Now, here we are in the Iraq War with all the youth coming home deliberately hidden from view by the mainstream media so that the terrible nightmare that youth has gone through and is going through is not told to the rest of society. All the predictable symptoms of trauma are being covered over. All the body bags are being hidden. Flag-draped coffins are kept off
TV. All the cripples are hidden. I say cripples, because political correctness plays into the hands of the militarists in this case. The numbers of dead and maimed on all sides both in the military and not, are deliberately missing. The images of destruction are missing. It is all on purpose so that the youth at home who have not yet come of age or who have not yet made up their minds may be lured by the evil tempters who are the military recruiters and their bosses. They make the publicans of old look like saints.

We repudiate that culture, the dominant culture of today, the culture of militarism, materialism (both anti-spiritual and economic), mammon worship, and sexual promiscuity. Had the world turned to the light rather than the dark message of militarism and false safety and false national security, the world would have been that much closer to heaven by now.

Too sophisticated to be duped?

If you doubt that the government uses culture in ways that are too subtle for you to discern and be duped, perhaps you should be made aware of the history of the Congress for Cultural Freedom (CCF). It was a huge CIA front from 1950-1966 for promoting culture {the arts and (ostensible) intellectual debate} the Nazis and especially the Stalinists in the Soviet Union didn't like. They were headquartered in Paris, France. The CIA deliberately promoted leftist but anti-Communist arts. CIA covert funds were channeled through different fronts such as the Museum of Modern Art in New York and the Guggenheim Foundation. This was all part of the culture war for cultural dominance aimed at the self-styled sophisticates, highbrows, city slickers supposedly too slick to be taken in. They were taken in, in droves. The arts have great power over the minds of people.

When the program was leaked, the Johnson administration publicly disassociated itself.

Of course, such funding continues through tax deductions for the superrich and other means.

Now, the arts and debate sound to be something that Americans can get behind to support. It depends upon the ultimate goal. That's how the means are judged. The ends do justify the means. The ends were not completely open, honest, direct debate arriving at the absolute truth. Therefore, the means were dishonest also.

This does not excuse Stalinism of course. The way to confront any ideology is openly, honestly, and directly. Jesus did that the best way possible to have the absolute truth be the result of his actions.

The CIA's approach was cowardly as was Stalin's. This is the point. The dichotomy between the CIA and the KGB was false.

Capitalism fears Christianity

We need a forum where Christianity may speak to all comers. Then the truth will be out there for each soul to choose or reject. Capitalism is afraid of that forum. It knows it would lose.
We make ourselves the spirit we choose

We are our culture. We make it. It reflects us. It makes us if we choose it. It is humanity tempting to evil or it is repulsive depending upon whether one listens to and follows the spirit of darkness or the spirit of light—the essence of evil or the essence of righteousness. Many see this as a paradox.

They see that we make our reality by what we make most conscious. Therefore, they conclude, reality has no absolute or essential right or wrong. They don't understand that the spirit exists and is alive beyond the biology of science, beyond the flesh.

Marxism's mistake

When Karl Marx (1818–1883) and Friedrich Engels (1820–1895) wrote, "Life is not determined by consciousness, but consciousness by life," they were trapped by the material world. They hated the hierarchical church so much that sucked up to the corrupt ruling, upper class down through the ages, culminating in the capitalist class that supplanted the nobility and aristocracy, that Marx and Engels rejected the message of Jesus Christ that was also opposed to that sucking up but was also a clearer voice for the right direction than were the voices of Marx and Engels who wanted more credit than belongs to them. They picked a side in a false dichotomy. They picked material over spirit. They picked matter over mind rather than the spirit of righteousness over matter.
So, the youth are taken in, as are the old and ostensibly sophisticated, by all sides on the same false plane of consciousness: Capitalism, Communism, Islam, etc. What are the young militarists going to do about it now? Are they going to insist upon being honored for their mistaken sacrifice? They were warned by Jesus not to join the military. They were warned not to follow the bloodthirsty and vengeful. They did though. They refused to listen. Now will they want to be glorified? Will they expect a ticker-tape parade with unanimous accolades? How long do they imagine it will take before people start spitting in their faces? The only appropriate response to those who fell to militarism is pity but no honor. Honor belongs to God and Jesus.

Honor what?

Honor the fallen violent soldier. No. He or she died for your freedom. Wrong. It is all falsehood. It is a lie. They were duped by the liar from the beginning. Have sympathy for them in their ignorance, being taken in by the slippery ones. That's the golden rule.

Honor the fallen martyrs of peace. Yes. They died for your freedom. Yes. That's the truth. They saw through the lies and live with God.

War isn’t what God wanted. It isn’t what God asked for. Mercy is what God still asks for.

Do not support violent troops, continued

Do I support the troops? I absolutely do not support the troops in anyway that the neocons mean by the term "support." To support them in any way that is intended by the neocons is to be complicit in murder and the total deception of those troops. What I support is for the troops to wake up and refuse to fight. I support their decision to go to the brig rather than fire another round. I support their decision to repent for having ever fallen to the temptations of the devil. I support their decision to apply for conscientious objector status wherever they are in the military.

How duped are those troops? How can people join the military to fight, main, be maimed, kill, and die, sacrificing others and themselves, for people who deceive them so badly? So much of the youth of the nation has been put into a stupor by the ROTC (Reserve Officers' Training Corps) on high school and college campuses and all the military public relations and advertising making the military out to be some great thing when it is really a deceptive monster.

Universal Soldier

Buffy Sainte-Marie wrote a song entitled Universal Soldier that sums it up perfectly. The lyrics are as follows:

He's five feet two,
And he's six feet four.
He fights with missiles and with spears.
He's all of 31,
And he's only 17.
He's been a soldier for a thousand years.
He's a Catholic, a Hindu, an atheist, a Jain,
A Buddhist and a Baptist and a Jew.
And he knows he shouldn't kill,
And he knows he always will Kill you for me my friend and me for you.

And he's fighting for Canada.
He's fighting for France.
He's fighting for the USA.
And he's fighting for the Russians.
And he's fighting for Japan.
And he thinks we'll put an end to war this way.

And he's fighting for Democracy.
He's fighting for the Reds.

He says it's for the peace of all.
He's the one who must decide who's to live and who's to die,
And he never sees the writing on the walls.

But without him, how would Hitler have condemned him at Dachau?
Without him, Caesar would have stood alone.
He's the one who gives his body as a weapon to a war,
And without him all this killing can't go on.

He's the universal soldier,
And he really is to blame.
His orders come from far away no more.
They come from him and you and me;
And brothers can't you see,
This is not the way we put an end to war.

Many of the troops are turning into baby killers just as many did during the Vietnam War. Support that? Never! We stand foursquare against it.

Even if there are those who refuse orders to kill babies, there are still those behind the missiles, bombs, and artillery shells, etc., that still kill babies who are just out of sight so they are babies out of mind.

Some soldiers refuse indiscriminately to shoot at just anything approaching a checkpoint. They refuse to spray everything that moves on the street. They want to be sure they are targeting the guilty and not killing and injuring the innocent.

It isn't good enough! Read the Gospels!

We don't support anyone who chooses to go to war to destroy, and maim, and kill in the name of capitalism or anything else. When they repent and atone in earnest, God will forgive them. If they don't, even though they heard the word of God to turn the other cheek, who will know them when they are at the door asking to come in? If Jesus won't, neither will we.
The Pentagon buys souls with lies

The Pentagon spends about a billion and a half US dollars a year on luring, baiting, recruiting the poor, undereducated, unemployed, or underemployed, especially minorities. To get minions to do the savage work of the ultra-greedy, they make all sorts of promises that they never keep. They put a glossy façade over the utter abomination that is militarism. They appeal to the baser spirit. They tempt the weak, violent spirited to fall. At the same time, the ultra-rich move to cut the pay of the lowest ranks in the military. They move to cut benefits, reduce hospitals, and raise drug costs for those currently in the military as well as the veterans. In other words, they lie to get people to join and then they take as much advantage as possible of those spiritually weak enough to join and serve the ultra-rich.

Now, a very bad thing happened when through the Vietnam veterans, military service was re-granted a noble status in the general public mind. That process was a sinister act. It was undertaken by the would-be war-profiteers. It was also pushed by many of the veterans from earlier times and afterwards to avoid their guilt in militarism. It is a selfish mentality that lauds caving into the failure to have the strength of moral character and the courage of that conviction to turn the other cheek as Christ. The universal soldier is always culpable. He or she is always measured against the divine standard of pacifism as exemplified by the real hero: Christ.
Without anyone to cave to the temptation, there would be no war. Everyone who caves in is guilty. He or she is responsible and accountable. It is not something about which to be proud. Pride itself is sin. Giving one's body over to the cause of war, no matter how much that act is wrapped in the notion of self-sacrifice, is inherently a selfish, evil act. Heaven will never be attainable until souls overcome falling to such temptations no matter how much evil is being dished out in any effort to tempt people to fall. This is why it takes the greatest strength there is not to retaliate even against those who torture and kill one's babies before one's very eyes. It is a supreme act of faith in God not to cave into evil to fight evil.

More neocon lies about Saddam Hussein

Iraq and Saddam Hussein had not sponsored al Qaeda. The neocons simply took advantage of the 9-11 circumstances to assert their empire-building plans under the Wolfowitz Doctrine. They wanted, and still want, to start numerous small to middling wars around the world to project US power to end states to replace regimes with US puppets. It's ego. It's lust in their members. Behind it all though is the money of those who pay for all the neocon think tanks and public-relations people to gain control over minds and markets.

The so-called long-range, unmanned, aerial vehicles were worse than a decent remote-control plane hobbyist could build out of a local hobby shop. The mobile labs were for conventional civilian purposes.

None of this is to say that Iraq had zero weapons. It is to say that George W. Bush had no evidence or even reasonable grounds for suspicions for going to war even under the usual, low, mundane historical standards America has used for going into certain wars. This is another extremely low, conservative point in American history.

The Office of Special Plans would reword things to make them sound certain. Where the CIA would categorize something as a lead, worthy of further investigation, the Office of Special Plans would represent the unsubstantiated as conclusive evidence or proof-positive. They took all of those leads, some over a decade old and relevant only to pre-weapons-inspected Iraq, and packaged them to win over public opinion. They manufactured a landslide of false leads so that concocted landslide would appear as the overwhelming preponderance of evidence. They hoped they’d find some incriminating hard evidence after the invasion, but they were willing to go ahead whether or not any such evidence would turn up. They believed, and still believe, that they are in a chess match that will last thirty to one hundred years or more. They were banking on their supporters not being willing to hold them to account for their deception, because it would prove embarrassing for those supporters. They were banking upon the deep, moral corruption of the willing. They weren’t counting on any lasting indignation.
They cited as proof-positive the statements of known to be unreliable Iraqi exiles such as the Iraqi National Congress and Ahmed Chalabi. Ahmed Chalabi had also been a student of Albert Wohlstetter, Richard Perle's neoconservative mentor. That's how Chalabi and Perle met. It was on account of that relationship that Chalabi's blatantly false intelligence information found its way directly into the president's speeches. Even though the CIA distrusted Chalabi's information, Newt Gingrich, former speaker of the United States House of Representatives and a member of the Pentagon's Defense Policy Board and the American Enterprise Institute, along with others stayed high on Chalabi since he was feeding them what they wanted to hear.

In January of 1997 while he was serving as Speaker, Newt Gingrich was reprimanded by the full House of Representatives for ethics violations. It was the most serious reprimand ever leveled against a Speaker. We of course believe in forgiveness; however, Mr. Gingrich, rather than repenting having seen the connection between his political philosophy and his ethics reprimand, continued, and still continues, to date to pursue the conservative, antichristian agenda.

The forgiveness afforded him is the forgiveness afforded the unrepentant. As a warning about consequences, we remind Newt, all others, and ourselves of the words of Jesus Christ:

Cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.
(Matthew 25:30).

No one wishes this on anyone. Jesus didn't wish this on anyone. It is just the way of it. It is the consequence of evil. It is the truth. It doesn't come out of the spirit of coercive threats. We are all free to abide. Jesus wants us to be merciful so that we will be shown mercy. This is the golden rule. Jesus is not vengeful.

Newt Gingrich must become a profitable Christian. He must renounce the methods of the Office of Special Plans. He knows full well that that office was set up by Rumsfeld to be outside the official intelligence community so the US Congress would not have immediate oversight. He knows full well that there was no intelligence failure by the traditional intelligence community. There was a moral failure and a scapegoating of those who had been deliberately kept out of the loop, because they weren't willing to knowingly lie. The Office of Special Plans just flat out lied in order to build empire. He knows this. They all know this.

Mundane impunity only

What's the difference between the White House Plumbers (Special Investigations Unit of 1971) during the Richard Nixon administration and the Office of Special Plans under Rumsfeld and Bush-43?

Nixon's Plumbers were allegedly about national security. Nixon figured anything he was doing as president was a matter of national security. The Plumbers did some activities that were illegal, unless one buys into the argument that whatever the president deems is national security trumps all other considerations.

Nixon's people broke into the Watergate offices of the Democratic Party and they broke into Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. Those break-ins were to protect national security according to Nixon's thinking.

Well, the Bush-43 people have stood on the same thin ice. If Bush lied about the reasons for going to war with Iraq, it was for national security. He's the president, and the president decides foreign policy and what is national security and what is classified, etc. His is the last word on the subject.

Well, the difference lies entirely in partisan politics. The Democrats controlled the Congress when Nixon was the president and the Republicans have controlled it under Bush-43. Constitutionally, no one can touch the president except the Congress. So, if the Republican-controlled Congress looks the other way while Bush lies to take the nation to war, the people get the leader they choose by following him. If the Congress doesn't care that the Office of Special Plans was the fabrication mill that it was, that's what living in a spiritually divided house wrought.

You don't imagine that you're going coercively to legislate and enforce morality do you? Jesus knew that that wasn't going to happen.

So long as the president and the Congress agree on it, there are no statutes, no matter how seemingly sacrosanct, that can check, per se, the president's power.
This comes down to a power struggle over Caesar's legacy and just how daring people are willing to become.

It is among the highest of crimes to take nations into war by fabricating intelligence, having political appointees doctor intelligence reports, sending raw (unvetted) statements by discredited opportunists directly into speeches and talks to the American people given by the leaders in the Cabinet and others and by the vice president and president and to the entire planet via the United Nations.

If they don't repent and atone (pay the ransom), even if they aren't held to account by the human race in the here and now, they will reap in the hereafter what they sowed here.

They have made this world more hellish and dead of the Holy Spirit of truth.

The president knew that the reports coming out of the Office of Special Plans were generated in a false manner. He was right on board with getting any pretext to go to war. He was driving it. He was ordering people to come up with any pretext. He knew that career intelligence-experts were not the source for the intelligence, the information had not gone through the vetting process, and the CIA analysts were split over interpretation even before the Office of Special Plans doctored the information. His director of the CIA told Bush of that split. George Tenet testified to that.

The president also had his secretary of state, Colin Powell, deliver a report to the Security Council of the United Nations based upon all the fabrications, unsubstantiated statements, and mere suspicions.

They recklessly took nations to war. They have made the world worse. They have not recanted. They are still insisting that the whole process did not constitute lying. They have since denied that they said they were positive about the information they were passing off on the whole world. They used very old information. They left out the fact that it was old. They deliberately ignored newer information that showed the situation had changed and that the old information was an inappropriate basis for war. They knowingly and deliberately gave the American people and the world a misleading impression.

Lies too about hurricane Katrina

The lies about Iraq and Saddam Hussein are just as with hurricane Katrina where he claimed that no one had told him the levees could breach. Then, we all were shown on national TV the leaked proof that he had been lying bald-faced about that. His testimony to the people was impeached. He and others attempted to scapegoat the director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), Michael D. Brown, who, unlike CIA director George Tenet had done, was unwilling to fall on his sword to cover caesar’s inept game plan.

Michael D. Brown though hasn't come clean as to why he was chosen to head that agency with zero experience in emergency management. Follow the money. Who put him there and why?
Lies and Christ don't mix

George W. Bush wanted to go to war. He had always hoped that things would fall into place so he could gain and spend political capital that historically had been given to presidents in times of war. He said so to his biographer before the election of 2000. He also said after he was elected that now he's unaccountable to anyone. Does he or doesn't he believe in God?

He is sort of holding out for history to vindicate him, although he's not very worried about it since he'll be dead, as he's stated. History will not vindicate him though, because he doesn't care. It is the typical conservative reaction to this life. He doesn't care that he is creating an even more violent future in which other people, innocent children, will try to live. He isn't living the golden rule. There's no mercy in it. He'll be dead, but he doesn't take the time to understand what that means. He's being dead of the spirit of truth now. He's doing all of this in the name of Christianity. It's very cynical. He's read the scripture. He's studied it. How can it be?

He started with scripture looking for answers. He found the answers that served him. He could ride to power on the worldly evangelicals. His front was lip service. His heart has remained Machiavellian, whether he's bothered to look or not.

Worldly government and heaven don't mix

Now, the illegitimate government, and it is illegitimate, is spying on, infiltrating, and attempting to intimidate into silence, those who dissent whether they are violent or nonviolent. The system is being used by the deceptive to protect their selfish interest in the perpetuation of a system built upon deception. It is circular evil and the direct result of the same spirit that murdered Jesus Christ. The system is not being used to get to the root cause of evil. It is being used as the instrument of that root cause: Selfishness.

It is all diplomacy, statesmanship, noble lies (ignoble), white lies, the world as a chessboard, and the nations reduced to being no more than inanimate objects consisting of people reduced to being no more than beasts of burden or pieces of the equipment in the war machine. Yet, these self-styled statesman call each other brilliant. The system grants them degrees and titles and rank and prestige and honor and tribute and on and on. Have they no shame? There faces were hard and bold leading up to the war in Iraq. When will their heads be hung low? They must be stopped by conscience or continue freefalling into the bottomless pit. It is a conscious and subconscious conspiracy. They must wake up.

These characters are more sinister than others. They are conniving to lead people astray. They are rationalizing away their hypocrisy by appealing to people to accept hypocrisy as inevitable, as human nature, as something simply to use and check without the expectation of elimination.

These people get into the habit of conjuring up things to say which things are designed to help them win in the popularity contest within their given group's mindset rather than focusing upon the genuine questions and seeking the real answers, not just posturing. It is an affected mentality. It is a contrived emotional condition. Their behavior and speech is crafty, treacherous, and irresponsible.

We can understand though how people who really aren't good managers get into high places. What do the people deserve in the aggregate? The leaders are a satanic reflection of what the people have made of themselves collectively. If you want to be led correctly as a nation and as the human race, then as a whole nation and humanity, stand corrected by the truth.

The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the LORD, make straight in the desert a highway for our God. (Isaiah 40:3).

More neocon lies about Saddam Hussein

The Bush-43 administration via Colin Powell and Condi Rice had openly claimed before 9-11 that Saddam Hussein did not pose a threat, that he was contained, that his capacity for undertaking any programs for the development of weapons of mass destruction had been eliminated. It wasn't until after 9-11 that the story abruptly changed. Powell and Rice were ordered to bring all further statements into conformity with the written pre-9-11 neocon agendum of taking over Iraq at the first pretext salable to the brainwashed. Suddenly, Powell and Rice were lying about intelligence. They both knew it full well. The president's entire inner circle knew exactly that the intelligence was twisted with half-truths and wholesale lies to fit the neocon agenda of global militant capitalist revolution.

Remember, Donald Rumsfeld said immediately after 9-11 that there aren't any good targets in Afghanistan and that the US should attack Iraq, even though they had no proof Iraq had been involved with, or in any way responsible for, or would have wanted, or agreed with, 9-11.

President George W. Bush's directives and handling in all of this is simply indicting.

'I was once again taken aback, incredulous, and it showed. 'But Mr. President, al Qaeda did this.'

'I know, I know, but ... see if Saddam was involved. Just look. I want to know any shred ...'

'Absolutely, we will look ... again.'
I was trying to be more respectful, more responsive. 'But, you know, we have looked several times for state sponsorship of al Qaeda and not found any real linkages to Iraq. Iran plays a little, as does Pakistan, and Saudi Arabia, Yemen.'—Richard A. Clarke Career professionals, such as Richard A. Clarke, former US terrorism czar, who served under four presidents, were sidestepped intentionally in favor of inexperienced, ulterior-motive, neoconservative, think-tank appointees, because the career professionals would not have conjured up the impression of linkages the president and his top henchmen were demanding for their public pretext for war.

When Richard Clarke submitted a report that there was no evidence in the government's possession that al Qaeda had been sponsored by Iraq, the report came back with the message "Wrong answer... Do it again."

Now any child knows what that means. An incredulous child may baulk, but the reality of what is being asked would not be lost on him or her. They were flat out telling Richard Clarke to lie for them. He was told to lie consistent with the entire picture of the president's directives and handling of the entire matter to give the president public, political cover for taking the nation to war. There is no other way to take it. They knew that the supporting evidence for any such lie would never be scrutinized in public, because they could always claim national security, executive privilege, separation of powers, etc, deeply classify all such evidence, make up more evidence to support their position, and generally wear down the investigators who would be pressed to look the other way because the nation supposedly would not be able to withstand having another president resign in disgrace.

Richard Clarke wasn't the only one to expose George W. Bush's preexisting plan to invade Iraq at his first opportunity of any pretext for plausible deniability. Paul O'Neill, Bush's treasury secretary during the beginning of Bush's first term in office wrote after resigning that from the very first National Security Council meeting of the president, the desire and plan to invade Iraq were very clear.

We have Bush's own primary-campaign-debate statement that he'd invade.

We have his campaign biographer's statements to that effect.

We have the meeting of Condoleezza Rice and certain senators where Bush said he was going to take out the Iraqi leader.

We have Misters Clarke and O'Neill respectively testifying to George's preexisting desire and aggressive search for bolstering his pretext.

We have the Bush-43 administration attempting to get Mr. Clarke to fabricate intelligence.

We have the Bush-Blair memo that Bush wanted to bomb Al Jazeera. Now that doesn't speak directly to Bush's having already planned to invade Iraq at his first pretext, but it speaks to his overall temperament, disposition, and personality about where he draws lines concerning the use of violence and death and destruction, etc. We know that there is not what people would call hard evidence in the public eye concerning the Al Jazeera bombings. I will have more to say about Al Jazeera and the bombings elsewhere in this work. But let me say here that even though former US Army general Tommy Franks, in charge of the US invasion of Afghanistan against the Taliban and al Qaeda, stated in writing that Al Jazeera in Kabul, Afghanistan "had repeatedly been the location of significant al-Qa'ida activity," that was not an admission of deliberate targeting. It was though to say at the very least that even if the US had targeted Al Jazeera, why cry over it? Well, Al Jazeera was in Afghanistan covering the Muslim world and the Taliban certainly was in charge of that Muslim-led nation at the time. Leaving it there might leave the impression that Al Jazeera had been acting as a deliberate mouthpiece for the Taliban. Al Jazeera however should be viewed in the larger context. Al Jazeera has been viewed by many Muslim nations as being too open so much so that it has been kicked out of a number of Islamic states and its staff threatened with death. Truly, the US military, with its intelligence gathering and filtering and analysis capabilities, knew full well that Al Jazeera was acting in the same capacity that CNN (Cable News Network) and many other networks act. The truth is that the US was having a very hypocritical reaction to Al Jazeera's making known the other side of the story. They were spoiling some of the US military propaganda efforts.

The US government under the Bush-43 administration deflects criticisms (such as alleged deliberate bombing of Al Jazeera) by using two approaches simultaneously. Firstly, it denies outright and ridicules the mentality that would even question the administrations motives. Secondly, if pressed, they add that even if they were to have done, or were to do, whatever is alleged or later shown, there would be or was justification. It is duplicitous on its face. Now, if they were to deny the allegation and not add ridicule of the questioning that would be straighter. Also, if they were to then admit the error of their ways when evidence shows up rather than attempting to obfuscate by offering up justification that they were right to have done what they had previously denied that would also be straighter. Rather than do those things, they walk through the crooked gate and down the wide path to hell.

Growing sheep's clothing
As of April, 2006, the neocons have made a tactical shift in their war of words. They are admitting tactical errors in Iraq but insisting that history will judge them strategically correct. They seek to postpone the negative consequences by now sowing seeds that will never germinate. Their actions are painfully selfishly motivated. They are wrong both tactically and strategically forever.

The victor makes the record. It is inevitable that truth wins. Jesus has already been here. There is a final outcome. There is a final destination. This is not to say that people are not mundanely allowed to offer up their rationale for having taken the actions they took. What they are not divinely entitled to do is to be knowingly deceptive in the face of open, honest, direct inquiry and comment.

Even confessing to at first lying and then openly stating that they employed the noble-lie rationale is less deceptive, provided such a revelation wasn't a pre-planned tactic and hence disingenuous. They would in effect be saying that we didn't think the citizenry could handle the truth at the time or they would be saying that they (the government) couldn't allow non-citizens to know the government's motives for the sake of the citizenry. Now, this is the age-old debate of about what, where, when, why, and how to be more candid. We have seen it time and again employed by ruler after ruler.

There is relative candidness, and there is absolute candidness. Absolute is perfect. That state is possible where there is absolute reciprocal trustworthiness, meaning pure motives and, therefore, pure actions and results. We are to be striving toward that goal. Those who do not want to strive in that direction wish to retain a cover going into the future for their planned wrong-doing. They also fear retribution where there ought to be forgiveness, since all have sinned as Jesus showed.

Illusory civil and human rights

The Bush-43 administration claims to be pro-freedom of the press, pro-democracy, pro-liberty, pro-human rights, etc.; however, they are anti-Al Jazeera, bombing them and seeing to it that one of their cameramen is imprisoned. They hated Taysir Allouni, Al Jazeera’s first correspondent in Afghanistan, who is now imprisoned in Spain convicted on the vague charge that he supported al Qaeda. He had interviewed Osama bin Laden at one point. Al Qaeda carried out the 3-11 (March 11, 2004) Madrid train station terrorist bombings. Allouni was swept up in the aftermath without real proof.

The Bush-43 administration has also expressed disdain for recent democratic outcomes in Palestine, Bolivia, Venezuela, Haiti, and elsewhere, which anti-democracy is the apparent motive of the historical conservative-Republican movement.

People talk about having a smoking gun. Well, all wars are a smoking gun. There are, of course, pieces of evidence that are less circumstantial than others.

We have the case of the Bush-Blair memo that Bush wanted to paint planes with the blue color of the UN and fly them over central Iraq in the hope that Iraq would fire on them so Bush would have more pretext for war. That memo also states that both Bush and Blair were planning to go ahead with the invasion of Iraq regardless of the lack of any UN resolutions authorizing invasion and regardless of the outcome of UN weapons inspections.

---

The real United Nations

The UN is supposed to be a real-liberal device to facilitate nations to be Good Samaritan nations.

We see clearly that the Bush-43 administration's power-politics attitude toward the United Nations is very similar to its attitude toward the US Congress in terms of presidential power and authority over the mundane law. This is evident in the statements of the Bush-43 administration's neoconservative, antichrist, ambassador to the United Nations, John Bolton, who said the following:

---

44 December 9, 2006, John Bolton's appointed ended as US ambassador to the UN.
There is no United Nations. There is an international community that occasionally can be led by the only real power left in the world and that's the United States when it suits our interests and when we can get others to go along…. This kind of mindless creation of the United Nations as something different from what's in the United State's interest to do isn't going to sell here or anywhere else…. The United States makes the United Nations work when it wants it to work. And that is exactly the way it should be because the only question, the only question, for the United States is what's in our national interest. And if you don't like that, I'm sorry, but that is the fact.

Real Christianity has it from God that it is in every nation's interest to hold the interest of every other nation and all the nations as of the utmost importance. This is called the golden rule. If John Bolton doesn't like that, I'm sorry for his soul, but that is the fact.

What else do we have that shows the unrepentant heart of conservatism?

We have the hiring of Nazi scientists and all the evidence of the disgusting experiments performed on have-not Americans that the elitist Americans believed were worth less purely by virtue of their being have-nots (just as Jesus was a have-not). They think of human beings within lower economic strata as being commodities wealthy capitalists can expend. Of course the British and Canadians and others engaged in horrific experiments as well and shared the evil findings with their allies and death-squad leaders around the planet who would fight for capitalism and their own private gain in that evil system.

We have the Wolfowitz Doctrine and the Project for the New American Century and all the neocon statements and writings before Bush took office and during his administration.

We have the Office of Special Plans under neocon Donald Rumsfeld that churned out less than half-truths (intended deception of the American people; deliberately leaving out facts necessary for the whole truth to be out in public; the so-called noble lie).

We have the Downing Street Memo, which is now supported by the testimony of Carne Ross, a former British Foreign Office official, whom Democracy Now has paraphrased as saying that at no time did the British government believe that Iraq's WMD capability actually pose a threat to British interests and that any threat by Saddam Hussein had been "effectively contained."45

We have the Yellowcake Forgery.

We have the lies about the weapons of mass destruction, the al Qaeda links, the aluminum tubes for the supposed nuclear-weapons program, the mobile weapons labs, the Iraqi unmanned aerial vehicles, and the chemical- and biological-weapons stockpiles.⁴⁶

"That theme continued right up to the weeks before the invasion. On Jan. 20, 2003, Rumsfeld told an audience at the Reserve Officers Association that Hussein 'has large, unaccounted-for stockpiles of chemical and biological weapons, including VX, sarin, mustard gas, anthrax, botulism and possibly smallpox.'"

"At a Jan. 29, 2003, Pentagon news conference, Rumsfeld said that 'the Iraqi regime has not accounted for some 38,000 liters of botulism toxin, 500 tons of sarin, mustard gas, VX nerve agent, upwards of 30,000 munitions capable of delivering chemical weapons,' along with mobile biological weapons labs."

We have the disinformation leaks to The New York Times.
We have the false link of Iraq with 9-11.
We have the weakest of links, at best, between Saddam Hussein and al Qaeda.
The only thing they have ever come up with is that Abu Musab al Zarqawi had reportedly been treated in a Baghdad hospital after the US war against the Taliban in Afghanistan and that he was in Kurdish-controlled Northern Iraq for many months before the US invasion in March of 2003. Zarqawi is said to have been a rival of al Qaeda and bin Laden at the time. No proof was ever shown that Saddam Hussein had ever even known that Zarqawi was treated in Baghdad. Certainly Saddam and bin Laden were on different sides ideologically. Zarqawi had the same complaints against a Saddam-type regime as did bin Laden. Saddam was never a Salafi jihadist.

We have the lie that the US military would be greeted as liberators by the Iraqis.

We have the falsehood that there would not be much, if any, internecine warfare in Iraq.

We have the statements of George W. Bush to Tony Blair and US televangelist Pat Robertson (vindicated about it) that there would be few if any US casualties.

We have the hunt for Osama bin Laden and al Qaeda and the Taliban, who for sure provided the safe haven for bin Laden and al Qaeda, all but disappearing for the new and seemingly undivided attention paid to securing Iraq’s oil reserves under US domination.

We have the outing of the identity of Valerie Plame in retaliation for her husband’s public criticism concerning the Yellowcake Forgery.

We have George Tenet having testified to the US Congress that the intelligence analysts at the Central Intelligence Agency were pretty much split down the middle concerning the so-called evidence that the Office of Special Plans was pumping out.

We have the statements of highly seasoned career intelligence officers saying how they were pushed aside in favor of policy wonks and yes men brought in cold. These career officers were kept out of the loop, because they didn't subscribe to the neocon agenda.

We have whistleblowers from the National Security Agency, Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Department of Defense. These whistleblowers had uncovered deep-seated pathologies within the US Empire and have been systematically censored by the wrong-doers.

We have the continued deceptive statement that the members of the US Congress saw the same intelligence when that intelligence was deliberately fabricated and embellished and full of half-truths, all the result of the planning of the administration at the insistence of George W. Bush and his neocon circle reaching well beyond official government. Bush continues to lie that the rest of the industrialized so-called leading democracies had the same intelligence. British intelligence showed that they believed that Iraq was behind a number of other countries in having WMD stockpiles and production capabilities. Bush and his people fed the US Congress with fabricated, embellished, half-truth intelligence. They fed the journalists that same intelligence to feed to the general population. They tried to feed the British that intelligence. They undoubtedly offered it up to the other powers. They certainly paraded it in front of the United Nations.

The conservatives' notions of American exceptionalism and military and technological prowess and the political-socialization indoctrination they push will not protect them from a reign of terror against them of their own making. They must repent. They must change their core values from lust to giving and sharing before it is too late for their souls.

We have tens of thousands, if not hundreds of thousands, of dead, wounded, and crippled people, both combatants and innocent, men, women, children, and babies.

We have the illegal military conscription under the Bush stop-loss policy. To get more enlistees, the administration has increased taking in high school dropouts, gang members, and white supremacists. Therefore, the vulnerable and poor are ending up on the frontlines being turned into mindless killing machines whose soul's will rebel against them or against society or both. The administration has deliberately maintained this so-called all-volunteer military (even though tens of thousands of those now serving at the front would not have reenlisted) to spare the wealthy class: The sons and daughters of those who started the war. The sons and daughters of the wealthy can afford to pay for the most expensive colleges while the poor are abused by the carnage of war. They are making up the deficit by rushing new weapons technology into production and by, as stated elsewhere in this work, giving instant citizenship applications to foreign mercenaries willing to join the US military.

We have the torture-condoning memos from the US Justice Department and military commanders in Iraq.

We have the vice president especially lobbying for very lax standards restricting torturing people and for no standards concerning the CIA.
We have the presidential signing statement that even though he signed the prohibitions he would not be bound by them.

We have the violation of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA).

We have the documented use of chemical weapons, incendiary weapons, on both combatants and noncombatants (civilians, including women and children).

We have the Abu Ghraib photos and videos and the evidence of systemic abuses, tortures, and murders throughout the prisoner-of-war system.

We have before that, the US military investigative file obtained by The New York Times on abuses at the CIA prison at the US Bagram Airbase, 27 miles north of Kabul, Afghanistan, where the same systematic and systemic tortures occurred to numerous people, none even proven to be terrorists.

We have the secret prisons and the illegal renditions. The list goes on and on. I will elaborate to some degree in this work on those subjects only touched upon above.

We have the indiscriminant shooting and killing of multiple prisoners because one US soldier was hit in the face with a stone during a prisoner protest over squalid conditions and cruel, inhuman, and degrading treatment.

We have the mutilating of dead bodies by US soldiers.

We have the proof of the sweeping of thousands of innocent civilians into prisons many of whom were held for over a year even though they were known to be innocent.
We have the US coup d'état against Aristide in Haiti.

We have the US failed coup d'état attempt against Hugo Chavez in Venezuela.

We have the Republican corporate scandals.

We have the Republican lobbying scandals.

We have the cover-up of black market nuclear weapons profiteering that could reach the highest levels within the Republican State Department or higher.

We have the awarding of illegal no-bid military contracts aimed to further the vice president through his closest friends and allies throughout the military-industrial complex.

We have the manufacturing of propaganda based entirely on fabrication, on image creation, on packaging, on repetition, on sound bites, on talking points used where they would go unchallenged by opposing larger truths versus the half-truths of the talking points.

It was, and is, the imagination and big lie of the serpent. It is bought and paid for by the greediest of the greedy. It is churned out by think tanks, public-relations companies, advertising agencies, and other such entities turned to the dark arts. It is temptation to selfishness that is lust for self that is the opposite of the zeal for pure righteousness. It is brainwashing in the spirit of Satan. It is idolatry with its oaths and pledges to the handiwork and percepts of humans and of alliance to other than the unity that is God and God alone.

We have the bizarre handling of hurricane Katrina.
As leaked video tapes clearly show, Bush-43 had been told that there was a strong possibility that the New Orleans levees would breach in hurricane Katrina. He lied about it.

Hurricane Katrina followed by dirty conservative political tricks

What is worst about Katrina is the racism and ideological profiling. New Orleans was a majority black, Democratic city. The people displaced by hurricane Katrina were denied voting rights in their home city of New Orleans. The conservative Republicans are taking terrible advantage of people already hard hit by Katrina. It is unconscionable. It fits the pattern of dirty tricks. It fits with the decades old unethical and illegal standard operating procedure by conservatives of denying voter registration to opposition voters and of purging opposition voters from registration rolls.

Widespread, systematic, conservative election fraud

Such methods of election fraud are still being practiced mainly by reprehensible conservative Republicans. The worst offenders in the 2004 presidential election for instance may have been the conservative Republicans in Ohio just as the worst in 2000 were in Florida.

The following is another of the damning stories I've heard, as of this entry, about Republicans shamelessly defrauding the common citizens of the nation out of their democratic right to choose their officials in free and fair elections. Clint Curtis is a Florida software programmer.
and whistleblower. He testified to the Democrats of the US House Judiciary Committee that concerning the 2000 federal election, Republican, Florida representative Tom Feeney asked the company Clint was working for, Yang Enterprises, to come up with a virus that would allow the virus user to alter the electoral results in the infected computerized voting machine without detection and that that code itself be undetectable were the machine code to be later overviewed. Feeney went on to become the Florida speaker of the House of Representatives.

Clint passed a polygraph test administered to him by the former chief polygraph operator for the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

In response to Feeney's request to Clint's employer, Yang Enterprises, Clint earnestly wrote a paper thinking that his insights were to be used to show how easy it would be to defeat the security on voting machines so that new legislation could be developed to prevent such election fraud. After reviewing Clint's work, his employer explained to Clint that Clint wasn't comprehending. He wasn't comprehending that the Republicans didn't want anything so better election security laws could be developed and passed. The Republicans wanted a real virus to use to steal the election nationally, statewide, and locally.⁴⁷

This information must be coupled with the 2004 voting-machine problems in New Mexico and Ohio, which put Bush-43 back into the White House despite clear indications from polling that John Kerry had won, just as Al Gore had won four years earlier. The fraud has been aimed directly against the most defenseless: Poor minorities. Of course all Democrats have been defrauded at least indirectly.

⁴⁷ http://sourcecode.freespeech.org/sc210dielection

Even if the voting machines had worked flawlessly in 2004, the Republicans still rigged the election via challenging the voter registration of the Black people serving in the US military overseas who submit absentee ballots. The Republicans colluded together at the top to send mailing pieces to all the Black military-service personnel with those pieces marked "Do Not Forward." Thus, the mail was returned to the Republicans and used as evidence that the Black voters were no longer legally registered voters. Then, when there absentee ballots came in, they were not counted and those Black voters were not notified. Also, it is likely that they still think they are registered for the 2006 election, which they are not unless they have re-registered or otherwise had their registration reinstated.

Naturally, it is up to the Democratic Party and other political parties to pursue making sure that the registrations are reinstated and that such challenges by the Republicans in the future are themselves anticipated and challenged.

Also, this was a criminal conspiracy by the Republican Party at the national and state levels to defraud a group of its voting rights based upon race. It is illegal racial discrimination. Rather than pursue criminal charges, the Republican controlled US Justice Department ignored the Civil Rights Commission, and George W. Bush fired the commissioner who called for an investigation. It's all dirty tricks.

The competitive system, in which the capitalists thrive as they pollute the planet, must be replaced with a system of cooperation in which New Orleans would not have happened.

Souls valued in dollars

Look, in parts of the Deep South and elsewhere, blacks are still viewed as less valuable than whites. The same spirit still exists that prevailed during the Tuskegee Syphilis Study (1932–1972), conducted in Tuskegee, Alabama. As late as 1972, black men were denied syphilis treatment with the knowledge and consent of the government even though penicillin was an already proven treatment. Those men were uninformed of their disease and where treated as guinea pigs.

There is a long history of experimentation on Blacks in the South and elsewhere. It goes back deep into the slave era. James Marion Sims regularly performed extreme experimental surgeries on Blacks without anesthesia, against their will, and even though there wasn't anything particularly wrong with the subjects. Sims went on to head the American Medical Association.

Blacks were also subjected to forced sterilization during the big eugenics movement in the US.

---

http://www.democracynow.org/article.pl?sid=06/06/14/1424239
There were also many radical brain surgeries done on institutionalized Black youths for alleged behavioral reasons.

Now, don't fall for the notion that because the Tuskegee experiments stopped in 1972 that somehow the spirit that carried them out died with the experiments.

Just as with torture showing up, the move to conduct experiments on prisoners is showing up again too. There were many experiments done on prisoners against their will and without their knowledge, including giving them LSD for mind-control tests. Prisoners were subjected to all sorts of dangerous and debilitating experiments.

The same spirit of the imperial president exists today that was merely slowed down out in the open for awhile with the ouster of Richard Nixon in the 1970's. Spirits don't die when coercion stops them in ignorance. They just seek other avenues and wait for and work to create opportunities to raise their ugly heads again and again. The only house that isn't hospitable to the evil spirits is the one in which all the souls are softhearted and have realized that humans trying to coerce humans doesn't result in peace. We must overcome violent chastening. We must overcome the reason such chastening exists: Evil.

Charges of gross criminal negligence and incompetence abound concerning Katrina. There were people who were obviously working extremely hard, giving it their all to rescue people and to help survivors and the displaced. However, there just wasn't a mustering or sense of urgency from the highest levels of government befitting either the magnitude or urgency of the situation. The reason for that is hardheartedness that comes of selfishness drummed into those who come to rule mundanely, drummed into them by the bad pattern of behavior their ancestors created. It is a conscious attitude, though hidden from the general public, of smug superiority, the notion of the greater relative value of lives that are more self-centeredly competitive in line with superrich capitalists. It places zero value on the life of Christ.

In real Christianity, the more one is earnestly unselfish, the more that one signifies with Jesus. Jesus won't acknowledge the selfish to God. He said so. Now that you've heard it, either you believe him or you don't signify.

Those at the mundane top are emotionally distant from the plight of the lower class. Contrary to the teachings of Jesus concerning the Good Samaritan, the poor people of New Orleans and elsewhere were not treated as the neighbors of the rich and powerful. They were not loved as those rich and powerful one's love themselves. The rich and powerful didn't feel themselves suffering with the people. Their hearts don't bleed for the underprivileged and exploited. They create the underprivileged and exploited. The hearts of the rich and powerful only bleed when they lose their worldly private wealth and power.

This is why people are starving by the millions. The satanic spirit is starving them. This is why people are shot and blown up. This is why the images of maimed and dead women, children, soldiers, and others are censored by the media, the propaganda arm of the expropriators, exploiters, polluters, wolves in sheep’s clothing.

Real logic

They put forth that what they are doing is reasonable, rational, logical, justified, condoned by God, etc., if they even profess belief in God. They say they value others correctly.

As explained elsewhere in this work, divine logic starts with wholeness, health for the all. It states that syllogisms, not just their conclusions, are subject to the whole. The hypocrites take logic one syllogism at a time.

The whole is the real. The real is the ideal. Peace is the ideal. Love is the ideal. That which is not the ideal is false. It is not one. It is fractured, divided, and will not remain standing. It will fall down.

Our task is in becoming real. Our task is to overcome being false that is selfish.

The false is, among other things, private wealth. It's selfish. That's why Jesus had no private wealth in the capitalistic sense. That's why his disciples lived in common. It's the way it was when God gave us the earth to live on. It's the way it was before the liars selfishly twisted the truth, some more knowingly than others, still utterly ignorant of the absolute, divine.

This is where what is called abstract reasoning really isn't abstract at all. Jesus was the genius of geniuses by being there, existing in that ideal place. He's there now waiting for others to catch on and be accordingly.
He's there waiting for souls to hear the truth that value is not measured in mammon. Human lives are not valued in dollars. Souls are valued in righteousness. Financial net worth is worthless in heaven. Such worth is temporal only. It is a reward here and now that precludes the fruit of righteousness that is coming to many others. The rich have received the fleeting reward of the selfish.

Even after all the criticisms of the way Katrina was handled, people were still evicted from hotel and motel rooms when only about half the temporary housing needed was ready for the people displaced by the hurricane. As we know, there were some eleven thousand trailers near Hope, Arkansas while people were being evicted.

Even if those trailers were not going to end up being used to house the Katrina displaced, at least they could have been distributed to the poor and needy in general. It is all such a waste all the way around.

It was reported that the homes were damaged, because they are not on any kind of pads to keep them from warping. The basic instructions for moving, storing, and setting up mobile homes are common information with every major manufacturer. There is no way that the government wasn't told that the way they were handling the units was going to ruin them.

Can you see the experienced workers hauling and delivering the trailers to the storage sites just shaking their heads at the lack of common sense of those running things, spending all that time, material, labor, equipment, fuel, and the rest only to store those trailers incorrectly? Those workers wouldn't claim that they could run everything single-handedly, but they sure could have been listened to and should have been listened to about what they can do better than the ones running things and that's to properly set trailers so they don't immediately start losing their usefulness.

Real management, democracy in the workplace, employee ownership, the sooner the better

That's real management (listening to the one's who do the work) and applies even where there are 1) pure (majority-rule) and direct (voting on laws rather than just law makers) democracy or representational democracy and 2) full employee and equal employee ownership in, and of, the workplace. You don't get that kind of management with false capitalism where only some are equal owners at best. Of course, that democracy has to be extended (offered but not coerced) out to the whole of the world in order not to be hypocritical. It also has to be not-for-private-profit, to hoard, but rather deliberately to give and share.

Someone blew the whistle concerning the trailers meant for those displaced and made homeless by the greed that caused Katrina, and was ignored and given a hard time or even fired. That's why real democracy in the workplace is better than capitalism. The whole would have listened even if through representatives. That's because the stakes would be for all within and without the organization and not just for the greedy at the top.

Had real democracy been in place going back further, the levees around New Orleans would have been built right. Going back further than that, the city as it was wouldn't have been there. More importantly, the hurricane wouldn't have come.

The longer we wait, the more serious the dark consequences will be that will work through before the world settles down. The dark time is coming and will happen, but this has to be said now for the sake of the future so that people will know God's way for us to rise above spirits low, or lacking, in ethics and scruples. It is Biblical. It is prophetic.

Making it against US law for Christians to help illegal immigrants

Of course there isn't just the racism against the poor Blacks of New Orleans. Look at the proposed legislation in the US House of Representatives concerning immigration. The bill, HR 4437, wants to require churches to check the immigration status of people before the churches may help the person. I must say that even if this law passes, there is no way that a religion can be forced to do it. It runs diametrically opposed to the Christian faith. If the US Constitution stands for freedom of religion as it claims, Christians are free under the mundane law to help anyone without first having verified immigration status or ever verifying immigration status for that matter.
Think of it this way. The church of Rome practices confession. Parishioners confess sins to the priest. It is said that confession is good for the soul. It is. The priests are duty bound never to disclose what is confessed. Now a person comes in off the street for confession and confesses to being an illegal immigrant. The conservative Republicans in the US House want to require the priest to be a law enforcement agent of the secular state by turning in the illegal immigrant. It can't be done. It can't be asked of the priests or any other clergy in any religion or denomination. No priest can do it.

I know I won't, and I say it openly. It would violate the higher law.

We support the statement of cardinal Roger Mahony of the church of Rome who instructed priests to defy any prohibitions on aiding illegal immigrants.

Now, once the immigrants get their rights and become middle-class, will they remember? That is the test. Or, will they forget, as many of the Blacks and Jews and other minorities seem to once they've arrived so to speak? Once upon a time in the US every Roman Catholic, every Italian, every Catholic Irishman, and all sorts of others, were allowed in only through the service entrance in the back if that. Remember!

We have a divided culture. It is a culture of evil: Greed, violence, depravity, fear, and falsehood that are all Godlessness. It is not a culture of righteousness: Giving and sharing, peace, wholesomeness, courage, and truth that are all love that is God. These two cultures are incompatible and will be separated forever.
Christianity is incompatible with the secular laws calling for being anti-Good Samaritan. We have a bunch of mostly Republicans and some Democrats in Congress claiming to be Christians who are passing antichrist bills.

The antichrist lies are exposed. They are all interconnected. Greedy Americans turn a blind eye.

Katrina and the invasion of Baghdad, Iraq, are the result of the same lies Katrina is the result of greed, oil, air-pollution, greenhouse gases heating the weather system. The invasion of Baghdad is the result of greed, oil, that brings air-pollution, greenhouse gases heating the weather system, and Katrina.

Anyone who defends telling Richard Clarke "Wrong answer... Do it again," even after the countless times he, Mr. Clarke, had been over that territory, is just excusing the lies of the Bush-43 administration for the same reasons that that administration and all neoconservatives lie: Greed, lust.

Many people mistrust the conservatives completely. For them, if a powerful conservative says it, it has to be false. Well, its always rendered in the spirit of half-truth at best, which isn't good at all.

They have come to this belief because of the conservative track record of lying on such huge issues (the big lie and the so-called noble lie). They further base it upon the conservative's permanent focus on amassing as much wealth and power for themselves as possible even by taking the nation to war for profits, which is historically documented. America has fought for business markets many times. That fact is not even seriously contested by the conservatives. The conservative business people say of course America has fought to open markets. Markets mean profits, and America is about making money.

Of course, there is the Downing Street Memo of July 23, 2002, which contains the minutes of a highest-level meeting of the British government. It is the most famous now of some eight memos leaked as of the date of this writing describing the British government’s outlook on the US Bush-43 administration’s rush to war with Iraq. That memo will be well known in the US and the world by the time this work is published.

The memo shows that the British government knew that George W. Bush had decided to invade Baghdad before George W. Bush had evidence meeting international legal requirements for war. It also shows the British government's duplicitous and conspiratorial attitudes that they translated into actions.

The British head of their Secret Intelligence Service (MI6), Richard Dearlove, had visited the US and reported to the British government that concerning the US and the Bush-43 administration, "the intelligence and facts were being fixed around the policy."

The memo states that British foreign secretary at the time, Jack Straw, held that the case for military action was "thin. Saddam was not threatening his neighbours, and his WMD [weapons of mass destruction] capability was less than that of Libya, North Korea or Iran."

Jack Straw also reported that George W. Bush had already decided to go to war. Straw was sacked by Blair in May, 2006, for stating that a military strike on Iran would be "inconceivable" and that the Bush-43 administration's plan to use bunker-busting, tactical, nuclear weapons on Iran was "nuts." Straw wants a life after the Blair government. Of course, Bush-43 has claimed that the plan to use such weapons is "wild speculation."

However, the US military was supposedly planning to conduct weapons tests in Nevada for just such purposes. As of June 2, 2006, the military was to have blown off a seven hundred ton chemical bomb to calibrate computer programs to model the earth-shaking effect. That way, they could estimate the size of nuclear bombs needed to shake underground installations causing those installation to cave in. They were to use the data to plan the production of earth-penetrating mini-nukes for tactical strikes against underground, hardened targets. However, the test was indefinitely postponed due to protests about nuclear contaminated dust from earlier tests being thrown up into the atmosphere as high as ten thousand feet and spread downwind.

The Downing Street Memo contradicts George W. Bush's own claims that he had not decided to go to war until after Colin Powell's presentation to the UN Security Council. Of course, we all knew at the time that George W. Bush was pressured even by Colin Powell into making the case to the UN for appearances sake to defuse justified criticism at the time that he,
George W. Bush, was hell-bent for war against Saddam Hussein regardless of any other considerations. After all, Saddam Hussein, George W. Bush believed, had threatened to have George’s father assassinated. Also, by invading Iraq and completely taking over, George W. Bush could control (cover-up or destroy) the story and evidence that his own father’s administration had illegally and immorally supplied Saddam with the very chemical weapons used against the Kurds, Iranians, and possibly others and had otherwise aided and abetted Saddam Hussein in his extremely brutal regime for the selfish sake of incorrectly termed US interests.

The US merchants of death, hypocritical weapons suppliers to Saddam Hussein

It is well established that under both the Ronald Reagan and George H. W. Bush administrations, the US covertly and illegally supplied Iraq with chemical, biological, radiological weapons, and missile assistance.49 In

49 Spider’s Web: The Secret History Of How The White House Illegally Armed Iraq, by Alan Friedman, 1993, is one such example. Other journalists have also documented the subject extensively such as Michael Dobbs of the Washington Post, in his December 30, 2002, article entitled, “U.S. Had Key Role in Iraq Buildup: Trade in Chemical Arms Allowed Despite Their Use on Iranians, Kurds.” The Washington Post printed a correction concerning that article as follows: “A Dec. 30 article incorrectly reported the number and date of the National Security Decision Directive that outlined measures to be taken to prevent an Iraqi collapse in the Iran-Iraq war. The document was many cases, the US insured that Iraq received materials, equipment, technology, and training. Much of that was routed through other nations (Chile, Italy, England, South Africa, Germany, etc.) using all sorts of laundering tactics of the CIA through shell and front organizations (called cut-outs) to skirt US and international law.

(This is no exoneration of Democratic administrations. Democrat presidents too have supplied other governments with weapons knowing that those weapons would be, or were being, used against innocent civilians.)

Andreas Zumach, writing in the German newspaper Die Tageszeitung, on or about December 17, 2002, began exposing the incriminating aspects of the full Iraq Weapons Declaration report delivered by Iraq to the UN Security Council three months before the second US invasion of Iraq that began on March 19-20, 2003. Scores of international corporations with the complicity of numerous governments, including the US, illegally supplied Iraq with chemical, biological, nuclear, and missile weapons material, equipment, and training. The US Republican conservatives censored it all with the acquiescence of the major powers. They wanted it all covered over, because it incriminates them and exposes the lying spirit that guides them who are false and antichrist prophets through whom that evil spirit works to ensnare all the people.

NSDD 139 of April 5, 1984, parts of which remain classified."
In response to the report, Colin Powell stated the following:

We know that in the late 1990s, Iraq built mobile biological weapons production units…. We also know that Iraq has tried to obtain high-strength aluminium tubes which can be used to enrich uranium in centrifuges for a nuclear weapons program…. The burden remains on Iraq, not on the United Nations, not on the United States. The burden remains on Iraq to cooperate fully and for Iraq to prove to the international community whether it does or does not have weapons of mass destruction. We are convinced they do until they prove to us otherwise.

The then chief UN weapons inspector, Hans Blix, later stated as follows:

I'm inclined to think that the Iraqi statement that they destroyed all the biological and chemical weapons, which they had in the summer of 1991 may well be the truth.

Now, are you going to believe everything the proven and unrepentant liars are saying about any regime? Are you going to go along with the guilty-until-proven-innocent lie again? Are you going to go along with all the other nations of the world having to prove a negative, something that the US cannot do either, or face US attack?
If you do, you will share in the sin of the neocons.

While Hans Blix has called for a renewal of the spirit of peace, while he has called for total nuclear disarmament, the Bush-43 administration plans for the development of a whole new generation of nuclear weapons. This has always been typical conservative thinking. They were against Woodrow Wilson's disarmament and peaceful-resolution initiatives after World War I. They were against Franklin Roosevelt’s initiatives after World War II. The fact that the world has not yet embraced peaceful conflict-resolution, the fact that the world is still full of nuclear weapons and still has stockpiles of illegal chemical and biological weapons, makes the world a much more hellish place. The US could take the lead in taking the world into total disarmament, but capitalists and Republicans and Democrats aren't Christians.

The US corporations that supplied the illegal weapons of mass destruction to Iraq included the following:

1. Alcolac International
2. American Type Culture Collection
3. Axel Electronics, Inc.
4. Bechtel
5. Canberra Industries, Inc.
6. Carl Zeiss - US
7. Cerberus
8. Consarc

9. DuPont

10. Eastman Kodak

11. Electronic Associates

12. EZ Logic Data Systems, Inc.

13. Finnigan-MAT - US

14. Hewlett-Packard

15. Honeywell

16. International Computer Systems

17. Leybold Vacuum Systems

18. Rockwell

19. Semetex

20. Spectra Physics

21. Sperry Corp.

22. Tektronix

23. TI Coating

24. Unisys

There are also fifty-five US subsidiaries of European corporations named as involved with shipping from US soil illegal weapons materials, etc., that the corporations knew was destined for Iraq and in the full knowledge that those shipments were in direct violation of the international law to which the US bound itself by signing unto and ratifying the agreements. No one responsible has been held to account. The friends of the politicians and the politicians who hold stocks in the corporations and their family members who hold stocks and positions in all the corporations, their subsidiaries, and suppliers, etc., (the whole network and system) make huge private profits at the expense of the rest of the people of the entire world. Their wealth is blood money and the ransom for their souls. Their wealth has come, and will continue to come until they turn to God, from murder and all the other evils of the Empire their spirit has created.

Misleading, mundane impunity

The American people have chosen to follow leaders who claim impunity from consequences. If you are not one of them and you do something illegal, they will punish you. However, they pardon themselves without remorse, repentance, or atonement. They set themselves up as above the law of God. This they do while holding other people's feet to the fire in the greatest possible witch-hunts under their law. It is sheer hypocrisy.

We don't say it in the spirit of Satan the accuser. We say it to call those involved out of it: To save souls.

Look at the Whitewater investigation, the Monica Lewinsky issue, the campaign finance scandal (the Clinton US Justice Department convicted seventeen people), and other things brought against Bill Clinton. The conservative Republicans went after Bill Clinton with a vengeance. Bill Clinton's sexual predatoriness was exposed to the world. Women seemed to come out of the woodwork with testimony to the people about Bill Clinton's abusive sexual appetite. He was a product of the prior generation where womanizing and unwanted sexual advances was seen as sport. The playboy was lauded after all. The indiscretions of presidents before him were known and deliberately covered over by comrades in the media. Of course, this is no excuse since there was always a constant current in America against such philandering.

Yet, the self-styled conservative Republicans refuse to turn that same spotlight upon themselves. Being forgiven begins with personal soul searching. Forgive us as we forgive others. To go after anyone for anything is wrong. The right spirit is always to warn to turn to save and never to do the offence of attacking and destroying. If attacking and destroying is the right spirit, then we all deserve to be attacked and destroyed, in which case Satan is right. However, Satan is wrong.

Love saves. Love warns. Love leads into the light of salvation and not to humans wiping out humans. If this were not so, the law and the prophets would never have pointed to a Messiah bringing saving light. The light of the status quo would have been enough, which it was not and still is not. The light of the status quo is darkness.
Neither Bill Clinton nor George W. Bush is leading anyone into the real light of whole truth. They are not calling people to God. They are excusers of the Worldly Empire system, which is darkness, not being narrowly focused upon bringing forth for all in purity.

That is not an attack to destroy them. That is a warning to save them. They are my lost brothers if they will be found with me. So long as they refuse the real message of Jesus that is meant for the sake of the wholeness of the world, I don't know them for they are of the other (irreconcilable) house.

It is our desire that all repent so that the spotlight won't burn anyone anymore but will just cast a healing truth.

The Monica Lewinsky scandal especially showed both Bill Clinton's and the conservative's hypocrisy regarding moral-character issues. The conservatives went after Clinton to topple the Democrats.

Republican cover-ups: The Franklin Community Federal Credit Union pedophile case, and more

The conservatives though, under orders of George H. W. Bush who knew all about the case, had covered up and censored the Franklin Community Federal Credit Union pedophile case that pointed directly to high-ranking Republicans in Washington, DC, during both the Ronald Reagan and George Bush-41 administrations and further pointing to the trials, linking all the presidents from Franklin Roosevelt on, to classified diabolical and unconstitutional, illegal experiments and practices of broken, mad scientists and others on the federal payroll or under government contracts or receiving government grants for their sick and inhuman work.

The Republicans used the system that they worked so hard to come to control in order to clamp down on everyone concerning the Franklin Pedophile secret.

Lawrence E. "Larry" King is a black, conservative Republican who sang the national anthem at the 1984 and 1988 Republican national conventions. He was sent to prison for five years for absconding with some forty million dollars of credit union funds some ten million of which he spent lavishly, much in order to curry favor in the Republican Party and amongst the business and conservative media-elite in Omaha, Nebraska and Washington, DC. Charges went glaringly under investigated by the FBI. Statements and other evidence support the allegation of a pedophile ring using many children including many from Boys Town, Nebraska, run by the Roman Catholics who have since undergone exposure of widespread pedophilia.

Boys Town is near Omaha where Franklin Credit Union was headquartered.
Roman Catholic Church seal of confession, barring anyone from exposing sexual depravity amongst clergy

It is an oath of secrecy for all involved. The problems came when depraved clergy were moved from place to place spreading their disease. Rather than dealing with the problem of sexual depravity, the church excommunicated anyone who violated the oath of secrecy. This is pandemic in that church—worldwide.

It hasn't been said anywhere I'm aware of, but clergy who were themselves abused had come to the conclusion that being a Roman Catholic clergy member offered protection to those who fed into confused lust. That is why the ranks of the Roman Catholic clergy swelled with pedophiles.

Pope Benedict XVI, when he was cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, updated a 1962 document entitled Crimen Sollicitationis in 2001 to reflect the new policy that the Vatican will have "exclusive competence" (exclusive jurisdiction) of all child-abuse cases in the Roman Catholic denomination. Now, abusers are sheltered in the Vatican and all the case information is sealed up by the Church under diplomatic cover.

The Franklin pedophile case happened at a time when the Roman Catholic clergy were deep into covering up sexual abuse by their fellow clergy members. It was well before the lid blew off their cover-ups.
Are we for punishing clergy? No. However, we are for protecting innocent children. We are for healing the abused.

If you want to know more, you may search the Internet. A documentary entitled Conspiracy of Silence was to air on the subject but was pulled immediately before the scheduled airing. All copies were to have been destroyed; however, rough cuts remain available for viewing in streaming format over the Internet as of this writing.

The allegations are that there were thousands of photographs taken of Republican and Democratic Senators, Congressmen, and high-ranking business leaders, etc., engaged in sex acts with adolescents and even pre-pubescent children prostituted by Republican Larry King and his associates. The photos were for blackmail purposes. The allegations further state that George H. W. Bush was directly involved. The girl making the allegation was sentenced to nine to twenty-seven years of solitary confinement because she would not recant her story. She is reportedly to have served more time in solitary confinement than any other female prisoner in Nebraska history. What does that tell you?

It is important that under the mundane law such allegations be laid to rest only after a proper investigation. That never happened. Everything that happened has the earmarks of cover-up and whitewash.

We know that the Roman church covered up thousands of cases of pedophilia. We know that Boys Town is Roman Catholic. We know that the allegations of a pedophilia ring involving Boys Town predate the wide-spread exposure of abuses through out the church especially in America. If abuses occurred at Boys Town or if there was a ring operating out of Boys Town, why haven't more of the abused come forward? Initially, some eighty children came forward, a number of them out of Boys Town.

The issue of Boys Town here though, unlike the more recently exposed abuses and cover-ups, involves more than the church. It involves the most powerful political figures in the world well beyond the containment of the Roman church.

Those children who stepped forward have been locked up, died, been dismissed as insane, or intimidated into silence. Understand that many of them come from backgrounds with a notoriously weak support structure. Many were troubled youths chosen, targeted by sexual predators, for their vulnerability and lack of backing from morally resolute adults with resources to fight to protect children from the deep and dark corruption of the system.

How soon would trial lawyers, whom the conservative Republicans hate and who helped in exposing Roman Catholic cover-ups, run into so-called national security if they were to pursue the Franklin Credit Union/Catholic Boys Town pedophile case? How soon would they hear from the powerful of both major parties not to pursue the issue? How soon would they start receiving threats? When would the statute of limitations be used as a defense? The cover-up remains current. How can the statute of limitations run out?
Can't leave the lie of "God and country"

Look, we aren't going after anyone here. We aren't trying to nail anyone. Guilt is already established enough for every sinner. No sin is hidden from God. Our point in raising any of this is to destroy the falsehood being passed off as Christianity. That is so many more Americans than otherwise will be enabled to get on with the real repenting that must be done. To leave the lies about Christianity is to leave people who want to really know in the dark, just as we were in the dark. "God and country" as used now in America is one such lie. God and nation should be one, but God and capitalist America can never be one. That's what Americans must be brought into the light to see to save them.

America is a deception. It is misleading. Americanism is far from the straight and narrow. It is a cover for greed, violence, and sexual depravity. Unless people come to see this stark reality, they will continue to be misled.

Official America, the US government, is doing things that are antichrist. The people need to know it. The government is doing things that is much worse than what has already come out. It deliberately keeps one hand from knowing what another is doing, and the government has many, many hands. It has some hands without compunction. That's on purpose. The government has devils doing things that ought not to be done. The government has them doing those things to keep control, to keep heaven from coming. It rationalizes this, telling its brainwashed devils that they are really angels of light destroying evil. They are broken souls, broken by the government for the sake of mammon against righteousness.

It is real Christianity that will bring it to an end, and the mammon worshippers know it, fear it, and hate it.

America is far from the only nation that is such a cover, but it is the most powerful nation on earth. Therefore, where it goes has more impact on more souls than any other single nation.

Concerning the Franklin Credit Union/Catholic Boys Town pedophile case, a Nebraska senate investigation found reason to advocate criminal investigations. A grand jury though dropped the issue as if all eighty children, who had quickly come forward when the story first broke, were a vast conspiracy of children. The Omaha grand jury avoided pursuing any of the rich and powerful alleged by the children as having engaged in a national and even international pedophile ring with direct connections to CIA and DIA known abuses. The grand jury avoided Larry King’s very well known and established connections with the rich and powerful in Washington, DC, including in the military and CIA, and internationally.

Project Monarch

The Nebraska lawyer for some of the children served in Vietnam under later director of the CIA, William Colby, who admitted to the existence of US Project Monarch when Colby said openly that the US had stopped the program by the mid 1970’s. However, as is now public knowledge with the Total Information Awareness program simply changing names and locations in an attempt to hide it from the federal legislature, project Monarch (involving breaking people and children including with sexual abuse; more on that below) certainly was continued under different compartmental names and moved to different locations, even if unbeknownst to William Colby who was too easily tricked into trusting the devil.

Colby warned the lawyer for the children even while encouraging him to pursue the wrongdoing. Colby had been heavily involved in the infamous Phoenix Project during the Vietnam War. His conscience came to bother him possibly more than for any other former CIA director, and he wished that the US had not engaged in the things that had sucked him in, in his hours of weakness. Colby ended up dead under highly peculiar circumstances that where uncharacteristic for Colby, leading many to suspect a government sponsored hit made to look like an accident.

Upon orders from above, highly trained governmental assassins make murders appear to be suicides or accidents. Sometimes the government wants the killing to be obvious as a clearer warning to strike terror into the hearts of would-be adversaries. Other times, they want to foment unrest between rivals or to create splits within a group by staging the hit to make it look as if someone else in particular did it or had a hand in it.

People surrounding the Franklin cover-up have died in large numbers and under very suspicious circumstances. The timings of the deaths could not be dreamed up by talented fiction writers of cover-ups. There is evidence suggesting witness tampering, threats, intimidation, and murder. There is evidence suggesting evidence suppression by the FBI and US military. There is evidence suggesting tie-ins with the CIA mind-control experiments and secret programs.

You don't imagine there were really programs (which the government admitted to, such as Monarch) but that there weren't victims of those programs who live today? That's a misconception the people beholden to the system would love for everyone else to suffer.

Of some eighty youths who initially came forward, only two refused to recant once people started dying in the families of alleged victims and once the legal system came down hard on the alleged victims. The FBI and prosecuting attorneys threatened the children with long sentences for perjury.

What the authorities want you to believe is the eighty children from disparate backgrounds conspired together rather than that there was actually a conspiracy of adults carried out to allow them to abuse children with impunity. Either way, there is a conspiracy.

Now the alleged things that happened to most of the particular children in this case happened during the 1980's. Of course each decade starting at least in the 1940's has had its abused children many of whom are still alive. The Franklin case though broke before everything that has come up recently in the highly defiled Bush-43 administration showing the consistent pattern of lying and cover-up that permeates the system right up to the top.

The truth is, as said, just as with the Total Information Awareness program that only changed names and went deeper, the sexual-abuse, pedophile, and other mind-control experiments and operations carried right on even though the government claimed they had ended.

You shall know them by their fruits. You saw just the tip of the iceberg in the Abu Ghraib photos that the Holy Spirit (God) moved to be exposed.

Now, whom are you going to believe, eighty disparate children of all ages coming forth almost immediately (without any time for any so-called recovering of suppressed memories) upon the breaking of the story of a pedophilia ring, just as with all the Roman Catholic altar boys and others who have since come forward and who were for a fact sodomized, etc., or are you going to believe the government that it was a conspiracy of all those children who then saw family members and investigators and others suddenly strategically dying left and right and one of the most outspoken of the children being sentenced to solitary confinement for decades and older children who passed numerous lie detector tests?

There have been some fifteen-plus supposed accidents and suicides immediately surrounding this case. What is the statistical probability of that? Why haven't all the witnesses been eliminated then? The government deliberately does not do one hundred percent elimination, because that would destroy the plausible deniability factor. They are though willing to go all the way if the stakes are high enough and they cannot control the situation any other way.
The only person they sacrificed in the whole affair was Larry King. They did that, because he was too sloppy and became too great a risk to be left alone. Also, there was inevitable infighting within the government (compartment versus compartment).

The mind-control effort (documented further on) of the system takes on a life of its own. The practitioners by definition cannot be fully controlled and neither can their outcomes. It is much more a matter of being a dark spiritual art as it is precise science. The laboratory is not controlled. The variables are infinite. The mad scientists though are hired for their ability to anticipate outcomes better than their employers.

Some of the rich will do anything to hold onto, and increase, their private wealth and power. They know they have made bargains with Satan.

Look, the Roman church was loaded with cover-ups, but it didn't have the power or inclination any longer to do things on the order of Abu Ghraib, the dark CIA sites, extraordinary rendition of people to torture regimes, having Nazi scientists on the payroll encouraged to continue the gross experiments they started under Hitler, etc.

Whom are you going to trust? Are you going to trust unrepentant Platonistic, Straussian prevaricators who supplied Saddam Hussein and the Iranians with illegal weapons of mass destruction to murder one another. They lied to cover that up. Then they lied some more to go to war to steal control of Iraq's oil reserves.

Let it go back where it came from. It doesn't belong here. It isn't Christian. It has no part in Christianity. No Christian has any part in it.
"The prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me." (John 14:30).

The prince of this world is the leader of the worldly Empire. Read it. If you don't believe it, you don't know who I am and I don't know you. That is the way of it.

The words of Machiavelli tempt the prince of this world. Nietzsche does the same. Each is about exerting the will of the worldly, unrepentant, unatonning, prince of selfishness. The presidents of the US are such princes of some duration. Some have fallen more than others and to different temptations.

Covering up and ignoring the noble-lie rationale

Machiavellianism is largely the ideology of US leadership. Even when repudiated, it is still followed. Doing that is inherent within Machiavellianism itself. The noble lie is seen as expedient. (The leadership lies to the people, because the people are seen as being too stupid to know what is good for them). It is seen as the legitimate tool of the strong, self-willed ruler in the appropriate pursuit of selfish interests. It is exactly antichrist. Anyone who follows it is following the devil.

Presidents lie to take the nation to war

They follow the devil. They lie about wars while the wars are ongoing. They lie about when they are over. They lie about what the wars were all about and what they accomplished. They have plenty of fallen spirits to assist them in misdirecting. None has been worthy. None has done what Jesus showed is the right and only path—the narrow way.

James Polk and his administration lied about Mexico. He took provocative steps to entice the Mexicans into war. Polk sent American troops into disputed territory that was under negotiations. Neither side was supposed to be in the disputed territory during those negotiations. When Polk gave a speech decrying sixteen American casualties and calling for war on Mexico, he conveniently left that part out.

Teddy Roosevelt, even before becoming president, was keen on militarism especially the Navy. He saw it as a way to project US power around the world. He used that Navy in his lying the US into Panama. The Colombians were intimidated by the US Navy and Marines, etc., not to attempt to keep Roosevelt from taking Panama from Columbia. It was called gunboat diplomacy. Despite his progressive, anti-trust, and naturalist (conservationist) leanings, TR (Teddy Roosevelt) was still a militarist and imperialist.

In order to be elected, Franklin Roosevelt had stuck himself with antiwar, isolationist promises made in his political campaign. To get around that bind as he saw it, he used a foreign policy that resulted in provoking the Japanese into attacking US military assets. That way, the US could enter the war knowing it would become a World War.
Roosevelt was keen on being sure that he could make things appear to the American people that the US was acting only in self-defense since both the Japanese and Germans fired the first shot and drew first blood, as the American people were made to perceive it in shortsighted selfishness. The war didn’t start where the leadership wanted the people to believe it started. The events that caused the war were laid long before. The US hadn’t just been minding its own business. The business of the US was forcing its way into everyone else's business, territory, markets, etc., while threatening anyone who would come into the Americas.

Franklin Roosevelt lied about Japan despite his even more progressive tendencies than those held by his cousin and uncle-in-law, Teddy.

Least you think that Franklin Roosevelt was above lying to the American people, consider his own words to secretary of the treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., in 1942.

You know I am a juggler, and I never let my right hand know what my left hand does.... I may have one policy for Europe and one diametrically opposite for North and South America. I may be entirely inconsistent, and furthermore I am perfectly willing to mislead and tell untruths if it will help win the war.50

---

Before I go into explaining about the Japanese and Pearl Harbor, let me briefly mention Nazi Germany. In his famous Navy Day speech of October 27, 1941, Franklin Roosevelt asserted the following:

…I have in my possession a secret map made in Germany by Hitler's government-by the planners of the new world order. It is a map of South America and a part of Central America, as Hitler proposes to reorganize it. Today in this area there are fourteen separate countries. The geographical experts of Berlin, however, have ruthlessly obliterated all existing boundary lines; and have divided South America into five vassal states, bringing the whole continent under their domination. And they have also so arranged it that the territory of one of these new puppet states includes the Republic of Panama and our great life line-the Panama Canal. That is his plan. It will never go into effect. This map makes clear the Nazi design not only against South America but against the United States itself.51

That map was a forgery. Does that sound familiar. It was forged by MI6, the British secret service. Apparently, an agent named Ivar Bryce came up with the idea. William Stephenson, the British intelligence chief for North America, whose codename was "Intrepid," gave the map to William Donovan, head of US intelligence. Now, Roosevelt gave his speech in late October. The US already knew that the map was a forgery in September. Again, doesn't that remind you of the infamous Yellowcake Forgery and Bush-43's use of it in his State of the Union Address? It ought to.

You must realize that presidential administrations study former administrations. They study what those other administrations got away with. They study what those administrations could have done in order to get away with even more. They study all of history this way. They use all the dark arts of deception to fool people.

Pearl Harbor and 9-11

Franklin Roosevelt knew at the time that the US Lend-Lease policy and Atlantic shipping convoys would only keep the UK independent for a time. He thought that the US had to enter the war in Europe on the side of Britain for the ultimate sake of US Empire. It was all done under the pretext of responding to an attack held out via US propaganda to the American people, who had been against getting entangled in Europe's war, as a "sneak attack" all the while US leadership had known that the Japanese would attack. Some say that the US knew exactly that the Japanese would attack Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941.
The National Defense Authorization Act FY2001\textsuperscript{52} came out of the 106th United States Congress, controlled in both chambers by Republicans who, even though they would have no reason to make Roosevelt look good ideologically, would nevertheless not want the American people to get the idea that presidents lie the US into wars. Their sitting president Bush-43 has been shown to have done that, and they hate defending him about it since there is no defense. That Act was signed into law by then still president Bill Clinton at the end of his second term. That law clearly states that the Navy and Army commanders in Pearl Harbor were denied US intelligence. SEC. 537.(a)(3) of that Act states as follows:

Numerous investigations following the attack on Pearl Harbor have documented that then Admiral Kimmel and then Lieutenant General Short were not provided necessary and critical intelligence that was available, that foretold of war with Japan, that warned of imminent attack, and that would have alerted them to prepare for the attack, including such essential communiques as the Japanese Pearl Harbor Bomb Plot message of September 24, 1941, and the message sent from the Imperial Japanese Foreign Ministry to the \textsuperscript{52}H.R. 5408, incorporated into H.R.4205, contained in House Conference Report: 106-945 (in Congressional Record H9053-9453), became Public Law No: 106-398.

Japanese Ambassador in the United States from December 6-7, 1941, known as the Fourteen-Part Message.\footnote{http://www.fas.org/man/congress/2000/hr4205.htm}

The US Embassy in Tokyo, Japan, had notified Washington in January, 1941, that Japan's plan was for an aircraft carrier attack on Pearl Harbor. This should remind you that the CIA had informed George W. Bush that al Qaeda was planning to fly hijacked commercial airliners into skyscrapers.

Admiral Kimmel and General Short in Pearl Harbor were scapegoats. That's a pattern in Washington. They were deliberately kept out of the loop. The intelligence personnel under their commands kept information from them. Why? US Empire builders at the top had to insure that the Japanese could, and would, throw the first punch and it had to land flush and hard enough for the whole world to see but most importantly for the Americans to feel. It is the law of the Old West. He drew first, so I killed him in self-defense. Never mind that the Japanese were deliberately goaded into war by, and with, the US. Oh, this is no excuse for Japanese foreign policy either. The Japanese imperialists made a fatal mistake attempting to follow in the US-European model.

Japan had a spy in Pearl Harbor, known by the FBI and military at the time, who was relaying information all about the US military in Pearl Harbor. Those communications were intercepted by US intelligence and were transmitted back to Washington. One such intercept stated that the US was in the dark about the Japanese plan to attack Pearl Harbor. The Japanese thought the US didn’t know. That’s not revisionism. That’s not the imagining of conspiracy thinkers. That’s documented. All the investigating commissions of the 1940’s were simply for whitewashing. The facts came out much later.

There hasn’t been a commission or committee yet that has gotten to the bottom of anything about anything. That includes both the Watergate Committee and the Church Committee, which made the most valiant effort to date. Certainly the commissions and committees of late that supposedly investigated all the different doings under the watch of the Bush-43 administration have been whitewashes in that they have all knowingly stopped short of getting at the root problem.

You have to understand when you read statements made against people who research firsthand the original documents that have been kept secret for many decades, with many other documents still not allowed to be viewed from the same eras about the same issues, that those statements designed to cast doubt upon those researchers and their findings and interpretations are in many cases being leveled by professionals being paid to continue the process of disinformation both directly and indirectly by putting out specific and diffuse statements in various locations. They are paid to counter the effect of the revealed facts. They are paid in order for the controllers to maintain some semblance of control for gain, no matter how unsustainable, how evil that profit. It's what the spirit of the devil wants.

Jesus interprets it as no real profit at all. It is really the loss of everything in the end. It is illusory profit.

Also remember that arguments made on the basis of many points do not necessarily rise or fall on one. It isn't circumstantial when the president is quoted as saying, "The United States desires that Japan commit the first overt act," as Roosevelt said. There are not two ways of interpreting that statement. Also, embargoeing Japan cannot be interpreted as anything other than what it was. Those were not sentiments of holding out the olive branch.

It is just the same old excuses over and over. When isn't a challenge to approach the greedy and militarist and the ruler-worshippers with messages of love, peace, and truth? What president has ever been a man of peace? Show us the consistent, non-hypocritical Christlikeness on the part of any president. It isn't there. Some leaned in that direction in some ways. None though has truly come forward in the spirit.

The US had purposefully provoked Japan via a number of methods most importantly being the embargo of Japan concerning strategic metals and oil and also freezing Japan's financial accounts. Roosevelt signed that into law via Executive Order in July 1941. It is the standard US operating procedure to provoke countries if possible for purposes of plausible deniability.
In November, 1941, right before Pearl Harbor, Roosevelt ordered the military to take no aggressive measures so that Japan would attack first. That was to overcome objections to entering the war voiced by the peace movement within the US. "The United States desires that Japan commit the first overt act." Those are the words of Roosevelt to the US Pacific military command.

Do you think that the neocons, who are aware of the real history of Pearl Harbor, ordered the military and FBI, etc., to take no aggressive measures so that al Qaeda would attack on US soil under the same reasoning Roosevelt ordered the military concerning Japan?

General Douglas MacArthur actually followed orders in the Philippines waiting for an imminent Japanese attack spurred on by US provocations. Admiral James Otto Richardson, commander of the Pacific Fleet, apparently hotly refused to go along with the administration's policy of luring the Japanese into attacking the US Navy by the Navy deliberately taking a vulnerable posture.

Richardson was replaced by not-too-long-after scapegoated admiral Husband Edward Kimmel. The civilian leadership atop the budding military-industrial complex wasn't going to risk having a commander in place who might thwart a Japanese attack throwing in doubt that the US was clearly acting in self-defense in going to war. The overt act had to be managed to appear as unquestionably undeserved as possible. The US complete Western Hemisphere Empire had to be able to claim to its citizens that it was just minding its own business, going about its business peacefully, when it was attacked in such a surprise.

It was no surprise in Washington. It was planned. The Japanese fell for the bait. It was their mistake as well as it was the mistake of the baiters. The Japanese were as beasts preying on Asia, and they fell prey to an even more ferocious beast whose appetite has only been increased.

The US doesn't have a Monroe Doctrine anymore. It has the Bush Doctrine. The US capitalists aren't interested in an Empire that encompasses just the entire western half of the planet. It wants the whole world and will fight for it or hire those who will. It will goad nations and terrorists for the pretext to accomplish the goal. It incites riots to divide to better conquer. It torments. It antagonizes. It oppresses. It suppresses. It infiltrates. It sabotages. It spreads lies, rumors, malicious gossip. It bribes. It threatens. It blockades. It embargoes. It freezes assets. It does all these things against its foes, and it sees its foes as anyone or anything that stands between it and owning the whole of creation. It seeks to be God by being Satan. You are looking at it being played out before your very eyes. Do you see it and understand?

The US provocations of Japan were planned out and documented in what is called the McCollum Memo, drafted by then lieutenant commander Arthur H. McCollum, also called the Eight-Action Memo for its eight-point plan for provocation.\(^5\) McCollum often dealt directly with Roosevelt in Washington, DC, where he was stationed. McCollum must be viewed as an insider. He was in the Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI). It must also be remembered that Roosevelt had been the assistant secretary of the Navy.

This does not mean that Roosevelt walked in lockstep with McCollum or vice versa. Roosevelt had though both anti-isolationists (Republicans) and hawks strategically placed within his administration. McCollum's views certainly were not dismissed out of hand—quite the contrary, as subsequent events demonstrated. He was there for his advice, much of which was obviously acted upon. McCollum was an expert on Japan. He spoke Japanese and had lived the first eight years of his life there. He was sent back there by the US government to continue his engagement with the Japanese culture and mentality for US military intelligence purposes. In many ways, McCollum's views were a summary of views held in general on the inside. Memos are often reinforcing, centralizing, summarizing, action documents, as this one was.

The McCollum Memo was very much as Paul Wolfowitz's 1992 Defense Planning Guidance document that spelled out the neocon, US, global, empire-building strategy adopted by the Project for the New American Century signed onto by so many Bush-43 administration officers, many of whom are circulating outside the administration for purposes of being as a US football bench that the neocons can rely upon. When the neocons are swept from office in a backlash to their evil practices and goals, there will be neocons strategically placed to be quickly rehabilitated so to speak. They will feign that they got out early, because they didn't fully agree with the things those on the inside were doing.

The McCollum Memo was also very much as the Worldwide Attack Matrix adopted by Bush-43 shortly after 9-11. It was ready and waiting for his signature before 9-11 needing no more than tweaks after that.

The Bush-43 administration knew the US would be attacked in very much the same way the US knew Japan would attack and for very much the same reasons. They were told it would be planes. They were told it would be skyscrapers.

The military let the US take it on the chin so that the US citizens would supposedly react as they did over Pearl Harbor. You know that the fighter jets could have gotten there in time don't you? You know that all suspected hijacking, by law, must be confronted by fighter jets. You know that radar showed exactly where those airliners were headed. You know the fighter jets were not scrambled, contrary to how things had been handled over and over before. Some were scrambled eventually just to make it look plausible. That was the plan.

They may not have known all the details, but they knew enough to stand down just enough to take the hit. It opened the door for the military-industrial complex to gear up and for the US to have an excuse to act in supposed self-defense to go out with the planned Worldwide Attack Matrix put forward by the neocons just rubbing their hands together at the prospect of starting the next war all set up as the long war, the never-ending war, the war to allow them to become the all-seeing eye of Big Brother. It's all right there. It is the global police state unfolding.

The plan to attack the free flow of information on the Internet

Much of the information cited herein about Pearl Harbor was obtained by Robert B. Stinnett via tireless Freedom of Information Request efforts. The Freedom of Information Act is the enemy of the fascists. Truth is their enemy. They hate it. They want to kill it. They hate that the information that comes out is put out there on the Internet for so many of the common people to see.

Where they are not yet able to close things down for fear of political and technical backlash, they are sowing misinformation and disinformation on the Internet and everywhere else they are able. They desperately want a non-neutral Internet. They desperately want the message completely controlled. They want the Internet interface of every American and global user to be Fox News like and nothing but. They want the Fox/Orwellian government being the solely available Internet interface. They will want it to have unlimited numbers of channels, so to speak, all so long as the message is exactly in line with what the power elite want the people to feel, think, say, and do.

It can be false Christianity such as the Christian Broadcasting Network (CBN) and Trinity Broadcasting Network (TBN), etc. They just want to make positively sure that it isn't real Christianity. In their eyes, real Christianity is their greatest enemy.

The worldly elite are not the elect

The antichrists though will continue to excuse all international undertakings by the US under the aegis of political realism. This is Richard Nixon's stated philosophy of saying one thing and doing another. The common people just aren't capable of understanding was Nixon's belief. It's the argument Jesus proved wrong when he taught people concepts that the elite at the time just couldn't grasp.

The elite were divided from the worthy in that way. Jesus was glad for it. He didn't want the elite to go wrong. He was glad that the common people believed in what was right despite the false teachings of the elite. Jesus showed that it was the selfishness of the elite that was holding back the condition of heaven from coming to earth.

False ideas (that the people are too stupid, their natures run contrary to being good, and leaders must be strong liars for the good of those people) are shared or put forward to one degree or another by every US president.

Deny or ignore everything that casts doubt upon the state's propaganda. It doesn't matter how long ago the disinformation was used to fool the people. It must be censored, contained, displaced, covered over, excused, rationalized, defended, and twisted forever so that the people don't catch on and become suspicious of everything coming out of the worldly state.
What comes out of the worldly state must be suspected though always, since the prince of darkness is still ruling this planet as is plain to see.

Psyops continues to defend the psyops of six thousand years ago. There is a direct link to those still arguing on behalf of the same six-thousand-year-old ideology of selfishness.

On October 30, 1938, right before Halloween, Orson Welles broadcast ideas from the novel as if they were actually happening—that the US had been invaded from Mars. Understand that very little was known about Mars at the time. Telescopes could not rule out advanced life on Mars. Well, Hopsicker says that there is evidence that the whole radio broadcast was a psychological test on the unwitting population to see how they would react. He says that the Rockefeller Foundation was behind it. It was apparently developed by one C. D. Jackson, a psyops specialist. Jackson was in print media for the capitalist cause and later went on to be the publisher of Life magazine.

---

To just dismiss out of hand that the Rockefeller Foundation by way of C. D. Jackson were behind it is simply to deny that these people are involved in psyops even though it is no secret. They acknowledge that these people are involved in all sorts of deep undercover spying and espionage, but when it surfaces, they are conditioned always to deny it to the utter peril of their souls.

Of course, there comes a point when the elite doesn’t even have to, or try to, hide its real intentions. Then the people are very wicked. Then the wrath and tribulation come. Many of the people in the US now are arguing openly in favor of using torture and other wicked means. Many are openly and in high places advocating total ruthlessness and wholesale slaughter of even the innocent. Unless enough of the American people pull back from the brink, the entire nation will suffer the gravest of consequences.

Presidents lie, continued

The following is by no means exhaustive.

The Eisenhower administration claimed that the U2 spy plane the Soviets shot down was a weather plane. Then the Soviets tried the captured pilot for the world to see how the US lies.

President Kennedy said during the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba that the US was not engaged in any hostile acts against Cuba.

Johnson lied about the Gulf of Tonkin.

Nixon and Kissinger lied about the secret bombing of Cambodia, etc.

Reagan lied about the US invasion of Grenada and about the Iran-Contra arms deal.

Bush-41 lied about the US invasion of Panama and about the Iraqis doing atrocities in Kuwait and amassing tanks on the border with Saudi Arabia.

Hill & Knowlton, the global public relations firm, coached the fifteen-year-old daughter of the Kuwaiti ambassador to the US to lie before a Congressional committee about the Iraqi’s killing babies in Kuwait by taking them out of incubators and leaving them on the floor. The president repeated the story. It was a lie to drum up US public support for going after Iraq (invading). It was a lie just as the story that Iraq had amassed tanks on the Saudi border was a lie.

Bush-43 lied about Saddam Hussein in all the ways documented in this work. He lied about Katrina. He is lying about Iran, Venezuela, Bolivia, domestic spying and on and on.

Of course, there are all the smaller military actions to force business dominance by the US onto the world, especially in Latin America, where other reasons (lies and misdirection) were given to the US public.
The general direction has been satanic

What has been the general direction? What do we have with the recent swing of the pendulum? The US Congress has been severely weakened to become the neocon rubber stamp of the presidency in large measure. The voting rights of minorities have been systematically attacked and undermined. The press, the media, have been consolidated in large measure into the hands of the neocon loyalists who suppress dissident voices. The educational system has been attacked for voicing dissenting ideas and is being called to privatize for the sake of the private profits of corporations. People have been smeared with the tar of guilt by association simply for debating ideas with others or because their ideas overlap with some ideas voiced by the unsavory. The supremacy of the presidency has been put to the fore as if it is the sole sovereign. Freedom to peaceably assemble has been put under numerous and onerous restrictions. Demonstrators and protesters have been threatened with legal sanctions rather than having their grievances redressed. Ever-increasing hurdles have been put before all would-be opposition political parties. Electoral redistricting has been corrupted for the sake of the ruling elite. It's called gerrymandering. Ethnic minorities have been targeted and profiled for arrest and conviction and voting disenfranchisement for the further unethical political gain of the ruling class. National security has been used to threaten the press. Journalists have been imprisoned and forced to be embedded within the military. Book publishing has been made more difficult by the acts of the Library of Congress. Suppressive, intimidating surveillance has been hugely increased internationally and domestically. The push is on for the all-seeing eye of the secret police. We have come to know it as Total Information Awareness. The supposed right of the president to deport, exile, and disappear, imprison, torture, and execute non-citizens and citizens alike under the pretext of general and national security and without probable cause or due process of any kind, has been claimed by the US executive. The president has been ruling by decree (executive orders and signing statements). The president has been awarding the spoils to whomever he chooses under no-bid contracts. The president is claiming he is doing all that for democracy, liberty, and freedom while he has abolished those things and decries them in other places around the world. Such are and always have been the measures of the Machiavellian mind. Where is the shame? Satan has no shame.

As soon as the word "satanic" pops up, much of the general population has been programmed to roll its eyes. They are literally trained to react to the term "satanic" with notions of dabbling or so-called harmless role playing and with uneducated, low socioeconomic strata, etc. It is true that all those things present. However, there is the serious, highly educated, wealthy, sophisticated end of the spectrum and everything between. There are people from one end of the spectrum to the other who to one degree or another imagine themselves as devoutly practicing what they call Judaism, Islam, Hinduism, Buddhism, or Christianity, etc. Well, there are people who worship Satan just as seriously as the others worship in their systems.
If you don't believe this, you're in denial. There is a place in Satan worship where all pretense and rationalization is laid aside and people are willingly and desirously controlled by the spirit of evil for the sake of power. That's the truth. When the spirit of Satan says to them the same tempting words spoken to Jesus, rather than replying as Jesus did, they drop to their knees and get their reward here and now. That of course is self-reinforcing so the delusional reality deepens. If you don't believe it, you don't believe in Jesus's having been tempted and having overcome it. Nebuchadnezzar II, Alexander, Caesar, Mohammed, Tamerlane, Napoleon, Hitler, and all the other would-be militant world conquerors kneeled to the temptation. They had their reward to the extent they worshipped. That's the way it was and still is. They were all possessed by inferior spirits just as those who are now possessed. Only Jesus was the incarnation of the highest spirit. That's why he didn't succumb to the temptation to raise an army of men to go out conquering the way all those others did and still are. That's why he credited the spirit and not himself with overcoming, with detaching from the fragmentation to join in the uncorrupted, incorruptible oneness. That's why he self-sacrificed and was raised up for it.

How satanic?

MKULTRA and other mind-control experiments (details further on) and practices were real and still exist under altered covers. The fruits of those experiments have been shown all over the world in the form of the Abu Ghraib torture photographs.
People are braving the threats. People are going public in faith. They are shaking off the lie that evil is security. There is no security in evil. No matter what the devil does to anyone including killing the flesh, God will take up the innocent.

Despite prominent business people and governmental officials continuing to be accused to this day by the attorney for the alleged victims in the Franklin pedophilia case, no civil suits have shut him down for slander or libel. People are afraid to file such suits. That fear is obvious since this is such a litigious society.

A ring of prominent Omaha leaders being continually accused of pedophilia not filing suit to vindicate their names and to stop the accusations is bizarre. Everyone involved has been told to let it drop.

The only people allowed to continue are the disinformation forces primarily on the Internet: Those who have been fighting the net for the military-industrial complex.

Move on, get over it

The plan is to move on. Get over it. Do the dirty work. Then ignore it, and it will go away. That is always the plan. You hear it said all the time. It is a hypnotic-suggestion trigger. Just "move on." "Get over it." Well, God doesn't move on, hasn't moved on, and will never move on at the urging of Satan. Do you think Jesus came to just "move on" and to just "get over it"? He came for truth. Repent.

Wherefore ye be witnesses unto yourselves, that ye are the children of them which killed the prophets. Fill ye up then the measure of your fathers. Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell? Wherefore, behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city: That upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar. (Matthew 23:31-35).

God knows all the unrepented history even if human beings have forgotten.

Satan wants the ransom to continue growing and will extract every last penny. It is better to pay now to pay less rather than moving on allowing the debt to grow to pay more, suffer and atone for more, later. That is what Jesus taught.

Let us repent and atone together now so souls are saved to God now. Let us not leave the lost fold of Jesus hostage to evil. Let us pay the devil's ransom to free souls, which will bankrupt the devil being left to devour nothing new. That is turning the eternal tables on Satan and cleansing the spiritual temple.
Whose side are you on?

George W. Bush said you're either with him or you're with the terrorists. Bush though is using terror to get his way. It's hypocrisy. If you are with George W. Bush, you are not with Jesus.

Republican cover-ups: The Franklin Community Federal Credit Union pedophile case, and more, continued

There are also allegations of murder of the state police investigator and his eight-year-old son in the Franklin cover-up pedophile case so that the FBI could grab and suppress evidence such as photographs that the first responders said were strewn all over the farm field when the FBI showed up and took everything away even right out of the hands of the on-site police, including the plane that ended up at a military facility apparently leaving the civilian aviation authority out of the loop even though the plane was a civilian aircraft that crashed.

Why was it a federal case? How many times does the FBI show up at a civilian airplane crash and take everything involved to a military base?

The first responder police officer was told by the FBI never to speak of it again. He did speak out though and he was injured and his wife was killed in a head-on collision shortly afterwards.

The news interview of the farmer who had seen and heard the plane in a mid-air explosion aired once on TV news and then was pulled. The replacement story left out the eyewitness account and claimed that the plane broke up in mid flight and exploded on impact.
Along with the plane, the FBI took what people said were thousands of sexually explicit pedophile photos and other evidence that may have been linked to the Larry King blackmail photos of Senators, Congressmen, and perhaps White House officials and big-business men.

Just before his plane mysteriously came apart in the sky, Gary Caradori, who was the chief investigator for the Nebraska Senate investigation committee looking into the Franklin cover-up case, called the committee chairman, state senator Loran Schmit, and told the senator, "We've got them. There's no way they can get out of it now." Caradori had the photographs and a book with names, etc. He was on his way back from obtaining the evidence in Chicago when his plane went down and the FBI took all the evidence that has never seen the light of day again.

The FBI claimed they never found the back seat of the plane or Caradori's briefcase. In other words, the FBI did a massive cover-up of the whole ring that reached right on into the White House and either murdered Caradori or were certainly in on it. They took the evidence away that Caradori told committee chairman, state senator Loran Schmit he was bringing back.

Obviously, the FBI had been tailing and bugging Caradori and Schmit, so they knew that Caradori had obtained the evidence.

The FBI followed orders in the murder of Caradori and his eight-year-old son.

The FBI, it is claimed, also confiscated flight manifests from charter companies concerning Larry King's charter flights in which it is alleged he transported children for sex to numerous cities around the nation to official Republican functions and parties.

How satanic?, continued

Some of the children involved claimed to have been part of the infamous CIA project Monarch in which children are systematically broken and brainwashed to create controllable human tools for the Empire's toolbox such as assassins (Operation SPELLBINDER), spies, drug couriers (to obtain untraceable funding for covert operations), and sex slaves (to put high powered people into compromising positions for documentation to be used in controlling their decisions). On a more sophisticated level, people are planted to become romantically involved over an extended period for purposes of gaining confidence to extract secrets both domestic and foreign, concerning military, business, and political plans and activities.

Larry King was close to Craig Spence who was exposed by The Washington Times in July 1989 for running a call-boy operation in Washington, DC. The newspaper reported that Spence bragged of CIA connections and was running a blackmail operation. His house was bugged to obtain incriminating audio and video evidence to use for control over people in positions of power. After Spence was exposed, he said that he feared he'd be killed and the murder made to look like a suicide. He died, and it was called a suicide. Larry King was also close to Ronald Roskens who, according to Gary Caradori (who died mysteriously in the covered up plane crash), was forced to resign as chancellor of the University of Nebraska for his verified involvement in homosexual activities with young men at his state-supplied housing. Despite knowing this about Roskens, President George H. W. Bush went ahead and appointed Roskens as head of the US Agency for International Development (USAID) knowing full well Roskens sexual activities. That agency has CIA involvement.

Don't forget that Bush-41 had been the director of the CIA and knew all about the mind control and torture experiments and practices. He knew all about the Monarch program and the expendable children used for the Empire. This is the same Bush who was chosen to replace William Colby as director of the CIA. Colby had cooperated too much with the Church Committee in the original investigations of the CIA and NSA, etc.

Frank Church heroically investigated and exposed abhorrent and depraved human experiments the US conducted using Nazi mad scientists and others heading up the perfection of a living hell for the victims of the experiments and the torture victims around the world wherever the lying Empire wants to extract information and/or spread a lively terror.

Such immorality exposed by Frank Church is the standard conservative tactic. Churchill wanted to gas the Arabs to "spread a lively terror." He said that the fire-bombing of Dresden in WWII was "for the sake of increasing the terror." Terror is a weapon of war. It is still very much being used by the US today. War is terror. Breaking people, killing people, maiming people, destroying their lives, is the objective. It doesn't matter how young or innocent they are. The young are the children of the enemy. Destroying the children of the enemy destroys the enemy. Children are tools. They are expendable. In war, one may do whatever one wants with anyone, including the children, including the children of one's own nation. Also the war is permanent. Do you see that yet? Are you against it?

Understand that Churchill's father hated him and his mother was sleeping all around. It is the pattern. The abused become the abusers unless they overcome.

Depravity is commonplace and must be faced

Look, incest, sadism, homosexuality, pedophilia, and other fragmented behaviors are much, much more common than the general population is willing to see. They don't want to face the shame in their own families and personal histories. That's bad, since facing it is necessary for it to stop. It is necessary for repentance and salvation. Not facing the truth facilitates the perpetuation of the evil in the greater population.

Not facing the truth leaves the culture amenable to depravity. Just look at what the current generation is doing in the US military and intelligence agencies. If people were willing to face down their own complicity and turn, such behavior would find no home in the hearts of people.

Shame and a guilty conscience are a blessing and nothing to fear so long as they lead to faith to change and bring forth results worthy of salvation.

The first step is the reality check of the cause and effect of evil and how you have fit in with it. Look at everything concerning the circumstances through which you were introduced to evil. See how it was part of the chain reaction going back tricking soul after innocent soul with tempting lies turning those souls into an army of like tempters.

Now, change the flow to the exact opposite direction. Start encouraging righteous behavior and start discouraging unrighteous behavior. Start telling and living that truth only.

We are sorry for falling into selfishness and misleading others. Forgive us. Lead us away from the spirit of violence, competition, and harmful lust and into peace, cooperation, and zeal for your perfect, unselfish love. Lead us to practice the new commandment, to help others help yet others.

Concerning the Franklin pedophile case, the US Secret Service, the same people who guard the president and vice president, were reported in the news as having been involved in rounding up evidence concerning Craig Spence when he supposedly committed suicide that was then hushed over. How unusual is it for the Secret Service to be directly involved in such a case? The names of VIP’s in the Reagan and Bush-43 administration along with others were kept out of the news. The evidence tying the White House to the Franklin case has never seen the light of day.

The military put out a disinformation propaganda story suggesting that the Russians might have set up the whole thing (the pedophilia ring). Well, the Russians didn't start any of the CIA, DIA, or NSA depraved programs. The US started them all. They used the Russians as a pretext for declaring everything a national security issue so they could have plausible deniability in covering up White House involvement and to minimize political damage to the conservative-Republican takeover that was the beginning of the big push for a militant, privatization revolution called the new world order masquerading under the banner of democracy and an open-market economy. Of course, we know how these lies work, what with how Saddam Hussein was supposedly linked to al Qaeda and 9-11 and yellowcake and mobile weapons labs, etc. We also know about the cover up of US illegal weapons shipments to Saddam. We know about the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution and on and on and on and on. One has to remain naïve and gullible to keep believing the pathological liars running the world. Jesus certainly didn't believe them.

In thinking about all these things, it is essential that one considers a number of different things at once: Paradox, dichotomy, duality, lie, confusion, and ignorance. This is not an exhaustive list. In fact, the real list is infinite.
The exhaustive list would consider the infinite parsing of each of those terms listed above. It would also include, in like manner, every concept used in understanding each of those concepts. That process would link to the sum total of known concepts and lead to concepts previously unrevealed to human beings. That's the point. The more one seeks God, the closer one may become.

As for touching on the terms listed, I've gone into the concept of paradox throughout this work in some detail, at least enough to give you reason not to allow yourself to become morally ambivalent.

God is love. God created everything. Therefore, how can evil exist?

Dichotomy and duality are much the same. Everything came out of God. There is both good and evil. Therefore, isn't God really divided into two contradictory spirits?

As you have seen and will further see, we answer these questions contextually, connotatively, implicatively, semantically, infinitely, and reconcilably. This is a subjective, arbitrary approach from the mundane perspective; however, from the divine perspective, it is objective and imperative.

 Evil exist so we will overcome it to know real righteousness, salvation, redemption. God allows God's opposite so we may come to know God. Let there be light. Some people fall further than others before they see. The depth one may fall is infinite, because God's righteousness is also infinite. This also means that no matter how far one has fallen, one may turn to God again. Turning though is required. Jesus doesn't know anyone who hasn't turned. They aren't real. They're false-hearted. They're selfish.

All evil is a conspiracy

It is within this greater context that we must consider lies, confusion, and ignorance when we discern conspiracies.

There is absolutely no doubt that the US Justice Department has sealed information away from the legislature, the judiciary, and various departments and individuals within law enforcement. There is absolutely no doubt that the US intelligence community and military have classified and compartmentalized a vast amount of that same and other information.

Sibel Edmonds has made clear that US officials have personally profited off black-market nuclear weapons transactions and that, that information was sealed from public investigation by the US Justice Department under the pretext of national security.

Also, in order to continue development and operations there is absolutely no doubt that the Pentagon simply moved and renamed the Total Information Awareness program and placed it under the Black Budget (unpublished, secret set of books) no member of the US Congress ever sees.

Therefore, it is not a question of whether or not the US classifies and compartmentalizes illegality, child abuse (covered below), and all the associated experiments and practices uncovered over the years and also renames and moves such activities to continue them with impunity. It is a question of the five w's concerning them: Who, what, where, when, and why. Some people add "how" and "how much," as in how much money was involved; however, those concepts are really covered by the five w's. It is wise though to maintain "how" and "how much" for purposes of trailing, focusing, and emphasizing.

This process is vital in the process of revolutionary change. It is part of the process of personal introspection and soul searching and for purposes of leading to universal repentance and the salvation of the species and our habitat and beyond.

Considering lies, confusion, and ignorance is mandatory. We know that there are many, many people who openly maintain that lying is proper.

They carry that position to the extreme of sociopathic self-licensing to do with others as they see fit no matter the pain and suffering and injustice. In fact, they compartmentalize justice at best, not seeing it as a universal. Lying can be and is used to deceive, mislead, confuse, etc. Therefore, when thinking about immoral conspiracies, it is taken for granted that conspirators will say and do all manner of things to throw off investigation. It is the nature of the thing.

When governmental conspiracies delve into child abuse, it must be understood by the mind not inclined toward abuse that child abuse is an opening into hell, which has no bounds. This is why the pit is bottomless.

Hell is the state of derangement. The farther in, the more deranged. It is less and less arranged, ordered, straight, etc. Distortion and confusion are greater and greater. It is with this in mind that one must view all that surrounds stories of conspiracies.

Remember, conspiracies are absolutely known. Cover-ups are flat facts. Their existence is not in question—not that everything everyone claims as a conspiracy is based upon facts. Nevertheless, deliberate and known governmental child abuse exists. That's a fact.

The question is one of rooting it out and killing the root, the root here being synonymous with, by definition, the satanic (it is manifest in the brain matter).

We are talking about the living hell, which is living death for those in it here and now.

Children are being forced by the US government by immoral users, to live in a crooked world as tools for selfishness, for money and power for the deranged. It happens in the open and under ostensible volunteerism in the forms of ROTC and the military; however, it exists in the shadows and darkness, absolutely involuntary, and at levels so depraved that people don't want to even consider it, which is what demons count on.

Now, since these subjects of wrong-doing are part and parcel of derangement, it is inevitable that terribly fractured and fragmented souls will be stirred by them whether by design of others or themselves or in confusion that is simply an innocent symptom. In other words, when looking at these undeniable conspiracies, one must understand that confusion (real fractured results of abuse) has led some people in the world to delusively associate themselves with abuses that they did not directly experience. Just the fact of making such connections does though point to real abuse somewhere in their existence, their history. Liars are made by abuse, not born. The same holds for all forms of mental illness.

Yes, there is genetic predisposition. However, love (a nurturing society from before conception to eternal life) can overcome any such fleshy triggers for confusion.

The point here though is to caution all not to fall for the trap of dismissing wholesale the fact of conspiracies just because one, when looking into them, is confronted with the distortions in hell.

Jesus after all was straighter than anyone else with whom he was associating. All were relatively more distorted in perception. All were more in hell, though Jesus realized that more than they. He maintained and improved sanity while working in the asylum. Such is the nature of the hero braving hell to rescue lost and dying and dead souls who will be found and brought back to life if those souls will respond to love, compassion, unselfishness, and the call to softheartedness and real, and not hypocritical, false, kindness. Will they recognize the truth, or will they refuse and reject their own salvation and, thereby, harm the prospects for the salvation of others.

Why am I emphasizing all this, this way, at this point in the work? The ill-prepared will run away and hide when hell is being exposed in places they don't want to even imagine it could exist. It shakes their faith in the status quo too much. They fear it. It is uncomfortable and unpleasant. The problem though is that leaving it alone leaves others, often the innocent, in much more discomfort. It is a selfish and cowardly course. There is no mercy or love in it.

Understand also that it is natural for people who have a certain number of facts to further speculate. Understand also that speculation (surrounded by facts) in and of itself is not grounds for dismissal. Fruits or results or effects always point to the cause or source. Cause and effect is an unbroken chain infinite in past, present, and future. Positive connections for some people are speculative for others. The truth is though that with the pieces of the picture that are known, there is no way the whole picture is not grotesque. We are not seeing just the ugly pieces and the rest of the picture is wholesome. Quite the contrary. We are seeing only tidbits of a picture the rest of which is so disturbed that those responsible keep it from view even from themselves.

The case of the Finders

Now, let us look at the case of the Finders. The same national-security pretext was used in stopping the investigation of the Finders who were obviously engaged in activities that would see any citizen under the usual treatment of the courts stripped of his or her parental rights and probably serving time. Ordinarily, without CIA objection, thorough and lengthy investigation and prosecution would have ensued. Due to CIA objection, that process did not occur.
February 4th of 1987, two well-kempt white men dressed in business suits and ties were taken into police custody and arrested and charged in Tallahassee, Florida, on suspicion of kidnapping and child abuse. They had six children with them aged two to seven traveling with them in a van. The children were filthy, covered in insect bites, several not wearing any underpants, bruised, "behaving like wild animals in a public park in Tallahassee." The police were notified and responded to investigate.

It turned out that the children did not know about toilets or other technology. They had been made to live outdoors and were fed only as rewards (conditioning or training reinforcement). In other words, the children were very close to feral children treated much as yard dogs under some training process. The explanation the two men gave to the police was that they were taking the children to Mexico to start a school for brilliant children.

Some of this case became part of the public record as a result of investigations and search warrants and the initial cooperation of the US Secret Service, Tallahassee Police Department, Washington, D.C. Metropolitan Police Department, and possibly others.

The Tallahassee Police Department linked the two men to a group known as the Finders around Washington, D.C.

Understand that the Washington, D.C. Metropolitan Police Department (MPD) had had the Finders under surveillance already for possible pedophilic orgies and an unsolved murder. The MPD was glad to gain probable cause to obtain search warrants for the Finders' properties around the area.

Search warrants turned up documents on obtaining or finding (hence the group name Finders) children by means of creating breeder mothers from within the community (cult commune as the authorities described the Finders) and purchasing, trading, and kidnapping children. There were actual telexes (messages from teletypewriters connected to a telephonic network; a sort of pre-fax machine technology) ordering the purchase of children from Hong Kong through the Chinese Hong Kong Embassy.

One of the people found at one of the Finders' properties was a Chinese, foreign graduate student enrolled at the Anatomy Department of Georgetown University.

Georgetown is noted as America's oldest Roman Catholic and Jesuit university with heavy influence upon global policy via its Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service, with former presidents and heads of state amongst its former students.

What would a supposed graduate student in anatomy from Communist China be doing with the Finders (covered by the CIA) and the many children under the control of the Finders?

Additional documents obtained via the warrants pointed to secret bank accounts, high-tech transfers to the UK, and according to the police report "interest in terrorism, explosives, and the evasion of law enforcement." The Finders had detailed information at their location concerning the arrest in Tallahassee just the day before. They had broadcast instructions to move all the other children in their custody to evade police detection. Many jars full of human feces were on display. Numerous nude photos of adults and children were found. A photo album was seized containing a series of photos of what the investigators termed a "blood ritual." The adults and children were dressed in white sheets. The photos were of the following according to the written law enforcement investigative report:

The execution, disembowelment, skinning and dismemberment of the goats at the hands of the children. This included the removal of the testes of a male goat, the discovery of a female goat's "womb" and the "baby goats" inside the womb, and the presentation of a goat's head to one of the children.

This whole ring is about treating and training near-feral children as yard dogs; child abuse; child pornography; creating breeder mothers; purchasing, trading, and kidnapping children; secret bank accounts; high-tech transfers; terrorism; explosives; evasion of law enforcement; ritual animal sacrifice, anathema to Christianity; and much more that would have come out except for CIA protection of the group and its network and its government sanctioned activities.

The CIA and US Justice Department blocked any further investigation of the network.

Add to that, that they specifically chose goats to sacrifice with the female pregnant, and one begins to see the pattern of Satanism. Goats after all are integrally involved in devil worship. The children were obviously being desensitized at a very early age to killing, disemboweling, skinning, and dismembering living, pregnant beings in a ritualistic, symbolic manner.

Documents showed connections with Africa, the Bahamas, Costa Rica, Europe, Germany, Hong Kong, Japan, London, Malaysia, and Palestine. Other files showed Finder members in various parts of the world.

Passports showed travel to "Moscow, North Korea, and North Vietnam from the late 1950's to mid 1970's." Note especially North Korea and the time frame. Who could have traveled to those places during that time other than someone with high clearance from the CIA? Those nations were behind the Iron Curtain. In the case of North Korea, travel for commercial reasons would have been unheard of by some simple cultic commune member. The idea is beyond lame.

One project file was entitled Pentagon Break-In. There was much evidence of front organizations, dummy companies, or shells operated by the Finders.

The documentation showed that the Finders systematically responded to advertisements for babysitters and tutors and the like. Families looking for such services would be documented by the Finders. The Finders all collected a large volume of information on childcare facilities. Couple this information with the documentation on purchasing, trading, and kidnapping of children and actual purchase orders for children and it doesn't take much imagination to figure out why the Finders were responding to family solicitations for babysitters and tutors and why they were investigating daycare and other facilities. Obviously, they obtain children from these sources.

The Finders' properties were loaded with computer and other equipment, including networking, satellite, and video. Remember, this was in the mid to late 1980's. Such international computer networking was a rather rare and advance state of computer affairs. I remember well the 1200 baud rate and the UNIX command line Job Control Language necessary to do anything on the Internet at the time.

The Finders were exceptionally educated and technologically advanced for people raising children as dogs. They knew exactly what they were doing in a highly sophisticated molding of those children for wide-ranging purposes depending upon the results of their psychological observations of the children while they engaged individually and in highly controlled groups. This was as always experimenting, testing, indoctrinating, and operating for unethical reasons of empire building, among other unbelievably depraved things done in the name of the US secret government.

Among things discovered were computer disk containing the names of CIA staff members working at CIA Headquarters, Langley, Virginia. Almost immediately, the entire case was taken over by the CIA and everything concerning it classified. Even the police reports that had already been written were classified. The FBI was taken off the case even as the CIA claimed publicly that it had turned everything over to the FBI. US Customs was made to back off as well.

The six children taken into custody in Florida were returned to their mothers in the Finders. The Washington, DC police issued public statement saying that the Finders were doing eccentric but not illegal activities.

The CIA admitted that Finder members had given computer training to the CIA via some organization. Also, the wife of the leader of the Finders at the time, Marion David Pettie, had worked for the CIA. His son had worked for Air America, a CIA airline concentrated in and around Indochina before and during the Vietnam War. It was used extensively during the secret war before the war, meaning the secret war in Laos.

Can you see the patterns

Now think about how the Finders fit in with all the pieces including the Franklin cover-up, Abu Ghraib, CIA dark sites, extraordinary renditions (kidnappings), the Sibel Edmonds cover-up, Iran-Contra, CIA coup d'états and assassinations, Watergate, human experimentation by the US government with Nazi mad scientists and others, business deals before that with the Nazis, and on and on. What pattern starts to emerge?

Can you do pattern recognition with your mind, or have you been programmed so that your head starts to hurt or fog up when such matters are presented? Are you programmed to instantly dismiss it all? If that's what you are tempted to do, that's what's going on. That's what they count on.

That's what their studies have shown them that if they can fill your head from birth with the American Dream, you will live your life asleep in that unreality while they go about doing things that the American Dream claims is unacceptable until they tell you otherwise, such as when they tire of being undercover and want to do their despicable neocon things more out in the open, sucking in more people. It's a disease, it's evil, and it's happening. "Woe unto them that call evil good." (Isaiah 5:20).

The worse it is, no matter how many facts you have, Americanization is to get you thinking it can't be true or that you must just ignore it, go along, and forget it—either live in denial or something else you don't even care to consider. Move on. Get over it. Remember? They will have you wondering about your sanity. Conspiracy thinkers are all immediately to be viewed as crazy. Seeing patterns where there supposedly aren't any (where they deny them, lie that they aren't right there) is another sure sign of mental illness. They also said Jesus was possessed by demons. We all know though that it was the other way around. We know that by the pattern—the cause and effect—their spirit and the results of their conspiracy against Jesus and Christianity: Rotten fruit from the rotten root.

The documents and other evidence that surfaced via the warranted searches and seizures implicated the Finders in Monarch activities and domestic and international covert operations program still going on over ten years after William Colby said the CIA had stopped the practice. A child who was six at the time would be about twenty-five at the time of this entry. What was done to that child for the last twenty years? How has that child been used? What has that child been compelled to do?

Do you care? Are you going to remain silent about it? Are you going to just accept that the government has the right and authority in your name to conduct such activities abusing children? If you say nothing, are you culpable? Yes.

In reading on, don't lose sight of the fact that the US gets into bed with all sorts of dictators, tribal warlords, drug kingpins, and others and rationalizes it all away while the rich line their pockets and starve the poor. Don't lose sight of all the horrendous experiments and despicable things the US engages in, in the pursuit of global economic and military domination for selfish reasons. Then understand that the spirit of capitalism is an old wineskin that cannot hold the Holy Spirit.

It gets worse.

Torture is Satanism

The Antichrist, fallen one, metes out evil for evil. We do it to each other. Directly and indirectly (seemingly), we cause the negative consequences we, each other, all, have suffered. Our spirits cause it—different spirit, different result.

The urge to mete out evil for evil is to be overcome. Real knowledge is having learned that lesson. It is perfect goodness. It won't partake.

We, as children of God, are chastened with the rod of our fellow human beings. We bring it upon ourselves.

The Son of man and the Son of man

The rod of the Son of man ranges from as physical as possible to as metaphorical as possible. The physical rod is in Satan's hand. The metaphorical, word of truth, rod is in Jesus's hand. The Son of man will come with the physical rod. Then the Son of man will come with the metaphorical rod, a different man of the same general biological species but of a different spirit. The second one is the second coming of the spirit of Jesus Christ with his angels.

Now, understand that Muslim prisoners held by the Pentagon have been systematically forced to pray within Satanic pentagrams.

You've heard about how the US has used teams of psychologists working in conjunction with torture practitioners in perfecting ways to break prisoners. They torture prisoners by placing them in seemingly untenable positions vis-à-vis their core religious beliefs. If a prisoner is tortured into saying or doing anything that runs counter to his beliefs about what is sacred, then the prisoner believes he has been a traitor to God.

When one is evaluating the moral and ethical standards of these torture teams, there are two ways of viewing Mohammed's vision of the nature of God.

The real Christian view always keeps in mind that, as said, the Antichrist, the fallen one, metes out evil for evil. The real Christian knows that Muslims suffer due to their real error in following Mohammed's antichrist view. However, the real Christian will never participate in meting out any of the negative consequences for the negative consequences of Mohammed's falsehood.

The false view on the other hand, the non-real-Christian view, obviously, will mete out evil for evil. Many who are anti-Islam simply excuse torture and encourage it since it is being employed against what is claimed as the true religion. Of course, these apologists don't have the true religion. They follow, excuse, and do evil. The entire endeavor (torture), is evil. God doesn't torture. Satan does.

The difference is everything

It cannot be overstated that this knowledge is why Jesus's message was new and more revealing and more enlightening and the path to complete revelation and light. This is the point of separation. This is where the once tiny, hard to see, difference is everything and infinite and is being revealed in stark, undeniable contrast, magnified to clear and plain proportions, to take away every excuse so that the righteous may be free, are already free in heaven.

This does no harm. Jesus didn't condemn those who came before who hadn't had the benefit of his, Jesus's, revelation. He knew which of the prophets would have been overjoyed at his words. He knew there were earnest seekers of truth versus those who loved to build upon darkness and who, therefore, sought to, and did, kill even what little relative light that came their way.

Since Islam professes to be anti-satanic, anything the torturers can do to cause Muslims to violate anti-Satan beliefs will help break them down.

It may make some Muslims more susceptible to turning to the cause of the enemy (the US). It may make them highly suggestible to hypnotic control at different levels. It may make them mouthpieces for the futility of fighting the Empire. These are the types of things the psychologists test and record, etc. It will take the fight out of some, but it will make great, traumatized monsters out of others. This is where evil comes from after all: Evil.

The shepherds are insane, and the flock is afflicted and infectious.

Now, these torture/psyops groups are composed of people whose concepts of what is really going on varies widely within the groups. Some of them pride themselves on their high level of materialist and empiricist sophistication. They see themselves as the ones who can control others and, of course, can never be duped while doing their work. They view the spirit as a figment of the imagination coming out of the matter, structure, and function of the brain evolved out of consciousnessness (no God) and a sign of mental disease. They view reason as something that can be easily misled by theism. For them, hard, cold, clinical facts derived via rigid scientific methodology is the only basis for claiming knowledge. Morality and knowledge are hardly the same thing to serpents.

Others are even more prideful and egotistical but come at it from the spirit. These others know that the materialists-empiricists are, in fact, duped by the satanic spirit. They also subscribe to the falsehood that the satanic spirit is the right spirit. They are anti-Isaiah and anti-Jesus.

The fire of evil isn't put out with evil

The entire endeavor is sociopathic. It is conscienceless. Those who engage in torture lack awareness, consciousness, knowledge of moral and ethical boundaries. They rationalize evil to combat evil. They fight the fire of evil with the fire of evil. They don't realize that that fire wouldn't flame up were it not for caving into evil urges. They don't understand that that fire is never quenched by evil. It only appears to go out. That fire is invisible to those who don't see the longer-term, eternal, causality. That fire is fueled by evil, even if the flames are long delayed.

Only peace provides no fuel or spark for such fire but rather displaces it. One cannot reach peace through the urge to its opposite.

The entire endeavor has everything upside down. The Pentagon is upside down. It is exactly the problem rather than the solution.
The conscious decision by the Pentagon openly to embrace Satan for temporal Empire

In 1984, one US Army lieutenant colonel Michael Aquino, a psychological operations specialist, was being investigated by the military concerning allegations of pedophilia surrounding a daycare center at The Presidio of San Francisco when it was still a US Army post. No charges were brought against Aquino. Aquino was a member of the Church of Satan but split off as a founder of the Temple of Set (Set referring to the Egyptian god of whom Aquino holds Satan is a derivative). This concept is the opposite of unity and oneness and wholeness as expressed by Jesus.

The Set followers are solipsistic, meaning they hold that the self is the only knowable reality (not self in God and God's self in one but rather the self as willpower apart from God). This stream is heading in the opposite direction of Jesus Christ. It is antichrist. It is the individual human will above all. It leads to the Leopold and Loeb mentality. It is in line with Nietzsche, Machiavelli, Ayn Rand, humanism (the apostate brand), libertarianism (also the apostate brand), militarism, capitalism, etc., which cascades into sociopathy where others are seen as there to do with as the strong please since to evil minds, survival of the fittest is the law and the fittest are those most capable of ruthlessness for selfish aims. Lust can easily be unbridled. Appetites, distorted by abuse, can be hedonistically indulged without compassion. The downward spiral is all rationalized away.
These currents never lead to Christlikeness. They never lead to giving and sharing all freely. They always lead to taking for self at the expense of others. They license deception to achieve their aims, which they often claim are ennobling no matter how depraved. It is the hypocritical direction.

All of this varies from individual to individual. Different antichrist mentalities draw lines in different places. However, by virtue of subscribing to any of the antichrist disunity, each facilitates hypocritical self-authorization to license harm and offense for the selfish sake of the pleasures of sin, as Paul called them. Such harm and offense is actually unpleasant to those who are the opposite of sociopathic.

One line drawn concerns metaphysics. Michael Aquino subscribes to both science and the metaphysical power of black magic and the dark arts. Others in the dark stream are though beholden only to the scientific methodology defined by Karl Popper’s concept of empirical falsifiability, which doesn’t allow for the knowledge that comes with faith, which transcends that very methodological limitation.

We saw for instance with the Finders and their use of ritual animal sacrifice in a relatively high-tech (at the time), clinical atmosphere, the lines being deliberately blurred and exploited for the sake of the dominance of the so-called fittest (less moral). This is all a direct extension of the same mentality evidenced by experiments conducted by Josef Mengele at the Auschwitz concentration camp and other Nazi experimenters some who carried on in the US and elsewhere. The entire mentality traces back to the first sadistic act (delight in cruelty). It has come down through the ages wherever one finds abuse.

Fascinated by Nazi paganism, Aquino conducted satanic rituals at Nazi SS (Schutzstaffel, defense echelon) chief Heinrich Himmler's Wewelsburg Castle in Bavaria. Aquino wrote about the ritual he conducted at Himmler's castle as follows:

… the Wewelsburg was conceived by Heinrich Himmler to be the 'Mittelpunkt der Welt' ('Middle of the World'), and as the focus of the Hall of the Dead was to be the Gate of that Center, to summon the Powers of Darkness at their most powerful locus.

Now, understand here that darkness is the opposite of the light in enlightenment. We are not to heed the call into chaos (falsehood; death) but rather heed the call to perfection (truth). Jesus overcame Satan and knows himself in God and God in him. This is something by definition that the spirit of Satan can never reach. Turn to real love, repent, and be saved from falling to the temptation of war and all the rest of the bad that is being exposed for its connections and implications.

Aquino is alleged to have developed Monarch training for select portions of the US intelligence community. He was also implicated by children involved in the Franklin case cover-up. These matters have been classified for national security reasons (to protect evil), so the public is not being allowed to find out.
Please understand that Satanism is officially accepted in the US military in that military personnel cannot be drummed out for practicing Satanism or any pagan or heathen rites, within limits as interpreted by the nine justices of the US Supreme Court.

Many people became up in arms about the US military officially accepting various versions of dark religions. The US military officially accepting Satan is in line with secularism and ecumenicalism, etc. It should come as no surprise to any real Christian that the US military officially accepts all manner of beliefs since the military (militancy) itself is the evil spirit.

The object of real Christians though is not to purge the military of Satanism. It is to purge humanity of, among other things, the military.

The Satanists and others fall back upon the Constitution of the United States of America, which document is an obvious false prescription (of, by, and for capitalists). One cannot unite the irreconcilable.

MindWar

Along with retired major general Paul E. Vallely, who has been a senior military analyst for Fox News, Aquino co-authored a paper entitled, From PSYOP to MindWar: The Psychology of Victory. That paper advocated in 1980 much of the mindset that is being projected now by the US military. The basic tenets of the paper include being absolutely convincing that you will outlast any enemy (never quitting) and completely dominating mass media both foreign and domestic including not allowing the home front to hear or see any information coming from the other side. By extension, this leads to terrorizing (if the first stages in the MindWar fail) an enemy into believing in the futility of resistance.

The term "MindWar" was coined from the sci-fi movie Star Wars. You see how sci-fi and fiction in general drives follow-on manifestations. Aquino himself admits that the embedding of journalists is a direct extension of the principles of MindWar. In this paper, they advocate winning the war of minds before firing a shot. They advocate winning over the enemy using the total electromagnetic spectrum. This is the same thing we are still hearing from the military that seek complete domination of the human race via controlling the entire electromagnetic spectrum.

Naturally, since Aquino is a Satanist, his thinking is hypocritical and loaded with subterfuge. That's inherent in being a follower of the enemy of God and Jesus Christ. That's a given. Anyone who doubts that is lost over to Satan's military, exactly what Aquino and Valley and the other militarists, such as Rumsfeld, Cheney, Bush, etc., want and are highly visibly pursuing.

The MindWar idea is to always be on the offensive. Never have to be reactive. Always get your idea out there first. Preempt. Combine that with the message of assured victory. The war is fought in the mind and for the mind, even when weapons other than mass media are used to inflict pain, suffering, and death of the will of others.
Well, the US wins false battles, but it is going to lose the Long War since the war is really about capitalism, despite what anyone else thinks. There are other economic systems that can be greedy; however, the ultimate replacement for capitalism is Christianity, which is the opposite of Aquino's Satan. Christianity is going to replace everything that has gone before accept heaven, since it is heaven. How can capitalism win when it must defeat the will of God to do it? It isn't possible.

The tool of MindWar is to ignore. The mind warrior must ignore the antiwar movement as if it does not exist. It won't work though. The task is impossible. It cannot ultimately convince the people that selfish interest is best or defensible or worth being aggressive about. It is a losing proposition. It always has been.

Aquino attempts to convince the military mind to turn the desire for victory, the will for victory, into a foregone conclusion and to convince the enemy of that before any violence begins. This is to disarm the enemy's will. He calls this truth. This requires Big Brother and Total Information Awareness and complete domination of the electromagnetic spectrum, which are still the exact, stated aims of the Pentagon.

To all the so-called conservative Christians, understand, Satanists developed and set the direction of the Pentagon in the late 1970's in reaction to the peace movement.

Aquino states, "Coercive measures used by the operative, consequently, must not be detectable by ordinary means." He has to be invisible, because the spirit that drives him is so repulsive.
One is able to see that real truth is the exact opposite of what Aquino is about. He cannot be trusted to tell the truth and will never be unless and until he repents. You see, his kind of thinking is the open door to all depravity. It is the warring members of negative lust: Selfishness. He tries to dress up Satan in sheep's clothing just as Jesus said he would.

Show me real bounty, and I'll show you real victory

Look, if anyone wants truly to win over the hearts and minds and souls of people with the whole truth, let him or her do it. Let him or her bring forth the fruits, the real bounty. Where is the feeding of all the hungry and everything else consistent with that spirit without holding out for something back? Show me that, and I'll show you victory.

Satan's willingness to lie to himself about his depravity comes through very clearly. It doesn't take extraordinary means to see it. It's right there out in the open. How can you be made to understand the win-at-all-costs mentality? They are willing to out-deprave the enemy to destroy the enemy while lying to themselves that they too have not been destroyed. They rationalize everything. They suspend all disbelief in all that is evil all for the sake of victory that they don't know is illusory.

As a direct result of the consciousness awakening of the counterculture movement of the 1960's and 70's, they took the asking, seeking, and knocking in every wrong direction. Absolutely nothing remained taboo when it came to finding ways of defeating enemies (really ways of manifesting covetousness and vengeance). They sealed off (classified) their findings, policies, and practices.

Designer operatives

There are active US operatives who are the direct products of all the abusive experiments. Think about people who have been designed from the cradle to carry out orders without question and no matter how heinous. They are out there operating doing things so bad that you can't imagine them. They are doing those things without the slightest twinge of conscience, because they have been designed to be devoid of conscience. They have been brought up in a constant secret screening and training process as much as possible away from all countervailing moral influences so that they will do things that are definitely evil and think they are completely acceptable.

Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves. (Matthew 23:15).

Think of the scientists and propagandists, advertisers, public-relations people, psychologists, psychiatrists, and others who sold themselves to the Tobacco Institute to tell the American people that smoking is not harmful but is actually good. Now, think of all those professions being paid much more and given a much freer hand by the militarists.
These are Behavioral Science Consultation Teams (BSCT; biscuits). Such teams were and are at Abu Ghraib. They are all over the place. They came out of the SERE (Survival, Evasion, Resistance, and Escape) programs. Those programs are the result of experimenting on Americans and others with the limits of torture of all kinds, humiliation, drugs, etc. Intelligence operatives and military special units are deliberately put through such stresses to desensitize them to the onslaught.

This all came out of the stream of fear during the Cold War in which spies were captured and tortured to break them to obtain secrets.

Also, operatives have been created to obtain information but who themselves can offer nothing under torture. They have been conditioned to disassociate from the immediate environment and anything that is happening to their bodies and they also have been raised so compartmentally that they don’t know anything of value.

The mad scientists were paid and kept to use their imaginations thinking of ways people could be tortured and to try it all and study it all. The results were used two-fold: To prep American spies and to break the enemy. You have seen the practices partially revealed in the Abu Ghraib photos. This is denied by the military, which denial is a built-in part of the system. They have to deny raping women and children and doing all the other things they do to break people.

Stop falling for the brainwashing that Americanism is saintliness or that the president is a saint or the generals are saints, etc. They aren't saints. Rumsfeld is no saint, and he knows it. He's not even working on it, far from it. That would be a weakness of the will. Willpower is everything. That's why the famous propaganda film of the Nazis was entitled Triumph of the Will.

The co-author with Aquino is actually the general who got Aquino to start the draft version they finished together. General Vallely who is often on Fox News said the following about Iran:

> Well, that’s why we’re thinking the naval thing will really push them to do something stupid. And we hope they do. And then bring the hammer down on them. We know they’re going to use them against us. There’s nothing wrong with preemption.

The "naval thing" means blockade them. The "something stupid" includes an attack anywhere, but Vallely is really trying to scare people with thoughts of a nuclear attack on New York or Washington, DC, etc., by Iran. The "hammer" is to hit Iran with everything it takes to make Iran incapable of having any kind of insurgency afterwards resembling anything like what happened in Iraq. He brings in "preemption" by way of suggesting that even if something small were to happen in reaction to the deliberate provocation of a naval blockade (and it doesn't even have to be real as we've seen in the Gulf of Tonkin), the US should hit Iran as if it had already attacked the US with nuclear weapons.

Now, the fact is that general Vallely is insane, a maniac. He doesn't slow down long enough to think about or care about the humanity he's planning to kill. Such compassion has been programmed, abused, out of him. He needs to search for his humanity before he does more damage then he's already done with all this involvement in psychological operations development (torture, child abuse, etc.).

Within all this, it must be understood that everything is subordinated to, and driven by, empire building. Getting along with neighbors, being peaceful, helping each other, having a world that is safe and secure for those aims is not the spirit that is Americanism. Instilling fear, terror, is the spirit of America.

Placing fear in the minds of potential adversaries is the single most focused element of the satanic path. Coercion planted in the mind is the fear of being caught by, and exposed to, what will destroy selfish survival.

I say selfish here, because Jesus showed us that real survival beyond (as a logical extension of everything that is clearly and plainly showing here—manifest) depends upon having an unselfish heart, which is doubted by those who fear it, no matter the degree to which they grasp what it is all about.

Vallely and US Army major general Geoffrey D. Miller (who was in charge of Camp X-Ray in Guantánamo Bay, Cuba, and then sent to Abu Ghraib by Rumsfeld) and Aquino and many, many others, all subscribe to sadism and all the other so-called tools developed through the ages by the literal dungeon masters. They were proselytized and they proselytize. Vallely does it to the general public through Fox News.

Fox News

Remember that Fox News is headed by a false Christian libertarian: Self first, foremost, and always. True liberty is oneness. That's God by definition. Rupert Murdoch who heads the holding company that controls Fox News is not about joining that oneness, because the implication of that oneness is giving and sharing all with all. Murdoch is about money. He is about distorting Christianity for money. He is about tricking would-be Christians.

Fox News is not mostly news, in that it is not mostly facts of events. It is primarily commentary. In addition, the commentary is decidedly pro-empire. There are a number of other observations about Fox that should become generally known and understood.

It has been pointed out via surveys that the more one relies upon Fox as a central source of supposed news, the more one is likely to initially adopt and then maintain erroneous conclusions concerning world events. For instance, long after the mainstream population, in addition to the governmental office holders at the very top, acknowledged that Iraq was not linked to al Qaeda and that Iraq had not attempted to buy yellowcake from Niger for nuclear weapons and that Iraq had been purged of any significant weapons of mass destruction and that Iraq was not reconstituting its nuclear program destroyed in the first US invasion via heavy bombing and that Iraq did not have mobile biological weapons labs and that Iraq had not purchased aluminum tubes for a nuclear program and that Iraq had no hand in the planning or carrying out of 9-11, etc., Fox viewers, even years after these facts became settled, still cling to many, if not all, of the false notions. Fox does little to nothing to disabuse its viewers of the falsehoods.

Euphemizing: The party line

Also concerning Fox, it has come out via former employees that Fox issues memos each day first thing dictating the party line for at least that day. All Fox commentators are expected to repeat the exact select words throughout the day. Those who do not conform are terminated. The words come from the neocons. Many of the words come directly from the Israel Lobby. They come from the public-relations firms hired by Israel and paid for with US tax-payer funds. This is hugely important to understand. Israel spends huge sums of money, time, and energy seeing to it the US public is overdosed on the slanted view that whatever Israel does is justified and that whatever the Arabs or others do in opposition to what Israel does is unjustified. It is perception management. Every word, every image is carefully chosen, screened, massaged, and couched with the intention of portraying the most unjustified acts to be justified, to portray every Arab as vermin and every Israeli as saintly.
The Hasbara Project is neocon Israel's privatized, propaganda arm. They claim it gives out only truthful propaganda. Where then is their false propaganda arm? They are Machiavellian after all. Since they say they are Machiavellian, which they do, and since they say they don't have a black propaganda arm, then the only arm they show is their black propaganda arm. Regardless, all one has to do is look at the death and destruction to see the root spirit.

The party line is designed to manage perceptions to obfuscate reality, to conjure up a different reality built upon falsehood.

---

Estate tax or inheritance tax becomes death tax. Global warming becomes climate change. Illegal Jewish colonies in Palestine become Jewish neighborhoods. Blatantly Israeli and US terrorism, aggression, assassination, invasion, occupation, etc., is always termed self-defense even against the downtrodden, abused, neglected, oppressed, traumatized, and starving, etc.

Euphemizing is the party approach. The euphemizers are financially rewarded.

Defining the enemy: The poor and needy

Now, this is a self-reinforcing mechanism for creating, strengthening, and maintaining deliberate falsehood for the sake of the building of the new capitalistic Caesarism. The object of Rupert Murdoch and his ilk is to deliberately minimize the knowledge and understanding of the masses. They wish to keep the viewers in the dark as much as possible. They wish to manipulate the minds of their viewers with the view of getting them to vote in ignorance. They want those ignorant viewers to cover their ears and close their eyes and harden their hearts and to vote for the party that will precede, introduce, inaugurate, sustain, etc., despotism. This despotism is to be couched always in benign terms. This despotism is to always be couched in terms of protecting the people and voters from an amorphous enemy. That enemy is being defined more and more openly as the poor and needy who are competing for a bit to eat and a sip of water against the greed of the superrich who are never satisfied with many times more than enough.

This despotism is about defining anyone opposed to it as the enemy who should be killed.

Fox uses psychological warfare to accomplish its brainwashed ends (dumbing down) on the home front and the battle field. This is nothing new of course. In fact, the techniques stretch back as far as history.

Conservatives refuse to listen to Christians

The most common tactic used, and which is highly rewarded, by the Party is not listening. It is the next thing to completely ignoring the antiwar movement, as advocated by Aquino the Satanist above. The viewers of Fox are taught by example to interrupt, yell, threaten, distort, obfuscate, and openly tell their viewers to terminate all consideration of even the possibility their path is false, which it is, per Jesus Christ.

At least the Gospels show that the Pharisees would allow Jesus to finish his sentences. That generation would be shocked by this generation. Look at how far we've come. Look at how modern we are. That's what they thought then, even though Jesus said that Sodom would have turned with less evidence.

And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hell: for if the mighty works, which have been done in thee, had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day. (Matthew 11:23).

Militarism is idiotic

Now, real genius and righteousness are synonymous. The life of Jesus is the greatest example of righteous living by a human being in the history of human kind. Jesus was a committed and practicing pacifist. Therefore, pacifism is both righteous and genius while pacifism's opposite is the opposite. In other words, clearly and plainly, militarism is evil and idiotic in the face of the revealed truth that came out of Jesus's mouth.

Now, Fox is the greatest mass-medium proponent of both despotism and militarism in the world. I speak here in general terms, since there are smaller outlets that are even more intense than Fox. I am weighting the outcome, factoring in size of the audience and generalized effect upon the most influential national power in the world, the US. I trust that makes sense, so I won't go into detail explaining.

Since Fox is the greatest mass-medium proponent of both despotism and militarism in the world and since militarism is at once both evil and idiotic, then Fox is both evil and idiotic. All those who follow its line are partaking of evil and stupidity. They are, thereby, making of themselves the instrument of the evil spirit, the stupid course of action that ruins their souls and the souls of all others they manage to aid in deceiving.

Fox News and pornography under the same roof

By the time this work goes to press, Rupert Murdoch's BSkyB subsidiary will have rolled out its own pornography channels: "18+ Movies." That's hypocrisy. Murdoch panders to so-called conservative Christians in the US via his Fox News channel while at the same time profiting from pornography in the UK. His values are contrary to healthy families. He's all about enriching himself and his close family members at the expense of the health of all. Those who profess Christianity must come to understand that if they buy into the thrust of Fox News, they are selling their souls.

Those truly aspiring to be real Christians cannot with any justification subscribe to the path of Murdoch, Valzey, Miller, Aquino, Rumsfeld, et al.

Those who call themselves conservative-Republican Christians surely must come to understand that they have a choice to make. They cannot possibly imagine that they may rightly condone the stream of consciousness that produced all the gruesome experiments and practices that this work and others delineate. They cannot possibly imagine that Jesus is with Aquino or Ayn Rand or Nietzsche or Plato or any of the other antichrists.

Aquino is a self-proclaimed Satanist. Do you imagine that when he was highly compensated and protected by the US government for his contribution (the powers that be so appreciated) in furthering the efforts of the Behavioral Science Consultation Teams (BSCT; biscuits) and the SERE (Survival, Evasion, Resistance, and Escape) programs all in conjunction with the larger picture, as Aquino and his ilk see it, of mind control, do you imagine that as a Satanist he didn't agree with trashing The Bible in front of Jews and Christians to condition them to resist the spiritual assault? Do you imagine though that, that was all that was going on? Look at it squarely.

The US pays Satanist to design its psychological warfare in all directions: MindWar, fighting the Net, etc., foreign and domestic. The US pays the Finders for children to be used as guinea pigs and to be turned into slaves and tools in diabolical schemes buried by the secret government within the secret government.

There has been a conspiracy of silence, because many of the people haven't wanted to know. In their selfishness, they have allowed evil to rule. They have followed it. They have taken their reward from it. They don't want to stand up as real Christians. They have no faith. "The liberal deviseth liberal things; and by liberal things shall he stand." (Isaiah 32:8).

Satan is the self-styled arch nemesis or rival of God. Aquino prays to that spirit. Aquino and all the others like him, as the most ensnared souls, conjure and conjure and conjure how to ensnare other souls. The US government makes them very comfortable in hedonistic activities and even gaudy and opulent surroundings.

These people are highly rewarded for their Pledge of Allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, for their allegiance to pretending that they actually believe in the noble lie. When Aquino says the American Pledge of Allegiance, do you think that when he speaks the words "under God" that he doesn't rationalize them away? Where is his true allegiance? All capitalists rationalize them away.

Pledge and flag as official blasphemy and idolatry

The name of God is used as a trick in the American pledge. It is blasphemy. God is inspiring. God is good. Tying God in with a pledge to an apostate national government is a ploy to get people to think that that government is also inspiring, inspired, and as good as God. The US government is far short of God and has no business being equated with God by anyone calling himself or herself Christian. Also, Flag worship is also idolatry. Raising the US flag to the level of the Christian sacred is exactly the same misguided spirit as is used in the national Pledge.

US Constitution as sacrilege

What is this Constitution of the United States of America that is the so-called supreme law of America that is being protected by the pentagram in Camp X-Ray? It isn't Holy scripture. It isn't the new commandment of Jesus. It isn't the golden rule. It isn't the first great commandment to love God. It isn't the second great commandment to love one's neighbors. It is a loophole through which Aquino's efforts are lucrative. Why? The founders were about wealth, income, marketing, etc. They were not about following Jesus's admonitions. They didn't come here to practice Christianity. They came here to build their personal estates and Empire.

Right now as I am writing this, the US is talking about closing down Camp X-Ray. It is also talking about turning over prisons to Iraqi control. There is also talk of withdrawals from Iraq. This is at the same time that saber rattling is becoming louder and louder concerning Iran. With the talk of Camp X-Ray and Abu Ghraib changes and the small drawdowns from Iraq, the US neocons are just prepping for the attack of Iran. Syria won't be far behind. Also, if North Korea doesn't knuckle under, they plan to attack them too and others. Israel's attack on civilian Lebanon is just a prelude, to set the stage for further aggression, to create pretexts.
Look at the pattern

There is the Franklin pedophile case cover-up. There is the Finders child abuse cover-up. There is the project Monarch cover-up. There is the development of psyops by Satanists. There is the tie-in of Satanists with the Franklin case and project Monarch. There is the use of pentagrams at Camp X-Ray. There is all the torturing going on. There are all the invasions of lands and murder around the world for Empire, for markets, to steal other people's resources, etc. There is the long history of lies for pretexts. There is the trillions in missing money (black military budget). There is the equation of profane national government with God. There is Fox as part of the same corporation that distributes pornography while touting family values. There is the push for privatization.

There is the widening, obscene gap between the superrich and the abject poor. There is global warming. It goes on and on and on. It is all antichrist.

The federal government and other governments have abruptly stopped all investigations almost the moment evidence has popped up. The federal government has, and is, protecting abuse under the guise of national security.

The security of every nation actually depends upon the end of abuse. If such abuse does not stop, the dark spirits will cause wrath. Hearts will harden further with catastrophic results.

Johnny Gosch

There is also the Johnny Gosch kidnapping from 1982. There were five witnesses to the fact that it was a kidnapping. One of them was an attorney who later became a judge. All the witnesses' accounts lined up. However, the Des Moines, Iowa police department refused to treat it as a kidnapping. They took the report as a runaway. The Johnny Gosch case is intertwined with the Franklin cover-up. The chief of the Des Moines police department at the time was a close associate of the Omaha police chief who was directly accused in the Franklin case by the children.

Now, people have to understand that pathology is not confined to the loner. There are perpetrators who network. Also, people have to understand that pathology is not confined to people in low socioeconomic circumstances. There have been many people in high places who have been swept up in pedophilia and other deranged activities. They have been members of networks of pedophiles that have reached into the highest offices in every branch of the government, business, and military. Many of them plea-bargain to avoid public trials where embarrassing questions could come up concerning rich and powerful associates.

Understand also that wealthy people can pay to have things covered up. They can pay to have their networks protected. They can employ the most sophisticated and diabolical methods in an attempt to insure their impunity. In the case of government people at the very top in the executive, they can declare anything a matter of national security, which they have in such cases as the Finders.

There is obviously a blurring of crime with the intelligence and so-called national-security realm. There are obviously levels and layers concerning the involvement of different children and adults. At the shallow levels, people will be prosecuted. There is a line though where others are given a license by the federal government to engage in all law breaking. In fact, at that level, it is claimed not to be law breaking.

At that depth in the bottomless pit, there is no new commandment, there is no golden rule, and there is no love of God or neighbor or self.

By this state of rejection and denial, people are given a license to utter depravity to create personalities warped into the capacity for sick and twisted things for the sake of the power, control, and pleasure of sin of the rich who imagine that the rest of humanity is just made up of people they have duped into obeying a moral code for the sake of that control by the rich.

This is part of the esoteric truth that Strauss said isn't possible for the inferior to grasp. It is so confused that many of the rich just resign themselves to its reality and don't even attempt to rationalize or moralize, as moralizing is from their sociopathic perspective just for the weak minded. That's Nietzschean, which boils down to those who have, deserve. It's a dog-eat-dog world, and the capitalists are the master practitioners.

It doesn't have to be that way and it is coming to an end.

Look at the pattern, continued

What are they paying to have done?
Consider artificial ambient noise that is human-technological sounds. Even science has correlated the destructiveness of certain of such ambient noise (subject to an infinite number of variables). Science has shown to the mundane world that air, road, rail, and other traffic noises for instance are directly correlated with the onset of heart disease amongst those who are subjected to such noise in their day-in-and-day-out lives. The same applies to light, odor, taste, and touch.

The government compensates mad scientists to work with the harmful limits of all the senses and tissues in all the known spectrums. In addition to experimenting upon human beings of course, the scientists do things to helpless animals that the wild imagination of most could not approach in depths of cruelty and depravity. That is sinning just as harming humans is sinning.

They still work constantly with what is called extra-sensory perception. They still do drug experiments with LSD and other drugs, even though they will deny it publicly (so-called noble lying).

At these depths, the programs are highly compartmentalized and extremely classified. Even the president doesn't know everything that's going on. He knows that too. He doesn't want to know all the things that are being done. It would pose too much of a security risk.

You see, there is a perverse honor among thieves (loyal opposition) that the system has always depended upon, but it isn't sustainable.
The system is too insane to see that it is careening. There are too many people now, communications are too rapid, and the biosphere is becoming very sick.

The planet is becoming sicker and sicker. The disease in the hearts of human beings is felt beyond anything people imagine.

The system is not only still doing the disgusting things that were supposed to have stopped after the Church Committee, it is doing things that are much worse. They are so abhorrent that the general population would be too squeamish (not depraved enough) to allow them to be supported.

Experiments are on-going in genetic engineering that would shock the general population. Robotic cyborgs are in the works.

Nanotechnology troops (weapons) are being worked on. Cloaking is being perfected.

You must understand that the limits are the imagination. Anything you've seen in movies or read in books is grist for the mill, and it goes beyond that. Every technological advancement starts out as fiction so to speak.

The US military and intelligence budget is huge. Lots of science, science-fiction, and fantasy so-called nerds go into the military or end up as highly degreed scientists doing military and intelligence research and development at classified laboratories domestically and overseas. They go into these fields literally to try to live out their childhood fantasies.

This is the real reason Bush-43 has called for more math and science educational emphasis.
The military-industrial complex sees a domestic shortage coming up and doesn't want to depend entirely on hiring foreigners, for security reasons. The last thing they want is more students exposed to questioning the Empire from a historical or other perspective. Also, the more supply there is, the lower the salaries paid will be and the more the Empire will be able to get scientists to do the work it wants since competition for positions will be greater. Think about it. The industrialists certainly have.

Think of all the secret places where all these things can go on. How many military bases are capable of having maximum security areas? How many places are there that aren't even acknowledged by the official government? Even those that are positively known to exist, such as Area-51 are shrouded. Workers commute there by the jet full everyday, but its all off the record. What could go on in the underground portions of such a place unbeknownst to all but a handful of people or even a couple or even just one? It's just one of many.

Think of all the CIA/military black sites (secret prisons). The sites are used for severe and brutal interrogations to break people.

The CIA and military can and does act with impunity. They define all the terms. There are no rules. Prisoners are held without any legal process whatsoever. They are shuffled about the world as the Empire sees fit. Many are placed in black sites operated by brutal dictatorial regimes currying favor with the Empire in the hope that caesar (the president) won't order them to be knocked off the global chessboard.
There are many more sites than reported. There are many more prisoners than reported. Many are tortured to death. How do we know this? How do you not? Didn't you know that there were such places before it hit the mainstream news? Your imagination can't begin to conjure up what they've actually been doing and are still doing. It's getting worse, not better. It's going to continue getting worse too until the tribulation is over.

The unrepentant perpetrators at the top on all sides believe they won't be touched. Despite what they think or imagine, evil can get them anytime and anywhere no matter how impregnable they think their fortifications are. No matter what materials they use, no matter what their weapons, regardless of the science and technology they employ, they cannot withstand the attack of Satan by their own willpower. There is no escaping evil accept via righteousness that is the I Am: Yahweh's will. One can do nothing without the Holy Spirit. That's the meaning of life. (If you want to know more now about the I Am and Yahweh, etc., See: Index.)

Michael Hayden, the former director of the NSA, claimed openly in January of 2006 that the NSA was not using keyword searches and data-mining of the Internet pipeline. He lied. Another whistleblower, Mark Klein, a former technician at AT&T, provided enough proof of that to The New York Times. Hayden has been named CIA director. That puts the CIA under the active military, the Pentagon.

The US government has hired private contractors, referred to as data brokers, to hack into databases (containing information that people have had a mundane right to expect would be protected from warrantless snooping), to impersonate people to gain access to their records, and to do other illegal things. The government hired these contractors so the executive branch could get around the check of Congressional oversight designed to control runaway executive corruption.

The government is lording it over others while it is not acting in the service of the people.

But Jesus called them to him, and saith unto them, Ye know that they which are accounted to rule over the Gentiles exercise lordship over them; and their great ones exercise authority upon them. But so shall it not be among you: but whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister: And whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all. For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many. (Mark 10:42-45).

Do the fruits of the president of the Empire show that he has been acting as the servant of all or that he has been lording it over the world? He says that God speaks through him. If he really believes this, he's delusional. He doesn't really believe it, however. Nevertheless, he's still delusional, just on another score. The world is still backward from the kingdom. The leaders bring the rotten fruit of hell rather than the good fruit.

The various governments under leaders, chosen by, and followed by, the people, are engaging in all manner of corrupt practices. They are engaging in election fraud (defrauding); awarding illegal government contracts (defrauding); attacking any truth-tellers in the press and elsewhere; attacking whistleblowers (bearing false witness); showing governmental favoritism for false-Christian, so-called service providers (defrauding); warring to steal the inheritance of others (coveting and stealing); torturing others (failing to love); falsely imprisoning others (bearing false witness, failing to love, failing justice); lying about adversaries (bearing false witness); killing; employing double standards concerning adultery and homosexuality; disgracing (dishonoring) one's parents, being a discredit to the name (being hypocritical, blaspheming, failing to love); refusing to love all others, including all adversaries, as oneself and as Jesus loved all; denying God (blaspheming) by engaging in all these acts which run diametrically opposed to the ultimate spirit of the commandments and prophets; and refusing to implement courts that ensure obedience to the commandments (failing justice—a Noahide law).

In Christianity, that last requirement is to have the law written on one's heart. It is the requirement for a properly working conscience, the urge to be unselfish, the urge to look after the welfare of others.
The only path to God is Jesus, not syncretism or ecumenicalism

All things are delivered unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him. (Matthew 11:27).

As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep. And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd. Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of my Father. (John 10:15-18).

Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me. (John 14:6).

The resurrection is the overcoming of the devouring spirit that is death, the corrupt domain of Satan. Full faith in, and credit to, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are required. Really doing the new commandment, real righteousness that really saves, is inextricable from this.

Those who don't know Jesus, can't hear him. They don't believe that he was sent by the one living God. They don't believe that God is in him. They don't believe that he is in God. They cannot, therefore, be on the one narrow way.

Their belief system contains irreconcilable seeds. They are misguided and they misguide.

Credit to Jesus for being what Jesus said Jesus was and is, is required. God is not just whatever anyone wants to imagine or whatever feels right for that one. God didn't send Jesus for souls to just take him or leave him.

People hate this.

Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.”
(Matthew 7:14).

For many are called, but few are chosen. (Matthew 22:14).

These are the reasons that syncretism and inter-religious ecumenicalism come from the spirit of the liar. These are the reasons that the so-called conservative Christians are more lost than professed atheists, because those false conservatives, conserving false precepts, the traditions of men and not God, will not lay down their lives in peaceful atonement for the righteous sake of the sheep, their siblings, but rather will destroy men's lives for Satan claiming it is in the name of God. "For the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them." (Luke 9:56).

War for false unity: Cretans

Don't listen to the syncretic voices. The Cretans were wrong. Theirs was a false unity. It only lasted until the greater enemy was defeated. Then the disunity showed through again. This is why the worst of the US rulers have always conjured up enemies. This is why they are now conjuring up an enemy they will claim is never defeated. They will claim that the war is forever. That way, the people will not stop to look at the irreconcilable differences between heaven and the earth the bad shepherds create for them. Until those irreconcilable differences are confronted, heaven and earth will not conflate.

Don't listen to those who preach the hardhearted traditions of men as being from God. Theirs is the fractured path. There is no mercy in it. It is filled with wrath and vengeance that Satan loves so much.

The falsehood that there are many paths to God

The message that many paths lead to God is not the message of the real conflation. That message is offered up by those of many different gods. It is misdirecting. It allows for being other than the only kind and degree of love that will displace evil. Without realizing, it facilitates the promotion of that evil. It is why we still have evil here on earth. It is why evil is currently being magnified.
Real conflation is the Holy Spirit that leads to the strait gate that opens onto the narrow way. Christhood is that gate. Messiahship is that way. Jesus was sent as, and he is, that leader, servant, and movement. His way alone ultimately saves, liberates, and delivers.

Everyone's life experience is different before being given the revelation that is real Christianity. Once the revelation is given, the one gate must be entered and the one way must be traversed. One enters as a singularly unique soul, an atom of God. There isn't more than one whole, one end. There isn't more than one real, living God. That real oneness is the end that has the right means (behavior, emotion, beingness) that results in itself. The wrong end, the god that can be reached without Jesus, results in less than the perfect means and vice versa.

One gets there (the real heaven, the real God) by being there. One gets there by bringing it here, wherever one is. One brings it by becoming it, the right means (kind and degree of love) to the right end (only that love).

There is no other way to arrive. It is the very meaning of unselfishness to accept this that is given. It is the meaning of, and proof of, love.

Syncretism and ecumenicalism allow for less than the single vision. They open the door to lies and being duped. One will be more conducive to believing one by one all the lies of the US government, the Empire and the worldly prince of darkness. Look at what the wrong, wide path has brought and will continue bringing.

In addition to all the lies and cover-ups already exposed, the pedophilia, the child abuse, the torture, the mad scientists developing brainwashing and mind control via breaking and destroying people's souls, etc., in addition to hacking the domestic and international Internet and phone system, the US government also infiltrated the SWIFT (Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunication) international financial wire system. SWIFT is used by major financial institutions to transfer funds all over the world. Now, they say they are able to cut terrorist funding this way. However, they can cut dissident funding this way too. People around the world will become intimidated.

They are being paid visits by the FBI and Pentagon not because they are terrorist but because they are the exact opposite. They are against all terrorism, including that being perpetrated by the US government.

The program is supposedly set up so that SWIFT can control what goes to the US government. There are though strong mammon inducements for SWIFT to give the greedy at the top in the US what they want.

The devil preempt love

The devil wants to know everything about everybody so he may gain total control, so he may know exactly what horrendous things to do to those whom he cannot dupe with false words, so he may preempt them, preempt their love, break them, corrupt them, destroy them for his own sick pleasure.

The house of coercive checks and balances will fall

Historically, restrictions on the government were not put into place to keep the government from stopping evil acts but rather to keep any branch of government from obtaining too much power that if exploited for corrupt purposes by nefarious souls would enslave the people. Such checks and balances must be backed up by coercive force against any would-be dictators. This house is divided against itself and cannot stand. It will fall.

The US government has also infiltrated the parent company (First Data Corporation) of Western Union. Western Union is often used by individual consumers to wire funds about the world to loved ones and others. Consequently, no one’s international wire transfers are private regardless of the lack of reasonable grounds for suspicion or what is called probable cause. Of course, anyone who thinks that US domestic transactions are kept private from the omnipresent police state is being very naïve.

Concerning that police state, Big Brother under constant development, we mentioned Michael Hayden's lies above about the US not doing keyword searches and data-mining. In May, 2006, Bush-43 nominated four-star US Air Force general Michael Hayden to head the CIA. He was confirmed. This fits exactly with what we had written about the consolidation of intelligence under the military. What the fascists want is to roll into one privatized force under one central command all the international and domestic forces: Reconnaissance, intelligence, military, police, and imprisonment. They don't see the point of having redundancy in the State Department, CIA, FBI, state and highway patrols, county sheriff's departments, city and town police departments, military, reserves, National Guard, border agents and customs agents, Coast Guard, etc. They want the whole thing under one roof: The Pentagon.

They want all the information to be centralized, co-located, and backed up all in real time to be acted upon in real time anticipating dissent with that awareness, that anticipation, derived via computerized pattern recognition. That anticipation will be total control and preemption. Dissent will include real love. That requires consolidation.

We already see the attempted outlawing of real love with the measures offered up in the US Congress that would make it illegal to aid an illegal alien. We already see the outlawing of real love with the measure passed by the Las Vegas city council making it against the law to feed the homeless in public parks. The Good Samaritan is to be thrown in prison.59

59 "A federal court has struck down a Las Vegas law that outlaws feeding the homeless in public parks. City officials said they enacted the law because soup kitchens have kept people away from visiting public spaces. The American Civil Liberties Union led a challenge to the law after it was approved in July. Las Vegas officials are vowing to re-write the law to keep the ban in place." Headlines for November 22, 2006. "Las Vegas Ban on Feeding Homeless Ruled
The Pentagon will deny all of this. Denying even the obvious is part of Machiavellianism. Under Machiavelli, the prince must lie. Lying is good. Lying is right. Falsehood is smart, etc. They will deny that they are seeking Total Information Awareness, even though they have a program up and running perfecting just that. Everyone who doesn't trust the US government knew the president had been doing a dragnet search of the Internet. The NSA and the neocons and others just mince the definition of dragnet. They think that by saying that because human beings are not listening to everything and that their computers are doing the sifting that that doesn't put them into the position of Satan.

"And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat." (Luke 22:31).

The NSA doesn't have some thirty thousand employees and a blank check under the Black Budget of the US for nothing. They are the Total Information Awareness hub. The truth of the matter is that all expectations of privacy are naïve not because one should have the right to expect privacy but rather because it is naïve to trust that the fascists won't invade your privacy as one of the evil means to their diabolical end. There is no privacy from God, but fascists are not godly. They are unforgiving and merciless.

The errors of your past in falling to the very temptations posed to you by the fascist, greedy, violent, depraved system must not be allowed by the fascists to be forgiven by the general public. A cascade of open, mutual forgiveness and repentance, an outpouring of love and healing, would ruin everything the selfish have constructed for themselves. Think about that. If you go along with that, if you withhold your forgiveness of people's mistakes of which they have earnestly repented, who will forgive you? Your fear, your falling for the lies of the selfish, will be your further damnation.

The federal government has listened in on purely domestic conversations of people who were not reasonably suspected of being linked to real terrorism but who simply dissented concerning government policy and activities or whose name had a possible Middle Eastern ring to it. Their practices will come out. That's the way of it.

No privacy

Be aware that you are being watched and listened to and there is no privacy. Be as harmless as a dove. The more active or outspoken you are, the more you are watched. They want you to become, or to remain, too afraid to be active or outspoken.

Remember, Jesus overcame any fear to lay down his life for the flock. They murdered him in their hearts, but they couldn't take his life from him. He gave it over, and he took it back.
Privatized US concentration camps for dissenters

They will be restrained in the US until they’ve been able to brainwash enough people into neoconservatism/fascism so that neighbors will remain silent as neighbors begin disappearing in large numbers when the US version of the Gestapo raids the homes of those who think neoconservatism is evil. Anti-fascists will be rounded up and herded into privatized concentration camps, it will be claimed, to be held until the end of the long (permanent) war on terrorism. All manner of things will be done to them and with them to break them.

Oh, they will murder people. They do that now. They will make many people disappear just as they have disappeared so many Muslims who were in the US for political asylum. Most of those Muslims were sent back to the regimes from which they had fled only to be imprisoned, tortured, and murdered. Are the neocons remorseful over the hand they played in those murders? They would do it again. They don’t think those Muslims should ever have been given asylum in the first place.

For a little while, the neocons are being careful until they have taken over behind the scenes enough to handle the people as the Nazis handled freedom of thought, even of God, regardless of how uppity the dissenters think they can become and regardless of how much mundane power they will imagine they still have.

People still think it can't happen here, meaning the US. The most militaristic are the most willing to follow the orders to undertake it. The brainwashing has been going on for decades in preparation for this fascist coup. If the people don't repent, it will happen.

The false Christians are desirous to start slaughtering all those who don't agree with them. They would think of themselves as antibodies going through the world killing the bad bacteria and viruses plaguing the culture, corrupting the American Dream and their warped vision of Christianity that is really the synagogue of Satan.

There is a very strong parallel with the Nazis of World War II Germany. There is a fascist streak running in about one third of Americans. Another third can be sucked over to them via manipulated safety and security issues and concepts. That's why the neocons need another and bigger attack on America. Will they let it happen? Will they make it happen?

Despite all that has happened, despite all the clear warning signs, many people still advocate the government spy on everyone, everywhere, all the time. People should not be doing things of which they would be ashamed to have publicly known; however, there are no people on the planet yet who are trustworthy enough, saintly enough, and resistant enough to the temptation offered up by Godlike powers of gathering all information to then behave correctly with that information. Certainly, George W. Bush is not that trustworthy. Neither are John Poindexter or John Negroponte.

You are to just trust them. How can you trust them when they openly stole two presidential elections in a row?
They create a web of secrets within secrets so that no hand knows what's going on. They have created hundreds and thousands of places around the world that are completely beyond their power to control. As we mentioned earlier, think of all the secret places where all these things can go on. Think of the hundreds of US military installations around the world where the military base commanders are ordered from above to stay out of certain areas on the base that are exclusively for intelligence. Think of all the embassy basements. There are Salafis and Qutubists, such as al Qaeda co-founder Ayman al-Zawahiri, who say think of all the monastery dungeons. Think of the CIA, DIA, and NSA black sites. Think of all the facilities of all the so-called allies. Don't limit it there either.

Damascus

While the US is clamoring against the Syrians, the US CIA flies in and out of Syria delivering kidnap victims for torture. Now, that's a dual foreign policy exposed for the world to consider. What does it imply?

Rub elbows with your avowed enemies. Will Syria be spared behind the scenes, because it cooperates in secret with the Empire using it for immoral acts? Will the Empire view Syria as valuable enough so that when the US turns over more and more of Iraq to the Ministry of Defense death squads (being trained by the same people who trained the Central American death squads) the US and/or Israel won't turn Damascus, Syria into a pit before lighting up some other nation to keep the evil negative-gains coming to the Empire and the cause of Greater Israel?

Damascus claims to be the oldest continually inhabited city in the world. It's yet to be destroyed. Read the signs of the times, watch, and warn. "The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap." (Isaiah 17:1).

When this happens, it will be on account of greed. That's what all the secrets, spying, torture, invasions, and the rest is all about. It's why the Pentagon wants to have total information and to control the spectrum. It's covetousness.

The insane system is controlled by the oligarchy (government by a few wealthy families) within the plutocracy (government by the wealthy class). The power shifts about, but the worldly prince stands astride the deliberately fractured house under the guise of freedom. He knows that the real unity and freedom are not what he is offering. He is unwilling to share across-the-board, which is the ultimate state of God's grace. The worldly prince inwardly lacks the spirit of God's grace. He wants it all for himself.

He seeks to kill the truth without drawing attention to it. That is where he failed in murdering Jesus, and he fears doing it again. He prays to the satanic force to contain the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. The spirit of righteousness though is awakening. There is nothing the prince of this world can do to stop it. His very attempt will magnify that spirit as will his attempt to ignore it. The people will see clearly the fruit of evil and will know its source no matter what the prince of darkness tries to do to stop the light.

Breaking the broken at Waco

Look at what the mad scientists did at Waco, Texas in 1993. Here was a group, the Branch Davidians, already fractured souls that the system fractured all the way to death in the Waco Siege rather than healing through love. The government warrants were illegal. They were not drawn up in good faith. They were full of legal errors and should never have been granted or executed.

The system used the tools of the fractured: Military psyops. They shined bright lights all night. They played extremely loud detrimental music twenty-four hours a day.

What most people don't understand though is that the FBI murdered the men, women, and children in the Branch Davidian compound. The FBI deliberately used flame-throwing tanks on the wood-frame structures. Then, the FBI blatantly lied to the American people and the world about where and when the fire started. These are the facts, unless the video$^6$ is a fraud.

Understand though that the Branch Davidians, under David Koresh, had no business having a stockpile of weapons and ammunition. Real Christians don't need such things. That doesn't excuse the approach of the Clinton administration however.

---

The Bush-41 government did much the same thing to Manuel Noriega, the CIA operative who became the leader of Panama from 1983 to 1989.

Now, the system will offer up an endless stream of rationales for these techniques. It cannot though answer why it doesn’t do the opposite. Where is the soothing healing? It is not there, because healing means conflation (the gathering together in the spirit of righteousness). That is the opposite of creating supposed manageable fragmentation for the sake of control of the other classes by the superrich, the oligarchy within the plutocracy.

Events played out in the public media are simply much tamer but no less sinister versions of the roles that are being played in CIA and DIA camps and cells around the world.

Deprivation and excess are unrestrained by public opinion in those forbidden zones. The diabolical activities result in nothing but diabolical results. They cause more of what they are. It is the opposite of habilitation and rehabilitation. It is reeducation resulting in greater fragmentation. It is harm and nothing but. Nothing good can come of it. It is the apostate magnifying apostasy. No Christian supports it, condones it, or excuses it. It is evil and comes from evil and will cause evil and nothing but.

Mad scientists, fractured souls who carry out faithless tests, search for the effects of excess. Their broken souls keep them emotionally disconnected from their subjects. They are unrestrained by love of God. They are kept by the wealthy who've appropriated the state.
US hires mad scientists many of whom know that the spiritual realm exists. Those scientists who are not bound by ethical constraints or even necessarily rigid methodology, deliberately, in the name of knowledge (falsehood), harm and break people, creatures, and things all using the spectrums in the sensory streams those scientists can perceive. They have tested and continue to test frequencies in all the states they can imagine with no bottom to the depravity and which their patrons are willing to fund (to be patient for the results promised by the demented servants). The patrons defer to the unclean spirits as being channeled into a higher more sinister power that is really the fallen. The testers and practitioners exceed healthful stimuli and they withhold healthful stimuli. Healthful here, and always, being synonymous with wholeness or the opposite of fractured and splintered or fragmented, etc.

They break. They break themselves and others. They are rewarded to divide in the un-healing stream for the sake of creating manageability (control) of others by the patrons of madness.

Now, the technology doesn't have to be extreme and targeted to be unhealthy. The devil has created a captured American culture where people cannot shut off the harmful, polluting, soul-breaking technology upon which they have become dependent and for which they are made to work and pay the rich. The people become anxious when nature is the sole background sound and sight, etc. The culture is a constant trance of fictitious needs and desires and enslaving stimuli. It is an endless stream running back to the first falsehood that was the first selfishness. It is flowing widely on out ahead of those who will go with its current. It is the sea of death. It facilitates all the greed, violence, and depravity on all economic levels.

How does the current Bush-43 administration show up in the cess of sexual depravity and manipulation? Well, the major media had reported on the "nest of homosexuals" in the Reagan and Bush-41 administrations. What was allowed to blow by was that, that characterization was only partially insightful. It was a half-truth.

Compartmentalization

The secret government deliberately employs pedophiles and sadomasochists. People who should be receiving the treatment of love are actually rather encouraged and paid to increase their illness. The leaders consciously do not root them out. That isn't because they have a don't-throw-stones mentality. They bought into the idea that, among other things, such people are useful tools to compromise others. The moment they did that, they took into themselves the facilitation for all the rest of evil that knows no bounds.

We saw it with the Franklin pedophile case where politicians were photographed in compromising circumstances for control and blackmail purposes. Don't forget the Finders and project Monarch. Where, among other things, the children are programmed into tools to do what others would not and could not.

The leaders are contaminated, defiled, polluted as seen by their results, which includes Abu Ghraib and all the hidden places that are much, much worse. It is an all or nothing reality despite the truth of the relative sinning that is also on-going.

George W. Bush, as reflected in his administration and elsewhere, is practicing compartmentalization just as did all the presidents before him. He knows full well and just lies bald-faced about it and actually imagines its right to do so. That's the noble lie of Plato and Strauss of the revolutionaries of the satanic spirit.

He has used it on all the so-called conservative Christians who do not buy into the idea that homosexuality is a spiritually and physically healthy and acceptable alternative lifestyle. Even as he manipulates those conservatives into supporting him as one of their own, he compartmentally employs homosexuals, pedophiles, and others. He does this he believes in the interest of expediency. He believes his compartmentalization is prudent.

He is a true practitioner of Platonic lying, which predates Plato of course since it goes back as far as lying does. It's pathological although the psychologists won't take a collective stand against it. They too are compartmental thinkers hoping against hope to escape the implications concerning their own disease of selfishness.

There are those who would argue that Jesus was such a compartmental thinker. Having different mansions in the house is necessary. Having different houses is necessary until there is no evil in the spiritual and mundane cosmos. The mansions of the house of Satan, however, are not within the house of God.
God doesn’t withhold for the sake of the private gain of those who lord it over others. Satan does that. We make ourselves unworthy and incapable of knowledge by our expropriating acts.

Everything is mine

Giving and sharing is to own everything. I own everything so long as I give and share it all. This is why all that is God's is Jesus's. He shares it all in that way. All those who refuse to give and share what they have appropriated own nothing.

When you have something you mundanely possess and you give it into the real Church, you don't lose it. You gain it for the sake of everyone else who also gains it. This is how the investment giving to souls earns for God. This is the meaning of the parable. Those who don't thusly give and then share what has been given, lose even what they never really had.

For I say unto you, That unto every one which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him. (Luke 19:26).

You cannot really own anything that you don't really completely share.

Lord, they do not bring forth the real fruit. They do that which is not through you. Let their system whither as the fig tree. Let those who do only that which can be done through you bring forth a new tree for the sake of your will that is righteousness.
Homosexuality: Relative and different kinds of sin

Don't take this wrong. Concerning the "nest of homosexuals" in the Reagan and Bush-41 administrations, all God's children have to eat and there are homosexuals who aside from that confused aspect of their being (their homosexuality) are straighter on other issues than many heterosexuals. That's the nature of relative sin and of different kinds of sin.

Nevertheless, the confusion if still chosen once it is known as being against the word of God (real wholeness), is sin. That's what Jesus teaches, and he is right.

Homosexuality isn't heading to perfection. Resigning oneself to practicing homosexuality is to miss the point Jesus showed to the world.

One is what one has the faith to do. By believing that all power is dependant upon God, all corruption, even death, will ultimately be overcome. In fact, it already is. It's preordained.

There is no limit to what you may choose to become. So when someone asks the question of whether or not homosexuality is a choice, the answer is yes. In truth, everything is a matter of choice in faith. However, George W. Bush doesn't believe that. He doesn't know that. He's heard it in the mundane sense, but he hasn't really heard it (listened and understood). Neither have those who insist upon continuing the fragmenting practice.

Anyone can cave into anything and become it. You are what you do. You become what you do. You stop being what you stop doing in your heart, what you stop lusting after, feeding on, etc. This is the truth. It has to be, or there is no changing from sinning.

Reaganites: The rebellious

You do understand that The Bible in expressing the rebellion of Satan is talking about the revolution of the Ronald Reaganites don't you? Look, everyone has suffered from the rebellious spirit against the real solution. Everyone is duped by everyone else. Satan is ignorant after all of what God knows.

Some people imagine that the satanic spirit and the spirit of righteousness are in league. No. The satanic spirit truly is lacking the knowledge that God does not lack. The point though is that this state of rebellion doesn't have to be and in fact is going to end.

Human nature is not locked into evil. Only those of humanity who will refuse to turn will keep themselves locked into the lower state of consciousness, deluding itself, selling itself short, and excusing its unwilling spirit to overcome.

There is falling, but there is rising. There is rebellion against God, and there is rebellion against Satan. Jesus rebelled. He was a rebel for God. He rebelled by not doing the satanic. That's how we win. It's no secret. It's paying attention. It's focus. It's snapping out of the stupor, the trance, the hypnotic state. It's in saying no to the suggestive, conditioning temptations. It's in the signs before your eyes always.

All the CIA and DIA practices sounds like rebellion against God doesn't it? It sounds like the imagination running wild doesn't it? For many, it is too awful to be believed. Well, it is the imagination running wild, only it isn't the imagination of those who have written truth about the existence of these programs, which will continue so long as selfishness reigns in the heart where it has been for a long, long time.

Certain of the Homo sapien sapiens slaughtered all the other hominids on the planet. They terrorized them and enjoyed it. The last hominids left besides Homo sapien sapiens were the Neanderthals. Neanderthals weren't unfit for survival. They were in the way of the sadistic expropriators. That slaughtering, terrorizing spirit still continues today.

Early humans killed and terrorized. They psyched out their enemy. Humans do the same today. As you can see, warfare is waged across the range of consciousness. Warfare doesn't end with the seemingly physical. It includes the spiritual. It includes the psychological which is really the spiritual. Its boundary with the physical is a matter of belief and worthiness.

According to former CIA director William Colby, at the same time that there is a hardware arms race, there is a psychological arms race. The CIA even spooked itself and the nation on purpose into imagining that the Russians for instance were far advanced in developing extrasensory perception. Of course, all weapons have a psychological effect.

Psychological weapons

The nightmarish psychological programs, practices, and weapons and tools of course are borne out by the documented and acknowledged projects of the Nazis, Russians, Japanese, Chinese, British (documented experiments on captive IRA rebels—Irish Republican Army), Canadians (Dr. D. Ewen Cameron, McGill University, with CIA funding), Americans, and others. Even during World War II, Dr. George Estabrooks of Colgate University, Hamilton, New York, was doing mind-control work for the US military and intelligence.

Some people are somnambulists. They are highly suggestible, meaning they are highly susceptible to suggestion especially post-hypnotic suggestion. They can be put under simply by telling them they are under. (In fact, many are always under.) Then a suggestion is made. After they are brought out of the state, they remain controlled by the suggestion. In other words, they really aren't completely unhypnotized. They are still under.

The power of suggestion is very powerful for somnambulists. It can be a great power for good or evil. Pharaoh's priests used it.

Suggestions are made. The mind thinks matter conforms. What can you be tricked into believing is real that is not? Where does being tricked leave off and actual manifest, tangible change start? That's where mere imagination leaves off. Certain somnambulists can manifest fleshly changes that as of yet have not been explained by science.

How are belief and disbelief manipulated for good or evil? It happens constantly.
Enoch, Noah, Moses, Elijah, Elisha, and all the prophets to one degree or another tapped directly into God's real, not merely imaginary, power. Their faith in conjunction with their merit-worthiness allowed them to go way beyond anything hypnotists can manifest. Jesus surpassed all of them. He gave the power to his disciples who spread it for a generation. Then, it faded in history. Now, where is it?

God's power still exists. It always will. Only faith has reduced, unworthiness and the demand for proof has increased, and testing has become the new, limiting religion.

Understand that there is nothing wrong with hypnosis, per se. If it is for purely unselfish purposes and, therefore, necessarily fully credits God, as understood through Jesus and his message of the new commandment, it comes down to faith in spirit over matter and flesh, which is right.

People watching television and other advertising are put into a particular state of mind so that suggestions telling them that they want something will become a buying impulse. Many people never snap out of it. They live it without interruption. The money that people make flows from them to others for things that really are not needed at all. In fact, they are the opposite of needed. They are detrimental—counterproductive. The spellbound are made to feel anxious about having the thing. They have been programmed with irrational suggestions overriding their conscious minds over which they have lost control to the programmers into believing they will be incomplete or lesser without the possessions or services.
Now, the message of Jesus is just the opposite. It is the message of liberation from that mindless, selfish spell of materialism and consumption and being serviced by others forced by the system into servitude and being consumed by it all. Jesus says don't fall for the selfish (self-interest) suggestions. They're false. See through them. Overcome them. Rather than be programmed to selfishness, be healed by love. Give and share all taking care of each other as good family ought to in perfect healing unity and forget the contrivances of capitalism. Shake them off. Let love and peace and truth shine everywhere. That is what this work is for.

What is referred to as pure science is to allow the scientist unrestricted inquiry for the sake of reverse engineering creation. The various competing powers don't put much passed the other powers. The greediest of the powers will put the least passed the others. In other words, the most competitive power, the US, will be afraid of losing so much that it will attempt to anticipate anything it can imagine the other power or powers may be up to. To psych itself up, it has to demonize the others. In so doing, it convinces itself that since it is imaginable, they (those who would block the greedy) may be or are up to it, whatever it is. This is what they did with Saddam Hussein. This is what they are doing with Mahmoud Ahmadinejad and Hugo Chavez and others. It is what they did regarding the Russians during the Cold War and demonic mind control.

It is an excuse to go ahead with evil intentions. It is a method of rationalizing preemptive attacks for fictitious reasons.
Of course, this continues as a self-fulfilling prophecy. In order to continue this course, the promoters compartmentalize the dissenting voices out of the loop. That's what has happened to the CIA and others who wouldn't go along with the lies leading up to the invasion of Baghdad. Then, they don't have to listen to anyone questioning their conjurations. They continue to advocate while denying at the same time. In their inner circles, they reinforce each others delusions. To the public, they deny having any filthy programs. They deny lying.

At the same time, they advocate that the public lower its moral standards. If the public would just adopt the policy that fictitious reasons are fine, classification wouldn't be so burdensome.Leaks wouldn't matter. The evil Empire would just go for taking over for the sake of taking over without having to fight domestically against morality.

This is why John McCain said in reference to being defined by the enemy (or the philosophy that they are working on it so we better beat them to it and be better at it no matter how spiritually devouring or dark spirited), "It isn't about who they are. It's about who we are." That of course is true.

Who can beat Satan at developing and using evil weapons?

If you always beat Satan to the punch, if you always anticipate Satan's evil plan and beat him at developing and using evil weapons, aren't you fooling yourself? Aren't you really just Satan?
Now, if John could only carry that out to its conclusion, he'd turn all the way instead of sitting on the fence. You see, there is a point at which John is not afraid of fighting an enemy without resorting to every despicable tool that one can imagine.

Jesus though was not afraid to engage the enemy armed only with truth.

Now, you can't possibly deny that this psyops scenario is playing out right before you in the corporate media and for your mind. Look at what they try to convince you to believe that runs exactly contrary to what Jesus taught. Look at what they don't say. Look at what they don't cover. They drop the stories they are told they must drop or face the wrath of those who determine so-called national security.

How could the government stop the press from digging to the bottom of the Franklin cover-up and the Finders cover-up and all the other stories that go hardly touched? It isn't national security. It's national embarrassment. It's protecting the liars, the bad shepherds, the system of greed, etc.

Look at what is leaked on purpose as disinformation, so to speak.

The US has been expert in all of this for as long as the US has been a capitalists country built upon advertising products and services and wars. Going back, it is all right there. Before World War II, the US was far from ignorant about the power of advertising, art, propaganda, and the rest.
Religious ceremony and ritual falls into this same psychological power to control and manipulate. To be sure, remembering Jesus by making the connection with wine and bread is not an evil thing. However, religion can be and has been twisted to evil ends with dark means.

Certain Americans knew very well about European psychiatric work before World War II. The Germans were particularly keen on the subject.

The importance of spirituality was always there even if for some only to manipulate the phenomena. For others who believed in spirit, attaining selfish ends meant abusing the spirit as means. This is why the language of The Bible shows up in the human experiments, developments (really fragmentation), policies, and practices known generally as Monarch.

Compartmentalization, continued

For those whose minds are so repulsed by the depravity in high places, it is compartmentalization that causes them to disbelieve the source of the results. They see Abu Ghraib and desire to buy into the whitewashing that it was limited to the "nightshift," as Rumsfeld puts out as a deliberate obfuscation and signal to his loyal followers to repeat into the big lie.

Many people buy into the Rumsfeld neocon big lie, noble lie mentality, because they don't want to lose faith in their fellow human beings such as Donald Rumsfeld. Well, Donald Rumsfeld is one soul. While his mentality is not good for the whole of humanity, the whole of humanity is not defined by his current mentality.
Unfortunately, there are many who know that Abu Ghraib is a leak in the ocean-sized cesspool but agree with Donald Rumsfeld and the other neocons that it is better to reign in hell than serve in heaven.

How clear is all of this to them? They know and are ignorant at the same time. It's a tragedy.

Rumsfeld's use of the term "nightshift" is psychological operations used on the US citizenry. His continuing to say that the enemy is good at psyops is itself psyops. His repeating over and over that the enemy (so-called) repeats things over and over is Rumsfeld's psyops aimed at the US public. He is using psyops by stating that the US citizens are being subjected to psyops by the so-called enemy. In other words, everything he says is psyops. He never opens his mouth without having processed it through psyops thinking. He can't speak or think without it anymore. He's stuck in it, and it is very insulting of what intelligence there is in the US citizenry.

He counts on Fox News to repeat and repeat his nightshift deception. He counts on the ignorant talkers and listeners of rightwing radio to repeat and repeat without questioning. He counts on all the others in government to tune into Fox, such as Dick Cheney, to pickup on the latest sound bite to repeat.

Fox News is a mouthpiece for the deliberate spreading of psyops and Fox and Rupert Murdoch know it full well and love to serve in that capacity. It makes Murdoch richer while the average viewers are duped by their own lust into serving Murdoch and the whole evil, unjust cause. Deception is a given. I haven't heard Rumsfeld being straight ever.

Through deliberate compartmentalization, the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is up to and vice versa. This happens in your brain. It is the basis for denial and suppression of memories of evil. That suppression can take the form of just moving on while not pushing the memories very deep at all. In other words, they are always right there for recall. You just choose not to think about them. For other people, the trauma can be so great that the mind breaks. That is the point of the CIA torture methods after all.

They are based upon the breaking of minds with deliberate and systematic abuse. That is what insanity is. It is a broken mind the result of abuse from some quarter. There is no such thing as an insane person who has not suffered abuse of some kind, to some degrees, from somewhere. Knowing that, the issue is not whether or not abuse occurred. It is how to stop it and how to heal it.

Depending upon a number of variables, the abused can become huge liars and also so confused that they imagine things that were not manifest outside their mundane minds.

The point though is that there is smoke and, therefore, fire. Children have been tortured by the CIA to regenerate those children as toolboxes and weapons. They have been, and are being, broken and abused, misused and misled, by the system and in your name.

If you remain silent, you acquiesce. You condone it by your silence, your fear, your selfishness: Unwilling to go out on the branch of Jesus in faith that it will hold you up and raise you up and raise up those on whose behalf you speak out not in vengeance but in the spirit of warning with truth.

Everything everyone who is broken says in attempting to come clean is not necessarily true, but it is revealing. Those who torture others are broken. They have all been abused and traumatized and are fragmented within. Everything they say while coming clean is not necessarily the whole truth. The truth is unselfishness, and even while people reveal flat facts they can still be confused and, therefore, selfishly motivated. The truth though is that the flat facts mixed in with selfish concealment and misdirection all together shows that there is much more under the surface that is wrong and unhealed. The fruits of the system show the depths of depravity that even though they are compartmentalized are simultaneously systemic going to the root spirit driving the system. That is Jesus's teaching. It is absolutely right. It is why capitalism is about the opposite of giving and sharing all for all.

Pure capitalism is pure selfishness. How dark is darkness? Capitalists do not have the single vision of giving and sharing all for all, Jesus taught in his Sermon on the Mount.

The lengths to which the system goes to cover up is proportionate with the evil. It is proportionate with the unwillingness to repent and come clean. It is proportionate with the unwillingness to rebuke in an ever-widening circle of witnesses as necessary until the people, their family members, their organizations, their nations, and all the nations stand corrected once and for all.

To come to realize is to come together, to have no secrets from oneself, to come clean within, to confess to oneself, to knock down all the walls of the compartments within so as to free up the flow of truth.

People in high places, who order and authorize utterly despicable things be done to others and sometimes engage in them directly themselves, depend upon other people finding such activities too extreme to believe. Do you believe in Iraqgate? Do you believe in Watergate? Do you believe the Pentagon Papers? Do you believe in the Abu Ghraib tortures and the CIA black sites? Do you believe in the extraordinary renditions (CIA kidnappings and delivery to torture regimes)? Do you believe in the CIA mind-control projects such as MKULTRA?

MKULTRA is not denied by the federal government. It existed along with many other programs. Real, live human beings, children, Americans, were put through the experiments and programming. Their memories, while naturally not something they all vividly carried around with them everyday, are, nevertheless, real.

Many in the CIA would love nothing better than for the whole of society to fall into a deep state of amnesia about all the horrendous things that have come out. It has been standard propaganda operating procedure for the CIA and other such entities to deny the obvious. They laugh about how effective it has been. Don't buy into it. They would love for everyone to say it can't be real, because it is too horrible. They would love for everyone to say it was and is all okay since it was for national security.

Blowback is a CIA term that means the public questioning of the consequences of a deliberate aggressive action by America. The Bush-43 administration made a calculated decision to go ahead with the Iraq invasion knowing that there would be such blowback.

The disinformation is propaganda funded by the superrich upper class of perpetrators. Woe to the nation that puts itself above the welfare of innocent human souls that came out from God.

Operation Midnight Climax

Do you believe in the CIA's 1953 Operation Midnight Climax in which the CIA, under doctor George Hunter White, operated whorehouses in New York and San Francisco where American citizens were involuntarily drugged with LSD by the CIA? Everyone given LSD that way thought he was losing his mind in the most frightening manner. Anyone who would administer LSD in such a manner is utterly despicable.

MKULTRA

The MKULTRA project officially ran 1953-1964. The follow-on project became MKSEARCH.

The most thorough investigation of MKULTRA in particular by the US government came in 1977 by the US Senate Subcommittee on Health and Scientific Research whose chairman at the time was senator Edward Kennedy. Other main bodies that looked into MKULTRA and all sorts of other governmental abuses where the Church Committee and the Rockefeller Commission (See: Index).

In the CIA's MKULTRA project, thousands of people from all walks of life were given LSD. Some people were given high doses of LSD day after day. One unfortunate soul was given a high dose of LSD eighty (80) days in a row. These were apparently much higher doses than people ordinarily use in the twenty-first century for so-called recreational purposes, personal experimentation, or consciousness awakening and enhancement, etc. Such repetitive high doses especially on people who didn't even realize they were receiving a powerful hallucinogenic drug, most certainly drove many into vegetative insanity or suicide if they could even manage suicide after having their minds so shaken or destroyed.

While these people were being subjected to LSD and other psychoactive drugs, many were also given hundreds of very strong electrical shocks and were subjected to sensory deprivation and other tortures all to find out the limits of the mind and to learn to bend, destroy, control, and reprogram people's minds against their will and without any knowledge of what was happening to them, being done to them and why, etc.

Importantly, they were given posthypnotic suggestions via repetitive tapes recordings that drilled the suggestions into their minds. Many underwent brainwashing, which actually worked as has been documented in many investigations and civil lawsuits. People were made to suffer complete amnesia. Then they were programmed anew via messages deeply imbedded into their subconscious while they were in a highly suggestible state of mind. It is this part of the projects that has remained covered up. People have been programmed to do the Empire's bidding, including to torture and assassinate others, etc.

The Empire builds up the dark arts
All of the various revelations must be linked together. The findings that survive from one project would be used by follow-on secret projects. Therefore, the Finders for instance would use the findings of MKULTRA and other projects upon which to build the ability to better control and program.

Also, techniques for going undetected and for convincing the general population to just "move on" after any revelation is built upon. The idea is naïve that evil doesn't learn its dark art from evil and compound it. If all the evil had been cleaned away upon earlier revelations and laws passed and orders issued, the torture methods that were recently revealed to the general public would not have been so easily rolled out on such a wide front.

It is important not to simply listen to what they say about how they have stopped or are stopping or have never, but rather to look at and to see and understand (not be fooled about) what they are obviously actually doing and to further understand the bottomless aspect of the evil of the minds doing those things that they ought not to be doing.
He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much. (Luke 16:10).

People in high places with plenty of power and who are controlling huge sums of money and directing the use of nearly all the resources of the world and who intentionally leave the poor to starve and who knowingly lie to go to war, etc., are capable of what depths of wickedness? Let us not be naïve.

It is important not to make their definitions your definitions. Their definitions are half-truths. They are twisted definitions calculated to program all. Think about it. Overcome it.

It was patriotic and for national security though, so claimed the unrepentant at the very top who authorized it. The unrepentant who carried out the worst torture they could imagine were given a pass by the system but not by Satan who waits for them.

Unrepentant is the operative word here. We will be judge by the words coming out of our own mouths. We will be judge by the standard we use to mete out justice. We will be judge by our own deeds. Hypocrisy is downfall.

At the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just. (Matthew 13:49).

The wicked define themselves. The just do their level best to live in accordance with the new commandment. The severing is consistent with the standard used here by the wicked. It isn't for vengeance. It isn't to satisfy some twisted, emotional, sadistic streak hiding in Jesus. It's to deliver the just out of the hands of the wicked and to save the world by bringing forth the new world.

Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come. (Matthew 12:31-32).

What is your standard? What standard do you apply in the here and now that will see you into true heaven? Is it warning others to do the new commandment? Is it living in accordance with that commandment?

President Gerald Ford issued an order precluding experimentation without the prior, written and informed consent of the subject. Presidents Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan issued reinforcing orders. However, as we have seen concerning all manner of laws and orders, George W. Bush will go ahead and do what he alone decides. The immorality and illegality of certain of his surveillance and interrogation methods hasn't stopped him. Certainly, he would have no problem secretly reversing the orders of Ford, Carter, and Reagan. Also, we have seen that it is US internal policy amongst the neocons that the US says one thing and does another—the so-called pious lie. In certain quarters, the US government pumps out laws and orders for public and false propaganda purposes without the slightest intention of abiding internally.

We know how hypocritical the US government has been, can be, and is being. It must stop. They will be forgiven if they just stop and repent.

After all, it was the US who made a huge deal out of what the Nazis had done. They vilified and demonized the Nazis both during and after the war. They tried some of them. They judged and condemned many at Nuremberg. They came up with the Nuremberg Code that expressly required informed consent. However, the US military and the CIA especially knowingly and willfully violated that very code. Do you trust them now?

How are they suddenly made trustworthy? Where is the outward manifestation of repentance? I don't see it. Do you?

We must bring forth, with or without them. It is their choice whether they will make themselves compatible with the truly repentant, contrite, penitent, and atoning.

The things that happened to people were so bad that people don't want to think about them, but that's what allows them to go on. Look, what the government has done to people and is still doing to people is so bad that no matter how hard you try to imagine how bad it is, it is really vastly worse than that. Those who are authorizing it and carrying it out know that of course, but they don't care. They do it, because they can. They do it, because they can get away with it. I don't mean that they aren't caught by other authorities who would punish them. I mean they aren't caught by their own consciences due largely because the general population turns away from looking at it and condemning it. Those who engage in such behavior are lifted up by those who choose to turn away. That lifting up reinforces the reprehensible behavior of authorizing torture and engaging in it. What the people must do is look straight at it and make sure that anyone who authorizes or engages in it is removed from all authority. All support of the system that allows for such activities must be removed. That is why you must become a real Christian.

You must understand that anyone who doesn't agree with this will find his or her soul being chastened by Satan's tax collectors. This is not a coercive threat. It's a warning out of concern for the welfare of the people who are tempted to continue in denial.

Do you believe in the deliberate governmental lies for a pretext for the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution revving up the Vietnam War? Do you believe in the Iran-Contra scandal?

What they don't know won't hurt them. In this case, the "they" is you. Only it isn't true that your ignorance is bliss or that it isn't harmful. Your ignorance is the facilitation of evil. Your silence and inaction once you've heard is even more sinful.
Fiction depicting truisms

These things seem to be out of fiction, because in a sense they are. The cover of plausible deniability of fiction writing is for many the only way they are willing to reveal truth. They don't as readily kill the fiction writers. I say readily, because daring artists depicting truisms have certainly been eliminated from the scene. That's what much of the blacklisting in conservative, capitalistic Hollywood was all about. I am not a fiction writer though. This work doesn't go on the fiction shelf any more than the poetry of The Bible places it on the fiction shelf. Everything starts with emotion. Fiction manifests. It can manifest truth or falsehood. The imagination predates the greater outwardly visible manifest. Things must first be conceived. That is why fiction and myth and legend show to be prophetic. Artists also mirror what is manifest, manifesting yet even more, bringing more to light and bringing more darkness depending upon the degree of unselfishness versus selfishness they emote or stimulate by their procreation that is their rearranging what God has supplied.

These things are the truth about the dark and false spirit. Do you think that just because someone rises in government, business, or the military that he or she somehow is purer than the general population? One actually must compromise to rise in the evil system. Do you think that the general population is a sure filter? Leaders follow the population even as they lead. Leaders are the creation of the system that runs on the general populations consent regardless of how manipulated that is by their chosen leaders.
The system is full of guile. It is not the system of real Christianity that is guileless and cannot live in the dead worldly system of satanic mammon. When the pure attempts to rise to the top, to surface, to become manifest, the competitive do everything they can not to share any space.

Do you automatically dismiss US radiation experiments on lower-class and orphaned children? They did it. It's documented. They don't deny it.

Do you automatically dismiss that the US imported Nazi experimenters to continue their torture experimentation so that the US ostensibly wouldn't fall behind any other country in anything no matter how inhumane. It's documented. They don't deny it anymore. To the system, everyone is expendable.

Violence corrupts

Torture, violence, breaks the person. It is corrupt and corrupting. It is in the polluted stream of consciousness of evil gods, human sacrifices, cannibalism, sadistic sex, multiple sex partners, orgies, pedophilia, incest, and other unclean practices.

Moses's job was actually to raise up humans as angels to go in and violently purge the land of all the wicked who were performing those ungodly acts. It was temporary, only a relative cleaning.

Jesus says don't patch the old garment. Jesus says that the fix must be radical. The fix must take place at the root cause that is the selfish heart. The change must be extreme Christlikeness.
You see, what Moses did as well-intentioned as it was, was to use the problem (hardheartedness) to solve the problem (a different mutation of the same disease of selfishness and hardheartedness). It wasn't his fault. The people were heavily, generationally conditioned to hardheartedness.

You don't want to be part of the problem. You want to be the solution. The solution is unselfishness.

What the Israelites did under Moses and then Joshua was ultimately still rooted in selfishness. The use of violence was still corrupt. That's why the house fell and fell and fell and will continue falling until they get the message. Moses of course knew in his heart of hearts that it was temporary. That's why he prophesied the coming of Jesus who would make things clear and plain so the mistakes could be eventually avoided.

Look at all the corruption that has recently been exposed. Much more corruption remains unexposed. For that reason, things are going to get much worse before they get better. Even as there are breaks in evil tidings, evil will thrash about more and more as it dies. This is critical for souls to understand and retain. It is the only way that souls will persevere through that process of witnessing the death throws.

The more dangerous a leak of the information for the system, the more it is covered up on pain of death. The more sinister the crime, the deeper is the cover. Through heavy compartmentalization, the FBI, CIA, and NSA, etc., can keep parts of those organizations from ever seeing the things that other parts of those organizations cover over. The system knows the personnel within to call upon to cover. The hedonistic rewards can be increased and increased since the wealthy have nearly bottomless pockets. Of course, if some loyalist becomes too greedy, he can be set up, discredited, or even made to disappear. It's all crime.

Hoarded wealth, wealth not employed completely for the many, the flock, is not seen as corruption. There is no leak of this information. There is no cover-up. It is conspicuous. They convinced the people to worship the rich.

However, The Bible clearly shows as does all history that such private wealth is indeed corruption. One cannot amass in the face of so much want without being hardhearted, which is a state of corruption.

Therefore, excuses that one is simply involved in big business when blatant wrong-doing surfaces are just rationalizations. When mundane rule breaking surprises many, the gaps between such revelations are no indication of a lack of corruption during those gaps. The corruption is fulltime. It is inherent within the whole system. It is on display, conspicuous, for ego sake.

However, turning the devils money to helping the poor and needy is right. That's what this work is about in part to start with.

So, the CIA and other US agencies and departments have done constant hellish things all for the sake of the perpetuation of the capitalist system of which that atrocious history is an inevitable reflection.

The US created Saddam Hussein and Osama bin Laden

Consider the irony, the hypocrisy, of the fact that the CIA put Saddam in power. He was a cog in the huge wheel of Soviet containment. Saddam was supported by the capitalists in the US, because Saddam was against the forces of greater fundamental fairness in Iraq than Saddam was prepared to embrace. The same applies to Afghanistan. Osama bin Laden was supported by the CIA against the left-leaning Afghan government that turned for protection to the Soviets. That Afghan government was for greater giving and sharing, and the capitalists in the US are dead set against that anywhere and at all times.

Nevertheless, Saddam did put into place public education and health that was way beyond anything the capitalists could tolerate in the long run. Saddam was a socialist with a ruthless side, which is not much better than a capitalist with a so-called humane side.

Don't forget, the US under Republicans Reagan and Bush-41 illegally supplied Iraq with chemical, biological, radiological, nuclear, and missile weapons material, equipment, and training. It's documented in the eight thousand pages the US neocons stripped out of the Iraqi Weapons Report to the UN Security Council just a few months before George W. Bush lied the US into war murdering tens of thousands of innocent people and planting more seeds for vengeance on all sides. Along with the twenty-four US corporations and the fifty-five US subsidiaries of European corporations directly involved, also implicated in Iraqgate are the US federal departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Defense, Energy, etc. Furthermore the US nuclear-weapons laboratories, Los Alamos, Lawrence Livermore, and Sandia National Laboratories, were heavily involved.

Iraqgate

The US was cleverer than the other major powers. The US did a slicker job with sleight of hand and shell or dummy international corporations and all manner of methods to conceal US taxpayer funding of the Iraq-Iran War. Much of it is known as Iraqgate. There is a movement afoot to change the reference known as Iraqgate to some other episode in more recent history to cover the tracks. The real Iraqgate concerns the weapons used primarily in the Iran-Iraq War (1980-88). Texas US congressman at the time and afterwards, Henry B. Gonzales, leaked the documents that showed the illegal conservative-Republican dealings. Much of the US funding was handled through a branch of the Banca Nazionale del Lavoro (BNL) in Atlanta, Georgia, US. That bank alone handled some 5.5 billion 1980's US dollars worth of illegal shipments. The Reagan administration, through the Reagan/Bush-41 CIA, for instance authorized covertly supplying cluster bombs to Iraq, involving the US-puppet dictatorship of Augusto Pinochet in Chile at the time. That is only the tip of the iceberg, since the CIA and others refuse to divulge the sleaze under the smokescreen of national security, which is nothing more than a double-dealing cover-up by a gang of betayers at the top.

Neoliberal Democrat collusion

What is more, the so-called centrist (neolib) Democrats under president Bill Clinton did not pursue the matter that implicated his two predecessors in office, Reagan and Bush-41 even though Clinton had campaigned promising to get to the bottom of it all. Clinton too is for the World capitalist Empire after all. He also didn't want to feel the ire of the anti-giving-and-sharing-all machine that is so-called free market, laissez faire. The centrist-Democrat thinking is that too much radical truth-telling would be too great a shock to the masses.

The mistake that is Burkan conservatism

The centrist Democrats are really Burkan conservatives, after Edmund Burke who was the consummate gradualist procrastinator and big on the concept of the loyal opposition, which is the heart and soul of the American two-party capitalist system.

You see, in America if you are not for capitalism, you are considered unloyal to God. The rich and powerful capitalists have paid to have everyone brainwashed through every means in their control, which is nearly everything, into feeling and thinking that God is a capitalist, which God is most certainly not. You don't have to take just my word for it. Ask God directly as you ought to.
Of course, you asking God directly is exactly what the capitalist-rich fear the most. It is why they seek so hard to control real Christianity from being able to speak out. Once you start doubting mammon worship and begin having faith in God, it will be all over for the capitalists expropriating and privatizing to themselves the inheritance of all, including your fair share, which in heaven is equal ownership of everything, which is small-c communism.

This is not to say that Edmund Burke was wrong concerning mistaken ideas in France that led to gratuitous violence during and after the French Revolution of his time. His prescription, however, was irrational traditionalism, gradualism, and frankly eternal procrastination rather than having faith in the whole truth. You see, the only reason to fear the truth is when half-truths are passed off as the whole truth.

The French Revolution was full of half-truths as was Burke’s prescription with its allowance for special, private privilege and advantage. The message of Jesus, contained in his new commandment, however, contains no such half-truths.

Jesus told his followers the whole truth, and his true followers engaged in absolutely no violence and turned away from appropriating for themselves special, private privilege and advantage.

Neither those who instigated and carried out the French Revolution nor Edmund Burke swore off violence. They didn't qualify all change with vocal and manifest admonitions against violence and evil coercion. Now, Jesus’s teachings and his original followers well predate both the French Revolution and Burke yet the revolution was bloody and Burke offered tiny steps leading to other than heaven.

In addition, ever since the Nixon Watergate tapes, the conservative Republicans destroy documents and emails, etc., that would fall into the hands of the Democrats before any offices change hands. You need to come to understand that the conservatives use the government as their private, gangster enterprise.

The conservative Republic elite laugh at the voters

They laugh at the voters (Republican, Democrat, and all others) all the way to the bank. They laugh at the conservative lower-class and middle-class Republican voters. They can't believe how stupid everyone is to trust them. They find it incredible how easy it has been and is for them to gain and maintain power and to engage in total sleaze and then walk away scot-free and filthy rich. They can't believe how dumb the middle class and lower class are to turn themselves over as troops to do their bidding in raping everything in sight. They laugh at the troops.

If you don't believe it, you just don't know how low one has to sink to do what manifests the evil fruit. To gain the world, one must gleefully worship the satanic spirit. One must revel in the insanity of it all. One must love the temporary feedback loop in the brain at all the power and control and wealth and impunity and insane adulation, etc.
Reagan and Bush-41 engaged in eighty shipments of biological weapons materials including anthrax, botulism toxin, Dengue fever virus, gangrene bacteria, and West Nile fever virus. That number of shipments is known. It does not mean that there were not additional secret shipments to Iraq.

Coalition of the bribed

It is important to understand that this reveals that the UN weapons inspectors in Iraq, with the cooperation of the companies and nations involved, knew fairly clearly what they needed to account for. Also remember that the UN weapons inspectors reported to the Security Council that Iraq had done well in cooperating with the inspection teams that the US refused to allow the time to continue and to finish the process. The neocons did not want the weapons inspectors to have more time, because they knew by then that nothing was ever going to turn up. Therefore, the neocons rushed the world into war by lies, obfuscation, bribes, intimidation, surveillance, blackmail, coercion, and all the other tools of gangsters and in direct violation of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of the US. The US corrupted the so-called Coalition of the Willing. It was, and is, really the coalition of the willfully apostate.

A detailed analysis of 50 years of data has revealed that the U.S. gives nations nearly 60 percent more cash in years when they have
Cover-up of the Iraqi Weapons Report

The Republicans physically took away the report before the full Security Council could see it and removed every reference to international corporations, etc. Therefore, none of the then ten rotating members of the Security Council ever saw the evidence before the Security Council was to vote on war against Iraq. That's illegal. That's the Republicans doing their dirty tricks on a global scale with the cooperation of the other permanent members of the Security Council.

You see, the leaders of the powers are very corrupt. The US is not better than the other powers in these matters.

Even though this is all very clear and plain to see, most of the people of the world are going to wait until the tribulation is upon them before they wake up to pay the ransom on their souls as outlined further on in this work.

During this exposed corrupt handling of the Iraqi Weapons Report, Bush-43 (George W. Bush) stood there brazenly before God and the entire world and repeatedly, along with all his cabal, judged and condemned Saddam Hussein. All the while Bush-43 knew full well that his own father and Donald Rumsfeld were, among thousands of others (government, military, industry), accomplices in war crimes, just as he had made himself by virtue of his direct involvement in the cover-up.

---

Republicans helped gas the Iranians

The Republicans (in the name of every American, ruining the reputation of every American, making it harder for any real Christian American to spread the word of truth, giving God a bad name by claiming to be Christians), kept right on supplying Hussein with targeting data (from intelligence satellites) on Iranian troop movements, etc., for better illegal gassing.

Then Americans wonder why the Iranians hate the US Empire and its bed partners in Israel.

Republicans overthrew the Iranian democracy

Remember, it was the Republicans, through Kermit "Kim" Roosevelt, Jr., the grandson of president Teddy Roosevelt that over threw Iran's duly elected prime minister, Mohammed Mosaddegh, in CIA Operation Ajax that installed a brutal puppet dictatorship, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, and train the Iranian secret police, the SAVAK, in CIA/Nazi torture techniques they used extensively thereafter on the Iranian people. The Republicans, with the British, overthrew Mosaddegh for the sake of the British Petroleum Company that had unfair contracts in Iran. Iran had decided to nationalize its own oil. That CIA coup became the prototype for subsequent CIA coups around the world. They were cheaper and faster than frontal military attacks and didn't have to be sold to the American public since they were clandestine operations.

Just one year later, the CIA in Operation PBSUCCESS, overthrew the duly elected president, Jacobo Arbenz Guzmán ("Arbenz"), of Guatemala primarily for the sake of the United Fruit Company, which had a monopoly under the dictatorship that preceded Arbenz by about seven years.

Three percent of the population owned seventy percent of the land. Arbenz undertook a land reform project. The United Fruit Company complained to the Eisenhower administration that commenced to overthrow the progressive Arbenz. The CIA bombed the capital of Guatemala. Some one hundred thousand died in the violence that surrounded and came on the heels of the US conducted coup in the form of a thirty-year civil war.

These CIA coups and the torture and other means employed were no secret to the rest of the world that has ended up hating the corrupt and greedy Democrats and Republicans, unfortunately mistaking them in many instances for all Americans. I add Democrats here, because it was under Democratic president Harry Truman that the original plans for overthrowing Arbenz were laid. Just as with the false pretext of al Qaeda's link to Saddam Hussein, the pretext of a Soviet link to Arbenz proved false. The CIA found no evidence in their search of Guatemalan documents. Richard Nixon though staged a show for TV with the new dictators who produced hardline Communist literature they claimed to have found in government offices after the overthrow of the democracy.

Now, have you been listening to the US talking about a civil war in Iraq? Whose fault is that?

All of this only served the cause of hardline Muslim clerics, under exiled ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who in the 1979 Islamic Revolution finally overthrew Pahlavi, nationalized Iran's oil industry, and took Americans hostage in the US Embassy for 444 days.

Where do the terms "kinder," "gentler," and "compassionate" fit in any of this? Do you feel safer and more secure with the conservative Republicans running things? Do you feel humane under a capitalistic system? Wouldn't you rather be a real Christian living in heaven for the sake of everyone?

The Iraqgate weapons transfers under Reagan and Bush-41 violated international weapons bans to which the US is signatory along with the other permanent members of the UN Security Council. Many European nations, Russia, and China violated the international weapons embargo against Iraq while also supplying Iran. That is why the permanent members of the UN Security Council agreed to censor the Iraqi weapons report by removing all the references to the international corporations, government departments, and nuclear laboratories.

The major powers are in the arms racket. They're all racketeers.
The US and other major powers complicit in war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide

In addition, because some of the crimes were committed during Iraq's known use of the ban weapons against the Iranians (it has been estimated that some one hundred thousand to three-quarters of a million Iranians were gassed to death), the crimes constitute complicity in indisputable war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide (with the use of the weapons against the Kurds in March, 1988).

Some five thousand Kurdish men, women, and children died in the attack. There is also evidence that Iran also used chemicals supplied by permanent members of the UN Security Council. In fact, there are allegations that it was Iranian gas that actually killed the Kurdish civilians.

The truth needs to come out so that humanity can know that it is the Holy Spirit that is exposing the wrong-doing of the unrepentant and so that humanity can undergo required universal repentance before the earth is destroyed.

Now you know why Saddam Hussein is being tried for something where evidence of Ronald Reagan and George H. W. Bush authorized shipments of illegal weapons won't be admissible.

Understand also that when the US sells weapons to other nations, the money used to purchase those weapons goes to rich Americans rather than for needed social services for the people.
When one nation gains a weapons advantage, nations around that nation begin buying weapons also. This contributes to a global arms race making everyone, everyone's children and grandchildren, less safe and secure.

Now you know why the US intelligence at first "knew" (before sanctions and inspections had been so effective—although you know there are some weapons still somewhere) that Iraq had weapons of mass destruction. The US and others had illegally supplied them.

This also tells you why the US was able to push the UN powers to look the other way while the US invaded Iraq.

It tells you why the US military allowed the severe looting of the various ministries in Iraq, so that incriminating documents could disappear in the chaos (plausible deniability).

It also tells you why George W. Bush was so bold as to say upon his election that now he didn't have to answer to anyone.

It tells you why the general American public is so ill-informed and kept so gullible, since everything is so heavily censored by the propaganda machine.

Mainstream media cover-up of Iraqgate

Amy Goodman of DemocracyNow.org interviewed Andreas Zumach December 18th, 2002, on alternative TV and radio breaking the Iraqgate story in the US. No major corporate medium really picked up the story. During the lead up to the second US invasion of Iraq, the rest of the world knew about the eight thousand pages the US had stripped from the twelve-thousand page Iraqi Weapons Report; however, the information was deliberately suppressed by US corporate media. That's the heart and soul of US propaganda (mental manipulation) at work against the American people. The general American population was deceived by the conservative Republicans and not because that's what's best for America.

Not only that, but the so-called liberal-Democrat leadership also refused to run with the story. They are afraid of all the money behind the military-industrial complex. They are afraid of being called soft on terrorism just as the Democrats decades ago were afraid of being perceived as being soft on Communism or soft on crime. See those words "soft on crime."

That's what the Republicans said about the Democrats. Now who is soft on crime?

Who is committing the biggest crimes in history? This, of course, is no advocacy for anything but realizing the soul-killing hypocrisy that is deeply embedded within the entire conservative capitalistic system that is nothing more than sophisticated gangsterism and enslavement of the human spirit. It is terrorism and invites terrorism.

Election fraud

In order to retain power, do you think those who cheat on international weapons transfers and invade others to grab trillions of dollars in oil would also stoop to election fraud? It has been alleged that concerning the US presidential election in 2004, in every location where the exit polling diverged from the official election data beyond the statistical margin of error, the area swung only in one direction: To George W. Bush. Also those areas were only where paperless (un-auditible) voting technologies were used. The exit polling gave John Kerry a landslide victory. The official results gave George W. Bush fifty-one percent of the votes. The odds against the exit polling being as wrong as is claimed by Bush followers are very high. What do those odds shoot up to when discrepancies are only in the areas where the ballots are un-auditible? What do they shoot up to when the discrepancies only fall in favor of one side?

It is not possible to determine these things without access to the original data. Such access has been denied. It there is nothing to hide, why deny access? There is no moral stricture supporting denying such access.

Since the 2000 election was so controversial, it would have relieved many fears had the 2004 election results been open to public scrutiny. The fact that it has been covered over at the very least only contributes to a feeling of justified suspicion.

If the system is not made to be auditible, next time, certain unethical parties will be sure to cheat where there are paper backups and be sure to alter the vote in some areas in favor of the opposition just to take away the appearance of manipulation.
No clean and fair elections possible with capitalism

Can there be clean and fair elections in the capitalistic system? No. It is inherently impossible. The greedy spirit and the cheating spirit come together. You don't get one without the other. You can either be democratic or you can be capitalistic. You cannot be both.

The only way capitalism has survived in America is through anti-democracy. Given the uncoerced choice, the people always choose equitable distribution (per the way of the Apostles). Coercion in such matters is falsehood. Coercion is the enemy of righteousness and real law and real order.

Capitalism is cheating

There are real rules (righteous, Godly rules), and there is making up your own. Capitalists have made up their own rules. Demons have taken over the rule of the world. That's why it isn't heaven. They rule through lying and cheating. That's the only way to rise in selfishness. Unselfishness and honesty go together.

Selfishness and dishonesty go together. There's no breaking the connections.

The demons create, stimulate, and manipulate selfishness through violence, theft, and sexual depravity, and the like.

They are as subtle as subtle can be and they are as blatant as blatant can be, all depending upon how the evil spirit is moving them.
They're subtle when they leave certain people untouched. Ignoring them and isolating them draws less mundane attention to them. That's why they've left Sibel Edmonds (more on her later) and other whistleblowers alive. It gives the gangsters plausible deniability. After all, if they were real gangsters, wouldn't they act as crudely as Al Capone?

Look, the Mafia families are much more professional these days. That's why you don't hear that much about them. They avoid doing things that would draw negative attention to their activities. They operate in greater stealth than they used to. You hear less about their gangsterism than you do about the gangsterism of Bush, Cheney, and Rumsfeld.

It isn't that they aren't there doing organized crime. They're just more sophisticated about it after having so much experience to work out how to stay out of sight.

The same applies to the neocons. As Donald Rumsfeld and George W. Bush and the rest have repeatedly said about those they call the terrorists, they adapt. The neocon gangsters have adapted and somewhat patiently have waited for their moment openly to shoot for the Global Empire.

They use to call such people megalomaniacs. It was reverse psychology. Call others megalomaniacs while planning yourself to take over the world and to set up a dynasty.

Don't kid yourself. The endgame is not democracy. It's imperial and dynastic. The Antichrist is bloodline oriented.
False Republic

Some president can be timed such that he or she will be in office when things get just bad enough that he or she and the inner circle declare a complete end to democracy with the duped people going along with it for safety and security and their own selfish holdings in the Empire. That can happen regardless of whether or not the people temporarily sweep the Republicans out of office in a backlash. When they do, they'll breathe easier, congratulate themselves, drop their mundane guard, and be stabbed in the back again. This pattern repeats in any false republic.

"Republic" means "of the people." It is supposed to be government of the people. A false republic is a trick of the elite. Where any class having private advantage make the rules, there you will find falsehood. To be truly "of the people," it cannot be of the elite.

George W. Bush is not a man of, or for, the people. He's not a populist. He doesn't head up a republic. He is an elitist in the worst sense of the word.

He is part of the anti-republic network of evil that is the plague of humanity. Everywhere there is fighting, it is there.

All the major corporations, all the subsidiaries, their entire supply chain, and their governments are willingly sucked in for the gain of expropriation and exploitation off death, destruction, pollution, and all the rest of the bad. All are complicit. All are accomplices in horrendous and horrific suffering of the guilty and innocent alike. All are accomplices in the worst kinds of crimes against God. The media that turn a blind eye are accomplices in those crimes. It is all incestuous.

Don't rationalize about small business

Don't rationalize this away by saying that the middle-sized and small-sized businesses are not complicit. Everywhere there is selfishness, there is complicity. The top and bottom in the world of selfishness are simply a reflection of each other.

The current establishment will fall

With very few exceptions, every place I ever worked where I was given any decision-making authority and asked to manage others, I ended up fighting higher management and ownership over worker safety and health issues and environmental issues and other issues. I was terminated and terminated and terminated for refusing to remove safety guards from equipment, for blowing the whistle on having pregnant immigrants using chemicals that cause birth defects, for refusing to do illegal toxic dumping, and the list goes on and on. These were small, middle, and large businesses and corporations. I fought against senior-level management calling all workers "scum" and all blacks "n g g rs." And I was ignored when I suggested profit-sharing, employee ownership, democracy in the workplace, etc.

I fought the same mentalities in the universities I attended and was downgraded continually for it. Whenever I regurgitated the party line, I regularly received the highest grade in the class.
Whenever I wrote the truth, I was severely downgraded.

My worst downgrading came when I wrote that it was wrong that the Palestinians were forced out of their homes and pushed off their ancestral lands for the sake of creating the current state of Israel. I received a score of zero. The powers that be were attempting to condition me with punishment for thinking out of line. This is the way the entire selfish system perpetuates itself. God's plan is to raise up those souls who breakthrough.

I don't relate these things to toot my own horn. I made countless mistakes in my life. I say them rather to expose the incompatibility of capitalism with Christianity that necessarily includes giving and sharing and cooperating. That's what matters.

Naively, I tried to encourage anti-selfishness within capitalism. It is impossible: New wine, old wineskin. It won't hold it. Now the real approach is crystal clear and is outlined in this work: Real Christianity: New wineskin for the new wine. It will hold it. Peacefully, with perseverance, displace capitalism with Christianity.

Bring forth the new establishment

God's plan is to conflate souls in the ideal. Reality is the result of our core emotions. Our feelings end up translated into our environment. The collective environment is the result of aggregate feelings. Wars, death, destruction reflect the core of those who bring those things forth. They felt those things into reality. Selfish, greedy emotions are resulting in more powerful storms obvious to all. It is a sign for all, a warning. Humanity is abusing the hospitality of the earth. The opposite emotions can manifest the opposite. Peace, life, creation, and calm and patient earth, come out of from that kind of heart.

The current establishment is incompatible with the proper core emotions to sustain humanity and the earth. The core emotions must change to what will bring forth the new establishment conducive to sustainability, and better, all the way to the ideal.

This is the teaching of Jesus Christ to his Apostles. He handed it to them. Some grasped it better than others. Their predispositions, preconceptions, prior training, conditioning, and remaining impressionability filtered their reception, colored their views, and influenced their messages and deeds.

Reveal the truth

Why do I reveal all of this so openly? Won't the enemy use it? The enemy is already using it. It is already aware that manipulating feelings to the core, results in a changed reality. The enemy is keeping it a secret so that it will be, they falsely imagine, their exclusive tool.

The reason it is right to reveal this is because in the final analysis, God raises up the righteous and merciful, those who do not wish to expropriate or exploit in selfishness but rather wish to bring forth the bounty in the spirit of cooperation in direct opposition to competition. It is this suppressed truth that will bring down evil. Evil knows it and does what it can to continue suppressing it.

Telling the truth to the people, as Jesus did, that they can with enough of the right kind of love, call upon God to make things happen, is exactly what will cause sons and daughters to prophesy and old men to dream dreams and young men to see visions. (Joel 2:28).

Ignoring the warning

Even though they have been warned, the evil go right on stealing the inheritance of all. They still network their entire chain of supply. They still bully, bribe, intimidate, imprison, murder, condition and condition and condition, and send out their hypnotic suggestions to their followers.

Breaking the spell

The mesmerists know that once subjects know the suggestions are evil (harmful), many will reject the suggestions even on the subconscious level. The spell is broken. This is why Jesus revealed to the masses what sin is (selfishness) so that they could overcome the spell of the enemy of righteousness.

Look, things keep getting generally worse even as they get better in areas. What used to be thought of as bad is claimed to be harmless by today's lower standards. The children's cartoons and other shows seem sick and depraved next to earlier times, even though those earlier times were full of terrible violence. Children are doing much worse crime at a much earlier age and showing little to no remorse. This is the continual breakdown in the general culture, even though the culture wasn't whole or healthy before. The reason today's children are screwed up is because the preceding generation was, and is, screwed up. You don't think that insanity comes from purity do you?

The generation that almost saw the light

The prior generation (the hippy generation) almost saw the light. It was looking for peace. It was asking for peace. Even toy weapons and things military disappeared from the toy stores. Many looked outside mainstream so-called Christianity, since they knew it was wrong by its fruit. They looked to Hinduism and Buddhism, etc.

Many turned a little later to Jesus, but unfortunately got sucked into garbage interpretations full of nationalism and patriotism, confusing evil with godliness.

Time to see the light

Now the time has come for people to turn to the real message of Jesus that is serving God and not capitalism or false nationalism (flesh over the Holy Spirit) or attendant patriotism.

God and country are not the same thing, far from it. Jesus made that clear. We are not supposed to be citizens of America or any other current nation-state. We are not supposed to be citizens of the current world. We are supposed to be citizens of heaven that will be conflated with earth as a result. The United States is not heaven. It is built upon fossil fuels and wars and is aiming for worse. The living style is a huge liability for the entire planet. That's not godly. Anyone who says it is, is a liar badmouthing God. It's mammon: Worldly private gain; the false god that cannot be served while being righteous serving the real God. The more capitalistic you are, the more you're selling your soul. That's how it is.

You see, the righteous spirit, God through and in Jesus, calls you to wake up out of the trance and spell of selfishness. The more a soul awakens, the more that soul conflates with the spirit that is God. That ruins the selfish, opposites spirit's world. That spirit of selfishness fights to regain control. It attacks the awaken spirit with all the suggestions it has developed through the ages. It attacked Jesus.

This is why The Bible contains the imagery of the serpent waiting to devour the child of God as soon as possible, even as it is coming forth from the womb. When it couldn't do that, it still sought to kill the messenger later. It killed the flesh but only on the illusory level. However, it wasn't able to kill the message. When it couldn't kill the message, it still sought to control it by co-opting it and twisting it.

That tactic, of course, was told to us by Jesus as stated right in the text the evil conjures have continually attempted to usurp. By Jesus's telling us, we are kept awake out of the spell and trance.

We continue to know that unselfishness and cooperation are right and selfishness and competition for the sake of selfishness are wrong. We continue on the path to become completely awake despite the efforts of the evil spellbinders to frighten us. We continue the transformation and regeneration process into the spirit of righteousness no matter what assaults evil heaps upon us.

Therefore, snap out of the spellbinding of advertising, public relations, propaganda, consumerism, materialism, commercialism, militancy, sexual temptation, and all the rest. Be free and liberated into unselfish love in action (the spirit of oneness in service and friendship) that is the greatest enemy of capitalism, mammon (filthy lucre), war, and sexual confusion. Turn money into the realm of cooperation. Turn your weapons into the tools of feeding the flock of peace. Turn zeal to feeding the sexual appetite to the zeal of feeding the starving for righteousness' sake. Wake up, neighbor. Emote conflation. Separate yourself to the spirit of oneness.

Reverse the flow

Take the gain of evil, and turn it to the good. The more evil is redirected, the more the real bounty will come. Thy kingdom come. Thusly evil will be reversed out of existence. Transform the money. Transform the weapons. Transform yourself.

The very matter of the weapons before being transformed was once the tool of evil to issue forth death and destruction so evil could devour feeding its fat spirit. The same applies to money and to you. We are called to beat the weapons into tools to bring forth the good fruit only. The Christians laid their money at the Apostles feet, and it was transformed through their use into what helped sustain the community of the whole. Each person's heart was remade in the spirit of wholeness, peace, cooperation, and faith in God.

Don't fall for the spirit that confuses you trying to get you not to be enlisted in the cause of bringing forth the real kingdom on earth. Heaven and earth will marry. They will be conflated. The spirit of righteousness who is God will gather all the flesh and matter of creation unto itself as spirit manifest, that it is even now, not to the death and torment of the soul or righteousness but to the end of all suffering forever.

Therefore, see the corporations of Satan for what they are. Don't be deluded by their suggestions they spew to keep you under in a trance. Look at the weapons that are already aimed at you. Look at the weapons that they hope cover the entire spectrum of reality that are aimed at you. The evil spirit wants to convince and intimidate you and keep you convinced that what it is up to is right and good. Don't fall for it. Don't go to sleep about it. Keep a watch as Jesus said so that you will see the signs and be ready and not fall into temptation and be tricked into competition, wrath, and other unhealthy forms of lust.

And the LORD said unto Satan, Whence comest thou? Then Satan answered the LORD, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it. (Job 1:7).

What is the evil spirit doing? "Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil." (Matthew 4:1). What was the evil spirit using to tempt Jesus? Satan offered Jesus the Worldly Empire of selfishness. Everyone who falls for that temptation is falling down to worship evil and is not a friend of Jesus and is not a Christian.

Don't fall for the suggestions of the worldly rulers (the rulers of selfishness). Don't fall for their front, their sheep's clothing, their façade as angels of light. Inwardly, they are ravening wolves who pervert the word of God with their half-truths to keep you in their bloody, unrepentant, unatoning, apostate clutches and more deeply to integrate and spread Satan's Empire.

O full of all subtility and all mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord? (Acts 13:10).

The worldly seek to twist Christianity.

For false Christs and false prophets shall rise, and shall shew signs and wonders, to seduce, if it were possible, even the elect. (Mark 13:22).

False prophets of the Pentagon

Was the Shock and Awe military bombing campaign of Baghdad by the US part of the signs and wonders of false prophets to seduce? Absolutely.

Look, the truth was revealed in the image behind the stage in the CENTCOM press briefing room at Camp As Sayliyah, Doha, Qatar. The image is the world in nothing but various shades of gray to black. That is the world that awaits the followers of the false Christs.

If you do not overcome those suggestions, your soul will die. Stop being pervertible. Stop being afraid for your flesh. Your soul transcends the flesh just as all spirit does. Trust in the spirit of righteousness who will save and redeem all the worthy.

The inmates are in charge

Look, this world has become a prison for the criminally insane in which the inmates are in charge. The only way out of the prison system is through good behavior. The entire prison can be transformed by repentant inmates. In addition, souls outlast the term in this prison. They are transferred as it were. Some are transferred to maximum security or other levels of hell while others are released into various levels of freedom that is heaven depending upon their good deeds and the real condition of their hearts. The innocent are born into this prison. The corruption process begins instantly even while the voice of righteousness continues speaking. The inmates vie for the hearts and souls of each other. The facility itself was once pristine in that there was no sin. At that time, it was not a prison. It was transformed into a prison as souls were cast out of heaven as they turned continually to selfishness.
Why does America forget?

America has elected the fox again and again to watch the chicken coop. Why? Why does the US seemingly suffer amnesia?

Well, for one, amnesia is built into the flesh. That's why we have written history. It is built in for both good and bad reasons. The good is that people don't continue suffering once they are forgiven. The bad is so evil can continue testing humanity.

Secondly, one doesn't forget what one never knew. Most Americans don't read searching for the meaning of life. Most don't read much regardless. Mostly, they watch TV and such. When they do read, it's usually trash. Because of this, those who read for truth can be under the false impression that everyone forgets or ignores the lessons.

Many avoid the lessons, because it yokes them. They want to be selfish. They are conditioned for it. They are habitual and need their fixes. It is painful for them to behave.

Still able to pretend: Reagan

For instance, the Iran-Iraq War came at a time when the conservative Republicans could depend upon the people feeling some relief after the terrible time culminating in conservative Republican, Richard Nixon. They thought it was behind them, so they forgot about it. They wanted to forget about their own bad personal experiences. They wanted to pamper themselves with material goods and personal services and the exercise of their egos by showing off through their most conspicuous consumption. They pretended the nation had outgrown evil tendencies and could just move on or forward without vigilance. Well, you get what you pay for, and they paid for what they are getting.

They didn't set up a watch. They didn't heed those who independently watched and then warned: The real prophets. They moved on pretending that there were reasons to feel good about what they are (unrepentant; in denial). They moved on as the Cold War supposedly ended and the peace dividend was to rain bounty upon the whole world.

They overlooked Iran-Contra in the spirit of not wanting to believe that any grandfatherly figure could possibly be a child molester. Well, Ronald Reagan molested the entire planet with his accomplices in crime. George H. W. Bush was involved in these dealings and pardoned those who could testify against him. The power of the president to pardon others to cover up his own wrongdoing is nothing short of satanic.

President Gerald Ford was appointed by president Nixon. Ford was not elected to either the presidency or the vice presidency. Then Ford pardoned Nixon for Nixon's known wrong-doing. Then Bush-41 pardoned the Reagan crew for its wrong-doing.

Then we had the slant-drilling of Iraq by Kuwait. Many people don't know this, but Kuwait was stealing Iraqi oil by drilling at a slant from Kuwait to under Iraq to get the oil. Saddam Hussein found out, was furious, and wanted to invade and take part of Kuwait, all of which had been a part of Iraq before the European powers arbitrarily decided otherwise for political advantage. The slant-drilling was in addition to Kuwait's demanding payment of fourteen billion dollars loaned to Iraq for its war with Iran. Kuwait was also keeping oil production high so Iraq's oil profits were lower, making it more of a strain for Iraq to repay Kuwait. Plus, Kuwait wouldn't address Saddam Hussein's grievances, including about the slant-drilling, stealing oil from under Iraq. The Bush-41 administration was encouraging the Kuwaitis in this. The Bush people had long-term designs on Iraqi oil. They needed the pretext for the partial invasion—the oil regions. The Bush-41 administration said clearly to Saddam that they (the US government) had no interest in interfering. Saddam though took the whole of Kuwait (it is a very small country). That's when George H. W. Bush made his famous statement that Saddam's "invasion shall not stand."

America back to being duped and liking it

The Americans were duped by the neocons that finally the US was standing on principle and would come to the rescue of the little guy. Disinformation was pumped out about atrocities being committed by Iraqis, not that the facts of the invasion weren't bad enough. However, coming to the rescue of the little guy had nothing to do with it. That was what Paul Wolfowitz wanted the people to think though. He wanted the masses to think of it as Kennedyesque where America would "pay any price and bear any burden" to be free from the totalitarianism of Stalinism and Maoism or anything else that threatened freedom.

Bush-43 got a lot of American public support not because Americans were worried about the price of gas but because lots of Americans hate people who torture others and Saddam was painted as one who did that. He was painted as Hilteresque.

Now what? What are they going to do now that the whole world knows that the US tortures and has been all along? Are they just going to wait for the effects of amnesia? Are they just going to wait for the people to once again falsely imagine that their fellow Americans, the neocons, aren't capable of such things anymore, that they have modernized passed such behavior?

Look at the situation. Many Americans have suddenly found out that there are a whole lot of other Americans that they would really be willing to go to war against because they torture people. Many Americans have found out and are finding out that there are lots of people in high places who would have been very at home giving orders in Nazi Germany. It would be ironic that many of them are Jews except we know that unless they overcome, victims usually assume the behavior of their abusers.

Selfish application of the peace dividend: Yuppiedom

After Reagan and Bush-41, after their huge, counter-productive military buildup, Bill Clinton took some of the money out of Pentagon spending to balance the fiscal budget (Reagan huge deficit) and even begin to pay down the national debt. The rest of the general financial emphasis of the nation unfortunately was placed on increasing the feeding of the me-generation’s obsession with personal materialism.

The meaning of life increasingly became the stream of income and expenses on self-centered things such as entertainment, self-pampering, and conspicuous living for ego. Their egos grew and were massaged. They relished the idea of others envying them. They measured their own value by how their fellow materialist dupes measured them and one another, by how much money they could get flowing to them and how much they could then show that by their possessions and thoughtless and wasteful spending.

They said, why think about the poor? Poor people aren't worth anything. They aren't worth the time it takes to consider them. The rich need wage slaves anyway. The poor will get the scraps they need. Don't talk about the righteousness of the cause of any of the poor. Don't blame anything on the rich. All the poor have to do is dream the American Dream the way all the Yuppies do, and it will come true for them too if they don't give up and they merit it coming true, do what it takes [evil]. They too can pretend they are beautiful people [shallow, greedy, materialists, blind to the worldwide plight of the poor and ignoring the coming environmental crises, wars, and other Biblical plagues, etc.]. They can ignore the immoral and unethical deeds done to get that income flowing to them. That's ancient history [even if it was just last week]. Move on. Forget about it. What's done is done. Those are the facts on the ground. It can't be undone. What are you, some kind of communist [Christian]? God bless America.

Svengalis kept by the Superrich

During the Hippy Era, the superrich paid people to come up with ways to stop Americans from heading in the unselfish direction, the anti-capitalist direction.

It must be understood that real Hippies were exceptionally peaceful, generous, and hospitable. They were headed in the communist direction. That's why communes sprang up. They were headed in the real-Christian direction in those regards. Only the confusion of free love (sex without comprehending the selfishness inherent within the lack of monogamy and fidelity) and the selfishness and attended violence that came from outside concerning drugs were major obstacles to real Christianity taking hold.

The superrich were threatened by the giving and sharing, antiwar mentality. They took their money and paid people to brainstorm ways of re-diverting the mainstream direction away from giving and sharing all and away from peace and back to greed and war. That's why, and how, all the conservative think tanks sprang up. The superrich used their wealth to control the airwaves (and soon the Internet) to remove the voices of peace and to revise the facts of history to make greed and violence seem good again to the general population. That's the truth.

Clinton rode in on a compromising centrist (decidedly capitalist, inherently selfish) wave.
The Democratic Party after all had never been an established peace party.

The neoliberal/conservative American Yuppies were those who bought into the mesmerizing done by the Svengalis hired by the superrich for their think tanks and public-relations firms. The combination of those Svengalis and the Yuppies contributed greatly to making materialism the national religion with their creed of greed. They had a field day spoiling and corrupting themselves and their children at the direct expense of the rest of creation.

Yup stands for Young, Upwardly mobile (also urban), Professional. One who is upwardly mobile is a social climber. It means a snob, an elitist or elitist wannabe. It is the mentality of joining the ranks of those who think others are below them because those others have stolen less, taken less, accumulated less or not at all.

They look down upon Jesus.

They value the falsehood that is social status by private so-called assets. They value what they are told to value by the clique at the top of the money pyramid.

Yuppiedom is the worse thing that came out of the inability of people properly to sort out the good from the bad in the Hippy and Yippie (politically active Hippy) movements.

That sorting process, rightfully dividing the word, is the essence of real Christianity.

Yuppies turn their back on the idea that there were many human beings in the state of nature who were naturally good-spirited, unselfish souls, and that it is desirable to recapture that spirit of which all human beings are capable. They turn their backs upon the logical conclusion of consent of the governed, meaning that coercion and applied duress, whether through military or economic means, is evil. They fail to understand or care that a truly free market is free of such coercion and duress and begins and remains level rather than pyramid shaped—all rise because all share equally. They turn their backs on free inquiry. Rejecting temptation to evil is always in order, but to see the good requires inquiry. In other words, they buy into censoring the real liberalism (overcoming) of Isaiah and more so Jesus Christ. They buy into censoring anything that brings to light the immorality of capitalism. They buy into censoring the truth that capitalism plays all sides against the other for the sole sake of the tip of the pyramid. They don't bother to think about whether it is moral or not. They don't want the discomfort of realizing or being reminded that they have been evil by being so self-centered. They spend their time slavishly and robotically pursuing, capturing, enslaving, harming, and killing if necessary their targeted market, their fellow human beings. It is still a slave market. It is not even mundane liberty. It is forced upon all. It is very far from divine liberty that is freedom from temptation. It is rather the call of, and caving into, temptation. They make the content of character take a backseat to the tools of social climbing and opening private economic doors via an educational system bent upon indoctrination in that social-climbing ethos—a very counter-productive, destructive thing around the world, as is becoming painfully obvious even for the most myopic judges. They put morality below private gain, which is no real gain at all but rather the mark of abject moral failure.

Enterprise for private gain (private enterprise) even when the risk of loss is spread across investors buying in via a supposed public stock market is still at its root seizing the rightful inheritance of others. The root of the word "enterprise" is "ghend." Its sense is to take as a predator.

Capitalism is predatory. It is a marauding spirit.
It is a swindle. It creates victims. Capitalism is a mugging.

Christianity: The opposite of Yuppedom

On the other hand, Christianity advocates and works toward sharing all for all. It advocates and works toward completely public enterprise, rendering enterprise the opposite of predatory.
The real Church of the Christian is the public state of the Christian. That state (the church) is public and not the privatization of the capitalists. Nothing coming from God's creation is by rights a commodity for recompense. It cannot rightfully be owned by any but all. It cannot rightfully be bought or sold. Such commerce is antichrist. God did not create the earth for the sake of those who have cordoned it off for selfish reasons. The real Church will create zones that are free of this selfishness.
Those zones will spread until they encompass the whole of the earth. It is prophesied.

Meanwhile, those who hated the peace dividend, such as it was, squandered it and had their hired conjurers (Svengalis) in their conservative think tanks come up with the plan to get back to war profiteering as never before. That's where things stand: Selfish and myopic.

What's the object of exposing evil?

What's the object here? Is it to dig into the nations' dirty laundry completely abandoning discretion? Where does care become the evil of selfishness? Is it vindictive to point out the danger of unrepentance? How much exposure of evil is necessary to get the point of danger across to save people in advance—to see them spared from unimaginably greater suffering?

What is there to fear in exposure other than being wrongfully discredited by the dead, lost, and unrepentant? If the messenger is wrongfully judged and condemned, what is the damage to the message and to those who would have otherwise benefited? Which people are responsible for that damage other than the assailant and the willing dupe? Is it best to be completely self-deprecating in a tell-all manner in anticipation of attacks designed to discredit the message, because those to whom the message is directed (the unrepentant) fear exposure and being discredited themselves in their unrepentance?
Seeing contradiction is seeing the light: The Bible

The Bible shows these running debates that are very much still at work today in people's hearts. It is the whole point of The Bible, to shed sorting light for our edification to change us, to straighten us and soften us at the same time.

How can we overcome the evil of hypocrisy? That is what comes out as the central question posed by the entirety of The Bible.

How can it help seemingly to run down that which is held up as great? If it really isn't great and we really want to be good, we must see that it isn't great and say so and head for what is truly good. We must straighten out the language: Our emotional (spiritual) direction.

God is the absolute absence of hypocrisy

This is the starting place for evaluating everything. God is perfect. Now interpret everything in that light.

The Bible is the story of human minds reaching for understanding (unselfishness, the absence of hypocrisy). That is why it contains mundane contradictions. The juxtaposition of words and deeds and their outcomes refines human understanding of the nature of God for those who truly desire to come to know. Magnifying ignored and seemingly subtle contradictions is the movement from shadow into greater and greater light. This is the movement that capitalism inherently has thwarted and led many to abandon.
This is why by co-opting and twisting Christianity, the capitalists have contributed to the counter-productive concept that antichrist is the giving and sharing spirit that is small-c communism. This is how the capitalists have made Christianity seem violent and greedy to many in the world when Jesus was purely pacific and generous and consistent (non-hypocritical) of spirit. This is how violence against capitalism has been made to appear to many as the right approach.

The object is to warn that Americanism and capitalism are the wrong path. It is not to harm. Care is the whole point. It is not vengeful to call others to join in repentance. It is forgiving. As for how much exposure is necessary, for some souls, the prophecy is that no amount of exposure in this age will suffice. They make of themselves the root of evil. They will refuse to repent and help in the cause of righteousness.

Many will say how could we have been helping with the cause since this work hadn't been written. How can we be blamed? The Bible contains the good news of Jesus that definitely calls for what is called for in this work. It has all been a point of just how much we ask, seek, and knock, how much we are really worth or how valuable we are becoming within context. God knows that there have been many who have deliberately and knowingly covered up the true meaning of the words and deeds of Jesus Christ. The fact that others have covered up the truth is a mitigating factor for the duped. The focus though must be upon making yourself, ourselves, the good tree and noting but, to bring forth good results only.
I wasn't working in my Father's vineyard either. Jesus had his period of public ministry. Before that, his life was a lead-up to that most public activity. Now is always the time for souls to come out of the fields of mammon enslavement and to return to our Father's fields of real bounty for all.

Doing that will result in bounty for which science will not be able to account.

The capitalists have purchased mundane science

They paid for it to be a part of their religion. Mammon and science go hand in hand. Science and technology are going to bump semantical heads with the metaphysical. They already are, but the scientists and technologists just don't see yet. It will be part of the process of division. Hardheartedness will lead many to cause spiritual wrath. Warnings will be mistaken for cause. The cause will be the selfish hardheartedness of those who will attack the messengers. The messengers will warn, and will have powers science will not understand or be able to explain. If hardheartedness were to stop, the things warned about would not occur. The selfish will say to the messengers to stop speaking the truth. They will say that if evil is stopped being called evil then all the negative consequences will cease. Arrogance will prevail for a season. Then forces will come, against which science and arrogance will not prevail. That which is built upon testing (that is the lack of pure faith in God, lack of pure faith in the consistent character of God) will not be able to save the faithless. This is prophecy.
If you think that there has been too much exposure of inconsistencies in human traditions, and dealing with, contradictions, you don't understand. If you think that things will return to the way they used to be where the state contained exposure, you cannot read the signs. Selfishness is going to increase even as it decreases. If you think you've seen the worst of the disturbances in individual humans and in humanity and in nature, you don't understand. It is going to become much, much worse. Things have to become so bad that they bring humanity to the breaking point. Things have to reach the point where absolutely no one has an excuse for not seeing the cause and effect of selfishness and willfulness and testing God, which means putting faith in money and science.

The breaking point, the dividing point, is when the selfish are split off and put where they can no longer harm the unselfish, put their of their own doing and not by any offence or harm by the elect. This is why all of this has to be said so clearly and plainly to make what used to be hidden and subtle stand out in very clear contrast. The people's eyes must be opened wide to the real truth, not the falsehoods spewed out by the Pentagon and everyone and the system supporting it. All will be given the clearest opportunity possible to identify with God or against God, with striving with our all for the absence of hypocrisy and for bringing forth the real bounty or against those things. No one will rightfully be able to claim that he or she wasn't informed well enough, that he or she didn't have enough signs of the truth, that it wasn't fair. The opportunity to let your compassion flow during the outpouring of the Holy Spirit and the many voices calling for ending the violence, greed, and depravity will be too informative to claim ignorance as an excuse. Signs will abound as they always have for those who have been softhearted enough to see them, to care enough to notice the cause and effect of selfishness and pain and suffering. What more do you need to know to know the right things to do, what we ought to be doing versus what we are doing?

I will prophesy to you now so that when it comes it will be a sign to you. The worst time in all of history is yet to come. This is the meaning of the expression that it is darkest before the dawn. It will be very, very dark, literally and spiritually, before the dawning of the next age.

To drink of the cup from which Jesus drank, to pass by faith in money and science, to pass into heaven, people must accept the repentance of fellow sinners. The people must forgive former lives. If they don't do that, they will not be saved. This is a different sense-meaning than the concept of God's grace, so think before imagining that God will save sinners who are unremorseful. This means here that even though the sinner said the words "I'm sorry God," if he or she just continues sinning, the soil was not cared for so the root of righteousness could become firmly established and send out vines and branches laded only with good fruit and good seed. They will reap the rotten fruit of their own wicked sowing on wicked ground, their own making and the making of all the unrepentant.
Don't learn about Jesus from those who don't know him

Persevere no matter how bad things are or get. You will become, are, what you believe and do. Find yourself in God. That is the only way to come to know one's true self.

A working conscience is the great beginning. It will tell you that capitalism is not righteous. A deep sense of unworthiness is proper. Hating this life and yourself in it is the beginning of the path to a real life in unselfish love in action.

Hating everyone in this life is the beginning of the path to really loving everyone, because it is the beginning of hating selfishness for everyone sins in selfishness. Feeling this way and understanding it is the beginning of the path to loving those you've rightfully hated including yourself. This is where being the first and last at the same time comes in. Don't imagine that Jesus didn't experience all these same emotions for the same reasons.

As for the errors of youth Jesus may have experienced, I do not know exactly. He did say that he was being made strait for his task, which means he was not as strait before. Who can doubt Jesus's own words? Those who wish to withhold the real food from heaven will seek to doubt Jesus's own words and to twist them to justify their greed and other iniquities.

They don't want you to turn and to rise. However, I want you to. Those who won't with the sufficient words from Jesus and the Holy Spirit, are the only ones who can't. If you will, you can. Do it.
The selfish want to hold you down by the lie that you had to never sin to rise. Don't let them. They want that, because then they will feel a false sense of comfort. There won't be souls around, cleaned up and raised up by God's angels in humility, against whom the selfish will be compared showing just how wrong they are. They want Christlikeness to be unattainable. They want Jesus to be beyond him with whom we may become one. They, the rich empire builders, made up their traditions to fool the people in this regard. See through it.

Jesus suffered in his life. He felt for those around him and extended that concern to the whole of humanity. He was tormented by the evil of the rulers, but he more than kept mundane sanity. He asked for answers and was given them. They were in the prophecy that he read was pointing directly to him. Was he innocent? Yes. He was born innocent, made to be straight, and reborn into innocence. That's God's plan for our souls.

If we had to remain perfectly straight to become so, we would be wasting all effort to overcome temptation. Jesus was tempted. He was temptable. He said so. He isn't temptable now.

To those who call this heresy, I say your interpretation is in error and reading comprehension too low. Your traditions are mistaken. Your hearts are too hard. You mislead people keeping them down, keeping them from abandoning the traditional way of mammon, keeping them from giving to share together all for all, doing the good deeds without looking for recompense.
Now there is still prophecy to unfold, as there will be until the end of mundane time. There will be those who come to warn. They will be attacked. They will warn, and their warning will be prophecy that will be fulfilled through no fault of their own but through the fault of those who would not heed the warning.

When a human being maliciously molest and hurts a bear cub before its mother, that mother will rebuke the human being. That rebuke is not sinning. If human kind maliciously molest and hurts the planet, which it is doing, the spirit will rebuke the human beings with plagues and other maladies without sin.

The messenger, the prophet who feels what is coming, is not the sinner. Moses felt things that came into being not out of malice, but out of love for his brothers and sisters. He was not a nationalist. He knew the prophecy was for the whole world to be saved. He knew that Joseph had intermarried with an Egyptian. Moses himself took and Ethiopian wife. Moses was not the sinner between Moses and pharaoh. Pharaoh brought it upon himself and his followers. Pharaoh was selfish, arrogant, willful, egotistical, greedy, and violent. Moses spoke the plagues in faith as moved by the Holy Spirit. That is the way it is for those God deems worthy.

You know they will go after people and attempt to entangle them and accuse them for speaking truth. They will say the truth-tellers are of the devil. Even pharaoh didn't say that of Moses.

Of course, Jesus overcame wrathful feelings. He raised the standard. He exposed the hypocrisy. He warned of things to come since the people would not turn. Those things happened. It is certainly not Jesus's fault.

Jesus's actions were a necessary continuation/climax in the salvation of souls and the world (planet, universe, the whole of existence). Without his actions, the status quo would not have been rebuked, but he was not the sinner. The perpetuators brought it on themselves by refusing to first and foremost consider all those in need. It was their absence of love that killed them. It was their absence of love that murdered Jesus. However, Jesus's love saved him.

Evil is a conspiracy

Look, Jesus was a conspiratorial thinker and rightly so. Evil is a conspiracy by definition. Did Jesus also know that it takes place on both the conscious and subconscious levels? Of course he did. Jesus's mission was to make us more cognizant of what goes on at the subconscious level, making us more conscious of it, and also making us better able to see what is truly conscious. After all, compare to Jesus, the unrepentant Pharisees were always sleep-walking at best.

So, how much of the behavioral pattern of individual conservative Republicans and all others is clear to them to be in the stream of evil and how much of the behavior of family members is the responsibility of other members, hence showing an evil spirit running through that family, is all measurable against the words and deeds of Jesus Christ.
Does evil run in families? Of course it does. Can an individual family member breakout of that stream? Of course he or she can. Can an entire family turn? Yes. The issue is have they, will they, and to stay. The intention of offspring certainly can improve and return to God. If not for that, we would all be doomed.

The remnant of America will have turned

Can the nation of America turn and repent? Will it adopt the new wineskin and the new wine, the spirit necessitating doing away with capitalism all voluntarily without coercing anyone who doesn’t wish to turn from faith in mammon to faith in God, giving and sharing all as did the first Apostles of Christ? The remnant of America will have done just that.

American duplicity in the Iraq-Iran War

The US knew full well that Iraq was gassing the Iranians but turned a blind eye as the US gave Iraq military intelligence and more against Iran. The US must repent of that. The US sent Saddam Hussein all sorts of mixed signals. All of this is just the tip of the iceberg. The US had also armed Iran. America must repent of that and all the other selfish, evil deeds it has done.

Billions of dollars were made by corporations throughout the process of war-profiteering in a war that cost over a million lives. Many of those corporations had extremely close ties to the conservative-Republican administrations and their officials. They are far from the kingdom.

All of this was covered up by the administrations. Government investigations were superficial at best. The neoliberals of the Democratic Leadership Council turned a blind eye.

In addition, George W. Bush wanted control of Iraq's oil for the sake of ego, for the sake of building up the Empire per the Paul Wolfowitz Doctrine of controlling the resources that any other would-be rival empires might need. George W. Bush also wanted to outdo his father.

That aspect has more to do with his personality and choices than any single thing. Out doing his father even plays a role in the dismantling of the CIA. His father had been director of the CIA. If the CIA is brought historically lower, George rises relative to his father.

Don't misconstrue this as a statement in favor of the CIA. We are not in favor of the CIA or any of the intelligence agencies anywhere in the world. We firmly know that all of them are heading in the wrong direction. Secrets, material barriers, and borders are illusory.

His father was the US ambassador to the UN. George W. seeks to further weaken the UN. His father is close to the Arabs and backed down the Israel Lobby. George W. cozies up to Israel and the neocon, false Zionists. His father was for balance of power and containment. George W. intentionally destabilizes. His father is an Episcopalian. George W. is a Deep South, conservative, evangelical, dominionist/Reconstructionist. His father was ambassador to China. George W. seeks to check the Chinese in a huge way.
George W. Bush wants to go down in history as the president who more than any other president took the gloves off to greatly increase the Empire. He's outdoing James Polk and Teddy Roosevelt.

George W. Bush doesn't know, because he's spiritually dead

It is telling that when Bob Woodward was interviewing him in 2003 for Woodward's book, Plan of Attack, about Bush-43's Iraq-war plan, Woodward asked Bush how history would judge the Iraq War. Bush replied with a smile, "History, we won't know. We'll all be dead." The reason this is telling is because it is totally unchristian. Christians won't be dead. They will know how history turns out. They will know how they measured up to the truth in this life. Bush's unchristian view was public information during the 2004 presidential election, yet the so-called Christian-right turned out for Bush as one of their own. What does that tell you about those calling themselves conservative-Republican Christians?

It is also telling that in the presidential debates with John Kerry, Bush was asked whether he thought that homosexuality is a choice, meaning is homosexually genetically predetermined. Bush answered, "I don't know." His position on life after death and on the power of the spirit to change any behavior should have informed true believers that George W. Bush doesn't have the message of Christ written on his heart. The conservative-Republican Christians were taken in by a fraud for the sake of the Electoral College. It is the spiritually blind leading the spiritually blind.

---

They also don't care that the United States Electoral College gives each state a number of electors to choose the president and vice president equal to its total number of US senators and House members. This gives states with lower populations a disproportionate voice in selecting the president. The original idea was to keep the centers of population from gaining too much power over the more rural states.

Check and balance the inherent evil in the nation. That isn't having the law of God written on one's heart.

False Christians often live in what are referred to as the exurbs in more rural states, thereby giving those false Christians a compounded disproportionate voice in selecting the president and US senators for that matter.

The exurbs are usually beyond the bedroom communities surrounding urban areas of various sizes. Today, many of the false Christians live and work in the exurbs so they can better control their family's exposure to the evils of the city and can spread out to have some distance between families. They also can control the local politics. They take their news and cues more from the Empire than does any other segment of the population. They are taught not to question authority. This is very convenient for the authority of Satan.
George W. Bush knew that the conservative evangelicals have been steeped in the notion that uniting the nations around the cause of peaceful settlement of disputes is something else. They been taught that country is first, right or wrong. Therefore, George W. saw it as a great waste of time to try to convince the UN to go along with the US invasion of Baghdad. Nevertheless, he figured what's the harm in gaming the UN some.

Gaming the UN

Colin Powell and others wanted cover. They insisted that it was necessary that the administration create the impression through the UN that Bush had exhausted peaceful international legal recourse considering the imminent threat Saddam was painted as being.

We all knew at the time that Bush had wanted to just go straight to invasion even before issuing Saddam Hussein any ultimatum. All of that was in the mainstream US news. We knew that the British were completely aware of that and that they were explaining to Bush that the rest of the world would be left with too much ammunition against the Bush-43 administration and the Blair government were Bush not to game the UN system. There is the sin of the Blair government.

Blair government: American, European, or both?

Tony Blair and his closest confidants knew full well exactly what is contained within the Downing Street Memo. They can't deny it. It's their memo. Rather than being honest at the time, they plied Bush to create a smoke screen. They did everything they could to smooth out the appearance of the reckless Bush who was blatantly ignoring political risks in every dimension. Bush simply saw their caution as weakness. They were afraid to act the gunslinger, too afraid to employ the big stick.

Blair and his government wanted to further the Anglo-American Empire. They saw in Bush's plan the opportunity to gain a great coattail effect over the entire Middle East.

Even though Blair and company want nothing more than to further the Anglo-American Empire they didn't want to burn their European and UN bridges, as Bush and John Bolton and other neocons are panting to do. They really want slowly to drag the whole of the European Union in under the Anglo-American Empire. They plan to do that via widening, but not deepening the integration of, the European Union. That way, the US would have the greatest opportunity of playing power politics with Europe and favoring the Anglo-Saxons of the UK. Therefore, the Blair government selfishly manipulated the situation burning the candle at both ends but leaning way toward Bush.

The flame came too close for comfort. Blair and his ministers have cooked their own goose (ruined their golden opportunity). Of course, they couldn't do anything else. Their hearts were not in the right place. They didn't have what it takes to say openly to the world that the intelligence and facts are being fixed around the policy, as so many other honest appraisers were saying at the time.
Anglo-American Empire

Now, you may doubt that the British have such high designs as this Anglo-American Empire. You must understand that it wasn't that long ago that the British Empire was the global Empire. It was the first empire with a truly global reach. At its height, the sun never set on the British Empire. Some twenty-five percent of the world's population and a third of its land was under British imperial and colonial control. They miss having that kind of power. They can get a sense of it back vicariously through an extremely close alliance with the US, their offspring.

Jack Straw said, "We should work up a plan for an ultimatum to Saddam to allow back in the UN weapons inspectors. This would also help with the legal justification for the use of force."

Listen to that. "Help with the legal justification." Now, despite this, Saddam did in fact allow the UN weapons inspectors back in. The inspectors found nothing. Where was the legal justification in that case? Jack Straw cannot possibly be so stupid as to have been thinking anything but two things when he said that. Saddam would refused to allow inspectors back in or the inspectors would find something. There is no way that he, Straw, could have been worried about justification but have seen it as being mundanely legal to go to war without evidence of either a refusal or actual weapons of mass destruction. Tony Blair made part of this point by saying, "it would make a big difference politically and legally if Saddam refused to allow in the UN inspectors." He said he knew that they had to have "the political strategy to give the military plan the space to work."
that: "Political strategy." It means pretext. The British Defense Secretary understood this, because he said, "It would be important for the Prime Minister to set out the political context to Bush." It is obvious that they all understood each others' thinking and were all driving at the same thing, namely to convince Bush to create a smoke screen or pretext for invasion.

They knew too that it would be mundanely illegal to attack Saddam if he allowed the inspectors back in and they found nothing, which happened.

In the memos Conclusions section, it says under point "(f)" that "We must not ignore the legal issues." Think of that. Within the context of the whole memo, it means they had to remind themselves how things would appear from a legal standpoint. It speaks to the recklessness and lawlessness of George W. Bush's administration. It speaks to the potential for the Blair government to go ahead with actions without a real mundanely legal basis. It speaks to the fact that the Blair government was going about creating the semblance of legality for invasion.

It is telling that the memo does not address any terrorist linkages between Iraq and any known terrorist groups despite the language that "Bush wanted to remove Saddam, through military action, justified by the conjunction of terrorism and WMD." The British government focused solely upon weapons of mass destruction. Even in that, it acknowledged that Iraq was behind Libya, North Korea, and Iran in weapons of mass destruction development. Invasion for regime change was okay concerning Iraq, but according to the prime minister, Tony Blair, "There were different strategies for dealing with Libya and Iran."

Well, Libya has decided to open up for capitalist profits and rather than face military action.

The build-up to the US bombing of Iran

Iran is in the middle of having to defend itself against a negative just as was Saddam Hussein. They are being called upon by the neoconservatives in the US administration to prove they aren't working to build atom bombs. Now, how does a nation-state prove it isn't building an atom bomb? The burden of proof is on the accuser in any just society.

It is the burden of the US to show the American people and the world reasonable evidence for probable cause in even suspecting the Iranians of working on nuclear weapons development. This is not to say that the Iranians have not undertaken such efforts. It is, however, to say that the American people would be fools to allow themselves to be knowingly duped yet again. On the heels of the fraudulent US invasion of Baghdad, Iraq, they would be condemning themselves.

They could not plead ignorance to God and expect to receive no stripes. All offenses would be licensed in such a kingdom. That is not God's kingdom. Knowing this, all Christians are set against war in every case. They cannot feign ignorance.

George W. Bush labeled Iran one of the nations in his Axis of Evil. According to George W. Bush and his speech writers, this Axis of Evil... consisted of Iran, Iraq, North Korea, and their supposed allies in terror. Bush claimed that the named countries were pursuing weapons of mass destruction that threaten the Empire and its more or less vassal states.

We have seen, though, that neoconservative charges against Iraq were never substantiated but were actually fraudulently devised by the neocons as a pretext for, among other things, stealing control of the oil under Iraq.

Now the American people are again being asked to accept unsubstantiated claims for reasons to ratchet up the saber rattling against Iran, Syria, Venezuela, Cuba, Belarus, Myanmar (Burma), Zimbabwe, Somalia, and any other much smaller and much weaker nation that may impede the Empire’s ability to feed its insatiable greed.

The neocon plan is to saturate the world with unsubstantiated allegations against these nations and dictate to the world the actions that will be taken until those nations and others are intimidated, threatened, and isolated into cowed submission or they are forced to knuckle under via brute military force. The neocon method, as we have plainly seen with Iraq, is to bait and switch. They will sell the American people and much of the willing world on lies and mingle in half-truths for effect. Then they will later claim justification, despite the lies, for having rid the world of tyrannies. These neocon methods are not the way to peace and never will be.

Their is actually a tyranny of lies on the path to war and the abomination of desolation. Their prayers for war are worse to God then sacrificing pigs on his altar, as the usurper, Antiochus IV Epiphanes, did in Jerusalem. Pigs represent wallowing in their own excrement in selfishness.

Of course, the history of Persia (Iran) goes way back. Certainly, the conservative (churlish), fundamentalist (letter-only versus the spirit and letter) Muslims, who control the minds and hearts of much of the Iranian population, are mistaken in following Mohammed. However, the Americans and Israelites are exceedingly wrong to be following their wholly unchristian agenda.

Now, Iran's president, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, is upset at the treatment of the people in Palestine. He is engaged in debating who constitutes the indigenous peoples of the area. The people who are called today "Palestinians" maintain that the people called today "Hebrews" were never in the area to the extent they claim. This is a disingenuous position considering that Mohammed acknowledged the People of the Book, meaning the Jews of The Bible. Mohammed tried to turn some of The Bible on its head by, among other ploys, switching Ishmael for Isaac; however, the Qur'an does not deny wholesale the historical population of Hebrews in the area.

Many Hebrews maintain that the Palestinians were far from a large population in the area until after the Hebrews began moving back into the area during the twentieth century and creating commerce on a larger scale. This of course is a relative term and the argument suggests that it is okay to steal even one person's land or home. Sharing is one thing, Taking is another. The Palestinians were evicted even as many fled. The population of the whole world has gone up just as the Palestinian population has increased.

US aid to Israel

In addition, this somehow suggests that the Hebrews are superior beings since they were more commercially successful. Well, correct me if I'm wrong but I have been given to understand that the state of Israel has received more money per capita from the US than any place else in the world. The aid amounts to over one hundred billion US dollars since 1949. That's a lot of money when one figures the population of Israel at about now seven million. That doesn't include adjustments for inflation, which makes the value of the aid considerably higher. It doesn't include the loans to Israel that are routinely forgiven by the US government. It doesn't include the military hardware that is loaned to Israel. It doesn't include Pentagon contracts that are steered toward Israeli contractors. It doesn't include the aid beneficiaries in other countries being steered by the US government to receive US aid through Israeli contractors who obviously benefit by the arrangement. It doesn't include the interest Israel has charged the US on late US aid payments to Israel. It is also my understanding that much of the military aid money must be spent on US technology, so the US is getting back some of the funding in a manner that reinforces the US military-industrial complex and power elite that includes many supporters of Israel, many who contribute money to pro-Israeli PAC's (political action committees) that in turn contribute campaign funds to Israeli supporters in Congress, etc. So it is a big circle... of mutual benefactors and beneficiaries—a cozy relationship of capitalists and empire builders.

I'm not against foreign aid, but there are people in the world who are far, far worse off than the Israelis. Those people are barely getting a penny a day if that. A very low estimate is $2,560,000,000 ÷ 7,000,000 people = $365.7 per person for Israel. That's a dollar per day while billions on earth live on less than a dollar per day. The actual dollar figure is close to double that above, since Israel really gets about five to six billion a year. Of course, that amount doesn't include the private funds that flow to Israel from wealthy Jews and others in the US. Israel has been receiving about one-fifth of all US foreign aid even though Israel as a nation would be far from destitute without it. Why have they in particular been chosen by the US power elite to receive so much more aid than anyone else? Also, everyone else who receives aid has to account to the US for how it is used. Israel doesn't.

The real word of God hasn't been given to them. It is wrong to shake the dust from one's feet before attempting peace.
Giving is great, but it really should be spread around so that the neediest on earth are cared for first and foremost. That would end all the hostility anyway. That would reduce all the military threats on all sides of the Palestinian-Israeli, Arab-Israeli, and Islamic-Jewish (US) conflict.

International law and the Palestinian Occupied Territories

In addition, according to international law (even if one allows for the violent re-creation of Israel after nearly two thousand years), Israel has no legal right to 1) any of the Occupied Territories 2) any of the so-called Jewish settlements within any of the Occupied Territories 3) any of the city of Jerusalem or 4) to keep any Palestinian from returning to Israel who was displaced by war. That's the mundane law to which Israel is signatory.

We know that the Israelis in general have been horrendously evil neighbors. Israel had legalized torture from 1987 to 1999. It admittedly tortured countless Palestinians. It demolished countless homes of Palestinians in the Occupied Territories. There is repenting and atoning to do on a national scale. It won't happen without a real Christian conversion of the nation. They will be told. Woe to all those who ignore it.

This is not to say that other nations are not built upon lands taken from others. The history of the planet is full of that. The histories of the United Kingdom and United States are full of that. At the same time, that is no excuse for current Israel. Sharing should have always been the way. That it isn't yet the way is evil. That they aren't working toward that is evil. That there are those within Israel and the US who think that God wants the Israelis to shove others off the land is wrong. It isn't merciful at all. God hates it. Many are going to learn that the hard way.

Rather than giving, sharing, and loving one's neighbor, we see the ridiculous argument over whether or not UN Resolution 242 requires Israel to withdraw from all the territory occupied during the 1967 War or just some of the territory. If it isn't all, then they could withdraw from just one square inch and call the condition satisfied.

This is the same semantical slight of hand used in the Hussein-McMahon Correspondence and the follow-on documents used to claim Israel is a legally constituted state.

The point is that both sides at the time knew what is intended and language is written that is deliberately vague enough to allow for a deviation from the original intentions while maintaining plausible deniability. This is conservative bad faith.

Conservatives always negotiate in bad faith

It is the same tactic used by the neocons on John McCain concerning the prohibition of torture that McCain outwardly pushed through the US Congress. He looks better as a presidential candidate to the undiscerning for having mounted the effort even while the US continues right on with torturing people with terrible psychological torture such as prolonged sensory deprivation and stress positions, etc.
US Nazi doctrine

The Detainee Treatment Act of 2005 contains a habeas-corpus loophole for Guantánamo Bay and Camp X-Ray (Delta). There are some other deliberate vagaries about intention of CIA operatives in attempting to obtain information versus inflicting pain and also a defense of following orders which can be used by a perpetrator who may claim that the orders were grey in his or her view. There is also the presidential signing statement asserting the unitary executive position and really the claim that all's fair in war to protect the nation's security. That's a Nazi doctrine that kriegsraison geht vor kriegsmanner, which translates as "the necessities of war take precedence over the rules of war." That Nazi doctrine was denounced by the US at Nuremberg. You can see that the neocons do their best to gain as much ground as they can for the president to be able to act with impunity against anyone he deems an enemy of the state.

USA Patriot Act

Viet Dinh was assistant attorney general under George W. Bush. Viet is the principal author of the sinister USA Patriot Act. Michael Chertoff, secretary of homeland security during hurricane Katrina helped co-author the scheme. Both of them were instrumental in the use of racial-and-ethnic profiling primarily of Arabs, illegal and legal immigrants and naturalized and American-born citizens. They put aside probable cause (reasonable suspicion) and due process of law (judicial and congressional oversight), which is the ultimate goal in creating a totalitarian dictatorship of Worldly Empire with one absolute leader of the religion of mammon as the principal head of the multi-national (bloodline and greedy-spirited family) Beast.

US fascist treatment of Arabs

Many people of Middle Eastern, Arab, or Muslim descent have been detained for months and years without probable cause or due process. In many cases, their families have not been allowed to visit them or communicate with them. Their families have not been allowed to know their whereabouts. Many of the detainees have been held in solitary confinement in tiny holding cells with their windows blacked out and with electric lights and video cameras running twenty-four hours a day. Many have been subjected to other abuses. They have been held in cold cells in the winter without benefit of even blankets or shoes. Many have not been allowed to talk with an attorney. They have not been told of any charges against them. They have been picked up without any arrest warrants. They have been picked up under an immigration pretext, so it has been the Immigration and Naturalization Service that has swept up people to avoid the legal constraints placed on other governmental departments that deal with US citizens. The human rights of innocent prisoners have been seriously eroded under the guise of national security. This is backwards. It is exactly the opposite of the teaching of Jesus.

The USA Patriot Act was not written by the US Congress. The US Congress had come up with legislation in a joint committee. That legislation was passed out of the committee with unanimous consent for the consideration of the whole US Congress. In the dead of the night, the night before the scheduled floor vote on the Act, the executive branch's version, written by the fascists in the US Justice Department, was surreptitiously slipped in to substitute for the Congressional, bipartisan, unanimous version. With no time to read the three-hundred-plus page bill, the US Congress passed the Act.

The American people have since been told over and over that the USA Patriot Act is all about anti-terrorism. That is a huge lie unless you buy into the argument that everyone but the fascists are terrorists or in league with them or being used by them or facilitating them. Jesus was a terrorist under that view.

The Act is the result of decades of fascist craving for sadistic, dictatorial so-called order. The Act is used against anti-fascists who have been redefined as criminal suspects.

Since it is done under cloak-and-dagger secrecy labeled national security which is all classified by the executive branch, the people without security clearance such as elected representatives and appointed or elected judges are denied the ability to protect the people from executive abuses and power grabbing.

US working to turn dissenters into terrorists

The Act has been used against dissenters. Under the Act, fascist law-enforcement personnel have been sent into peaceful protest groups as agents provocateur (provokers), instigators, antagonists, inciters. Such agents have advocated to groups that they set off bombs in public places. Think about that. Government agents are advocating, with the government's knowledge, that antiwar and other groups become violent and destroy men's lives and cause major destruction, including blowing up bridges, etc. They do this for a variety of reasons.

They want to catch the groups on audio and video memory discussing such things to use as evidence against them, to take credit for thwarting plots, for arrests (collars) on their résumés, for raises and promotions, for the spotlight of honors within their groups and from the whole of society if they can get it, to harm the reputation of peaceful groups, ruin the people who wish to walk the narrow way, bring down Jesus and God, and destroy the implications of the new commandment.

Consider the consequences if any people hearing the government's temptations who would otherwise never succumb to the temptation to violence were to cave in and carry out such violence and destruction in another place or time. Consider how the peaceful groups feel about the government after they learn that the government tried to turn them to the dark side?

It is the government falling to the temptation of tempting others. It is the government proselytizing for Satan. It is the US government in the role of Satan as tempter. This is very poorly directed government; counter-productive; increasing disorder in the minds of the people; advocating for lawlessness; antichrist, anti-God government.

There is a line between undercover surveillance and infiltration versus entrapment. Many infiltrators work to stimulate illegal actions by the members of groups infiltrated. Agents have claimed to groups how the agents could supply things needed to carry out the illegal activities the agents have suggested and encouraged. Such activities by the agents of the government constitutes entrapment: Encouraging and making illegal acts possible that would not necessarily have been otherwise contemplated by the target victim(s). It is immoral and illegal of any government.

Also, plainclothes government agents have actually been caught on video\textsuperscript{63} going through peaceful crowds walking up to unsuspecting people standing there listening to speakers and shooting those peaceful people in their faces and eyes with pepper spray, in an attempt to incite a riot so that so-called law-enforcement officers would have a phony excuse to sweep in for major violence and arrests. Such government is out of control, highly fascistic, sadistic, and sinister. It cannot be trusted. It is unworthy to lead or serve the people.

\textsuperscript{63} Nonny de la Peña. \textit{Unconstitutional - The War On Our Civil Liberties}, a video. Robert Greenwald, producer. In conjunction with the ACLU.
http://informationcleainghouse.info/article13176.htm
There are several other things to understand about the USA Patriot Act. It is blatantly unconstitutional in the mundane sense. It is a degree of martial law without a constitutional declaration of war. The lines have been completely blurred or erased between the Pentagon and civilian law enforcement. The NSA is secretly involved in domestic spying and is under the Pentagon. The FBI and Pentagon share databases. Citizen-dissenters are viewed as a type of terrorist regardless of the constitutional guarantees of dissent.

As interpreted by the Bush-43 administration, under the Act, US citizens can be designated enemy combatants even though there is absolutely no probable cause for such a designation. They can be taken from US soil, held in military or governmental or privatized prisons, and tried, or not, under military tribunal and so-called military law, all for the purpose of terrorizing the population into compliance with fascist, laissez-faire, military takeover and dominance.

George W. Bush won't let the US Supreme Court have the final word

Much of this is up in the air because of vague Supreme Court rulings. Regardless, George W. Bush won't be pushed by the Supreme Court. He's already made clear to the US Congress that his is the last word. As for the Court, he'll say one thing and do another. In the end, he'll say that national security trumps any findings by the Supreme Court that limit him in anyway he doesn't want to be limited. He's the president and he wants the president to be the supreme branch of government, not co-equal. He wants to go down in history as the president who did the most to push the country toward undisguised imperialism and the presidency toward dictatorship. He’s crossed the line from a republic and beyond checks and balances.

The conservative Republicans have been interpreting things to allow that any US citizen can be taken by the executive branch, and all the executive branch has to say are the magic words "national security." Then no one can supposedly do anything. Just trust this fascist set-up they say.

US Napoleonic law

Prisoners are held under a device developed under John Ashcroft called "hold until cleared." This means guilty until proven innocent. That’s Napoleonic law and un-American, as it were. It is decidedly unconstitutional.

Prisoners are placed in a twilight zone where there is no law that protects them, because the Bush-43 monsters have defined loopholes through and around every protection. It is what they have spent their lives doing—looking for loopholes and workarounds for the sake of fascism. They think the Geneva Conventions are "quaint" to use Alberto Gonzales's description. Also, the US Constitution is so riddled with hypocrisy that the neocons just walk right by the whole thing.

They'll get away with it as long as the people continue working for the corrupt system rather than working for God or until the earth rises up against them. Actually, those two things happen Together. The people stop working for selfishness and the earth vomits out the Satanists, neocons, false Zionists, and all the rest of the self-centered, conceited, unrepentant ones.

Global larceny

The conservatives are corrupt. They are venal, having succumbed to the bribery of Satan. They don't strive for integrity. They are lawless. They have committed global larceny, unlawfully appropriated Palestinian and Iraqi lands, homes, farms, orchards, natural resources, and water, among other things. They have conspired to deprive the rest of humanity of the equal inheritance of all, the whole of the earth and creation, the commons granted by God.

They hate Jesus, God, and God's government. They are the willful ones, the rebellious, reckless, and dangerous ones. They are undependable and untrustworthy. They should not be leading anyone anywhere. No one should follow them. They are lousy shepherds and stewards. They are ruining the earth and leading souls to hell.

No privacy

The neocons have undone the constitutional guarantee of the people to be secure from unreasonable search and seizure. As we all have seen the inevitable results of their push, everyone in the US is being spied upon despite the liars' denials. They are watching patterns everywhere. You may not have been singled out yet, but your actions have been run through... their computer screening-system looking for any indication that you are not in lockstep with them, cowed, weakened, and destroyed in spirit. They will sneak into your private life and private abode violating your space and pry around in your personal possessions and effects, even taking things, without letting you know. Don't imagine that your safety deposit box at your bank is safe from their prying eyes either. Banks served with National Security Letters have just rolled over.

They will do this in an attempt to jostle you. Be forewarned.

We are not saying that you should be doing anything immoral to hide. If the mundane government were trustworthy, could be trusted not to abuse, privacy wouldn't matter. It wouldn't be mundane any longer. It would be divine. God knows everything, but God is perfectly trustworthy. You are always completely naked before God, through and through. God though can be trusted so that in the end you know you are being treated fairly, justly, with perfect knowledge. God knows your heart. God will allow you to improve, heal, grow, rise, spiritually, righteously, etc. The neocons don't do that. They do the opposite. We are saying that they are showing their hypocrisy by their actions that violate their own supposedly highest laws.

They can't bring forth heaven

If the prince of the world were right, if the shepherds were good, if the stewards were doing a proper job, Jesus would have had no work to do. The prince of the world would have brought forth. Where's heaven? Why isn't it here? It's been withheld by the souls who can't bring it. If they are followed, they don't lead to it. When will the people tire of following those who lead them to hell?

It is supposed to be the people's government, but it isn't. It belongs to certain of the rich. It belongs to Satan. Souls possessed by the sick, selfish spirit run it. Surely you can see that.

The new commandment no longer to be strange

Does any of their activity under the USA Patriot Act sound consistent with the direction of the US Declaration of Independence. Privacy was supposed to be sacred. Is the Declaration of Independence now quaint to the chief law-enforcement officers of America? Yes. Just as with the Geneva Conventions, the Declaration of Independence is quaint. It goes much further though. The Bible and the Gospel are quaint. Heaven is quaint. They mean old-fashioned and naïve. They were useful for their times, but now they are weak.

Well, the Declaration of Independence and the Geneva Conventions and the USA Patriot Act and the evil acts described in The Bible certainly all fall short, but the neocons mean fall short of greater needed hell. The real Christians mean fall short of God's law, the new commandment. The new commandment is not some law that can become useless. Where's your mind?
Creating hardheartedness

What has been the result of all of this? The answer is more of what caused the problem in the first place. Hardheartedness begets hardheartedness. That's the stock and trade of the military-industrial complex.

They want the permanent enemy so vaguely defined that it applies to any anti-fascist. They want a phony, permanent war to frighten people, permanently. They want you to fear their created enemies and to also fear them. They don't care about your love. They care about their power over you. They are sick in their souls. Their hearts are hard.

The Pentagon: The arm of the world's preeminent terrorist, fear organization

They don't care whether you love or not just so long as you fear them so you won't devise real liberal devices and stand up for them for righteousness' sake. It's terrorism. They are terrorists by definition.

However, if you respect God, you have nothing ultimately to fear from Satan. Satan may attack your flesh as he attacked Jesus's flesh, but God has the ultimate power and say. The ends of the righteous are determined by God, not Satan, not evil, not hypocrites.

The reason there are terrorists is because the system the terrorists are against likewise terrorizes. It isn't a question of being with George W. Bush or Osama bin Laden or any other militant. We aren't with either of them or any militant. The only options George W. Bush holds out are not the only options. We are against what George W. Bush, Osama bin Laden, and all militants have done and are doing.

The worldly system of America fights against the positive goodness of giving and sharing all. That's obvious.

Now in the UK, it is supposedly illegal for me to express this truth. It could be construed as justifying terrorism, which it does not. Terrorism is evil and is not justified any more than is the UK government's lying about national security being improved by increased abuses of human, God-given rights such as an equal share in the inheritance of all.

Actually, the UK attempts to justify its own terrorism by calling what it does something else, even though it is doing exactly what those it calls terrorist do. He who is the biggest terrorist has terrorized his way into the position of controlling the definition of, or the perception of others as to the meaning of, the very word terrorist so as to pardon and exclude himself. Mundane, temporal might defines in their view. God though disagrees and will always prevail.

How far down are the US neocons willing to go?

When there are enough terrorist attacks in the US, there will be concentration camps, internment camps, filled with innocent people for years and years just as Japanese Americans were interned during World War II.
The US and British leadership is creating martial law without clearly declaring that intention. High standards of probable cause and due process of law have been eroded. The US is standing on much lower ground than thirty years ago. The stream of consciousness that erodes probable cause and due process invites more terrorist attacks on the US and by the US. The right stream of consciousness is so right that the last thing others would want to do is attack the truly beneficent. The US cannot, however, dress up capitalism as kind, gentle, compassionate, and charitable and fool anyone for long. It is the anti-capitalist leanings that show any kindness, gentleness, compassion, and charity.

Pure capitalism renders the world inhospitable

Pure capitalism allows the most insatiable to devour everything and cause the most poisonous and voluminous excrement in the greater environment that hosts all our houses. We are being forced, due to our collective failure of heart, to live in their disgusting, highly toxic, foolish, totally unacceptable, mean, and contemptible waste product. I say this by way of working the beam of selfishness (capitalism) from out of my sight.

The neocons are willing to go to the bottom. They are willing for the earth to become total hell.

Why did some three thousand people die in New York, Washington, DC, and Pennsylvania on September 11, 2001? Was it terrorism against all pure souls?

Economic and military colonialism and imperialism, expropriation, privatization, cultural invasion are just some of the things the US has done, and still does, all over the world. Is it innocent? Is it all harmless? Is it kind and loving? Is it beneficent?

How far down are the US neocons willing to go? John Ashcroft, Dinh, Chertoff, and others play fast and loose with the laws by calling every citizen a "material witness" even in cases where the FBI and US Justice Department had nothing more, and sometimes less, to go on than that a person's name suggested Arab descent. If you want to know where the neocons are attempting to take the world, read the leaked draft of the USA Patriot Act II, which they will put through the US Congress if they gain enough control of both chambers and hold the presidency. They'll change the name of the Act or they'll put it through in pieces or both. They've already tried a name change to the Vital Interdiction of Criminal Terrorist Organizations Act of 2003 or the Victory Act.

Don't count on the Supreme Court to protect you either, since core-Republicans (who are far from small-r republicans) are filling the judiciary with closet-fascist lawyers or lawyers who don't even recognize their own complicity.

They need another terrorist attack to do this. The militant enemies of the Empire know that, and they want to oblige; because, they know the American Empire will fall if pushed hard enough to divide internally or to turn the rest of the world against it. While the neocons work against terrorism, they, along with the terrorists and many who are anti-Empire but not pro-terrorist, hope in their hearts to some degree and for various selfish reasons, for a major attack on US soil. It is pure insanity all the way around.

Viet Dinh is a member of the board of directors of News Corporation (Fox News). He is being considered for a spot on the Supreme Court. He is a law professor at Georgetown University. At the Conservative Political Action Conference of the American Conservative Union Foundation in February, 2006, Dinh is reported to have said, "The conservative movement has a healthy skepticism of governmental power, but at times, unfortunately, that healthy skepticism needs to yield."

By roundly applauding Dinh, the conferees hypocritically and pointedly contradicted the first principle of the American Conservative Union Foundation, which states the following:

We believe that the Constitution of the United States is the best political charter yet created by men for governing themselves. It is our belief that the Constitution is designed to guarantee the free exercise of the inherent rights of the individual through strictly limiting the power of government.

The limited-government conservatives are being pushed out of conservatism by the Total Information Awareness conservatives, the new conservatives, the neocons, the total-government conservatives, where that government is the corrupt Big Brother.
These new conservatives claim that their interpretation of the US Constitution grants the president dictatorial power during times of war.

The folly of the new commandment not being the sole, declared constitution

Now you see the folly of not acknowledging the new commandment as the highest law of human kind. War is illegal under the new commandment. "Love" is a term in the new commandment. The definition of love in the new commandment is the summation of the words and deeds of Jesus Christ. The human race is to love one another as he showed loved to those who lived with him and followed him most closely. That would solve everything.
That's the best government. That's the best law.
It's infinitely better than the US Constitution and every other constitution or declaration.
Checks and balances cannot hold together that which is incompatible and irreconcilable. The message of Jesus, the perfect call for true unity, brings greater awareness of what is and what is not sin. Those who won't let go of the way of sin are divided from the real unity. They argue and strike out in falsehood, fear, and ignorance.
It is a separation process so that truly like-minded unselfish souls will finally be able to live out from under the greedy, violent, and depraved. It offers each the greatest opportunity to turn to be saved from others and from self.
Those who turn to the new commandment as the law of their hearts are saved. Those who don't are lost. If all turn, all are saved.

Neocon dictatorship

The neocons have not turned. They are astray. They are apostates. They are pushing for the presidency to have unlimited power during the length of the so-called Long War. This is the push for the dictatorship in the classic sense. It is exactly what happened with the Roman Republic that was turned into the Roman Empire with its devastating results. It is exactly what the Nazis did resulting in desolation. Godforsakenness will be the same result for America if it continues down that same path. God was not on the side of the dictatorial caesars. Their hearts were hardened. God was not on Hitler's side. His heart was hardened.

God is not on the side of the Republicans or their leader while their hearts are hardened. God is for softening hearts. The hardhearted will suffer at the hands of that same spirit. The can pay now by repenting now before they have done more evil, or they can pay later after they have amassed more evil debt. How can they be worthy to escape damnation?

The reasons for enmity must be corrected. Enmity is caused by falsehood. Falsehood must be corrected. Selfish lust is falsehood and causes enmity. Vengeance too is selfish lust. Help everyone to gain the spirit of unity under the new commandment always. If everyone does this, there will be no falsehood.
Bombing violates the golden rule

Don't bomb anyone ever. Don't do to others what you ought not want done to you or to the innocent.

How can the neocon be true to the real meaning of the terms "republican" and "representational democracy"? How can they be brought to the truth concerning right governance?

Limited government or total government—whatever suits their greed at the time

The original principle of the American Conservative Union Foundation was "strictly limiting the power of government." There are two main reasons why that is their first stated principle. First, in 1964 when they formed, limited government was aimed at limiting the federal government's power over those of certain states where the powers that be wanted to retain and strengthen their power to exploit and disenfranchise people who refer to themselves as "people of color," meaning people of Black-African descent and indigenous descent (so-called Hispanics and American Indians) and Asian descent and Hebrew descent and Slavic descent and of non-Protestant persuasion and anyone who wasn't of, by, and for the White Anglo-Saxon Protestant aristocracy or extremely close to it. Second, the principle appeals to the libertarian-anarchical-leaning who hold that he who governs least, governs best. Therefore, it may serve as a half-truth cover.
On a mundane level, these types of concepts always lead to hypocrisy and paradox. They who are governed most by the new commandment are governed best. Whose will is it when one chooses to be governed by that? It is both God's will and the will of the one so choosing, since people simultaneously choose to fall and are not chosen to rise. This is no paradox, because the context or approach is simultaneously relative and absolute.

If you don't get it, you can certainly nevertheless trust in the new commandment, because you know you would rather have been with Jesus, drinking in his words and having his deeds rub off on you and being a part of the whole thing, rather than being with Julius Caesar, Hitler, or George W. Bush or Plato, Mohammed, or Moses or Socrates or Buddha.

He who is governed most by the antichrist is governed worst. The neocons aren't looking to Jesus. That is critical for all professing Christians and others to see. Look at the truth. Look at the deeds: Death. See it. Comprehend it. The neocons are antichrist, looking to the so-called War on Terrorism, the declaration of the end of which may be indefinitely postponed, as the situational-exception to the Constitutional limits on presidential power. They are headed toward turning the presidency of America into the office of the Antichrist. They are looking for emergencies as pretexts for their ungodly legal precepts. In their blindness, they rush toward unbridled corruption and the final abomination of desolation of this age.

We guarantee that neither George W. Bush nor any other person who is like-minded is capable of being the philosopher king of the planet. Yet, that is exactly what those behind Bush have been trying to position the people to accept. The people behind George W. Bush (and their next candidate for bringing in the worldly Empire), are out to get for self while the getting is good (they imagine). Their ideas are terrible. Anyone who is a big, noble liar (their own term) is diametrically opposed to the only idea that will save the world.

You want real safety and security in both body and soul? Don't worship money. Be rather devoted to, and adore, the real truth that is Jesus's real message. Be real.

Those who subscribe to this authoritarianism (yielding to absolute power to the president) are for exactly what the US propaganda machine railed against during World War II and the Cold War. They are for the president, during a concocted and undefined war, being above the legal oversight of any other branch of government. They are for making the president the dictator during times of national emergency claimed to be threats to national survival.

They will say that any comparisons with Nazi Germany or the Communist Soviet Union, etc., are to not understand that they, the neocons, are the "good guys." Where are their limits? They want to trust the president as supreme conqueror with a powerless legislature he could disband under pretext of sufficient circumstantial disintegration in his sole discretion. Then they imagine that there would not be assassinations and purges and all the rest that comes with blindly following the hardhearted. They want the world to believe that the political-socialization process has sufficiently inculcated in George W. Bush, or any other empire builder, the necessary conscience to refrain from crossing some undefined threshold of evil.

The US though is already engaged in evil acts. The Bible makes clear that wrath is evil, and the book is right.

Do you find paradox in The Bible? Do you wonder why God is said to be wrathful? There is a struggle for souls going on all the time, and that struggle is laid out right in the statements in The Bible. The revelation is unfolding. Everything written in The Bible is not of equal weight. The voices within argue over what is ultimately right. They heard the voice of God through varying degrees of willingness or ability to hear through their own selfishness. The spiritual wrath reflects the human condition on the earth. We suffer now and later under the standard by which we live. It is how we are shown the right spirit, the unselfish spirit, that ultimately results in no pain or suffering but rather their opposites—blessings.

The word to George W. Bush

George, you are not pleasing the LORD your God. What you are spreading and the way you are going about it is not the word or deed of God. You are making things worse. You are controlled by lust. Those around you are controlled by lust. Look at the excess that is around you constantly. You love the front-row-center seat. You love being first. You've missed the message of Jesus: Being last too. Serve the downtrodden first and always until there are no more downtrodden. Love your enemies. Hate the evil they do, but show mercy and compassion. If you reject this, you hate Jesus and God.

People have been praying for the president for different reasons. When people have said, "God bless the president of the United States," they all haven't been meaning the same thing. To pray for someone and to ask God to bless someone is to ask God to soften that one and to protect that one from temptation and offense. Those who pray to strengthen the wrath of the president are praying for hardening. Pharaoh was hardened, and he refused to emancipate the slaves the Jews. Look what happened. Look what hardheartedness has always brought. Those who ignore prophecy are doomed.

Nazi legal theories of the neocons

Carl Schmitt was a leading early Nazi legal theorist. Much of his philosophy has influenced today's American neocon authoritarians through their philosophical founder Leo Strauss. This philosophy has infected the nation and is duping those calling themselves conservative Christians. The Carl Schmitt/Leo Strauss philosophy is Platonic and not Christian. Anyone who adheres to it is not a Christian. Plato was not Christ.

All the neocon lawyers are marching in Satan's army. They are going to justify a nightmare rather than turning and softening their hearts to save their souls and the souls of others. With their unrepentant hardheartedness and lust, how will they escape tribulation and damnation? Thinking it's great while it lasts will never make up for the suffering of damnation. When one is damned, one always wishes one could go back not to repeat the fall to temptation to feed lust of any kind but to overcome. One always wishes one could have appreciated the suffering of everyone else to work to end it without harming a soul.

John Yoo, Viet Dinh, Alberto Gonzales, David Addington, Clarence Thomas, Samuel Alito, Michael Chertoff, and others are the neocon’s legal vanguard of the tens of thousands of neocon lawyers work for bring in the worldly Empire via legal sleight of hand revolution.

What is Chertoff still doing in power? He is a racist, a zealot, a militant, false-Zionist terrorist. This is not judging or condemning him but rather discerning his fruit. It is said as a warning, sounding the alarm to him, and to all others. He has systematically made the already poor lives of the blacks of New Orleans even worse. He has been one of those behind the Patriot Act and Military Commissions Act, both of which are designed to torture Arabs and other non-Jews and non-Anglo-Saxons primarily. What are any of these people still doing in power? Why does anyone follow them anywhere? They follow, because they are of the same evil spirit. They don't remove them. They don't hold them to account as being responsible for horrendous evil acts. That is not to say that we believe they should be hanged or that they should serve hard labor. They should repent in earnest, uncoerced, moved only by conscience or they will face Satan in hell when they die in the flesh.

The Federalist Society, with the financial backing of neoconservative foundations, is cultivating a huge crop of fascist lawyers.
Nazi lawyer Schmitt found legislatures messy at best and incapable of fulfilling the will of the people. Of course, a house divided, which is the case with coercively underpinned legislative bodies, will not stand. Nevertheless, the stream of consciousness in which Schmitt and the current batch of neocons who have surfaced and are scrambling to seize authoritarian power, will result in horrendous errors since it is built upon trust in a fractured soul of the antichrist. Hitler will rise again but will be much more powerful.

He answered and said unto them,
When it is evening, ye say, It will be fair weather: for the sky is red.
And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day: for the sky is red and lowering. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times? (Matthew 16:2-3).

If the office of the presidency obtains this power, it will be used against political enemies and peaceful dissidents, just as Hitler used the Enabling Act in Germany that gave him dictatorial power and allowed him to outlaw all opposition political parties. How long would it take before the bloodbath? How long would it take before the coup d'état?

These things arise when antichrists are heading things. The president claims to be a Christian. Then let him act like one. If the majority of voters in the US are truly Christian, then why is the US bringing forth so much antichrist results? It is hypocrisy.
Only the enemy (antichrist) tortures anyone, ever

Cruel, inhumane, or degrading treatment of detainees is never permissible. If the president of the United States or anyone else is for torturing people under any circumstances, he or she is being a devil. What is more, detainees wouldn't exist if human beings would all repent together. If there were no lust to do wrong, no one would be harmed and there would be no detainees.

Crossing one's fingers behind one's back comes from Satan.

We must rule out all torturing of the soul to gain information or to punish. Sensory deprivation and attacks, stress positions, humiliation, phobia stimulation, sleep deprivation, food and drink deprivation, physical pain, isolation, along with all other techniques not enumerated here but that harm people must be ruled out. They are not options anywhere, anytime.

If you will remember, we mentioned that Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president, as with the vast majority of Muslims, is upset at how the Palestinians have been, and continue to be, treated. He knows the history and believes that the European powers and Americans have historically abused the entire region over oil and that the Hebrews have engrafted themselves in that on-going process on the side of the Americans in particular. Who can doubt it? It is obvious.

There are always two or more sides to every story of course. One can always cite mitigating factors and rationalize all sorts of on-going and historical abuses. Nevertheless, Ahmadinejad knows how the language of the laws is constantly played with, everyone always out for selfish interests. That is what the neocon lawyers have been hired to do by the rich and powerful. That is what the neocon policy-makers are setting up for the capitalist Empire.

What worldly leader is a straight talker? What worldly leader walks the narrow way? I know of none.

Holocaust

Ahmadinejad also challenges the European powers, most notably Germany, with responsibility for providing a homeland for the Hebrews if in fact the Germans take responsibility for the holocaust of World War II. Ahmadinejad states that he doubts that the holocaust was as bad as publicized. He claims that he mistrusts the reporters. He says he doubts if what happened rises to the level where it should be referred to as a holocaust. Some people would say that he is entitled to his opinion. Others imprison people for doubting that holocaust. No one but God knows how many souls were killed in Nazi concentration camps. There is no doubt that many were killed. The question is one of sympathy and whether anyone may do evil under the cover of sympathy from others.

The false Zionists do evil to the Palestinians and other Arabs, etc., while playing upon the sympathy people have for what Hebrews and others experienced at the hands of Nazis.
It is very difficult to know the correct numbers concerning just about any highly controversial historical event. That’s inherent in controversy. Those on either side will tend to exaggerate to make their side appear either less guilty or more victimized or whatever will improve their cause in the light of historical acceptance. We cannot hook up a lie detector to every person who ever stated some statistic regarding a catastrophe. Even if we could, we would still need to ascertain the degree to which the person had legitimate reason for putting forth some figure. The person may believe his or her incorrect figure. Nevertheless, even if all the catastrophes in history took only half of the number of persons alleged, crime remains. Murdering one rather than two does not excuse murder.

Of course, the plan for a Jewish homeland in the Palestine area was laid out long before the existence of any Nazi concentration camps for Jews or Romany, etc. However, there is no doubt that there are Hebrews and false Jews who ask for greater leeway in wrong-doing by playing off people's sympathies for those who were murdered by the Nazis.

Now, Ahmadinejad and others who agree with him, and there are tens if not hundreds of millions of them in the world, say that those now constituting the Palestinians should not have to share the area with the Hebrews and that the Hebrews should have to move to Germany where the Germans should atone. That those of the Germans who were responsible should atone is good; however, the answer is not for Hebrews to have to leave.
Palestine but rather for nationalism to be replaced throughout the world by the new commandment of Jesus Christ.

The truth is that it would be impossible for everyone to return to the spot on the planet from which our ancestors first migrated. No one should expect it or be asking for it. Six-plus billion cannot live on the same spot of ground that two originally inhabited. We all branch from the exact same couple. If we tell anyone to leave to go home, we are hypocrites if we are unwilling to do the same. What kind of Good Samaritan would put that on his neighbor anyway?

The point though that the false Zionists are hypocritical about the Nazis and their own treatment of the Palestinians is completely valid and ought to work upon their consciences to the point where they do a complete about face in their treatment of their neighbors. That's the lesson of Jesus Christ. That's going home spiritually to heaven here on the face of the earth. That's what we all need to do in the here and now.

When Ahmadinejad is quoted as saying that Israel should be wiped off the map, it can be taken in more than one way. The false Zionists only want people to think in military terms. It works to their covetous advantage.

It can also be taken as meaning wiped from the map in the same fashion it was created by the colonial powers of Europe and America simply by redrawing the map as they, the colonial powers, saw fit when Israel was created.
In that way, he means reverse the decision and not destroy Israel militarily.

Both sides are playing word games. Iran is not against Israel being destroyed militarily. They hate Israel for what Israel has done and is doing. Israel hates Iran too, because Iran sides with the Palestinians and Lebanese Muslims and others against Israel, of course.

Iran would destroy Israel rather than being itself destroyed by Israel. Regardless, in the final analysis, he is Muslim and believes in the martyrdom of militant Muslims.

Islamic theocracy: Sharia law

Ahmadinejad is for a global theocracy under sharia (Islamic law). The world's leaders have failed to dialogue with him about the specifics.

The mainstream media don't take it up in earnest either since they are owned by the capitalist corporations that are tied to the profits of the war-machine. Therefore, the general population has scant detail and scant sway.

How far does Ahmadinejad wish to take sharia law? What does he really think it is? He believes that the world would be better off under that law and order.

Does what we know give any human being the right to destroy Iran now in a preemptive way? No.

Deliberately avoiding dialogue

Such strikes are forwarded by leaders who deliberately avoid the full debate. They are deceptive, greedy, cowards. They manipulate the willingly gullible. They all enjoy the spoils of war gained by their artificially uninformed knee-jerk attitudes and reactions. They must be in a hurry. They must avoid the full debate. They must move on after their dastardly deeds. They must get the world to move on, always move on. Otherwise, the people may become wise.

What is called the holocaust was a pretext for the creation of Israel. The abused abuse. The genuine and proper sympathy and mercy of others is a powerful cover for falsehood.

The truth is that the waning British Empire was racist throughout the entire time that the false Zionists were hatching their plans to takeover Palestine. The world is paying for that.

The Anglo-American Empire is using Israel just as Israel is using the Empire. Super nationalistic, false Zionists, especially within the American-neoconservative movement, plan for Israel to rise to the Empire.

Are the Germans going to offer those in the state of Israel land in Germany for them to create a sovereign nation-state? Would those Hebrews and self-styled Jews accept such an offer? Ahmadinejad knows. Therefore, what is his position? Is he so upset by the developments in Palestine and elsewhere that he would be willing to undertake the genocide of the Hebrews in Israel so that the land might come back under the domination of Islam? Islam isn't going to make it.

How is that better than reactionaries calling themselves Jews claiming God sanctions the opposite of loving their neighbors and sanctions coveting and taking by force their neighbors' lands?

When Ahmadinejad is quoted as saying that Israel should be wiped off the map, he claims that the rest of his stated position (his stated context) is deliberately left out or twisted by Western, mainstream media. He identifies this as a propaganda tactic by the neocolonialists. The Western news, he points out, is full of US propaganda.

He sees the creation of the state of Israel as inherently unfair to those who were there before them for thousands of years. There is truth in that, considering the current manifestation of that state, meaning its hardheartedness toward its neighbors. It is not the whole truth however.

The Israelites will repent and, therefore, convert to real Christianity. It will be the turning point for the earth.

It is true that the mainstream Western news does not report both sides of the story. The perspective of Iran that is given to the American people for instance is couched by the partisan bent and agenda of that US corporate news. The Iranian-governmental-leadership position is not given in full nor is it given by a news system determined to be neutral so that the people form their own views. The news services fill up with one-sided interpretations of incomplete and clearly partisan reporting. The right questions are not asked. The truth is not sought. Those one-sided interpretations come from so-called experts paid by people with the Empire's agenda. Equal time for opposing views does not exist.

Reagan killed the Fairness Doctrine

Conservative-Republican president Ronald Reagan saw to that when he had the Federal Communications Commission do away with the Fairness Doctrine. That doctrine allowed for equal time for views opposing editorials given over the publicly owned broadcast airwaves. The airwaves were finite. They were licensed by the government, since they belong to all the people. The people, through their representatives, have the right to regulate their airwaves any way they want. The rich though don't like that. They want to own everything. They don't want the public owning anything as a whole. They want heaven chopped up by force into fiefdoms. They hate the commons. The use of the commons is leveling. They can't get rich off others if others may grow their own food, etc.

This is why the Fox News slogan of "Fair and Balanced" is completely phony and brainwashing.

Reagan didn't want people to be able to air a wider range of views. He didn't want to compete with softheartedness. He knew that the broadcast airwaves were God's gift to all equally, but he wanted the rich who had gained their wealth by expropriating to be able to shut out opposing views and to give just the narrow propaganda of which he approved.
The real Reagan

The propaganda machine fabricated an image of Ronald Reagan. It hid his dark side. April 7, 1970, during the height of the peace movement and less than a month before the National Guard killed four students at Kent State University on May 4, 1970, who were protesting the Vietnam War, Ronald Reagan gave a speech in which he stated that to silence student protests against US lies and imperialism concerning Vietnam, "If it takes a bloodbath, let's get it over with." He was advocating killing students just as the Chinese government did in the Tiananmen Square bloodbath. Consider if Reagan had been the president at the time rather than Nixon. People don't realize how restrained Nixon was compare to how fascistic Reagan and the neocons are at heart.

As another aside, wild protesters, many of whom consider themselves real anarchists (not for chaos but real freedom), must understand that the neocons will order a bloodbath. They have in their hearts to do that with far less pretext than most think. Many would secretly love nothing more than to be offered a pretext for instilling terror in the hearts of dissidents by unleashing some of what they unleash upon innocent and guilty Iraqis alike.

The American youth must take a page out of Martin Luther King's book and use non-violent protest exclusively and for all the right reasons. That will insure that there is never a pretext handed to the fascists.

Blessed are the peacemakers.
Getting back to Reagan and his fascist doctrines and policies, it must be made clear that equal time for opposing views arose only when the news reporting agency engaged in editorializing or allowed some one on who gave his or her interpretation or viewpoint. Today, the line between news (facts given as objectively as possible) and editorializing and talk shows has become severely blurred in the minds of the American public.

The vast majority of the American people never hear real debate where the range of topics is not restricted by the two-party system of neocon/liberal capitalism and where the debaters may ask each other all the questions they want.

At one point, the news was working hard at giving equal voice for people who disagreed with the views of the political party in power. Much of that was accomplished by the reporters asking the most revealing questions posed by the opposition and not letting politicians off the hook.

The days of reporters saying over and over to a politician that he or she hadn't answered the question are long gone.

Now everything is false politeness and respectfulness for the sake of darkness. The people will tolerate tough questioners being ignored or disininvited to press conferences. Some revealing questions are asked, but the news services turn around and editorialize and have so-called experts interpret the answers in a way to fit the propaganda of the establishment. The mainstream media have been bought up and severely consolidated under the power elite.
There is no equal time for opposing views and access to the spectrum in the most visible channels of news for the opposition to be heard generally and specifically countering the editorials and so-called experts. That, among other means, is how they brainwash for evil purposes.

Understand that washing the mind is not inherently evil. In fact, repentance is exactly the act of cleaning the mind. It is required. Brainwashing is a counter-intuitive term when applied to evil intent. Nevertheless, it is bad when the thoughts are whitewashed so as to cover over the evil that is expropriation which is the heart and soul of conservative Republicanism and so-call free-market capitalism.

The conservative justices on the US Supreme Court didn't rule that way. They actually held that the Fairness Doctrine was reducing the debate and that increases in technological possibilities for news reporting more than make up for the problem of limited spectrums such as the radio bandwidth and the problem of concentration of ownership where a single corporation through mergers and acquisitions and other means takes over more and more market share regardless of technology. Their ruling, their findings, were just flat out wrong. The difference of before and after showed they were wrong.

Had such equal time for opposing views been allowed to remain in place, the people would have chosen the better path long ago and the troubles we are seeing now in the world would have been greatly ameliorated, many of them completely overcome. The debate would have been had fully and in the open. The better side would have own the hearts and minds of the people. That conflicted with the conservative-Republican, antichrist agenda of hoarding and the agenda of those of the Democratic Leadership Council, who co-opted the so-called center.

That center was uninformed. Multi-sided information was greatly reduced and remains so, despite the so-called Information Age. There is plenty of one-sided information. It is so one-sided that the real Christian message becomes more difficult to shine through without people pointing out the very difficulty. Then it becomes clear. Either way, the truth will shine.

The oligarchy is inherently anti-fair

The government is run by those who have accumulated great personal wealth. Families that run and own the lion's share of the corporations also run the government. It's an oligarchy. They don't want fairness. Families lie; spy; cheat; steal; conspire; have people murdered, physically and psychologically tortured, and terrorized; and do all sorts of other evil things to maintain and gain wealth and power. There is no modernity. The nobles and warlords are fighting for rulership.

Concealing real Christianity as a choice

Mainly plutocrats and oligarchs came up with America. The people didn't. The grassroots were not in on deliberating the range of choices. They were only given very indirect choices well after the fundamental debate had taken place amongst the wealthier class. That way, the choice of sharing all as the commons was not entertained. It wasn't considered. It was deliberately avoided, concealed in fact. Living as the Apostles did wasn't offered as an option to the whole people. Had it been, the US would look very different today. The whole world would look very different.

The original American plutocrats and oligarchs, the founding fathers, designed and implemented a system they thought would selfishly serve their estates and families best over the long run. They wanted as much long-term security for those estates as possible. They designed into their system what they thought would be enough pressure relief for the masses to insure that the masses wouldn't rise up to take the estates of the plutocracy and oligarchy.

Democrats and Republicans: Your only choices are flavors of capitalism

The Democrats are duplicitous with the Republicans in maintaining the same narrow range of thought devised by the founding aristocrats while at the same time magnifying the differences within that narrow range. Look at how different the Democrats are from the Republicans, but look at how similar they are when compared to alternatives including real Christianity.

Joseph Goebbels was the propaganda minister for Nazi Germany, which was an amazing propaganda machine but nothing compare to America's which has been the best (worst in the divine sense) in history. Goebbels said, "What you want in a media system is ostensible diversity that conceals an actual uniformity."
That holds true in the so-called two-party system in America for the two parties to trade power back and forth without allowing in any competition and while militarily pushing the capitalist system down the throats of the rest of the world. It isn't a matter of whether or not to push capitalism on everyone. It is a matter of how. The Republicans and Democrats simply argue at the top about which way is best to accomplish that. If you think that's freedom, you have been brainwashed. The center of that is far from God and hence real freedom.
You can't be amazed when the wealthiest pay for the creation of the most powerful propaganda and use those psychological techniques on the home front (civilian population) to keep their power. They buy up, to control, as much of the means of disseminating ideas as possible to limit the ideas in your mind to only those they want you to consider.
When do you ever hear anyone running as a Republican or Democrat or serving as either, saying let's all be real Christians? When do they ever say that living as the original Christians, sharing all things in common and giving everything into the common good, as Jesus intended, is a choice for you or for us? Haven't they even managed to get things to the point where it is acceptable to the people for the leaders to completely ignore the issue? Admit it.
Haven't they even managed to get you to dismiss real Christian living as impossible and impractical, etc.? Think about that. The greatest idea ever, the saving idea, has been twisted and distorted and run down and ridiculed to the point where you are denied the abilities of even considering it. Yet, you may say there is no brainwashing going on by those in power. You may laugh at the idea that there a conspirators hard at work. You may dismiss that it is on this very ground that the real truth does battle with darkness both manifest and spiritual.

They don't want you thinking that you can start contributing to the system that peacefully and harmlessly will displace their inherently unfair system. They don't want that thought occurring to anyone, because people will start doing it. They murdered Jesus after all to stop that idea from spreading. When they couldn't stop the spread, they took over, co-opted, the movement. That didn't work completely, hence this work for instance. You have to be brave enough to read the Gospel message seeing through selfish attempts to suppress the truth.

Big Lie

They have already sent the signal and planted the evil seed that the corporate powers are to instruct their media machine to shut down the flow of information from the outside. The rich want to use psyops on the world that the general population of America won't have placed front and center before them on the evening news or in the morning shows, etc. The reason for that is because the rich intend to lie blatantly to the rest of the world about things... the American citizens will know are blatant falsehoods.

Watch all the signals the machine sends out right out in the open. The more open it is, the more big-lie it is.

How could they be sending out sinister plans right out in the open? That's where they can plant it in minds where people are most likely to buy it. Hitler used it to devastating effect. He took a half-truth that there are bad Jews (just as there are bad Germans and Arabs, etc.) and turned it into the Big Lie that all Jews are worthy of extermination by the superior Germans or Aryans. His very actions proved his own soul had fallen to the dark spirit.

Yes, non-Christian Jews didn't get, and haven't gotten, real Christianity. Well, neither did or have unrepentant Nazis. Real Christians don't exterminate. They return good for evil eternally. They seek always to extend the infinite mercy of God. The fallen spirit fails. It is the Christians faith in God that release comes before endurance is passed.

Most people just don't believe people will tell huge lies right out in the open. That's why the big lies have worked in the past. It's the place where it has the most immediate effect across the widest audience. It's preemptive. It's infectious. Just look at the buildup to the invasion of Baghdad. It was all lies, big lies, said right out in the open. The big lies even included the statement that everyone believes the intelligence. Well, lots of people didn't believe the intelligence. It wasn't intelligence. It was fabrication. Yet look at the outcome. Has George W. Bush been fired as head shepherd and chief steward?
Now look at the same process being used against Iran. Absolutely zero proof has been shown to the American people. The government claims it is positive that Iran is building nuclear weapons. Prove it.
During the Cuban Missile Crisis, the US government showed the American people photographs of Russian missiles in Cuba. The Russians reminded president Kennedy that he had said the US would remove short-range nuclear missiles from Greece, if memory serves. Kennedy's people than said that to Kennedy's embarrassment he found out that his order to remove the missiles had been ignored. That aspect of the so-called crisis, which deserved no panic attack at all, was hardly focused upon in the US, naturally. They were removed as the Russian missiles were withdrawn.
How could the neocons be sending out sinister plans right out in the open? They control the false fora. They avoid the real public square of open debate.
Watch and listen. Discern the dark virus being repeated by the media—deliberate half-truths and lies. Their source, means, and ends are all right there, all evil, all selfish.
They repeat things that have already been discredited and exposed as lies. They do all they can to convince you that lying is good and right while at the same time claiming that lying is bad and wrong. They whitewash and minimize their demons within.
Of course, news-slanting also happens in Iran and everywhere else. That doesn't make it right.

Even while Iran violates the UN Universal Declaration of Human Rights, Ahmadinejad insists that the United States and the big three of the European Union (Germany, France, and Britain) have been illogical and are deliberately and arrogantly ignoring his questions. He accuses them of refusing to debate the facts. He accuses them of distorting the international law to suit their own purposes. This, of course, is a valid criticism. The US in particular, works to enforce UN law only when it feels like it. There is no history of integrity when it comes to US dealings with the United Nations.

It isn't carrying out the new commandment. This is no case of sour grapes. There will be a united nations, and it is a good and necessary idea. It just won't be in the old wineskin.

We've also seen via the Downing Street Memo that Tony Blair was most interested in the appearance of adherence to, rather than actual adherence to, international law.

The Bush-43 administration has obviously, grossly, and knowingly violated the Geneva Conventions. Lawyers within the administration even warned that administration officials may be later tried for war crimes if the government didn't opt out of the Geneva Conventions. They ended up gambling that they would be able to make a strong enough good-faith-effort defense and went ahead and violated the international law anyway. The Supreme Court's decision in Hamdan v. Rumsfeld makes clear that Bush committed war crimes even on the mundane level.

The Blair government face the same sort of decision. Blair violated the European Convention on Human Rights. That is international law to which the UK is signatory and thereby obligated just as the US and UK are obligated under the Geneva Conventions.

Ahmadinejad’s observation that the US is two-faced and speaks with a forked tongue is correct regardless of the degree to which Ahmadinejad himself is insincere.

The US and others ratchet up Iran's vitriol, and Iran turns around and ratchets up Israel’s and others’. Certain nations make it their business to bring out the worst in each other. They do that with highly selfish ends in mind. The hardhearted leadership of America and Israel do not have the best interest of the Iranians (Persians) in mind, and the hardhearted leadership of Iran does not have the best interest of Americans or Israelites in mind. This has been the pattern since the beginning of urbanized so-called civilization. As for who started it, one has to go back to the serpent. The serpent uses lies to foment trouble.

Stop baiting and taking the bait

The lies of the neocons have fomented the strengthening of the hardhearted in Iran. That was the plan after all. When will people stop taking the bait?

Jesus taught not to bait of be baited (tempted). If they would all just listen to Christ, none of this cycle of violence, deception, greed, and general iniquity would be able to continue.

Iranians too are different one from another, and those in Israel who lump all Iranians together as the enemy are dead wrong: Dead of the spirit of the God they have claimed has guided their nation. Some Iranians are closer to the kingdom than others, just as in America and every nation.

The Iranian leadership calling for wiping out Israel gets its confused and hardhearted license from Mohammed's Qur'an. The Israeli leadership that has been calling Iran its great enemy for decades has its hardhearted message, because it has not accepted the message of Jesus. Both sides are advocating evil against one another. They are both wrong. Woe will befall both sides, because they will not repent of war and all the other iniquities of excess.

As for North Korea, since the Downing Street Memo, they have said they already have nuclear weapons. Now they aren't being threatened quite so blatantly by the US neocons. The US military is stretched thin, and the US government fears calling for a military draft; therefore, they are in a negotiating mood despite the hawkish designs of neocons within. The neocons hope to use weapons of mass destruction themselves rather than being in the position of having to rely upon military troops. They consider bombing to complete destruction all North Korean installations that might contain developed nuclear weapons and delivery systems.

To clarify, from the face of the Downing Street Memo, it is not possible to determine what is directly quoted versus paraphrased. The memo represents minutes of the meeting. Minutes are not always verbatim. It depends upon policy. Nevertheless, the memo has not been denied nor any of its contents. It appears that the memo is careful to use the particular terms used by the various speakers but not necessarily their full statements. The Blair government has been noted for its deliberately casual meetings in that transcripts were avoided and even minutes could be non-existent or sketchy at best. They did this to avoid an audit trail, affording them the ability to change their stories after the fact without a record to disprove them.

When the memos leaked, there were those who simply said its old news. That's the "move on," "forget about it," etc. ploy. The British government said that nothing new came out of the memos. Well, the criticisms were not new.

What was new when the memos leaked was the evidence of the memos themselves further substantiating the criticisms.

The false veil, conjured up for plausible deniability, has been removed even for the most hardhearted apologists of the neocon agenda. There is no cover. They have all been caught red handed. The only thing for any of them to do is repent. It is the only thing for any of us to do.

The most operative, mundane legal aspect in the US is that had the US Senate known at the time that there was no real evidence to support an invasion (no terrorist linkage and no weapons of mass destruction of note to be found to substantiate the claims), things George W. Bush certainly knew at the time, the US Senate would not have passed any resolutions that even hinted at possible support for any such invasion. The president breached an operative condition of the Constitution of the United States of America to inform the US Senate without any knowingly falsified information. Bush knew he was giving the Senate falsified, concocted information. His actions led to the deaths of many tens of thousands of people, many of whom were US citizens in the military. It is worse than manslaughter.

How did he get to be in charge? How could the American people be so that they deserve such a leader?

The Downing Street Memo really is only a piece of the picture that George W. Bush had been planning to attack Iraq at his first opportunity.

George's unresolved boyhood frustrations taken out on the world

I mentioned above that George W. Bush also wanted to outdo his father. That aspect has more to do with his personality and choices than any single thing. His father, George H. W. Bush, was a decorated naval aviator and had been a US congressman, chairman of the Republican National Committee, United States ambassador to the United Nations, US envoy to Marxist-Communist China, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, two-term vice president and one-term president of the United States.

He had expelled Saddam Hussein from Kuwait in what was called the Gulf War. However, he stopped short of full-scale invasion of Baghdad citing a number of reasons for not invading including becoming bogged down in a quagmire, "incalculable human and political costs," and "going beyond the international law."

George H. W. Bush was also a believer in the non-neocon foreign policy principles of maintaining regional balances of power and for the use of containment over raw aggression (to limit human casualties).

He is also the one who had called Reaganomics voodoo economics and the use of smoke and mirrors.

His son totally disagrees and has been out to prove his father wrong: To show him up. He has wanted to show that he is more able and more intelligent than his father. He wants his father to live in his, George W's, historical shadow and not the other way around. These are terrible motives for seeking leadership.

None of this is to say that George H. W. Bush was someone to follow. His administration supplied Saddam Hussein with chemical weapons, equipment, and training. He whitewashed the Iran-Contra Scandal of the Reagan administration by giving presidential pardons to a number of Reagan's people who had violated the law via Iran-Contra (not that forgiveness is wrong, but that wasn't his motive). He also failed to capitalize on the tearing down of the Berlin Wall.

Killing people for political capital

According to Mickey Herskowitz (who was replaced as George W. Bush's autobiography ghostwriter for Bush's 2000 campaign for not casting Bush in a positive enough light) George W. Bush felt that his father had squandered his political capital at the end of the Gulf War. Mickey Herskowitz had some twenty meetings with Bush during which Bush was rather candid according to Herskowitz. Herskowitz came out later with aspects of those interviews.

George W. Bush felt that to gain political capital, a president should have a war. Bush was aware that a president's poll numbers go up during wars. The people rally around the president lending support to the effort. Ronald Reagan's handlers used this tactic as the US invasion of Grenada on October 25, 1983. The timing was a distraction from the US Marine barracks bombing in Beirut, Lebanon just two days earlier. Bush's people also knew well the gain in political capital of British prime minister Margaret Thatcher over the British Falklands War of 1982. Even Bush's father had gained in the polls via the Invasion of Panama in 1989.

Bush-41 presided over the Panamanian invasion in which over four thousand Panamanians were killed many of them executed with their hands tied behind their backs and shot in the back of the head. There were over a dozen mass graves uncovered that the US military had dug and into which it had bulldozed hundreds of bodies of civilians including children and old people. These are the same kinds of underground stories filtering as light through the dark curtain of US propaganda such as concerns the mass graves in Afghanistan dug and filled under US supervision. Remember, it is difficult to get the truth when people are afraid of being accused of treason and sedition by the warmongers who lead the nation.

Here's an example of the satanic neoconservative mentality.

Every ten years or so, the United States needs to pick up some small crappy little country and throw it against the wall, just to show the world we mean business. – Jonah Goldberg, April 23, 2002, National Review.

How can anyone follow such monstrous talk? How is any unrepentant soul saying such diabolical things still being listened to let alone still being highly paid in drumming up such sentiments? Where is the shame? Where is the conscience? How can a system that rewards such words escape tribulation? Such talk is, among other things, intended to drum up controversy for the sake of making money through increased notoriety. It is completely transparent and extremely shallow. Those who follow that lead make of themselves kindred spirits. Regardless, the self-pollution that results from such statements runs deep. The contagion

(See the video: http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-876367484184611493&q=Afghan+Massacre%3A+The+Convoy+of+Death) that is the sentiment behind such statements is deplorable.

Herskowitz said the policy is, "Start a small war, pick a country where there is justification you can jump on, go ahead and invade." Bush wasn't satisfied with ousting the Taliban from power in Afghanistan. He had always had his eye on invading Baghdad.

Which liar to believe

According to televangelist Pat Robertson, George W. Bush said concerning preparing the American people for casualties invading Iraq, "We're not going to have any casualties." The Bush-43 administration claims Robertson, the founder of the Christian Coalition of America and the host of the T.V. show the "700 Club," is mistaken. Robertson neither pursued the issue nor recanted. Whether or not you are a fan of Pat Robertson, whom are you going to believe in this instance?

Pat Robertson, real Christian leaders don't issue calls to take out people

Pat Robertson called for the US covert assassination of Hugo Chavez Frias and then said he didn't. "If he thinks we're trying to assassinate him, I think that we really ought to go ahead and do it," Robertson said. Then a couple of days later he said:

I didn't say assassination. I said our special forces should take him out, and take him out can be a number of things, including kidnapping. There are a number of ways to take out a dictator from power besides killing him. However, George W. Bush said why the US should go to war with Iraq which reasons were deliberate lies and then changed his reasons for going to war after his lies were exposed. Can one believe either of these men: Robertson or Bush?

Now, the reaction to Pat Robertson's calling for the assassination of Venezuelan president Chavez Frias has been mundane. Even many of those calling it unchristian are not calling for pacifism and giving and sharing all in full faith in God's way. They don't know what unchristian is. The fact is that Pat holds himself out to tens of millions of his television viewing audience to be a worthy Christian shepherd for their souls. However, he has called for the wholly unchristian act of murdering Hugo Chavez Frias. Pat's words defile Pat and lead Pat's followers miserably astray. Do we judge Pat Robertson and condemn Pat Robertson? No. We call for him to repent with all of us in universal repentance.

Of course, Robertson is just stating what the US has engaged in before. The US has been deeply involved in assassination attempts so much so that then president Gerald Ford felt compelled to issue Executive Order 12333 outlawing such attempts. After all, Ford didn't want to be likewise targeted for assassination. More importantly, the liberal light was relatively bright at that time. Ford was embarrassed into issuing the order even though he was a Republican president. It was on the heels of the Watergate scandal, the Pentagon Papers, the whole Vietnam War debacle, and the findings of the US Senate Church Committee, etc.

Unfortunately, the clandestine training of assassins continued even in the open in the form of the School of the Americas that trained leaders of Latin American reactionary, capitalist death squads. Also, blatant assassination attempts continued.

In 1986 for instance, conservative US president Ronald Reagan, in direct contravention of Gerald Ford's Executive Order 12333 prohibiting the US from assassinating or attempting to assassinate leaders of other nations, ordered the bombing of the personal residence of Libya's leader, Muammar Gaddafi hoping to assassinate Gaddafi. Also unfortunately, that liberal light was weakened over the decades by the neoliberals (false liberals) to the extent that most US citizens couldn't understand why the US didn't just assassinate Saddam Hussein rather than invade Baghdad, Iraq. Of course, absent major additional imperialist actions, an assassination would not have resulted in US control of Iraq's oil.

Now, this whole Pat Robertson issue shows the mentality of the self-styled conservative Christians. Here is the wealthiest US televangelist calling for assassinating Hugo Chavez Frias who has so far been grossly mischaracterized by US conservatives. This assassination mentality is diametrically opposed to the mentality of Christ. It is wholly inconsistent with the message of Jesus.
He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much. (Luke 16:10).

Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew 5:19).

The prohibition against assassination is a commandment. To be unfaithful in that commandment shows a mind incapable of leading the flock in righteousness. That mind is hypocritical. It is not focused on the light. Those who recognize the voice of Jesus know what I am saying here is true. They will not follow any conservative voices down that path. Nor will they follow any false liberal voices.

What Pat Robertson called for was sin. What the self-styled conservative Christians are calling for is likewise sin. They are unjust in much. They are deaf to the righteous pleas of the poor. They want their reward now without righteousness and judgment and are getting it.

Even if one accepts Pat Robertson's qualifying statements concerning what he was thinking when he said what he said, calling for such an overthrow of Hugo Chavez Frias, who was elected in an open election and is so far no terror to good works, is also antichristian. Whether Pat was really thinking kill Hugo or just remove him from office, Pat Robertson was advocating what is antichristian. What is wrong that Pat Robertson made this error?

From the real-Christian standpoint, Pat is serving mammon. He is serving selfishness. He needs to exorcise the demons of lust. He called for ousting Hugo, because Hugo is not a capitalist but rather, one prays, ultimately a true believer in giving and sharing across-the-board. Pat sees any threat to capitalism as a threat to Christianity even though capitalism and Christianity are far from the same thing. Christianity will be the demise of capitalism. All the people who agree with Pat are called to repent. All the faithful viewers of the "700 Club" are called to convert to real Christianity.

More than any other person in America so far, Pat Robertson has led the charge in misleading people to believe that the right path for Christians is not only to be part of the system of the prince of this world of darkness but also to take it over. His followers become the tools of the prince of darkness.

Jesus went into the center of the world not to join the system by being that system's high priest in the temple. He went to save lost souls in that system. He went to save souls who might hear him and come out of the falsehood, come out in their hearts. That worldly system dominated the Hebrews in Jerusalem, the center of their world.

Pat Robertson led the charge into public office at all levels by his followers. Other so-called ministries were also onboard with this idea. They spread it amongst themselves and made it public. They haven't quite captured the federal government, but they have come close. They have though captured the Republican Party. They want one of their own at the head of government in the White House. Pat Robertson himself attempted to become the president of the United States.

Neither Jesus nor his disciples sought office in the worldly Empire

Imagine Jesus Christ running for president of the US. He wouldn't have run for any office in the system.

Pat Robertson has made a business empire out of doing exactly the opposite of what Jesus called for and wants while claiming it all in the name of Jesus. Robertson has called people to take over the violent, coercive power of the prince of darkness and to use it as such in the name of Jesus. All of Pat's followers are walking in darkness. They are getting their reward now. They can, and do, read the Gospel, but they don't see it. Their hearts have been blinded to it by selfishness.

False Christians filling the offices of the worldly Empire

The Christian Broadcasting Network (CBN), the Christian Coalition of America (CCA), and Regent University were all started by Pat Robertson. The Christian Coalition of America was designed to train and coordinate or organize people starting at the lowest electoral positions such as school boards and the like and moving up over time to even the presidency. The Coalition also issues to the conservatives what it terms Voter Guides guiding people to vote for certain candidates. They also have used extensive get-out-the-vote efforts with conservative churches.
Some churches are copying that model and being challenged for violating the US tax code for non-profit churches campaigning for particular candidates.

There are other schools dedicated to false-conservative Christian precepts such as Patrick Henry College in Purcellville, Virginia; Liberty University started by Jerry Falwell (of the Moral Majority) also in Virginia; Bob Jones University in South Carolina; Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and many others.

The Coalition was extremely secretive. Candidates for small local offices with low voter-turnout were encouraged not to divulge their positions at all. The Coalition would inform the selected or targeted voters behind the scenes for whom they should cast their votes. The turnout would be large enough to assure the Coalition's candidate would win.

Ralph Reed, 65 the political dirty-trickster, who ran the Coalition, likened it to "guerrilla warfare" and not giving away one's position to the enemy who won't know what hit him in an ambush.

False Christians hide their full agenda

Reed used Voter-ID tactics in which Coalition forces would call people to ask a series of 65 Wednesday, July 19, 2006: Ralph Reed, the former director of the Christian Coalition and a former Republican lobbyist involved in the Jack Abramoff scandal, suffered an embarrassing defeat in his effort to win the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor of Georgia, US.

---

questions. As soon as they determined they were speaking with a Democrat or a so-called liberal, they would end the phone supposed survey. They would continue on with the conservative and then tailor a computer generated form letter to that person from a Coalition candidate. The personalized letter would cover only those issues with which the voter agreed with the candidate. Any position where they disagreed would not be mentioned. This gave the voters the false impression that the candidate was a perfect match.

The Coalition was stripped of its tax-exempt status for endorsing candidates. It was also hit with racial-discrimination law suits filed by black employees who were treated as second-class citizens by the Old South/Deep South oriented Coalition.

False Christians and the Klan

The Coalition secretly supported David Duke's bid for governor of Louisiana. David Duke is the former head of the Ku Klux Klan. Duke garnered seventy percent of the white so-called evangelical vote. The Ku Klux Klan, of course, was always a white supremacist, ostensible Christian group. The so-called conservative Christian strength lies in the heart of the Confederate slave-states. This they have hidden behind what they call "family values." It is very bloodline oriented.

Look, the prayer-in-school, segregationist, states’ rights, militarist types have been at this for centuries now. It's not new. This is just their latest drive for power.
What do all the neocons think will happen if a generation of false Christians has been pumped through those theocratic-training schools of the dominionists/reconstructionists come of age so to speak and still haven't come to see the real light? They will demand a high percentage of the highest offices of any political party they're in. Watch what happens then to US support for Israel when it doesn't start false-Christianizing. What will happen is what is meant by the expression "what goes around comes around." This will tear apart an already divided American house.

What do all the neocons think will happen if the brown-skinned people of America represent the majority? What will the white Ashkenazi Jews do if those brown-skinned Americans begin more and more to identify with the plight of the brown-skinned Arabs against those white-supremacist Jews? The struggle will further tear apart the already divided American house.

Agree with thine adversary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. (Matthew 5:25).

It means at the very least to come to a fair settlement on both sides. The side that takes unfair advantage will suffer negative consequences.

We are for real Christian dominance. Real means freely chosen, not forced. Real means serving. Real means spirit over DNA and skin color. The mean-father figure isn't Godly.

Robertson resigned in 2001 as president of the Coalition, and donations have since plummeted, moving to other false Christian, fascist groups.

It must be understood that Pat Robertson is a half-truth artist. He attempts to blend truth in with falsehood. He speaks against certain evils, but then he endorses and partakes of evils. He speaks for capitalistic greed and self-centeredness, for militarism, for the death penalty and other coercive measures, and other such things, all of which are anathema under the message of Jesus Christ.

Jerry Falwell's Moral Majority was supplanted by the Christian Coalition of America, so too has the Coalition been supplanted.

Robertson's high-tech, commercial approach really drove things. That approach is still in its supremacy within conservative circles. The Coalition, per se, though has been largely supplanted by several groups.

Changing of the false-Christian guard

Focus on the Family and the Family Research Council were both started by James C. Dobson. Ted Haggard, mentioned several times elsewhere in this work, founded the New Life Church and has been president of the National Association of Evangelicals. There are new groups constant springing up.

This changing of the guard goes back to the beginning, so we can't tell you that it all started with Jerry Falwell. Falwell was actually preceded in his political influence by Billy Graham. Graham didn't expressly endorse candidates, whereas Falwell and his Moral Majority was deliberately started as a political organization so that the tax-exempt status of a religious coalition wouldn't arise. Of course, it is well remembered that the Moral Majority attracted primarily so-called conservative, born-again Christians. Contemporaneous with Graham was Billy James Hargis. Billy Hargis was the most virulent voice of the anti-communist, false Christians. He and Graham preached against holding all things in common. While Graham was denouncing holding all things in common, Graham actually said that Jesus taught in favor of private property against the commons. It's a lie!

As we have written herein, Jesus didn't say that in order to obtain life (real, eternal life in heaven) it is necessary to give up all personal property, but Jesus never preached in favor of private property against the commons. It is quite clear that Jesus led people in the direction away from private property. We won't rehash all the points right now though, since they have been well covered throughout this work.

Those who yell the loudest are often just doing so to rake in selfish gain

Hargis's empire fell due to an apparent bi-sexual addiction. It is not unusual that those who scream the loudest against sexual depravity and for punitive measures, are themselves still deeply embedded in it. They make huge sums of money by railing against real problems. They are given huge sums by people who are genuinely concerned about moral corruption. Those followers are usually very well-meaning people. They just are operating under the half-truths they've been fed by the sideshow-variety preachers.

This doesn't mean that everyone against sexual depravity is engaged in it. However, where the lifestyle isn't consistent across-the-board, falling to temptations (sexual or otherwise) will occur.

Jim Bakker had the PTL Network (standing for Praise the Lord) and Heritage USA, Fort Mill, North Carolina. Heritage USA was a Christian theme park and real estate development that was third only to the two huge Disney theme parks in the US. Bakker's empire collapsed in the late 1980's due to his bi-sexual addiction and other indiscretions. He was eventually convicted of fraud and sentenced to prison.

Jimmy Swaggart was an especially loud voice against sexual depravity even while he was regularly taking prostitutes to motels. Swaggart had condemned Bakker's sexual indiscretions and also one of Swaggart's fellow Assemblies of God ministers who sought and obtained revenge by catching Swaggart with a prostitute coming out of a motel. Swaggart's ministry fell hard in 1988 when these things were revealed.

There are many examples of people preaching one thing while doing another. These in particular were high and mighty. They were very rich, astronomically so. They were not living even remotely as Jesus and his disciples, not that one has to, for real life eternal. It is just that one must live much more in that direction than in the direction of the rich.

The point of bringing up these things is not to rub salt into wounds. We are all fallen. The point is to show the connection between all the different facets of the entire worldly prosperity lifestyle. It isn’t just misdirected and confused sexual lust that is the problem, far from it. It’s the whole selfish path.

Billy Graham stealthily endorsed Richard Nixon for president by simply inviting Nixon to a huge crusade and introducing him to the congregants. Hargis and Graham pushed for church-goers to vote. That meant registration. That’s where the voter-registration drive behind the Moral Majority came in.

Graham later regretted his tacit endorsement of Nixon due to Nixon's ethical lapses that made Graham’s vision appear weak, which it was.

Gerald Ford assumed the presidency by default. Jimmy Carter came along and was a Southern Baptist of the more false-liberal leaning variety. The conservatives didn’t like his brand of Christianity. They turned to Ronald Reagan, who really wasn’t even pretending to be a born-again Christian. He just allowed his handlers to ply the trade bringing the Dixiecrats to the Republicans over Southern traditions of the man being the head of the bloodline (very Old Testament). Reagan didn’t live up to expectations, so Pat Robertson decided to run for president. He found out about playing hardball politics going up against George H. W. Bush, who was chosen and elected for one term.
The high-visibility approach going for the top spot changed as Bill Clinton served two terms based upon appealing to the center and on economic, pocketbook, issues rather than domestic cultural issues. Pat Robertson and others could see that they weren't just going to grab the presidency and change everything. They became bound and determined to overturn diversity and pluralism from below and to bring their false vision of the kingdom (their own worldly imaginations, not God's will). They really worked stealthily at their own grassroots level. It paid off for them in more mammon and political power across-the-board. George W. Bush read the signs and rode in on the wave he helped raise up.

Now each of the worldly preachers learns from the self-styled successes and failures of those who went before. They make of themselves a breed devoid of the Holy Spirit of truth. They ruin the reputation of God amongst many people who would otherwise be reached. Of course, this is as it must be in order to separate out those whose belief will never exist or be too weak to survive the trials and tribulations of this life.

Discern the charlatans

The point is for people to learn to discern the charlatans from the real thing. You will know them by their fruit. Is their fruit headed toward bringing forth what Jesus talked about or not? Is tribulation of their own making or brought on by others (outside evil)? There is not one rich televangelist who is not headed away from God.
False Christians for the Old Testament against the New

To date, the center of the movement simply shifts to other quarters when any area suffers a setback. The movement is still intensifying its mundane strength. The reconstructionists/dominionists are desperate. They want to bring back the Old Testament law, such as the death penalty for sodomy, adultery, and even blasphemy, as only they would define blasphemy. They want to do this even though Jesus was clearly against hypocritical human beings casting stones. They want to do this, because they are hardhearted. They want to be forgiven, but they want to kill people who could yet turn from iniquity. They want to be forgiven for their sins, but they won't forgive others as they wish to be forgiven. They openly advocate for the violation of the commandments of Jesus. Where do they get the idea they are his chosen people?

False Jews for the Old Testament against the New

The false Christians, the reconstructionists/dominionists, are the same hardhearted breed as the Jews who push for halakha, which is the un-enhanced law of Moses (the law not enlightened by Jesus's new testament and new commandment). Halakha includes all the pharisaic traditions of man. It is the Talmudic law. It is not the real bread.

Many of the Hebrews who moved into the post-1967 Occupied Territories want a rabbinic theocracy. This is the Temple Mount Faithful. It is the Jewish Defense League founded by false-rabbi Meir Kahane that engaged in terrorist activities in the same stream as the militant Zionists who founded the current state of Israel and who would rather the world move on and forget, or more so, ignore that history in a way that really condones it and facilitates further terrorism. It is the drive for Greater Israel hiding in sheep's clothing, false piety. It is the sentiment at says, "One million Arabs are not worth a Jewish fingernail." That is what rabbi Yaacov Perrin said in eulogizing Baruch Goldstein who was responsible for the Cave of the Patriarchs massacre of 1994 in which he murdered twenty-nine Muslims and wounded another one hundred twenty-five. That act was no better than any attack carried out by any Arab against any Jew. That statement is no better than anything Hitler said against the Jews.

Self-styled Fundamentalists of each major religion are of the same hard-hearted spirit

The so-called Christian reconstructionists are the same hardhearted spiritual species as the Jews who push for halakha and the Muslims who push for sharia and the Hindus who push for hardhearted Hindutva. It is a Hindu nationalism that translates into a Hindu legal system or theocracy that punishes even the teachers and exemplifiers of the new commandment.

The problem with all of these legal systems is that they are fraught with human fallibility and, therefore, remain mundanely coercive. That perpetuates offenses. They do not lead to righteousness where the new commandment, the divine law, is written on the heart. They all fall short. None is the path to ending pain and suffering.

These groups are all referred to as fundamentalist, in the extreme. However, they are all fundamentally selfish. God does not want this. That is why everything is always better with less selfishness. It is why everything would be perfect without any selfishness.

Moses's law and Jesus's law

The Mosaic law was headed from a harder-hearted condition. It was headed in the right direction relative to where the hearts of the people were before Moses started turning them. The real-Christian law being the new commandment arrives though. It is not relative. It is both the means and the end that is perfect. It is God. Therefore, we know how we ought to be. Our obligation is to consistency. It is to be real in the divine sense. It is to be really liberal, as Jesus was really liberal.

When we do this together, heaven is brought forth. When it becomes universal, the kingdom of God is there and evil is gone, displaced by pure love and peace. This is the truth. These are God's words.

If you think that the false-Christian right isn't getting to the hearts and minds of people corrupting their souls, consider that the ideological false-right is trying very hard to expand the death penalty to other than murder cases. Various states have apparently passed laws allowing for capital punishment in sex crimes.
Many innocent people have been executed (murdered) by the state. Some think DNA will solve that. Not so. DNA can be planted at a crime scene. With technological developments, other false evidence such as fingerprints, etc., can be planted as well. Some with a vendetta can make anyone appear to be guilty.

We have the old guard of the Christian worldly right changing hands. We see that they want to reinstate the most severe punishments and penalties for immoral behavior. However, we also see the double-standard behavior of those at the top of these groups. We see their roots. They preach half-truths to the masses while they make themselves worldly princes.

Pat Robertson, for instance, has invested multimillions in a combination of speculative ventures such as a race horse, diamond mining, and gold mining. He was found to be making illegal donation-appeals for Operation Blessing on behalf of those needing humanitarian airlifts from Rwanda to then Zaire (now the Democratic Republic of the Congo). Robertson diverted the use of planes funded by the appeals to transport his diamond mining equipment in a deal he had with Zaire dictator, Mobutu Sese Seko. Charges against Robertson were blocked by Virginia attorney general Mark Earley, a Republican who received his largest campaign contribution from Robertson. Despite this, Pat Robertson’s Operation Blessing was listed on FEMA’s Donate-cash-to list66 after hurricane

66
FEMA
Katrina. Only two groups on the list are not so-called faith-based.

Robertson also had a deal with Liberian dictator Charles Taylor for a gold mine in Liberia. Robertson gave Taylor ten percent of the company for gold mining rights in the country.

Pat Robertson started his great personal wealth by using ministry contributions to CBN to start the Family Channel. When it started to make money, he sold it to himself, along with his son, Tim, for next to nothing. Then he took it public (offered stock on the public stock exchange). The company stock value rose giving Robertson some ninety million dollars in personal gain.

Then he sold the company to porn-purveyor Rupert Murdock of Fox News at an increased profit. That constitutes diverting donations made to CBN to huge personal profits for Pat and his son. People giving money to CBN would think the money would go to spreading the word of God rather than lining Pat Robertson's pockets. Why didn't the ministry get the gain to help spread the word and to do humanitarian work rather than to build Pat Robertson's personal mansion, etc?

Why did Sharon suffer a stroke?

January 4, 2006, Ariel Sharon, the eleventh prime minister of Israel, suffered a massive hemorrhagic stroke. Pat Robertson again hit the front page by stating that God was punishing Sharon for Sharon's leading Israel to pull out of the Gaza Strip. He said that it is clear in The Bible that God, speaking through the prophet Joel, says God is against those who "divide my land." Pat pronounced, "Woe unto any prime minister of Israel who takes a similar course to appease the EU, the United Nations, or the United States of America."

I will also gather all nations, and will bring them down into the valley of Jehoshaphat, and will plead with them there for my people and for my heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land. (Joel 3:2).

Now, Pat is both right and wrong. He is right for the wrong reason. Ariel Sharon suffered a stroke not because he wasn't fighting harder violently, militarily, to keep a grip on the Gaza Strip. He is suffering, because of his unrepented lust evidenced by his militancy and personal greed: Iniquities. He devoured too much, concealed, was not sorry, and did not make amends.

In 1982, Ariel Sharon, as an extreme hawk, was the Israeli defense minister and top Israeli military commander (general) in Lebanon. Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon, called Sabra and Shatila, were completely surrounded by Israeli troops. No one could come or go without Israeli approval. Under Sharon, the camps were shelled by the Israelis and then some one hundred fifty Israeli-allied, Lebanese, self-styled Christian, Phalange militiamen, were allowed by the Israelis to enter the refugee camp. Reports differ, but those one hundred fifty slaughtered anywhere from eight hundred to over three thousand men, women, children, and pregnant women. The Israelis did nothing while the slaughter was carried out even though they were being repeatedly informed that a massacre was ensuing. The refugees were obviously not armed militants.

Sharon has a known history of terrorist attacks on civilian populations while he was in charge of Unit 101, the first such Israeli unit.

Terrorist tactics are an undisputed part of Israeli history leading up to its declaration of statehood in 1948. Haganah split-offs, the Irgun (headed by Menachem Begin who became a prime minister of Israel) and the Stern Gang, engaged in documented and undisputed terrorist activities. The Haganah was transformed into the Israel Defense Force (Israeli Army).

Sharon had also just been re-implicated in alleged corruption along with his sons, Omri Sharon and Gilad Sharon, involving millions of dollars (USD) in bribes paid to the Sharon family. Martin Schlaff, a Jewish-Austrian billionaire, and Cyril Kern, a British businessman in South Africa, are mentioned. Numerous other allegations of corruption have been leveled against Ariel Sharon. Many involve conflicts of interest. Omri Sharon pleaded guilty to fundraising corruption concerning his father's political campaign.

Unlike in the United States, Israel has a system of parliamentary immunity, meaning except under very particular legal circumstances, members of parliament are shielded from legal scrutiny. The Sharon family has in large measure been shielded from investigation. One of the arguments for such immunity is that it protects members of parliament from blackmail (pressure to vote a certain way under threat of prosecution).

The pressures were mounting up on Ariel Sharon. It all caught up with him. In addition, his doctors made compounding errors, since their hands were influenced under the mindset of willfulness.

Doctors get rich off suffering

Think about this. Why are healers rich, especially in the United States where doctors are the wealthiest professionals in general? Many become very rich off the suffering of others. God bless everyone, but God bless the doctors who treat the poor regardless of how much those doctors are paid. The wealthy doctors are by far mostly conservative Republicans who give huge sums to see to it that their candidates get elected to pass the laws the doctors want at the expense of the poor and suffering so they may become even richer in many cases treating only the rich. This is why there is not universal healthcare in the United States. It is to protect the inhumanity and greed of doctors. It is to protect the capitalist industry of supposed healing even while capitalism pollutes the world making people sick. It is why the United States claims to have medical capabilities that are the envy of the world. The riches facilities that treat primarily the riches patients do have medical capabilities that are the envy of the world. However, the poor in the US aren't treated in those facilities. That's nothing to boast yourself about. Besides, God does the healing. Not you.
It is a willful attitude they have, and that attitude causes mistakes that would not otherwise occur. It doesn't matter whether that attitude is in the US or Israel or anywhere else. It adds to mistakes.

We are to speak out against the spirit of excess while also praying for Ariel Sharon and others to see the light before it is too late for them in this age, world, and mundane life. We are to repeat the word of God and also do what we are able to exemplify to be that light. There are many people in the world who may turn if they hear and see.

Pat Robertson is right that God's land should not be parted; however, Pat does not understand the basis of a truly unified land. Pat needs to soften his heart.

Praise be to the leader of Israel who brings the Palestinians to the real God by leading all the people of Israel to bring forth in the full spirit of unselfishness as taught and exemplified by the one obviously sent by God to be God with us: Yehoshua Meshiach (Jesus Christ).

Now, Pat has been verbally attacked for the wrong reason. He has been denounced as anti-Semitic.

Also, the White House (meaning George W. Bush, himself a self-styled born-again, Republican, conservative, Christian), speaking through Trent Duffy, chastised Pat Robertson stating that Pat's "comments are wholly inappropriate and offensive and really don't have a place in this or any other debate." Now, that is completely incorrect. The truth is that it is a matter of correct interpretation of the scripture and not a matter of whether or not the scripture is appropriate. The scripture is absolutely appropriate. It is never inappropriate. This is not twisting Mr. Duffy's intention either. Robertson isn't grasping more of the bigger picture, but Duffy isn't grasping any of it. Duffy was simply pandering to those with more numerous deeper pockets and who are even more politically active than the conservative Christian Coalition of America, meaning the Israel Lobby.

Mr. Bush, through Mr. Duffy, is avoiding the debate. He is afraid of where it will lead. He is afraid of the implications of where the full and correct interpretation of The Bible will lead. He is afraid of what the Holy Spirit calls for him to do. He has been unwilling to do what Jesus said. However, neither he nor anyone else will be able to avoid that debate. It is coming. It is, in fact, already here.

This house will fall. This house is divided. It was cobbled together under false pretenses. It is founded upon lies, and it operates in lies. It will be replaced by a system based upon the real truth. The debate will expose the wide gap between the mundane reality and the absolutely real. The light is going to be shown into the dark places whether or not George W. Bush or anyone else likes it. Only the truly repentant will survive. Learn what true repentance is, and do it.
Bush professes, but where's the Holy Spirit?

On Dec. 13, 1999, in a Republican-primary debate held in Des Moines, Iowa, the candidates were asked with which political philosopher or thinker do you most identify and why. The exchange went as follows:

George W. Bush answered, "Christ, because he changed my heart."

The moderator inquired further, "I think the viewer would like to know more on how he's changed your heart."

George W. Bush replied, "Well, if they don't know, it's going to be hard to explain. When you turn your heart and your life over to Christ, when you accept Christ as the savior, it changes your heart. It changes your life, and that's what happened to me."

Now, this is true; however, it depends upon which vision of Christ one has as to how one's heart is changed. In which direction is one changed and to what extent? This is the crux of the matter. It is over the interpretation and all that is implied, whether or not we are conflated in the Holy Spirit. George W. Bush and Pat Robertson and others read scripture and still allow for themselves great accumulation and hoarding (excess) in the face of utter want and injustice. They afford themselves the use of violence through surrogates such as the military and CIA operatives and corporate contractors and their subcontractors and suppliers. Through these things, they bring forth other than what is called for by Jesus Christ. It is on account of this that they remain in a state of rebellion that places them not close to the kingdom but far from it. It is through their misguided interpretations (misreading of the scripture; not knowing it) that they, in turn, mislead so many billions of others.

Of course, just because Pat Robertson is against someone doesn't mean that one is on the right path.

Concerning Hugo Chavez Frias, he too needs to overcome his militancy, which is antichristian, just as was Pat Robertson's call for violent overthrow and assassination.

Hugo Chavez has seen from his study of history that militarily weak anti-Empire leaders are easily overthrown by the CIA and now Pentagon. He has gotten the impression that militarism is the only practical path.

Haiti: More shame on America

He saw how the US handled Jean-Bertrand Aristide, then president of Haiti, who was illegally coerced by the US government into leaving office in 2004. It was duress and unchristian. Those who rebelled against Aristide included former death-squad leaders, such as Louis-Jodel Chamblain, who had been living in exile in the Dominican Republic, which borders Haiti. Guy Philippe, one of the rebel leaders for instance, is a great and open admirer of former US puppet and reactionary dictator of Chile, Augusto Pinochet. Neither the African Union nor the Caribbean Community and Common Market (CARICOM), with fifteen member states of which Haiti is one, agreed to recognize the US-backed rebel government in Haiti headed up by Gérard Latortue. Now Haiti has managed to get a democratically elected leader again, but for how long what with the history of US intervention?

Haiti is one of the poorest nations on earth if not the poorest. The US imposes regime change in Iraq and then spends hundreds of billions of dollars in so-called nation building there. In Haiti, meanwhile, the US imposes regime change and spends little to nothing. Why? Haiti has no oil. The US government hasn't figured out how to use Haiti. Then why did the US overthrow the government of Haiti? Their internal front is that they are against liberation theology (see Index: liberation theology). However, they are truly against the real liberalism of Christ. We are not saying that Aristide's way is entirely right. We are though saying that the way of the US neocons is wrong.

Now, some say that Aristide had turned dictatorial himself. However, how much of Aristide's actions were defensive against the powers of greed and violence bent upon retaking Haiti for personal gain as opposed to Aristide's desire for personal power? This is always the question concerning those who start out with obvious humanitarian intentions and are subsequently targeted by conservative powers such as the US government. It is the question we face concerning the coming fate of Hugo Chavez Frias.
Can’t just take the mainstream's word

Also, one is obliged not to take for granted that Aristide was turning dictatorial. That’s a mainstream US media claim about him. Where’s their evidence, and where is Aristide’s side of the story? One is definitely wrong to take the mainstream’s word for things. Surely we've seen that.

Hugo has studied the history of US intervention and covert actions against democratic and other leaders around the world. Hugo believes that in order to increase and protect the rights of the poor of Venezuela, he must survive. He believes he must be willing to be militant in the face of US attempts against him that he sees as being aimed against a growing movement toward a giving, sharing, and cooperative international economy. In his view, one of the best ways to insure that the US does not take further illegal actions against him is by drawing great attention to the pattern of US behavior in the world about which the American people have been largely and deliberately kept in the dark. He has drawn great attention to the US directed, short-lived coup d'état against him. He has drawn great attention to US continuing plans, and now more so wishful thinking, to remove him from power via whatever means. Pat Robertson has inadvertently helped Hugo in this regard by openly stating the conservative, antidemocratic, antichristian mentality that permeates the neocon Republican Party and Bush-43 administration. Hugo has made it very difficult now for the Empire to oust him without everyone knowing in advance that what Hugo has been saying about US covert action against democracies is true. He knows that the Empire depends upon duping its people or at least giving them the cover of fooling themselves under the neoconservative tenet of plausible deniability. He also knows that he rallies his people by educating them about the Empire's history. He also spreads the word throughout Latin America and the world.

All but Hugo's militancy is in line with the Christian view. Hugo Chavez Frias would be better serving were he to renounce all violence and let the US capitalists heap hot coals upon their own heads by undertaking whatever selfish things they will. That is how Jesus handled the Pharisees and others, and Jesus was right to do so.

Fighting with them and killing them and leading others to do so and to be hurt and killed themselves in such an endeavor would have been simply more of the same, old, less enlightened way. Hugo is mistaken that his militant-brand of giving and sharing is the way of Christ. He is far from alone in his view. Many of his enemies think that same way.

Now, the Bush-43 administration actually has mixed emotions concerning Pat Robertson. After all, Pat's followers voted heavily for Bush; however, Pat has questioned George's decision to go to war with Iraq. He made the statement about having no casualties, but more importantly, this latest statement about Chavez Frias is a statement that Bush was wrong concerning not assassinating Saddam in order to save hundreds of billions of dollars in invasion and occupation costs. Of course, George sees more profits in the oil than those expenditures for the war. Also, George's buddies make the billions. Pat's a little too soft, a little too lofty, if you can believe it, for George's brand of realpolitiks. Don't fool yourself, George's revolution is raw.

What did George W. Bush say when he was running and what happened?

During a New Hampshire primary ostensible debate, Bush said concerning Saddam, Iraq, and weapons of mass destruction, "I'd take 'em out, take out the weapons of mass destruction. I'm surprised he's still there." So that was his thinking during the primary campaign. He couldn't understand why president Bill Clinton before him hadn't already attacked Baghdad to remove Saddam from power. Obviously, he thought Clinton, as with Bush's father before Clinton, had missed his opportunity to build up political capital with what George W. Bush thought would be a quick and easy war against Iraq. He told Herskowitz, "If I have a chance to invade, if I had that much capital, I'm not going to waste it." Now, listen carefully to those words, "If I have a chance to invade." Couple those words with 1) his views concerning building political capital via war 2) his statement during the New Hampshire primary that he would "take 'em out" and 3) that in March of 2002, a full year before the March, 2003, invasion of Iraq, he interrupted Condoleezza Rice and three US senators meeting in the White House meeting room to say, "F--k Saddam. We're taking him out." With all that in mind, what do the words "If I have a chance to invade" say? He meant that if he were elected president, he would more than hope to invade Iraq. He wanted it so much all along that he had... his people assemble a team to help him twist 9-11 into a pretext for war on Iraq, his chance. It is all as clear as can be. Anyone who doesn't believe it doesn't know the truth when he or she hears it and can't possibly believe in Jesus.

Bush also told Herskowitz that concerning his, Bush's, oil businesses, "The companies were floundering." The campaign though wanted to, and did, paint Bush as a successful oilman, which he was not. He also said he had been "excused" from Alabama National Guard drills despite his later assertions that he had been at the drills. He changed his story.

Before that though, George H. W. Bush, when he was a Congressman, called in favors in Texas and got his son, George W. Bush, moved to the top of the waiting list to get into the Texas Air National Guard. George W. had signed up just twelve days before his deferment ran out and his draft number would have seen him possibly drafted.\(^{67}\) Of course, had he been drafted, he still wouldn't have had to serve on the frontline in Vietnam. The sons of Congressman and Senators just didn't have to serve on the frontline. He jumped ahead on the waiting list in front of thousands of others who had signed up before him.

He told Herskowitz the truth before he had been told by political handlers how such favoritism for the son of one of the most elitist, American, conservative families would be negatively viewed by otherwise rabid militarist supporters. Then he changed his story to cover over the truth of that elitist favoritism. There never has been any evidence that Bush showed up in Alabama.

All George W. Bush has learned during his time in office is how to polish his skills in the dark art of lying.

Despite the fact that George W. Bush fired Mickey Herskowitz as his campaign biography writer, George W. Bush's own father, George H. W. Bush, then hired Mickey Herskowitz to write the official biography of George H. W. Bush's father, Prescott Bush.

Facilitating 9-11

Some people believe that the greed of capitalism targeting trillions of dollars in oil in particular even caused some US neocons deliberately to facilitate the 9-11 attacks, make it easier to happen, deliberately avoid taking the steps to prevent it, so they could have the pretext for war just as Pearl Harbor was Japan being allowed to draw first blood. "The United States desires that Japan commit the first overt act."

Well, the United States desired that some group commit the first overt act against the mainland US to such a degree (on the order of Pearl Harbor) that the US people would stand behind the drive for world takeover of all the oil fields not already within the strongest military nations such as Russia and China or under the strict control of close US allies in capitalism. Deny all would-be rival empires the oil outside their borders. That's the internally stated doctrine.
Take the oil to be richer. That's the doctrine more directly stated.
Gore Vidal was instrumental early on in pointing out the fact that US fighter jets were by law required to scramble within he says four minutes of any skyjacking but were really only scrambled after the eternity of one hour and twenty minutes. This has never been investigated by the US Congress or adequately covered by mainstream media. Why not? Vidal says that it is because we do not live in a republic but rather a dictatorship. His point is that if the US were truly a republic, such investigations would be a given. His point is 进一步 that the powers that be have a lock on all the information that even under the mundane law ought to be public.
Even if fighters were scrambled sooner, they were ineffectual.68 Why?
Still others suspect the five US war games going on 9-11 that saw US fighter jets sent far and wide away from where the attacks actually occurred as more than a mundane coincidence.
Did al Qaeda know about the war games? If so,

68 The following article suggests that NORAD (North American Aerospace Defense Command) wasn't able to track the hijacked jets. One would have thought that nothing in the sky save a US stealth fighter or bomber couldn't be tracked by NORAD radar. Michael Bronner.
"9/11 Live: The NORAD Tapes." Vanity Fair.com. August, 2006.
http://www.vanityfair.com/features/general/060801fge0
1
how did they find out and what other role did any leakers play? One of the war games was based upon an airplane flying into a building. Also, eyewitness accounts about where top-ranking administration and military personnel were at the time of the attacks and immediately thereafter vary widely. Where were they? What were they doing? How soon did they know what? Who gave what orders to whom and when? These are questions that have not been answered. The ostensible reason: National security.

This is not to say that we believe that interrogations will bring in the kingdom. They won't. Violence is wrong. Secrets and barriers will never bring in the kingdom. The only thing that will bring in the kingdom is being as harmless as doves while being as wise as the serpents. It is wise to see what the advocates of violence are up to, to comprehend how their way will never work, to advocate the opposite path that is the way of peace (being as harmless as doves). We aren't looking to harm the violent. We are looking for them to repent.

The suspicions of billions of people have not been laid to rest by the conservative administration, because the administration has maneuvered to avoid being openly scrutinized in detail on these issues.

One must ask him or herself whether any greedy Americans would sacrifice thousands of Americans and others for the sake of having a pretext for taking over the world starting with taking over the huge oil fields of Iraq worth many trillions of dollars. Are there people so hell-bent upon empire building and corporate globalization and privatization that they would see that effort as being more important than the lives of several thousand people? Are there American-Empire builders who would do that in order to keep rising powers such as China and India and others from making oil deals with Iraq and pipeline deals with others such as Afghanistan? What is the history? How many hundreds of thousands of people have died for American business access to markets? Look at the statement of Jonah Goldberg that the US ought to throw, in his words "some small crappy little country...against the wall, just to show the world we mean business." Look at how cheap life is under that mentality.

The lies about Iraq were after all proven to be numerous and flagrant. Those lies are enough to cause any sane person to distance him or herself from the liars and their agenda. Regardless, the hush is on at the top concerning all the events. The plan was to get it all behind them as soon as possible and just move on with empire building now that the dastardly deeds, such as the invasion and occupation of Iraq, have been done. In other words, make the most out of the situation for the sake of the Empire.

The various commissions purportedly investigating did not address many of the issues still outstanding yet they have laid claim to being thorough and exhaustive investigations. Why were the commissions not exhaustive?

It is a high crime to have killed many tens of thousands of people in an American military invasion of Iraq. Many were innocent women and children. To plan and sell the plan with deceit where one knows the innocent will be killed by following through and then to follow through is murder of the innocent covered in lies. How many Americans died in 9-11 versus how many American troops have been expended after the deliberate lies leading up to the wars? What makes you think that the powers that be don't consider US civilians every bit as expendable as military troops?

The United States is the spirit of the Roman Empire

If you think that people in high places would not even contemplate such a despicable act as 9-11, you obviously have too much faith in the satanic Empire spirit. You just don't understand that the spirit of Nero still exists. The US is far from immune to it. All the talk about how the US is the longest running constitutional democracy in the world and that the American people are somehow, therefore, immune to conversion from a republic to a totally undemocratic imperial dictatorship leading to a monarchical dynasty is self-delusion.

Given enough fear, many more Americans then currently imagined would plead for a strong and ruthless leader to bring torturous law and order to the planet. Look at how far the US has already slipped again down the slippery slope since Richard Nixon.

The US is definitely the same empire spirit as the one that gave rise to the Roman Empire and that polluted and then took over the church. The truth is that there is American Exceptionalism—exceptionally greedy, violent, decadent, and apostate, just as was the Roman Empire at its height.
These leaders today imagine they will write the history recording themselves as worthy of eternal praise. How wrong they are. Posterity will not look kindly on their exploits. In fact, they will be held up as being exactly what people ought not to be and never should have fallen to being. Hardheartedness is not good, never has been, and never will be.

False-flag operations

If you imagine that thousands of years separate such evil lust for Empire and the American spirit, consider Operation Northwoods. Operation Northwoods was for decades dismissed as just a conspiracy theory of kooks. Well, through a Freedom of Information Act request by the National Security Archive, a document entitled Justification for US Military Intervention in Cuba was released. It contained a proposed plan submitted to secretary of defense Robert McNamara on March 13, 1962, by the Pentagon’s Joint Chiefs of Staff. The plan was for what is called "false-flag actions." It means that the US would conduct terrorist attacks upon itself in a way to make it look as if Cuba did it. That way, the U.S. public could be whipped into a vengeful, wrathful frenzy demanding the US military takeover of Cuba. The proposal suggested that a CIA plane be disguised as a US commercial passenger jet to be shot down by the US which would claim the Cubans did it. Now, how does one trust anything coming out of the mouths of the kinds of people capable of proposing such pretexts for invading other nations? McNamara rejected the proposal. Had he accepted it, Cuba would have been invaded with substantial additional loss of life over and above the losses in the US attacking itself for pretext. So, do you think that the highest generals and admirals in the Pentagon and the neocons in the civilian sector and especially the war-mongering war-profiteering capitalists would never consider a 9-11 type attack on the US in order to whip the Americans into a state of security panic? In the face of everything that has happened historically concerning the US and in the face of the Justification for US Military Intervention in Cuba, is it foolish to put it passed them? It is foolish not to assume they facilitated 9-11? Ask God.

If you think that a false-flag operation sounds too fanciful, then consider that the CIA was actually responsible for terrorist actions in Italy, under the CIA's Gladio network, that were blamed on the Red Brigades, a militant Communist group that was actually involved in terrorist activities making it easy for the CIA to use such false-flag activities against them.

Also, there is Able Danger that was a Department of Defense intelligence program many claim had identified four of the 9-11 attackers. It is said that the military destroyed 2.5 terabytes of Able Danger data two years before 9-11. Also, the September 11 Commission had to backtrack from previous statements that it had not been informed of Able Danger or that Mohamed Atta had been allegedly identified by Able Danger and that Able Danger data had been blocked from the FBI by the DoD (Department of Defense).

Further concerning 9-11 conspiracy ideas, Michael Meacher, former UK secretary of health, former UK secretary of commerce, former UK environmental minister, member of the UK parliament and Andreas von Bulow, former German member of parliament, former German secretary of defense, a now a private lawyer, together have made a great number of observations concerning 9-11.

It has been reported that Mossad, an Israeli intelligence agency, had supplied the US with the names of four of the hijackers one month before 9-11. It is known that at least eleven countries, including the UK, had warned the US in some detail of the potential for an attack. Zacarius Moussaoui was arrested in August, 2001, one month before 9-11. He had information on his computer, but the FBI was prevented from looking at the contents until 9-11. That computer contained detailed information on the hijackers and the attack plans. Of course the Phoenix Memo of the FBI said clearly that potential hijackers were training at flight school and firing ranges. [We also know that one of the hijackers received training in hand-to-hand combat and knife fighting at an elite martial arts school in Florida.] The US government was aware of fourteen of the nineteen attackers. The intelligence community had been watching Mohamed Atta, knew he was directly linked to al Qaeda, wanted to share the information, but was blocked by the Department of Defense.

According to Meacher, in the nine months just prior to 9-11, fighters had been scrambled sixty-seven times to check on commercial aircraft as possible hijackings. [Yet, on 9-11, no fighters even got a sighting of any of the hijacked jets.]
They would have us believe that the jets disappeared from radar. How?
Couple these events with the Project for the New American Century (PNAC) hoping for another Pearl Harbor size catastrophe as justification for a military buildup and the takeover of the strategic oil fields of the Middle East.
Before that, the was Zbigniew Brzezinski, the Carter administration national security advisor (and advisor to other presidents as well and co-founder, with David Rockefeller, of the Trilateral Commission), who wrote in his book, The Grand Chessboard, for the need for the US to control the Middle East oil by warfare which would not be supported by the US public without a complete disruption.

Add to that the Wolfowitz Doctrine, and other neocon advocacy, and 9-11 becomes extremely convenient timing.

Of course it was Brzezinski who came up with the idea of sucking the Soviets into a war in Afghanistan by having the US train, fund, and stimulate the Mujahideen (the Wahhabists, al Qaeda) in Pakistan and elsewhere to go to Afghanistan to fight the Soviet supported regime. Now the US is fighting those same people, the Taliban, whom Brzezinski told where fighting on the side of God. So if they fight on the side God and the US is fighting them, what does that make the US in Brzezinski's eyes? What does Brzezinski think about God?

We know of their deep belief in God, and we are confident that their struggle will succeed. That land over there is yours. You will go back to it one day, because your fight will prevail and you'll have your homes and your mosques back again, because your cause is right and God is on your side.70

The US founded al Qaeda with the Egyptian Qutubist, Ayman al-Zawahiri and his Saudi moneyman, Osama bin Laden. The US revved them up more than they already were, which was too much. [We cover more about Wahhabism and Qutubism in the supplement to this work.]

Brzezinski has never repented. In fact, he has bragged about starting al Qaeda against the Soviets. He has said he'd do it all over again.

The US September 11 Commission avoided all the central questions. [It was a whitewash. It was a tool for scapegoating those who were later rewarded and honored.] The Commission deliberately avoided following the money concerning who funded the hijackers. Transactions had been recorded, but the Commission refused to trace them back [because of where they led, which was to people who would prove a public embarrassment for the government of the US of course].

Do those observations of Meacher and Bulow prove that the US planned the attack? No.

There is no doubt though that the Bush-43 administration wanted to hit out militarily without concern about justice. They wanted to hit Iraq regardless of Iraq's lack of involvement in the 9-11 attacks. How bad is that?

Now, there were dozens of people at 9-11 ground zero who heard rapid sounds like repeating gunfire and then a series of loud explosions way down in the lower stories of the buildings and well after the planes had hit the towers. Those explosions were reported right out in the open by the news reporters on scene.

These were explosions that knocked people right off their feet and blew out windows low in the buildings. These explosions, among other things, led people, who have good reason to distrust the US government's official accounts and to suspect possible deliberate inside demolition via pre-planted explosives.

We aren't endorsing that view.

It is telling that so many people distrust this government to such a degree. They aren't above suspicion, because they've impeached themselves so many times concerning such grave matters. They've been caught in so many lies about killing hundreds of thousands of the innocent that the people are hard pressed to see where those lies might end.
Remember, this government is built upon imagining the worst and then doing it first.

Look, if the government were not constantly doing things that are disreputable, there would be nowhere near the numbers of citizens suspecting the motives of the government. That's just how it is.

The government and the vast majority of people who are highly educated in the fields of structural engineering give plausible answers concerning the collapses of the twin towers. Those possible answers don't address the other allegations that the government was at the very least deliberately less than vigilant about attacks. Those other allegations are simply ignored.

Look, George W. Bush was visibly shaken by 9-11. He was the deer caught in the headlights.

However, he soon became gleeful at the prospect of rising to the challenge in the traditional manner. He suddenly had visions of historical grandeur. Could he do things so that his name would go down in the annals written as large as Alexander's? Could he shine with Constantine I as some kind of warrior, emperor, conqueror for Christianity?

George W. Bush has said God made him president. He was put in place and had his heart hardened so that the people would be punished by the spirit of evil for their own sins, individually and collectively.

Prior to the attacks, he was having a difficult time finding any traction. He likes being a war president. The names of war presidents and war caesars are written larger in history. He thinks only the war presidents go down big in history.
The bigger the war, the bigger is the historical significance. However, the biggest name in history is Jesus, and he was no mundane war leader.

The government's reaction to 9-11 has been to focus mostly on the so-called intelligence failures and deliberately to point to the supposed need to undo protections put into place after abuses were exposed and documented by the Church Committee and others, as if the government can suddenly be trusted.

Ought one to imagine that the US government has no culpability? The evil done was vengeance for evil done. It was not lashing out at an innocent nation.

They talk about the false-flag plans of the recent past; the fighter planes that were consciously kept on the ground even while known hijackings were in progress; the historically known despicable things in which the powers that be have engaged; the lies that were told to get the US into a war with Iraq and the lies that got the US into Vietnam; the despicable experiments with radiation and drugs and torture, etc., in which the government has been proven to have engaged; the torturing at Abu Ghraib that follows the exact pattern of systematic psychological and physical torture taught and used by the CIA, DIA, etc.; the known cover-ups of pedophilia in the highest reaches of government such as with the Franklin cover-up; the Finders cover-up; the secret bombing of Cambodia and the secret war in Laos; the coup d'états by the CIA against numerous democratically elected leaders around the world; the FBI, CIA, NSA, and DIA collusion in cover-ups and disinformation; the rape of the planet for the greed of the superrich and sycophants; and more.

The nation is not innocent. It needs to stop, turn, repent, atone, love, and forgive to be forgiven. It needs to give and share all with all.

When one looks at all that is known as well as anything can be concerning the despicable history of the powers that be, it becomes completely understandable that highly rational people hold those powers in suspicion. They don't trust their motives, because their motives are obviously evil to the degree their fruits show. They don't trust their answers, because they have perjured themselves without remorse.

There are investigations and reports issued, but those can easily be fudged. A report says that such and such a firm or company found no evidence of this or that. We've seen the greedy give out false reports before about all sorts of things including those that took the nation to war after war.

Why do Americans insist upon imagining that their leaders are somehow immune to abject corruption? The people themselves are the most consuming people on the planet depriving the rest of the world its fair share upon which even to subsist. Americans engender corruption through creed. That's why the US is headed for a fall.

High ranking governmental officials do get together in secret rooms to hatch plans. Those plans can run from the noblest to the most ignoble depending upon those in charge and the degree to which the followers are in sync. To automatically assign the noblest motivations to democratically chosen leaders within the greedy system that is capitalism is to put one's faith where it does not belong.

George W. Bush is not doing what Jesus would do. You know that. The next president of the United States will not do what Jesus would do.
You know that too.

People out of power also get together in secret rooms to hatch plans. That's what the PNAC members did. They even decided to make much of their plan open since America's Manifest Destiny to them is world conquest.

To them, America is exceptional, meaning superior, because America can. What I mean here is that their morality is summed up in the expression that "might makes right." This is the same religion of Michael Aquino and all the other satanic, psychological operations,
MindWar, types.

The question isn't whether or not there have been a series of conspiracies all a part of a large agenda. There most certainly has been a long chain of conspirators against bringing heaven to earth. The powers that be are far from benign.
What they are doing and planning is malignant.
They have the disease of evil.

One cannot justify evil with the stroke of a pen.
Just because one has been given the power by duped people, one is not then able to will the truth as he chooses. One cannot justify the invasion of Iraq. The president cannot sign away unrepentant guilt. It is premeditated mass murder of the innocent. There is no defense for it. No one who kills anyone and then disingenuously says but I thought I had proof is let off scot-free. If he escapes the justice of humans during his life on this planet, if he is not convicted by his own conscience here during his lifetime, he will still not escape justice. Murder is not the only evil of it. Many of the living were maimed physically and mentally for the rest of their lives in the flesh. Also, how many souls have been led astray to evil?

Anyone who was unwilling to concoct linkages to use on a willingly gullible and culpable public in the facilitation of these high crimes was marginalized and then finally pushed completely aside and placed out of the loop. Even the willing though not aggressive enough were, and are, pushed out.

Impunity is their plan

Now, even though the CIA was not primarily responsible for the intelligence fiasco, the entire intelligence community is under going an overhaul really to consolidate the gains of those who will further have deceitful policy drive intelligence. It is just scapegoating the CIA.

The intelligence community will become a center for the manufacturing of falsehoods to pawn off as truths. There will be no one in the loop to say that the intelligence was fabricated or revised. All the Richard Clarke's in the system will have been excised. Only those willing to fabricate will be left. They will simply say the root of the basis for their conclusions is too deeply classified to divulge. There will be none to question their actions.
Privatization for impunity

When coupled with the push for more military privatization (paramilitary contractors, corporate mercenaries, and the like), the conservatives will be able to act with impunity. That is their plan.

Private contractors (capitalist, for-profit corporations) are providing what is being called security in Iraq, mercenary services, solider-of-fortune services, and interrogation. The military and others refer to it as outsourcing. It is the privatization of the military. The military planners, such as the policy maker Donald Rumsfeld will maintain that this cuts the costs for the military. However, from a sheer budgetary standpoint, the mercenaries demand profit that the government does not require. It is a massive redistribution of wealth via the general tax revenue of the US to for-profit mercenary corporations where the greatest gains are made at the top (the senior-level executives and largest shareholders) such as vice president Dick Cheney. The military used to be about security services.

All the work soldiers used to do servicing other soldiers has been privatized. Halliburton has cooked and cleaned, etc., for a huge and secret profit margin under no-bid contracts while the vice president's stock-option values rose in more ways than simply on the stock exchange. They owe the Cheney’s and the Cheney’s will be rewarded by the system.

Many are deeply enmeshed and principal players in this system. Some of them had been in conservative government long ago.
George P. Shultz was secretary of state under Reagan and secretary of the treasury and secretary of labor under Nixon before that. He served as president of the Bechtel Group, which I believe at the time was the largest privately held (not listed or traded on any open stock exchange) corporation in the US. During the Iran-Contra scandal that was much worse than Watergate, Shultz lied under oath that his State Department was mostly unaware of the illegal weapons exchanges and funding of the fascist mercenaries known as the Contras.

Lawrence E. Walsh was appointed as independent counsel to investigate. His report verified that the State Department had known full well about the illegalities, contrary to Shultz’s direct testimony.

Bechtel has gained a great deal from the privatization revolution throughout the globe. Shultz and many other unrepentant souls involved in numerous conservative-Republican scandals have been rewarded handsomely by the devil. Most end up very much wealthier than when they were in government.

John Negroponte is a big name in the group, even though he likes to keep as low a profile as possible. John M. Poindexter is also a prime case in point. He's the Total Information Awareness conceptualizer and instigator. Of course Donald Rumsfeld is deeply embedded in the system.

As everyone knows, oil profits were a prime reason for the Iraq War. The contracts, under closed bidding or no bidding, for all the aspects of the war were another huge reason. There are all the billions of dollars redistributed from the poor and middle classes to the corporations under the privatization of the military. There are all the billions redistributed for the reconstruction of the war-torn nation. There is all the shoring up of the entire weapons industry that makes a huge percentage of its profits selling to other nations around the world. Without war and the fear of war, all that would collapse. It will.

There are neocons who claim that this privatization, especially to huge transnational corporations, will actually provide more transparency since the companies are publicly traded and accountable to shareholders. However, once such corporations are the security force of the entire planet, whose going to hold them to account? They will literally be unstoppable. There will be no public military to stop them. The shareholders will have a vested interest in them. They won't want to stop them. The largest shareholders will in fact be the dictatorial oligarchs of the plutocracy that already exists in large measure and whose control is increasing at an exponential rate.

The only thing that can, and will, stop them is the change of heart of each individual from selfishness to unselfishness, from hardheartedness to softheartedness, from willfulness and rebellion to following the only law of God that is, and always has been, the new commandment. That will happen but not in time to prevent the coming tribulation. All of this is a message for both present and future.

Total Information Awareness is being privatized. Corporations will know everything about everyone. Military functions are being privatized. Corporations will enforce their will on everyone, everywhere, all the time. That's their plan.

Under privatization, voting shares replaces one-person-one-vote

The wealthy vote via number of shares held in the corporations. Under the capitalist revolution, the world will not be one-person-one-vote. It will be votes via shares. It is becoming that way more and more; however, the anti-democratic fact of it is becoming more and more obvious to the general public even as the capitalist revolutionaries claim that they are pursuing democracy and freedom throughout the world. It is the big and so-called noble lie at work.

Understand that this is the wrong kind of globalization effort. Globalization is inevitable. The question is not whether there will be or ought to be globalization. The question is what kind. Christianity results in globalization of the right spirit: Love. Privatization of the military-industrial complex is the opposite spirit. It is the path to the elimination of all personal sovereignty, meaning the free choice to turn to God will be robbed from the people. The fact there is a choice between God and the new caesar will be removed from the culture. The US Congress will be marginalized, just as the Roman Senate was hamstrung. Votes will be nullified by a variety of means with fear being the strongest. Don't lose heart however. Don't despair. God prevails. Be with God.
Caesar is coming back to rule the whole world. The corporate military under his control will be the strongest. This is just as it was with the Nazi SS. It was a privately funded militia that swore allegiance to Caesar (Hitler at the time) over any other potential allegiance. For them, Hitler was the messiah. It will happen again. The neocons are creating that reality. They are jockeying for position within that reality. There are those within hoping to time it just right to be the first reincarnation of the global Caesar-for-life.

So-called terrorist strikes are attempts to jostle the foundation to stop the system from running its course. However, nothing short of the great Biblical tribulation will break the foundation. Only the rock of ages will bring it all down all the way. 9-11 was simply a microcosmic sign, an omen, of what will happen on the macrocosmic level of the whole worldly Empire. When that will happen is known only by our Father in heaven, just as in Jesus's time and for exactly the same reason.

Everything the devils do is calculated to devour everything. That is all they are about. Tax cuts, deregulation, consolidation, and privatization are all about the few owning everything without sharing it with anyone who doesn't do as he or she is told by them. This is the pattern with every empire: Consolidation as death set in.

The beginning of the end of the current age

The huge capitalist corporations are death. They are the grim reaper. They are killing people. They are killing the earth. People are committing suicide on account of them. People have lost, and many are losing, small and family farms and businesses all over the world on account of the consolidation of wealth and power in the hands of the few at the top of the devil's system. If it were good, people wouldn't be dying at their hands. People wouldn't be slipping into depression, anxiety, violence, neurosis, addiction, or any other problems. The entire message of the system is evil. The message is complete falsehood.

People don't need that system. People can come together. They can decide to be sufficient under God. They can support each other through God. They can turn to caring for the earth, for the land.

Living soil

They must make the soil fertile for the good fruit. God's soil is a living structure. The commercial corporations that run on fossil fuels and their pesticides, herbicides, and fertilizers kill the soil. The food is devoid of taste and is low in nutritional value.

What we need to do

We need to grow the food and make the things we need. We need to share it all without making a profit off each other. We need to ignore all the sales hype designed to get people to want products they not only don't need but that are actually detrimental and distracting from the calling. As the people choose, they must break the strangle hold of the huge horizontal and vertical monopolies of transnational corporations by simply doing for others in worldwide, cooperative, service.

Their philanthropy isn't properly aimed

The historically mainstream philanthropy of the superrich hasn't produced the real liberal devices Isaiah had in mind. The giving by the superrich hasn't been channeled to get at the root problem, which is the lack of the commons and the lack of sharing the produce of the commons. People give huge sums of money; however, the way they give and to whom they give, perpetuates private control of the land, materials, and equipment by the few, who obtained that control in the first place via selfish means, theft of the commons, immorally appropriating the inheritance of all others.

They that trust in their wealth, and boast themselves in the multitude of their riches; None of them can by any means redeem his brother, nor give to God a ransom for him. (Psalm 49:6-7).

The ransom of a man's life are his riches. (Proverbs 13:8).

Sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me. (Matthew 19:21).

Give to make it possible for the poor to serve the flock rather than the ones lording it over them who don't serve them.

The rich are parasites on the backs of all others whom some of the rich have convinced cannot do anything without them, the rich, ruling over all. It is a lie, and God will show that to the world.

If you are rich and this hurts your feelings because you have never thought of yourself as harming others simply by being rich, you are ripe for Jesus. Your heart can be further moved by the Holy Spirit. You can be found. You are ready to be part of the harvest. Join by converting your wealth to the benefit of those who have been oppressed and abused by the greedy system.

Privatizing everything

The plan of the devils is for everything public to be privatized. All the national forests will be given to corporations. The national parks will be given to corporations. The roads, the oceans, everything will be given to the corporations. There will be no governmental jobs. A corporation of corporations, the holding company at the top, will become the supranational government of the world. It will own the water, the land, the air, all of space, the Moon, the asteroids, the other planets, the Sun, all the stars and galaxies, all life, the whole universe, it imagines.

The false messiah

The chairman of the board of that holding company will be caesar. There will be no public sector. There will be no commons of any kind. Satan will swallow everything. He will claim the right to know what everyone is thinking and to force everyone to think only what he wants.
them to think. He will claim that he is the government. He will claim that he is the law. He will claim that if it were not for him, everyone would go without. He will claim he is the son of God, the Messiah. Most will hail him as such.

Hail Victory (Sieg Heil). Hail to the Chief. Hail Caesar. These will be indistinguishable.

No matter how many times the tactical pendulum swings to the left, the right will scheme and hatch and come back the worse until the tribulation. When the pendulum is destroyed, then we will have heaven and earth conflated. Then will we have peace, love, and truth forever and the law of the new commandment.

The US thinks it owns the world, because it claims it and will take it. Asia’s arm, China, and South America’s arm, Brazil, are increasing their trade across the board including in high-technology. The neocons don’t like it. They have replaced the Monroe Doctrine with the Bush Doctrine, expressed by the Project for the New American Century. The whole world is claimed as our backyard, the US sphere of influence. The US, for the sake of privatization, is embarked upon covert activities around the world aimed not at terrorism but against every potential and real up-and-coming rival including China, India, and Brazil.

The US is making itself a growing target

Even though many in the world see the US as the engine of the world’s economy in which they have a vested, selfish interest, they also fear that the US will continue to become increasingly dictatorial, sooner or later turning on them for overly humiliating concessions. The US is being extremely shortsighted since it is setting itself up as the target of a world that will cooperate even as enemies of one another against what they are coming to see as the greatest threat in the world: The US military. What the US is doing in the Middle East is becoming so transparent.

Russia and China have been talking privately about the US threat for years now. They know exactly that the US lied its way into invading Iraq. They know what the US is up to concerning Iran. They know its all about dollars. They know that there are tens of thousands of non-governmental security personnel in Iraq who are not under even loose military control. These private military contractors are for-profit corporations accountable to whom? There is opportunity for massive financial fraud. With the Pentagon's history of not being able to account for trillions of dollars, can there be any doubt that corruption is afoot. Accounting is kept very loose on purpose. It's how people become ultra wealthy off death and destruction. They are not under the usual oversight chain of the elected representatives of the people. They may easily slip under the radar. It is considered a business. It's the way things are done. It's the reality of evil.

The credibility is completely gone now. Naked aggression and empire building is at hand. How long will it be before even pretexts are no longer offered up? America is being fast-tracked so that capitalism can corner everything: Monopolize virtually everything. Neoliberal capitalism is the new fascism.
Now, several things come up concerning Christianity and all of this that must be addressed as follows:

All people have the right to turn, repent, and be forgiven.

From the cross, Jesus forgave even his murderers knowing they were still spiritually blinded. All Christians are to thusly forgive.

Even though the conservatives are punishers of the wicked, they are in danger of damnation for being punishers. They stoop to match or exceed the selfishness of their foes.

Those foes who are also punishers are making the exact same error on their side.

All are warned that evil more powerful than theirs will be summoned up and visited upon them if they do not stop and repent.

The world knows that the US is not about bringing forth for the sake of all the people. They hear the US saying one thing and see it doing another. They know that the hypocrisy extends from within.

The US is not bringing forth real bounty

The United States has the largest domestic gap between rich and poor. American workers work more hours on average than the vast majority of workers in other wealthy countries. There is bounty in the United States, but only if the term "bounty" is used in the churlish sense.

Real bounty is not the product of polluting souls with marketing methods that drumbeat distorted and contrived perceptions into people's minds. Real bounty is not the product of self-polluting thoughts, words, and deeds coming out of hearts, short-sighted, at the expense of posterity. Real bounty is not the product of stripping the fat of the land, making crops lacking in nutrition, devoid of God's diversity. It is not sending toxic waste throughout the ground, water, and air. It is not the product of plundering the resources of the planet. Real bounty is not the product of military and economic imperialism and colonialism that commandeers resources under threat of arms and outright wars of aggression.

Real bounty does not come under the guise of self-defense, safety, and security of people made less safe, less secure. It does not come by way of shipping people overseas where due process is even weaker than it is in the US with the reprehensible USA Patriot Act, if that's possible. Real bounty does not come by way of the use of concentration camps scattered around the world where torture was the open practice but has now been moved even deeper out of sight.

The conservative Republicans are turning a blind eye to what is being done in their name. They are buying into the false safety and security and bravado that are making everyone less safe and less secure. The US is ailing and the cure is going to be extremely painful. So far, this nation has been unwilling to overcome the disease of selfishness and unwilling to work with the healer or the healing process. It has wanted to fight to hold onto its diseased condition. The fever will have to be right at the edge of death to burn out the sickness. Unfortunately, awareness has historically lagged events and has been followed by reversion.

Do not be lulled by the notion that the US was not engaged in wholesale torture prior to the so-called War on Terrorism. Torture is not something that suddenly started up again after centuries of being quashed. It has been a constant reality for those in other nations to undergo torture and death at the hands of US operatives. There have always been people in high places in the US who have condoned torture for the sake of economic-market dominance and for other selfish reasons. There have always been those who have viewed people not Americans as inherently inferior and vastly expendable for the sake of the comfort of the upper class in America. It has always been the dirty not-so-secret secret. It had mostly been ignored rather than truly secret.

The whole world is learning about these things.

Do not be lulled by the notion that the US was not engaged in wholesale torture prior to the so-called War on Terrorism. Torture is not something that suddenly started up again after centuries of being quashed. It has been a constant reality for those in other nations to undergo torture and death at the hands of US operatives. There have always been people in high places in the US who have condoned torture for the sake of economic-market dominance and for other selfish reasons. There have always been those who have viewed people not Americans as inherently inferior and vastly expendable for the sake of the comfort of the upper class in America. It has always been the dirty not-so-secret secret. It had mostly been ignored rather than truly secret.

The whole world is learning about these things.

US troops are taught to look down upon the Iraqis as inferior. They are encouraged to become numb to the fact that they are taking innocent human lives. They are encouraged to refer to them as Rag Heads, Sand N ggs, Camel Jockeys, and Hajji, etc. This is the same thing that happened in Vietnam where everyone was a Gook. It is the same as with the Germans being Krauts, Italians being Dagos, Latin Americans of mixed Spanish descent being Spics, Jews being Kikes, the French being Frogs, and the Chinese being Chinks or Slop Heads. The list goes on. It is what the Nazis did to the Jews and others to make them easier to exterminate. They were made to be viewed as subhuman, as animals for the slaughter regardless of the individuals spiritual level of enlightenment or potential and regardless of the golden rule.

Duplicing recruits with lies

US military personnel were lured in by glitzy military-service promotional ads showing high-tech weapons as "cool" toys (crass materialism). They were told a bunch of lies about honor, duty, country, liberty, freedom, and democracy. They were told a bunch of lies about how the military would take good care of them as veterans. They were told a bunch of lies that Iraq was part of the 9-11 attacks (Arabs and Muslims in general), that Iraq had direct links to al Qaeda.

On Meet the Press and other shows, Cheney lied through his teeth about Mohamed Atta being in Prague, Czech Republic, meeting with Iraqi representatives. The FBI knew Atta was in Florida at the time, and Cheney knew that. Nevertheless, Cheney kept repeating and repeating the lie. That's his method. It was Hitler's method, and it worked on the German people. Cheney is a pathological liar, as are all neocons. His knowing lies have gotten innocent people killed and he knew they would. It doesn't matter what larger policy considerations he thinks he can conjure up in his mind, there is no excuse for what he's done.

---

The US military service personnel were lied to that Iraq had current, dangerous, huge stockpiles of all kinds of weapons of mass destruction that the Iraqis could use on Americans or give to terrorists to use on Americans. This doesn't mean there are zero hidden weapons in Iraq. It means that the US lied when it said it had proof positive.

They were also lied to that the Iraqis would greet them as liberators.

The service personnel are brainwashed into the knee-jerk reaction of following orders. That is drilled into them so much that when it becomes a choice between following the law or following orders, nearly a hundred percent will follow orders every time.

Once they got to Iraq though, the truth, hidden from them by their video games, started coming out. Nearly all of the soldiers feel then though that it is too late to turn back or to stop. They think they are locked in. They think they must kill the innocent even though they know it is sheer evil. They fear what will happen to them if they stop. They have been made to fear what will happen. The military psychologists and experience have taught the Pentagon to depend upon this selfish reaction from the indoctrinated service personnel, especially now those raised on so much violence in media and in video games, etcetera.
Mixed signals from society and the military rips souls in half

In addition to giving them mixed signals to dehumanize their enemies even while they think they are being sent to fight for the Bill of Rights, civil rights, human rights, freedom of religion, etc., the military instructs the troops to use religion against the people. Anything that offends the religious sensibilities of the people is a weapon.

Not the way to Muslim hearts

The military, under the system set up by known Satanists, such as retired US Army lieutenant colonel Michael Aquino and others, uses Satan's pentagram in interrogation rooms where they attempt to force the Muslims knowingly to pray to Satan. (This of course is an admission by the US military that it knows Allah is not Satan. They know this, because they know they are closer to Satan than are the Muslims.)

The military and other US government and contracted interrogators have allegedly used females to strip in front of the Muslim men and to make the Muslims touch the women's sexual parts and that the women have likewise fondled the men. We are told that the Qur'an is ripped and kicked around and pages have been flushed down toilets in front of prisoners. We know much worse than these things have been.

---

done all to break the spirits and souls of people. These acts are all exactly consistent with US training.

We of course are not Muslims. Islam is not the right path to God. We want Muslims to convert to real Christianity. Such treatment though is not the way to people's hearts or minds. Of course, the US military doesn't care about Christianity or about Muslims hearts or minds.

Do not be lulled by the words of the current conservative leadership. All they are doing is redefining in their minds what constitutes torture so that they may say they are against it when in reality what the common person views as torture will go right on occurring. Those leaders do not care to understand that freedom comes from addressing fairly the grievances in the world rather than enforcing dominance for the sake of the rich.

US concentration camps

Their concentration camps with a few exceptions are designed to be hidden from the American people. They had to have some

---

73 Not long after adding this material to this work, it was revealed in the mainstream media that there have been secret CIA prisons in various locations. It had been published in the underground and alternative media for decades and well-documented by human-rights watch groups but had been hushed over by the conservatives and their capitalist, corporate media allies and fellow shareholders. Those prisons are called "black sites" and "ghost sites." The Holy Spirit is really at work exposing the sins of the Empire. It isn't going to stop either until the Empire-spirit is purged from the earth.
known prisoner of war camps else the people would have concluded that the US was taking no prisoners for one of two reasons: Either they weren’t catching anyone or they were killing them all.

Real bounty does not come by way of US Camp X-Ray in Guantánamo Bay, Cuba, where many of the inmates have been imprisoned for many years without any charges having been filed against them.

One detainee (prisoner), Saddiq Ahmad Turkistani, is known to have been anti-Taliban, anti-al Qaeda, pro-US, and even plotted to assassinate bin Laden. Nevertheless, the US has kept him imprisoned for many years. Do they imprison people for being Taliban and al Qaeda and they also imprison people for being against those groups?

The Pentagon has charged a handful of prisoners. This they hope will deflect negative criticism concerning the lack of due process. Also, when criticism picked up steam, they transferred prisoners back to their home countries. Years after the invasion of Baghdad, thousands of Iraqis in prisons run by the United States in Iraq have still not been tried.

US, a nation that maintains torturers in the highest offices

Real bounty does not come by way of torture used by the US at Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq and in other prisons and camps around the world. It only makes foes more wrathful.

Donald Rumsfeld said that Abu Ghraib tortures and abuses happened on the nightshift by some renegade soldiers. That's a whitewash. The nightshift could not possibly hide what was going on from the day shift or swing shift. I've done shift work. You always walk into how the previous shift leaves things. Those prisoners and the facility were not cleaned up at the end of the nightshift sufficiently to cover all the wrong-doing that was going on. The injuries sustained by the prisoners, the deaths, could not be covered up. Every time higher-ranking members of the military came through on unannounced inspections those higher-ups could not possibly have missed the obvious results of wrong-doing. Everyone knows that intelligence officers were coming through to instruct the detention personnel on how to handle prisoners for purposes of extracting information from prisoners and to do other things to affect the prisoners psychologically to impact upon the will of others in the outside population. The photographs are textbook CIA-torture techniques taught through the military to those who did the actual torture, and Donald Rumsfeld knows it full well. He ordered the torture increased.

When it was suggested in a memo that the stress position of standing be four hours, Rumsfeld wrote on the memo, "I stand for 8-10 hours a day. Why is standing limited to four hours?" Does he do it with a bag over his head and his arms extended and while not allowed to adjust his weight or otherwise move about, etc., and while all the other psychological and physical tortures have been applied and are being applied around him? No. If he doesn't repent, he's going to regret it. Hell is a zone of negative consequences sufficient to turn the guilty. I do not judge Donald Rumsfeld. I say to him and to everyone, authorize no torture that ye be not tortured.

Abu Ghraib

As of the time of this writing concerning the Abu Ghraib tortures, the military reports are still running exactly contrary to the earliest news reports that the commanding general at Abu Ghraib, brigadier general Janis Karpinski, and others there said that the CIA, high-ranking military intelligence officers, and private contractors, such as CACI International\(^4\) and Titan Corporation,\(^5\) had all represented extensive pressure on the general and trained and encouraged the guards at Abu Ghraib to do what they did. Yet, the official reports nearly exonerate everyone above the low-level guards. Some officers are apparently receiving symbolic slaps on the wrist.

No more mainstream investigative journalism

Regardless, the details of the investigations have been deliberately kept out of headline news. The mainstream news is not going after corruption.

The muckrakers are not doing their jobs. Mainstream media in the US are embarrassed by its government, which it had cozied up to in recent decades. They hate the association people make in their minds that the government and news media have been in a semi-secret, understood, unethical collaboration. Many more people than before now realize that news media are not truly the fourth estate as once portrayed. They are not as independent as once considered by the general public. They are not the campaigners against governmental abuse that they were once assumed to be and some once were. They knowingly turn a blind eye for fear of reprisals from the wealthy they see as being capable of smashing the presses so to speak thereby stealing the livelihood of the journalists, editors, publishers, support staff, and others. Where are the fearless? Where is the spirit?

They are slow, very slow, to put these truths on mainstream news. They have been duplicitous in hiding it. It has been, and most of it remains, a huge cover-up.

Returning combat veterans are speaking out though just as they did during the Vietnam War; however, they haven't been heard generally. That's because the rich capitalists who control the media don't want the war machine (the war-profit making machine) to stop. Wait until more troops come home. Then the chickens will come home to roost.

Media were embedded with the US military operation invading Baghdad. Much of US media, the vast majority of media, were doing a major job of US-flag waving leading up to that invasion. They were working hard to engender pride. They were being nostalgic for the heyday of World War II propaganda they have so envied. It backfired as it had to.

The world of communication has changed too much since World War II for the old-line mainstream news to have maintained the nearly complete monopoly it once had. The conservatives have nevertheless purchased a large share of the control of traditional news media in an attempt to gain such control.

The end of the Internet frontier

The greedy want though to turn the Internet into a cable television type service where only the content the cable company or telephone company wants to supply to the subscriber will come through to that subscriber. This would effectively eliminate every subscriber's ability to surf the now fairly open Worldwide Web. The company would control all access to all content at every turn of the subscriber. The cable and telephone companies want to make money on every thing the subscriber would do on the Internet. There would be no more low, flat, monthly rate, go anywhere you want, do anything you want, service for all. They would start out with the tiered services the way the cable companies now supply to cable TV subscribers. This would mean that the poor would not be able to have the access that the rich can afford. This furthers class separation. The rich will get to go faster and into more and more areas made off limits to the poor since the rich will be able to pay the toll and entrance and exit fees.
It is bad enough now that the poor can't even afford the current dial-up fees. In the future, access to sites and content would be that much more out of reach. Even for those with money to burn would find it more difficult to do the freewheeling Internet surfing and research that is commonplace now. Of course, this is the inevitable outcome of capitalism: Monopoly. This is what privatization is all about: Greed and not sharing, as in equal access. The opposite mentality that is the sharing mentality is the one that is allowing the more open Internet that exists as of the time of this entry.

Capitalism closes down expression. The little church websites and political websites and the independent and alternative news sites and all the little bloggers and family-type sites and the rest will just be shut out, because they won't be able to afford to pay to be found or even connected. You will only be able to get what the wire or cable provider will allow on the line. If they don't like your small religion or fringe ideology or music or what have you, it won't be made available. The movement against this consolidation of huge corporate control is called "Internet neutrality."

Concerning net neutrality, the Communications Opportunity, Promotion and Enhancement Act (COPE) would remove all oversight of the Internet backbone. The companies that want sole control didn't build the Internet backbone. Even still, they want the power to block any content that they feel, in their sole discretion, is against their interest. These are the same companies that turned over millions of private phone records they had to the NDI and without a court order or warrant. This is a means of silencing dissenters.

It is a political reward to AT&T and Verizon Communications and others who will not only continue to plan along with the rising tide of Republican fascism but will serve to further it immensely by suppressing all voices that ravening wolves (Godless-capitalist fascists) seek to murder and devour.

Also local cable franchises that are now subject to local oversight would be made national franchises so that local governments could not require community services from cable providers. Of course, it would also eliminate public access television, which so many local communities depend upon to air locally produced programs. The same capitalists who hate PBS (the Public Broadcasting Service) and the BBC, hate public access TV. Dissident voices gain access to the ears of the community as in a public square without having to rent public space from the rich.

76 "FCC Hands Telecoms Victory on Cable Franchising." In media news, the Federal Communications Commission has agreed to change cable franchising laws so that local communities have less control over incoming pay-television providers. The vote was pushed for by the telecom giants Verizon and AT&T. The final was vote was three to two. Opponents are already planning a court challenge. Headlines for December 21, 2006.

Just because the US Congress may pass a law in favor of Internet neutrality doesn't mean that the telecoms (telecommunications companies) won't be back again to try to get their way. Greed is persistent.

The telecoms, cable and satellite providers, and other corporations don't care that their position is a privilege granted to them by the people under a democracy and that those people can properly require of those companies that they perform under certain guidelines, such as net neutrality in the case of the telecoms and such as providing access and facilities for the common people to put on their own programs so independent voices will be heard who would otherwise not be heard at all in a laissez-faire economy.

Democracy and capitalism clash heads

The object is that a properly functioning democracy (something that doesn't now exist in the US) is not possible when the people cannot speak to and be heard by each other via mass media. A properly functioning democracy is not possible when the only voices heard are censored through huge corporations with huge vested interests in promoting only their views. Their desire is to eliminate all voices that don't agree with their agenda for the people. The people in a democracy have the right to require that common people be granted a voice through the same communications medium now granted and licensed by the people to the huge provider corporations. The people have the right to keep those corporations from regulating everything the people may hear or see, etc.
The huge telecoms though complain that they don't have one hundred percent control over a resource with such power to manipulate people's perceptions by feeding them only what the superrich want the people to know. They complain in secret that they can't charge their likewise huge content-provider competition more for using large swatches of bandwidth. It is a grab for market share that would hurt the grassroots the most. They don't care about that. Social responsibility is low on their agenda.

The US telecoms plan to raise rates across-the-board if they won't be allowed to harm their competition by charging huge bandwidth users more. The people though would rather pay more to have a level playing field in terms of net access to put on their own audio and video with the same downloading speed and near quality as the huge corporations without having to become one of those mega-corporations to do it.

The real Christian position is that no organization should want to obtain for any selfish reasons; however, since all sin, no one has the right to coerce because no one knows where to draw the line on punishment and coercion. If they try, they automatically fall into hypocrisy. We can only appeal to others to change from wanting more for self when they already have in excess and there are so many without who would have enough if everyone would share and share alike.
Internet neutrality is an illusion

Internet neutrality though already is an illusion in some respects. Google serves up searches based upon algorithms. Their programs slant results toward whatever they seek to promote. One might think that this applies only to the paid advertisers' links that pop up on top, but this is not the case. The links that pop up that are not paid links are nevertheless ranked via the arbitrary bias of the programmers. It can be a very subtle thing for those who cannot see how selfishness creeps into everything.

Wikipedia is a prime example. It pops up very high in Google results whenever a Wikipedia article on a searched-for subject is available. Most people familiar with Wikipedia think of it as an open-source encyclopedia far from crass commercialism. One of its stated goals is neutral point-of-view. However, concerning certain subjects, an ultimate editorial slant shows through. Wikipedia monitors/editors behind the scenes fight for their personal worldview to dominate. It does not in all cases allow for presenting other points of view without the text containing editorial comments or slights about opposing views. In that way, Wikipedia is used as a slanted mouthpiece. It engages in political manipulation and even purely political censorship in some cases.

Different monitors have different agendas. Many make a conscious effort not to propagate. Others deliberately propagandize (to put forth the monitors point of view over and above any opposing view).

A prime example concerns anti-Semitism. Concerning those whom some Jews call self-hating Jews, some Jews claim other Jews are anti-Semitic for speaking out against false Zionism. It is very much the same as when certain Americans call others anti-American or un-American for speaking out against immoral US actions.

Self-hating

Well, as for self-hating, it is important to be self-hating concerning one’s own immoral choices. That’s the nature of having a solid working conscience. One must hate about oneself the very fact that one is even tempted daily, hourly, often by the minute and moment-to-moment to be selfish. This is why Jesus said that anyone who doesn’t hate himself in the worldly world cannot be his disciple. To not have arrived at the point where one finds one’s own selfish acts to be reprehensible is to not be in the position to overcome such behaviors and to overcome the temptation to cave into selfishness. It is not to be ready to be the kinds of people we must be to finally live in heaven together in real peace.

Also, it isn’t anti-Semitic to say that Jews were responsible for the murder of Jesus. Neither is it anti-Semitic to put on passion plays, per se, to depict what happened to Jesus at the hands of the high priest and his following in the Sanhedrin and elsewhere within the larger Jewish community. The reason why these are not anti-Semitic, if it isn’t obvious to you already, is that there were many thousands of Israelites who were against murdering Jesus. It is that simple. Now if a particular play is against all Hebrews, that’s anti-Semitic.
Semitism is not the exclusive property of false Zionists.

What is Semitism?

Semitism is genetic. It is not cultural, per se. It is not a language, per se. To be anti-Semitic is to be against every descendent of Shem, the son of Noah. To be anti-Semitic means to be against all Persians, Arabs, Hebrews, and all those who came out of Mesopotamia. There are those who hold that the Arabs are Hamites (sons of Ham), also a son of Noah. The Canaanites who inhabited Palestine and early Egyptians are considered Hamites.

No doubt, there was plenty of intermarrying. We know Joseph married an Egyptian. His two sons, who were each tribes of Israel, were half Egyptian at the least. Their offspring intermarried with members of the other tribes and with non-Hebrews as well. How many people now are pure descendants of Jacob?

In fact, it is a distinct genetic disadvantage to inbreed beyond a certain point. Many genetic disorders are compounded with inbreeding. Inbreeding is closer to incest. This is why biodiversity has existed. This is why turning to genetically modified foods runs the huge risk of famine. If almost all the food is of one genetic supply or type, one plague will sweep through that food source and there will not be time to head off disaster.

There is real anti-Semitism, just as there is real anti-Black, anti-Latin American, anti-American Indian, anti-Gentile, antichristian, anti-Arab, anti-(fill in any race, ethnic group, religion, etcetera, you want). There is real holocaust denial too. There is also real crucifixion denial. The fact is that certain Jews murdered Jesus. The fact is also that many Jews had nothing to do with it and many were in fact Christians.

Why Christ rejecters fall short

The fact is that all those who deny Jesus after truly considering his words, are to some degree of the same discrediting and denying mindset that murdered Jesus and allows, facilitates, lets in, the selfish ruination of everything. Obfuscation won't change that. They won't bring themselves to love enough with the right kind of love. They won't give for the sake of unity. They will avoid the full context in their deliberations.

If you love real peace, real love, and the truth, then you love Jesus and what he said and stood for and did, which includes that he was the rightful leader of the people, the gate, the path to the righteous kingdom. It's easy. If you reject that, you're on the dark side by definition. You hate Jesus and you hate God.

Real Christians won't kill you for it or persecute you for it but will warn you that you are a tare among the wheat and will be rejected for heaven at harvest time. That's the way of it.

It is the one issue concerning which there is no other way. Once you've been given the gospel message, you really are either with him or against him. However, everyone against him isn't against him equally and will not suffer equal consequences.
He spoke of infinite love. That love is the one and only real love. The rest is just shadow on the wall, to turn Plato's allegory of the cave to the good.

Real Christians and the current state of Israel

Now, what is the current nation-state of Israel in relation to this truth? How hospitable were the Arabs toward the peaceful ones of Israeli descent who moved into the area? Did the Jews hold title to the land or have they stolen it? Are they to hold title in common as humanity? Are they required to follow the golden rule or not? Do they know?

Real Christians are not going to destroy the current state of Israel. We are not calling down the wrath any more than Jesus authorized his disciples to call it down then.

And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he stedfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem, And sent messengers before his face: and they went, and entered into a village of the Samaritans, to make ready for him. And they did not receive him, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem. And when his disciples James and John saw this, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did? But he turned, and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of. For the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them. And they went to another village. (Luke 9:51-56).

Did the Hebrews do the right thing in returning to Palestine to take it by force? They are taking all the rope they can pull. The ease with which they are being allowed to have it ought to give them pause.

They call it a green light. What manner of spirit gives them this green light? My God hasn't given them any such green light.

Here is where a major Internet site such as Wikipedia comes in. It is censored by monitors who want to dilute this message into nonexistence. It uses all sorts of false Zionist, antichrist, psychological ploys to do it. It won't work. In fact, it is backfiring. The false-Zionist slant comes through loud and clear and Wikipedia is openly called on it.

Google's programming leads to Wikipedia, because Wikipedia comes up near or at the top of results so often. Logical you think, since Wikipedia is so popular. It works both ways. Wikipedia is popular, because Google's filter parameters are biased toward popularity—usually the lowest common denominator. Someone searching is often in a hurry. Digging into the Google lists takes time. They opt for Wikipedia in a hurry. Then de facto, Wikipedia manages perception on issues such as anti-Semitism. We say here de facto, because much of this is often subconscious on the part of those at Google and Wikipedia. They don't take enough time to reflect on the negative impact they are having. They are only as righteous as they are unselfish.

Google's motto is "Don't be evil." Well, what is it when voices that pay get better positioning? Those who pay the most, get the top. Is that not evil? Granted, Google limits sponsored links to a few at the top and then the rest down the side. That was a pure business calculation. They couldn't turn away every link that didn't pay. It's a calculated balancing act for profit, for market share.

Perhaps by the time you read this, the article on anti-Semitism will have been edited to remove the slant. As it stands now, it treats anti-Semitism as Joseph McCarthy treated anti-Americanism. However, first it is necessary to define Americanism.

What is Americanism?

Americans define Americanism. There is no consensus definition at the time of this writing. There wasn't one during McCarthy's witch hunts either. Every American who was also a socialist at the time certainly wasn't a secret spy of a declared foreign enemy. Nevertheless, socialists were labeled anti-American. Where does US law state that anyone who is not a libertarian capitalist is stripped of citizenship becoming a non-American? Even a person stripped of citizenship who was born American remains American. Even a self-hating American remains an American while being against his or her own sinning. That self-loathing doesn't make him or her necessarily anti-American. It may make him or her extremely pro-American, depending upon the context or motivation.

Wikipedia has "anti-Americanism," as of the date of this entry, as being against US capitalism expropriating the natural resources of poor nations. If that's the definition of American, being American is shameful. However, there are enough Americans who are patently against that capitalist model that "American" cannot be defined with that single connotation. Thank God.

The author of that part of the article may qualify the evil by pointing out that the raw materials are paid for. Well, it becomes a matter of paying a fair amount and whether or not all the people of the land had an equal and fully informed say in the matter. This says nothing though about the damage to the land and the rest of the environment done by such resource extraction and subsequent utilization. Every human being has to breathe the world's air for instance. The whole of humanity must be considered, not just the people of the source and those who will pay some money for it.

Jesus said we must hate ourselves even as we love one another as ourselves. That's exactly right. Grasp it. The light will come on. Each who is willing and does, is the other. They become one together.

Semitism and Americanism are wide or narrow terms depending upon the context. Nevertheless, to be anti-American as the conservatives use the term is to be anti every American without being pro any American in any context.
Sergey Brin and Larry Page, the founders of Google, are both Jewish. They know Wikipedia's founders, James Wales and Larry Sanger, are also Jewish. How much of the false-Zionist indoctrination has affected their Internet business policies and practices? How much of the selfish-interest mentality consciously or subconsciously controls the results?

Perfect Christianity doesn't debate what ought to be done between and among all the peoples of the area of Palestine/Israel. There ought to be love and only love. What's to debate? That's not the spirit there on either side. The false Jews and the Muslims will never reach that state until they are real Christians.

Anyway, the whole point is that the US military wants laissez-faire capitalism and the corporations want it, so they conspire together to control the message reaching the general public. They don't want Jesus's message reaching you. You can see its effects in even Google and Wikipedia. The propaganda is the political-socialization process that indoctrinates minds to think within a range acceptable to capitalism that is antichrist.

Even with media embedded with the US military operation invading Baghdad and even with all the propaganda and perception management going on everywhere, we know what is really going on. Why hasn't even more come out? It is because this administration is covering up and whitewashing. Everyone knows it.

The truth is right there in what general Karpinski and others who were there have said about the CIA, military intelligence, and private contractors as interrogators acting in Abu Ghraib.

There are many credible eye witnesses against the administration. The cover is off the administration's backers. They can't hide their evil by denial or by twisting the story.

We know that United States Army major general Geoffrey D. Miller was in charge of Camp X-Ray in Guantánamo Bay, Cuba. He was instrumental in establishing harsh prisoner treatment and torturous interrogation methods.
He was forcing information from Camp X-Ray prisoners, so he was sent to Abu Ghraib Prison in Iraq to teach them there how to soften up prisoners. Rather than being relieved of duty after the Abu Ghraib tortures became public, he replaced general Karpinski as the commander in charge of Abu Ghraib. He left his legacy at Camp X-Ray. After he left, the US military repeatedly rammed feeding tubes through the noses down the throats of Camp X-Ray prisoners who were protesting their treatment via a hunger strike.

No public trials

Now, general Karpinski is being demoted to colonel but not for Abu Ghraib. The story is that she is being demoted for allegations of shop lifting some time back long before Abu Ghraib and some dereliction of duty at Abu Ghraib. Her alleged shop lifting came before she was promoted to general. What does that tell you? No formal charges concerning Abu Ghraib are to be leveled against her. What does that tell you? Therefore, she will not have the forum to deny charges. The press will not be covering a trial. What she would have said with the whole world listening will be suppressed to a great extent. It is a ploy by those at the top of the military and administration to suppress coverage of evidence and testimony concerning the activities of private ostensible intelligence contractors and others at Abu Ghraib. All the lower ranking personnel will not be called to corroborate the former general's testimony. It is part of the entire ploy to cover up egregious, barbaric crimes spanning much more than Abu Ghraib and going back decades and sanctioned and encouraged by the top military, top administrators, the chief executives, and a cadre of hyper-lustful capitalists, apostate Christians and Zionists, neoconservatives, and others and with a wink and a nod from many who are called neoliberals and New Labour. Even many of those calling themselves social democrats are willing to look the other way so they too may receive the negative gain of the mislabeled free and open marketplace that is really a grab bag of the resources of the world that should be going to raise the poor and cleans the planet.

As real Christians, we aren't advocating for trials. We are saying that by avoiding them, the government is covering up and not for the right reasons, not in the spirit of protecting the truly repentant. The government is for trials, trials where, when, and against whom they want for the government's selfish reasons.

Torture by the US is no aberration, nothing new

Many people have been led to believe, or choose to believe that Abu Ghraib was an aberration. It was hardly an aberration. I’m not speaking of the tortures that also took place in Afghanistan. There were tortures in Afghanistan to be sure. I am talking about the fact that for years and even decades before Abu Ghraib, people around the world and in the US had been saying that the US engages in the very torture techniques used at Abu Ghraib.

Abu Ghraib was leaked by the Holy Spirit, working directly through whistleblower sergeant Joseph Darby of the Abu Ghraib military police, to show the world the truth of the spirit of the empire builders. That exposure has just begun. It won’t end until the selfish are gone. Sergeant Joseph Darby has experienced some persecution for his coming to the rescue of Abu Ghraib prisoners, many of which prisoners it turned out were imprisoned under false charges. His actions spared the innocent from the evil.

Earlier in this work, I stated the following:

We have the indiscriminant shooting and killing of multiple prisoners because one US soldier was hit in the face with a stone during a prisoner protest over squalid conditions and cruel, inhuman, and degrading treatment.

We have the mutilating of dead bodies by US soldiers.

We have the proof of the sweeping of thousands of innocent civilians into prisons many of whom were held for over a year even though they were known to be innocent.

Aidan Delgado served at Abu Ghraib prison and has testified openly to the American people about those facts. He took photographs of the camp which photos he has shown in slide presentations at peace-gatherings. Also, the US military has been forced to admit that it has conducted the sweeps of innocent civilians. Upwards of eighty percent of the prisoners at Abu Ghraib were completely innocent.

Army Captain Ian Fishback has come forward to say that torture and beatings was systemic throughout Iraq and Afghanistan. It was the norm. Fishback wrote that "death threats, beatings, broken bones, murder, exposure to elements, extreme forced physical exertion, hostage-taking, stripping, sleep deprivation and degrading treatment" all occurred. Extreme sadism among the rank and file has been completely accepted by the officers in charge right up the chain of command to the top.

Beyond that, it has been encouraged by those higher-ups in the so-called interrogation units (military and other intelligence officers and agents). The organization Human Rights Watch has done a complete report on the subject entitled Leadership Failure: Firsthand Accounts of Torture of Iraqi Detainees by the U.S. Army's 82nd Airborne Division. Amnesty International and the International Committee of the Red Cross also have much documentation on the subject. This was being said by so-called radical extremists around the world all along, long before Abu

77 http://www.truthout.org/multimedia
Ghraib. Media ignored those so-called radical extremists who were telling the truth and whose statements about US torture in Central America, Vietnam, and elsewhere have been vindicated.

Watch what happens to the unrepentant country. The US has been warned that evil will visit on account of such torturing and other acts. It has been warned by the Holy Spirit that there will be negative consequences. Yet, what has the US done to turn to God, to the way of peace? Many people in the US care deeply and for the right reasons, but they know that in the end there will be negative consequences. There have to be.

According to the Associated Press, September 23, 2005, there have been over four hundred investigations since the invasion of Baghdad resulting in two hundred thirty some courts-martial and other actions taken against perpetrators. Most people have been let off with very light actions against them, and higher-ups have not been pursued.

Bush is responsible

That's because the chain of orders for conducting torture and other crimes leads directly to Donald Rumsfeld, Dick Cheney, and George W. Bush and others. They know it. They've discussed it. They have the attorney general's office working to create loopholes.

What may one expect from society that calls for people to behave peacefully at home while at the same time training them to be violent in the worst senses: Wars and extracting information from others at any expense including the expense of the interrogators' very souls? What may one expect from society that tells its children not to fight with one another while supplying them as early as possible and ad nauseam with violent video games and glorified violence and other deprivities throughout their stream of consciousness? What may one expect from those in the military who lead others who join most frequently out of a sense of utter desperation having what to them seems to be no solid prospective alternatives? What may one expect from society that earns multi-trillions of dollars in a weapons industry? What may one expect from the overall mentality of brutality, maliciousness, and general wickedness that underlies the warring, lustful mentality? Where is the consistency? It is all a double standard.

The US Bill of Rights and the US Constitution and all the international treaties are ambiguous by design. That's how the president can have the attorney general looking to creating loopholes for war crimes, etc. The new commandment isn't ambiguous though. That's why it needs to be the unanimously adopted and followed law of humanity.

The president knew about the private contractors and the encouragement of the use of torture. It was much more than merely a relaxation of prohibitions.

George W. Bush was not incensed by Abu Ghraib. Did you see him incensed?

What steps did he take? He promoted the worst offenders and scapegoated those who were not in control or were following the sick orders.
because they were carefully chosen since their psychological profiles showed they were most likely to carry out the sick and illegal orders.

If he had done the opposite, he'd be responsible for cleaning up. He'd be one who brings in good government at least in the mundane sense.

It was John McCain among the Republicans who forced the issue to reform the US policy concerning treatment of prisoners regardless of the technical legal status of those prisoners. Don't be lulled by that though.

The fact that Bush has been forced to accede to McCain's desire to have the US Army Field Manual on Interrogation be the standard for the entire US government, including for covert operations, is no guarantee that torture will not continue. US Army personnel have engaged in torture even though that Field Manual has been in place. Torture will continue behind closed doors until the Holy Spirit cuts off the evil spirit once and for all. In fact, Bush declared in writing that even though he was signing the McCain measure, he would not be bound by it.

What a slap in the face for John McCain by George W. Bush. Just after McCain gets the US Congress to push through a law with a veto-proof majority that requires people on the US payroll not to engage in "any treatment or technique of interrogation not authorized by and listed in the United States Army Field Manual on Intelligence Interrogation" regardless of whether or not the person or persons being held are covered under the Geneva Conventions, Bush's army is just going to change the US Army Field Manual on Interrogation to get around this.
You see, Bush likes torture. He wants torture legalized. He disagrees with John McCain.

It's sadism, pure and simple. It's sick. It's mental and spiritual illness—disease, and it's contagious. You better build up your immunities before you fall ill.

Bush and Cheney say the US doesn't do what it doesn't want to be stopped from doing by the Field Manual or the Geneva Conventions. Well, if the US doesn't do it and hasn't done it and doesn't want to, then why do they insist upon ignoring the Geneva Conventions and insist upon changing the Field Manual? It's as plain and as clear as it gets.

Naturally, for appearances sake, for political credibility in the eyes of the voters, and because he really dreads the idea of US service people being severely mistreated when they are captured, which they will be, McCain will fight any such change and win, for awhile.

Where's the fruit of Bush's shepherding? His real sentiments have been obvious. He first threatened to veto McCain's anti-torture measure. He advocated for torturers to be immune from prosecution under the measure. He argued for the CIA to be exempt. Frankly, he did everything he could to allow for the continuation of torturing people to extract information and to just terrorize.

Bush has not changed the personnel involved in weakening the prohibition against torture or the American mind-set against such despicable and antichristian acts. In fact, he has rewarded Alberto R. Gonzales, one of the prime authors of the administration policy encouraging blatant torture, by elevating him to the position of attorney general of the US. This is also due in part because Gonzales is a first generation Mexican-American and the Republicans hope to, thereby, pander to the Mexican-American vote. They are attempting to exploit the desire of Mexican-Americans for inclusion in the political system at the top.

This same Gonzales recommended to George W. Bush that he, Bush, cancel US backing of the Geneva Conventions. He told Bush that otherwise, Bush might someday be tried for war crimes.

You need to understand that it has been reported by well-respected watch groups that many hundreds of teenage boys have been or are being held, many of whom have been subjected to torture and rape, etc. The military will ask what you would do with teenagers shooting at you. Why are we creating a world where teenagers do that? The fact that war is hell is no excuse. Why are they bringing forth hell?

All during this time and with all the evidence pouring forth that the US has systematically tortured countless people, most without ever having been charged with any crime or even reasonably suspected, not that charging or suspicion would authorize torture, top US officials have continued to put forth to the world and the American people that the US does not torture and has not condoned torture. It’s insanity. It is total detachment from reality. For anyone to believe that the big lie will work in the face of so much tangible evidence is on the very edge of soullessness.
US Army lieutenant general Ricardo Sanchez was the commander in Iraq when the tortures there were revealed. He wrote a memo, dated September 14, 2003, in which he authorized illegal interrogation techniques. The US military refused to release that memo citing national security. It took the American Civil Liberties Union using the Freedom of Information Act to get that memo into the public eye. What national security? Is it national security to cover up torture authorization by an Army lieutenant general? No. It is just covering up criminality. Do we want general Ricardo Sanchez punished? No. We want him to turn from violence in all its manifestations. We want him to repent as we want universal repentance.

Rendition

Now the term "rendition" has been widely circulated. It is the term used for exporting people from the US and other countries (with supposed protections against governmental torture and abuse) to other countries with less stringent laws concerning, among other things, using torture in interrogations. It was one of the central ambitions to increase the scope of this abhorrent scheme under the USA Patriot Act II drafted during the first George W. Bush administration. The plan was, and still is, continually to weaken the safe guards against imperial, dictatorial executive power so that common citizens who had always been guaranteed against such abuses may be deported without due process under presidential order and invariably stripped of citizenship at the
The president, under this thinking, may imprison an American citizen as long as the president wants without any due process. The president claims the power to keep such people incommunicado. He claims the authority to keep the entire thing completely secret. In other words, he claims the authority to just make American citizens disappear without a trace. Now, it should be obvious that he also self-authorizes himself to have the person tortured or murdered. When were the Dark Ages? This is a dark age. Does the US president have the power to say "off with his head" and it's done? Are the people just going to follow this president or any other president who claims such authority whether in the open or behind a very thin veil?

Unitary Executive Doctrine

The legal theory to which George W. Bush subscribes (the Unitary Executive Doctrine) boils down to this. He may authorize himself to have all the power the people (not the judiciary or the legislature) don't withhold from him. So far, the people have been willing to acquiesce to this move into dictatorship, just as the Roman Senate acquiesced to dictatorship under times of external threats (as terrorism is claimed today) and acquiesced to their utter loss of power, since the Roman Empire's dictator became Rome's deified Emperor with absolute sole power. This preceded the great collapse of Rome until that power was reconstituted by Constantine I and taken over by the Roman church.

Human laws sit in the sea of dead qualifications

Human laws are not fixed and absolute. Such is the case with the Constitution of the United States of America, the Magna Carta, and other such documents. Such is not the case with the new commandment. It may appear to the hardhearted that the new commandment is also subject to the same hairsplitting interpretation when in reality (in heaven) it is not. Each person must simply practice the greatest reading comprehension possible when it comes to the Gospels.

The new commandment is God

The human laws, to which so many refer when they plea for what has been termed "the rule of law," do not without equivocation point in that one direction of love, peace, and truth as all the same both goodness and righteousness: God. Human laws don't even acknowledge that God is those things and one thing.

Even though that human law is created by those who imagine that they are using what they see as the best system, what is best to many can resolve in interpretation and qualification into what simply means they alone own everything and everyone else in the world was created to serve them. All things may be rationalized under the false law that is the human law. The real "rule of law" is when the supreme law is expressly stated to be the new commandment and that law rules.

The question under the human law becomes one of what is truly best, which invariably turns out to be the new commandment (the real law). This truth is what has gone missing in the debate since Jesus walked the earth. Lesser language than the new commandment, such as the US Constitution that does not express in clear and plain terms that the supreme law of the entire earth and universe and heaven is the new commandment, leaves continual technical loopholes through which all sorts of abominable practices may occur and have occurred. The system may attempt to interpret its way out of such abominable practices, into which it interpreted itself in the first place; however, without the absolute light of the new commandment, that system spins in perpetual uncertainty.

The mundane law is unreliable. It constantly requires updates in the form of new legislation and band-aid interpretations. The mundane law is constantly entangled in its own hypocrisy. This leaves hackers and those who imagine themselves earnestly logical to exploit the hypocrisy. Others, who try to follow the law, find that they don't know where the lines are since the interpretations are constantly stirring the pot. The interpreters, raised under this system, don't even realize they are operating in the dark.

This Unitary Executive Doctrine (all executive power residing in the office of the president and that there is one office holder versus the legislature and Supreme Court both made up of a number of office holders) and how that doctrine translates into even dictatorial power, more so in times of war (formally declared or otherwise), is completely mundanely logical within the current system. Under the letter of the US Constitution, it is true that there may be no executive functions of government independent of the president. Only the president may administer the law. All agencies of government that have been administering the laws and acting as independent of the president have been doing so unconstitutionally.

Interpretations to the contrary are also completely mundanely logical within the current system. The arguments both for and against the president being on an equal basis with the Supreme Court in authority to interpret the US Constitution are mundanely logical. Even a constitutional amendment stating that ultimate authority for interpreting the US Constitution rests in the judicial branch as a co-equal branch would, at best, remain subject to a muddled spirit of cooperation under the threat of coercion. In the end within the worldly system, the question would be decided by which side has the greater coercive appeal. The president under this system may push the limits of authority as far as he or she wants until enough people side with the opposition or some drastic measure occurs such as the assassination of Julius Caesar. The system is its own paradox.

The Unitary Executive Doctrine (that necessarily points to a human being within the worldly system as the executive) and the arguments against it from within the worldly system are both of them illogical on the divine level. There is only one true unitary executive: God. Jesus too was the rightful unitary executive, because he assigned that right to everyone who will execute it in the divine spirit. That’s God. That is not what the worldly way has brought us.

The Unitary Executive Doctrine seeks to usurp God. The human legal system usurps God. The US Constitution and all like documents have been fraudulently placed within the minds and hearts of the people where the new commandment should live. The US Constitution and other such documents have been created in continuity with the minds that first rejected God’s law that human beings are to remain unselfish. Such documents are the result of rebellion. It is why such documents have explicitly expressed or implied such lies as that human beings have the right to more than their fair share in the form of mundanely understood private property (not sacred privacy from the lustful), which results in multi-multi billionaires in the face of billions of people in want. This so-called right is of course a thing one may choose, but it is loaded with all the negative consequences of that free-will choice. Choosing evil under free-will always results in evil debt. The truth is clear under the new commandment (truth itself) that all ought to be shared.

It is not inconsistent that Jesus withheld certain things from those who were not of this spirit. He withheld answers to their questions when they were posed and rehearsed and therefore closed, insincere, and indirect. He did not leave the poor without their basic needs, and he did not take more than his own basic needs; however, he did not give all to the greedy nor did he advocate it. He did not resist evil violence and theft using mundane means.

Extraordinary rendition

There is also the United States practice called extraordinary rendition. It is the illegal abduction of people in other countries who are then moved to countries with less stringent laws against torture.

The US State Department is still denying that the US sends people via extraordinary rendition (kidnapping) to regimes that the US State Department says violates human rights. The State Department claims it simply takes the other country's word for it that it won't torture. However, if those nations won't torture the people, why is the US sending people there in the first place? The only reason to send people to such places would be to take unfair advantage of the lack of human rights. If the US is interested in human rights, why doesn't it render people to nations that the US is sure won't torture them. The State Department is claiming that it is sending the people "home." However, we know that people have been rendered to nations they are not from. Therefore, the State Department assistant secretary for democracy, human rights and labor, Barry Lowenkron, lies.

The US has used extraordinary rendition many dozens of times since 9-11 and before. It has used the UK and other places through which to illegally transport kidnapped people with the knowledge of the leaders of those places. At first, both Bush-43 and Tony Blair concealed and lied about extraordinary rendition. The UK finally had to admit that CIA-extraordinary-rendition flights had landed in the UK. However, since both the US and UK are really becoming more and more despotic regimes, the citizens of those nations aren't doing anything about such illegal activities. They want to use the excuse of the reprehensible actions of others as a cover for their own sinister hegemonic aims in the world.

They want to claim that if one speaks out against their governments, one is for terrorism. Let them dare to jail saints for speaking the truth about the unh holiness of all war. They defy God's call for peace.

One famous case of extraordinary rendition involves Abu Omar abducted by the CIA from the streets of Milan, Italy and taken to Egypt where he was severely tortured.

The CIA had people tortured by Egyptians and Syrians. Those being tortured confessed information that wasn't true. The Pentagon used the false confessions in reports to the president. The president, Cheney, and Rumsfeld wanted propaganda to support the long-sought goal of taking over all the oil of the Middle East. Everyone Bush's age and older knows that confessions made under torture are garbage.

Laws were passed in the US against police departments using rubber hoses, blackjacks, bright lights, sleep deprivation, death threats, and endless questioning as interrogation methods. The police used to call it sweating it out of him (the prisoner). It's why habeas corpus, probable cause, and due process became the standards. Such interrogation methods were discredited decades ago. They were shown long ago to produce false confessions. They were held up as barbaric and beneath any democracy.

The current crop of leaders though hate humanity. They hate the protections against sadism. They have hoped the new generation doesn’t have such sentimental feelings about their fellow human beings. They have hoped that the hardening process of playing thousands and thousands of hours of violent, sadistic, depraved video games will have sufficiently numbed the youth into compliant killers and torturers.

Another case of extraordinary rendition involves Maher Arar. In 2002, Arar was abducted at John F. Kennedy Airport in New York. He ended up going to Syria by way of Jordan. In Syria, he was reportedly tortured for a year to extract information and, of course, punish him.

Bush and Powell used false confession made under torture

The US extraordinarily rendered Ibn al Shaykh al Libi (Shaykh Libi) from Pakistan to Egypt where he confessed false knowledge of the tie between al Qaeda and Iraq. In the buildup to the invasion of Baghdad, president Bush and his administration continually said that there was credible evidence of the linkage between al Qaeda and Iraq. Based upon Libi’s statements, Bush said, ”We’ve learned that Iraq has trained al Qaeda members in bomb-making and poisons and gases.” Colin Powell used Libi’s statement as part of the basis for Powell’s presentation to the United Nations urging an end to weapons inspections and for authorization to attack Iraq to cause regime change.

The truth though, as most people are aware, is that Libi simply told his torturers what they wanted to hear so that the torture would stop. It has ever been so.

Before Powell's presentation, both the Central Intelligence Agency and the US Defense Intelligence Agency had disavowed what Libi had claimed under torture.

Abu Zubaydah and Khalid Shaykh Muhammad were captured in Pakistan. Abu Zubaydah was wounded in the course of being captured and was put on heavy duty pain killers, and was interrogated in part while under their influence. Both he and KSM maintained that Bin Laden had forbidden any operational cooperation with Iraq, because it was ruled by an infidel secular Arab socialist regime.78

Note carefully the words "Before Powell's presentation," especially the word "Before." Bush and Powell, et al., knew that Libi's false confession was seriously doubted by both the CIA and DIA before Bush and Powell and the others in Bush's cabinet, etc., continued perjuring themselves before the world, leading to their murdering hundreds and hundreds of thousands of people so far (Sunday, December 24, 2006), ruining the lives of countless others, and generally increasing the poisoning of the planet.

US double standard as to the efficacy of torture for reliable information

Torture renders unreliable information. This was understood by the general public during the Vietnam War. American prisoners of war (POW's) were often forced to make statements on camera against the US war policy. The general population of the US was told to discount all such statements as being the result of torture and duress. The previous military policy had been that soldiers give out no more than name, rank, serial number, and date of birth. It didn't preclude a soldier from berating the enemy or making otherwise defiant statements. The policy further forbade any soldier from making any statements, in jest or otherwise, supporting the enemy or denouncing the US military effort or civilian authority directing that effort. Those policies were changed. The code of military conduct was altered. Soldiers were told to go ahead and make the statements the enemy wishes and to give them information (false, insufficient, or even coded). There would then be an understanding when a soldier showed up on television making statements denouncing US aggression.

There will be those who claim this never happened, but I personally remember the television coverage on the subject, the public debate that followed, and the resulting understanding given to the general population, which of course got to the soldiers as well.

Even US Senator John McCain signed a statement while a POW that he was a "black criminal who performed deeds of an air pirate." Now, do you remember anyone believing that McCain was sincerely confessing that? I don't.

With that history, how can the US, in all sincerity, stand behind information or statements extracted under torture or extreme duress? It cannot.

The military and others know that torture renders unreliable information. They knew that before they started using it in Afghanistan and Iraq and Cuba. They use it primarily for terror.

Using information obtain by torture encourages the use of torture against your side as well. Encouraging the use of torture makes the world a worse place, which is what those in the US advocating the use of torture claim they are trying to reduce. You cannot use evil means to fight evil and win. Only evil wins in that case, which is loss. The only way to stop evil is to stop being evil. It is the only mindset that will ever achieve heaven. The only way all will join in heaven is by all renouncing all evil.

The US led into the dark

It is important to understand that this position against torture was the long-standing position in the progression in law from brutal, cruel, and insensitive to humane. This principle was well-established in the US, for example, under the principle that evidence tainted by illegal criminal-investigative techniques would not be admissible in court. Conservative justices, however, relaxed that standard when they introduced the concept of "good faith" into the standard. Evidence obtained by police officers and others acting in good faith would be admitted. The problem here is one of determining when an investigative or interrogative technique is used in a truly good-faith sense. It becomes an easy matter for anyone to claim good intentions or ignorance or that the line between the acceptable and unacceptable is just blurry enough (or characterized as such) sufficiently to gain admission of otherwise inadmissible alleged evidence. The inevitable outcome of such relaxation of standards is less vigilance on the part of investigators and interrogators to avoid doing those things which are inhumane, opening the door to abuses including of the innocent. There is a line across which one should never go even in dealing with the wholly guilty.

Now, there are those who claim that certain specific sections of the international law do not preclude the use of information extracted via torture. However, the statements in those bodies of law concerning the broad scope of those bodies clearly prohibit torture. The spirit of the law and the letter of the law that necessarily follows from the spirit are to eliminate torture. One cannot use the proceeds of torture as grounds for engaging in the evil of warfare without, thereby, abetting torture. This assumes that the torturers know the information is acted upon in that manner. False confessions, of course, especially extracted from the innocent is central to this consideration.

Jesus was wholly innocent. However, his torturers would have loved for him to have broken down and renounced God.

Regardless of whether torture is reliable or unreliable, torture is evil. Satan is the one who orders his devils to torture.

Of course, the US is not the only wealthy nation to use rendition. France used the tactic against Carlos the Jackal in 1994. Sweden, according to its own internal investigations, was instrumental in rendering Ahmad Agiza and Muhammad al Zahry to Egypt in 2002. Other incidences will surface.

The CIA and other US covert operatives and private contractors, take people where the laws are lax or where secret installations will go undetected. Prisoners denied due process of law with no probable cause, are tortured there—clearly illegal in so-called more civilized societies. One example of such torture involves the repeated near drowning of victims called waterboarding.

Actually, one need only use one's imagination of medieval torture upgraded with high-tech to realize the levels to which operatives acting in the name of the American people have been torturing people for decades around the planet.
It is US government sponsored sadism. Does this make you proud to be an American, or is it shameful?

Now, George W. Bush and vice president Dick Cheney fought against the movement in the US Senate to prohibit torture methods. Bush threatened to veto the anti-torture legislation. What has the US mentality devolved into that presidents and vice presidents don't even need to conceal their agreement with torture? We are not advocating concealment mind you, but Cheney's open advocacy for torture speaks volumes about the general level of duplicity on the part of the conservative American public. This is why the US Empire will fall and fall hard.

Cheney has stated openly that the US has not, and does not, torture people. However, he was lobbying the US Congress not to place anti-torture restrictions upon the CIA. Now, how can those two positions be reconciled? Anyone in his right mind who claims to be against torture would not lobby against anti-torture laws. His denial is not plausible.

Cheney's lawyers would argue over the definition of torture. At what point did the Roman soldiers cross the line and begin torturing Jesus? To hear some conservative lawyers speak, if the Romans had taken Jesus down from the cross before spearing him in the side and before he died, it would not have been torture.

The torture actually began before they ever laid a hand on him. It began when his words of truth were rejected. The injustice of it all (the worldly way) and what Jesus had to do about it was enough to cause Jesus to sweat blood after all. That anguish was the result of his emotional torture by the self-centered: The conservatives of his day.
To neocon lawyers, Jesus wasn't tortured

Conservative lawyers, such as John Yoo who authored much of the Bush-43 administration's policy claiming that torture is legal, don't understand Jesus's position at all. To hear John Yoo talk, even spearing Jesus and even letting him die would not necessarily be considered illegal under today's US laws. Yoo's position centers around the state and authority of Caesar. Yoo is a great advocate of the Unitary Executive Doctrine and unlimited presidential authority for the sake of the Empire. He argues for the imperial presidency, unlimited presidential powers during war, and the permanent war on terrorism to be defined as anything the president claims to be anti-American whether foreign or domestic.

Jesus was murdered for the sake of national security

According to the Pharisees claims made to the imperial authority of Rome, Jesus was a dangerous extremist. He was anti-Roman. The Pharisees demanded that Jesus be executed for preaching sedition. It was for the sake of national security they claimed. What evil, twisted reasoning, the same used today by the neocon scribes (lawyers)! Caesar's representative acceded to the Pharisees for the sake of restoring mundanely perceived order.

We must deal with the so-called tough questions so we may rightfully divide the truth from falsehood concerning where subversion, sedition, and treason lie versus persecution, protest, and dissent. Do real Christians seek to subvert the US Constitution? The question arises.
Are real Christian means for change unconstitutional? Is it unconstitutional not to vote? Those advocating mandatory voting don't find much support. Is advocating non-capitalism unconstitutional? The US Constitution could fall into that interpretation. Such is the nature of following leaders and the power of leaders backed by a large enough, compliant mass.

Jesus was tried in a kangaroo court

Jesus certainly was tried for subversion, sedition, and treason and was certainly persecuted and murdered for protesting and dissenting. Can it happen again under the US Constitution? It already does on a certain level, and yes, it could get worse and will. Are real Christians for the status quo? They absolutely are not. Real Christians won't be for the status quo until unselfishness is the status quo. Are real Christians against what is best for the state and government, etc., per se? As has been made amply clear elsewhere in this work, the best government and what is best for the state is the main focus of real Christianity. We seek the best and perfect status. We find it in giving and sharing in nonviolence and all the rest of the good exemplified by Jesus Christ.

Real Christianity must break through into the consciousness of the masses and it will. Capitalist cultural dominance will end. Love will no longer be relegated to the back for false pragmatism. Real pragmatism will come to the fore.

John Yoo's interpretation of US law would give the president the right simply to make Jesus disappear without a trace. Frankly, John Yoo has made himself the devil's real advocate. He is a committed opponent of the message of Jesus. He has lots of company. His visibility has slipped since the president began taking so much heat over the insane doctrines Yoo put forth.

This points out the inherent division that is not possible to bridge. As the differences in theology become clearer and clearer, the separation will be forced to occur. The artificial experiment that is in the end coerced at its heart cannot endure. The only system that will survive indefinitely is the cooperative system, the unity, based upon the real love that can only develop in the entire world through the acceptance of Jesus Christ. His teachings are the only teachings that in total are sufficient. No American founding father or any other person is an adequate substitute.

Those who subscribe to the Unitary Executive Doctrine usually also subscribe to the notion that the executive does not have to accede to judicial interpretation of the laws. One could certainly see that one coming when the US Constitution did not make it clear and the judiciary simply asserted the right and the other branches really only deferred.

Federalist Society

This Unitary Executive Doctrine has been spearheaded by the ultra-conservative Federalist Society. Their general collective philosophy dislikes sharing all things in common as the inheritance of all from God. They are against the perfection that is giving all and cooperating rather than competing. They hold to their negative direction, because in a giving, sharing, and cooperating world, they could not become, or remain, rich relative to, and at the expense of, their brethren. They wish to interpret things now to allow the president to have increased power to the extent that all of what are called independent, regulatory agencies of the government would be brought under an extremely powerful office of the president to run in ways that will severely reduce or completely eliminate real Christian actions and give capitalist actions free rein.

That society and all of the current conservative-Republican ascendance comes in large measure as a result of the shame of the Republicans over Richard Nixon. They do not want to admit to the shameful ness of their positions. They want vengeance against the populism that brought Nixon down. They want to take over that populism. They want to redefine the elite as the professors who study the history of the privileged upper class and spoke out against it. They want to redefine the elite as the journalists on the beat who investigate and report on the corruption at the heart of that privileged elite. Therefore, the current batch of conservatives have received huge funding by the privileged elite to undertake that redefinition process to dupe the other classes into supporting the ever widening gap in wealth distribution, which is continuing.
Phony image builders

The conservatives worked the public relations and image building side of the Ronald Reagan administration to overcome the Nixon scandals. The image work of Michael Deaver and others fooled the willing people who will continue to reap the reward of abettors to evil. The George W. Bush handlers have just continued the process with ever increasing vengeance.

Hence we see the same positions Nixon held being deliberately put to the fore: National security as a cover; executive privilege; limited or no congressional oversight, unilateral choices concerning what laws to enforce (Nixon just didn't spend the money; George W. Bush issues his signing statements that he won't enforce certain sections of the law); warrantless wiretappings and other illegal activities; etc. In their delusional state, since they cannot see for the blood in their eyes, the conservatives mean to win a longstanding victory on all fronts this time rather than back down.

The Joe Pyne style

Rather than humbling themselves and repenting forever, they have their backs up. That is why the Joe Pyne style has become so popular rather then having outgrown it.

Joe Pyne was a radio talk show host and later national TV talk show host starting in the mid 1960's. Much of the harsh, obnoxious radio and TV talk traces back to the Joe Pyne Show. Joe deliberately insulted people to increase ratings. This, of course, is much of what is going on with the current batch of conservative talk
Many so-called liberals have taken the bait so that a few seconds of yelling back and forth drive the ratings. The level of contrivance though is completely transparent now on both sides. It is politics as entertainment, just as with so much in religion as entertainment: Excessive and ostentatious.

They got their backs up and bought and took over radio and TV. They got their backs up and subverted religion getting so-called Christians on school boards and then moving them up into higher and higher positions. They also got their backs up by moving into the legal world in a concerted manner. That's the Federalist Society. That society is the conservatives plan to take over everything that has to do with law. They are doing that for the sake of money. They are doing that for the sake of big business, neoconservative, capitalist interests over everything else.

They talk against what they call "judicial activism" when in practice it turns out that in the end their concern is with judges who interpret the rights of people in ways that don't put the rich and powerful first always. Their efforts, the Republican conservative lawyers, have rolled back justice for the poor and oppressed across-the-board. They are anti-cooperation where the poor would be able to get and share. They are pro-competition where those who are already spiritually fat get fatter off those who are already thin.

Very telling is their utter anti-environmentalism. The Federalist Society has produced a slew of lawyers who just don't give a damn so long as there is money to be made polluting the earth.
"Destroy them which destroy the earth."
(Revelation 11:18). They are kidding themselves if they don't read that and believe it. It's going to happen.

It doesn't matter how big your megachurch is or how many books you've written and sold or how big your TV viewership is or how much access you've had to the White House and the conservative-Republican administration, if you are not working to stop destroying the earth including with pollution from fossil-fuel burning, you are part of the problem and will be yourself destroyed.

Even Pat Robertson seems to have finally opened up his eyes and ears and mouth on this subject. He's actually said the right thing to his TV audience telling them that we need to doing something about global warming caused by human fuel burning. Better late than never is right. If he would follow through and be consistent across-the-board, he'd be our brother in the spirit. We would know him, and he would know us. Will he turn from the conservative, antichrist agenda?

The same people who pay for the conservative, antichrist, so-called think tanks also fund the antichrist Federalist Society. This should come as no surprise. The mammon worshippers, the religion of capitalism, buy souls. The hearts and minds of the willing are for sale to the highest bidder. The young Republican lawyers of the me-generation wanted the conservative-Republican, anti-giving, anti-sharing system back on top and they wanted to be on top of that system for their own private, special advantage and privilege and the rest be damned.
It's what their fathers taught them. They'll get theirs while they can. Those to follow can worry about it: The negative consequences of the conservative's selfishness. This is the devil in a hurry to get his, because he knows his time is short.

The president now rules by secret decree

What the conservative Republicans don't want to care about is that Richard Nixon's dirty tricks caught up with him. He too believed in the imperial presidency. He said, "When the President does it that means that it's not illegal." This is John Yoo's position. This is also the position of the current US attorney general, Alberto R. Gonzales. It is the position of many of the members of the Federalist Society.

We better get to the so-called tough questions

In his testimony to the US Senate, February 6, 2006, attorney general Gonzales said that Senate Joint Resolution 23, which is the "Authorization for Use of Military Force" against those responsible for the 9-11 attacks, is not a "war declaration." Shortly thereafter in the same testimony, the attorney general refers to "his [the president's] inherent authority as commander and chief in a time of war." That last quote is in reference to Article II of the US Constitution. There is obviously confusion concerning connotations of the term "war" and context being discussed. A number of times in his testimony, he told members of the Senate committee that the "tough questions" they were posing need not be asked or answered since there are ways of interpreting the powers of the president to avoid those tough questions. This is revealing.

The attorney general does not want to be pinned down. If things are left sufficiently vague or if the convoluted interpretation advocated by the attorney general is accepted by the US Congress, the president will be more easily able to operate as if he or she has full faith and trust, which he or she inherently never has with the current system, as evidenced by the wishful scheme of checks and balances designed into the US Constitution by the founding fathers.

Even though that Constitution clearly implies a lack of full trust and even though there is a clear history in the US of presidents using information gathered under the pretence of legality referred to as executive power and privilege, the US attorney general on behalf of the president and administration is asking the people simply to trust the administration that it is not, nor would it, use secret information obtained "against political enemies." The people are being asked to allow the president to operate without oversight. This is the same office of the presidency in which has resided every president who has concealed the truth as evidenced by among other things the Pentagon Papers, Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, the secret bombing of Cambodia, Watergate, Iran-Contra, the Iraq War, all the other anti-democratic covert and overt actions of the US beginning with the colonial-period abuses of the indigenous population of North America and the importation of African slaves and the bond servitude of others, and all the dirty tricks against political enemies pulled by various presidents and their staffs and advisors.
Do you trust the likes of Richard Nixon, Oliver North, Donald Rumsfeld, and Karl Rove and others of the so-called noble lie not to use warrantless spying to gain information to use against political enemies? Do you trust them even with warrants?

The knowingly unrepentant, dirty-trick artists, so-called noble liars, cannot be trusted with souls. We don't trust or follow them. Nor do we fail to speak against their false path. Nor will we fail to work the right path.

The people are being asked to accept that the US Congress has the power of the purse and that, that is sufficient. However, we have seen that presidents spend money and withhold spending in ways not consistent with the earmarks in the approved budget. We have seen the president's recent change in the use of signing statements as a means of further eroding the power of congressional oversight.

In addition to those confusions, we hear the attorney general asserting that he is not using a view of the ultimate unconstitutionality of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) as a fallback position if his argument fails that the Authorization for Use of Military Force can be properly held as granting the president authorization to not be constrained by the FISA. Of course, this is one of those so-called tough questions the attorney general seeks to push off on future decision makers.

Regardless of the attorney general's statements suggesting the contrary, he is hedging his bets. The entire administration is a constant gambit for creating an imperial presidency that the conservative Republicans can use against their enemies, political and otherwise. We have tens of millions of conservatives who either do not know the history sufficient to mistrust all such power or are hell bent to get their piece of the pie. Little do they know that the pie will completely disappear if they get their way. That too is obvious from history.

Education fails collective memory

This whole debate should show people a number of things. First, education is severely lacking concerning historical abuses right up to the present. Now we have George W. Bush calling anew for an emphasis on math and science education at the expense of history and other areas where the collective memory of governmental and military abuses and lies are stored. Second, news media fail miserably to put things into historical context of abuses and why most of the founding fathers didn't trust anyone including each other. That is not to say that the heart is incapable of becoming purely trustworthy. In fact, the very reason the founding fathers could not trust each other is precisely because their hearts were insufficiently motivated. They identified the shortcomings of the king, but they laid the foundation for a different heavy yoke that America has consequently made the poor of America and the rest of the world carry.

The real problem is that people are avoiding the tough questions. They avoided them when Jesus walked the earth too. They avoided them before that and have ever since, right up to the time this work is being written. Many people will continue to do that right up to the end of the world.

Side stepping is not inherently evil in every instance. Jesus ducked or dodged questions, but the context is central to understanding the acceptability of such actions and the connotation of those terms, the refinement of the concepts. Jesus didn’t answer those who would not answer. They were the ones dodging the tough questions. Jesus wasn’t.

They weren’t looking for truth.

We don’t see the attorney general in give-and-take to get to the truth. He is glad for that situation since he can work the angles for cover so that the truth will not come out. There is the difference. Jesus would have engaged endlessly in fruitful give-and-take where fruitful is defined divinely (as righteousness) and not merely mundanely, which until conflation will continually stop short of the ultimate conclusion in all discussions and actions.

This raises the point that these debates about the so-called finer points of the mundane law are only as useful as they point to the absence of coming to ultimate conclusions. In the US, James B. Comey refused to recertify the National Security Agency warrantless domestic/international spying program. In the UK, Peter Goldsmith (commonly known as lord Goldsmith) warned the UK government and Tony Blair that the invasion of Iraq was likely illegal under both British and international law. These facts that there were various lawyers high up in the governments in the US and UK and elsewhere who clearly stated their concerns that the course of events advocated by the war-minded were going beyond the mundane law is as good as it points to hypocrisy on the parts of the advocates on both sides of that debate. It is only as good as it begs the question of ultimate conclusion.

Logic

Remember, logic is inherently circular. Consistency is the heart of logic. Hypocrisy is illogic, unintelligence, error, falsehood, not good, etc. This is what Jesus came to show those of the lost who could see it. Those who refuse it, ruin everything, mark themselves as such, and will be severed from the just. Avoiding the so-called tough questions is all about avoiding the logical conclusions and that is to avoid the implications. The neocons know they are evil. They just cannot face up to changing.

Science shows God's existence

Scientific findings clearly show that selfishness is the problem. They clearly confirm God by definition, God being unselfishness. The interpreters of the results just avoid describing the biggest picture. Certain lawyers avoid things on purpose. Atheistic scientists don't see what they are avoiding.

God is revealing. God has never been pinned down by human beings. The nature of God is being revealed. Apostate churches never defined God. Refuting the apostate does not negate God.
Proof is in the eye of the beholder. Yet, truth is absolute. What is best is best. Heaven is best. God is best. The tautological is inescapable.

Whom do you trust? Do you trust the path Alberto Gonzales has been on to lead to heaven?

I trust ultimate health and quality of life. That is God by definition. Satan gives you what you want up to a limit and only for a season. Then there is the evil price to pay that is ill health of all kinds and an ultimately lower quality of existence for all those not yet separated unto God.

No taxes

The question posed to Jesus concerning paying tribute to caesar for example points clearly to this. They sought to entangle him. Well, Jesus told them to render mammon to caesar since that's who owns the profane system. Jesus told Peter, however, that there should be no tax, naturally, since it is profane. Now, is that sedition? That no-tax statement was on a certain level a secret seditious statement against the evil spirit cast down to have dominion over the world for a time. Where does that get you? Twist it into a criminal offense for anyone to say we should not have to pay taxes. It is not saying don't pay taxes. It is expressing a grievance that ought to be redressed in a thorough airing of what is best in truth. However, those who wish to make such statements illegal do so because they fear the outcome of open, honest, direct, give-and-take debate. They know their position is too weak to stand on the merits. Capitalism is a cowardly system.
Caesar and his representatives had authority of the worldly kind over Jesus, because that evil worldly spirit had been allowed from on high. The spirit of human hearts moved people. People were moved to such a system. It fit them. The way out is to be moved a different way by a different spirit that is giving and sharing and no coercion but rather truth only that warns of the consequences of unwholesomeness. Unwholesomeness includes violence, hoarding, and sex for selfish gratification rather than pleasure coming solely as a result of wholesome love. The way out is openly, honestly, and directly to discuss to the ultimate conclusion so as to get to a clear and plain understanding of the real definition of health, perfection, the complete absence of corruption. Who fears that discussion? Who avoids it? Who finds it boring or tedious? What does all of that say about them?

At the time I'm writing this part of the work, Samuel Alito is a nominee to the US Supreme Court. He agrees with the Unitary Executive Doctrine; however, he has asserted his own qualifications. Samuel limits the doctrine to one of executive control over the executive branch and does not go into the issue of executive power. Mr. Alito made this distinction in his confirmation hearings before the US Senate. Of course, this does not say anything about his position regarding presidential power in the sense in which he was referring to it. His views on presidential power come through though in his advocacy for the current use of presidential signing statements.
Signing statements confrontation

The current way in which signing statements are being used forces the president into the legislative and judicial branches. They won't be able to ignore it, and that's the plan. It's deliberately confrontational. They want the confrontation, because they don't plan to back down. They want to push until they force their way. They lost face with Richard Nixon, and their egos were bruised. Therefore, they redoubled their dirty tricks and laid plans to avoid the mistakes they saw Richard Nixon make that got him caught and made him seem accountable. They are out for vengeance. They like to spill the blood of others. Politics and law and the rest are tied in with warfare and lust. It is all bloodlust. It is all tied up with sexual issues as well. It's testosterone-driven for the males.

They assert that because the president signs bills, they can exaggerate his importance in the legislative process. They hold that they can elevate the importance of the president's legislative-intent to that of the legislature. This view does not take into account that the president's signing and veto power is only a check on potential legislative excess.

The signing and veto powers do not allow the president into the legislative process anymore than the legislators wish to consider the president's position on given legislation. The conservatives holding this signing-statement doctrine also assert that for national security reasons, especially during times of war (which now is in perpetuity, since no one will ever be able to prove that the next terrorist attack isn't forthcoming), the binding nature of the president's (executive branch's) interpretation of all laws and particularly the president's powers is superior to that of the judiciary.

George W. Bush signs statements when he signs bills into law. Those statements express how the president interprets the bill and which parts of the bill he will and will not faithfully execute as law. In other words, for all practical purposes, he line-item veto's whatever he wants and at the same time memorializes for the courts his interpretation of the bill, which interpretation he asserts should carry equal or greater weight than the court's interpretation of the acts of the legislature.

If this use of the signing statement is upheld it will render as moot the point that veto power was written into the US Constitution.

If the US Constitution contemplated this signing-statement power of the president it would not have included the up or down, all or nothing, veto. Since the veto is expressly there, it also stands that every signing statement so far in which the president has stated that he will not faithfully execute the bill is a trail of mundane, impeachable crime where he has actually adhered to that statement by failing faithfully to execute the applicable law. Alito came up with the signing-statement idea or at least presented it to the president when he worked in the administration.

Not only that, but Bush-43 is still asking for the line-item veto. Why does he need it if his signing statements are constitutional?
This is what these mundane laws bring us. The commandment of Jesus keeps one and all out of such seeming quandaries.

At the mercy of the coercive

It must be remembered that court orders are most often followed, because the executive branch will enforce them. In fact, the courts and the legislature have only the people to turn to if the president refuses to follow a court order. The military and federal police are in a position to go either way or even split and splinter. All sorts of things can result. There can be assassinations, attempted and successful coups, civil wars, revolutions, disappearings en masse, concentration camps, re-indoctrination facilities (read torture houses), and on and on.

Coup d'état plan against Nixon?

When Richard Nixon was breaking the ice with the Russians and Chinese, the Joint Chiefs of Staff were spying on Nixon’s National Security Council. When the Nixon administration found out, they were concerned internally that the Joint Chiefs might be planning a coup d'état over national security since the Joint Chiefs thought Nixon was being soft on Communism. Nixon managed to gain the upper hand and then he covered up that it had ever happened.

Coup d'état against the neocons?

Now the reverse could happen where the military might become fed up with what they see as neocon misdirection in the War on Terrorism. When the US gets hit again by terrorist attacks especially if they are severe, there will be those within the military who will remember that they thought it was a bad idea to go into Iraq rather than finishing in Afghanistan. They will remember their thoughts about needing a much larger contingent, about waiting for the UN weapons inspectors to finish, about there being no exit strategy, about knowing that an invasion would cause great resentment and breed more terrorists, and about being ignored by the unprofessional neocon policy people brought into the Department of Defense to manipulate the intelligence process, etc. They will count the dead, especially in the military, and they will look at the challenge ahead with anger.

Don't count on the old idea that it can't happen here. Pressures are continuing to mount. When another terrorist attack occurs on US soil, the president will either have the backing of the Supreme Court or simply do what president Andrew Jackson did. He said of the chief justice of the Supreme Court, "John Marshall has made his decision. Now let him enforce it." If push comes to shove, the president could simply refuse a court order. If enough of certain key people, police, and military believe that safety and security as the neocons want them to perceive them are at enough risk, the courts could lose the issue. That would be what people call a constitutional crisis. With the types of protests and civil disobedience that would result, the US could have its own Tiananmen Square Massacre.

These signing statements simply assert exactly the Nixon imperial presidency. It takes the country back closer to the insane notion that was "the implicit infallibility of presidents," as H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's White House chief of staff put it. Even Nixon said about himself, "I would have made a good pope." He really wanted his words, right or wrong, as president to carry the weight of the most powerful popes of history: Absolutism. He viewed his words as law.

George W. Bush certainly sees a crown and miter on his head to a degree as well. His inauguration was his coronation. In his view and the view of those of the Federalist Society, the US is a constitutional monarchy with the president being the monarch for a term and the other branches of government being quite weak by comparison. As far as they are concerned, the president is the final authority.

All's fair in war: War is unfair

The neocons hold this position, because they see the president's power as inherently more important since the president sets the foreign policy and is responsible for national defense and war making as commander and chief of the armed forces. They claim that in times of war, the president's power is virtually unlimited. They claim the US is in a constitutionally declared state of war against terrorism. The president, in their eyes, may do anything he or she decides is necessary to win the perpetual war. In other words, all's fair in war.

They will accede to the international so-called rules of warfare so long as the United States is winning the war against a nation-state. However, the Federalists would never suggest that the US should willingly lose a war by adhering to the international rules of warfare. In other words, the president's duty not to lose the war would trump all other considerations. This is a type of brinksmanship really. No fear of potential war-crimes trials after a war would put off the neocons from doing whatever it would take not to lose. They would certainly use the entire US arsenal, including nuclear, before losing. Of course, that would be losing. The other side would lose too. That's better than letting them win. It's better to be dead than to be conquered. That's their ego problem. Even God's love cannot conquer them.

It says to all other nations, don't interfere with the US too much, because the US will always sink lower than you expect, as low as it mistakenly sees as necessary, in order to prevail globally. The problem with this policy is that the US has inevitably run up against people who are determined: People who are more like the Americans than anyone in America seems to want to admit.

Global capitalists police state is their mundane answer

Many Muslims have shown that they would rather die than submit. They have repeatedly shown that suicide is not a barrier. They have shown that they too will stoop. The answer of the conservative Republicans is to embark upon creating a global police state run by capitalists. The overpopulation of the world, the increases in transportation and communication, and the stimulation of materialism, all of which boils down to horrendously bad theology, has brought us to this inevitable situation.

Now, Richard Nixon was run out of office and Julius Caesar got himself assassinated for pushing the republic aside in favor of his dictatorship. Woe will befall all would-be dictators of America. However, there will come a time when the people will allow the police state in the interest of false safety and security. Of course, no one should kill anyone else. Those who assassinated Caesar were wrong to do so even if they thought they were heading off a Roman monarchy.

It will become so bad that people will be imprisoned and punished for expressing and acting in real Christianity. The lip service to freedom of religion will become plain for all to see.

Of course, as a Christian and necessarily a pacifist, I have no violent designs and wish no violence to befall any person. I call for peace to come into the hearts and minds of all people. As we all know, however, historically there have been people unwilling to listen to calls for peace. They are not against violent uprisings if they believe a line has been crossed. This is the prophecy.

No Empire or kingdom though will remain standing that includes active torture chambers. The torture of people has been pervasive not just in Iraq and Afghanistan but around the world under US sanction and training and at US hands. The history of the abuses is there along with the history of the cover-ups. If there were a thorough investigation with witnesses and evidence allowed to pour in freely from around the planet, if people within government were to blow the whistle (reproducing and leaking the proof of widespread and systematic torture and abuse), the American people would hang their heads in utter shame or go down in utter infamy.

Embarrassment, not national security

There are those who will ask, "Where is the proof?" The answer is everywhere there are delaying tactics and a cover-up. Governments with nothing to hide from their people don't go to great lengths to keep things secret from those people. They don't give the people the run around. They don't use delaying tactics.

Just look at the most famous of the abuses: Abu Ghraib. It is reported that there are still images that are being kept from the American people clearly showing American soldiers beating and raping prisoners and video recording of even young boys being raped. There are some eighty-seven photos and four video tapes full of abuses being held back from the people, as admitted by Donald Rumsfeld. Yet, their release has been delayed supposedly to protect privacy and not compromise criminal actions. However, privacy and criminal proceedings never became an issue with the earlier images. It is simply that the remaining images and recordings are just much more implicating of the sick nature of US military, paramilitary, mercenary, and covert activities, which people have been writing about for many decades but that just never had such exposure and clear back-up evidence before. Therefore, the premises for covering up (privacy and not compromising criminal proceedings) are blatantly false. That's proof of what is going on. There is no other explanation. Of course, the military, which took forever to prosecute a handful of low-ranking soldiers, scrambled for other reasons not to show the evidence. They say that it will endanger the military personnel in Iraq and elsewhere and will help in recruiting fighters against the US occupation. They hope the delays and other news, such as hurricanes, etc., will distract the public.\footnote{The American Civil Liberties Union sued for disclosure. Under the US Freedom of Information Act, the federal court ordered the release of the materials, September, 2005.}

The whole system is a cesspool. That's the trouble. Those calling themselves conservative Christians are swimming in it, whether they realized it before or not. Any such people who condone any of it are claiming that those on the receiving end of the tortures and abuses are receiving divine retribution. Well, that standard will most definitely greet them after the second resurrection. They will have to pay every farthing’s worth for their unmitigated hypocrisy. It does not matter what the religion, or absence thereof of any human being, no Christian is allowed to do anything along the lines of torture or abuse or anything he or she would not wish done to him or herself in his or her right mind. Jesus didn't go to the cross because he was masochistic.

Vigilance until the tribulation

The mistake of the past has been that once the more real liberal spirit has come again to the forefront upon the exposure of radical evil, it is assumed by many that the whole nation has been inexorably altered for the better. It is at that point that the real-liberal leaning element of society loses its zeal for the campaign for righteousness. Then the spirit of selfishness climbs right back into place. This is why all of what we are seeing in the first decade of the twenty-first century is reminiscent of the Richard Nixon and Ronald Reagan administrations in particular with the Vietnam War, Watergate break-in, and Iran-Contra Scandal. The real list of atrocious behaviors runs very deep and touches every administration to one degree or another.

The point is that this time, the people will not be lulled back to sleep. They will not fall for their own desire to prematurely see themselves and their fellow citizens in a pure light. The campaign for righteousness will not take a nap. Regardless of whether we have the proof out in the open in hand, God sees it all. Why have the American people continued on the path of greed, war, and iniquity? Why have they done this even after the Pentagon Papers, all the intelligence-community abuses even using demented Nazi scientists, the spying on innocent Americans, Watergate, Iran-Contra, and all the rest before and after? Their hearts are waxed cold (hard), and unless they soften soon, there will be hell to pay for them. That's the truth.

Now that there has been so much exposure of the governmental use of torture, the move now is, and will continue to be, to make more secret all the rules and regulations concerning governmental activities. In order to get away with things that the general public would find too reprehensible openly to agree to, the government, or more specifically the administration, will move to make as much of their activities as secret as possible. They will do that via fiat. At the same time, they will continue their attempts to takeover dictatorially so that they will come closer to being able to do anything they want out in the open.

The president will simply issue presidential directives. Those directives, unless challenged openly in media, will not come under any oversight. If the people do not know about them because they are not reported by corporate media seeking to further privatize everything including interrogations, etc., the legislative body will not move to rein in the administration. Besides, if the legislators do not have the backing of media, the people will hear nothing but a drumbeat stating that legislative openness and oversight is just going to tie the president's hands in securing the world. The point is though that in securing the world in that manner, the princes and princesses of the world will gain the whole world for a season but lose their souls in the bargain and take all their flock with them. The system will default to a dictatorship as with the old Roman Republic.

Under these new dictates of the president, those seeking exclusive corporate ownership of the whole world gain greater and greater power. The only thing that will stand in the way will be the conscience of real Christians, real liberals, who will have the courage to speak out in truth about the inherent sinisterness of this whole chain of iniquity. That truth will finally bring salvation. It already has.

When Watergate was revealed, it took a while before the general US population became incensed enough about the wrong-doings. The current conservatives in power, are proceeding apace believing that the American people do not care much about such things anymore so long as they have their safety and security from the new boogiemen, the amorphous, equally unjustified terrorists. The conservatives believe that under the cover of toleration of the people for heinous torture and pre-emptive (devoid of due-process) war and covert strikes, they, the conservatives in power, can completely takeover the planet with relative ease. Will the people stand up for righteousness, or will they hide behind a false sense of safety and security? They will divide.

The Roman Senate granted dictatorship to one person during times of emergency for safety and security reasons. It led to the permanent dictatorship of the caesars and the end of the Republic. Think about it. Where is the current administration leading the nation? They want an empire even more grandiose than was the Roman Empire.

It is hypocritical safety and security to have an unrepentant history of military scandals and covert atrocities domestically and around the world and then be railing about the atrocities of others, let alone driving to war against them.

Historicism of Jesus

And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? (Matthew 7:3).

Woe to him that coveteth an evil covetousness to his house, that he may set his nest on high, that he may be delivered from the power of evil! (Habakkuk 2:9).

Woe unto the world because of offences! for it must needs be that offences come; but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh! (Matthew 18:7).

Therefore rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabiters of the earth and of the sea! for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time. (Revelation 12:12).

This is the historicism of Jesus. History is headed in a certain direction. It will be fulfilled, because the force behind it is greater than anything human beings can do to keep it from happening. It can be seen just by looking around one. That is a kind of teleology of Jesus.

For I say unto you, that this that is written must yet be accomplished in me, And he was reckoned among the transgressors: for the things concerning me have an end. (Luke 22:37).
Prophecy is about means and ends. It shows the reason for existence. It reveals the meaning of life.

The will of God is beyond the control of selfish human beings. The process of cause and effect is laid out before us. Jesus's pivotal action will live on eternally while evil dies away.

War is a dire offense having grave consequences for the participants and especially the instigators even if they are punishers. They are evil in their wrathfulness, devils incarnate. They have but a short time, and they shall rue the day. They are making enemies only bitterer. Also, no human rules can remove the evil inherent on both sides in any war. Even the Geneva Conventions are ratified insanity. Yet, those who seek to avoid the intention of those conventions to lessen the barbarism inherent in war and who nevertheless go to war are even the greater sinners (more insane).

The hawks now advocate going to war without any restraints. They go to war to plunder, for profits, for bloodlust. All is fair in war many think, while in truth, nothing in war is ever fair. There are no rules or technologies that can sanitize it.

Sanitizing war

Don't show dead bodies especially of your own nation. Don't show the wounded, the amputees, the blinded, the deafened, the mentally and spiritually traumatized, etc. Don't show the victims on the other side especially civilians. Don't show the imprisoned. Don't give out the numbers of the dead (body counts) or injured.
Work to prevent freelance or un-embedded journalism. Claim that there are no, or few, civilian deaths or injuries. Claim that targeting is pinpoint via so-called smart weapons and does not harm anyone other than positively identified militant opposition. Deny the use of indiscriminant weapons. Deny torture. Claim high morale. Work to censor all opposing views everywhere. Smile and laugh. Tell people to go shopping.

Megalomania

War though is murderous, and it is a kind of rape that cannot be sanitized and will never go unpunished by the forces of evil rage and the sinless other life forms and implements of God's creation. The neoconservatives (the new breed of conservative that is still of the same old spirit of selfishness) want to go into more and more wars until they have completely taken over the planet. They say it plainly and in writing. America used to despise megalomania. Now the churlish depict megalomania as messianic. They try to make wrong into right by force.

Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. (Matthew 4:8-10).
For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? (Matthew 16:26).

How can anyone calling him or herself Christian be so blind to this? How can anyone, Christian or not, be blind to this? How dull is he or she? "But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear." (Matthew 13:16).

The conservatives want to create a world of laborers and consumers beholden to them, mesmerized through the arts of marketing, advertising, public relations, economics, science, and technology all applied darkly that is for selfishness. They sponsor dehumanization, the ungodly work of selfish reward.

True fruitfulness though is where people do not work mindlessly to satisfy contrived, selfish cravings. Under the spirit of real liberalism, no one is beholden to the selfish spirit. Everyone will have all, because everyone will share all and the earth will be renewed in that spirit.

Blessed is the man that trusteth in the LORD, and whose hope the LORD is. For he shall be as a tree planted by the waters, and that spreadeth out her roots by the river, and shall not see when heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green; and shall not be careful in the year of drought, neither shall cease from yielding fruit. (Jeremiah 17:7-8).
In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour under the vine and under the fig tree. (Zechariah 3:10).

The rich, conservative Christians (in name only) do not want everyone being a neighbor in the sense that the Good Samaritan treated the half-dead man along the road as his neighbor. They do not want everyone under the vine and under the fig tree freely giving and sharing all together the fruits of the earth as those are given and shared freely by God. Rather, they lavishly indulge their closest relatives and associates. As for what they tell the poor and each other, little if any is said in remembrance of Jesus's words of warning about personal riches and mammon worship.

Inferring the Apostles were godless

Jesus said, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." (Matthew 6:24; Luke 16:13). Yet that is exactly what most who call themselves Christian conservatives claim they do successfully. They call it prosperity. They uphold capitalism as if it were Christianity. They uphold it as if it is necessary to be a capitalist in order to be a Christian. By so doing, they infer that the Apostles were godless for holding all things in common, for not being capitalists. That is how the conservatives (anti-communists, even those calling themselves traditional liberal, small-d democrats) lump everyone together who advocates communist living (truly holding all things in common), which necessarily includes those of the true church, then and now, and even the very pillars of the earliest church: James (the brother of Jesus), Peter, and John.

The Apostles were not Marxists

The Apostles were not godless, obviously. They were not Marxists. They would never have been members of the Communist Party. They most especially would never have been members of the Bolshevik wing of the Marxist Communists. They were not militant (violent). The Bolsheviks were, and are, violent and undemocratic. The Apostles were for unselfish love in action (the spirit of oneness in service and friendship) that necessarily includes the real spirit of communism. That is godly. They lived it successfully.

People are ready, willing, and able to live that way now. Only those who hate the spirit do their utmost to thwart it. They always have.

You see, the Communist Party of the former Soviet Union and other states is based upon the teachings of Karl Marx who advocated violent revolution to overthrow the ruling, upper class (wealthy elite) to create a truly classless society. The term "communist" comes from the same root. It is part of the whole train of thinking that is in line with communal, commune, community, collective ownership, common, etc.

The salient point at which Marx parts company with Jesus concerns the means to the end and what the true end is. Marx's means are violent. Jesus's means are peaceful. Marx's end is materialistic only and can't arrive because of the violent means. Jesus's end is where the spiritual and the physical conflate in righteousness.
God's kingdom comes to rule over both heaven and earth.

Many will say this is an oversimplification; however, it really isn't. Many people wish to overly complicate things in order to justify ulterior motives and to avoid the implications of the clear and plain truth.

Jesus was a communist, not a Communist

That's the truth. If you don't like it, then you aren't a Christian. Real Christians love it. He was truly classless or casteless in that he was both first and last. All those who aspire to Christlikeness must be of that mindset and spirit also.

Now, that is why the subtitle of this work is that Jesus was a small-c communist. The proper noun that is the particular political party is capitalized as in the "Communist Party." The noun "communism" as used to cover the entirety of living in the spirit of the kingdom of heaven, where all things are shared as freely received and freely given, is not the name of that political party or its ideology.

The capitalists and the Marxists would prefer that there not be this distinction. Each side of their argument would prefer that Jesus and all the monasteries and convents and other religious communes in the world be viewed as something other than small-c communist. The capitalists have always wanted to pollute the term "communist." They become apoplectic at the thought that giving and sharing all freely in the same loving spirit Jesus showed his friends might become a clear and plain focus of the general population as opposed to the current spirit the conservatives have drummed into the population of loathing that message of Jesus Christ. They hate Jesus and his message. They hate anyone who speaks it or tries to live it. Watch them and listen to them rail against everything Jesus lived for, died for, and yet still lives for. Look at their fruits.

It is a fact that among other contextually dependent terms, Jesus is a small-c communist. He is for freely and compassionately and joyfully giving and sharing all. He is a historicist. He is duty bound to fulfill and unfold the continuing prophecy. He is a non-Marxist. He is a pacifist and one with God. He is a spiritual and manifest revolutionary. He knows that God is spirit and that evil must be radically overthrown in the core being of each soul. He is a restorationist. We are to return to God as defined in all the things Jesus signifies. He is an individualist. Each soul has the sovereign freedom to turn to infinite unselfishness or fall into the bondage of darkness. The entirety of existence can be gone through this way; however, the summation is real love. That's the truth. Have mercy on the failures, because we've all fallen. In mercy, we succeed.

The opposition is anyone of the following: A large-c Communist; a capitalist; an expropriator; a nonbeliever in the prophecy; an agnostic; an atheist; a non-real-Christian; a reactionary against real, not false, liberalism; a disbeliever in the radical change to full child of God, having been dead and lost and now alive and found; a nonbeliever in separating oneself unto God and, thereby, uniting with all who do likewise; a wrathful rather than a merciful soul; a militant; a torturer or tormentor of any kind to any degree.

Beware the militant revolutionary who hates Jesus and is hiding behind false expressions of democracy, freedom, liberty, openness, and justice whether labeled economic, political, or otherwise. Beware the capitalist revolutionary. Beware the militant democratic revolutionary. He or she is too hardhearted and selfish to follow. Where you find a militancy, coercion, torture, terrorism (instilling fear and a sense of the futility of even righteousness), or the like, you find the satanic spirit, the negative, the problem, the error, etc., being all synonyms.

Now, the true Marxists have also polluted the terms "communist" and "communism." They hate anything that doesn't put humans above all else. They are materialists not in the sense of necessarily wanting lots of material possession but rather in the sense of being anti-spirit. They deny the existence of intelligence that brought all, including them, into being. It is ultimately a matter of ego and how that ego gets in the way of the stated goal. Marx preached a final state of communism akin to heaven but without God. Jesus though made clear that God is heaven. One cannot get to heaven without God and godliness or holiness. To get there requires overcoming Marx's egoism ultimately recognizable to the discerning as being intrinsic in his philosophy. It's why his movement will never succeed. It's why his movement has violence at its base.
Well, it is the real Christian's duty that Jesus is not factored out but rather that Messiahship actually comes to dominate. "Arise, O God, judge the earth: for thou shalt inherit all nations." (Psalm 82:8).

Capitalism is godless

If there is any system in the world that is far from the kingdom it is capitalism. Capitalism is godless. It is true that Marx was godless, but that did not and does not render capitalism godly. What is godly about selfishness? Which system teaches and does more selfishness, capitalism or the communism of Jesus and his Apostles?

Jesus and the Apostles were not of the political ideological position held by those calling themselves American and British conservatives and neoliberals today. In the eyes of neoliberals, Jesus and the Apostles were and are dangerous extremists.

Is holding all things in common what conservatives are advocating? Are not conservatives in favor of total privatization? Isn't privatization the devil showing the conservatives all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them, and saying to them "All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me"? Aren't all Christians to say in response to that, "Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve"? Isn't privatization a prime means for the few to gain more mammon for their private, special advantages and privileges at the expense and enslavement of everyone else? Isn't it an evil covetousness?

They will defend it as progress in development. However, didn't Isaiah warn against wrong development that is a consequence of mammon worship and overpopulation that comes of uncontrolled lust? Is it not the manifestation of both the lust of the eye and the flesh: Materialism and sexual desire?

Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no place, that they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth! (Isaiah 5:8).

Overpopulation

It is roughly estimated that one-quarter of the earth's land is cultivated with most of it field to field. More and more people are streaming into cities where there is little to no space between houses. Humanity has vastly overpopulated, and we are living in a system of mammon worship. These things (living in overly dense housing and cities, destroying the wilderness, and lusting after money and things) have gone hand-in-hand.

What a mistake it is for president Putin of Russia to claim that the worse thing facing Russia is a declining population. He doesn't understand the stresses put on the land by overpopulation. Fewer youth working twice as intelligently and not necessarily harder can handle many times the elderly. Of course, that's not his only concern. He's worried militarily, manning all the outposts of a huge territory such as Russia, being overrun, and the Russians never again being a great power. It is misguided. He should turn to God, not market economics.

The Apostles were living as real liberals. They were not materialists. Aren't the people who call themselves "conservative Christians" really materialists? Don't they advocate acquiring and accumulating and hoarding more for self? Are they not promoting the lust of the eye and in many cases the flesh in order to make money for themselves? Do they not market and advertise such things incessantly? The Apostles did not market or advertise promoting lust or selfish-satisfaction. Are not the conservatives the principal owners and chief officers of the most money-making corporations that gain their money through marketing and advertising competing appetites? They seek to create, stimulate, and supply the lack of self-control of the appetites. They also want to profit off counter-measures. They go exactly against the teachings of the prophets, Jesus, and the Apostles.

The conservatives unlike the Apostles are swept up in the consumer society of endless materialism, consumption, and fashion, entertainment, image, and lust, all perpetuated and stimulated by the brain washing of advertising and hypnotic suggestions invisible to the unaware and perpetrated by stealthy public-relations firms and think tanks. "And said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation." (Luke 22:46). They participate in drilling into all minds the false desire for more and more of what people really do not need and which, in fact, corrupts, contrives, and distracts. That same dark marketing has put their chosen princes in the highest seats of worldly power.

Here we have God's reputation around the as-yet un-evangelized world being brought into a state of disrepute and shame by the false teachings of the spiritually dead who sometimes even come to believe their own lies that they are working for the salvation of the planet while doing the opposite. This is the source of the greatest danger for the world. It causes the greatest confusion. It exacerbates all forms of confusion and the ruination of the whole planet.

Stark contrast

Thankfully though, the stark contrast between the conservatives and the real liberals will work to separate out the real liberals and Christians from the false Christians and all the rest worshipping in the worldly congregation of selfishness. The whole world will come to know the truth and live accordingly.

Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD unto the shepherds; Woe be to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves! should not the shepherds feed the flocks? (Ezekiel 34:2).
Woe to the shepherds of America, England, Israel, and all nations and families that feed themselves and not the needy! This is not a curse but a warning. It is not a threat but a call from one standing on the wall watching out so that many will be worthy of escaping the snare that falls upon the whole earth. Unlike with those who hate the truth, this is not temptation to fall to then be standing accused and guilty. It is the light to see the way passed the dark pitfalls. Let us not make the same mistake the Pharisees made.

Then went the Pharisees, and took counsel how they might entangle him in his talk. And they sent out unto him their disciples with the Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou regardest not the person of men. Tell us therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not? But Jesus perceived their wickedness, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites? Shew me the tribute money. And they brought unto him a penny. And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? They say unto him, Caesar's. Then saith he unto them, Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's. When they had heard these words, they marvelled, and left him, and went their way. (Matthew 22:15-21).

Money was not devised by God but humankind. It has been an instrument of selfishness. This is so simple yet so complicated for so many.

And the scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery, and when they had set her in the midst, They say unto him, Master, this woman was taken in adultery, in the very act.

Now Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned: but what sayest thou? This they said, tempting him, that they might have to accuse him.

But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not. So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her. And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground.

And they which heard it, being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last: and Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee? She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee:
go, and sin no more. (John 8:3-11).

Conservatives try God to justify themselves

The conservatives put God on trial by putting truth on trial: To the test. They did that in an attempt to justify their lifestyles to the masses. They knew their traditions were designed to benefit themselves rather than save others from behaving, speaking, thinking, and feeling detrimentally, against godliness. They weren't really looking for the truth. They kept on rejecting it over and over while they searched for ways to weaken Jesus's correct points. When they couldn't turn the people away from Jesus with logic, they silenced him by murdering him.

This though only served Jesus's point, for those who are able to perceive it.

The ones who tested Jesus and took his points were shown tested and repentant "convicted by their own conscience." Those who heeded Jesus accuse those now who refuse to drop their weapons claiming they are without sin or that they can throw their stones simply because they can. Those who don't heed now are without conscience. They are the walking dead.

For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew 5:20).
They are not troubled by their consciences. They don't worry.

They are not in trouble as other men; neither are they plagued like other men. Therefore pride compasseth them about as a chain; violence covereth them as a garment. (Psalm 73:5-6).

The Marines

What is the motto of the US Marine Corps? "The few, the proud, the Marines." Violent! King David, a warrior king, rebukes them. They haven't learned in three thousand years, let alone two. Jesus showed that David's path was off but that it was far closer to the right path then the US Marine Corps'. David would have been a follower of Jesus. He would have been convicted by his conscience and become a pacifist had he had the benefit of Jesus's words as the Apostles had them. David and many others would have loved to have been able to hear Jesus teach the straight and narrow.

National governments are preaching and doing exactly against sacred truth

Today, even though we have the written good news of Jesus teaching the way to salvation here and now, the US government, the most powerful national government in the world, preaches exactly against it: "The proud" Violence, greed, depravity are the things the US government preaches and does. This is the truth.
Is there any national government that is always about preaching and doing the opposite?

The intent of the unrepentant was not to learn truth. They were never convicted by their conscience. They died in utter ignorance of the divine will and law even though they knew it on the mundane level. They gave themselves away with their cunning talk and traps. Their intent was bent upon destroying the truth. They sought justification to murder Jesus. When they could find nothing, they murdered him blatantly, just as their same spirit had murdered prophets before Jesus, for the sake of their positions, power, control, money, and other lusts: To silence the prophets so that the other evils of the killers would not be further exposed in the bright light. They fell into their own snare. Killing the prophets makes the light brighter. However, leaving the prophet alive also leaves the light to become brighter. There is no escape. There is only one real path and it is to do no offense.

Once again, we must stand in the gap so that the prophecy is fulfilled, so that the whole earth is not destroyed, and so that the remnant inherits it in righteousness.

And I sought for a man among them, that should make up the hedge, and stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it: but I found none. (Ezekiel 22:30).
The new nation

We must join in the spirit of I Am (God) saying "I will" and do it. We must be called and chosen. The shepherds are to feed the flocks. They are to make peace. They are not to hurl blind, calculated recriminations. They are not to seize on the inheritance of all the people, just as they tried to seize on his inheritance: Jesus's, taking heaven by force and setting up their mansions behind thick walls away from the fray where they thought evil would not touch them. How wrong they were, and how wrong their spiritual descendents remain.

But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said among themselves, This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and let us seize on his inheritance. (Matthew 21:38).

The whole earth rightly belongs only to the just, the fair. It does not belong to the unjust, unfair expropriators, takers.

For if you continue in your way, which you will (to whom this is meant) "The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof." (Matthew 21:43). That new nation is the real Church that is the fruit of the wedding (joining, uniting) of the new heaven and new earth. It is not synonymous with inherently divided America.

Americanization destroys the earth

What comes of people becoming more Americanized under false, unrepentant prophets? Considering the rate at which Americans still consume the natural resources of the earth and have polluted the planet (a sign of the times), if the rest of the world jumps on the American developmental wagon and weapons procurement, the world will be in ruins in no time. The pressures are mounting. That's the Biblical prophecy. We see the beginnings of the birthing contractions already.

For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. All these are the beginning of sorrows. (Matthew 24:7-8).

Scientific explanation for tribulation

Earthquakes—the earth reflects the emotional distress, confusion, hardheartedness, pleadings and adds to it. Is there a scientific explanation? There is a direct connection that science could learn to describe. It would be describing more of God's workings and plan: Spirit, emotion, over matter—of course.

Jesus doesn't know the exact moment, but he knows it's coming

However, no one knows the exact time but God in heaven. "But of that day or hour no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but the Father alone." (Mark 13:33). Not even the Son of man or Son of God knew, as spoken directly by the Son of God. The signs of the times will tell though of its approach. When the results of the great empire-descendent of Babylon starts failing, when all the false churches are unable to give satisfactory answers due to their false testimony, after the real Gospel has been taught to every nation in every language, once every nation has been told in no uncertain terms, when the lofty ones are falling from their high places, when it is manifest all about in darkness, then you will know that the time is at hand. Be watchful. Do not be caught unaware. Be ready for the Son of man to return for the harvest of the angels to purge his kingdom of those that work iniquity and to gather together his elect from one end of heaven to the other. The day when disunity, covetousness, and iniquity will be cleared away and burned up is coming.

The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity. (Matthew 13:41).

The signs are here: The beginning of the end of this age

The signs are already here for those who are listening, hearing, and understanding and looking, seeing, and perceiving.

One would have to be living under a rock not to see the connection between all the plagues, weather disturbances, and disasters on the one hand and the callous stewardship of the planet and the bad shepherding of the people on the other hand. This is all predictable for those who testify as to Jesus. "For the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy." (Revelation 19:10).

Matthew 24

There are some very misunderstood verses in The Bible. Matthew 24, cited several paragraphs above, has been misunderstood by many so-called intellectual (begrudging) minds. Matthew 24 is full of woe and doom for the iniquitous of Jesus's time. What has been misunderstood is that it was for all subsequent culminating-generations as well, even as it is also about the last of death gaining additional souls.

And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. (Matthew 24:30).

Free will versus instant gratification

Due to free will for people to make the mistake of violence, to be as the ferocious beasts despite having enlarged frontal lobes for the sake of enlightenment (unselfishness), God allowed wrathful armies down through the ages to serve as consequences for iniquity, both against iniquity and as iniquity. Wrathful armies are iniquitous and will suffer for it themselves even if they fighting against other evil, the wrath, etc., of others. It seems paradoxical, but it isn't.
One can be a very good parent wanting his or her child to see the light. The parent can't force the child to comprehend consequences.

Answering Epicurus

Now, people will say, but if God is all-powerful and beneficent, then God could and would just instantly implant the comprehension within us all, as implied by the questions of the ancient Greek philosopher Epicurus who tested God. This is asking for instant gratification, instant reward, even a preexisting reward, since in order to satisfy the requirements of the naysayers, God would have never allowed free will in the first place. Where then is free will? Where then is coming to knowledge freely rather than through coercion that is itself evil?

Do you see the errors that unfold when we look at the position of those who second-guess God's plan?

Life is implanting that comprehension within those who freely accept that this life is conditioning us for righteousness. (More on conditioning further on.)

What people are suggesting is that God instantly implant the comprehension in everyone against the will of those who would not choose it. Is that the golden rule? Is that real love, forcing people to love you?

God has struck the perfect balance for free will and salvation, the perfectly fair path to him. Anything other than that path would be hypocritical. No human mind can out think God concerning the best, most consistent plan.
God's wisdom is infinite. What God is doing is best by definition. Why insist upon knowing everything God knows before having gone through the training God is affording you properly to straighten your behavioral path?

God has already given you the new commandment and provided you with the exemplary life. Let us live up to that before we insist upon knowing more. We aren't prepared to know more before we are living up to the new commandment.

God is implanting but freely. You choose. It is easy even while it isn't. Staying chosen while others haven't been chosen and have given up is the difficulty. One waits for deliverance while God waits for souls freely to turn. It is difficult so it will be valued. It is the opposite of "easy come, easy go."

The sons of man

About "the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven," the sons of man are not just the prophets. The sons of man are all men. The Roman Legions came in "power and great glory" of a kind that punished those who rejected Jesus's saving message.

Jesus was a prophet greater than Jonah and wiser than Solomon. He was the one for his time and all times. Real prophets speak to the ages and to one another.

More was going on then just the Romans attacking and destroying. Souls were also being spared in some cases and taken in others but for safe keeping.
Answering C. S. Lewis (Matthew 24:34: "the most embarrassing verse in the Bible")

"Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled." (Matthew 24:34). Many people have become confused about this. They don't understand how it can be true for the first century Christians. How could it be true that all the things prophesied were fulfilled then, since we are still here now?

In his essay, The World's Last Night, C. S. Lewis called Matthew 24:34, "the most embarrassing verse in the Bible." However, one must read the verse with greater discernment. One must read it within the full context of Jesus's sermon and all his teachings and those of the prophets before him. He was not speaking in the strict chronological order for which dispassionate minds look. His context was flowing with the Holy Spirit. The manifestation of the power and glory of the Son of man for that particular generation was partly the wrathful army of Rome. All armies fit within this context even though in an always accompanying sense, they wrought evil. Israel was punished for its iniquity. Such is always the case even though evil can be relatively miniscule in a nation. It still brings consequences that would not otherwise manifest. As for those aspects of his sermon or discourse that minds struggle to fit within that generation, the term "fulfilled" refers to the continuation of the setting in motion of events that will yet lead to bringing all of Jesus's vision to fruition right down to the end of mundane time. Divine time will not end though, because his "words shall not pass away." (Matthew 24:35).

Perceive what John the Baptist said.

But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees come to his baptism, he said unto them, O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come? (Matthew 3:7).

You see, the point for that generation was "the wrath to come." It came. The Romans came. That didn't end the prophecy though.

The other thing to understand is that when the Roman Legions slaughtered people, it sent those souls into death of their bodies. What was waiting for them? The Romans didn't control their souls in the hereafter.

As for C. S. Lewis, we can only repeat Jesus's own words.

For whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his own glory, and in his Father's, and of the holy angels. (Luke 9:26).

Lewis was mistaken. He took Jesus out of Jesus's context and was embarrassed by Jesus's words. He and others took things too mundanely, without mysticism.

The mystical (hidden or occulted) becomes the known reality upon one's departure from this womb of life. The end of that age was the end of that temporal stay on earth in the animated flesh.
Jesus had also said that there would be an age to come. That aspect is conveniently overlooked by those who call Jesus a liar and fraud. How could there be an age to come if heaven and earth were to pass away in the mundane sense in the first century? How could the meek inherit the earth? Nevertheless, the events that unfolded did make for a new heaven and new earth within a given context. It isn't over though. It will be remade again only more so.

Heaven and earth are to be regenerated. Heaven is after all within. The Holy Spirit never dies out. Those true believers who were there when the proverbial world of that age came to an end did witness the prophetic unfolding. Those who sincerely believed and acted accordingly didn't die but passed to eternal life in the spirit. This is all perfectly consistent with what Jesus said if one is able to grasp it.

There are two levels in Matthew 24, both for that generation and for the time thereafter. That is the way Jesus spoke and taught, on purpose. He revealed what he was supposed to reveal so that the people would be separated, sheep from goats to save the sheep and ultimately teach the goats.

The "world" did end when Jerusalem was leveled. That "world" was defined by the context in which Jesus referred to it repeatedly concerning the prince of darkness ruling the "world." Jerusalem was the center of the world to those who worshipped in the temple. It didn't mean that nothing would continue thereafter. After all, there is another, greater, plainer, clearer millennium yet to come.
Foreshadowing the millennium

I say that for those who believe that the thousand years from the Christian domination of Rome until the Renaissance constituted a kind of millennium, confusion within that church and during the era at-large notwithstanding. It was a thousand year span when belief in spirit was widely held. Satan (evil) was never even nearly silenced in all the people's hearts though. Hence, it was not the millennium while evil will be all but gone throughout the whole of the earth.

Preterism

I have learned that there is a term for this view. It is called "Preterism." It means the Apocalypse having already been fulfilled. Well, in part it has.

Of course the Roman leveling of Israel was apocalyptic and was prophesied by Jesus.
You see, people compartmentalize via mundane readings, excluding emotional perceptions feeling for the bigger picture. It isn't correct to read Matthew 24 in a currently mundane context. It isn't an either-or proposition concerning one event. There are apocalypses. The Roman destruction of Israel was an apocalyptic event. It ended an age. It wasn't incorrectly exaggerated in anticipation. It was part of the train of apocalyptic events each a part together leading to the ultimate, culminating apocalyptic event when evil will be completely eliminated, displaced, forever from human souls.
Who knows Jesus?

Concerning the unbelievers, "And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity." (Matthew 7:23). Here, the word "knew" is understood only within the context of the revelation. It is the divine usage. Those who love Jesus are the ones Jesus truly knows and who know him. Those who love Jesus don't work at iniquity. How could Caiaphas, the chief priest who demanded Jesus's death, know the real Jesus?

Then the angels of Satan will be cast down metaphorically and literally below the earth and the kingdom shall be established on earth as it is in heaven.

Souls shall have walked through the flaming sword of truth and rather than being cut and burned away, they will have been purged through a baptism with fire and healed. "He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire." (Matthew 3:11). They will have been purged of the evil essence. They will have been made ready to drink and eat of the living water and the fruit of the tree of eternal life at the resurrection of the just: Making them worthy; transcending the mundane, faithless, blind, and spiritually deadly level of knowledge of good and evil; and making them truly righteous again.

Upon eating of the mundane knowledge of good and evil, "the eyes of them both were opened." (Genesis 3:7). They became as "blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch." (Matthew 15:14).
To know one in the real, true spiritual sense is to be mutually trustworthy. Jesus will not have known them, for they never proved worthy of such trust. They continued in the spirit of iniquity. They were not willing enough to make their results good and, therefore, of God. They made up excuses.

True repentance is on the path to worthiness, to know Jesus and to be known by him. It takes away all excuses. You stand there naked (honest) before God not claiming that your scars from punishment came from working the land but rather from fallen people, people leading you to fall, your own falling, and your hand in leading others to fall. All your life is exposed as an open book to God. God sees all the pages, every word, simultaneously.

We can do nothing real without God

You must trust in God’s mercy. God knows our hearts better than we know themselves. God will remove the scars of punishment. We cannot remove them alone. We can do nothing alone.

I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing. (John 15:5).

Even Jesus could do nothing alone. He said so. "I can of mine own self do nothing" (John 5:30). Why not? "For my Father is greater than I." (John 14:28). The Father is eternal. He anoints his king over human kind. That king anoints all his friends, co-equals: Sharing all; glorifying God the rightful son and sons and daughters; always giving credit where it is due as it is due, never begrudging it, never hiding it, each keeping his or her place that is never coveting or attempting to usurp or elevate him or herself above; all just doing goodness, serving each other.

Righteousness and softheartedness, not Republican conservatism, are synonymous

Those people with whom Jesus will share all, as God shares all with Jesus, are not the spiritually blind, deaf, and, therefore, dead (alive of the first birth but not yet of the second). Those souls with whom God will share all are softened and, therefore, not emotionally aloof (hard, cold, and small hearted) about all the troubles of this generation. "And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold." (Matthew 24:12). The righteous actually becomes softer, more compassionate, and further resolute in the face of iniquity, as difficult as many may find that to understand. They take it to heart to do everything they can about it in Christlike spirit to save the world not by a false peace but through the truth that divides the real from the false.

The conservative spirit, however, is the opposite. Therefore the mistaken notion, that a Christian may be a conservative, is the cause of the most pivotally significant confusion in the world. It brings the greatest deception. You can see that it distorts all the message of Jesus. It can lure people into falsehood who otherwise want to be real Christians. Without the real Christianity with which to compare, people have been duped. For those who would have responded to the real message but have hated the false message of the conservatives, the conservative message has given God and Jesus bad reputations. It has allowed for war. It has allowed for procrastination in doing the commandments.

If, however, all the so-called conservative Christians would begin to be true Christians, whom Jesus will recognize by virtue of their birth into the spirit of giving and sharing all, the world would be blessed on account of them. If they all remain as they are and do not convert to being real liberals, they will increasingly magnify darkness leading to the greatest human-on-human abomination of desolation in history.

Saying this truth forwards the prophecy. The division will happen. It is only a question of who will be on which side.
Chapter 3  Irrefutable Proof Will Increase Division

Even though I have shown in this work that it is irrefutable that a Christian may not also be a conservative, that proof will serve to increase division.

People who do not love the truth become irritated when confronted with the truth. They become irritated when they see they are misguided. It is why many of those now calling themselves conservative Christians will hate the implications of the truth concerning their political ideology. They will hate this work, and they will hate me just as they hate Jesus, all the prophets who spoke of Jesus, God, and all who stand with the truth. It was Jesus who said that if one doesn't love Jesus's words and deeds, one doesn't love God but rather hates God. "He that hateth me hateth my Father also." (John 15:23).

So far, we've focused upon the incorrectness of the current usage of the terms "liberal" and "conservative."

Irrevocably incompatible with the lust of the worldly Empire

We must focus also on the fact that Christian entanglement in materialistic, secret, and underhanded schemes and dark, artful handling of affairs, which is the current worldly politics, is an illegitimate activity under the faith. The world is to be made new and not even from the ashes of the old that is the current worldly system once it is burned away.

How can one change the current imperial US government into Christianity? Christianity is against the lust of the eye and flesh and pride of this life. Everything the Empire is founded upon is lust of the eye and flesh and pride of this life {capitalistic greed, traditionalism, militarism (that is part and parcel of the warring of one's members of his or her body), and nationalism and its patriotism}. The real Christian wants people to be allowed freely to choose to live in full accord under the true spirit of the first and great commandment and the second like it and everything that those commandments infer. The real Christian cannot compromise by getting into bed with the system that will not allow that. The real Christian cannot compromise by getting into bed with the system of excess, retained personal profits, war, traditions of falsehood, nationalism, patriotism, and loose sex. The real Christian cannot prostitute him or herself by getting into bed with the system of attempted, impossible love for two diametrically opposed masters that is mammon (the god of selfish acquisition and accumulation) versus God who is the exact opposite.

The false prophets say that the way to heaven lies in equality of opportunity to hoard not against famine to later share with all as Joseph did but rather to hoard for the sake of self and those who love you even during times of great want for others. This is anathema to God. Equality of opportunity for asset acquisition to later bequeath to offspring regardless of the spirit or the commandments is false teaching. It is leading people astray.

When the whole people become unanimous in keeping the first and great commandment and the second like it, then Christianity will rule in pure, direct, democratic fashion with each person’s loving actions always being his or her vote.

God has kept allowing the conservatives to have what they want, but they are never satisfied. America would never have existed or lasted this long except for the people who are trying to be real liberals. When the Empire does not bring forth the fruit but increasingly turns to asking for more and more for self, despite the efforts of those trying to be real liberals, the Empire will burn. The prophecy says the Empire will not turn. Even so, it is every Christian's duty to do righteousness for its sake. Every bit helps. There is never a time for complacency or procrastination.

Christians and political parties

What of the people, or you if it applies, who are entrenched within the Empire system? What if you are an American and a member of a political party such as the Republican, or the Constitutional, or Libertarian, Democratic, Green, or other? You are to do what your conscience says, always keeping in mind the whole of the Gospel message.

Are you able to stay in a political party and not be compromised? As a Christian, can you vote for that which militarizes? Can you vote for approaching everything from the perspective of masking symptoms rather than affecting the cure that is getting at the root cause? What is the answer to safety and security? Is it thicker walls, deeper secrets, and stronger weapons, or is it curing the disease of selfishness? Can you stay and vote in that which exemplifies unselfishness, or will you cave into compromises that will render your original intent unrecognizable? Will Jesus know you, or will you be too compromised by iniquity? Will you vote no on all measures that are mostly really liberal but onto which the selfish have tacked wicked and churlish devices or illiberal aspects?

Will you abstain from voting and yet be heard and influential in other ways that will not compromise your truly liberal devising? Is the alternative to staying in the system the best thing? Can you do more to change things for the best from as far outside the current system spiritually as possible while still being willing to go into the center of it physically as Jesus did by going into the center of Jerusalem when needed?

Jesus was not in favor of forcing himself upon others. He wanted each person to come to the truth freely and not through coercion. He wanted the souls of all people separated into those who readily recognize and love and, thereafter, do the truth versus those who instantly hate the truth. Bear in mind that his warnings were not coercive. The truth is never coercive. He only appealed to conscience in explaining the rightful healing of the planet that will take place. "Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit." (John 15:2). Jesus did not work within the system for it was coercive.

Jesus is speaking in the first person as both the primordial human being and God. Every human being (branch off that primordial vine with God the root) who does not result in righteousness is made dead so he or she can no longer bring forth unrighteousness. Every human who results in righteousness is not made dead but is made more alive, improved (further cleaned), so he or she will result in even more and greater righteousness, abundance, aid to the poor, etc.

Worldly political parties necessarily involve coercion

The truth is never coercive. The recognition by the diseased of their diseased state and their willingness to do what is healing is the impetus behind Jesus's message and not to threaten into submission. This is important and relevant here concerning whether to work the system from within, because the votes of the majority within the human, traditional sovereignty force those who disagree. We cannot drag people into heaven. Only the willing may enter.

Coercion is attempting to take heaven by force, which never results in the real heaven; otherwise, Jesus would have raised armies of men and sent them to do military battle. He did not do that. He did the opposite. Among all the other things, that is what distinguished him as the Messiah.

Even where a plurality is required, fifty-percent plus one puts representatives in place needed for any plurality. It is still majority rule if the majority is spread out enough. The current democratic way is a forced unity of incompatible spirits. It results in the house divided against itself that cannot stand. Heaven, on the other hand, is unanimous.

Real born-again nation

Of course, the rules within the current worldly system are of, by, and for those who have stacked them in their own favor. Those who have amassed wealth. As is clear, amassing wealth is inherently unfair. Jesus taught it. The wealthy have their false version of the golden rule. Those who have the gold (or money) make the rules. So they do. Where does that leave you unless you are wealthy? Where does it leave the wealthy other than in danger of damnation? Where does it leave you in terms of your vote? God allows the powers that be. The basest of people are at the top or the closest to real liberals are at the top, depending upon the hardheartedness or softheartedness of the people in the fullness of God's plan. The truth is that no leader is without followers. So leaders reflect the people: What they are willing to follow. This is why whole nations and states shall be judged as well as each individual member of each nation and each citizen of each state.
Neither do men put new wine into old bottles: else the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish: but they put new wine into new bottles, and both are preserved. (Matthew 9:17).

(Note: The word "bottles" was translated from the Greek word "ἀσκος," transliterated as "askos," meaning a "leather wine bag" or "bottle." It does not mean here a glass bottle.)

The new wine is the Holy Spirit dwelling within. It comes to dwell in those born again, anew, this time of the spirit becoming spirit. There bodies are no longer just flesh, for now they know they are also spirit manifested: Spirit made incarnate. They have become new wineskins. The Holy Spirit can and will come to dwell within entire nations also unanimously reborn as spiritual nations. Whole nations will be as new wineskins for the new wine. If not, those nations would burst apart and all the wine be lost, for old wineskins cannot hold new wine and the old wine is not the wine of eternal life. Also and in this way, the Holy Spirit can, and will, come to dwell within the whole of humanity.

No part in the prince of darkness of this world

Nevertheless, Christian involvement in organizing Christian things is required. We are to advocate and devise and stand by the truly liberal devices. The difference is that worldly affairs, as "worldly" is viewed as Jesus intended us to see it, is still the domain of darkness. The would-be Christian who engages in the world on the dark level is automatically sucked into the world of compromising Christian ideals. We are to shine the light through teaching and example to displace the worldly way with the new way that has no continuity with the evil of the old. There is only the path out of darkness. The prince of the current world and his way will be cast out. That old worldly way and that prince have no part in Jesus, and Jesus has no part in that world or in that prince.

Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. (John 12:31).

Hereafter I will not talk much with you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me. (John 14:30).

And he spake also a parable unto them; No man putteth a piece of a new garment upon an old; if otherwise, then both the new maketh a rent, and the piece that was taken out of the new agreeth not with the old. (Luke 5:36).

We cannot patch up the old house. The old house sits on unstable ground. It is on a fatally flawed foundation. Its walls are irreparable. Its roof is about to collapse in a slight breeze. Its material is so corrupt, eaten, and riddled, that it cannot be reused. The inhabitants must be remade in the likeness of God. Then they may inhabit their new house on excellent and permanently stable ground. There the proverbial foundation will never shift out from under them. The walls will last forever. The roof will cover them from every storm.

Still engaging the world

Now, to be these new inhabitants in this new house, we cannot advocate just asceticism or monasticism: Never or rarely interacting with others. We are to be about shining the light.

> Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the LORD is risen upon thee. (Isaiah 60:1).

> Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. (Matthew 5:16).

It is about "in earth, as it is in heaven." (Matthew 6:10). Neither are we to be as the hypocrites praying on the street corners to be seen of men. That is just empty vanity. We are to teach and do in earnest. After all, it must not be forgotten that Jesus was roundly criticized for interacting with tax collectors and prostitutes and the like. If one does not interact to teach and do the good news amongst those who are lost, one is not doing the work of God. One is not toiling in God's vineyard. One is not a fisher of men. One is himself or herself lost.

Not to be about the work of saving is to be unsaved.

> Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is... thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men. (Matthew 5:13).

His lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not strawed.
(Matthew 25:26).

Interaction is required even with the powerful, as Jesus did with members of the Sanhedrin (the council of religious elders of the Jews).

That is not selling out to the worldly system. It is not joining them to patch up the fatally flawed, spiritually devoid system. Jesus did not work from within the temple system. He brought his teaching and healing into the temple only to be crucified for doing it and all the other good things he did. He reached the people by being amongst them and not by telling them that they were untouchable, unclean, and beneath contempt, as the hypocrites viewed most of the people and especially those most in need.

Doing this, going amongst the lost, teaching and exemplifying what the powers that be do not do will anger those powers. It will further the division in the country and the world. That must happen.

Stark line

Jesus should have been recognized as the rightful leader by virtue of his virtues, signs, and the prophecy; however, it was not meant to be, as ordained by God. He had to be denied by the elitists (those who were the conservatives of the Sanhedrin—the highest council of the Hebrews) so that the world could be saved by drawing a stark line between the selfish and unselfish, those in danger of damnation versus the delivered, and the dark and the light. It is why they murdered him.

That stark line was drawn for our sakes so that we could see which side to choose. This is the real ballot. This is the real democracy at work, and only righteousness wins in the end. It is inherent. It is foreordained. That is the lesson we must learn and live by fearing nothing, for nothing evil can change it. There is only one living choice. The other choice is death of the spirit and soul. The good shepherd is followed by those who are drawn to the truth, who know the truth when they hear it. "No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day." (John 6:44). That is a form of voting for one's leader: Following the draw of truth. One votes for Jesus with one's heart by putting one's heart into what is everlasting and incorruptible. If one is a Christian, one has chosen to follow the lead of Jesus through the strait gate and down the narrow way and cannot also follow the prince of this world, because this world is not the spiritual world of Jesus. This world has not yet been reborn.

Jesus is the recognized illuminator of the path. No one can see the gate or path with other than that light. The prince of this world is blind to that truth. He cannot lead anyone to it. All paths other than Jesus's are dark and do not lead to God. "Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." (John 14:6). There is no other system that works.

The truth about Capitalism will divide every house

Capitalism is a different system and does not work. Capitalism is not close to the kingdom at all. It is very far from God. This is why capitalists hate Jesus. They serve capital and not God and cannot abide Jesus. This truth will increase the division passed the breaking point, which is both awful and wonderful at the same time and no paradox.

There is such divine beauty in Jesus's message to love God and not serve mammon. Jesus is the first and last, the most important and the greatest, the Alpha and Omega, and we are to be like him (Christlike) to share all. Therefore, we are to be servants ministering as kings and queens and high priests and priestesses and siblings all and friends all, for God is no respecter of persons and that includes gender. It means that God is not impressed by worldly wealth or power.

Your outward projection is conducive to what?

Don't be offended by the truth. In the face of all the needy in the world, God's perfect judicial system will allow the excision of those of knowingly chosen selfish excess. The time is at hand for the people to stop putting forth efforts to draw attention to feed selfishness. Every outward projection is conducive to the light or the dark to one degree or another. Uncontrolled feeding of the selfish appetite is satanic. It ruins. Therefore, one must decide what is contrived satanically to feed into lust and what difference it makes. Cosmetics; perfume; fancy, slutish, or overly expensive clothes; tattoos; jewelry; body piercings; and all manner of conspicuous pride of appearance and property and conspicuous contempt and self-mutilation {negative gain in sadomasochism and other feeding into various forms and degrees of anti-health (unhealthy), anti-wholeness (unwholesome) appetites} are each things that need to be evaluated in terms of where one's mind is and why. Some things can be done to excess. Some things ought not to be done at all. What is vain? What is for conceit?

What promotes unhealthy, excessively selfish appetites? Why cave into the temptation to conform to the spirit of those things?

There is a spectrum from fake to real. The dark side is not genuine. It is false. It is superficial or shallow. It is confused. It rules those who cave into unwholesome temptations. It never denies itself anything. It is of the spirit that robs from even the innocent. It is truly ugly in God's eyes. The light is real, true, deep, and consistent. It is conducive to all that is good. It is the real beauty. Don't promote darkness with your choices of what you present to the world concerning the state of your heart, mind, and soul. Don't cave into the conformity leading toward greater and greater iniquity. Don't fall for the false concept that all these vain things are acceptable under liberalism. That is false liberalism. That is the raving wolf in sheep's clothing.

Long hair or short, beard or shaven, don't have one or the other for show but for what is practical for you at the time—useful, not elaborate, not for lust or false piety. Jesus was not disinterested in how he presented himself, but his concern was with not falling into conformity for the sake of being lauded by others. That's a reward from falsehood.

This is all just one place to start. If one has piercings and tattoos that were of course obtained during confusion and one's heart softens, one will remove all the ornaments and decorations. Until God removes them, there will be scars. Those are the stripes of past confusion. They are the proverbial self-flagellation scars left over from heading in the wrong direction. They are the signs of when there was insufficient love. Let it go.

There are those who use make up to cover over scars. It is not our intention to be insensitive toward them or to make them feel worse. What they are doing is not decoration for excess. There can be immense unsettled emotions involved with such scarring. Suffice it to say here that Jesus pointed out that such scarring does not necessarily mean that one has sinned to a greater or lesser degree than others. I trust that helps comfort those who have imagined that they must have done something horrendously worse than the general level of sinning to deserve greater scarring on the outside. It isn't necessarily so. To the softhearted despite scars, your scars will be removed.
When all hearts are of a sufficient softness, all will be healed, even scars. Whatever you do, contribute to softening.

What is ugly or beautiful?
The condition of the heart determines whether something is ugly or beautiful in God's eyes. The contrived comes out of the hard heart. The real comes out of the soft heart.

There is nothing wrong with good things. Jesus said salt is good, though he would never have partaken of it in excess. He did not chastise Mary for anointing his feet with the pleasant smelling spikenard the scent of which filled the house. He defended her. It was spiritual love on her part and meant to glorify Jesus during his time here with his friends, those who loved him for his truth.

Then took Mary a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment. (John 12:3).

Mary was not being selfish and lustful. Therefore, it wasn't ugly. Beauty does truly come from within in this sense, and God knows it all better than anyone else knows it.

Do not be thrown by seeming paradoxes that do not exist. Jesus came to be glorified not to have his ego massaged. His glorification glorifies righteousness for righteousness' sake. It glorifies God.

Everyone serves everyone

Poor Christians are to receive the service of others, for though it is more blessed to give than to receive, there must be those who will receive that others may give. Jesus received the gift of love from Mary. Christians are to share what they are given, even with the once high-and-mighty and perhaps still haughty and proud but nevertheless needy (spiritually in need of truth). Receivers, in their turn, are to minister to yet others in need. Everyone serves everyone. No one is master without serving. No one serves without also being master. One is recompensed without that being one's motivation. The motivation is the good of each and all. Jesus was ministered unto by the angels. The angels were those who served him and thereby glorified him. He received this while he ministered to others. It is the soft-hearted way. For the hardhearted, God will allow the haughty and conceited to be humbled so they may come to understand the error of their ways. They will be made to stink, lose their hair, have open sores, and be made ugly. They will have to walk naked and ashamed. It has happened before. The devil has been let out to descend upon the high and mighty selfish hoarders and oppressors as well as the innocent. It will happen again to those least expecting it. They see themselves as above it and beyond its reach. They say it cannot happen here and that their will determines that. They will curse God to their utter peril for they will have brought it all on themselves. God though will not forsake the innocent. God will resurrect the just. What goes around will come around. If they make concentration camps, they will be punished in the here and now or in the hereafter. Evil will have its revenge. Since they have ignored the pleas of the poor, they will all be brought lower than the lowest.

Therefore the LORD will smite with a scab the crown of the head of the daughters of Zion, and the LORD will discover their secret parts. In that day the Lord will take away the bravery of their tinkling ornaments about their feet, and their cauls, and their round tires like the moon, The chains, and the bracelets, and the mufflers, The bonnets, and the ornaments of the legs, and the headbands, and the tablets, and the earrings, The rings, and nose jewels, The changeable suits of apparel, and the mantles, and the wimples, and the crisping pins, The glasses, and the fine linen, and the hoods, and the vails. And it shall come to pass, that instead of sweet smell there shall be stink; and instead of a girdle a rent; and instead of well set hair baldness; and instead of a stomacher a girding of sackcloth; and burning instead of beauty. (Isaiah 3:17-24).

We don't wish this on anyone. Repentance is right.
We are to see through the haughty and proud darkness (the son of perdition) that seeks to confuse and change the time of fulfillment of the prophecy. He seeks any means to prolong his grasp on the world including by still persecuting, judging, condemning, sentencing, and murdering. One fails to recognize that son of perdition when one's heart is not exclusively with God and God's righteousness.

The light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light. But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness! (Matthew 6:22-23).

Money is of the root of evil

We are not to have our faith in the system of mammon, money, capitalism. This is why 1 Timothy 6:10 says the following:

For the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

The love of money is the same love as for all lusting. That love, that root, branched out as the worldly system that began when humans stopped living as the birds and the plants, being fed and clothed as provided for by God, by trusting in God. They started a system of faith in themselves as gods not needing God and through their negative knowledge of greed, violence, and depravity. They are of that forbidden fruit of selfishness. They began to love their system more than they loved God or God's system. They began to molest and tear up God's earth without concern except for self to accumulate provisioning in the absence of faith in God to provide through God's beloved garden. They rebelled against the precept of love: The divine law of God. They fought against the system where if they would have remained righteous, they would have been entrusted with real liberty from evil and deprivation and all the pains associated with the cruelty of humans visited upon the patient, humble, and gentle. They started, fell in love with, and put their faith in the apostate system known as money and its more evil contagious form known as capitalism. That private, selfish, un-sharing system has caused great injustice and unfair disparity among people. It is crooked, lopsided, inherently fractured, and will be rent (ripped) in two from top to bottom and fall to dust. Hallelujah!

Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have storehouse nor barn; and God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls? (Luke 12:24).

And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin. (Matthew 6:28).
Money (worldly wealth) robs of faith. Money separates from God. Money is a great tempter. With it, people buy their way into all manner of sin always moving further and further from God. With the build up of money with the few, there are more and more who go with less than subsistence. The system of mammon steals the inheritance. It buys up the land the people are to live on (the commons) that was given to all by God. It is an evil system devised by a selfish spirit. No money? No food! It wasn't always so. This is the truth that irritates the greedy to no end. They want to insist that their system is what takes care of the people. What a lie! They have brainwashed themselves into believing that their way is better than God's. Many have forgotten why they invented their scheme: Selfishness. Many do not see their scheme anymore, because they are too close to it: Myopic. Many do not see the harm it does. Many insist what they call benefits outweigh the depravation, pollution, corruption, and ruination their system has caused billions of souls and the earth itself.

Capitalism is pharaoh

How hard is it to let go of this selfish system of faith in money and not in God? The system of money has made it difficult to escape. Its adherents put restrictions on everyone's movements. It tries desperately to hold everyone. Remember, it is as Pharaoh denying God's command to let the people go out of slavery.
And Pharaoh said, I will let you go, that ye may sacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderness; only ye shall not go very far away: intreat for me.
(Exodus 8:28).

The world is full of slavery right now. Forced labor is rampant throughout the world. Trafficking in human slaves exists in all the rich nations. People are smuggled into the US to serve as sex slaves and all manner of other forms of slaves. It is deplorable and would not exist were it not for the spirit of mammon and its selfish, dull worshippers.

The world is becoming ever more so a world of mammon seekers. The governments everywhere are becoming about commerce and worldly profit. There are those involved within who attempt to curb it, but they do so in vain.

It cannot be transformed, only be displaced

If you try to use the rules in the Constitution of the United States of America and it appears to the greedy that you might succeed, they will stop at nothing to stop you. The only way to change is to change within in a way that they cannot touch. That is what Jesus demonstrated. In the end, they could not touch him, because he was more than his body. The only way to change things is by teaching and doing in accordance with the spirit of the first and great commandment and the second like it. That truth will pierce through all mundane, clampdown efforts against exercising, without fear or intimidation, the full spirit of godliness. The conservatives and self-styled neo's of various stripes cannot eliminate the souls of the just.

That the Constitution of the United States of America has provisions for amending it, but enough conservatives would first have to have a complete change of heart. Besides, amending the US Constitution would result in coerciveness that is not the Christian way. Souls cannot be forced to drink the living water. Few there are who will find the narrow way that is that change of heart. By that time, that Constitution will no longer exist. It will just fade away as the stars and stripes will fade away symbolizing the fading past, divided, and false glory.

This will infuriate some who do not know that the flag of the Empire is not God's banner. It is not the symbol of Christianity. It is the symbol of all that is done by that government which it represents. It is the symbol of mammon worship, for that is what it is founded upon and not Christianity, else all things would be held in common under that banner and there would be no greed, violence, or depravity under it, which is far from the case.

For any new constitutional convention to be proper, it would end up with the spirit of the first and great commandment and the second like it. That spirit is to be written on the hearts of everyone. That has always been the real constitution anyway. Anything else comes from evil.
Checks and balances

They speak and write of mundane checks and balances. The judgment seat is each person's unselfish conscience. The executive is each person's good deeds. The legislature is each person's faith in the will of God that is the great and small commandments. They all reside in each. They do not check each other. They do not balance each other. Each exercised infinitely not only does not impede the other but actually enhances all three. All weight is given to all three and to each. Checks and balances are of the house divided. They are built-in disunity. The hearts of the people can bring all three down into the bottomless pit. They do not guarantee righteousness but rather falling short.

Weaning the world off the system of mammon

The constitution of the heart can only be changed by coming out of bondage to mammon by converting to true Christianity. You still cannot see the ultimate world without money? Who will need it when all say to all others that you have done what you are able, what God has put upon your heart to do, what God has given you to be able to do? Who will need it when all actually do what each is able to do? Let us all share the bounty given to all by God. That is the spirit. Christianity is about that spirit. It is about weaning the real world from the false world of faith in mammon and people without God.

The world before the fall to selfishness was a different world from the world today. The false world now is the same one since Babylon, a great city of human endeavor, the pride of the spirit of the great hunter-builder, Nimrod, the rebellious one, who will be explained further on.
The real world to come means life for the just.
The current world of mammon will be no longer. This age of worldly empire under the general state of rebellion against sanity that is by definition, God, will have ceased to exist. The meek (the patient and humble) shall inherit the earth in that age. The world will be fully Christian in the true sense of the term "Christian": Liberated from the dominance of selfishness, evil, insanity, greed, violence, depravity, lust, and the rest. That will happen after separation, division, and persecution have reached a fever pitch and the fires have raged and finally burned the evil out of the world, literally and figuratively. Until then, the Christian must never lose sight of the spiritually polluting effect of the love of worldly affairs and worldly profits that physically and spiritually have ruined so much of the planet and polluted the people.

The spiritual and physical corruption
That love of money (spirit of darkness) pollutes spiritually and physically. The spirit in which one thinks, speaks, and acts, is physically manifested as brain matter. That love of money corrupts the actual matter of the brain, the form. It spreads as the disease it is. It creates more of itself until it devours the entire being and soul if one lets it. It is further manifested and reflected in the result of environmental manipulation external to the body.
Everything you possess is a manifestation and reflection of your very brain tissue and the spirit that went into forming it. The effect on the greater environment of all that you possess is also that manifestation. The spiritual love of money manifests negatively throughout the environment and negatively effects the minds and souls of others who are overcome by the temptation it poses for them. They receive that evil spirit and it manifests in the transformation of their brain matter also. The love of money is a contagion. The love of God is the inoculation against that enslaving disease.

Spirit flows throughout this known (perceived) physical plane. The only reason we do not have a language to speak of it plainly and clearly is because our perceptions have been limited and that limits the meaning we assign to the words we are already using. We think of spirit as vague while its reflection is right there as tangible as anything else that is reflected at us and from us. Manifestation is even more than this reflection. It is the very spirit incarnate for those who believe it. Yet, the spirit more.

We sit in what is called a physical realm that is surrounded by, and is part of, what is called a metaphysical realm, which simply means a realm most do not perceive and others perceive by what is reflected (manifested) by it. There is more going on then meets the eye of the many. All is reflective. Our fruits (results, effects) reflect who we were, are, and are becoming, exactly. They reflect what we are and they are what we are at the same time. This too is no paradox.
God is what God will be at any given moment and eternally. We are in the flow God reveals. God is what God does, even if what God is doing is beyond the understanding of the many. This is why Jesus said that when anyone saw him, he or she was seeing God our Father. He said this even though he also said his Father was greater than he. This is why when anyone sees a real Christian, he or she is seeing Jesus and God. God abides (lives) in the Christian and the Christian abides in God. It is not a matter merely of semantics. Jesus was actually God, because God was in him and he was in God, because Jesus knew it without doubt. The same holds true for all Christians. Becoming the child of God in whom God abides and in whom God may be seen is not blasphemy. It is exactly what Jesus wants all Christians to understand so that they will rise above the temptation of the proverbial serpent and forbidden fruit as he did and be saved: Be one again with God. God saves!

To help in the use of that language, consider that there is the non-living, such as rocks, in the sense that rocks do not reflect the same breath of life that we do. Rocks, per se, do not live as we do. This is one reason why an idol of stone is always far from being God. God could though transform rocks into people with the breath of life in them. John the Baptist said, "God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham." (Matthew 3:9). This is not to say that the rocks are not supported spiritually. They exist solely because God continues their existence, the same God of Jesus. Minerals are in our bodies. Our bodies are alive of the first birth of water (from our mother's wombs). The minerals are in that sense part of an animated body. When the breath of that life leaves the body it is the death of that body. The minerals are no longer to be used for that vessel. The soul though is a different matter. It may continue on without the body.

There is the spiritual life that is the breath of the Holy Spirit. It is the indwelling of truth. It is, among other things, the mark of God for resurrection, for those who have the truth to do justice.

On a higher level still, the body need never experience death of the flesh. Rather, it transfigures before experiencing death. Jesus was transfigured in life and resurrected from death that is a type of transfiguration and then was even ascended back where he came from. His actual body was transformed in toto to a higher level of existence. Some would say a different dimension, although that suggests to some that it is all merely a matter of human physics while in reality it will always transcend the scientific method, because science is inherently stuck below the knowledge that God may, and does, operate also beyond the scientific laws of duplicability.

It is the certainty of faith in the consciousness of God.

God is hidden from those who cannot believe beyond mundane science.

Power in the words

The scientific method was not built upon the language of the revelation. It is in denial of it. It insisted upon naming everything over again.
This is especially so in fields half in and half out of the scientific method such as psychology. Rather than calling it the study of the soul or soul study, which is what the word "psychology" means they decided to give their new field a name not in continuity with the revelation. Granted, English has many Greek root words, etc. Nevertheless, the fact of naming-systems that deliberately break with the language of the revelation are revealing in that they are designed to keep the uninitiated at bay and in awe. The word "soul" attaches to God, and many psychologists wanted to dumb that down so that the "psych" in psychology would conjure up mind without the necessary connection to God. This was to create a dependency upon the psychologists, psychiatrists, and psychoanalyst for knowledge of the mind, made dimmer by the dumbed-down notion of term "psyche."

This shifted the attention of the people away from the animating force of God to the merely mundane thought processes of the individual.

The implications concerning the term "soul" would have been too great. Anyone could claim direct revelation. In that case, who would have looked to psychologists for healing? That would have spoiled the priesthood of psychology.

The new commandment of Jesus is the greatest psychological message that will ever be rendered. It is the cure for all mental illness. Those currently calling themselves psychologists will not come up with anything better, ever. This is not to say that everything they say is worthless. Their religion of the pseudoscience that is psychology just fails to give God all the credit. In that sense, their whole belief system is based upon ultimate falsehood. (This is a case where context defines the meanings of the terms being used.) Their group sessions, for instance, reminds one of Matthew 18:16-17, as follows:

But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church.

The truth about the religion of psychology holds true also for economics. Economists are the priests of the religion of mammon. It is disingenuous to try to obscure that fact. It is a faith-based system. Why do you think they talk about consumer psychology having such an impact upon their religious manifestations or what money-love brings forth? If the soul begins to be shaken in its faith in money, the priests and high priests and princes and highest prince will fall.

It is also why the Roman church refused for so long to use anything but Latin. Control the language, and control the minds. Expose the language and free the minds.

The economists control the language of their faith just as the psychologists control theirs and all the other disciples of the various other ostensible disciplines control theirs. That way, they are the experts and the common people are tricked into imagining they are beholden. Then they may be herded into greed, violence, indifference, and conformity to all the rest of the antichristian message. This is where Jesus began, and his accomplishment is still unraveling the prince of this world and will continue until that prince is no longer.

In general even though the Roman church had translated scripture in the vernacular (common language spoken by the people of a country or locality), the Roman church used the Vulgate (Latin Bible). They did this even though the locals in many places did not understand Latin. Church services were also in Latin. This was intentional, subconsciously to some degree, so that the hierarchical powers could retain control. After all, if the local people didn't know what was written or being said, the clergy could require them to do pretty much anything and still claim religious authority even if it differed from the scripture. It did differ of course, since that Roman church, its popes, and all the rest of its clergy never asked of the whole of the congregation to hold all things in common seeing to it that none went without. They reserved that to themselves—the mistake.

Pope John Paul II on capitalism

However, whenever a pope does speak out a little, it is not well covered in the Western mainstream media. For instance, pope John Paul II said disparaging and correct things about capitalism. He called consumerism a "virus." He said capitalism can be "neopaganism." He also said that, "the exploitation produced by inhuman capitalism is a real evil." John Paul II called that exploitation "Marxism's kernel of truth." With such statements, one could begin thinking that John Paul II could have written this work.
Continuing error of popes

However, he did not know how to manage the difference between militant liberation theology and the real social Gospel that most assuredly does not mean, contrary to Vatican teaching under John Paul II and Benedict XVI, placing social devices secondary to other ministerial concerns. Real liberal devices (not anything on the order of market economics) and ministering to the flock are one and the same. John Paul II made the mistake of thinking that a humane mask on capitalism extends to the heart. It doesn’t. It cannot. The foundation of capitalism is selfishness that is evil. Nothing can be done with capitalism to alter that. It is inherently old wineskin.

Pope Benedict XVI has also started out on the wrong foot with his first encyclical in stating that the church is not responsible for social justice but the state is. Here the pope makes his error stemming from his mistaken view of charity. He does not understand the full revelation. He does not yet understand that the church is not to be simply a charitable intermediary passing on the handouts of the rich to the poor but rather the actual source. The people who are the church are to bring forth in abundance for all with all in common. This then is full-time charity. It is through this political economy that the state is the church. He misses the conflationary point of the revelation where the paradox of church and state disappears. There is no imposing on the people when the people provide for each other. He speaks of faith and politics meeting and faith being beyond reason. However, in the revelation, faith and politics and reason are all one. Christianity is the ideology to save the world. It is the only proper way to order the world. The pope wrote as follows:

When we consider the immensity of others’ needs, we can, on the one hand, be driven towards an ideology that would aim at doing what God’s governance of the world apparently cannot: fully resolving every problem.

This misses the point that God is not governing this world. The prince of this world is governing it, because hearts wax cold and follow the wrong voice. The idealism of Jesus put into action most certainly is God’s governance come to earth and will definitely resolve every problem. This is the true faith. Everything else is doubt. "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done." Ask God and not your own intellect, brother Benedict, and listen. God is not silent.

The bishops of Rome, of course, have declared a different purpose for the use of Latin all those years. They have said that the use of Latin protects against revisionism in interpretation. This is true to a degree. It protects against revising incorrect traditions (interpretations) as well, hence the church never having been called by any bishop of Rome to give all for the poor and share all in common as each has need and each has gifts.

John Wycliffe (died 1384) translated the whole New Testament from Latin into English. His friend translated the Old Testament so the whole Bible was in English. It was not the first translation of scripture into English, but it did signal the beginning of opening up the scriptures directly to those literate in that vernacular (English). Nevertheless, it wasn't until my lifetime that the Roman church finally acquiesced, allowing the scripture and service to be in the vernacular. Why did they hold out so long if not in an attempt to keep a tight grip upon the people's minds not allowing them to read and hear in their own first languages? The very fact that The Bible is available in English, has allowed me, without having had to learn Hebrew, Greek, or Latin, to read firsthand, for instance, that the Apostles lived with all things in common. It has allowed me to read Isaiah about the real liberalism. It has allowed me to read the words of Jesus directly and without the filtering of the hierarchical church that never gave its all to living the message. It has allowed me to read that I could eat of the real bread directly and that I could become one with God and Jesus and the disciples and saints all without any intermediary other than the Holy Spirit discovered through the gate and on the path Jesus blazed to heaven.

We have the scientific, the psychologic, economic, and so-called religious all with their adherents attempting to control the language to control the thoughts and, therefore, minds and souls of people. The scientists do not use the language of the revelation, because they do not wish to build in continuity with it. They cannot own it without sharing it. They cannot be its high priests exclusive of all other believers. They attempt to shoot down the language of Jesus as not provable, as if their language is provable. That is not to say that Jesus's is not, for it alone will be born out.
We would be infinitely further along had we worked on our faith rather than greed and lust. Jesus's language is not all metaphorical, figure-of-speech type language. It also relates actual things in very literal terms. Things really are more than they have been given to appear by the nonbelievers. They just have not wanted to believe what they can not stick their fingers in firsthand. They want proof but only on their terms. Of course, how can anyone prove to those bound and determined to disregard all evidence that the world is not flat? People who are bound and determined to insist that no one has proven that the Nazi concentration camps existed can maintain that position despite what anyone else tells them or shows them. People can remain convinced that no humans have been to the moon: That it was all faked. They can even insist that all the jets taking off and landing at all the airports in the world are just figments of the imagination, but where then is the common ground for communication?

The Apostles were not lying about what they saw and experienced. They were not speaking in purely poetic terms with poetic license. When they said Jesus ascended into heaven and they were standing their looking up at the sky, they were really standing their looking up at the sky. Sky here isn't a connotation for a metaphysical heaven only within the mind. This kind of thinking makes it difficult for intellectual types to accept the Gospel. That is the point though. The intellectuals of Jesus's time didn't believe the signs and miracles that were seen firsthand by thousands. The self-styled wise didn't get it.
And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them. (Matthew 15:30).

The blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised. (Luke 7:22).

The Gospel is for the common people who grasp on faith. The good fruit of Jesus, his words and deeds, could not have been coming from a madman. He was not delusional. The common people could see that. They knew they could trust him more than they could trust those who were out to murder him. That is why so many of them were physically and miraculously cured of diseases that today's science and medicine has yet to cure.

God cured the people, and science cannot seem to bring itself to believe that, even though it believes what it finds in test tubes. The haughty hate it. They do not want to be below anything.

It is a shame. They forget being children with all the promise that that held. Even if you were severely abused, when it was on-going, you wanted to be saved. You still want to be saved. Now here it is.

The metaphysical can be seen

"Meta" means beyond and higher. "Physical" as used in the term "metaphysical" means the matter and energy dealt with by the science of physics. Most nonscientists think of it as the natural and material. All these terms are subject to context ranging from subtle to radical differences.

Whatever physics discovers that it did not apprehend before increases the realm of the physical for the physicists and, thereby, shrinks, in the minds of most physicists, the imagined realm of those who believe in spirit. This is a lack of appreciation for the infinite. It is also to misunderstand the conflation of matter, energy, and spirit that will be made manifest in the ages to come.

What is called the metaphysical can be apprehended even from science where one sees (detects and measures) particles popping in and out of existence (really just the currently mundane realm of scientific perception). The particles were immaterial (not detectable in ways that can convince the "physical senses" of the scientists) and then materialized and then dematerialized, or they were somewhere else or in some other form and the wizards (scientists) are simply able to detect them before they leave or take on another, or resume, a form undetectable by the wizards.

God though knows exactly what happened and where everything was, is, and will be.

Throughout such events, no scientist is able to know through science what is happening on the other side, in the unseen realm so to speak.

When science sees more solely through the scientific method in use today, there is always more left unseen than that science sees. This is not the so-called "God of the gaps" as the atheists put it.
They say that for the theist, God is constantly pushed back and only fills the voids as yet unfilled by the exponential increases in scientific knowledge. This makes sense to them, the atheistic scientists and atheistic philosophers of science, only because they don't understand that God created matter, energy, and nature.

As they discover things, it is God revealing the workings of that part of the creation to them. It certainly doesn't guarantee their grasping the living nature of God and the proper placing of their findings within the larger, infinite picture.

God did not do what God did vis-à-vis Jesus due to Jesus having conducted tests to find out about God. God is emotionally and sensorially convincing only to those who believe, which by definition precludes testing (doubt). God reveals God to those who ask, seek, and knock in secret for what is beyond what human science can produce. God makes things happen that are beyond the mundane understanding of coincidence, randomness, chance, accident. In fact, for God there are not such things. Those terms reflect human ignorance. All things are foreseen and controlled. The creation is whatever God's consciousness makes of it.

We get what we deserve, what we merit, what we choose under free will. If we choose evil, we get evil. We have not been living the new commandment, so we have not reaped what living the new commandment in full faith sows.

God is here, alive (beyond the mere life defined by biologists), and interacting with individual souls and with souls collectively. This is known to those to whom God has openly revealed God. These people are the most receptive, because they are the most repentant. They are the most willing to live the new commandment. The sciences are to the scientists on a trajectory to harness and control in Godlike fashion the forces of God’s natural creation. This is the point where the selfish will be precluded and the point where heaven and earth will conflate in the new world.

Perceptions will allow the unseen to be seen. The now unseen shall be made manifest by reason of worthiness and not testing or doubt. Certainty will bring forth the heavenly transformation of the people and the world. Doubt will be known for the unenlightenment that it is.

The gaps are only those created by the traditions of men and not God. Jesus didn't tell the medieval church to hold to the positions which the mundanely observant overturned. The Holy Spirit overturned those traditions. Just because some self-styled Christians lorded it over others (which is an antichrist thing to be doing), do you think God didn't know that the earth was round until a human being on earth informed God?

The atheistic scientists say that every time science makes a discovery about natural phenomena, theists simply claim that God is to be found in the gaps of scientific knowledge. They mean by this that their discoveries actually are uncovering where God never was. That's blind. God is still right there where they are making their pride-filled, puffed-up so-called discoveries. God is still maintaining everything through God's will. God is holding them together. God is the source of all forces contemplated by human physics, chemistry, and biology.

The reality is that love is the harmonics of existence and explains all in truth. There is a place of extinction, and it is the polar opposite of love, truth, and peace. God is reality.

Semantic blockages

The problem lies in limited comprehension that cuts off the full import, meanings, of the words. The word "light" as meaning "truth" is more than a metaphor. The light that is what scientists call photons is actually the polar opposite of that which seeks to devour it by definition. This may seem a quaint notion. Some people think it is quaint that earth, wind, fire, water, and underlying pneuma (spirit) are still the elements and the elemental force. Solid, gas, energy, liquid, and life force in given combinations, given quantities, and qualities are still valid on their level are they not, or is language impossible?

They have their gravity, strong and weak nuclear forces, and electromagnetism. There is also the life force.

It will become common knowledge that God is on both sides (all sides) knowing all while we are only able to see from our perspective that is forever beholden to God's sharing nature. God, by definition, knows what science does not know no matter how much science ever comes to know through its method.
If the meaning of science changes to incorporate this knowledge, then science will no longer be operating in the dark. It will no longer be used for any selfish purpose but rather solely for unselfish reasons. Then it will discover at an amazing rate, because it will transcend itself and transform into faith in God to do what it could never do absent God. Isn't that circular? Yes, but true. When scientists turn only to unselfishness, humanitarianism, and away from personal profit and when they develop ecological and pure-organic understanding that is part of God's way for us, on the path, they turn toward righteousness and godliness. When they continue that turning all the way, they find the new wineskin and new wine with the new name connecting to the conceptualization transcending the current methodology: Christianity, real Christianity.

Otherwise, they will bring forth the abomination of desolation.

You've heard of mind over matter. Well, divine healing and also transcending all matter is spirit over matter.

Contrary to the diminishment of rabbinic thinkers such as Maimonides and some Islamic thinkers as well, when one was looking at Jesus, one was actually looking at God. God manifested in Jesus. God anthropomorphized.

God is what God is. God is what God does. God will be what God will be. If this were not so, humanity would be hopeless of ultimate enlightenment that is salvation, complete deliverance from evil, and one with godliness. To think otherwise is to conclude that ultimate enlightenment can be held by other than God.
It is to think that those who completely overcome temptation and sin and become, therefore, perfectly good could be other than God.

Perfect unity
Concerning those who completely overcome temptation and sin, God abides, lives, completely in them and they abide completely in God, no other. They each then abide completely in each other as one God. This is no contradiction. It is at oneness. It is the unity. It is without distance from God. It is the current living state, condition, form, etc, of Jesus Christ in the real heaven. It is the opposite of apostasy. It is complete atonement. Perhaps the naysayers believe that one cannot ever overcome, even given eternity.

Dogs in the manger
These detractors of Jesus are the dogs in the manger. They will tell you that you cannot say or do or be the things that Jesus said you are to say and do and be, because, they will say, you are not Jesus or you are not God or you have sinned or all manner of excuses. They will say those things even though Jesus said that his spirit and God's will dwell within you.

Whom do you trust, Joseph Caiaphas or Jesus?
Whom do you trust, the spirit and minds that murdered Jesus and that spirit that secretly envies him still and covets his kingdom or the spirit and mind of Jesus who came to save the world from the dogs in the manger who hate and cannot eat his real bread of peace, love, justice, and truth but stand in the way of others who love it and can eat it? They say you are what you eat. That was Jesus's point.

But Jesus held his peace, And the high priest answered and said unto him, I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ, the Son of God. Jesus saith unto him, Thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven. Then the high priest rent his clothes, saying, He hath spoken blasphemy; what further need have we of witnesses?

behold, now ye have heard his blasphemy. (Matthew 26:63-65).

The rabbinical (Jewish masters) trial of Jesus

Consider those verses. Whom are you going to trust? Jesus was standing there standing by everything he had said and done. There also was the high priest, Joseph Caiaphas, saying that Jesus had blasphemed when Jesus was being nothing but true to the Jewish scripture. All those who could attest to Jesus's teachings and deeds were not allowed to witness for Jesus. It was a kangaroo court. The foxes were in charge of guarding the chicken coop.

Now, what did the high priest, Joseph Caiaphas, represent? How do we recognize him? He was the high priest of whole burnt offerings rather than mercy. He was the high priest of liturgical cleansings, getting the dirt off the outside of things rather than truly purifying internally. Rather than serving the poor and suffering, he was the high priest of not allowing the sick, lame, and unwashed into the innermost sanctum of the temple that he, the high priest, claimed was God's temple. He was the high priest of having thieves operate within the temple rather than leading the people in righteousness. He was the high priest of temporal wealth and temporal power, especially by virtue of his immediate family, rather than the high priest of eternal justice that is casteless. Rather than acknowledging Jesus's rightful place by virtue of Jesus's teachings and deeds that Jesus was rightly sharing freely and openly with all, he was the high priest of those conservative traditionalists whom he sent to challenge Jesus whom Jesus never failed to confute. He was the high priest of convincing the rest to murder an innocent prophet, the Messiah, for the sake of keeping the Romans from coming to take away all their wealth and power, which nevertheless happened as was God's very plan.

That was, Joseph Caiaphas, the high priest. Those were just some of the things that reflected his true being. There he was claiming that Jesus had blasphemed. Now by extension of all that he reflected, how could he have known better than Jesus? Only one of them was right, either the high priest or Jesus. Jesus had either blasphemed or he had not.

The high priest represented everything that had become what was at the time traditionally held by most of those in the center of the Jewish world. Jesus though said that all those traditions were not always so. He taught that there was a better time before them and that, therefore, there is a better way than holding to them. Jesus taught that the high priest's traditions were false and that they led to all sorts of harm to all the people.

Pharisaic versus Christian principles

Which set of principles and whom do you trust?

The high priest: Whole burnt offerings; liturgical cleansings; not allowing the sick, lame, and unwashed deep in the temple; having thieves operate within the temple; temporal wealth and temporal power; those whom challenged Jesus whom Jesus never failed to confute; and murdering the innocent prophets.

Jesus: Mercy; purifying internally; serving the poor and those suffering and inviting them into God's temple; healing people; leading the people into righteousness; eternal justice and castelessness; acknowledging Jesus's rightful place by virtue of Jesus's teachings and deeds that Jesus was rightly sharing freely and openly with all the willing.

Whom are you going to believe? When the thoughts are transformed by the reception of truth, the physical brain is transformed. Are you going to disbelieve this just because there are those who do not want you to receive the truth? Can anyone doubt that the truth transforms the actual matter that is the human brain? The point of this is to show that transformation, for better or worse depending upon one's heart, is occurring even as one reads this. Just extend that transformational reality out and it begins to give some insight into how Jesus transfigured, resurrected, ascended, and transcended. He is still alive in more than indwelling with us. Think of it.

As for thinking about Christ and God in this perspective, the realm of what is possible is boundless. It goes beyond transfiguration, resurrection, and ascension to all power conceivable by God. Knowing all at once every thought every human being ever had right up to the present is a given for God. God knows the number and name of everything in existence.

Our limitations, however, rest in our hearts. They rest according to our trustworthiness as acceptable or unacceptable to God. Those who are called and chosen are the transceivers of the truth. That truth includes that God will share all with the trustworthy as they measure up to the absolute truth by virtue of their deeds that prove their hearts. They now receive from the Holy Spirit what they need to know. They then transmit that as word and deed. It is manifest, there to be seen for what it is.

The false hearted make themselves furious at the thought of the real Jesus

This kind of talk infuriates the conservatives and many of the various self-styled neo's. They love the antichrist status quo. Jesus hates it, and so do I. So ought you. Those of human doctrines hate the implications of being required to become at one with God. This cannot be overstressed. They demand supremacy. They demand that their egos be placed ahead of the truth. Hiding behind their doctrines held out to be the precepts of God, they seek to deny the responsibility for doing the required deeds to produce the fruit whereby they would be known as true Christians. They subvert the meaning of Christianity in order to avoid going without many of their excessive possessions for the sake of the poor and then sharing all with all. It is terrible. The difference lies in once one knows what one does about it. It begins with feeding all the starving of the planet now and gladly. The conservatives who do not hear the truth and do not convert to real liberalism become more and more annoyed and finally find unselfish expectations tedious. That attitude of theirs will serve to increase division and fulfill the prophecy bringing on the Day of Judgment and deliverance, so stick with the truth no matter how much persecution they dish out and no matter how much evil attempts to test you.

Even though they make themselves furious, alas, there is no malicious intent in any of this. This is not an injurious attack. It is no more harmful than Jesus turning over the tables in the temple. There is no bitterness or ill will in it. It is the call to be purged. It uses no practices abominable in the sight of God. It is the call to be purged. It uses no practices abominable in the sight of God. It is not a threat. "Woe unto you that desire the day of the LORD! to what end is it for you? the day of the LORD is darkness, and not light." (Amos 5:18). At the same time, "Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." (Matthew 5:12).

We are heartened to know that one day, after the darkness has passed, all the oppressed will be freed from the tyranny of the dominance of that darkness, mammon worship, depravity, violence, and all the rest of the selfish evils of this world; yet, the wailing and gnashing of teeth will be awful to the edge of perseverance. What do the secular and religious leaders of the conservative-Christian movement expect?

Yea also, because he transgresseth by wine, he is a proud man, neither keepeth at home, who enlargeth his desire as hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapeth unto him all people:

Shall not all these take up a parable against him, and a taunting proverb against him, and say, Woe to him that increaseth that which is not his! how long? and to him that ladeth himself with thick clay! Shall they not rise up suddenly that shall bite thee, and awake that shall vex thee, and thou shalt be for booties unto them? (Habakkuk 2:5-7).

Woe to him that increaseth that which is not his! The world does not belong to the US or Israel unless they share it in accordance with the teachings of Jesus Christ. If they fail in that, they will be bitten and vexed and their possessions shall be the gain of others.
Dividing houses

We are all one family in the flesh. No one is unrelated to everyone else by flesh. At the very least, we are all brothers and sisters in the flesh. Yet, some wish to lord it over all others for their own selfish reasons. Jesus did not wish to lord it over anyone. They rejected him and not the other way around. It is over this that families will have members who will see the light while others in those families will see it all as a great threat to their perceived comfortable, pleasant, placated, complacent lives. The implications that they must repent will cause fear, anger, hatred, and persecution. The implications mean facing their own previous sins. "For there is nothing hid, which shall not be manifested." (Mark 4:22). It is all seen you know. The fruit tells all about the branch, trunk, root, soil, etc.

Those who love truth will be relentless in pursuing righteousness. They claim in the name of truth the due inheritance that belongs to everyone and that has been stolen by the greedy. God will exact it. Those who fear truth will be equally relentless working to isolate the truth seekers throwing hurdles in their path. Relationships will disintegrate. Heels will dig in. What is an opportunity for mutual growth in the Holy Spirit of truth will turn into a walk for the few through the strait gate and down the narrow way to God.

There will be conservatives of modest means, by American standards, who will take exception. They will say that they are walking the narrow way. They will take exception to all the references to the rich and conservative in one breath. However, modest by American standards is rich by world standards. Also, conservatives are so heavily involved in the political arena, through their elected officials, that each conservative voter has a direct responsibility for the policies of American worldly gain, war, and neglect of the poor. Neoconservatives aspire to power, control, and riches. People of so-called modest means vicariously live the life of worldly power, control, and riches. They live it through pride in both the illusion and reality of American worldly riches and US military prowess. The question is, is one a rich conservative in one’s heart?

Taking back America

Deeds do tell whether one is a rich conservative in one’s heart. Their motto of taking back America for Christianity and family values is simply a distortion of Christianity. They are knowingly blending American capitalism with their, therefore, fraudulent vision of Christianity.

The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully: And he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to bestow my fruits? And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods. And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry. But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided? So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God. (Parable of the rich fool: Luke 12:16-21).

There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day: And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate, full of sores, And desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table: moreover the dogs came and licked his sores. And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried; And in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom. And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame. But Abraham said, Son, remember that thou in thy lifetime receivedst they good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented. And beside all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, that would come from thence. Then he said, I pray thee therefore, father, that thou wouldest send him to my father's house: For I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment. Abraham saith unto him, They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them. And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one went unto them from the dead, they will repent. And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead. (Parable of the rich man and Lazarus: Luke 16:19-31).

The teachings in these parables that are analogies are not emphasized in the churches of the so-called conservative Christians. The rich and aspiring rich have been left at ease to ignore them. That is in the process of ending now. Once these teachings are placed at the forefront where they belong with the entire message of Jesus, for it is all one message, those who sought and have found the real truth about what is plaguing the world will confront the rich with the truth as never before. The response of the rich will be to persecute even their own brothers rather than acknowledge the truth of Jesus's teachings about worldly riches. As I said, even though I will show in this work that it is irrefutable that a Christian may not also be a conservative, that proof will serve to increase division.
Chapter 4  This work Ought to Cause Conflation

Even though the contents of this work ought to cause all to conflate by the Holy Spirit of truth, that great conflation will include only true Christians who will be the only ones to inherit the kingdom. All will not turn before that time.

Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. (John 3:3).

Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh: and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit. (John 3:5-8).

We are born of our mother's water (amniotic fluid), unless science, technology, and medicine interfere. Regardless, we are only flesh until we are begotten of the spirit that has us doing God's will and not the will of our flesh. Those born of the spirit do God's will and not their own. They are not willful: Selfish (churlish or villainous). Rather than please themselves, they do what pleases God. They serve. The spirit leads them. They follow. They do that in faith for righteousness' sake. They are led to conflation: The real peace and love through truth.

Earliest church: All things were held in common

To conflate is to blow together. The truth blows truth seekers together. It conflates all those truly born again of the Holy Spirit of truth. This is what happened in the earliest church where all things were held in common. Each sold his worldly possessions and brought his gifts and abilities for the good of all and the poor. They brought their wealth and laid it at the feet of the Apostles who then saw to everyone's needs out of that common treasury. Each had according to his or her need. None stood in the way of any other's striving for righteousness. The "con" in the English language word "conflate" comes from the Latin "com," and in this context is more as share together. So to conflate is to come together in the spirit of sharing. Only those born again of this truthful and sharing spirit will see or enter the kingdom of God.

A certain man had two sons; and he came to the first, and said, Son, go work to day in my vineyard. He answered and said, I will not: but afterward he repented, and went. And he came to the second, and said likewise. And he answered and said, I go, sir: and went not. (Matthew 21:28-30).
Which one did the will of his father? Learn the depth of repentance and the meaning of true atonement by way of Jesus's teachings and exemplifying life to be enabled to conflate.

Satanic spirit tries to put Jesus out of reach

What was Jesus's sacrifice? Jesus descended from heaven to earth where he became fully human which included being born with a mind before experiencing this fallen state. This is called tabula rasa or an erased tablet or clean slate of human experiential memory. Being born that way took, and continues to take, away any ability of the satanic spirit to say against Jesus that he was not really human. Satan tries that you know. He says sure Jesus was the Son of God, but he had an unfair advantage. He says humans are still all worthy of annihilation and hell. He says Jesus proved nothing about the redeemability of human kind, Jesus being human himself. That satanic message is a trick, a test, a temptation, to get people to fall away from the truth.

Jesus is taking back heaven

Jesus came to silence the constant accusations of Satan. Satan wants to sift us all out. That is not what Jesus wants. Jesus sees redeeming qualities and came to potentiate all the souls possible, to enlighten us to do righteousness only, to lift us up as he was lifted up. They have to measure up though or they are Satan's to do with as he pleases: Falsehood's to do with as falsehood will with the false hearted.
You see, Satan hates Jesus and hates you. He, his emotional core, sees no redeeming qualities in any of humanity. He demonstrates to God constantly how humans are so easily tempted away from the divine will. He argues for God to allow him to wipe out all of humanity: To make us extinct, souls and all. Jesus on the other hand proved the redeemability of humanity by being fully human and doing the work he did: God's work on earth. He gave his life here for his friends. That showed the greatest redeeming quality: Pure unselfishness and pure faith in God.

He died and went to paradise. "And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise." (Luke 23:43). Some say he went to hell. On the third day, he returned here to the flesh body which was resurrected as the sign of Jonah as prophesied. From here, he transfigured and then ascended back into heaven not even leaving a flesh body behind. Hell (death) could not have him.

It was not the first time death (Satan, the great devouring spirit, the great accuser) had not been able to hold people. Others had been raised from the dead. Others had ascended. So what victory did Jesus have?

He conquered death. He refuted Satan. He proved Satan's accusations about the irredeemability of humans as false. He proved that self-sacrifice appeases and agrees with God for many. He proved Satan's kingdom is hypocritical. It has fatal divisions. It will not stand.
Lip-service is death

That is what the souls of the just to be resurrected are waiting for. This is why we are called to pick up our crosses and follow. We are to show redeemability on the widest scale possible. We are not to rest on Jesus’s work and not carry our own crosses. Yes, Jesus released many from sin with his blood (ultimately taking away all the sins of the world), but in doing that he charged us with tasks that if we fail to do we have not truly been washed clean by his blood. We still sin failing to do the deeds. We are to do the deeds and not just pay lip-service to faith. That way is dead. It is a lie perpetuated by those who have usurped and who are unwilling to give and share and bring forth the fruit with patience.

Unselfishness means crediting God and Jesus

Some other paths lay claim to unselfishness; however, how can they be truly unselfish and fail to give Jesus credit for bringing that divine precept and all the rest of the full truth to light as prophesied through to his ascension?

He that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. (John 3:18).

Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you. (Luke 17:21).
Which others taught and set the example of just how much unselfish love it takes to reach enlightenment? Jesus alone first taught and set the example that the divine law of love requires us to give everything for the poor, share everything, go out and teach and do the truth and die (to live) for it if necessary, all for the sake of the ultimate peace of others. Jesus's message is the true enlightenment. No other person brought, and died for, the entire message: The full spirit of the law. No others spoke the words that showed where hypocrisy lies, right in the mundane law for the hardhearted. He was prophesied. He met the prophetic requirements perfectly. It cannot be duplicated.

False conservatives twist selfishness into unselfishness

The conservatives, however, don't even lay claim to being on the path of unselfishness. They twist selfishness into unselfishness. It is capitalism. It is how they always react: Making wrong right and right wrong. They are not truly sorry for what they have done. They have not truly apologized to God. They do not bear their crosses, gladdening God, lighting the way to God for others. They have not done work worthy of repentance. They have done nothing leading to being purged so that they may bring forth real fruit.

Do they settle their differences with others? Are they willing?
Agree with thine adversary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. (Matthew 5:25).

Go not forth hastily to strive, lest thou know not what to do in the end thereof, when thy neighbour hath put thee to shame. (Proverbs 25:8).

The half-truth, conservative version of substitutionary atonement

They twist the meaning of Jesus’s ransom, paid for his friends, into an excuse for not having to give and share all. They do this under their doctrine of substitutionary atonement. They say Jesus atoned for them so that they do not have to do anything. That is contrary to Jesus’s instructions. It is a half-truth. Jesus atoned for them so that they would have the opportunity to then do righteousness and not to continue right on being selfish.

We are to do everything including carrying our own cross (the symbol of atonement, among other things). We are to do that even to our deaths as the just who will be resurrected, just as surely as Jesus was resurrected.

Jesus ransomed his life so that we would have the opportunity to have the Holy Spirit of truth come to us. It comes to us and reminds us to do as Jesus did. This means that Jesus atoned for us at the same time we are to atone, meaning we are to become at one with God through our repentance that includes necessarily doing worthy deeds. He bought us that opportunity with his life. If we refuse to act on that opportunity for the right reason of unselfishness, how will we be worthy to escape damnation?

The repentant are those who do the Christlike thing of making amends (atonning) in the sight of the God of Jesus, even dying in the flesh also for the message that the LORD saves. They add. They magnify. They cast light. They do all of that while following only Jesus. They do nothing alone. They blaze no new path, for it is not possible to blaze a new path to God. We are to do the deeds in line with Jesus and not on our own in a futile exercise of our own individual egos.

The conservatives, neocons, neoliberals, capitalists, false Christians, false Zionists, Muslims, Hindus, and Buddhists, and others do not believe in this. They refuse. It would mean giving up ill-gotten gain whether physical possessions or emotionally selfish positions.

Jesus wants atonement from us all

Jesus lauded Zacchaeus for giving back his ill-gotten gain fourfold and for giving half of all he had to the poor thereby making amends or atoning as an integral part of his act of repenting. Those who wish to argue against this have only to search their souls for the real reason they hate this idea. They have only to come to grips with their grip on their personal possessions and wealth. What are they treasuring? Where are their hearts? What do they love?

This is the conservatives' dilemma. They are tantamount to those of the Pharisees in Jesus's time who did not repent, just as America is the center of the spirit of Babylon that had its arrogant, egocentric Tower of Babel and thick walls leveled to the ground. It spells doom. They teach variously the following:

Capitalism (mammon worship; mutual selfishness);
Anti-communism;
Anti-giving-and-sharing-all;
Militarism (bloodlust that comes of all lusts);
Supremacy of science and technology (blind trust in human arrogance over faith in God);
Nationalism;
Sexism;
Laodiceanism (lukewarmness or indifference);
A priesthood of a broken stream of consciousness (apostolic succession); and, Iconolatry (worshipping graven images); and, among other things, Paganism (often nature worship, such as worshipping Earth and Sun, even though God created nature).

It must be stated that concerning the icons of certain congregations, it is clear that the worshippers do not worship the icons, per se. However, are such icons necessary or a distraction? They remain the handiwork of humans. What value would Jesus place in them? Jesus did not preach in favor of icons or relics or anything of the kind.

We must be born of water and then born of spirit. If we are, we will conflate (be blown together, unified, by the Holy Spirit of truth). As said above, Jesus was born of water, a full human with a clean slate (tabula rasa) of a kind and degree, just as are we all as one kind, so that he could defeat Satan. For the sake of all those who are definitely redeemable, we each must carry our cross to show that Jesus was right.

Redeemability is self-sacrifice. It is unselfishness. Satan hates it. He hates Jesus and you whether or not you are righteous. He denies Jesus even though he knows who Jesus is. He still refuses to accede. The children of Satan, those of the spirit of darkness, the selfish, won't give Jesus credit. They won't give you credit either no matter the good works you may do. They'll twist everything to excuse their not giving and sharing all. It is over all of this that the dividing line is established.

Conservative die-hardism

The conservatives, neo's, and false Christians are today's Pharisees. They ought to conflate, but the diehards among them will refuse to turn and repent to become at one with God. They will drag the Anglo-American Empire, the spirit of Babylon, and its system based upon the promotion of hyper selfishness, with them into the dust. They will insanely stick to the death with their abominable teachings and with loathsome and detestable deeds. The greedy, violent, and depraved of the whole world will be dragged down with them.

As I mentioned at the outset of this chapter, even though the contents of this work ought to cause all to conflate by the Holy Spirit of truth, that great conflation will include only true Christians who will be the only ones to inherit that kingdom. It is more of the same as with the Gospels themselves over which all ought to have already conflated and would have if it hadn't been for the half-truth artists. There are those who just refuse even at the risk of their own souls.
Chapter 5  A Wonderfully Blessed World Were All to Conflate

What a wonderfully blessed world this would be were all to conflate by the Holy Spirit of truth, precluding the greatest of tribulations to come. Imagine everyone in the world sharing everything, pleasing God, and thereby ending all the negative results of selfishness. God has made clear that he spares those who are warned and repent in time. He will make truly bountiful those who are truly liberal.

The prophecy

The prophecy though is that the whole world will not be blessed until after great, unprecedented upheaval.

The son of perdition, a devil, the son of Satan, the spoiler, must assert himself again causing unprecedented upheaval by refusing truly to turn and repent. Who is that person? Who are his followers? This age will be hit with tribulation just as the age that ended in A.D. 70 with the destruction of the Herod temple when the sons of perdition were in their glory. What will be hit? This age is the age of what and whom? Answer that, and you have the answer. Seek and you will find.

There are human traditional interpretations about the prophecies concerning the son of Satan, the children of darkness (perdition), the Messiah, and the children of light. Just because one believes that there is a Bible prophecy does not mean that he or she believes in the real Bible prophecy. Many of the false Jews had built up, and many of the false Jews still hold to, their traditional belief that the Messiah will be the greatest military leader of all time. They believe that the Messiah will yet come for the first time and from their ranks to lead them to world military conquest over the evil ones who are all but the false Jews.

Other Jews, such as the Essenes, were not waiting for that kind of leader. They were waiting for a spiritual savior who would do battle with the forces of darkness on the spiritual plane which they saw, and current Essenes still see, as permeating this world and all unseen worlds. The range of opinions concerning the then coming Messiah and necessarily the son or sons of perdition or darkness ran, and still run, up and down the spectrum of human imagination.

Truisms

The prophecy shows that each human empire builds up and falls, some into perdition (utter ruin). They dare to plant the seeds of their own complete loss and destruction. Those who forget history are truly doomed to repeat it. Truisms are for all time.

Truth isn't cliché

There are those who seek to destroy such truisms by calling them trite and overused. They say such expressions are obsolete or archaic. They are unacceptable within so-called modernity. They are not novel enough or chic. They are out of fashion. They call them cliché. Others wishing to distance themselves from the cliché of cliché call it by other names such as hackneyed. It is a race to stay out in front to gain and hold the bleeding edge of cultural correctness. It is a race away from stark truth. He who can distance himself out front leading others on a wild and futile chase is to be admired most. As soon as the masses have caught up, the chic has already moved on to something else as if in a game of hide and seek where fashion was. It is critical to remain one step ahead but never fail to leave a misleading trail with the strongest pull for ego sake. It is also a total waste of time. This pursuit of futility renders every Proverb trite and, in the slang, unhip. In reality, the real meaning of hippest is to know what is truly going on, and what is truly going on is the revelation. It is no fad. It is not the latest craze. It is connate: Since the beginning.

Worldly Empire spirit

Empire builders are constantly pushing for a positive connotation of human empire. That is why they manipulate the truisms of the prophecy. Each empire wishes to portray itself as having no continuity of spirit with preceding empires or wishes to portray earlier empire or empires as glorious examples of human achievement rather then the results of selfish ambition ending in perdition. Human empire is a negative. Imperialism is a great plague. It is blight. It is not an asset. It is the culmination of liabilities. They all reap what they sow, and so will America and the rest.
The period of each rise and fall of a nation or state that asserts itself as empire is an age, the age of that empire. The spirit of empire itself though transfers from head to head (leader to leader) and capital to capital through the individual national empires to form the whole age of human empire that is rebellion against God. The evil spirit of human empire morphs from empire to empire each with its own characteristics. Each such empire falls into perdition. It has to, because each is founded upon the faulty premises of self will and selfishness.

There are those within and without each such empire who presage the fall. They state the faultiness and consequences. Within the entirety of the body of real prophecy there is a picture that has developed that speaks not to the rise or fall of just a given empire at the moment of the prophetic statement or a series of empires, such as in the vision of Daniel running from Babylon through Persia and Greece to the fall of Rome, but also speaks to the rise and fall of the whole human-empire spirit. That is the revelation.

The traditional interpretation; however, sees empire as something other than what it is. Human-precept traditionalists see the current empire as not being another in the long series of human empires that are based upon the faulty premises. They see the current Anglo-American Empire as being based upon the teachings of Jesus. US vice president Dick Cheney and his wife wrote on their official Christmas card, "And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid? It is quoted from Benjamin Franklin as follows:

I have lived, Sir, a long time, and the longer I live, the more convincing proofs I see of this truth—that God governs in the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without his notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without his aid? Franklin was referring to the verse as follows:

Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father. (Matthew 10:29).
(Note that Franklin's deism faded as he aged.)

There is no doubt that God has allowed the basest, most selfish of men to rise to punish the iniquitous. Reconcile it. It is no paradox. It is cause and effect. It is a consequence of free will exercised collectively selfishly.

Are those of empire getting their reward now? A study of Benjamin Franklin's life reveals that he was a very lustful man. His statement above attests to his ambitions for the nation of America. The founders were planning from the beginning for America to not only rival but dominate.

False-Christian dominionists are Old-Testament-only Jews

Many conservatives see the American Empire as carrying out the Christian goal of ridding (killing off) the world of non-Christians. Moses, rather than Jesus, is the exemplifier for these people. One can see it reflected in their emphasis upon Moses the lawgiver. They speak more of the Ten Commandments than they do the spirit of the two greatest commandments and especially the new commandment of Jesus {"As I have loved you, that ye also love one another." (John 13:34).} that is the spirit of both of those greatest commandments! They see the Empire as the empire of Jesus: His people being his instruments on earth in fighting the bloody holy war (traditional army against army) against the enemies of Christianity. Their level of thinking is Old Testament only. It is an eye for an eye only worse—without parity, disproportionate. It is what has allowed for the Abu Ghraib prison type tortures by US military troops and other US operatives to flourish around the world. It is the wholly unenlightened mentality that allows for those of Islam in Palestine and those ostensibly of Judaism in the State of Israel to fight each other as if it is three-thousand-plus years ago.

If you reject their conservative interpretation, you are wise in that. The human traditionalist's interpretation has never failed to fail and it will fail this time as well. They do not know who the son of perdition is or what constitutes his Empire. They do not know Jesus or what constitutes his kingdom.

That upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar. (Matthew 23:35).

In the eighth month, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD unto Zechariah, the son of Berechiah. (Zechariah 1:1).

And they conspired against him, and stoned him with stones at the commandment of the king in the court of the house of the LORD. (2 Chronicles 24:21).

(Jesus was referring to the Zechariah of the Book by his name.) Those of human precepts killed the prophets.

The Zealots lost and will lose again

Those most fervent believers in Jewish militancy (militarism and violence as their salvation) at the time of Jesus were the Zealots. They lost. The Zealots held Jerusalem from A.D. 66 to 70. Jesus had warned them, but they did not listen. They were wiped out. They had mistakenly thought that God was on their side. They had gotten that notion partially because the Jews under the Maccabees (Hasmoneans, a Jewish surname) not that long before in 167-160 B.C., had militarily achieved political and religious independence from the Seleucid (Hellenistic dynasty after Alexander the Great) King of Syria, Antiochus IV Epiphanes (Epiphanes meaning "god manifest"), and his successors. Rome though was not Syria, and Jesus knew it. Even had Rome been weaker, Jesus, however, being a pacifist, still would not have advocated war.

False Zionists: Running Rome, caesar's prime counselors

Pax Americana (false peace through war)

Now, America sees itself as the rightful heir of the Roman Empire and the Zealots rolled into one. The neocons, false Zionists, are running spiritual Rome. They are caesar's prime counselors. They see themselves as at a point that if they do not seize their opportunity it will pass them by. This, of course, is folly. It is inevitable, but folly, double folly. Remember, they see themselves as establishing a Pax Americana just as the Roman Empire has been falsely credited with a Pax Romana.

And his power shall be mighty, but not by his own power: and he shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practise, and shall destroy the mighty and the holy people. And through his policy also he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand; and he shall magnify himself in his heart, and by peace shall destroy many: he shall also stand up against the Prince of princes; but he shall be broken without hand. (Daniel 8:24-25).

Under Rome, craft did prosper, and under Pax Romana, many were destroyed. Under America craft does prosper, and under Pax Americana, many are destroyed. It is transgression. Pax Romana was false, because all the souls in the Empire were enslaved under Roman taxation, customs duties (import and export taxes) and tribute. The Romans had won it by rivers of blood. It was no peace. The real peace is the peace Jesus talked about. The falsely termed peace of Rome had no part in the peace of Jesus, just as the falsely termed peace of America has no part in the peace of Jesus. Those heading up this false peace do not really believe in Jesus. They do not know his heart. In fact, they hate Jesus. Their hatred of Jesus is perfectly reflected in their fruits. They bring forth all that Jesus despised: War and faith in money, among other things.

This Pax Americana is an enforced, misnomered peace of the world through fake, pre-emptive, unilateral wars against those who are falsely accused of being threats. It is all in order to capture and maintain control of resources required to perpetuate the American, capitalist, neoconservative, neoliberal Empire. This new era is financed through global corporatism for global corporatism.

This is not to say that regional balances of military power, nuclear deterrence, or containment were ever right. They were not. The deterrence and containment of the Cold War were only masks for the numerous aggressions going on about the globe. Balance of power was just the mutual coercion of fear. It was all agree-to-disagree rather than debating until the logical conclusion of righteousness is met. Today, it is no longer agree-to-disagree under balance, deterrence, or containment.
Neither though is it debating to the righteous conclusion. Today, it is US, and by extension, false Zionist, hegemony.

The neocon error since the beginning

This US neocon, hegemonic plan was laid out long before 9-11. It was laid out long before the Project for the New American Century based upon the 1992 Defense Planning Guidance, primarily authored by neoconservative Paul Wolfowitz, which formally expressed the megalomaniac goal of American world conquest. In fact, it was laid out at the beginning, but that is too esoteric for most. It is hoped that many people will be able to link this spirit back to the first empire and even the first rebellion against unselfishness to the first time humans knowingly acted beastly toward each other.

How easy is it to be suckered into thinking as Paul Wolfowitz? It is as easy as thinking one may take heaven by force. It is a slippery slope of aiming for a goal and believing that there are expendable innocents during the means to the end. The trouble is that that method of force never gets anyone to heaven. Heaven results from heavenly means. There are no expendable innocents. Paul Wolfowitz thinks he is right. He thinks the world is better off with American imperial domination. If millions or even billions of innocent people die along the way, if they are lost under the Empire's watch, so be it, so long as millions or billions of others are out from under a perceived worse threat. However, that thinking is wrong. It never arrives at its stated goal. It forever uses hypocritical means that render its own end impossible to reach. Its path never gets there. Paul Wolfowitz and those who agree with him see a hill out in front of them that they imagine if they can only get over then the worse nightmare will be forever behind humanity. They believe that we must slog through the status quo (work the system) rather than undergoing a radical remaking that demands dropping the very evils they hope to overcome through evil means. They seek to end war with war. We seek to end war with peace. Jesus sought and seeks to end war with peace even though he knew and knows that wars will come by the likes of the American neoconservatives and their likewise militant foes.

Now, imagine the world without all of this push for empire that is the drive of the egotistical. Imagine if the world were headed in the exact opposite direction that is giving and sharing. It would be wonderful. It would be beautiful. If the world had started down the correct road long ago, it would have arrived back at the garden earth. Now rather than just imagining, bring it forth. Have the faith to make it happen through God and through the period of tribulation—not losing heart. That’s what we must reinforce in one another, not militarism.

We shall not magnify ourselves in our hearts but rather magnify God in our hearts and out into the world.
Convict your conscience

The conscience of the conservative is insufficient. They need to work on bringing their consciences in line with sensitivity and compassion. Their hearts are cold and hard. They need to warm them and soften them way up.

The real prophets have seen this in their generations. In each of their generations, they called beyond all others for a relative softening of the heart. We are to progress. Some of their prophecies were harsh. Nevertheless, they were calling for an end to much harsher things. The depths of depravity are spoken euphemistically in The Bible. In the Old Testament, in certain contexts to know someone meant to have sex with them and to uncover someone's nakedness meant the same thing. Men were uncovering their own father's nakedness.

That was so abhorrent to the sensibilities of the prophets that Moses for instance would demand the immediate execution of anyone engaging in such a disgusting act. That was, among other reasons, so those who would engage in such things would not be alive left to spread such evil, defiling all the people.

Elijah also engaged in the wholesale slaughter of hundreds of priests of the evil god Baal (Molech by a different name) whose priests and false prophets had demanded that living children be thrown into burning furnaces. Did the priests of that abominable god eat the children's burned flesh as they ate the animals that were sacrificed? Of course, the god was a fake, and the idolaters, the wicked queen, Jezebel, and her husband, Ahab, were completely culpable. They had the devil in them.

And Elijah said unto them, Take the prophets of Baal; let not one of them escape. And they took them: and Elijah brought them down to the brook Kishon, and slew them there. (1 Kings 18:40).

Jezebel was apparently the daughter of Ethbaal king of the Zidonians (Ithobaal I, king of Tyre according to Menander, the Greek dramatist, as reported by Josephus in his work, Antiquities of the Jews). Tyre was prophesied against by the prophets. Ezekiel specifically said concerning Tyre that, "they shall break down thy walls, and destroy thy pleasant houses: and they shall lay thy stones and thy timber and thy dust in the midst of the water." (Ezekiel 26:12). Tyre was the Phoenician capital city built on an island in what is today southern Lebanon. To conquer it, Alexander the Great filled in the water between the mainland and the island. He used the ruins of the old city of Tyre on the mainland to do that fill-in work. He took the city completely.

Those prophets, Moses, and Elijah were right about the depravity of the hardhearted people. The traditionalist interpreters and wishful-thinking diviners at those times got it wrong. The prophets going back to the beginning pointed the way of prophecy calling for complete salvation of the world from the Empire of human greed. They could not spell it out in clear and plain language. They were not given to do it. It was too early. Even Jesus had to teach in parables. But Jesus made clear that the time of speaking in parables in public was going to be over once the Holy Spirit of truth descended upon the children of human kind. It has, and the time for speaking clearly and plainly has come. The time for the separation before the next huge tribulation is at hand. It has already begun.

As said, we are to make progress. Jesus's call is to greater softheartedness than the prophets before could understand.

Imagine the world without depravity. Imagine the world softhearted enough that no one would be unsafe and where all the world's children could play without anyone having to be concerned that someone would prey upon any of them. It would be beautiful and wonderful. As said earlier, now rather than just imagining, bring it forth.

The prophecy is not what the current traditionalists think it is. They think prophecy is over. They think that everything that can be prophesied has been spoken. They are wrong. It has yet to come to a close, even though the conclusion is, and always was, foregone by virtue of what was set in motion from the beginning of which Jesus was and is the pivotal figure. Praise God for having sent Jesus.

Jesus's time here incarnate was a climax in the story that is the prophecy. It contains ups and downs. As Jesus explained, there will be wars and rumors of wars. It necessarily follows that between those wars and periods of rumors, there have been, and will be, relative periods of mundane peace from hot and cold wars for different nations. The prophecy did not come to a close with Jesus's ascension. The temple was destroyed as Jesus said it would be within that generation. The tribulation occurred. The martyrdom of those still then living and their journey to be with Jesus in paradise both occurred.

Oh, some of you think that I have misspoken here in saying that they are in paradise since the resurrection of the just has not occurred. Ah, where do you think Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob are, dead or in heaven? How can both of these be right, the resurrection of the just and yet Abraham is alive in heaven? Reconcile them. All things Jesus taught are reconcilable. If you cannot reconcile them, it is your failure and not Jesus’s. Jesus told the one next to him on the cross that he would be with Jesus in paradise that very day. Abraham is in paradise, and he will be with the resurrected just. In fact, Abraham is indwelling in spirit with God and Jesus. The just are indwelling in spirit.
The prophecy is still running, because the salvation of the whole world is still unfolding.
This brings us to Ezekiel, Zechariah, and John of Revelation.
The spirit of prophecy is the testimony of Jesus.
It means that if one believes Jesus's testimony and really feels it in one's heart and has it permeate one's mind and soul, one will come to understand that the pattern of human behavior renders a pattern of outcomes. This does not negate God's interacting with people in their free will to do God's will. That is part of the pattern. Ezekiel, Zechariah, and John describe horrendous tribulation of a war that is larger than the war of the Romans on the Hebrews and ends with not just apostate Hebrews suffering the consequences but all warring parties suffering the consequences. When placed within the whole that is the whole of prophecy that is the scripture and the Holy Spirit, one is given the truth that the current path of empire is driving toward completely unbridled conservative devices and greed. One is given the truth that the current path of empire is driving inevitably to cataclysmic destruction not seen since the greatest flood.

Rather than the beautiful and wonderful conflation of all souls coming before any possible cataclysmic destruction, people are faced rather with having to persevere through whatever awaits because of those who refuse to turn and repent. Heaven waits, but people don't want it or they insist upon attempting to take it by force with offending violence with their own hands or the hands of those whom they control.

The greedy are buying up the educational system to spew falsehood

The greediest are the richest in the face of want. Some are unabashedly using their money to fund a return to uncontrolled capitalism rather than for the sake of the poor, for righteousness' sake, for heaven's sake. They give endowments to their conservative think tanks that have churned out falsehood by the barrel full.

In the previous generation, intellectuals were the enemy of the fascists such as the Nazis. Starting immediately after their failure in Vietnam, the current fading generation of the US decided to start co-opting higher education to suppress academic freedom and free inquiry. They did this to suppress the critical examination of traditionalist, conservative, fascist, capitalist, nationalistic, false-Christian, false-Zionist policies. Under stepped-up gifts from the ultra rich (hyper-capitalists), universities and colleges have been successfully bribed. They have been coerced into hiring more fascist-minded instructors.

Non-conservatives have been cowed so that up until only very recently they had not been daring to speak out openly and directly about the sins of this so-called new economy that is a hybrid throwback. They feared the conservatives with their hands on the levers of power. They feared losing their livelihoods. They were self-censored from stating obvious truths, because they saw themselves as being under economic duress.

They saw themselves as not having freedom of speech. They were indirectly purchased. The money of the conservatives purchased the gags placed over their mouths.

In addition, the conservatives have set up numerous scholarship and intern situations for students in order to mold minds down in the selfish mold. The Intercollegiate Studies Institute has been working at turning US colleges and universities into factories churning out graduates indoctrinated in nothing but conservative, antichristian ideology.

The greedy bought up the media to spew falsehood

The conservatives also decided to co-opt news media by buying up the parent corporations and then forcing news bureaus to take the corporate slant or heads would roll. This they have done with greater immediate success than in changing higher education. However, with time and the direction they are pushing, they intend to wear down those of higher education as well. They intend to buy everyone. That's the plan, and they have the financial control to do it, much more than ever before, albeit they will ultimately be thwarted. What they can't buy, they manipulate.

We have the US Department of Defense paying Iraqi newspapers to plant stories in those papers as if they were written by independent journalists when in fact they were written by the Department of Defense. The Lincoln Group, a defense contractor, received a defense contract for six million US dollars to plant over a thousand articles. The contract apparently has been renewed and increased. What they can't manipulate, they attack.

Al Jazeera

We have a secret British memo documenting that president Bush advocated to Tony Blair that the US bomb the offices of the Al Jazeera news organization in Doha, Qatar. The Bush-43 administration claims that George W. Bush was just kidding. Well, we already know the Satanic philosophy spelled out and advocated by Plato called the noble lie. We already have a pattern showing the ideology of rationalizing lying: Hating truth. We know how the Bush-43 administration and super-patriot, US-nationalist, conservative media reacted to Al Jazeera's having shown Osama bin Laden videos after 9-11. Al Jazeera had been praised by the US government before 9-11 as a bastion of freedom of the press and free expression in an otherwise heavily censored Islamic world. However, when Al Jazeera ran up against the neocons, they found out that, that freedom is only a restraint. They were to be restrained from expressing anything against the conservative, capitalist, neoliberal agenda or attacked.

We have Al Jazeera audio and video footage from Fallujah, Iraq of the US military operations showing the aftermath of the white phosphorus weapons used on the civilian population.

We have US soldiers testifying openly to the general public about their firsthand knowledge confirming the use by the US military of white phosphorus and the Bush-43 administrations attempts to censor those former servicemen.

We have the actual US bombing of Al Jazeera bureaus. The US bombed the Al Jazeera offices in Kabul, Afghanistan. It also shelled their offices in Iraq.

We have an Al Jazeera cameraman, Sami al Hajj, who has been held for over three years without charges at the US prison, Camp Delta, more infamously known as Camp X-Ray, in Guantánamo Bay, Cuba. That camp is supposedly for enemy combatants. Hajj was a cameraman not taken as an obvious combatant. What evidence does the government have that he was a combatant? They have refused to provide any evidence.

We have the general roundups of innocent civilians who were held at Abu Ghraib prison for many months and even more than a year in many cases.
We have the Bush-43 administration insisting that the president has sweeping powers to take and hold in secret and for indefinite periods of time even US citizens without arrest warrant, without charges, without benefit of attorney, without being face by his or her accusers, without any day in open court, etc. When their enemies do this, the Bush-43 administration calls it tyranny and their leader a tyrant. Why wouldn't the US military be suspect concerning holding Sami without cause? It was Sami and other prisoners who reported through their attorneys and others that US interrogators had flushed the Qur'an down the toilet and had defaced the book with obscenities. US interrogators use such tactics to systematically break captives. That is documented by Americans who had previously gone through the SERE program (Survival, Evasion, Resistance, and Escape) in which The Bible was so treated, which should tell all self-styled conservative Christians that the US military is not about Christianity but rather about furthering the power of filthy lucre.

We have seen with our own eyes from Abu Ghraib photos and elsewhere on planes, etc., not denied by the US military, of soldiers and other interrogators employing totally evil means to do what they call softening up, breaking, and murdering captives. That system is the Antichrist's. Anyone employing such tactics is working directly for the Antichrist and once they hear that truth if they continue and don't stop and repent and atone, they will die the real death of the spirit and be rewarded in perfect proportion by the spirit of Satan accordingly for their edification. They will not be saved unless and until the last farthing is paid by them and by the innocent atoning in the spirit of mercy for the sake of oneness in righteousness to help pay that ransom. This is what Jesus showed when he showed us God. That is the way of it.

Sami told his lawyer that the US has tried to torture him into a false confession that Al
Jazeera is a knowing and willing colluder with al Qaeda. Al Jazeera denounces Osama bin Laden's attacks. Al Jazeera has taken a great deal of heat from the Islamic world for Al Jazeera's spirit of independent journalism reporting the facts without commentary, unlike the mainstream, US media that are preoccupied with one-sided commentary. Real Christians never fear the debate. They don't fear it, because they know that perfection is the elimination of hypocrisy and that hypocrisy can be exposed and removed by truth.

This is not to say that Al Jazeera is free to say all of what it wants. It isn't. It is definitely constrained by Muslim leaders, remembering that under Islam, all rulers in Islamic states are Muslim leaders. There is no separation of Islam and state possible, since Islam is the state by definition.

Who do you believe? What do you rationalize?
Was George W. Bush only kidding about bombing the Al Jazeera headquarters in Doha, Qatar?

This is all why the Bush-43 administration was against the formation of the International Criminal Court. He said he doesn't want international judges unaccountable to him sitting in judgment of US war criminals. It might help in ending war. It might help in ending weapons manufacturing. The neocons fear the whole world watching such trials and following them word for word. They fear it would mean greater exposure of the sins of the capitalist, faith-in-mammon system.

The British government's attorney general threatened to prosecute anyone under §5 of the UK's Official Secrets Act who leaks anything more about the memo documenting Bush's statements to Blair.

The greedy bought up the media to spew falsehood: Fox News

Rupert Murdoch and his Fox network (Fox Broadcasting Company) is a prime example of a conservative, corporate medium calling itself news. Rupert Murdoch advocates a brand of libertarianism that is nothing more than proselytizing selfishness which is the exact opposite of Jesus. It is antichrist. There is no doubt about it. No real Christian can listen to what pours out of Murdoch's heart and conclude that it is remotely Christianity. This drive to selfishness has led to among other things conservative commentators accepting bribes of government money to publicly laud their prince's administration programs. It has also led to the push to allow the ultra-rich, such as Murdoch, to own even larger and larger portions of the entire spectrum of hi-tech and other news outlets into the homes of Americans and others to the exclusion of voices of unselfishness.
Their rationale is that the liberal word of Jesus is not competitive enough and just does not sell with the people. Sadly this has been true, but it is because the rich have distorted and covered up the word of God. "Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." (Matthew 7:14). It means though that heaven will not be full of those who rationalize away war, greed, and other depravities. The real liberal word of Jesus will sell.

Profiting from hypocrisy

You will note that via his other offerings besides his US news programming and editorial commentators constantly masquerading as news journalists, Rupert Murdoch offers the temptation to the masses to exercise the lusts of their members. One of his newspapers not sold in the US, where the so-called conservative Christians represent a large audience share for his cable TV network, shows vampish, topless women on a routine basis. They are called "Page Three Girls" in Murdoch's UK tabloid newspaper The Sun. How do those calling themselves Christian not see through the double standard? They aren't looking. They aren't discerning. They are being shamelessly manipulated and used for profit.

Not the wholesome nakedness of Eden

This is not to condemn the human form. It is a call for all people to practice self-censorship to not promote sluttishness that is contrived and deliberately exploitative of temptation. It is simply to point out that this is a technique to traffic in whorishness to sell newspapers. Those who are ultimately responsible for the content of that paper have compromised principles for personal gain. They have whored themselves in that regard. It is designed to appeal to the lust of the flesh or prurient interests for the crass sake of gaining mammon at the expense of mental and, therefore, spiritual health. It is far from the innocent and wholesome nakedness of Eden. It is the shameless flaunting of sexual temptation to promote casual and random sex, the opposite of the pure bond of marriage creating one flesh.

Casual sex
What has casual and random sex wrought? Among other things, it has wrought sexually transmitted diseases and broken homes. Don't be hoodwinked about it any longer. Make the connection between those doing the tempting and the consequences of falling to the temptation. Don't partake and don't lead others astray.

Now, there are those who will say that if someone doesn't like it, he or she doesn't have to look at it. That is true up to a point. However, when it becomes nearly all pervasive, it is quite nearly impossible to move about in society without such things being thrust into one's face. How can we say this when we also say that people are to overcome temptation? There are also young minds incapable of discerning with which to be concerned. Again, exposure to sluttishness is not the same thing as innocent nakedness. The motive behind sluttishness holds deliberate temptation that can and does warp young minds and can addict minds even into old age. Nakedness, per se, if it is never connected with selfish lust, remains innocent and does not result in warping or addicting minds. To that, people will ask if we say Murdoch's newspaper, The Sun, ought to be censored. Yes, it ought to be censored by Murdoch. He claims to be a Christian. He ought to want to promote wholesomeness. We are not here to coerce people.

Of course, people do not have to buy it either.
They may boycott it. They may boycott anything they choose. Some say that boycotting is coercive. It is not if it is for self-censorship for righteousness' sake. No one is obligated to continue being a customer or supporter of a newspaper or a cable network or anything else that violates divine law.

Rupert Murdoch's profit from leading people astray is all on account of selfishness on all sides. It is selfish of the women. It is selfish of the publisher. It is selfish of the buying public.
There is nothing good in it. It is not harmless. It is against the furtherance of sacred monogamous and faithful bonding of couples mating for life, creating one flesh. It leads and has been led astray into confusion, disunity, and un wholesomeness. It is not healthy mentally, physically, or spiritually. It is far from Christian.
It is far from the kingdom.

It is inconsistent, meaning hypocritical, that the so-called conservatives laud the Fox network that pushes incorrectly termed family values while that same corporate medium family has made a huge profit through, and helped build that corporate empire upon, manipulation of sexual temptation. Rupert Murdoch emphasizes the sanctity of marriage out of one side of his mouth (Fox) while he flaunts sluttishness, destructive of that sanctity, on the pages of his publication (The Sun).

Do we judge him and condemn him? No. We ask him to join in repentance before it is too late. This is what we ask of all. It is what we expect of ourselves. All have sinned. None may throw stones. Nothing we have said harms Mr. Murdoch or anyone else. We know that if people turn away from unrighteousness that none are hurt but rather the good is then magnified and only good can come of it. If no one produced that which is meant to tempt for profit, how much better would this world be? Think of it.

Destroy the messenger

Another method for taking over media is through the stealthy destruction of the public image, reputation, or career of any who do not agree with the conservative slant. Of course, the false liberals have a direct hand in feeding into this problem. It is easy to fall prey, because they do not follow the commonsensible Biblical admonition with which Jesus did not disagree.

Unnamed news sources for profit

What does that commonsensible Biblical admonition concern? One of the biggest problems is with the use of unnamed news sources. The Bible makes clear that two witnesses who are willing to come forward is a minimum hurdle. Why do people remain unnamed? They fear losing their income or suffering some other retaliatory thing or they wish to lie under cover. What do news media do? They have printed and reported ostensible authoritative stories based upon unsubstantiated leaks from those unwilling to be named. The simple qualification that the source is unnamed is not good enough. Often, the unnamed source is qualified in the opposite direction, being characterized as reliable. That is the opposite of going in the right direction. Even cautioning the public with strong disclaimers about potential abuse by unnamed sources is not good enough.

The news media industry policy is to obtain a corroborating statement from a different and independent source before giving stories by the unnamed to the public. They don't always bother to obtain even that level of corroboration. Huge falsehoods have been foisted upon the public under this method of using unnamed sources. Named sources with corroboration is not even foolproof. Using unnamed sources corroborated or not by further unnamed sources has proved very slipshod. Therefore, people feed stories that the false liberals will run with to their utter embarrassment later on. It is due to the temptation of the scoop. The capitalistic, corporate news media are for-profit businesses. They compete for money. They want larger circulations for advertising and other revenue. They want to be the first to break news stories to promote a larger readership or viewership or audience. They will rush to release stories for that reason. It is a constant temptation. It is always pulling at their selfish desires in two different directions. They are always warring internally between the damage of being scooped versus the damage of releasing falsehoods. The whole system is corrupt. These two choices are false choices. These two choices are on the wrong spectrum. They are not on the spectrum of righteousness. They are on the spectrum of the unrighteousness of mammon.

The point is that selfishness all the way around keeps people from being willing to put their names behind their statements. That system should not be perpetuated. If people are too afraid to speak out publicly, our whole society is too corrupted to support them in being upfront and honest. We need to change that. We need to change hearts so they will not fear, and we need to change hearts so that they will support those who speak out for righteousness. We need to change hearts so that those who have done wrong will repent rather than retaliate.

They limit your ability to make an informed choice

Not all media worry about spreading falsehood as we have seen. If you think that media cannot be used right out in the open in ways that deliberately manipulate what you think, think again. All corporate media need to do is not report the side of a story they don't like. All it needs to do is couch as dangerous radical extremism everything that shows greedy corporatism is wrong. With that combination, the listener, or reader, or viewer is manipulated unless he or she has the Holy Spirit of truth that informs him or her that greed is a lie and the truth can not come out of it.
What's really happening in Bolivia?

For instance, it is revealing that until Evo Morales began to appear as a possible real contender for the Bolivian presidency, mainstream, US media didn't even mention the indigenous peoples of Bolivia. They didn't tell the American people that the indigenous Bolivians are against an ostensible free-trade agreement with the US. Even when they now mention the indigenous peoples, mainstream, corporate media in the US certainly don't explain why the vast majority of Bolivians don't trust the US economic system for Bolivia. They won't explain what is two-faced about the US system.

The US is for democracy but doesn't like the results especially of grassroots democratic-rule; the US is for economic deregulation but only to allow the capitalist corporations to end up regulating the whole of God's creation; the capitalists are for a free press so long as they own it; the natural gas and oil under Bolivia belongs to the Bolivian people collectively, but the Bolivian people must honor illegal contracts with transnational corporations that move in to exploit the Bolivian's natural resources; private property is sacred to the US when the US is looking out for the interests of huge US corporations, but the private-property rights of peasants must be regulated by the government so that those rights don't impinge upon the greater rights of US corporations; and, the US believes in just compensation for nationalized infrastructure even though the corporations that invested in that infrastructure had been raping the people by severely underpaying for the natural resources for years and often decades and sometimes centuries.

The transnational, corporately controlled media in the US and elsewhere know that the so-called free trade, open market, free enterprise, and all the rest of the other jargon doesn’t translate into fair trade. The US bribes, threatens, overthrows, and even murders the political rulers of various countries to allow the US to rape those countries of their resources and to exploit their already abused poor.

Killing farmers

The poor and indigenous farmers grow staple corn for Bolivia. Huge US agribusinesses would import into Bolivia genetically modified and US-government-subsidized corn undercutting and ultimately destroying the Bolivian family farmers. There are those who will say that, that is a good thing since those farmers will then be forced into other things that are of modernity. However, that modernity is just hyper-selfishness and leads to death of body and soul. That modernity is the modernity of Satan.

Farmer suicides

People commit suicide in large numbers all over the world where huge agribusinesses move in or their practices are adopted. Does that sound like a healthy development to you? It a plague. It disease caused by a pathogen, a parasite. It has been happening in the US where family farmers have been, and still are being, run into bankruptcy and their farms placed in foreclosure. It is happening right now in Mexico due to the NAFTA. It is happening right now in India in a huge way\(^\text{80}\) where things are made even worse because Indian widows are not looked upon as farmers. Only males are looked upon as farmers. When their farmer-husbands die or commit suicide, the widows have been left with their dead husband's debts and no rights. They have formed the All-India Widows and Destitute Women's Movement to try to gain national and international exposure to their plight. They say chemical pesticides sold on credit have killed their husbands and is ruining their land and way of life.

Capitalist lies to farmers about genetically modified (GM) crops and other dangers

The people are killing themselves because of the lie of capitalism. The people aren't informed by those who prey on them. The people aren't told that overuse of cheap chemical fertilizers can weaken a plants resistance to pests and blight. The people aren't told that pests can become immune to the capitalist's pesticides. They aren't told which crops are too water-intensive for areas where rainfall is too sporadic. Hybrid crops from US seed suppliers have required way too much water in many places where the subsistence farmers were encouraged to grow them for higher yields. That led to pumping the ground water dry in many areas. The hybrid seed is more expensive. It could also end up being deliberately contaminated with terminator seed that produces crops that apparently produce sterile seeds that won't germinate into a next generation of crops. Some genetically modified (GM) crops can be harmful to beneficial insects and to the soil as well.

Monsanto Corporation

Roundup Ready

Roundup Ready crops from seed engineered by the Monsanto Corporation is resistant to the herbicide Roundup. Roundup is sold as a weed killer (chemical herbicide). It disrupts broadleaf plants' ability to synthesis certain essential of the amino acids. Roundup Ready crops have artificially altered genes so the plants won't be affected by the herbicide. Roundup though causes environmental problems for fish and other species and was not adequately studied concerning long-term negative health consequences for human beings. It is implicated in miscarriages and neurobehavioral defects and has never been cleared as a carcinogen despite industry claims to the contrary. It also kills earthworms. Earthworms are extremely beneficial for the soil. In addition, weeds are becoming resistant to Roundup, so farmers severely over spray. That makes farming more expensive while the yields on Roundup Ready crops are not necessarily higher but actually lower in many instances.

Remember, the capitalists want it all now. They will live high on the hog while the getting is good and to hell with posterity. They figure they are going to die into what they don't know, so who cares. Eat, drink, and be merry off the profits you're able to fool out of trusting and unsuspecting prey, your fellow human beings. It's an evil attitude. It is very ungodly.

Bt crops

The pollen of Bt corn (genetically modified to resist pests) is apparently toxic to monarch butterflies. Lady bugs die when they eat potato beetles that have eaten Bt potatoes. Lady bugs are extremely beneficial insects. The genetically modified crops harm the whole ecosystem that had evolved naturally without the huge and reckless risks being taken for profits by the greediest of the greedy.

Now there is a big push on for genetically engineered peanuts. This will be added to the already genetically altered "sweet corn, squash and about half of Hawaii's papayas" as of the end of 2006.

The capitalists charge extremely usurious interest rates where the slightest crop failure will send the farm into bankruptcy. The people are sold on single cash-crops such as cotton, putting all their eggs in one basket, rather than on growing a full diversity of organic food crops on their small farms and collectivizing those farms themselves to give and share all as God intended. They are told to change over to power machines. Then power and fuel costs shoot up. It's boom and bust. When something seems to give a large profit margin at first, it turns into a boom that ends up going bust when too many people rush in who are ill informed of the risks.

---

We went through the Starlink-corn recall when it was discovered that genetically modified corn not fit for human consumption had found its way into all sorts of processed foods in the US. We also know of the Mon 863 corn concerning which Monsanto Corporation hid the scientific findings that the corn wrecked the health of laboratory rats.

Cross-pollination

We know that cross-pollination from the GM crops ruins the purity of non-GM crops. It is becoming increasingly difficult for open-air farmers to keep their crops from being altered by the cross-pollination with GM crops. The crops' genetic lines can't be kept pure. In Canada, a framer was sued by Monsanto Corporation and lost when the framer's crops were unavoidably contaminated by Monsanto Corporation's patented genes. Where is justice? Also, think of what could happen if terminator seed gets out and alters crops so they won't produce fertile seeds.82 Isn't that something the

---

82 Carmelo Ruiz-Marrero, "Biotech Crops and Foods: The Risks and Alternatives." The Oakland Institute. May 9,
"More recently, a report issued by the USDA's auditor, the Office of Inspector General, found that the department has failed to properly oversee field trials of genetically engineered crops, including plants designed to produce chemicals for medical and industrial uses. The report found that biotechnology regulators did not always notice violations of their own rules, did not inspect planting sites when they should have and did not assure that the genetically engineered crops were destroyed when the field trial was done. In many cases, the report said, regulators did not even know the locations of field trials for which they granted permits. These field tests include plantings of so-called biopharmaceutical or pharm crops, which produce pharmaceutical and industrial chemicals in their tissues. These plants, which include corn, soy, rice and tobacco, have been engineered to make products like growth hormones, blood clotting agents, vaccines—both for humans and farm animals—human antibodies, industrial enzymes, and even contraceptives. 'Just one mistake by a capitalists would conspire to make happen so they could dominate the food of the world? A real Christian rule is that greed always gets it wrong.

Posilac

Monsanto Corporation is the company that has also brought the world Posilac, the recombinant bovine growth hormone, (BGH), for the cow's milk the children drink. Posilac causes gross infections of the cow's udders where the puss from the infected cows ends up in the milk and where the dairy farmers pump the cows full of biotech company and we'll be eating other people's prescription drugs in our corn flakes," said Larry Bohlen, of Friends of the Earth."

antibiotics in an attempt to counteract the infections. That of course will lead to bacterial resistance and super bugs.

Is it stupid or sinister or both? It's for money, for profits, for Monsanto stockholders and the corporate executives and bankers and the rest of their global, corporate network.

Many people have decided to supply their children with organic milk to avoid all of these issues and to not financially support Monsanto's madness. Many people are pressuring other corporations not to carry the milk. It's called corporate social responsibility.\(^{83}\)

Monsanto is the corporation that has also brought the world the terminator seed (cornering the market is the goal, now in 2006 at around eighty percent of the market), Agent Orange (we've written about elsewhere herein), and PCB (poly chlorinated biphenyl) that is a terrible cancer-causing environmental pollutant.

This is one mighty evil corporation among many.

\(^{83}\) Starbucks, in Oregon and Washington, and Safeway have stopped carrying the milk. Thank God, literally. The Holy Spirit moves.
The selfish are the worst stewards

Don't count on science and technology being able to reverse its mistakes either. Don't count on the regulators to do a good job keeping bad things out of the environment. The current Republicans are notoriously bad stewards. It is, because they are more selfish. That's why we are in the mess we're in. People trusted the Republicans to be the head stewards over the land. That's just asking for problems. We see it now in global warming and nearly all the rest of the pollution problems in the world caused by unbridled development so loved by the likes of the Republicans around the world.

It has been an utter disaster and very bad for the planet's ecology since the agribusinesses pump toxic chemicals at every problem.

Bolivia

Foolishly, shortsightedly, and greedily, India is still forging full speed ahead into the abyss of laissez-faire capitalism. Such mistakes are what Bolivia and other nations want to avoid reproducing. Such mistakes are what the indigenous movement is all about avoiding and undoing. They want food sovereignty. They want to live in balance and harmony with God's natural, unselfish design.

Rather than being self-absorbed with making a profit off the poor of Bolivia and other nations, the US and other rich nations should be helping in a way that is best for each human being. They should be treating the poor of India and the Bolivian Indians as being as valuable as the children of superrich Americans. That's the way spirit and blood will conflate.
The poor aren't just being pushed off the land to make way for the huge agribusinesses; they are being pushed out of many cities too to make way for huge transnational industrial and commercial developments. Wal-Mart and other big-box retail stores are planning to takeover the world driving out all the small, local, and family-owned markets. The richest are always the greatest manifestation of greed.

Privatizing water

Also, the World Bank forced Bolivia's water supply into privatized hands, namely Bechtel, a US corporation, through a wholly owned or nearly wholly owned British subsidiary. Such laws have given huge unfair advantage to multinational corporations literally to take over the freshwater supply infrastructure in the poorest countries or sue those countries that seek to protect their water from greedy takeover artists. As part of a loan deal in 1997, the World Bank forced Bolivia to privatize its water supply. In the Cochabamba protests of 2000, Bolivia democratically took back control of its fresh water from Bechtel who sued the poor nation of Bolivia. They also had taken it back from a French company named Suez Group, which is currently the largest in the privatized water-supply industry. Both companies had done a poor job in supplying water. Bolivia is just one of a handful of places where such privatization has caused major problems.
Democratic nationalization is closer to the commons the US will seek to kill

The indigenous people of Bolivia want their country's fossil fuels nationalized. Of course, this goes against the grain of the capitalists outside Bolivia who want to control Bolivian fossil fuels for the sake of their profits and certainly not for the sake of the majority of the people of Bolivia.

The US especially will issue hardly veiled public threats concerning so-called private property of US corporate interests. In private, they will discuss and plan the overthrow of the democracy of Bolivia and every other relatively defenseless nation where US corporations are demanding the right to steal resources. That's what the arrangement was in Bolivia after all. It was the illegal taking of resources. The contracts with the illegitimate, bought-off, minority, non-indigenous elites of Bolivia were never ratified. They were illegal, null and void, fraudulent, made in bad faith under duress. The Bolivian rulership knew the history of those who stood up against the power of US corporations. Those corporations control the US military and all of the DNI agencies. Leaders of weaker nations with resources the US capitalists have coveted who have stood up to the US have historically been assassinated and their nations occupied or otherwise controlled.

As of December, 2005, Evo Morales (Juan Evo Morales Aim) has been the president of Bolivia. Bolivia is suddenly got lots of mainstream press coverage. Evo was a strong campaigner for indigenous rights in Bolivia. He is the first Indian leader of Bolivia since it's independence from Spain in 1825. Evo claims to be a socialist very much in the vain of Hugo Chavez Frias of Venezuela. Bolivia has huge natural gas reserves and other mineral and fossil fuel resources. Bolivia has been the poorest nation in South America and the second poorest in the Western Hemisphere after Haiti. That didn't bother the US and European superrich who were further enriching themselves off the defenseless and poor indigenous peoples. Economic neoliberalism did little in Bolivia other than to rape the nation of its resources and make a few non-indigenous residents rich by allowing that rape. Morales campaigned on the intention to nationalize what is in the ground, and he is following through on that pledge. He has not though nationalized the entire industry. He is not taking the entire infrastructure that was started by capitalist foreign investment. He is asking for a renegotiation of the contracts with Bolivia since those contracts were illegal in the first place. They were never ratified by the Bolivian legislature.

One could argue that the infrastructure was paid for out of the low cost for the minerals and the low or none existent taxes on the profits from those minerals. Morales doesn't want to alienate all foreign traders, so he is compromising. Brazil and Argentina, who depend heavily upon the supplies of gas, and Spain, which has invested in the infrastructure, seem willing to compromise for the sake of the Bolivian peoples and to avoid a diplomatic uproar. It remains to be seen whether the US will tolerate any degree of democratic and market socialism in Bolivia.
If Morales compromises too much with the neoliberals though, he'll be insuring more popular uprisings, this time against his own administration.

He is cutting deals with the capitalists that give Bolivia more of a share in the form of higher tax revenues and a percentage ownership of the infrastructure. No foreign gas or oil companies investments have been stolen by the people of Bolivia. The companies are staying. They will amortized their infrastructure investments. They will continue to make generous gross and net profits from those investments; however, the gross raping of the Bolivian people will not continue, so long as the US doesn't interfere. Before Morales, the companies were taking eighty-two percent of the profits. Morales has reversed that. Now the people of Bolivia for the first time ever are getting the lion's share of what is coming out of their ancestral homeland.

The natural resources will though be continually plundered to complete depletion and exhaustion. Raw materials may be exported rather than having value added to them by Bolivian workers in Bolivia. The land will be further polluted and scarred. The Bolivians will still be contributing to global warming.

How long with the indigenous peoples continue to experience discrimination in their own land. Now there is land reform in Bolivia. They have announced that they are going to distribute unused land to peasants. So far, no privately held, productive farmland is to be redistributed. The minimum wage is still very low. Will tiny changes mollify the people? The common people promised to support Morales only so long as he would keep his campaign promises.

Say one thing and do another

Many, if not most, politicians say one thing to get elected and end up doing another to remain in power and to become personally wealthy. Richard Nixon was far from unique in doing that. He just let it slip out. The rule among conservatives and false liberals too is that you never admit that you knew during the campaign that you'd never be able to accomplish your pledges. Nixon really wanted someone to stop him. He wanted his mother to give him a Quaker (peace church) lecture. Unlike today's leadership, he, along with Lyndon Johnson, was truly conflicted. They both ended up with mixed emotions. Today's leaders don't have time for that. They see it as the weakness of sentimentality. To them, it is weak to care. You claim to be compassionate, but in your heart you're really a greedy, insensitive pig.

Great White Throne Judgment

These revelations will only aid some. Others will agree and go right on doing it. This is why the ultimate separation in what many call the Great White Throne Judgment must occur, which will be the ultimate division of the sheep from the goats. This life is an appraisal process for valuing souls.

And I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and there was found no place for them. And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened:
and another book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works.
And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works. And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death. And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire. (Revelation 20:11-15).

You will focus upon the words, "from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away." You will note both earth and heaven turned away from God. Which heaven is this? It is not the real kingdom of God. Consider it.

You will focus upon the fact that the people are judged "according to their works." That includes each of us.

Struggle over the free flow of political expression

Bolivia is only one nation in Latin America. Will Latin America become stocked with left-leaning leadership too numerous and entrenched for the US to be up to its old tricks? So far in the Internet age, US actions have been getting much more international scrutiny forced upon it by the common people than in times past. People around the world are sharing their horror stories about what the US has been up to that the US hasn't been telling its own people out in the open, in the mainstream hi-tech and print media. Language translation software is also aiding in the process of revealing US immoral actions. Much of the international sharing is finding its way back to the US via the Internet and international travel, etc. This is why the Pentagon has been practicing (war-gaming) taking over the Internet and reverse-hacking computers.

That's also one of the reasons the Republicans are backing certain telecom corporations in their bid to gain greater regulatory control of the Internet pipelines. The military-industrial complex and the power elite in the Republican Party don't want the truth to keep flowing on the Internet. They will chastise Google, Microsoft, Yahoo, and others for dealing with the Chinese about censorship there, but then they will turn around and make the free flow of political expression here in the US much more difficult.

Free political expression will just be relegated to the slow and bumpy and sometimes blocked dirt roads that may be kept off the map if the telecoms get their way. The canned, for-profit, mega-corporate military news will be available as part of the superhighway package that the richest of the rich will be able to afford with their pocket change. So much for being able to learn and report what's really happening in Bolivia and elsewhere. The Pentagon knows this too of course.

Evo Morales

As for Morales, how long does one receive the benefit of the doubt? A man of his word presses to accomplish what he ran on, even if they kill him for it. That's what a true populist does. That's what a real man-of-the-people does. That's what Jesus did.

Morales wants to go from eighteen percent royalties on hydrocarbons to fifty percent. This he wants to do under what he calls nationalizing hydrocarbons (natural gas and oil). Bolivia has huge natural gas reserves, and the price of natural gas has gone up faster than even for oil.

He also wants to re-nationalize the water system.

He has promised to end the US-led policy and practice of zero tolerance for coca farming and use. The illicit-drug industry highly refines and processes coca to produce cocaine. The indigenous peoples have been cultivating, using, and trading in coca much as people have with coffee or tea. Morales promised to protect the non-cocaine applications of coca on a highly regulated basis.

He's repealing a law that had largely made unionizing and other activities illegal in Bolivia.

He increased teacher salaries by seven percent by cutting other governmental officials' salaries, including his own, and he was able to finance adding three thousand, five hundred new teachers.

His cabinet is almost all indigenous peoples and women make up almost half and hold important seats.

Morales plans a Constitutional Assembly (constitutional convention in US terms) in mid 2006. Unfortunately, as of the time of this entry, he's not planning to include the grassroots in that convention. If it turns out that way, it's an injustice.

He's still being careful not to slam the door in the faces of international capital investors. He's walking the line between both sides, making both angry, but not giving either enough ammunition to get very many to agree to paint a bull's eye on his back.

This is a book and not a newspaper, so we won't be able to keep it current right up to printing and distribution. It is a group of snapshots taken of different issues at different times. There will be further changes around the world leading ultimately to the showdown between the forces of light and darkness. The supreme conqueror (light, truth) wins in the end.

Morales's movement is toward socialism over the long haul. He is aware of what other nations are doing around the world. He is aware of China's movement first toward market socialism (capitalist transnationally, toward egalitarianism and materialism domestically), a welfare state, increased decentralization that is driving democracy down to lower levels of the system, democracy in the workplace, employee ownership, collective investments decided at the grassroots level with the facilitation of the central government, the ability to track and compare the result (science), and other policies and budding practices. He has talked with all the leaders of South America. He has a group of seasoned politicians around him. There is also a core of so-called intellectuals who watch the big theories being tested around the planet at various levels. He is keenly aware of the ethnic and racial forces and prejudices still at work. He also knows that his promises are walking a fine line between competing powers. The behemoth US to the North is always the greatest concern.

The combination of selfishness, detachment, arrogance, and callousness of the US is without rival in the world. Will the US tolerate being regulated in other nation-states who reject the Austrian and Chicago schools of economic thought, or will the US issue orders to shoot all non-libertarian capitalists on sight?

The biggest mundane hurdle for China and other nations will be in making the central government exactly reflective of the grassroots. They won't make it without the Holy Spirit. The highest quality of life cannot be reached materialistically. What the grassroots decides is legal is what must be legal that is to say held up to be followed. The problem with the world is that since the fall, the takers have pre-empted the grassroots. The takers simply physically bullied their way to having the only voice. It wasn't the power of peaceful persuasion. It was "physical might makes right," which it most certainly does not. The rules have always been forced upon everyone else by the selfish takers.
This is not to say that there have not been instances when unselfish voices have successfully persuaded the people to turn away from selfishness. It is to say that historically such voices have usually been murdered by the takers who re-authorize themselves as the rulers. South and Central America (Latin America) has seen its fill of such dictatorships backed by the US, dangerous to peaceful, grassroots democracy.

Neoliberalism was a disaster in Bolivia

The trickle-down economics didn't work. Things became increasingly worse under the advocacy of Jeffrey Sachs who advised the world to undergo what is termed economic-shock therapy. This policy, in a nut shell, is for instantly throwing everything to private forces. It cuts off all social services upon which the people had been depending. It nearly completely deregulates and seeks to privatize everything, even national defense in the end. It precludes grassroots development from taking root first and foremost since outside capital rushes in not for the sake of the locals, but for the sake of the owners of that capital (the funds to own things, which includes the means of production). Little businesses will be shaken out under such a system. The big owners then make all the rules. The non-owners (labor, workers) then are just a combination of commodity and machine. Even the lower echelon of the ownership class (petite bourgeoisie) is treated as such. They serve at the will of the master machine. They are employees at-will. They can be terminated at the will of the owners cutting off their economic means without warning or cause. Those at the top don't have to share in the pain of economic downturn. The burden is borne by the one without capital—not good! There is no stability of employment. Employment is treated as rolling blackouts (when the electrical utility is experiencing more load than it can handle or there is cheating to drive up charges to customers as with Enron). Rather than everyone sharing the situation equally so the lights don't go out completely on anyone, the rich don't have to tighten their belts. The pain of unemployment isn't shared by the rich. The most vulnerable though are turned into the systemically unemployed and then the chronically forgotten, left by the side of the road half dead and to die—expendable so that the superrich can get richer while the poorest of the poor are treated inhumanly. That treatment, that neglectful manner, is the measure of the ultra-rich.

Only those at the very top are relatively invaluable or priceless and perceive themselves as being beyond measurement as a commodity or machine. Those are the passive investors, the independently wealthy, who can choose whether or not to engage in administration or simply leave such affairs to paid administrators. They are the self-authorized noble class, the aristocrats, the members of the plutocracy and oligarchical families.

Capitalist offer only choices among poisons

The shock-therapy advocates and the neoliberal crowd couch everything in terms of choices between options they suggest are the only options. They don't consider the other option, because they can't stand its implications, means, or ends. They offer up two options: Shock versus gradual. Choose the speed of cooking the one dish on their menu. There is an absence of real Christian economists. If communism (communalism) is mentioned, it is the dictatorial, false versions only.

Jesus was an economist. He was a political economist. Only he didn't put forth any theory. His science is incapable of being falsified. The truth of the new commandment is self-evident. It is pure logic.

The rejecters refuse to perceive the value in unselfishness. They do this subconsciously to a great extent. It comes to the forefront of consciousness though and is quickly suppressed or overwhelmed by the selfishly conditioned hind portion of the brain. They bet on selfishness to thwart unselfishness, so it becomes a self-fulfilling fall. They try to balance the forces of depression against inflation within the old wineskin that is the system of selfishness where nothing is known and everything is speculation. This comes of not accepting Jesus Christ. It comes of having all the unbelievers as economic gurus or messiahs—false Christs. They practice illusion. Salvation with them is illusory.

Growth for growth sake or quality of life?

The world must come to understand that production and growth can be malignant growth. This is the selfish variety. Beneficial production and growth is the preventative, curative, healthful variety. It is unselfish. The neoliberal system is malignant. Growth for growth sake is doomed. Quality of life in every dimension is the true measure.

The Chinese are well aware, as is the rest of the world, that there is a movement afoot to replace the measure of the correct path as the size of accounts with the overall quality of life. On which system are you going to bet?

It really is no gamble. It is a sure thing. God is a sure thing. It really isn't speculative to back real liberal devices. The only question is what is really real. We know "real" is the new commandment. That's the economy for the infinite future.

The current Chinese leadership is leaning heavily to the Green Party worldview. So are many other nations. The Greens call for the use of the Genuine Progress Indicator (GPI) rather than GDP (Gross Domestic Product) as the measure. The GPI comes from vastly more unselfish minds than does the GDP. It doesn't equate economic standard of living (materialism, luxury, and pampering by servants) with quality of life (spiritual and physical wellbeing of the entire system). Capitalistic standard of living is far from being of equal importance to quality of life. A high material standard of living and as defined and desired by capitalists is actually detrimental to quality of life.

Real Christianity is even further down the narrow way than are the Greens, per se.
The GDP is the measuring rod used by the dark spirit. It shares continuity with the slave-trader mentality and eating one's young.

Liberalization is not deregulation, privatization, and tax cuts for the wealthy. That's not reform. That's capitalist regression. Liberalization is releasing the common people from bondage under the system of self-centeredness. Liberalization is bringing forth the real bounty worthy of repentance that is education in the real meaning of the word of God.

The libertarian capitalists still think growth, per se, is the measure. They never looked at the kind of growth. Cancers can grow very quickly killing the whole body. The neoliberals still don't understand that unbridled capitalism unleashes amoral and immoral forces. They don't understand that those market forces include those who will develop a huge vested interest in precluding the voice of the real open and free market. They themselves, the proselytes of allowing selfishness to self-regulate supposedly toward equilibrium are, albeit often unwittingly, just such kind of people cutting off debate. They want to declare the case closed. It isn't. It won't be until everyone has had an opportunity to hear the evidence if he or she so chooses and without censorship from those who fear ultimate airing of motives and incentives.

America's false democracy

The proper political-socialization process in a democracy makes clear to the people, all the people, so that they understand that in a true democracy (the logical conclusion of the concept, the spirit), rule is by the common people, meaning not by any coercive elite, not by any coercive vanguard whether temporary or permanent. At the same time, all the people will find that each person, no matter how simpatico with others, is singularly unique. Therefore, individuals will present different abilities and needs. The proper democracy is formed not by the elite but by all the people.

The problem with America is that it is run by elitists. It wasn't formed from the grassroots after a thorough airing of all the issues to the satisfaction of the common people each having an equal opportunity to be heard and each with an equal vote. The common people didn't decide in ever-larger assemblies controlled by the consensus of free and local assemblies, where give and take is not stifled or cut off.

There was elitist maneuvering to preclude open, honest, and direct questions needed so the people may make informed choices. The common people could not instantly recall their delegates.

The founders were exclusionary and haughty of spirit, even if less so than king George III of England, nevertheless more so than the common people, the non-aristocrats and non-wannabe aristocrats.

Now the US is engaged in a worldwide revolution to overthrow regimes of all kinds. The haughty seek to replace regimes not by allowing grassroots democracies to begin but rather by replacing those regimes with America's misconception that is elitist and, therefore, illegitimate.
Censoring the discussion of the message of Jesus

Part of this open, honest, and direct dialogue of questions and answers, is that the people will be confronted with whether violence is justified. The reason this question still remains is because the world has not yet become convinced of the message of Jesus Christ. The reason they haven't is because the elitists have prevented the dissemination of, and the thorough uncensored dialogue of, the message. The very process of true grassroots democracy has not been used in opening the scripture for the edification of all. The educational process and public fora have always been managed by forces that have sought to conceal the truth. The elitists fear the truth. They realize, to varying degrees, some vaguely and even only subconsciously, that the truth will remove the false foundation that mundanely holds them up above the rest of humanity. That's the false heaven turned away from God. Jesus Christ supplied the answer. He gave the new commandment. That instruction is the key to the real heaven, the kingdom of God. Love had always been available. It had been utilized. There had always been advocates for it. Jesus didn't invent love, per se, while he was in the flesh. He magnified it. He connected the concept, the word, with emotions and deeds that focused and enhanced the meaning. He turned up the light where some people's eyes adjusted and others kept theirs closed. Failure to take the necessary time to be introspective, to reflect, to soul search, to identify hypocrisy within and without and its failure in logic, stymies love, truth, peace, and all the rest of the good.

Those in a rush, those who are out to storm heaven by force to get theirs while the getting, in their temporary minds, is good, whether by threats, indiscriminate and harmful sanctions, terror, war, etc., just refuse to consider.

They fall to being inconsiderate. This is why their plans are not well thought out. They wing it toward their unobtainable objective. Their advice, their diplomacy, their statesmanship, is hastily cobbled together, shortsighted. They know what they are doing in the sense the Pharisees knew what they were doing.

Jesus said unto them, If ye were blind, ye should have no sin: but now ye say, We see; therefore your sin remaineth. (John 9:41).

If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin: but now they have no cloak for their sin. (John 15:22).

If I had not done among them the works which none other man did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen and hated both me and my Father. (John 15:24).

Their focus is shallow, because they are not careful about the many and each. Their root is false. Their seed results in rotten fruit. They sin, because they don't believe in the real Jesus.
And when he is come, he will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment:
Of sin, because they believe not on me [Jesus]. (John 16:8-9).

They've heard what Jesus had to say. They've heard what Jesus did, how he lived. They've said they understand. Yet, they've rejected it. Yes, it has been given to them in twisted version. That is why we are untwisting it.

Inconsiderateness, in the deepest sense, permeates the culture. It stymies everything good. It runs from the top down and the bottom up.

Building on selfishness is building on quicksand

The economy, science, engineering, and technology won't open the gates of heaven for those out to storm heaven by force to get theirs while they imagine the getting is good.

The results of following the instruction of Jesus to love each other as he loved his friends and those who called him enemy can though be readily observed and recorded.

As we've seen, science cannot ever apprehend via its method what God will not allow it to apprehend. It will forever be limited in a way that precludes the kingdom of God, which is closed to those who believe no consciousness above theirs brought them into existence or created this whole plane of existence.
That which is beyond science to reveal is revealed only to those who come to know without having first to be convinced via experimentation. They take God for granted in the positive sense. In fact, having to have proof from tests before trusting God is a point at which the goats are separated from the sheep.

Jesus makes Satan doubt Satan

When Satan said to Jesus, if you're the Son of God, do various things just for the sake of showing it and for selfish gain, the devil was showing how unsure he is. That spirit hates the self-doubt that entered in on account of Jesus. It wants confidence in its falsely termed autonomous self. It doesn't want to trust God, because it cannot bring itself to believe in anything purely good. It looks at itself and judges all others by its own sin.

Satan is the spirit of temptation to not trust God implicitly without tests or pre-signs but rather to put all of one's trust in this worldly world and the things humans contrive. Satan is the spirit of centering on the false-self: The unholy spirit. God is the spirit of unselfishness: The Holy Spirit.

Belief in one's ultimate human autonomy leads to death. It fails the interdependence and interconnectedness necessary for real life here and now and hereafter.

Real grassroots democracy

The real grassroots democracy (interdependence and interconnectedness) is necessarily be of the unselfish spirit. Home rule, liberty, and sovereignty rest in the all, not in the falsely termed autonomous self.

You cannot beat the spirit of selfishness with selfishness. All that does is to remain that spirit. You cannot use selfish means to arrive at unselfish ends. You cannot eliminate killing by killing killers. You become one of them. You teach killing as the method of eliminating killing. You perpetuate it. Killing will end when all the people learn that the way to eliminate killing is by not killing even former killers. Evil will be stopped by stopping doing evil right from where you find yourself, one soul after another as an eternal groundswell. This is the teaching. That is the soul of the peace movement, the movement of the Holy Spirit to peace.

There is no real grassroots movement, true democracy, real liberty, peace, or love without the light that is the truth of it all. It all comes together else there is hypocrisy that is the leaven or yeast of the Pharisees, the elitists, the ones who lord it over others by virtue of their self-authorizing (Satanic) spirit that confuses minds and destroys souls and brings hell and darkness because they fall to the falsehood that they deserve favored treatment because they have had the twisted strength that is really weakness to use evil to rise up in their upside-down vision. Their intellect is blindness. There is no superiority in a global caste system of capitalism or in violence.
History is not finished unfolding

The case is not closed. History is not over. The capitalists have not prevailed nor will they.

It is true that technocrats and bureaucrats in the planned and mixed economies after World War II didn't have the new commandment written on their hearts. Therefore, they regulated, organized, and pushed against the flow of the Holy Spirit. They didn't know how to conduct the symphony. The people were not operating in a spirit of unison.

False-libertarian capitalists give themselves credit for bringing forth unwitting hell

The false-libertarian capitalists are taking credit for economic development around the world. They claim that all the increase in, and excesses of, capitalism, all the trade and opening up of markets, has been great and that they, the libertarians, are largely responsible for the shift in global economic policy that has allowed it. Where capitalism fails, some of them have argued, it really wasn't capitalism, since capitalism is by definition unregulated, or in their minds, more precisely self-regulating.

There are different brands of capitalism. There is state capitalism, which was the system of the USSR, where the self-styled vanguard of the proletariat (workers), through the one-party dictatorship, made all the decisions concerning development and production, etc. There is also corporate capitalism, still found in mixed economies, considered mixed because all locations come under a supposed sovereignty that, at the very least, ostensibly arranges public services even if those are provided via contracts with private (publicly traded or privately held; non-state owned) enterprises. The state in such circumstances is akin to a public corporation with citizens being shareholders, voters, and tax contributors, although the capitalist state most certainly can be a totalitarian dictatorship in the worse sense, contracting with enforcer corporations.

The libertarians don't emphasize, and often don't even mention, the economic meltdowns that have occurred with the system of selfishness. They gloss over the pain and suffering of people throughout the system. Even under the best circumstances their interpretation of libertarian capitalism has produced, they maintain that there is no better system desirable; therefore, systemic hardship for those on the bottom is an inherent result of human nature and the observable environment. For them, it is an economic law. For them, the only proper way for the needy to be taken care of is through the private enterprises' free choice to do it. If things work out better that way, the enterprises will earn a greater false profit to continue the process.

We say that devising the liberal devices that are the solutions to the problem of the needy is the only right corporate choice of all of humanity and that, that decision is at heart Christian and transcends capitalism and socialism, etc. This would be the shared ownership of the inheritance of all coupled with the giving economy. We outline how to do this later on in this work.
Double standard of self-styled libertarians who aren't libertarians at all

Some libertarians will argue that it is all up to the individual as to whether or not he or she will be among the systemically unemployed and that no one should be aided for making poor economic choices. This is a form of economic Darwinism. However, the viewpoint of these so-called libertarians presupposes that aiding others and being helped defines less fitness. Who wants to live in a world where fitness is defined as most selfish? Finding yourself in that world is where you are supposed to hate yourself (in that world; being in that world). Other so-called libertarians will say that free enterprises do undertake to aid, help, and cooperate when they see it as being in their own greatest self-interest but that it isn't the business of the state to interfere with free-market forces. Well, stop interfering with people's free choice to live communistically. Stop all the international coercion. It's nothing but a double standard on the part of these self-styled libertarians who aren't libertarians at all.

When they talk about the US before Reagan, they don't focus upon, and often don't even bother to talk about, the aftereffects of the Vietnam War, Watergate, the OPEC oil embargos, and the Iranian hostage crisis, all the rightwing overt and covert interventions in social movements around the world, and other deleterious events. They don't mention the huge Savings and Loan industry collapse that was brought on by deregulation in which the people were not allowed to see inside the corporations (no grassroots democracy allowed in laissez-faire corporations). They don't mention the implosion of the Asian Tigers, the nations that were once touted as the great new powerhouses of capitalism. They lauded Hong Kong, but they don't mention the serious health consequences of Hong Kong's pollution. They aren't talking about global warming as a direct consequence of market economies as they call them. They aren't talking about the weapons industry. They don't much discuss the corporate scandals and corruption. They don't talk about global crime, the black market, and mega-bank money laundering. They don't talk about the development of Big Brother.

The conservative economists imagine that they have learned how to better fine tune the global economy through rapid loan-restructurings (bailouts) tied to sudden and drastically high usury (central banking interest rates) and an equally sudden and strict starvation diet in the form of fiscal (government) budget cuts and social-program gutting and with all spending and purchasing decisions being made as much as possible by competitive employers in the usual form of corporations. The thinking is that the best decisions will result from the competition of selfish souls vying for the vote of others registered through spending and investment choices.

It is thought that as lessons are learned and the tweaking perfected, national banks will be better able to anticipate where to set the interest rate and will adhere to the discipline necessary not to use the interest rate for short-term political gains detrimental in the longer run. When will the World Bank successor be the global central bank of the single world currency?
The problem with the picture above is that the decision making of consumers and investors is limited relative to those at the top of the corporations.

Real, fair economy
When every person contributes according to abilities and receives a return based upon real need and has an equal vote concerning all the policies and operations of the entities producing materials, goods, or services, then you will see real bounty. The market must include the boardroom. Let the boardrooms be free and open markets of ideas open to all.

Until that is done, the economic problems associated with irrational boom and bust will take place. It will always be Herbert Hoover all over again.

Other than the fear of the state, the fear that the state will come down hard on the worker, there is no incentive in a centrally planned economy run by a totalitarian, top-down, one-party state. That's why Stalin was brutal. That's why there were so many massive prison camps, forced-labor camps, psychiatric prisons, and the like, all called gulags, which included real criminals and mere political dissenters and their innocent family members.
Economic miracle in Chile?

According to so-called libertarians an economic miracle occurred in Chile. What happened was that the political environment was made ripe for transnational investment by huge corporations. What did the workers become? Did they become free? Did they own where they worked? Did they have a vote in who managed the workplace? Privatization of everything gives everything over to competition that quickly now consolidates industries in the hands of the few superrich. Reduced central-government bureaucracy makes operating such private, monopolistic enterprises less costly relative to operating in other nations where social concerns run higher. Naturally, once the political situation is considered stable enough (meaning once the military and police are powerful enough and on board), the first speculators rush in for the kill. The resources of the nation are plundered until depletion. What happens then? Is serfdom over?

At first, things go very badly. This is the shock in the economic-shock therapy. The people in other countries with the money are cautious. The belt-tightening starves the poorest of the poor. Unemployment is severe. People start selling what they can bring to meager markets. Then the richer capitalists start to come into the wide-open market. Things boom. Then comes the consolidation of power in the hands of the superrich who will then be able to dictate terms just as in the bad old days of the United Fruit Company and other such enterprises. Gone are the hawker in the street markets driven out by the big-box retailers and such.
Also, consume, consume, consume unsustainably just eats everything and the waste products just pollute and pollute. It destroys the earth. The system destroys the homeworld. Such is the inevitable result of capitalism, because it is based upon selfishness. One cannot teach both unselfishness and capitalism without being inherently hypocritical.

Evil is not the commons but rather central dictatorship

Capitalism ends up centralized in the boardrooms and executive president's office of the transnational corporations especially when they are given their heads as they have been more and more since Ronald Reagan and Margaret Thatcher. Marx, Lenin, Stalin, and Mao were wrong, but so were Mises, Hayek, and Friedman.

The commons is rightfully earth. No one had a right to deprive others of that shared inheritance. That was rebelling in heaven. The rebellious mentality says the following:

It's mine, I got here first, I built it up, you can't have any, get out or I'll kill you.

That mentality develops in reaction to another rebellious and reactive mentality as follows:

I don't care if you were here first, I'm taking what I want, and I'll kill you first or anyone else who tries to get in my way.
Now those two mentalities are the selfish approach. They are in stark contrast to the mentality that says the following:

Let's cooperate to share fairly the use of the entire world; let's agree to take really good care of the planet and everyone on it; let's discuss everything openly, honestly, and directly; let's be sure that everyone has an equal say rather than being greedy, selfish, violent, and iniquitous.

The mammon-based economists are afraid of hyperinflation. There is no hyperinflation where there is no mammon (money). In a giving and sharing economy, there is no need for money. Everyone is more than reciprocal. It is understood. No one is out for self.

The libertarians are also for fiscal discipline (governments not borrowing or running a budget deficit). Well, living within one's means is right. It is also easy when one does what God says to do. Living within one's means also necessarily means not destroying one's homeworld.

The US is living beyond the means of the planet to support the US lifestyle for all by some sevenfold. The US population would have to cut back sevenfold to be at the point where the earth could sustain that lifestyle for everyone on the planet. Obviously there are too many people, and the capitalist system is the opposite of the necessary system.

The anarcho-capitalists point to the failure of the Soviet Union as proof that non-capitalism cannot work. Well, who owned the state in Soviet Russia? It wasn't the people. It was the bosses at the very top. What was in it for the people? The selfishness of those at the top was not inspiring for the common people. When those commoners were given a chance to be selfish for themselves, absent the Holy Spirit, of course they became stimulated. What resulted though is not anywhere near as good as things will be when all the people of the world join as one in the spirit of real cooperation.

The commanding heights of the economy will be controlled by federations of unselfish people's participatory communes. It will not be private, special advantage and privilege for corporate shareholders and executives. It will not be centrally owned and planned, elitist governments of directors. It will not be taken by force. Those who attempt to take the high places by force will suffer the fate of Ahab who was killed for not listening to the prophets of Yahveh.

All the evils of false-libertarian capitalism will be magnified: Pollution of mind, body, heart, and soul; pollution of the natural environment; abuse of workers with slave wages, no health benefits, no retirement pensions, no unemployment insurance, no worker's compensation for injuries, no right to form unions or cooperatives, no profit sharing, no employee ownership, no democracy in the workplace, no retraining, no flextime, no free daycare, no maternity leave, no vacations, no holidays, no overtime pay, no progressive discipline, no appeal process; constant surveillance; wars; terrorism; pestilences; famines; massive weather disturbances; and on and on.

Unionism under capitalism isn't good enough
That system will be displaced. It won't result in more dependency upon money. It won't result in the kind of unionism that leaves the workers without ownership or grassroots control. That kind of union leaves workers selfishly motivated within an economic system built upon that dark and evil spirit. That unionism doesn't go far enough. The history of the struggle of the common people is that they never go far enough through the strait gate and down the narrow way.

Here comes real Christianity for the millennium and eternity. After the final test, humanity will overcome and lead to the complete conflation of heaven and earth, together as the new wineskin devoid of selfishness and full of consideration for others.

Where to invest
If you invest in mammon, when it fails, so will your investment. If you invest in the real Church that is on the ground growing food and producing things for the sake of all in righteousness, when mammon fails, your investment will still be there. If you do this for righteousness’ sake, because it will help people ad infinitum, you will have stored up treasure in the kingdom of God. That will be where your heart and treasure are. You will have helped bring forth. You will not just be giving a handout that will stop there. It will go to creating the system that will generate more of the same: Help. We don't want to redistribute only. We want to add to real wealth, not the false wealth of devouring, but the real adding.

Who controls the global economy? Who makes the rules? Who has the most money? Who lends to whom? Who sets the policies of individual nations? Are they people with the golden rule written on their hearts and in the forethoughts of their minds? When they bailout nations and industries, what deal do they want? What gain do they want? They are the chief mammon investors with their treasures stored up here and now built upon selfishness. They want globalization of their mammon system. They won't have it. It's the wrong investment. Too many people rightly hate it.

The false-libertarian message won't result in evenhandedness around the world. They want unregulated selfishness to be self-tempered by realizations that come only after crises. They have pit US workers against emerging, second-and third-world countries. The US has higher domestic standards to protect the environment and workers. The third world has little to none. The US can't compete with that, so US workers lose out while third-world workers are abused and exploited in ways US workers used to be en masse before business was forced to compromise because of worker uprisings and the threat of violent revolution. This whole pattern is unhealthy for all concerned. People are not anticipating the problems that are going to surface and spread out of control to affect the entire network. Only those who listened to God will be as Noah was before the coming flood. Noah invested correctly, so to speak.

What is poverty?

The capitalists warp the meaning of poverty subtly to make people feel that they would somehow be poor living in harmony with God's natural creation. Living on the land and working with draft animals is depicted in the Western media as necessarily living in poverty. That's ridiculous. Farming with draft animals should not be equated with poverty. It must be understood that before there was electricity and cars and running water, there was great wealth with many of the wealthy personally engaged in farming with draft animals and living on the land. The idea that everyone must obtain food only out of a supermarket is spiritually damaging. Let's not forget that inappropriate technology is the source of environmental pollution.

Poverty is not having enough to eat or enough clean water. It is being naked against the cold or scorching sun. It is having no protection from the elements. Poverty is not knowing right from wrong. It is choosing evil. It is being left by the side of the road half dead or leaving someone by the side of the road half dead. It is not befriending those of the unselfish spirit.

To the capitalists, trading for selfish profit is the way forward. They are wrong. That way leads to poverty. Giving is the answer.
Capitalism: Slaver’s mentality

Capitalism is in keeping with the line of evil going back to the first lie, murder, theft, and rape, and so forth. The imperialism and colonialism of the powers that rose up have just continued and exacerbated the problems the world is facing. The English founding fathers of the US could have chosen a different way other than transatlantic slavery and all the other terrible things they did to indigenous populations around the planet. Today, capitalism is just a manifestation of the same diseased root. It is a blind system. Talking about tweaking it as if capitalism is the only choice is a waste. To tweak capitalism is to dismiss Jesus Christ. That won't do. It isn't acceptable. It isn't fitting.

US capitalists' delusional triumph over history

The false-libertarian capitalists, the neoliberals, the neocons are delusional that they have triumphed over history. Such endism is immoral. They imagine that the US Empire will now provide the central hub for the world that will forever require the US through which to obtain services and information. This is the same thinking that London went through in becoming the banking hub of the industrializing world after Manchester and London lost predominance in manufacturing and then shipping in the Industrial Revolution. The other rising powers are not going to fail to create competing structures in order to bring down the US. This is an increasingly restless world growing smaller.
Unfortunately, the world is growing smaller to the extent that there will be less space in which to stand back from the fray of the evil spirits engaged in the frenzy.

Flowing with the Holy Spirit causes the people to be put into sync, unison, a state of harmony and accord. Even when they are at a distance, they feel the flock. Intentions are from the same guiding principle, the same foundational truth from which all things rightly flow.

History isn't over. The state at which the new commandment is written on the heart of everyone isn't here. The essence of evil has not been purged in the unquenchable lake of fire. Agreement was never reached in England. Consensus in society was never reached. John Maynard Keynes was never the guru of the grassroots.

False-libertarian capitalists limited to false choices

Today, wishful thinkers are attempting to manage perception about the past. They have reduced the whole stream of history within a given time frame to an argument between their contrived perception of history which they have reduced to Stalinism and Keynesianism versus libertarian capitalism inevitably leading to liberal democracy as the final wave. This, many thought, was the final debate. Everything thereafter was to be just tweaking. Many are beginning to wake up. Some are diehards.
Fukuyama couldn't be more wrong

Francis Fukuyama wrote the following:

One of the achievements of early modern liberalism was its success persuading people of the need to exclude discussion of final ends addressed by religion from the realm of politics.84

What an evil and inherently incorrect conclusion that is. The right ends are the only right means!
The truth is that the historic dearth of discussion of both the means and ends of Christianity has been the problem. If the focus of discussions had been on the new commandment and remained there from the beginning, we'd all be living in the real heaven right now. It wasn't to be of course; otherwise, it would have happened and the prophecy would have been completely in sync with that.

No, the things pertaining to Jesus had one of its ends in that age before the Roman's trampled Jerusalem. Also, the end of that age gave birth to this one, which has had its sub-ages, and in which Jesus has his continuing role to play of course. Christ and Christlikeness are together and eternal.

Adam Smith: No prophet

Adam Smith didn't write the end of history, God did. Adam Smith showed that he was in the dark. He admitted it. He gave room for being more than suspicious of the monopolistic tendencies of libertarian capitalism. He would have seen the monetarists' regulation of interest rates for what it is. It is their tool to protect the rich by placing the burden further on the backs of the poor who are thrown into unemployment and depravation not by free-market forces but by the deliberate callousness of the rich owners and bosses.

They truly harm and offend the common people by refusing them the opportunity to look at, listen to, see, hear, perceive, feel, understand, know, and become one with the truth.

Groping in the dark

The Austrian and Chicago schools of economic thought are composed of theoreticians. They are searching for a unified theory. Each time the theoreticians discover some model that has what they think is a practical application, they overstate the significance of the model. Their culture is about beating about the bush. They look for theories to justify what they want to do.

The real question isn't one of regulation or deregulation from the outside. It is a question of the kind of regulation from the inside taken from the guiding spirit.

Malaise

The reason for the economic malaise during president Jimmy Carter's era wasn't vague.
Carter correctly identified that there was a malaise, but he shrugged his shoulders and stayed too close to the status quo to come up with the root cause.

Carter is rightly credited with, among other things, turning up the volume on the issue of global human rights. However, everything is psychological and sociological. The individual and collective spirit is the whole thing. The individual and collective spirit was, and still is, in need of answers to the fundamental questions of war, materialism, and other problems. That's why there was a malaise. The people of the US had just gone through trying times and were waiting for answers that never came out of the system.

Reagan increased darkness

Rather than supply those answers, Ronald Reagan came on the scene as the Biblical roaring lion. He said the answer is, commit to selfishness. Be strong in it. Feel good about it. It's right. He made people feel good about their selfishness. He simply masked the underlying, still-festering disease. Well, he had fallen for the temptation of the serpent as had everyone else.

The spirits of rebellion against God have many voices. Whatever keeps people from acting in unison as directed by the new commandment is one of those rebellious spirits. Ronald Reagan was just one voice with a mix of fallen spirits speaking through him. What he said was not enlightening. He did not illuminate the darkness. Neither is anyone from the Austrian and Chicago schools of economic thought shedding real light. Their first principle won't gain you admission to God's kingdom. I promise you that.

The new commandment is observably right

It can't, because it purports that the word isn't necessary. Now, you may instantly say that this is circular as in The Bible is right, because it says so. That's not how we're putting it. We are saying that the new commandment is right, and we can know it by observation. The Austrian-cum-Chicago school on the other hand says that the new commandment isn't necessary and that the invisible hand of market forces will guide us. In their school, selfishness isn't evil.

The evil spirit of selfishness is the invisible hand and the unknown god of the libertarian capitalists

The spirit of selfishness is their unknown god. They are its priests. The greatest salesperson at any given moment becomes its high priest. This is satanic by definition. Is it forgivable? Is it pardonable? Are they ignorant? How will they learn? What will condition their souls? The word of God is the command to love. Switching from one form of the absence of understanding to another doesn't excuse the ultimate obligation to comprehend that unselfish love, real love, is the answer.

When the people were searching for answers, Reagan, et al, didn't supply the right one. No amount of historical revisionism, interpretation based upon selective and convenient memory, and redefining the argument between the forces of good and evil, light and dark, the real fruit and feeding lusts will succeed.

What do we say to them?

And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, There is yet one man, Micaiah the son of Imlah, by whom we may enquire of the LORD: but I hate him; for he doth not prophesy good concerning me, but evil. (1 Kings 22:8).

They still hate Jesus for pointing out their selfishness.

We prophesy

We prophesy, and they hate it. Being silent on morality is immoral and, therefore, false. Falsehood always fails. That's its meaning. Be true. You cannot succeed by placing your sins upon the back of others (who have no say because you have kept them from equal ownership) you then send into the wilderness of unemployment. You curse yourselves by scapegoating and crucifying the poor upon your crosses of greed. You turn our Father's earth into a den of thieves. Stop vying for discipleship and high-priest status in gangsterism wrapped in sheep's clothing. All the imagery and sound effects you pay for isn't going to save anyone.

State control is right when the grassroots controls the state and they follow the golden rule. Grassroots collectivism is the only democracy. Austrian-Chicago suppresses this. Libertarianism of the Austrian-Chicago kind uses the state to crush the grassroots. It is inherently fascistic. The false libertarian capitalist, police-state dogs will torture and murder the people to keep them from eating in the manger. Austrian-Chicago is intellectual hypocrisy. The people are not free to choose under Austrian-Chicago libertarian capitalism. Where is the intellectual honesty that will allow the people to sleep without having to have one eye open? When the Austrian-Chicago is confounded, will they have their thugs place the people in their sights as the cowards did who murdered Jesus? Tell the truth. Turn to God. Repent. Atone. Stop trying to take the high places by force. Stop your illicit worship. Stop refusing the lightest yoke possible that is righteousness, the new commandment in its fullest context which is its only context.

We shall contend with and overcome violence, greed, and depravity, sacrificing mundane, temporal, safety and security for the sake of peace and righteousness that are the LORD. The mundane economists fear hyperinflation and economic depression and collapse. They should. They should fear more than that though. They should also fear the selfish measures they take to prevent them. They should learn the way to avoid such collapse that is real Christianity.
False-libertarian capitalists limited to false choices, continued

What is the debate as the capitalists have defined it? Regulation, wage-and-price controls, fiscal policy, social welfare, full employment, pump priming, etc., versus monetary policy, deregulation, privatization, systemic unemployment, and abolition of the social welfare safety net is the argument of central planning versus allowing greedy capitalist corporations to slug it out for monopoly.

Even where Marxism-Leninism enters into the debate, it is still about central planning of everything or just central planning of the heavy industries, where the centralized, undemocratic state is the owner of the heavy industries. Stalinism added in the forced collectivization of agriculture to force farms to feed the cities and factories. Nowhere in the debate as the capitalists have framed it do we find the clear alternative of centralized/decentralized, grassroots, democratic, equal employee ownership. It is out of the question.

Ostensibly Christian churches buy into the false choice

The more selfish, less compassionate side argued using fear tactics against a more deliberate, planned, sharing system. They painted everything with one brush. All forms of unselfish co-ownership at the peaceful grassroots level were to be shunned equally with the violent totalitarianism that resulted in the purges in the Soviet Union and the deaths in the concentration camps under the Nazis. Frankly, they argued against Jesus, and the people bought into it even while attending their ostensibly Christian churches.

The unselfish spirit takes care of everybody if everybody is unselfish. No one is left sick and unattended. No one gets better treatment than any one else just because he or she has more money. No one goes hungry due to systemic unemployment. No one is told he or she cannot cooperate for the good of all. This is not the speculative mentality. It is toward the sure thing. We will have it when we do it.

The opposite spirit actually leads to what it claims about the cooperative spirit. So-called free-market, huge-business, capitalist economics leads to disaster. Capitalism is lower than the all red-meat diet of economics. It has no mind. It has no conscience. It has no compassion. Even the lions on the African plain can show pity. The prince of this world though turns a blind eye to what the lions find sinful. It is guided by selfishness that won't quit until most find themselves in the foxholes of their own making if they will even convert then.

The problem with these thinkers is that they are myopic. The problem is that they don't understand what democracy truly is. You cannot have a free market without democracy at the grassroots in all economic matters, meaning that choice of capital allocation cannot be left up to a few who get to be owners of the means of production and pretty much control everything. Only with the uncoerced participation of everyone, one-person-one-vote with each allowed a voice, will the false system be replaced by the divine direction. Then the new system, the core direction of humanity in general, in the aggregate, will be caring for the soil for the good seed to take root and thrive.

Centralized aspect

Everyone must come to share ownership with God of everything. Concerning who gets what, everyone must be allowed to decide together at the immediate level. The immediate level will be guided by the whole with the focus upon getting closer and closer to the spirit of the new commandment. The spirit of sharing and giving will include sharing information about local processes. That's the centralized aspect. The best will spread. That's why Jesus said shine the light of truth.

Local aspect

This doesn't mean every time someone uses something that a vote must be taken. The people will decide long-term use, where such decisions make sense. They will also be raised up in true honor. They won't be tempted and confused by the capitalists system to be selfishly taking what they shouldn't, which is taking in excess, meaning more than one truly needs. The people will discuss openly, honestly, and directly what "truly needs" means. The darkness will be dispelled. They will bring light into one another's lives.

The people will combine as they see fit provided that the first principle, which is the new commandment, the enhanced understanding of the golden rule, remains the focus. Then everything will work forever without the problems of depression, hyperinflation, unemployment, war, or depravity.

The whole libertarian-capitalist economic debate is obfuscation.

In the real dominion, there is no need of money

You make what is needed, you being the people, and you give it to each other as each has need. That's it. You decide what you need and you make it together for each other. There is no money to be hoarded. The more you do things right, the less you’ll have to work making anything. Unselfish thinking will see to it. It will unleash the Holy Spirit, literally. Then you won't need a tax. Then you won't need regulation from the outside, because you will be self-regulated in the only way that matters: The Holy Spirit of the truth of the new commandment. Then there will be no competition as incentive but rather compassion and giving and sharing all as incentive. Righteousness is its own incentive. You are your brothers and sisters and cousins. Things will be harmonious. There won't be strikes or walkouts. There won't be negative exploitation. No one will use anyone else for selfish purposes. That's heaven, and heaven is its own means.

There is no magic balance in capitalism between a pure and a mixed economy. Pure capitalism brings evil. The mixed also brings evil. Control in the hands of anyone other than everyone-as-one is a dead end. Fighting is wrong. Holding out for more than a fair share based on need, regardless of the amount one is able to contribute, is wrong. Blessed are the softhearted who see this, want this, and will do this. The rich are selfish. They don't forgo so others may have. The lazy are selfish. They don't help even when they can and even when others give to them.

The only right system is unselfishness. The libertarian capitalists are still arguing about the wrong things. They are congratulating themselves even as their decisions are proving failed. Changing evil to fight evil seems to work for a while until the victorious supposed lesser of evils becomes magnified relative to the old evil it replaced. All that process has been doing since it started is eating the planet. They aren't nearly as smart as they thought or still imagine themselves to be.

Capitalism is the devouring spirit

Capitalism needs a place for surplus capital to go. They use subterfuge. They are always expansionistic. They strive to gain markets for financial and other services. They strive to control capital and thereby production (land, energy, raw materials, equipment, facilities, labor, and transportation, etcetera). They strive to block and deny others.

In this devouring, expansionistic mentality, it doesn't matter what crimes are committed. Wars are held up as good for being the lesser of evils. Capitalism though goes to war against giving and sharing in the Holy Spirit: Real Christianity.

Real Christianity is not a greater evil. Real Christianity is the great enemy of the evil that is theft. It is the great enemy of piracy (whether by a state such as England did it or stateless gangsters) and besieging cities and nations for plunder and control (as all empires have done since the beginning of empire) and attacking caravans (the foundation of Islamic wealth and power) and doing all the other things that Jesus abhorrED and God abhors in people.

Empire thugs
The US capitalists hate Castro in Cuba.
However, they loved the dictator before him,
Batista, and Meyer Lansky the gangster who ran Cuba. What is a mob but a small nation-state?
The Mafia simply practices Machiavellianism.
They are just doing what the whole US does in many ways but on a smaller scale. The same can be said of all bad actors in the world. The evil is only a matter of degree. The more sophisticated they became, the more the US government used them. There is no clear line of demarcation between the US government and what the US
Justice Department would call organized crime.
J. Edgar Hoover used the FBI simply to compete with organized crime for the same territory organized on a different level that made the crimes of the nation appear to the duped as more respectable.

This is by no means intended to excuse the Mafia or condemn the entire nation aware of the official crimes of the state. It is also not intended to judge or condemn the members of the Mafia, US government, England, Islam, or any other group. All may freely repent. God has offered it. Far be it from any of God's servants to stand in the way of that. In very fact, this work is an invitation to repent. Without that offer, there is nothing.

As we know, in order for the US to expand its crime of stealing the inheritance of all in extreme favor of those who already have excess even beyond their own abilities accurately to determine, the US has had its CIA conduct untold paramilitary and military operations since the first one in Iran and at least in the following additional countries: Afghanistan, Albania, Angola, Bolivia, Bosnia, Cambodia, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Egypt, El Salvador, Grenada, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Indonesia, Iraq, Korea, Kuwait, Laos, Lebanon, Liberia, Libya, Nicaragua, Oman, Pakistan, Panama, the Philippines, Puerto Rico, Saudi Arabia, Somalia, Sudan, Vietnam, the Virgin Islands, Yugoslavia, and Zaire (now the Democratic Republic of the Congo). You know there are more that just haven’t come out. These don’t even mention the coup plottings and backing of dictatorships in nations not listed.

The cronies get the contracts. They get the laws they want. They are the military-industrial complex. They are the power elite. It is nepotism (not on the merits), incest, and prostitution. It’s the spoils system. It’s political patronage in the worst sense.

Libertarians move leftist right

Latin America, it is said, is currently moving toward greater socialism. It is doing it relatively peacefully and democratically. What is being labeled socialism in Latin America though makes the New Deal look like pure communism. The US libertarians have managed to move the definition of leftist way over to the right. The center-left regimes, as they are being labeled, popping up throughout Latin America are far from socialist. They just aren't completely big-business libertarian. These days, any nation that isn't one-hundred percent privatized is leaning left. Well, by that standard, the US is leftist. However, the US is extremely anti-real liberal. In many ways, it is the most extremely anti-real liberal nation on the planet.

Neoliberalism is past its peak

The US can't back assassinating of all the more sharing leaders in Latin America anymore without ticking off the majority of the American citizenry. The fact is that Latin America is not going to be dictated to by the US. Those days are gone. What is happening now in Latin America is going to have a greater impact upon the rest of the world than realized. Neoliberalism is past its peak. It will be all compromises from here on until all hell breaks loose.

Socialism is not the answer mind you, but it is closer to the kingdom than the neoliberal economics of the US. It will help prepare people for giving and sharing all for righteousness' sake and not for what they will get out of it personally.

Privatization isn't free trade

The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and the *Central American Free Trade
CAFTA) are systems that reinforce privatization and other problems. They are built around the policies of the World Trade Organization (WTO). The agreements force national economies to open up all services to international competition and private investment. Truly, national economic boundaries are disappearing and have already been largely replaced by a world government of, by, and for capitalist and militaristic corporations. Democracy would effectively be eliminated. Capitalist monopolies would result within nations. One corporation could easily control all of a particular service across a majority of nations. The corporate executives and chief investors would become richer while the poor and middle and lower classes would become relatively poorer, as usual.

World government

It isn't that one-world government is bad. What's bad is that they are getting it wrong. Right now, people can be placed in an international lawless zone. Consider the prisoners being held by the US whom the US claims were enemy combatants but not as part of a state and not in uniform, etc., meaning the US doesn't feel obliged to afford the prisoners rights otherwise guaranteed, according to the US, to regular troops of nation-states in cases where those troops were taken while acting in a legal capacity under international rules of warfare or combat. The truth is that there should be no such twilight zone or lawless status for any human being such that he or she is left without rights. Consider habeas corpus for instance. The US holds that habeas corpus is a fundamental right. It holds that it is so fundamental that it is written into the US Constitution on account of the fact that habeas-corpus rights where not afforded the colonists by the British Crown. In other words, the framers of the US Constitution held that the British Crown should never have maintained a position that the colonists were in a legal twilight zone having no inherent habeas-corpus rights.

To be consistent, everyone in the world should be guaranteed the same rights under the law. Of course, the law should evolve in the hearts of all the people such that no one should find himself or herself in need of exercising a writ of habeas corpus. The point though is still made.

Also, nation-states are certainly not capable of remaining self-restrained in the use of weapons of mass death and destruction. First strike is going to be pushed further forward due to fear of the use of founded or unfounded preemption and prevention by others. World government is necessary to dissolve that nation-state mentality, meaning the selfish nationalistic attitude pitting groups against groups when we are all supposed to be one, humanity, one family.

The right one-world government will exist after the first attempt is gummed up something awful by the self-centered ones who are forced by what they see as selfish expediency of acquisitiveness to finish forming the current world government that is the old wineskin. What a shame it is that humanity will have to fail before getting it right. Humanity is forming a world government based upon selfish interests, and that government will fail. Then the world will reform under the new commandment and be saved.

Supranational corporatization and hence de-democratization of the world

Under the world government by capitalist corporations, the poorer peoples can not hold the majority of voting shares. There has been a movement afoot within the corporate-globalization movement to nullify the votes of the poor on local and national levels. The rich have been very busy at international organizational and legal levels putting into place highly undemocratic rules that clearly undermine democracy at the local and national levels around the world. The poor do not vote within the international organizations. It is unjust, and everyone knows it. Those who do nothing about it are hypocrites known to God. The poor don't even have any representation within most of the critical organizations even though their welfare should be the highest priority. Yet, they are directly and indirectly taxed in support of that system. When combined with the lack of voice the poor have within the corporate boardrooms and executive offices of the multinational corporations, which corporations are the largest beneficiaries of the rules designed to be untouchable by the poor, the poor, and others really, are slowly and stealthily becoming more disenfranchised even as the rich are touting democracy out of the other side of their mouths. It is a vast class-based deception.
Killing farmers, continued

The Central American Free Trade Agreement for instance provides for little to no worker's rights. Jobs are moved from places where there are stronger environmental and worker protections to where corporations do not pay for such measures. This hurts labor both where jobs are lost and where the jobs go. It really degrades the environment where the jobs end up. Under the North American Free Trade Agreement, as of this entry, some one million Mexicans have stopped small-scale farming in Mexico. This is exactly what the farmers in other Latin American countries are afraid will happen in their nations if they accept neoliberal policies of falsely termed free and open trade. The US mega-corporate farming industry is heavily subsidized after all. The same is true in wealthy Europe. It can flood small nations with cheap low nutrition foods putting local farmers out of business just as it has put millions of family farmers out of business right in the US itself.

There are even aspects of the laws that allow corporations to sue countries for discrimination that seek to export their nationalized water. This whole loan and privatization association is a scheme by the rich to further rob the poor. They will cite all sorts of one-sided statistical sources in support of such privatization; however, the renationalized water efforts in Bolivia have already done better than Bechtel's five-year effort. The Bolivians are often just using more appropriate, smaller-scale, localized technologies.

Of course, were the whole world truly living in the spirit of the first and great commandment and the second like it, no people on earth would be lacking clean free water. Greed has brought all the ills upon the world. Love is the only thing that can reverse it.

Privatization itself is a tax break for the wealthy

The thrust behind privatization is to reduce the degree to which citizens share costs. With a privatized system, the wealthy service providers get back more profit than they pay in taxes. The poor get the least from the capitalist system relative to what they put in. With a non-privatized system, no citizen makes a profit off any other. All citizens own the system equally. The only reason why the shared-ownership method ever runs into trouble is because of the constant voices pulling in the opposite that is selfish direction. The selfish continually claim that competition will bring better and better everything. Does it? Has it? In my lifetime, competition has degraded life. The overall quality of life (the aggregate world) has suffered in many respects due to competition. Deregulation has not helped. This of course is not to say that coercive regulation is the path to heaven. It is not. However, competition is the path to hell.

False arguments of huge corporate-farming

There are those within the huge corporate-farming industry who will say that the family farms of old were not very effective and simply became obsolete. Well, those family farms were themselves competitive on the scale at that time.
They were never based upon complete cooperation spanning the entire community. A family farm is not a communal farm unless one considers the whole community as family, which is how it was in the beginning. Therefore, it is disingenuous to declare cooperatives or communal farms as inherently dysfunctional.

The huge corporate farms are simply an extension of the lack of cooperation all along within under the capitalistic system. Those in that huge industry will also say that the collective farms of the soviet system for instance also were not effective. Well, there again, those collectives were not truly cooperative efforts. The only fair comparison between the huge corporate farms and the cooperative system is between those corporations versus communist farms and Israeli kibbutzim and the like. Those efforts have proven very effective and could easily be translated around the world to the utter fear of the hugely subsidized corporate farming industry.

Imagine the world under the complete spirit of cooperation rather then this push for competition and even monopoly by the very few. All the hyper selfishness would be gone out of this life. What a blessing that would be. Everyone would serve and be served. None would be neglected. That would be, and is, the kingdom on its way here. Now, bring it forth rather than just imagining it.

Speak positively of sharing and respecting the commons. Change the words. Every single selfish word serves the attempt to lessen the light of unselfishness. Even if the word seemingly is completely disassociated with the public service in question, it nevertheless has the effect of pulling minds away from thinking of the common good. It attempts to change people's minds into thinking that what is most selfish is best. People working in the public-service system then are not encouraged in the understanding that they are working in their own institution. The greedy voices serve to speak of such fully shared efforts as somehow foreign to the people when in fact all the people own the very thing the greedy are constantly disparaging, undercutting, and under funding. The spirit of the commons is ruined, because the selfish are constantly disparaging that spirit. Stop listening to them. Start saying the opposite.

The real impetus behind privatization is the greed of those who will supply the service and the greed of the shareholders (wealthy) of those corporate providers. It is then no longer owned by all the people. It is then in the hands of those who can pay themselves obscene amounts while the destitute become even more desperate. The argument is that the wealthy will provide better service since their greed will encourage them not to lose the contract. That's a terrible spirit to encourage and reinforce. It is what is wrong with everything.

It doesn't work, since under that system, the wealthy would end up owning all sides of the contracting process. They end up controlling or owning the politicians and governmental administrators and the providing companies all at the same time. They only compete amongst themselves. The poor are simply disenfranchised and stuck with the rich telling them that it is all for the best. In the meantime, the environment suffers, and the poor are kicked off their land and into enslaving work for the rich. Also, the road back to public (common) ownership is made harder since the government will have lost the public-management skills necessary to provide what it used to. It is the same with the family farm. Who will remember how to live out from under the corporately globalized world? Who will be allowed to even if they do retain the rounded knowledge?

Privatization claims that competition rather than cooperation brings the world better things. It is not so and never has been. Cooperation, by definition, always takes into consideration what is best for all. That is the true nature of cooperation. Competition only takes into consideration what will appear to the shortsighted to win for them regardless of the degree to which it will be at the expense of what is best for all (not just the majority, but all).

Capitalist privatizers are divided against themselves

The privatizers want to use greed as the stimulus or incentive for providing. They set up competition throughout, pit individual against individual, meaning that to move up, one must gain a competitive edge. One may be asked at the same time to compete against and cooperate with the very same people. It is confusion. It has always been confusion. It has never been the right path. All who have gone down that path have fallen. It does not matter how successful they are within the defined concepts of that path, they have fallen. In fact, the more successful in their minds they have become on that path, the more they have fallen. They are rich in mammon and poor in truth.

Fortune and Forbes are not the books of life

For example, people salivate in envy over the Fortune magazine’s list of the top 500 corporations or Forbes magazine’s annual list of the world’s riches people. They think that these are lists of success with the number one ranking indicating the greatest success. However, the inverse is more nearly correct. The people in the world with the greatest personal accumulation of acquired wealth are showing themselves to be the greatest hoarders in a world full of want. They wear their rankings as badges of honor when they should consider Jesus's words concerning the inherent evils of such wealth. They have turned money into their shameful god and all the financial and military and industrial institutions into their temples. Capitalism has become their religion. It is true even for many of those calling themselves liberals, leftists, or even radicals. They cannot also then serve the real God. It is not possible. Will they listen?

The conservatives, of course, hate this. They see the spreading of democracy as spreading the opening of markets for transnational, corporate takeover of even the very water people need. Bechtel apparently raised the price of water some two hundred percent in Bolivia for example. The greed of stockholders, the love of mammon, lies at the root of such evil.
The conscience is to censor

Some people will assert, regardless of what we say, that we are saying that the mundane laws should prevent Rupert Murdoch and others from being able to speak as they choose about their political and other views and from being able to flaunt their temptations and fall into them. We say that the law in their hearts should be to just not speak as they are speaking or do as they are doing. They are choosing to say and do the wrong things. We are not advocating for changes in the coercive laws of men and women in the old-wineskin system that is capitalism. Why would Rupert Murdoch need a mundane coercive law to restrain him when he can turn directly to the message of Jesus Christ? We are though for truly liberal devising and devices.

Will all the people stand for righteousness? Will they be unanimous? If so, let it be so.

The great commandment is already the law that tells anyone and everyone willing to listen that what the churlish and villainous feel, think, say, and do wrong should not be felt, thought, said, or done. It is all retarding perfection, the divine law. That is what we are saying. We are saying that keeping the divine law precludes sin and what they are saying and doing is evil: Selfish. We are saying that ignorance is an excuse for sin, but that it is a sin to wish to remain ignorant. We are saying that sin is ignorance of a kind. We are further saying that no one can save all alone. Jesus said so, and he was absolutely right. Jesus could not keep the great commandment for everyone else.
Even without coercion, were God instantly to implant the great commandment in everyone, it would not be love. It would not be the result of free will and worthy and only worthy fruits. Love would not have been freely reciprocated by humanity. It would remain a kind of ignorance for not having been experienced through the ordeal of overcoming temptation, atoning, being purged, and suffering to magnify. We must partake freely and knowingly that is experience it to value it properly; otherwise, we will never share ownership of the kingdom of heaven. Heaven is the freest commons. It is most valued by those who have become most free. It is perfectly free of selfishness. It is the state of pure righteousness.

Conservatives bring out the worst; bad influences

Contrary to bringing forth the righteous state of pure unselfishness, the conservatives bring out the worst in journalists and higher-education administrators to further the agenda of selfishness. They are bad influences. They set up all sorts of organizations and commercial endeavors to plan and execute all the selfish inspiration the funders want foisted upon the general public through stealthy and near subliminal (below the level of your conscious perception) efforts of public-relations firms. It falls below the radar of the vast majority of people. It works upon their minds even as they are completely unaware of the activity to manipulate them for evil purposes that is for antichristian purposes.
Hooverville think tanks

There are many prime examples of conservative and even false-liberal entities created for other than Christian purposes. Even though many such entities were established by those professing Christ, the deeds and fruits of those entities expose their founders' unchristian beliefs. Some examples are the self-styled think tanks named the Brookings Institution (1918) and the Hoover Institute (1919). The Hoover Institute was started by US president Herbert Hoover of Hooverville fame. Hoovervilles were shanty towns built by the dispossessed during the Great Depression brought on by the rampant selfishness of capitalism that wishes to rear its ugly unbridled head again primarily in the forms of privatization and deregulation. Herbert Hoover was adamantly opposed to any welfare to the shanty town dispossessed. That is the conscience of the conservative.

Why follow those who speak from that level of conscience? Why follow those who speak from the Hoover Institute? Their consciences trace back to the cause of the Hoovervilles. That is why they do not have enough compassion today. That spirit never will. Follow only those honest enough to say that the spirit that caused the Hoovervilles was the spirit of apostasy and that that same conservative spirit today is still that spirit of apostasy.

Other think tanks that share to one degree or another the general self-centered philosophy with the Hooverites include, among many others, the American Enterprise Institute (1943), Hudson Institute (1961), Heritage Foundation (1973), Cato Institute (1977), and Manhattan Institute (1980). Within the American Enterprise Institute is the now infamous Project for the New American Century.

Major funding comes from the foundations of ultra-rich conservative US families and donations from US corporations. Most of the major family-foundation contributors and a small sampling of corporate donors include the following:

Ag Processing, Inc.; American Cyanamid; Amoco; Archer Daniels Midland Company; Bristol-Myers Squibb; Cargill; Carthage Foundation; Castle Rock Foundation (started by the Adolph Coors Foundation); Chase Manhattan Bank (J.P. Morgan Chase & Co.); Ciba-Geigy; Cigna; Claude R. Lambe Charitable Foundation; ConAgra Foods; DowElanco; DuPont; Earhart Foundation; Esther A. & Joseph Klingenstein Fund; ExxonMobil; F. M. Kirby Foundation; Fannie Mae Foundation; Federation of Korean Industries; H. J. Heinz Company; J.M. Foundation; John M. Olin Foundation, Inc.; Koch Family Foundations (Charles G. Koch Foundation); Kraft Foundation; Lilly Endowment; Lincoln Financial Group Foundation; Bradley Foundation (Lynde and Harry Bradley); McDonald's Corporation; Merrill Lynch; Monsanto Corporation; National Agricultural Chemical Association; Novartis; Philip M. McKenna Foundation, Inc.; Philip Morris; Procter & Gamble Fund; Reliant Energy; Richard and Helen DeVos Foundation; Scaife Foundations (Richard Mellon Scaife); Smith Richardson Foundation; Sprint Nextel Corporation; Sunkist Growers; United Agri Products; and the William & Flora Hewlett Foundation.

No capitalist is Christian

Does it mean that every one of these entities is equally culpable? No. Some approach such funding with more selfish vengeance than others. However, all are capitalist. None is Christian, because none is advocating or working toward living the Christian message of all things in common. At the very least, all are to one degree or another aiding and abetting those who actively work to thwart that message of Jesus. Of course, therefore, none is bringing forth the real fruit. Don't allow yourself to be fooled, however, by the mixed giving of these groups. Some will give much to very worthy-sounding and actually worthy causes. That does not mean the whole tree is producing nothing but righteous fruit. Are they willing to stop all support for the antichrist message?

On a somewhat different level one finds the Council on Foreign Relations (1921), the Bilderberg Group (1954), and the Trilateral Commission (1973). These groups cut across a wider spectrum of opinion than do the more conservative self-styled think tanks mentioned above. Christianity, however, does not flow from them. The US Central Intelligence Agency reportedly started the Bilderberg funding and the Ford Foundation has provided much of the funding for the Bilderberg and Trilateral Commission.

Within all these groups there is a struggle between corporatism versus the libertarian philosophy of certain humanists such as Friedrich Nietzsche to a degree and Ayn Rand. Neither capitalist corporatism nor libertarian humanism is remotely Christian, which is pushed out of these groups. Capitalist corporatism is centered upon those at the top while libertarianism of Ayn Rand is centered on each person to the exclusion of anyone getting in the way. Rand called her brand of libertarianism "objectivism" (philosophical materialism; non-transcendent). Both corporatism and libertarianism are self-centered systems. Christianity is the only perfect alternative to this false spectrum that includes some forms of anarchy as well.

Christianity is and is not anarchy

Christianity and anarchism are not mundanely synonymous. Christianity is more than mundane anarchism. Anarchism is for free cooperation among individuals, which is good and right. However, divine anarchism requires living the new commandment. There is nothing freer. The yoke is there, but anything less results in greater reductions in freedom (trustworthiness and freedom from corruption). Hence, those who cooperate as Christians are those who most freely cooperate as individuals in the whole body.

It is easy to understand how people come to use such a term in conjunction with Christianity, since Christianity certainly does advocate cooperation rather than coercion. Anarchy in this sense is not the connotation of chaos but rather its exact opposite. From the anarchists' perspective, capitalism is the ultimate confusion and chaos and rightly so.

Christianity though is not a mere word qualifier. It is conscience compelled toward perfect cooperation that is perfect organization and submission to the perfect established order that is the will of God, which is love. Christianity fulfills all the aspirations of anarchy if those anarchists who are willful will only come to see its ultimate conclusion. Without God, the best laid plans of anarchy and socialism will remain in needless toil. Christianity is itself. There is no such thing as a mundane-socialist Christian or mundane-anarchist Christian or capitalist Christian, etc.

Bear in mind that Christianity at the same time allows for those who do not at first grasp the message on this level. Christianity looks to both perfection and improvement. Perfection is the real (as in real bread) while improvement is on the path to that perfection and ultimate reality. Where there are those who seek to avoid the tough questions, falsehood is the path and ruination and imagination the ultimate reality. This is why Jesus accepted those who gave only a tenth while he looked to them to continue to see more and more light and not seek to rationalize why they cannot face their self-perceived tough truth.

Those qualifiers and the term Christian as a qualifier cause the heart to forever fall short.
Yes, Christianity and anarchy share tenets. Christianity allows for all the mundane world as the principality of the fallen while thoughtfully and nonviolently speaking and acting against injustices and while partaking as little as possible in the process. That is not to say that the aspiration to anarchy and libertarianism are the lowest aspirations. In the relative light though, they are higher than relative authoritarian, largely state capitalism, which is the current measure of America.

The term "Christianity" is not supporting-denominational-terminology. The terms of qualification and denomination are only as good as they lead to the unqualified understanding of Christianity. This will strike many, as usual, as a paradox.

The ultimate desire of perfection, the root of the aspirations of the concepts of conservatism, liberalism, libertarianism, anarchism, and all the other isms is answered by Christianity. Each of the adherents of the isms believes he or she has the best answer available. It is their best guess at what is, in their minds, best. Christianity really is what is best. It is no guess. It can conflate all in that spirit. It can grant all the ultimate existence and, thereby, render each the best for all. It is on that level that the likes of Leo Tolstoy called himself a Christian anarchist.

The existing status quo (establishment; mundane government) is wrong, because it is based upon selfishness. Once Christianity is in place and is the status quo, then the status quo will no longer be wrong. Then there will be no anti-establishment. It will be the state of complete liberty from the tyranny of all evil. It is the job of Christianity to speak truth to break the stranglehold of evil conservatism, the status quo (establishment; mundane government), and all antichrist mentalities completely and regardless of the risk to mundane life, limb, freedom of movement or any other attack or persecution from the conservatives, who will attack and persecute because that is what they have been doing since time immemorial. It defines them. Turn away from it. Repent of it. Change your mind away from violence, greed, and all uncontrolled appetites of evil. Put your mind on peace, love, and truth.

Hooverville think tanks, continued
The ultra-rich conservatives wish to be current-day robber barons under what they call the market economy, anathema to God. They use their self-styled think tanks to figure out how to convince the people of the un-convincible that selfishness is good. Let the buyer beware is the credo that they want trotted back out in blazing glory. So beware that you do not buy into their lies for you will be selling your soul. They have their faith in laissez-faire capitalism and not in God. Their spirit is what Adam Smith called the invisible hand that is a cover for unscrupulous competition. God is not that invisible hand. That invisible hand is the selfishness in each person’s heart. It is the visible hand of greed that is the satanic hand meant to steal.

Duped economists and academics

What the economists who follow Adam Smith do not understand that Jesus understood perfectly is that that invisible hand does not slow the time left for the devil to gather what he can, for his time is short.

The robber barons are still active. The whole economic system is inherently unethical and selfishly exploitative of others. The apostles of mammon have just managed to placate the masses by convincing the masses that the masses are too invested in the system of the robber barons to change. They have instilled fear in the masses that there is no alternative to selfishness. They have also conditioned the people by stimulating the addictive tendencies (lusts) of the masses. They have done the opposite of helping the people to overcome.

Duped academics do not understand that personal selfishness will out strip any interest in posterity. The invisible hand allows more for selfishness that does not balance out interests for the maximum benefit of all.

After all, humans who go down the road of selfishness have a proven history of eating their young, figuratively and in some cases literally. The hand that stopped it was wrathful. It was not invisible. It lost patience and could not remain merciful. It will be back with a vengeance, because there are negative consequences for negative behavior.
God, Jesus, Christians judge no man

Once we have experienced the negative consequences and understand (have finally broken through to make the connection in real knowledge and real appreciation), we are not to continue contributing anything to that negativity, for it, in fact, is what brings itself. We are not to do the wrong that brings the negative consequences. Neither are we to dish out such consequences. We are to overcome the whole negative cycle. That is the enlightened condition we are learning about from God and not Satan (evil) and need to strive to achieve.

Let none of us though be so arrogant to imagine that we are perfect to mete out perfect justice. We are all unfinished works in progress. Only God is perfect, and even God, according to Jesus, does not judge any man. Therefore, God does not.

Capitalism does not result in such understanding. There is nothing inherent within it that stimulates such understanding. It is quite the contrary. One is either making him or herself a fallen angel (demon) or a rising and risen angel, angel of real light, only bringing forth the kingdom of God. Capitalism's drive creates demons (self-centered souls).

Truth upside down

Defenders of Capitalism will even call Jesus selfish. They turn upside down. There are those who will attempt to insist that those pursuing righteousness are engaged in selfishness; however, it is only selfishness to thwart righteous works of others. It is wrong to call the righteous works of others selfish acts. It is wrong to claim that one is doing something for him or herself when that one is doing righteous works. Righteous deeds are unselfish. For example, if one is working toward feeding the lambs and sheep of the fold and someone else is doing all sorts of negative, selfish, hedonistic things that make that feeding effort difficult or impossible, the one trying to feed the flock is not being selfish when he or she rebukes the hedonist, despite the hedonist's protests to the contrary.

In this case, the hedonist is one who does not want anything to come between the hedonist and his or her fix. He or she wants what he or she is addicted to regardless of how that addiction ruins the lives and souls of others. It is being first in making earth hellish. It is the opposite of being great in heaven.

Such people care little to nothing for the welfare of others. They proselytize to others to use yet others for hedonistic purposes. It is the opposite of enlightenment. They feel the poor are inferior beings proven so by their lack of possession. This is economic and military survival of the fittest. It is social Darwinism. Might makes right. To these people, if the poor were not too lazy, they would rise up and take what they want by force, proving themselves worthy and not inferior. The conservatives believe that the underclass is ruled by the overlords, because the under class lacks gumption. Carrying this line of thinking out to its logical conclusion then the fiercest most aggressive thief is the highest and noblest form of being. It is upside down.

They want to own everything. Nothing is to be owned by all. They hate collective cooperation, because they cannot sit at the pinnacle for there is no pinnacle. They cannot be worshipped above all others, because everyone is glorified. Theirs is the opposite of the message of Jesus. They are antichrist, and they are turning their control of trillions of dollars to the goal of world domination for number one who is not God in their minds but only what they see in their mirrors.

The prophecy though is for complete salvation from all the trials and tribulations of this life, not just a few but all. This of course includes complete freedom from the greedy spirit that grinds the faces of the poor in the dirt.

The devil is devouring God's great Amazon rainforest

There is no doubt that the rich landowners in Brazil, for instance, who are cutting down and burning the Amazon rainforest are in favor of laissez-faire capitalism. They don't have any excuse. They are sinning, and they know it. They've all been told how bad it is to be cutting down the forest as they are. They have been told how it will harm the people and the earth in the long-run and not too distant future. In fact, it has already had a huge negative impact.

Destroy them which destroy the earth

Capitalist logging, farming, ranching, and other so-called forms of development have already destroyed as much as twenty percent of God's great rainforest, the Amazon. They have also gone deep into the forest and done great damage with their selective cutting of huge trees. More than twice as much of the forest has been removed than was recently thought. The results of selective cutting had been being missed in satellite analyses.

And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them which destroy the earth.
(Revelation 11:18).

"Destroy them which destroy the earth." That's talking about the bad stewards who pollute and rape the planet for their short-term profit at the expense of all others. That's talking about the so-called conservatives: The anti-environmentalists. It's talking about George W. Bush and his supporters.

Bush has ordered the opening up to developmental rape some 58.6 million acres of now wilderness, relatively pristine national forest land mostly in a dozen western states. He is planning to allow road construction, logging, mining, and oil drilling among other things. That will spoil the wilderness.

The US Interior Department under George W. Bush doesn't think that much if any land in the world should be set aside as protected wilderness. Nearly the only reason Bush would designate any place as protected is simply to be able to say that he isn't against protection. He might protect a tiny piece while he rapes the rest of the planet. What he does is for PR reasons (public relations; propaganda). Everyplace is simply to be valued based upon shallow commercial interests. All land is for commercial exploitation and hi-tech, mechanized so-called entertainment that in Bush's mind supersedes pristine enjoyment. One cannot conserve wilderness without protecting it.

Pristine wilderness to commune with God

The people must reserve the ability to experience pristine wilderness to commune with God in God's natural design. The wilderness experience, the separation unto God, is tangible. The Bushites have mucked up the semantics. They just don't get it. They are financially strangling the National Parks system so that private commercial interests can move to make profit by turning the natural parks into mechanized, noisy theme parks. The country is already full of that commercialization. The original idea behind the National Parks was to give the people a place they could go to escape commercialism. The National Parks are not supposed to be civilization. They are supposed to be gateways to wilderness. Wilderness doesn't have airplanes, helicopters, snowmobiles, four-wheelers, motorcycles, or jet skis, etc. Wilderness doesn't have artificial noises, sights, or smells. Wilderness doesn't have back roads. It doesn't have timbering or mining. Wilderness doesn't have capitalism. The capitalists want no place left where anyone "may be placed alone in the midst of the earth!" (Isaiah 5:8). It is sacredness that they destroy with their rapaciousness.

Destroying the earth

Trawlers are dragging their heavy nets with huge rubber wheels on ocean bottoms that kills the vegetation. They are also netting and killing lots of sea creatures the fishing companies aren't even interested in. They are also severely overfishing the oceans.

---

Wednesday, October 04, 2006: The Bush administration begrudgingly has come for ending bottom trawling. Rather than taking an ethical leadership position and driving the issue, they decided to make a public statement against bottom trawling after gauging how it would influence the then (November 2006) upcoming election.

The old growth redwoods on private lands are being clear-cut still by greedy and insane capitalists who don't care about the environment. The ecosystem for salmon and wild birds and other life is being destroyed. The massive trees, some twenty-five feet in diameter and hundreds of feet tall and two thousand years old, that soak up greenhouse gases are being treated as nothing more than money in stockholders' accounts.
They are cutting off the tops of mountains and dumping the refuse into the valleys ruining aquifers and killing the land so they can cheaply get at the minerals below.

Sacred environmentalism

This is the exact same menacing attitude against sacred environmentalism and sacred stewardship that permeated the Reagan administration under the false Christian right. Remember, James Watt was Ronald Reagan's secretary of the interior. Watt said, "I don't know how many future generations we can count on until the Lord returns." He said that in response to concerns that we are supposed to be good stewards of the earth. Watt fancied himself a Christian; however, he didn't take to heart the words of The Revelation of John from which he got the idea that the Lord would return someday. He ignores God's call to environmentalism.

"Destroy them which destroy the earth." (Revelation 11:18). Those words cannot be overemphasized. Taking care here and now shows deserving trust with even greater things, meaning more since even the smallest commandment is critically important, per Jesus Christ.

Selfish prophets are always false

Hal Lindsey wrote The Late, Great Planet Earth, which was released in 1970. Lindsey was reportedly a Pentagon consultant on Middle East affairs and also a consultant to the Israeli government. He predicted that all sorts of prophetic fulfillment would occur very soon. The time for much of his predictions has passed. This is the fate of all conservative End Times adherents. They all had it wrong, including Lindsey. They won't get it right either until they are right in the middle of it.

This doesn't mean that there won't be tribulation. A correct reading of the scripture though tells us that everything that must happen before the End Times is not yet in place. This of course never means that each soul must not make itself ready for the time that soul is called. People are taken every day and will be up to the end of the temporal kingdom of anti-real-Christianity.

This also applies to Tim LaHaye. LaHaye has coauthored what is called the Left Behind Series of books. In the books, LaHaye puts forth the idea that all the conservative-Republican so-called Christians will be raptured up soon to Jesus before the great coming tribulation to be spared the suffering.

In 1981, when he was leading the group known as the Moral Majority started by Jerry Falwell, LaHaye founded the Council for National Policy, a so-called conservative Christian group that is secret and has many powerful members in business, the military, and the Republican Party in and out of government. They are very pro-military, as are nearly all Republicans, which makes them very antichrist.

Moonies

LaHaye, Jerry Falwell, and others have a close economic and purchased ecumenical association with Sun Myung Moon who is the Korean founder of the Unification Church, what people call the Moonies, and fancies himself the Second Coming of Christ, which I assure you he is not. This is obvious by the fact that Moon is a rabid capitalist billionaire. The Unification Church is even a weapons manufacturer. Moon started The Washington Times newspaper in Washington, DC. The newspaper is somewhat similar to Fox News in political outlook. It was Ronald Reagan's favorite newspaper. Moon's church also bought United Press International (UPI).

Moon doesn't stop his influence there though. He has paid Bush-41 and many others many tens of thousands of dollars each for speaking engagements around the world. He's spread so much money around that he has opened up all sorts of doors. His funding of the Contras against the Sandinistas of Nicaragua ingratiated him to the neocons of the Reaganites.

Moon has also asked Christians to take down their crosses as symbols of intolerance. This is very revealing. It isn't for Christians to take down the symbol of Jesus's love (the only real tolerance). It is for Christians to take up their crosses and follow Jesus. It is for others to be moved enough to turn to that love and connect the pain and suffering of the cross as that statement. For Moon to want the cross down reveals Moon's usurping attitude.

He is not the Second Coming. He is not a messiah. He's not saving anyone. I don't know him, and he doesn't know me. He is not my brother in Christ. If he repents in time to escape all his arrogant blaspheming and his capitalist heart and if he accepts in time the way of Jesus Christ and none other, then I will know him.

End Times-unification-ecumenicalism is a mess

It has spread throughout the world. We have heard Billy Graham praying aloud to Allah not as the God of Jesus but of Mohammed. We have heard Billy Graham claiming that all Jews, whether or not they have accepted Jesus, are part of the body of the church. He is wrong. He has been preaching falsehood. It is not Christianity. No one is a member of the body of Christ without having openly accepted Jesus as the one of prophecy, as Jesus, himself, described.

Billy Graham is quoted as saying the following:

I used to believe that pagans in far-off countries were lost—were going to hell. I no longer believe that. I believe that there are other ways of recognizing the existence of God—through nature, for instance.\(^6\)

Yes, God is reflected in his creation. Yes, people can make the connection with Jesus and with God's creation. Yes, pagans who have never heard of Jesus or the word of God are treated differently by God than are those who have heard the word and rejected it. Pagans who rejected the word though definitely will not enter the Kingdom.

---

Graham has been teaching a standard that is too low. He has been misleading people, making it too easy, too comfortable, and too ecumenical, for the sake of the profit-making business that has constituted his crusades around the world. After all, he has had to gain the acceptance of churches around the world so that they will not speak against his huge money-making crusades that come through their cities. In turn, he has always sent crusade-converts to those same churches regardless of their religion or denomination. He has steered clear of proselytizing to Jews for instance to keep Jewish criticism of his crusades to a minimum. He has rubbed elbows with the rich and powerful not to get them to convert but rather to gain a network and star-status in the world.

When George W. Bush chuckles when he's asked about his views on apocalypse, he is being disingenuous. Now that he is a lame-duck president, he doesn't have to be so careful not to offend those who believe fervently that the US is involved already in what those mistaken conservative Christians see as the soon-to-come apocalypse. This doesn't mean there won't be trying times ahead or that the worst is not to come. It just isn't going to come when the conservatives think it is.

Nevertheless, with the idea that time is running out (which is a satanic tenet—his time is short) and with the backing of the White House, Bush's conservative, earth destroying, cronies in both houses of the US Congress are planning to drill the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge (ANWR) located in Alaska. Where is the line they will not cross? It isn't. What is a wilderness wildlife refuge once oil drilling has begun? It's

End Times is their excuse

Where will there be any wilderness where a person may be alone in the midst of the earth? The area planned by the conservatives for this rape represents nearly one-third of all US national forest land. The plan is to allow state governors to make the decisions. Where did they get the idea for governors to have the final say over national forest land? They will claim precedents. However, that doesn't make it right. It will fall to the mundane courts to decide. However, the conservatives are planning to take over those courts as well. They will say that only some governors will move toward development. They will say that it will be a slow process. They will say that everything will be handled properly with environmentalism in mind.

End Times is their excuse. They don't understand. The more they do in the way of bad stewardship of the earth bringing on the end times of the age and of ages, the more they mark themselves for hell.

Well, they plan to chip away forever at all environmental restraints until they have developed everything for the profit of the rich. The timber, mining, road-building, and oil industry owners and others would make huge quantities of money. The ultra rich get richer while the rest suffer the general and specific consequences. The rich even degrade their own lives in the process. They especially degrade the lives of all posterity that necessarily includes their own genetic offspring. They are the ultra acquisitive and ultra hoarding. They are those who have not heard the pleas of the poor for millennia. They are those who will not have repentance in their hearts in this life.

Cascading environmental failure

What will happen to the clear-cut land? There will be erosion. What will happen to the spawning grounds for fish? The fish will fail. What will happen to the overall eco-system in these areas? We need the trees to stay standing for the sake of the environmental health of the planet. They are part of the lungs of the biosphere of the earth.

Trees are going to go. They aren't going to be there to suck in the carbon. They are going to burn and release carbon. It's Biblical. "The third part of trees was burnt up." (Revelation 8:7). Is this too literal for you?

We also need to avoid mining for coal, uranium, and other things that when mined, processed, and used for energy only contribute to further environmental degradation.

Look at the failure so far to use what is called Maximum Achievable Control Technology (MACT) to cut toxic emissions from power plants. Such plants in the United States pump, in addition to other toxins, an estimated forty-eight tons of mercury into the atmosphere annually as of 2006 that ends up contaminating fish that when eaten causes neurological damage that medicine has no way yet of repairing. It also causes reproductive damage to wildlife. Conservatives do not want to invest in existing pollution control technologies for maximum pollution control. For the sake of short-sighted capitalistic goals, they would rather the overall health of the planet continue to be degraded. "Destroy them which destroy the earth." (Revelation 11:18).

We need to get off coal even if we do use Maximum Achievable Control Technology in the short run. We certainly do not need to be furthering the oil industry that is so greatly responsible for global climate change.

There will be additional plagues as a direct result of so-called development. The land will become sicker and spew out the polluters.

Using imperfection in others as one's excuse

In anticipation of some critics who will attempt to shoot down certain points that are not operative, let me say now that when there are mistakes in an estimated number and when there is an unintentional and not careless but occasional misstatement, such occurrences do not invalidate the entirety of a point being made. If someone says that mercury pollution being pumped into the atmosphere at an estimated forty-eight tons per year is bad and later on it is discovered that it was really closer to forty-seven tons or forty-six, that discrepancy does not invalidate that mercury pollution being pumped into the atmosphere is bad or invalidate that a huge quantity of such mercury is being pumped into the atmosphere. The testimony is not impeachable over such inoperative points. There are those who attempt to apply the Pauline expression "A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump" (1 Corinthians 5:6) to such situations of the occasional discrepancy. They are misapplying the expression. They don't understand that the occasional discrepancy is not the sign of hypocrisy necessitating throwing out the rest of what someone is asserting. The occasional typographical, grammatical, spelling, transpositional, or other error is not the earmark of doctrinal error. It is a sign of the lack of perfection. It is not necessarily the sign that one is headed in the wrong direction. It is a sign that one has not yet arrived at the end of the course of one's seeking righteousness.

There is an easy way to avoid the trap. One may never cite a figure or may qualify every figure or statement. It is wrong to throw out the whole truth over a mere typographical error for instance. We can all recognize the game of shooting down a point based upon non-operative errors and dismiss it as attempted but unsuccessful obfuscation. The imperfection of others is a mitigating aspect of life in the here and now only for a while and only those who are earnestly seeking the truth. How can these people who attempt to undermine and destroy the truth and who work to destroy the earth call themselves Christians? Woe to them.

"Destroy them which destroy the earth" is the truth. This is the prophecy. How can anyone escape damnation (consequences) who calls him or herself Christian and who is against preserving the wilderness and against improving the whole of the environment? Now, do any so-called conservative Christians still wish to maintain their anti-environmentalism? If they do, they better stop calling themselves Christians. In maintaining their anti-environmentalism and also maintaining that they are still Christians, they simply and knowingly compound their error and will pay the more for it.

Now, imagine the world with everyone being completely environmentally conscious. Think of how much better it would be with everyone cooperating to see to it that the environment is as clean and healthy as possible. It would be more heavenly wouldn't it? Yes. If all would conflate, allowing the Holy Spirit to blow all together, all would be on the road to harmony and unity. We would arrive at the kingdom.

To hell with posterity they say

There is no doubt that those for laissez-faire capitalism or even the falsely termed semi-regulated open and free markets are not interested in posterity while they continue to put fossil-fuel burning ahead of everything. God's great atmosphere is filling up with carbon and God's great glaciers are melting, but have these robber barons really cared? Global warming is melting ice into the North Atlantic threatening the oceanic conveyor current with shutdown, because that melting water will dilute the ocean's salinity enough to stop the driving sinking water force that pushes and pulls the water around the planet. The ozone layer is still being damaged despite the supposed ban on chlorofluorocarbons (CFC’s). The entire planet's climate is affected by human-caused pollution. Human greed is causing warming the effects of which will be a geometric progression cascading throughout the biosphere (the zone of life of the planet). The planetary system for cycling the air, water, and food for countless species is being severely depleted and damaged at an exponential rate.

The planet-wide ecosystem is affected by everything we do. There is no time to wait to do everything possible to save bodies and souls from the downward spiral of selfishness. We are taking to excess, because we are under using our consciences. It is urgent. It is the crisis of crises.

It is the pandemic. It is all of the same dreaded disease that is selfishness.

Did the conservatives care about posterity when they tried to legalize raw sewage sludge in water for organic crops? Did they care about posterity when they invented terminator seed? That seed produces plants that have sterile seeds that cannot be used the next year. Imagine all the seed for growing food having to be purchased every year from a corporation owning the patent. You could not even save your own seed from a little backyard vegetable garden to plant again next season. What kind of monstrous mind came up with such an idea? What kind of minion-minded scientists perfect such things? It is insanity. It will negatively spillover into things they claim will not be adversely affected. It will make creatures sick. It will harm plant life. It will further the violation of humans against God's way.

Global warming; the ozone hole; deforestation; desertification; ocean oil spills and dumping; petrochemical (chemicals from the oil industry), pesticide, herbicide, and fertilizer runoff; the list goes on and on. Meanwhile, after all these years, we have as leaders conservatives who never showed any concern. Regardless of what they claim, on all fronts, they push in the opposite direction of what is good and right.

Right when environmentalism was hugely in the public eye, all sorts of disposable this that and the other was put out on the market. Suddenly there were non-biodegradable, non-refillable cigarette lighters, razorblades with so-called disposable handles, pens, and all manner of things. Right when we were looking to make things more recyclable and highly biodegradable, the BIC Corporation, for instance, introduced non-recyclable, non-refillable, hardly biodegradable plastic consumer items. It helped reduce the drive to environmentalism. Why after nearly forty years since the environmental movement really took off, do we still have these things? Why do people still continue promoting manufacturing things that are not completely environmentally sound? It's a crime. It's sin.

It should not be ignored that there is huge use of water for daily shaving and also, most people use hot water which is heated via polluting energy fuels. In addition, many shaving creams, etc., have a negative environmental impact. Of course, lighters are cigarette lighters. What good is cigarette smoking? Nothing good comes of it.
How bad is it? Why would anyone want to be involved in manufacturing and supplying something that is primarily used for that purpose?

This is the way to look at all the different things that are made and used. What is the total impact upon the environment from start to finish? What does the product accompany and what is the accompanying products result? It is all interconnected just as is the web of life. Why sacrifice the environment for the sake of short-term so-called convenience? It's a sin that we have made these things so ubiquitous that older-form alternatives are hardly available.

We have all these packaging materials and containers and bags, etc., with only some of them having recyclable symbols on them. However, even of those with those symbols, only some are actually recycled at all. That isn't just because people don't bother to put them into recycle containers. It is often, because it is alleged that ways of recycling some materials with recycle symbols have not even been perfected. For other materials with recycle symbols, it is not seen as cost effective to process the materials into new packaging, etc. Why then are they being produced at all? Where is the social conscience? Why don't people care enough? Why are people so insensitive? To hell with posterity is what they think.

As for those products that are recyclable, what kinds of minds put recyclable materials into containers earmarked for the landfills when the recycle containers are sitting right next to the landfill containers? How selfishly lazy can a person be that he or she can not simply throw a cardboard box into a recycle container sitting right next to that landfill container? How shameless is that? How can people feel no guilt about something so easy for them to do that if everyone were to do it could make such a huge difference?

What is even worse, many people don't bother on purpose. It is their way of being passively aggressive. By consciously not recycling, they feel a warped sense of selfish power and control. It is a type of sadism. They think to themselves "take that you environmentalists" as they deliberately thwart the even little bit of the recycling honor-system that has been made nearly effortless for so many Americans. It is mental illness, as is all selfishness.

Why is there still clear cutting of forests? Why is humanity still producing toxic chemicals that cannot be handled properly to keep them out of the ecosystem? Why are we spraying toxic chemicals all over our farmlands? Why are we still manufacturing gasoline and diesel powered vehicles? Why do people race around aimlessly with those vehicles wasting fuel and adding to air and noise and other forms of pollution? Why are we pushing for electric vehicles when the 87 Diesel engines are getting better. Honda has worked hard on the issue. Diesel engines though still aren't the way to go. Honda and others are planning and building based upon a real uncoordinated effort of global governance. The grassroots doesn't get to plan and say via their councils what ought to be happening in a cooperative way around the world. With the right communication, there could be a consensus approach that would move the solution for global warming forward by many decades.

---

power source is still polluting nuclear or coal-fired plants, etc?

Dangerous nuclear energy scam

Look at how dangerous nuclear energy is. January 20, 2006, FirstEnergy Corp publicly admitted a major cover-up of a boric acid leak that had been going on for years at the Davis-Besse nuclear power plant in Ohio. That acid had nearly eaten through the steel cap on the reactor vessel. If it had gone on just a little longer, the reactor vessel containment would have been breached. This incident, as dangerous as it was, has been rated as only the fifth most dangerous nuclear energy plant incident in the US by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. If the world continues the drive to nuclear power, it is only a matter of time before there is a worse incident than Chernobyl.

This information has come out now, because we are beginning to see a push by the rich for more nuclear energy rather than cleaner, safer, and less expensive alternatives. It is a choice the people will make. They will reap what they sow.

Peak oil

Bush is now talking about alternative, sustainable, renewable energy sources as a cover for his nuclear agenda. His handlers have him repeating now that the US is "addicted to oil" as an opportune slogan so the nuclear industry can become the Republican's replacement for the oil industry.
He is most interested in nuclear. He wouldn't mind it at all if all new energy were nuclear so long as it remains all privatized and his ilk owns the lion's share and takes the lion's share of the profits from the captive users. Mentioning wind power, etc., is a ploy to defuse people's previous notion of Bush being anti-environment, which he still is. In fact, the only reason he is bringing up new energy is because of notions of peak oil and not because of environmental concerns.

Peak oil means that sooner or later, oil fields will be tapped out one by one as new oil fields become harder and harder to locate. Oil is finite. At some point, the peak in production will be in the past. Given that the demand for oil is still rising at an exponential rate in the world, the price of oil will skyrocket. Many people will not be able to afford it. Industries dependant upon it will either use other sources of energy or collapse. The planned replacement for oil is way behind schedule to avoid massive disruptions.

Capitalism is inherently anti-environmental

There are many anti-environmentalists within the oil, nuclear, and auto industries who have known about this for decades. They and other conservatives and rabid capitalists have been adamantly against solar panels and small-scale, local energy generation and cooperatives. They have been adamantly against conservation and efficiency.

Sane energy policies and practices run contrary to the concentration of wealth and control at the very top by the very few. If home owners, enterprises, and organizations generate all their own energy and don't need any additional energy because they use conservation measures and practice energy efficiency, those in big business won't be able to make a profit at the direct expense of those home owners, enterprises, organizations, and the health of the planet.

You must understand that big business is not interested in what is best. It is only interested in how to get more for itself now and to hell with posterity.

Bush is now mentioning greenhouse gases when he mentions nuclear energy. That is the only reason he mentions greenhouse gases, as a selling point for nuclear. He wants nuclear for mini- and micro-nukes galore. He wants big business, corporations, to own and operate the entire nuclear energy cycle from mining to waste storage. It is just a giant, greedy scam, as always.

Tony Blair wants to take the UK down the same path. After all, the UK doesn't have its own nuclear weapons. The US lends them to the UK in exchange for all UK intelligence data, both foreign and domestic. The UK has allowed itself to be placed in a very awkward position from which extrication is seemingly difficult. It cannot see its way clear to saying "No" to any US president. That's sad.

Our real environmental choices

Our choices are conservation, improved efficiency, and only clean sustainables and renewables.
Why are we choosing as leaders unrepentant oilmen who have been so dead set against all the environmentalism of the last forty-plus years? People are killing their souls on that path. Why are we making all sorts of techno gadgets and appliances loaded with toxic materials that are being thrown into landfills or shipped off to poor nations to be dumped or to have the poor work in unsafe, unhealthy, polluting industries incorrectly extracting the different constituent materials? Why are our sewage systems still pouring out raw sewage into the oceans? Why are our power plants still pumping harmful fumes into the atmosphere? Why are homes and buildings still being built that waste huge quantities of energy? Why are we still doing anything or making anything that is energy inefficient? Why are we making anything that isn't completely re-useable or recyclable without causing additional environmental problems? Why are we still having so many children? Why do we feed our dogs and cats better than hundreds of millions of children around the world? Look at China with its hundreds of millions of people still living in abject poverty while pets are already becoming the fashion in the major cities of China. It's sheer evil to breed non-working dogs and cats while people are starving.

Imagine the whole world where all these things have been corrected. Why do we wait? Why have we procrastinated? Why be insane when we can choose sanity?
Population explosion

How long ago did the world stop talking about the population explosion? How long ago was it known that a couple should not do anything more than reproduce itself (have two children maximum) in order not to increase the population? Add to that the fact that people are living longer and even couples limiting themselves to two children still increase the population. Usually now before a couple dies, their children have children and so forth.

"Be fruitful, and multiply." (Genesis 1:28). That's what people will say now to excuse having yet another and another and another child. The New Testament teaching of Jesus speaks against unbridled lust of all kinds. Had humanity controlled its appetite for sex and had people kept only to their one mate, we would not be in a population explosion now. Why haven't all been told in no uncertain terms about the pending catastrophe that is the population explosion?

The first billion was reached around A.D. 1800. The second billion took about one hundred twenty-five years to add. The last billion was added in about twelve years. The growth curve is insanity. It is geometric progression. It is exponential. It isn't sustainable.

The population will be curbed one way or another. God designed nature to take care of such things. It will be darkness. Uncontrolled lust (iniquity) is the problem.
The solution: Controlling appetites across-the-board

The only sane way for humans to react to the problem is to practice controlling appetites across-the-board, in every area of life except unselfish love and all the rest of the good.

Now there are those who claim that science and technology will always outstrip the negatives of lust. They claim that it has been doing just that for a long time now. It isn't true. Millions live a very poor quality of life. Millions die of things that would be easily taken care of were it not for lust. Those who would rather try to out race depletion rather then curb their lusts have a deficit of compassion and sensitivity to the plight of the starving right now. They haven't gone hungry to the point of great physical pain. They haven't done without enough to see themselves lying beside the road half dead. It shouldn't be necessary to reach that point before one has enough compassion to share everything right now throughout the world to eliminate all want and to teach restraint of lust to insure the health of the whole planet. This is a commandment from God.

Depending upon the incentive of selfish gain to produce enough to imagine warding off extinction is obviously not good enough. It isn't the emotional response God is looking for in people.

It is a wrong-headed plan to race out into outer space to consume the universe thinking that it is infinite and that our science will someday learn how to backtrack to set everything right that humanity will have messed up in its wake. If humanity attempts this, as many are planning, it will suffer great comeuppance. It is not the right spirit in which to venture out. It would be irreverence and desecration. Humanity has already more than raped the earth. The consequences of that level of selfishness are already haunting the people. Raping the solar system and local star system and then the whole of the galaxy and the neighboring galaxies and then on and on would be met by forces against which science and technology would have no protection.

Consumer contraception

Why have people just been told that contraception and abortion are wrong while they have not been told that all greed must be controlled and overcome? Contraception for instance leads people down the path of feeding into their lusts while imagining they can do so with impunity. Of course, this conditions them into further imagining that this same mentality may be applied across the board in their lives. They do not practice self-denial that is required. The system teaches them falsely that they may simply purchase their way out of responsibility and accountability. They are taught falsely that they may feed into their lusts without negative consequences. However, that mentality reduces in value all that is sacred with huge negative consequences that are being manifest throughout the world.

Now, contraception use is the lesser of only some evils. It is a relative thing. It is definitely not the perfect path. Keep that in perspective always.
So if contraception and overpopulation both are errors, why does the Old Testament say God said, "Be fruitful, and multiply"? What it doesn't say is revealing. It doesn't say it is okay to "Be fruitful, and multiply" doing anything you want including over multiplying and, therefore, stressing the entire planet with the manifestation of all that is consistent with not caring: Greed, violence, and depravity.

Of course, this population explosion had to be. The situation we are in was preordained. It was a foregone conclusion that there would be humans who would not care enough to self control for the sake of all concerned. It leads to the meaning of life.

The real right side

The evil ones bring the tribulation. They are the war-makers, not the peacemakers. The just work non-coercively against them. The truth will divide out the war-makers.

Despite this preordination and on account of the fact of salvation, we are not to take it as some kind of futile situation whereby we may just throw up our hands capitulating to the continuation of error. We are not to just wait it out. We are to be active in the message. For every person we reach, we have done some good. It is just as with giving thirsty people water. It is the right thing to do even if they are about to be crucified. It is not an exercise in futility. It helps restore souls.
Therefore, even though the population explosion is leading to disaster, we are not to just sit on our hands teaching nothing and doing no righteous works, quite the contrary according to Jesus. Whatever we do that is right brings forth meaningful, positive consequences concerning human souls. Goodness is magnified out into the eternal future. That goodness carries forward passed the end of the earth. God remembers all good things forever. If we are supposed to sit on our hands, Jesus would have told us that. He did not. That idea is a mere human tradition. The truth is that Jesus told us to do the work of God that he repeated three times to Peter to get it through our heads: Feed the flock. If we love Jesus and God, we will feed the flock. If we don't love them, we won't. It is that simple.

We are to do everything we can to have "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven." (Matthew 6:10). We are not to do anything violent or by force, because that isn't of the kingdom or the will of God. People are to be moved in their hearts by truth. We also wait for the kingdom to come at the same time. This is not an either or situation. We don't either wait for the advent of the kingdom or work heavenly things on earth. We do both. That's no paradox. It is a grave mistake to wait and do nothing. It is also a mistake to do things thinking humanity will force it. It is correct to do things that Jesus said to do.

Selfishness disturbs nature

All of these things: Overpopulation, all the environmental degradation, and more could have been rectified long ago, but we did not do what was right. That is the message. What was wrong, what is still wrong, with humans? Selfishness is what was wrong and still is, plain and simple. Humans must learn not to seek selfishly to control nature but rather to control themselves. That will soothe nature.

What is the new nation doing so far?

You may ask what we're doing so far to soothe nature. Do we recycle everything, compost all that is compostable, have an organic garden that feeds us completely, go about planting proper trees, etc? Do we use only the most perfectly environmentally everything? We're working toward it. That's what this work is about. We must turn to go toil in our Father's vineyard in that regard, among others, all consistent with it. Society keeps the costs artificially high. We must change that. We want to energize the unselfish spirit so that mass quantities of people will work together to make all these things reachable for all. The cost should be shared across-the-board. There should be a single payer: The whole of humanity. By doing it that way, God will lift the burden. In truth, then there will be no costs. It will be freely given from God, which it really is now. God will magnify our efforts as we magnify righteousness that is God. God will purge us so that we may bring forth the good fruit more readily. It is the way of things. It is the way of God.

Sure, we could have started long ago and been much further along by now. "I will not: but afterward he repented, and went." We hope to fit that description. We are headed to the vineyard to work. We hope you'll help us and join us. We could also go off and live in the wilderness such as it is. No, we're here speaking out now through this work, because going off to live alone in the wilderness would be selfish. It is much better to advocate what we're advocating for the whole of humanity.

What's really cost-effective?

We should not wait, as humanity, for the capitalistic system to claim that something is cost-effective before we as a people decide together that we just aren't going to have things the way they are. We can choose what they claim is not cost-effective and make it work if we decide all together. The only thing holding things back is the selfishness of those who are invested in anti-environmentally sound industries and lifestyles. They must learn to alter their investments for the sake of the good of the whole. With the proper giving and sharing all mentality, anyone changing such investments will not be left out in the cold even though their system, the capitalistic system, does just that, leaves people out in the cold. We need a change in the collective heart of humanity. Besides, it is not cost-effective to continue polluting the world and leaving poor people neglected. Those things are counterproductive. Pollution and starving people are bad investments aren't they?

What could ever be cost-effective about running headlong over the cliff? Humanity is outstripping the world's ability to sustain all the lives we have procreated. That is especially true when those souls are constantly encouraged to consume, consume, and consume. It is the mantra of capitalism: Buy, buy, buy; use, use, and use. It is brainwashing souls into oblivion.

Human selfishness is felt as the threat it is to the rest of creation

Those who think it isn’t cost-effective properly to tend the earth and the flock are too hardhearted to see that the prophecy is clear and plain that the destruction of those who destroy the earth is not limited to human violence but includes the very earth and other life forms (non-human life forms) in upheaval in the face of human selfishness. Compassion and mercy speak across species. "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature." (Mark 16:15). Preach to every being and the whole of creation. Threats speak the opposite.

There are those who will take issue with the translation as "creature" as opposed to "creation" or some other term. However, every creature remains a part of the whole of creation.

Life has been designed by God to heal and shed disease. Human evil is a disease coming out of the heart. The life of the earth and the earth itself is caused by God to react to that threat. Either the individual human being sheds the disease or the whole human soul is cast out. That non-human life and the earth do not sin though, because they do not grasp as the Pharisees grasped but continued on in spiritual blindness. Jesus spoke with the Pharisees as follows:

But what think ye?
A certain man had two sons; and he came to the first, and said, Son, go work to day in my vineyard. He answered and said, I will not: but afterward he repented, and went. And he came to the second, and said likewise. And he answered and said, I go, sir: and went not.

Whether of them twain did the will of his father?

They say unto him, The first.

Jesus saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, That the publicans and the harlots go into the kingdom of God before you. (Matthew 21:28-32).

The Pharisees grasped mundanely but did not grasp divinely. They said to God that they would do what God has said people ought to do, but they turned around and did not do those things. We are to grasp divinely. We are to do what God has said people ought to do. When we do that, we will be no threat to life or earth. We will be tending and protecting. Everything will react accordingly. We will not be doing selfishness, and we will, therefore, not be treated as selfish threats. We will be merciful and will be shown mercy often in the flesh and always in the spirit.

The life of the earth is designed by God to work toward unity, harmony, and balance. It works to be rid of fractiousness, discord, and inequity: To heal from the ravages of selfishness which is the rebellious disease. To comprehend and to do and then to heal is the gift of God. It is the human soul's potential. Fractiousness and discord that come of, and cause, inequity need not exist within humanity. It need not exist between humanity and any of the other creatures of God's nor between humanity and the planet itself or any of the rest of God's creation. Upheaval that comes of evil need not occur except that people choose it. It can be transcended. Though there will be tumult, this promise of transcendence and transfiguration is held out as the resurrection of the just even for those whose bodies die in this life.

It is a shame that people will not learn and then do. It is a shame that there are those who have, and will, reject ridding themselves of the disease of selfishness rather than remaining the disease themselves. What a wonderful thing it would be were all to conflate. Nevertheless, what a wonderful thing it will be when the just are no longer subjected to the environment created by the diseased and unwilling.

The whole earth, the universe, reacting: Tribulation

For those who will refuse to be just, there will be tumult and then they will die. They will not be a part of any transfiguration of the living or the resurrection of the just. There will be abominable pandemics never before seen by human kind. Famines will spread and deepen. Earthquakes and volcanoes, even super volcanoes, hurricanes and tornados, floods and hail storms, droughts and dust storms will be severe and widespread. Seas will boil and turn to blood. Mountains will fall down. The sun and moon and stars will be blotted out. Wars will widen in vicious recriminations. God's creatures will increasingly react in ways completely unexpected and unpredicted by science.
What has been happening over the last few years is merely the mildest of warning signs of what is coming (the beginning of sorrows) on account of humanity's stiff-necked unwillingness to repent and constant backsliding.
There are things that the scientists aren't saying, because their models don't tell them. The reason their models don't tell them is because the scientists don't have any historical references that have moved them to create sufficient connections in their models. They can't mirror what they haven't seen and cannot apprehend. What I mean by this is that there are things that are connected in ways that are not yet apparent to science, because the connections have never been made to stand out. For example, the geologists don't know what the effects will be of pumping all the crude oil out of the ground. Also, the climatologists and others are focused upon global warming, but their ability to speculate about the future is limited to interpolation based upon events in the past that took place usually gradually. There were catastrophic events such as super volcanoes and asteroid impacts; however, those events were not compounded by the activities of billions of human beings who are now the most numerous mammals on earth even more numerous than rats.
Now we are presented with those cumulative effects of careless human activities. The truth is that the quick thawing of the surface of the earth in conjunction with mining and oil pumping and continued fossil-fuel burning and desertification and population changes in the species of earth will result in a cascade of unpredictable events. The thawing of peat bogs will do more than release additional carbon. It will also create an environment for insect and other populations in the trillions. The melting of the icecaps will do more than raise the sea level. It will literally shift the weight around on the surface of the earth rather rapidly in geological terms. There is a great deal of water under the surface of the earth that will be affected by all of this.

The snow packs in the mountains are being diminished by humanities selfishness that is fossil fuel burning, deforestation, and other greedy causes of alarming global warming. It is a sign of things to come. It is a warning. Snow takes time to melt to release the freshwater. Precipitation that used to fall as snow is now falling as rain. This is having an impact upon freshwater supplies for drinking, agriculture, hydroelectricity, and nature in general. The scientists can't begin to predict all the changes that will take place and accelerate due to humanities evil choice of an economy based upon selfishness.

Small changes combine to affect the huge. This is the message of the commandments. The great commandments cannot be kept unless the small commandments are also kept and vice versa. The shortsightedness of humanity keeps it from seeing the chain of causation that affects even the tectonics of the whole earth.
Don't imagine that all the language of the scripture is metaphorical. It was more than a poetical allusion to human interactions when Moses spoke that God said the following:

For a fire is kindled in mine anger, and shall burn unto the lowest hell, and shall consume the earth with her increase, and set on fire the foundations of the mountains.

(Deuteronomy 32:22)

He was talking also about the earth in literal ways. The things that happen geologically are not independent of human choices. The spirit controls the earth. The spirit that pervades determines results. Right now, the selfish spirit is resulting in global warming. This is God's design that we will either acknowledge and heed or we will dismiss at our peril. It is that simple.

The rotten fruits of that spirit will be a cascade unless the people turn from that evil spirit, from their self-centered feelings. This is God's doing, and its right.

Selfishness: Cause and effect: The divine law

This global warming, resulting from greed and thoughtlessness, is the most obvious, huge sign of the interconnectedness of human consciousness with the whole of the environment, as God's plan, that has been given to human kind since Noah. When it is combined with the enlightenment that Jesus brought, about the highest leader being the greatest servant and about having faith in the giving spirit, we are being given the answer to the problem. It also means woe to those who reject it.

The point is that if the human spirit becomes depraved enough and remains turned away from righteousness long enough, consequences will occur such that they will not appear to the unbeliever to be directly causal even though they really are causal.

In other words, the catastrophes that occur would not otherwise occur. The spiritual choices of human kind move God who is not bound by mundanely perceived, material-based scientific causality. God resides in God's divinely ordained scientific realm. God is not limited to human definitions. Humans are limited by God's definition of humans.

The limit of faith is the limit of righteousness. If humans are acting in righteousness that is the unfolding of prophecy, humans can command the mountains to move and God will then move them (by forces unseen, unknown, and unknowable by self-centered, mundane science).

God isn't just the God of human dealings. God is the God of the whole of creation, the entire universe, known and unknown, material and spiritual. When human beings are spiritually self-centered, it isn't just human-on-human events that are affected. It isn't just that human selfishness effects the material environment in some mundane causality. It isn't that God simply created the material universe and died or went to sleep or what have you.

The hardhearted will refuse to believe that there is a direct connection between hurricane Katrina's devastation on the Gulf Coast of the US at the end of August, 2005, and US coveting Iraqi oil and all the rest of the self-centeredness surrounding US fossil-fuel use and other invariably callous aspects of the worldly empire mentality. They will invariably fail to heed the sign. They will fail to understand how the spirit of selfishness brings on such death, destruction, and depravation.

No matter how much people will want to avoid the implications, hurricane Katrina was an act of God. Everything is an act of God in a certain context, even as God is not responsible for sin. Reconcile these.

Be sure to understand that Jesus taught that unless one repents, such catastrophes and the death of the body and soul can result. Fit Jesus's teachings into the times. "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." (Luke 13:3). It doesn't mean perish in the exact same manner. It means die. It means be in the spiritual darkness awaiting those after this life.

Jerusalem was nearly wiped from the face of the earth by the Romans. The false Zionists didn't heed Jesus. They didn't repent in time to escape. How shall the US make out? The times are changing. As harsh as it may seem to the residents of the US Gulf Coast whose lives were turned upside down by Katrina, how truly repentant have they been? Have they ignored the divide between selfishness and unselfishness? Was each working to spread the real word and do the absolutely requisite deeds with all his or her heart, soul, mind, and strength? Hurricane Katrina is only part of the beginning of sorrows leading up to the end of this age.

People are beginning to talk about disaster fatigue. That's a hard heart speaking. They hear about or experience directly the hurricanes slamming the US and other countries and the tsunami that took some quarter of a million lives. They hear about mud slides and fires. They hear about the 7.6 earthquake of October, 2005, in the Himalayas of Pakistan and Kashmir, concerning which the rich and well-equipped North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) has refuse the call from the UN for huge and rapid help before the onset of winter. Children starve who otherwise would live.

God knows the hardheartedness of those who refuse or are fatigued rather than moved to undertake the real solution. There will be woeful consequences.

The conservatives, unfortunately, will heed least. They will conjure up ways to profit from the misery of others. The oil companies will drag out recovery in order to raise prices via a created shortage. Those companies closest to the president once again, predictably, have been awarded huge contracts to deal with Katrina's aftermath just as they were awarded huge contracts in Iraq during the occupation of Iraq and Baghdad. The conservatives in power have seen to it that the members of their good ol' boys network have received the lion's share (greatest or best part) in the form of no-bid contracts for the restoration of the devastated areas. Also, George W. Bush has been advised to ratchet up the funding for those contracts for political purposes. Which corporations and which families owning which corporations will give how much to whom in order to insure their system?

The regions hit the hardest are in the so-called Bible Belt loaded with self-styled conservative Protestant Fundamentalists and evangelicals whom Bush blatantly used to secure the presidency. The more the conservatives spend in the devastated areas in ways targeted to benefit their own (conservative, white, wealthy Republicans), the more their constituents will reward them with campaign funding, etc.

This is not to say that people should not come to the rescue of those in need. They should. However, need is great and spread out across the globe. The only true way of addressing the entire need is as outlined in this work and not as planned and promoted by the neoconservatives or neoliberals.

The conservatives invariably get caught up in corruption on a grand scale every time they obtain the reins of power. Along with those in the Bush-43 administration concerning Iraq, Katrina, and other fiascos, there are conservative Republicans in the federal legislative branch and elsewhere in the spotlight for shady dealings with mammon.

Tom DeLay

Tom DeLay is an anti-environmentalist. He was a bug exterminator who used all sorts of environmentally harmful chemicals even after they were known to be a problem. He is unrepentant about that. He entered politics primarily to attack environmental protection that worked to control his bug-extermination business. He hates good stewardship of the earth. What does that make him? Who hates good stewardship of the earth?

After he reached Washington, he claimed to have found Jesus. The only thing he found was money and power.

DeLay, who had to step down as the US House majority leader, was formally admonished by the House Ethics Committee for several corrupt practices. He offered to buy another congressman's vote for tens of thousands of dollars in support for that congressman's son's political career. He asked the federal aviation officials to search for Texas state representatives during a Texas redistricting vote. Also concerning that redistricting, US Justice Department attorneys had found that the outcome would violate antidiscrimination laws. However, Republican conservative political appointees at the US Justice Department overruled the findings of those career department attorneys.

What is telling about the House Ethics Committee is that since the time it decided to admonish him, Tom DeLay saw to a purging of its leader and other members, so his loyalists were stacked as the committee. Also, DeLay managed to get the ethics rules rewritten for a time in an attempt to preclude in advance his having to step down while under indictment. That change was quickly reversed under the thrust of other Republicans when there was a huge and instant public outcry against such blatant devolving of ethical standards.
Tom DeLay was indicted in a campaign money-laundering scheme. That's why he had to step down from the House majority leader position. It is a requirement under the ethics rules of the US House.

Tom Delay raised corporate money and sent it to Texas to be used by Republicans running for the state legislature. Corporate campaign funding is illegal in Texas. Delay's scheme was designed to go undetected, to circumvent the campaign-financing laws of Texas. His political action committee operated as a money launderer for the funds.

With those illegal campaign funds, the Republicans gained enough seats in the state legislature to force through a mid-term congressional redistricting plan that constituted reverse gerrymandering. The conservative court eventually ruled that the redistricting could stand despite its clear violations of the voting rights of minorities that have been traditionally discriminated against in Texas.

The Republicans gained five additional seats in the US House as a result of that gerrymandering. They, in effect, took away five Democratic seats via illegal campaign financing.

Voters in Texas lost their elected federal representatives in mid-term, something that should have been viewed as clearly illegal—nullifying their votes for their elected representatives.

On April 4, 2006, Tom DeLay announced his resignation from his seat in the US House of Representatives. He moved to Virginia no doubt to become part of the conservative-Republican establishment that always continues to wield power after public disgrace and without repentance. He remains one of their own. He served the power elite well and will not be cut off.

Newt Gingrich and Tom DeLay gutted the House of Representatives for the sake of the power elite at the expense of the underclass. They both left in disgrace. Gingrich still wields more power than nearly any sitting representative. DeLay won't fair quite so well in the intellectual realm, but he won't be constrained anymore in the dirty tricks department. He can coach people on how to continue the revolution of evil. He can make tons of money through books and speaking engagements where he will be enthusiastically greeted by the revolutionaries who hold up Oliver North and others who in the minds of the neocons can do no wrong while definitely doing wrong for the Empire. Today, they just pay attention to the laws they choose and rewrite history in an attempt to steer the masses to the conclusion they, the power elite, want.

Materialism leads to depravity

This whole process is leading to open homosexuality, adultery, and pederasty. It is leading to the dominance of the notion of matter without spirit, in which case they see no consequences beyond the grave for actions taken in this life. That licenses anything anyone is powerful enough to assert. It renders the guiding principle of taking what you want by any means you wish. The only risk is in the here and now. This leads to militarism and economic materialism. They imagine there is nothing but here and now. Their pleasure and comfort here and now, regardless of anyone else's, is paramount—in fact all there is.

Some try to carry on a dualistic façade. They attempt to hide behind a false exterior of religious piety. They are their fruits (results; consequences) however. If their results, if the consequences of their behavior, are not Christian, they are not Christian.

Their real raison d'être (reason for existing) is self-centered and does, and will continue to, lead to immorality and all the ills of society and the environment and the continue death of their souls. They put quantity before quality.

Excessive consumption, consuming more than one needs (not wants), as the emphasis makes one of the fat-spirit and depletes, disturbs, molests, and offends. These are the activities of the subversive.

Increasing consumerism is evil. It is the devouring spirit. It is authorized under libertarianism, since it is no body's business to decide what is right or wrong but rather we all ought to just let the libertarian-perceived forces play out to discover the natural economic balance of things. In other words, don't advocate against selfishness but rather just let selfishness seek the path of least resistance.

There is no redemption in excess. The voice promoting excess is anti-redemption and antichrist. It is the voice of ruin, injury, pain. Its words are the omen of evil. It is the oracle or prophet or prophetess leading on toward the death of the Holy Spirit within and, hence, the death of both body and soul, even forever, if there is never enough redemptive faith and sacrifice.

In addition to Mister De Lay, there are many conservative Republicans in, and without, the Bush-43 administration who are feeling the heat for their false path. I will deal with Karl Rove and Lewis "Scooter" Libby a little later on in this work.

Jack Abramoff

Jack Abramoff has been a Republican lobbyist with extremely close ties to Tom De Lay, president George W. Bush, and other high-ranking conservative Republicans. Abramoff has now been charged with fraud and is under several other criminal investigations. Also, Abramoff, De Lay, and others, went to Scotland in 2000. It is illegal for a US House member to accept gifts from lobbyists. Much of De Lay's expenses for the hugely expensive trip were charged to lobbyists' credit cards. According to De Lay, those lobbyists were reimbursed by a nonprofit organization, the National Center for Public Policy Research. Abramoff lobbied for the Center. The Center was his client. He also sat on its board. It is all a kind of selfish financial incest.

---

88 Abramoff pleaded guilty on Tuesday, Jan. 3, 2006. He made a plea-bargaining deal with the prosecutors in which he pled guilty to lesser charges and agreed to supply state’s evidence, which is evidence against others whom the state charges, in exchange for the state dropping more serious charges against Abramoff and asking the court for more severe sentencing or penalties against him.
No promulgated, mundane ethical rules can anticipate every loophole through which the rich will step. Only the spirit when adhered to can preclude people from falling to such selfish motives.

It was a ten-day trip while House rules for such trips call for a week maximum. In addition, DeLay took his wife, two aids, and others on the trip all at the expense of yet others. DeLay submitted documentation to the House clerk that showed the expenses for his wife and he alone were over $2,800 (USD) per day for the ten-day trip. There are those who suggest that that figure is exceedingly lower than the actual cost. Now, there would not even have to be a seven-day limit except that so many people automatically take selfish advantage. Were Tom DeLay on a sincere trip to save the needy, no one would be right to limit him to seven days of financial help to accomplish that goal. However, that was not the impetus behind the trip.

With people starving all over the planet, what is going on with such trips? It would be understandable were someone visiting wealthy people on the turf of those wealthy ones while attempting to elicit donations from them to help with the needy. However, to bask in luxury on end with the needs and wants of others nowhere in mind is to be far, far astray.

David Safavian was the former chief of staff of the United States General Services Administration (the federal government’s purchasing arm) and director of Procurement Policy at the Office of Management and Budget, a part of the Bush-43 administration. He was arrested, charged, and on June 20, 2006, convicted for obstructing the criminal investigation of Abramoff.

Ralph Reed

In what is called the Abramoff-Reed Indian Gambling Scandal, Ralph E. Reed, Jr. (made the first executive director of the Christian Coalition of America by televangelist Pat Robertson, who called for the assassination of Hugo Frias Chavez), and Abramoff are under investigation for lobbying against American Indian gaming interests in order to induce the Indians to engage in exorbitant lobbying contracts to counteract that very lobbying against them. Abramoff, Reed, and others engaged in a kind of protection racket. If the Indians wouldn't sign tens of millions of dollars worth of lobbying contracts with them, they would (break their windows) lobby against them. That practice is no better than organized crime or the Jizya scheme of the false prophet Mohammed, discussed further on.

As of the time of this entry, Reed is running for the Republican nomination to be the lieutenant governor of Georgia. He was paid over four million US dollars by Indian tribes. Reed had the money sent to him via intermediaries so that the money wouldn't be traced to gambling since that wouldn't do for a Christian. Will the so-called conservative Christians still back Reed to be the lieutenant governor of Georgia? Reed has admitted that he made a mistake by hiding the source of his personal profits; however, he hasn't come clean across-the-board. He hasn't changed his stripes. He's not speaking out for what Jesus called for. He's not exemplifying giving and sharing. He's still spewing antichrist garbage.

Reed helped get a tribe's casino shut down so that Abramoff could turn around to bilk the Indians out of more money for lobbying Congress to get the casino reopened. What a con game. What rip-off artists. Here's a supposed Christian leader, Reed, swindling Indians for his personal gain in the millions of dollars.

This kind of stuff gives God a bad reputation with the people. That's why it is so important for people to come forward with the truth that God is not the God of the so-called conservative Republicans.

The conservatives give God a bad name, but so too do the false liberals

The Episcopal Church

Neither is God the God of the false liberals who claim that sexual depravity is inborn so it isn't a sin and claim that God created homosexuals to love people of the same gender, which are sentiments expressed by Katharine Jefferts Schori, the presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church. She supports Gene Robinson as the first openly active homosexual bishop. Many in the Episcopal Church support blessing homosexual relationships.

They just don't understand that they are denying the destruction of Sodom for, among other things, its homosexual iniquity. They don't believe it. They don't believe that sodomy disgusts God.

Gene Robinson, an openly homosexual Episcopal bishop, said he's not an abomination. Well, he grew up confused. His parents named him Vicki Imogene Robinson. That's a girl's name. They claim they were expecting a girl. They got a boy and didn't change their choice of names. It was confusing for a boy to grow up with a girl's name. It was difficult considering the questions it raised with other children and adults. His parents were beyond remiss. They could not but have known they were sexually confusing their son.

On homosexuality

If homosexuality is acceptable, then what is there to overcoming then? Is pedophilia inborn? What about homicidal tendencies? What about every form of lust? The same excuse can be used concerning every urge, every temptation, and every incidence of caving in. All the evils of the world result from selfish urges. Every selfish urge that is overcome is that much less evil.

People are born into a fallen condition that they must overcome to be born again as spirit, as the unfallen angels are in heaven.

Now, we see homosexuals going through all sorts of gyrations and rationalizations trying to read into _The Bible_ all sorts of loopholes for their homosexual relations. It's all denial. It is the age old twisting of sin into acceptability. It won't work. There is no loophole. There are no loopholes for any immorality. There are no loopholes for failing to feed the lambs and sheep physically and spiritually. This is the way of it. Accept it, and let us get on with the conflation by doing righteousness together.

So, the false liberals are confusing the word of God just as the false conservatives are confusing the word of God.

As stated, Ralph Reed is a prime so-called conservative example. He cut his political teeth on dirty tricks just as did Karl Rove (George W. Bush's top advisor). As the executive director of the College Republican National Committee, under Abramoff as chairman, Reed rigged the election of his successor as president of the College Republicans at the University of Georgia, for which he received a formal reprimand. Reed was so expert at negative campaigning (see Index: McCain, John) that Karl Rove once secured a contract for Reed with the huge Enron Corporation of the Enron Corporation scandal, just to keep Reed from being hired by George W. Bush's campaign competition.

Enron Corporation

It must be remembered how deep Enron Corporation was into the Administration and vice versa.

Enron Corporation top executives were convicted, but all the other dishonest energy conspirators and manipulators were given a pass. The energy companies that stole some nine billion dollars from California consumers had to pay back very little in the deal the Bush-43 US Justice Department made.

California's governor Arnold Schwarzenegger also made a deal with the energy industry before Schwarzenegger was elected and even before the movement to recall then governor Gray Davis. Davis had been calling for the energy companies to repay all of the money to the citizens of California. The people of California were duped into recalling him. They didn't see that the whole recall was about the energy companies not then having to repay all those billions.

Bush had also allowed Enron Corporation and other crooks in the energy sector to design the US energy policy dismantling price regulation and relaxing environmental standards to the detriment of the respiratory health of hundreds of millions and causing additional environmental degradations including increasing global warming. The Iraq War was, among other things, a conspiracy to drive up oil profits for Bush's backers at the expense of the rest of humanity.

Ken Lay named his own regulators. Bush appointed all three of the people Lay had personally requested. Lay also had vice president Dick Cheney keep the federal regulators from intervening in the California energy crisis. Cheney also gave Enron Corporation all seventeen energy policy changes it wanted.

Then when the dirt started to show up, Bush started to distance himself from Lay as if he had never met him when in fact they were close allies. Enron Corporation had been Bush's largest corporate contributor even though at the time, it was apparently illegal for power... companies to make such donations. Bush-43 ended up repealing that prohibition established during FDR’s era. Ken Lay was involved with the Reagan administration and highly involved with the Bush-41 administration. Lay employed Neil Bush, George H. W.’s son and George W.’s younger brother. Lay also got Jeb Bush, the governor of Florida, to strong-arm Argentina to buy from Enron Corporation even though Enron Corporation wasn’t the best deal for Argentina. That was before Jeb was Florida’s governor and when his father was about to be inaugurated president of the US.

Global racketeering

The whole network of industry, banks, accounting firms, law firms, and politicians (international and domestic), the Bush family, members of the US Congress and state legislators in Texas and California and others, constitutes a global racket. They are white-collar gangsters at best. They have not been held to account. The cozy, corporate, mainstream media have of course turned a blind eye.

So it was with Enron Corporation that Karl Rove obtained a contract for Ralph Reed, of notorious Christian Coalition of America fame, to keep Reed from working Rove-type dirty tricks for Bush-43’s opposition.

The Abramoff-Reed Indian Gambling Scandal is only a small part of the overall picture of sleaze and corruption deeply engrained within the selfish mindset of conservatism. Of course, the false liberals have also had their scandals.
We cannot judge or condemn any of these people. We can only ask them to see the light and repent. Until they repent, they all still facilitate greed, violence, and sexual depravity, for all forms of lust are tied together in the collective that is humanity, no matter how fractured and dysfunctional.

What does all this spirit of racketeering cause? As for hurricane Katrina and other forces of God's creation, the unrepentant and arrogant of science and technology will end up being helpless in the face of the wrath of evil consequences for human opposition and defiance. All the predictions of science that have been formed in selfishness, whipped into a frenzy by the onslaught brought on by selfishness, greed, and lust, will ultimately fail. Their models will confuse them, sending them to do the wrong things. They will misinterpret. Their trust will have been misplaced.

The whole earth, the universe, reacting:
Tribulation, continued

The prophecy explains that because they trust in themselves, wickedness will magnify. Levels of depravity will hit new lows. Children will become increasingly more unruly and morose. Psychiatric interference will fail to stem the tied. Family members will turn on each other like sharks in the bloody sea. Abominations will come to the fore not seen openly for ages. False prophets will again lead people astray by the millions. It is already happening.
Kill the messenger

Many will end up blaming the real Christians as if the elect could possibly be false shepherds, because the real Christians will have known and warned them. Kill the messenger. Yet through it all, the elect (chosen) will keep the faith. Many will be martyred building up to the day of the LORD when evil will have its feast on the evil harvest.

For the day of the LORD is near upon all the heathen: as thou hast done, it shall be done unto thee: thy reward shall return upon thine own head. (Obadiah 1:15).

As the Edomites (descendants of Esau, who was a son of Isaac) did not help their cousins, the descendents of Jacob (also a son of Isaac), you have not help the poor, so you will not be helped in your hour of want just as the Edomites were wiped from the earth for their failure.

Woe anew to all the hypocrites. Turn and repent before the twelfth hour. The historical ages cycle to culmination. There will be a purging. The next huge war will be many times the size of the last world war. Once proud soldiers on all sides will run for their lives but will not be able to run fast enough. Their flesh will rot before they hit the ground.

Don't wax cold

These abominations to come in this age are in the making by the hardening hearts of hypocrites. They are waxing cold as The Bible says. Just as candle wax runs freely when it is melted hot, it turns to a solid when it cools. To persevere to the end, one's reaction to iniquity must be the opposite of waxing cold. One’s reaction must be to have the heart become fuller with compassion and not grow colder, harder, and smaller.

What has been your reaction to the war in Iraq? Has your heart hardened or softened? Are you more numbed to war? Are you less likely to speak out fervently against war? Are you moved with greater sympathy for those suffering as a result of all the death and destruction? Do you move to make peace in real truth?

Even though it is obvious how wonderful it would be were all to conflate now, most are just going to remain unwilling in the end to change and will only become worse as conditions worsen. Conservatives just cannot accept changing radically to righteousness. Even as they complain about how things are, all of which would be put right by conflation, they will rather remain complaining and not conflate in the spirit. They will facilitate the sons of perdition further increasing their grip over the world through the worldly system. They will turn to ruination as their savior.

Mark of the Beast

If things continue in the direction they are headed, total information awareness:

The Antichrist: Mammon and selfishly designed and used technology will continue to fool the people into putting all their trust and love into those things. The Empire though takes a great hit that should be fatal, but it comes back even more forcefully. Another smaller power rises up to aid the Empire and its leader-savior. Economic sanctions will be used against all who dissent and refuse the physical marking identification code that will allow the marked to do commerce (the Mark of the Beast).

And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads. (Revelation 13:16).

And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. (Revelation 13:17).

Now, there are people who are already marked spiritually and physically in their brain matter configured to the selfishness of capitalism. The system will seek to go farther than that however. It will seek to prescreen everyone whom it will clear for commerce. Those who will not bow down and be initially technologically marked are to be starved out.

Some people will want to dissent, because there will be a spiritual associated oath of allegiance to the leader and the system and Empire that will have to be made before coding for commerce will be given. The vast majority of people will gladly pledge their allegiance and be marked. They will laugh at those who draw parallels to scripture.

There will be false shepherds calling themselves Christian leaders who will tell their flocks that the Mark of the Beast is the seal of God that will protect them. Many will be led astray by this. They will be led astray with talk of the United States being the nation with God on its side. "God and Country" is their motto. However, they don't know God.

Many would-be dissenters will give in, because they will be unable to survive otherwise, since the entire system will be locked into the commercial restrictions. Also, powerful weapons space-based and on drone airplanes and elsewhere, will be used to threaten and vaporize militant enemies of the Empire.

Only those communities sufficient through God outside the system will be able to exist without the Mark.

Competing forms of currency, as defined by the system, will be outlawed even on so-called private property. They will be viewed as nonreligious attempts to circumvent taxation and identification and deemed an unacceptable security risk for the state. All commercial transactions will be digital and will not be allowed without markings with few exceptions. There will be no paper or coin transactions. Barter will be illegalized.

Even travel between communes will be made difficult for those without a mark. The Real Liberal Christian Church is expressly opposed to embeds, implants, marks, or anything of the kind, regardless of what term will be used for them or the form of technology used to artificially code the person's body so as to control buying and selling and other false-state purposes.

Those with preexisting tattoos and body piercings likely to object on anarchistic grounds will find their objections overruled. It will be exactly that element that the system, the global capitalists (even the so-called libertarian capitalists), corporatists, will want tagged or marked for security control.

Biometrics

The plan is for total awareness and control. The markings are to be linked to all recorded biometrics. Each person will be scanned in three dimensions regarding his or her birth marks, face, fingerprints, hand measurements, height, weight, implants, irises, moles, retinas, scars, piercings, tattoos, etc. Changes in hair length and style and body weight and size will be updated in near real-time. Each person's signature, typing patterns, voice, and walk will be recorded. Even the person's biomarkers such as DNA will be recorded. Brainwaves will also be scanned and recorded.

All of this will be cross-referenced with every transaction and all other public and private records available (all vital and other statistics going back as far as records are still in existence). Every person's family tree, history, associations, including private and personal, will be recorded. All communications will be monitored. Public surveillance devices covering the entire available spectrum will track everyone as will GPS systems and other systems yet to come online that will tract the marks that will be indelible. GPS and other scanners will track all products, which will be whole homing devices, meaning the signature will be readable down to the nanotech level of the material.

Surveillance will not be limited to public places. The state will technologically scan private places without disclosing such surveillance. It has already begun. It is much further along, many years, than anyone has publicly indicated.

Try as the US Congress might, via cutting off funding or other approaches, the budget will be kept secret. The line-item accounting will be compartmentalized and privatized out from under any oversight by the common people's (the demos) oversight so that even the president will not know every line. It will be turned over to computers that will encrypt their own programming in ways that will not be reversible or able to be hacked or cracked at the time. This will be done under the guise of security—no one is trustworthy, so take it out of human hands to the degree imaginations can conjure up such technology.

This destroys any pretense to democracy, republicanism, or representation. It won't be the choice of the people. It will be the elite sowing things up for themselves by throwing the steering wheel out the window after they have things going in their direction forever, they will falsely imagine.

Even those who refuse on accepted religious grounds to be marked and identified will be monitored via special programs to insure non-threatening behavior toward the system. Threatening behavior will include turning militantly anti-Empire or even reaching one person with the real non-militant message of Jesus Christ.

There will be a struggle over church proselytizing. The state will try to limit proselytizing and conversion on security grounds. Only the religions that tout the state's line will be allowed to proselytize without harassment from the state.

The tribulation will begin and the persecutions will heat up into a living nightmare. The real Christians especially will be blamed for the Empire's woes since real Christians will have prophesied (warned of) those woes.

Eliminating freewill to choose real righteousness

Total awareness and control has no limit in the dark visions and arrogant imaginations of the satanic architects. Their desire to create and maintain the false consciousness has them striving mightily for not only mind reading but long and detailed thought generation and complete control via automated signals. This is their attempt to eliminate independent thought. It is their attempt to eliminate freewill to choose real righteousness. It is their attempt to make of themselves gods, really all-powerful demons. Nothing good will come of it. They will fail. The only good that will come will be people turning from it before it is too late for them.
The system crashes

It is all conditional, and only a radical change in behavioral patterns can alter things. That radical change will occur. It will only happen after the system crashes.

According to the prophecy, two will confound evil, speak truth and plagues will follow, he put to death, be resurrected, and be ascended before the world. (See: Revelation 11:3-12). The son of perdition will rise through false flattery and false peace. He will cause much instant pain and suffering. He will die but not by human handiwork. (See: Daniel 8:25). The Son of man, in the spirit of mercy and unity, will come and vanquish all the iniquitous by the words of his mouth told to him by the Holy Spirit of truth and then rule on earth as in heaven consistent with Jesus's words and actions as described in the Gospels. He shall not lead by coercion but by people being drawn to his righteous message by God. This is prophecy for the ages.

And I will feed the flock of slaughter, even you, O poor of the flock. And I took unto me two staves; the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Bands; and I fed the flock. (Zechariah 11:7).

To receive the meaning and retain the understanding in spirit, one must open up to the consistent implications of Jesus's name. His name implies and actually speaks his message. It speaks the commandments, great and small, and the prophecy unfolding. This is why knowing his name matters. It sums up everything when all those other things are held in consistency. There is nothing in any of it that stands out as inconsistent. Things inconsistent with any of it are not of it. They are of the others spirit. No one grasps much of the revelation without seeing and appreciating how all things of the light speak of the same thing that is oneness or unity and all things of the dark speak of disunity that is mutual selfishness.

Darkness is not excuse for evil: Good deeds only

Unfortunately, many of those who consider themselves Christian use inevitable darkness as their excuse for not doing requisite deeds. They fall into the snare allowing the darkness to be greatly magnified displacing the otherwise light shining through in good deeds for the sake of the lost (sinners). Souls are lost on account of the excuse. Those who fall into the snare take the confused position that because the prophecy says to them that things are going to disintegrate into bedlam, any involvement with making the world brighter through good works (helping those in need and reaching out to sinners) is futile and entails dirtying oneself by engaging the as yet unrepentant in the worldly system. Their excuse flies in the face of what Jesus said is the criteria used for separating out the sheep (saved) from the goats (damned). It also flies in the face of the fact that Jesus and his disciples gave money to help the poor and did all the other works of love they did to bring sinners to repentance and to the Holy Spirit.

Those that had, and have, the faith to give food, drink, shelter, clothing, and attention (visitation) to those with the least and the lambs and sheep of Jesus and those that call Jesus enemy, will be counted amongst the sheep. Those that sat, and sit, on their hands or take away food, drink, shelter, clothing, or attention will be counted amongst the goats. (See: Matthew 25:31-46; part of the Olivet Discourse).

This will be a wonderfully blessed world when all are conflated by the Holy Spirit of truth. The blight of the Empire spirit will be gone. The new commandment will be used by all to interpret what went before and why. "As I have loved you, that ye also love one another." (John 13:34). Coercion will fall away. Innocents will no longer be expendable. Competition will be completely replaced by the spirit of cooperation. The world will be saved. "I came not to judge the world, but to save the world." (John 12:47). The world was saved on the cross. It will come to fruition. The fulfillment of the spirit of prophecy will continue to be revealed, not just the parts for earlier times or for that age that ended in A.D. 70. It is all one prophetic direction.
Chapter 6  Conservative Christians Press For Family Values

The preponderance of those in America today referring to themselves as conservative Christians press for what they call family values. When the so-called conservative Christians use the expression family values, they are not talking about the family in the spirit. They are talking about closest flesh-and-blood, genetic relatives. The values they are espousing with this expression are about what is meant primarily by the term "nuclear family." However, the true Christian understands, having been born again, that the real familial relationship for the Christian is spiritual and behavioral.

While he yet talked to the people, behold, his mother and his brethren stood without, desiring to speak with him. Then one said unto him, Behold, they mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to speak with thee. But he answered and said unto him that told him, Who is my mother? And who are my brethren? And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren! For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother. (Matthew 12:46-50).

Therefore, true family values concern the spiritual family, the people doing righteousness only.

This runs contrary to, or parallel with, the Ebionite tradition of the early church in Jerusalem, as related in later church writings since it is reported that we have no writings of the Ebionites. The Ebionites are reported to have put great stock in what is called the Desposyni. The Desposyni were at least the nuclear family members of Jesus ("his mother and his brethren [who] stood without, desiring to speak with him") and may have extended to successive generations and perhaps cousins. The earliest communities of the followers of Jesus, for instance, supposedly were headed by members of Jesus's nuclear family rather than Jesus's original disciples. James the Just (Jesus's brother) was the head of the first church in Jerusalem. He may be likened to the first bishop.

Also, the Ebionites apparently did not subscribe to the divinity of Jesus.

It is a question the degree to which those around Jesus and who later converted truly grasped his revelation or confused the issue or were correct within their given contexts but speaking and writing past one another some times at cross purposes losing sight of feeding the lambs and sheep ("the will of my [Jesus's and our] Father which is in heaven"). The Ebionites and Paul ran at odds at times. Others, such as Peter, were being pulled in both directions. What are we to learn from it all?
The values of the spiritual family are best expressed by the emphasis Jesus placed upon taking care of the sheep and lambs who are those who hear his voice, with particular emphasis upon the neediest amongst them. He said, "Feed my lambs... Feed my sheep..." (John 21:15-17). He also said, "Do good to them that hate you." (Matthew 6:44).

Now, the family values of the conservatives do not emphasize the feeding of the spiritual family members and doing good to them that hate them. Their values center rather upon taking care first and foremost of their own closest flesh-and-blood family. They use the Old Testament meaning of brethren. The family values of the conservatives eschew the division of that nuclear family despite that Jesus said he came to cause such division, breaking up the flesh-and-blood families into those of the spirit and those not.

The best case family

Of course, the flesh-and-blood family that is also the spiritual family, undivided, is a flesh-and-blood family that will put the needy above the unnecessary desires of nuclear family members. The whole flesh-and-blood family in that case would gladly participate in sacrificing for the sake of the less fortunate. Ultimately, though, it is no sacrifice. It is love, and God will take care of the souls of those who show it. The idea here is not to be nitpicking things to death either.
Judas, not Jesus, disingenuously begrudged using the very expensive spikenard on Jesus's feet.

Then took Mary a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair; and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment. (John 12:3).

It is good and proper that the flesh-and-blood family members teach each other the straight and narrow and not begrudge each glorification shown by others for all glory is to God. Mary was glorifying God through Jesus. It is consistent with the perfection that was the message of Jesus.

Jesus, of course, did not hold with being filthy rich in the face of the poverty of others. The flesh-and-blood family ought not lead each other astray but rather aid each other in keeping to the path of righteousness that feeds the poor and also glorifies God in other ways as well.

Fulltime love-hate relationship: Unconditional and conditional

We must always remember the following that Jesus said:

If a man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple. (Luke 14:26).
And a man's foes shall be they of his own household. (Matthew 10:36).

There is, therefore, a fulltime love-hate relationship concerning all such relationships. There is the hate of any family member's iniquity and the wickedness within oneself while there is also the simultaneous love of one's enemies (foes), even in this case within one's household. Hate the iniquity while always loving in order to potentiate enlightenment, thereby, selling nobody short (not judging them—just witnessing to the truth).

Combine this with the understanding that one is what one does, and you begin to understand the range of beingness conflated as Godliness. This is not the typical conceptualization of unconditional love. It is a combination of conditional and unconditional love. The conditional is relative and the unconditional is not. Both are part of the divine reality, the language of the revelation.

Hating iniquity is right. One is what one does, so hating the iniquitous is also right. That said, it must be tempered by loving the redeemable and understanding that we don't know who is and who is not redeemable. Therefore, we hold to a standard for others which standard also allows for the forgiveness of our own sins. We avoid the hypocrisy of judging and condemning since look at how long it took us to turn toward the strait gate and how far we have yet to go on the narrow way.
Conservatives counter the preaching of Jesus

Now, to counter this preaching of Jesus, the conservatives will mistakenly point to 1 Timothy 5:8 as follows:

> But if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel.

But Paul can never be used by a Christian to trump Jesus. The extent to which Paul is right is after whatever Jesus had to say is put first and Paul is consistent. If anything in your mind that Paul ever wrote seems to conflict with what Jesus said, you must go with what Jesus said to clarify Paul's meaning: What it is allowed to encompass under Christianity. Therefore, taking care of immediate flesh-and-blood is always done as a simultaneous responsibility of taking care of the family in spirit. Immediate flesh-and-blood relatives are, after all, your neighbors in the sense of the commandments. Also, Jesus said, "If a son shall ask bread of any of you that is a father, will he give him a stone? or if he ask a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent?" (Luke 11:11). This does not mean though that one is never to travel for the word knowing in faith that one's immediate flesh-and-blood relatives are provided for. Also, if your flesh-and-blood relatives reject you, you are always obligated to your spiritual family, which is your true family. Jesus, after all, shook the dust from his feet leaving the towns of those of his fellow Hebrews who were false. The only time your close flesh-and-blood relatives are equal to your family in spirit is when they are also of the spirit, when they are bringing forth the good fruit. They are though always to be treated with the love that you are supposed to show even to those who hate you and call you enemy, as many flesh-and-blood relatives often set themselves up as each other's bitter foes.

Antonin Scalia and the death penalty

A prime example of not qualifying Paul in this way of putting the teachings of Jesus first is given by US Supreme Court justice Antonin Scalia in his argument in favor of the death penalty (See: Footnote89) as follows:

89 The discussion of the death penalty runs several pages. Please see the index for Scalia, Antonin; death penalty; and capital punishment to find the extent of the coverage.

Few doubted the morality of the death penalty in the age that believed in the divine right of kings. Or even in earlier times. St. Paul had this to say (I am quoting, as you might expect, the King James Version):

Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation. For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power?
Do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same: for he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil. Wherefore ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake. (Romans 13:1-5).

This is not the Old Testament, I emphasize, but St. Paul. One can understand his words as referring only to lawfully constituted authority, or even only to lawfully constituted authority that rules justly. But the core of his message is that government—however you want to limit that concept—derives its moral authority from God. It is the 'minister of God' with powers to 'revenge,' to 'execute wrath,' including even wrath by the sword (which is unmistakably a reference to the death penalty). Paul of course did not believe that the individual possessed any such powers. Only a few lines before this passage, he wrote, 'Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.' And in this world the Lord repaid—did justice—through His minister, the state.

Oh, what a problem this thinking is. Paul pointed out a mundane paradox. Where is the conscience? Where is the compassion? Where is the mercy called for by God and Jesus? Jesus suffered the death penalty at the hands of the state. Make sure you are absorbing that. Here it is again. Jesus Christ suffered capital punishment on the cross at the hands of the state. The reason that happened was because the state of heaven was not the state of man and it still isn’t.

Furthermore, Paul by his own words had been the state's instrument for wrath against the Christians before he converted.

As for Saul [Saint Paul], he made havock of the church, entering into every house, and haling men and women committed them to prison. (Acts 8:3).

That state was either legitimate or not. A higher spiritual power had put that state in place, and that state did not give way to Jesus Christ who was the rightful shepherd by virtue of the perfect message he brought to light the world. Yet, Jesus did not judge the men who ran that Empire and its vassal states, such as Israel. Yet, he called them vipers, which are creatures that do not look after their young. The common people who followed Jesus grasped much of this while the elite powers were utterly confounded and confuted.
Friends, Paul erred by not qualifying sufficiently or by misunderstanding wrath. Frankly, he is taken out of the fuller-Gospel context. He was right that we ought not to avenge ourselves; however, that message is for all human kind including the state. That is so important to grasp. The message of Jesus is not for the righteous but for sinners both ruled and rulers.

The rulers ought not to avenge. The state ought not to avenge. Otherwise, Jesus would have said stone the adulterous as the law of Moses required by mistake. No human being and no state ought to avenge. When no human being is the instrument of wrath, wrath will be gone. Vengeance belongs to God, but God is not vengeful. God is the spirit of peace. God calls all human beings (rulers and states) to overcome wrath. That is why Jesus said God judges no man.

For the Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son. (John 5:22).

I judge no man. And yet if I judge, my judgment is true: for I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me. (John 8:16).

Wrap your mind around this before you proceed, for you do not get to the highest heaven without absorbing it and making it the law written in your heart.

Satan is vengeful and accuses, judges, condemns, sentences, and punishes everyone. Give place to negative consequences, but don't fall into a mundane paradox concerning the absolute peaceful spirit of God that is untouchable by the essence of that satanic spirit. "Give place to" at best can mean don't be vengeful against the misguided state that itself is wrathful, but don't confuse that worldly state with the ultimate desire of God for human souls or God's true emotional state, meaning don't confuse wrath of the worldly state with how God wants us to behave toward one another.

Wrath is an evil. The power of the worldly state is at best the lesser of evils. From the perspective or relative position of one being rescued from a greater evil by a lesser-evil state, the actions of the state can appear good. However, that lesser evil is not the ultimate solution. It is at best a stopgap measure. This is not to say that we ignore the plight of people being tortured by fiends acting alone or in discordant concert with the state. It is to say that fiends are created by evil perpetuating itself and compounding itself in selfishness. We must change the hearts, minds, and souls of the fiendish-minded away from wrath and vengeance and greed and other deprivities and iniquities. Those who refuse must be left to negative consequences beyond the coercion of human beings.

Jesus taught of, and warned of, the consequences that would befall those who could not sort out half-truths from the whole truth. He taught in parable form, because their law was confused about parables and truisms.

The parable can be an art form for truth-telling. Poetry and the prose of so-called fiction can be the same. Then there is so-called non-fiction, which is as unmistakably direct as one is moved to make it. The Bible is full of all of these.

Every time Jesus alluded to power, he was not always talking about the spirit of God to the exclusion of the power of human beings. The willful leader has a temporal power, even if he or she is ignorant that all power comes by way of God. This is paradoxical for the human mind until it realizes to reconcile God's great plan or design.

God's perspective

God knows all the details to the infinite degree. God knows everything that has happened and will happen. Our freewill is within that infinitude. Can the human mind grasp this? The human mind can conceptualize it. The only way to see if from God's perspective is to be God with nothing in reserve or held back.

Reconcile relativism and absolutism

It must always be remembered that even Jesus said that he, Jesus, didn't know everything that God our Father in heaven knows. He said that while also saying that he was one in spirit with God who knows those things which Jesus had the humility to state that he, Jesus, didn't know. This is reconcilable when relativism and absolutism are considered simultaneously.

The key is to view concepts simultaneously rather than chopped up as the various denominations and religions reflect. They glom onto one concept and exclude the infinite other that exists with it. Rather than working on the concepts in a cooperative, mutually enlightening spirit, they have historically drawn swords and lit fires over their respective heresies. It has been a history of myopia.

Jesus was teaching the awakening to the real perfect peace of godliness. Jesus was retaking heaven not by force or violence but by reclaiming the hearts and souls of human beings in peace, mercy, love, unselfishness, and truth.

Jesus was both man and God in this way. He was the Son of man and the Son of God without paradox. He is where we all ought to be heading, which is the conflation of man with God: Love, not wrath. It is the spirit of man turned away from God that is the embodiment of the spirit of wrath. Man in the state of wrath is still the subject of a lesser spirit than God's. He is still the subject of the satanic spirit, wrong emotion. It is this thinking that the self-styled noble liars do not want you to grasp, because it clearly and plainly implies that no matter what they do to your flesh, they cannot devour your soul that will be nestled with God without pushing anyone weaker out of the nest, for love makes the weakest the strongest. It is God's law.

Understand that everything else is relative to these two diametrically opposed and irreconcilable spirits in their ultimate essences. Yes, the satanic, misled spirit will rush in and seemingly save in violence for the short term for selfish emotionally confused reasons, often quite understandable given all the preceding misguided those under the spell of violence have received. That understanding but not condoning is the basis for forgiving all of us, and the ignorant about wrath versus love, after all. It is God's grace to understand these matters to the infinite degree.

We are interested though in the end-salvation. We are interested in the ultimate and not just what is closest relatively speaking. We want to be perfectly right. This means transforming into the spirit of God. There is no way around it. The human will must become the will of God. Anything less is perpetual error, since only God is perfectly right and good.

Consciousness awakening

The Bible is a history of consciousness awakening. It is a history of consciences debating these conceptualizations. It is a history of the emotion-language manifesting here and now the higher state of being-consciousness. It is a history of dealing with mundane paradoxes of right and wrong. It is a history of the search for God who is infinite goodness in the face of minds that would not and could not rise to that thinking. This is why Jesus said that we harvest what others before us have sown.

Herein is that saying true, One soweth, and another reapeth. (John 4:37).

The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels. (Matthew 13:39).
Moses made mistakes Jesus didn't make in his public ministry

I added that second verse to show that it is easy to make the mistake of thinking that everything sown before Jesus was clear of sin or error. For instance, Moses didn't know what Jesus knew and Moses made mistakes Jesus didn't make. The same applies to Paul. However, Moses brought much upon which those to follow could build in sorting partial truth from the entire truth we rightfully seek. Moses is neither judged nor condemned by God. Moses came before Jesus in mundane history. Unlike others, Moses did not have the benefit of being able to first consider the teachings of Jesus. Moses was right for his time and place and its hardheartedness that was its spiritual deafness. Moses is alive and in heaven and agrees fully with Jesus. Think about this carefully, for it has a direct bearing upon the future choices you will make and what you will sow and reap in the end.

Was Jesus a terror to good works? No. Were they the terrors-to-good-works who conspired to murder him and did get him murdered? Obviously, the answer is yes.

Jesus suffered the death penalty wrongfully even by the low standards of the Roman Empire at the time. He suffered it attempting to teach the likes of the Scalia-minded of the world not to throw stones that is use punishment, capital or otherwise.

Oh, judge Antonin Scalia has worked out for himself a place in the Empire where he does his best to balance the original intent of those who passed a given law with the weight of legal precedent (the findings and rulings of US judges) and with the weight of Antonin's current understanding of reasonableness. If one buys into the concept that the two great commandments, golden rule, and new commandment of Jesus Christ are not the highest law of human kind, then Antonin's approach to partaking in the Empire, facilitating it, etc., is certainly mundanely logical. If on the other hand, one's religious belief, supposedly protected under the very mundane supreme constitution Mister Scalia has sworn to uphold, is that the two great commandments, golden rule, and new commandment of Jesus Christ are the highest law of human kind, then for that person the death penalty is unconstitutional. Also, even if there were a constitutional amendment or amendments unambiguously voiding the right to the free (even reasonable) exercise of religion or specifically enumerating capital crimes (crimes for which the convicted will be killed by the state) even stating which methods will not be construed under the US Constitution as being either cruel or unusual, even after such changes, they would be un-divine, meaning they would fail the test of consistency with the highest law known to human kind that is summed up in the new commandment of Jesus Christ.

So, the question arises. Can anyone be a US Supreme Court justice and truly believe in Jesus Christ? Could Joseph really follow God and at the same time also use the ultimate form of duress in expropriating the starving people's lands and property for the sake of the pharaoh? What was justice? The descendents of Joseph and his brothers ended up the slaves of pharaoh for hundreds of years. Think about it.

Again, can anyone be a US Supreme Court justice and truly believe in Jesus Christ? The answer is that Supreme Court justices are currently appointed for life. It would take a constitutional amendment to allow for the recall of federal judges to change that under the mundane law. Such justices are appointed by the president with the advice and consent of the US Senate. If the people voted in sufficient senators and a president all who would put on the Supreme Court bench judges who would interpret every law under the divine standard set by Jesus Christ, the letter of the US Constitution would be replaced. The judges would be the word of God. Would it be legal? It would be just as legal as using the US Constitution to give the president absolute power in times of war.

Antonin would philosophically be against the first change, because he would say that the change would be too radical (getting to the root of the problem) a change for society.

Would I seek to stand in the way of such a development? No. However, it wouldn't work unless it were unanimous, since heaven will not conflate with earth until every living soul has the divine standard written in his or her heart: Giving and sharing all in the utmost respect. It cannot be forced. It must be accepted from the evidence of the worldly failed state of things and seen peacefully as the only right solution that it is.
Founding fathers: Mammon seekers, not saviors

You must understand. You must see past the mundane rhetoric. Most of the founding fathers were mammon seekers. With few exceptions, they were private-estate builders. Their top leaders were mostly empire builders. They were egotistical. They were aristocrats or aristocrat wannabes. They sought a kind of modern version of medieval nobility. They wanted to be kinds of feudal lords: Land barons, and captains of industry with all subservient to them as leaders of their newly created state carved out by force of arms but turning the order of the day on its side. They didn't turn it on its head, else they would have been fighting for the rights of all people to share equally. They wouldn't dare go that far, or they wouldn't have been able to exercise their own despotic egos in lording over others as they had been lorded over by the king. They would only go far enough to assure themselves a high likelihood of material prosperity regardless of the plight of the very poor and downtrodden.

They were speculators to gain the world but not without a grave cost of people's lives and souls. Did they really believe in natural law that derives from the living God? They didn't do what Jesus called for. Most of the leaders viewed God as static. Most of the leaders denied the miracles of both Old and New Testaments. They were very forceful and violent but still great compromisers of right principles. It is why women couldn't vote. It is why people were completely uncompensated slaves. It is why the indigenous people were forced off the land.
They endorsed the Declaration of Independence as the first legal document of the new state, whether or not so-called legal scholars today would afford the declaration such status. It is a mundanely legal document.

That document is a recital of the despotic actions of the king. They judged the king. They condemned him. In so doing, they bared their own hypocrisy. They hated all the coercive power and authority the king and his followers in the British Empire were exerting against them, the American colonists. Their upbringing was such that they thought of themselves as inherently deserving of being treated as the equal of those sitting in the British Parliament.

However, they were not unanimously prepared to extend that same equality to people not of their same few English Protestant tribes. The Protestant Scots could be tolerated. The Irish, aside from those Protestants from Ulster or Northern Ireland, however, were predominately Roman Catholic and, therefore, were not to be trusted. The fear was that they would put the pope’s will above that of the Protestant and Deist (more at secular) controlled US federal, state, and local governments. This whole equality thing was very ethnically restricted.

In addition, women were seen as inherently emotionally and intellectually inferior. This view was tempered by economic class differences, however, meaning that a rich and ostensibly sophisticated, refined woman held greater real power than a poor and crude English Protestant male.

Therefore, the incantations in the Declaration of Independence were pious lies (oxymoronic). In other words, unless the founders were going to be consistent that is not hypocritical, the litany of the Declaration was clear and plain dimwittedness.

Mistaken superior pedigree of takers

The founders had been raised with the view of the superiority of their pedigree. That superiority to them was self-evident by virtue of their, and their fathers', private gain and material accomplishments. It is a self-congratulating system that excuses outright evil acts. It is a system of turning a blind eye to one's own iniquity. It is a system that conjures up and convinces the masses that those who take by coercive means have that right and are simply demonstrating their superiority. It is falsehood from the beginning. Taking by coercive means is far from a demonstration of superiority. It is hugely inferior. It is much lower then simply receiving. Paul stated, "Remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive." (Acts 20:35).

This doesn't mean that receiving, per se, is sinful. Receiving here is to be understood within context. John the Baptist said, "A man can receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven." (John 3:27). One who freely receives but does not magnify the gift from God lacks faith and is wrong.

Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strawed: And I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine. His lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not strawed: Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming I should have received mine own with usury. Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents. For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath. And cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. (Matthew 25:24-30).

It is the same meaning as not hiding the light under a bushel basket, hence this work and the further call. It definitely isn't Jesus teaching capitalist investing for compounded interest or usury for selfish gain. It is the exact opposite of capitalism. It is purely an analogy to teach people that the light of real love, the truth, which they have been given, they are freely to give and share in word and deed so as to increase it, to magnify it, upon the earth in the hearts and minds of the many.

It is part of the power of the parable that it is perfectly ironic that the followers of Jesus are taught to speak and comprehend the language of the revelation and that those who cannot receive it, because it is not given to them, will never understand and will not be allowed to enter the kingdom to ruin it as they have ruined the earth through the lack of faith that is capitalism (mammonism).

It is the work of spreading the faith. It is spreading salvation. It is sharing the good news that the wicked, the despotic, the self-centered, will not be there, that those who abide will be freed from the prison of evil and that the earth shall be renewed and merged with the kingdom of God.

Now compare this error of hiding the light under the bushel or burying the treasure in the ground out of fear of losing what little truth has been revealed to one, with the error of going about the earth sinfully taking what others have been freely given by God. Those who go about the earth thus taking will receive the greater damnation for theirs is the greater sin. It is because they know better. They are well aware that they have sold their souls for the temporal fixes for their self-indulgent addictions. There is a place where they are spiritually deaf and blind by choice no matter how ignorant that is. God knows their hearts, and we have been given to see plainly rotten fruit. We don't condemn though, for we all have produced rotten fruit.

In the Declaration of Independence under which the founding fathers bound themselves, they stated that there are certain inalienable rights: Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Antonin Scalia would look to the writings of the time and leading up to that document to discern the limitations the signatories and supporters had in mind at the time concerning the meanings of the terms. Well, at the time, Roman Catholics and Italians were clearly, mundanely, and legally discriminated against; therefore, using Scalia’s own twisted logic, it is lawful to remove him from the Supreme Court because he is Roman Catholic and of Italian descent.

He is not interested in the spirit of the law. He is not interested in defining terms by virtue of the intention of those who used the words to construct the law. The new commandment is not his guiding light. He is not informed by the whole of Jesus’s words and deeds as to what the new commandment means, how to read it, how to interpret it. He may call himself Catholic, but he is not Christian. He is only a hire gun. He is sworn to uphold the US Constitution and not the faith he professes. Such is the hypocrisy though of all those who profess Christ yet serve mammon.

Judge Scalia is far from alone. We simply discuss him at length here, because he is being lauded by those who are attempting to swell the ranks of those who turn the blindest eye to the spirit of the law and to Jesus’s commandment. They do so to steer the otherwise faithful away from the clear and plain implications of the new commandment. They do so, so they may act with greater impunity, they imagine, in increasing for themselves that which is not theirs! "Woe to him that increaseth that which is not his!" (Habakkuk 2:6).

Jesus made clear that it is hypocritical not to understand the terms in the greatest possible light. Did any of the founders have thoughts of life being the real life, and liberty being the real liberty, and happiness being the real happiness? They employed the term "perfect union" as sheep's clothing.

Judge Scalia says that the US Constitution is not a living document. Yet, all the law (not just the mosaic) hangs upon the golden rule and the word is law and the word is God and God is alive and God is love. Therefore, the US Constitution hangs upon love, the meaning of which is the exemplification of Jesus, the living word.

Which resistance are we talking about?

Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God.

Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation. (Romans 13:1-2).

This is a conditional statement. The individual words are contextual. Jesus was tempted by Satan. He resisted. The satanic spirit is the power having sway over the worldly empires and nations. One properly resists the power of evil by emulating and becoming one with Jesus. There are well-meaning confused people put in the highest places as a direct reflection of what the people need to be conditioned out of that very state of confusion. When George W. Bush believes that he was put into power by God to deal with the terrorists, he's right. However, step back to see the whole picture. What is the higher calling? What is the highest calling?

As for resisting, people assassinate leaders and kill other people, their own and those of others, but that's not ultimately doing a good thing no matter how terrible those leaders may be.

You don't have to respect the president's confused actions anymore than Jesus respected the actions of Herod Antipas, Joseph Caiaphas, or Pilate. The term "respect" is nuanced here. Jesus did not resist even while he resisted. He drew the perfect line doing no harm. He truly was as harmless as a dove while being more than a match for the serpent, the spirit of which did not devour Jesus. There is contempt and then there is contempt. To understand where to draw the line, apply the golden rule from the soft-hearted side desiring to warn but not harm.

That is where Jesus was and is. Once they reject the word, the truth, be resigned. Move on for the sakes of the lost who will yet heed and the sakes of those who are working on it. Jesus did that, and it was no failure to love his enemies.

All who can be saved will be saved by his actions and the actions of those who follow Jesus to heaven.

Blaming God for the state executing the innocent

Now, on a more mundane level concerning the death penalty, even in the face of DNA proof that many, many innocent people have been executed by the government, there are still the Antonin Scalia minded, including the preponderance of so-called conservative Christians, in favor of throwing the stones at the adulteress over the clear and plain admonition against it by Jesus Christ himself. What hypocrisy.

It is revealing about the hearts of so many conservatives that they are for the death penalty. It is consistent with their flesh-and-blood family-value system and all their other traditional beliefs even though they as a group suffer as much as so-called non-conservative families from all the iniquities that Christ and the Holy Spirit of truth warn against.

Contrary to Mr. Scalia's mistaken view and the view held by so many so-called conservative Christians, God was not repaying the executed innocent ones for the crimes for which they were charged and then wrongfully killed by the state. It is an affront to God to claim the state did God's justice in taking lives not guilty of the crimes for which they were executed, and in Jesus's case, murdered.

Why did it please God that Jesus was crucified?

There are those who will ask, then why did it please God that Jesus was crucified? The answer is that God loved Jesus's demonstration of complete unselfishness. God loved Jesus's demonstration of complete faith in God's word that is God's promise of eternal life free of evil for those who will love as Jesus loved.

Romans 13:

1  Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God.

2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.

The first two verses of Romans 13 are right in line with how Jesus handled Pontius Pilate. "Thou coudest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above." (John 19:11). Also, it was Jesus's teaching not to resist evil. "But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also." (Matthew 5:39).

Romans 13:

3 For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same:

4 For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.

However, it is verses 3 and 4 of Romans 13 that find no unqualified support in Jesus's teachings or in what Jesus experienced at the hands of the powers that be. It is true that the minister of the powers that be "beareth not the sword in vain" and is "a revenger to execute wrath." However, this has to be taken in conjunction with the words of Jesus, "Woe to that man by whom the offence cometh!" (Matthew 18:7). That minister is not necessarily offending the guilty, as the execution of Jesus proves. Even when he is executing the guilty, he is still offending (sinning). Jesus said to turn the other cheek and not to cast stones.

Also consider 2 Corinthians 11:14-15 as follows:

For Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works.

Also, consider the two Bush presidents who came out of Skull and Bones. The father went up through the CIA (hardly a Christian organization) and was involved in all manner of deceptions. The son, while not following his father up through the CIA, nevertheless, learned many dirty tricks via his father's staff, and in his turn, dragged the whole world down much further. Were they the ministers of the spirit of God or of Satan, who rules the worldly world?

These verses by Paul lean upon ideas in the Book of Enoch that is non-canonical. It warns us not to criticize that which we do not understand. The whole Old Testament is full of God doing evil.
Civil disobedience and passive resistance

It must be understood that resisting (in the sense of civil disobedience and passive resistance as advocated by protesters) and speaking truth are two different things as Jesus applied the concepts in his actions. Nothing he did in his public ministry as recorded in the written Gospels was deliberately breaking even the least of the laws. That wasn't his means. There was never a time that he resisted with physical violence. There was never a time that he advocated the violent overthrow of any leader. There was never a time that he preached the undermining of anything good. There was never a time when he could be accused of seeking out opportunities for mere civil disobedience or mere passive resistance. He simply preached the truth as was his duty and was caught up in the hypocritical interpretation of the laws by the self-centered. The distinction is subtle for many, and the peaceful civil disobedience and passive resistance of antiwar protesters is certainly not a great crime. There was never a time though when Jesus said to others or himself that he would now go disobey the civil authorities. In fact, the only thing Jesus ever showed was how the civil authorities were riddled with hypocrisy and disobeying the divine law. When he cleansed the temple, he was actually enforcing the law within the divine context. The attention he garnered was an aftereffect. Of course, he knew it would follow, but he was doing the good of cleaning the temple.
Doing the direct, rather than indirect, good gives them greater cause to attack the messenger. Do you see that?

Telling the truth about the evil of hypocrisy is resisting and isn't resisting depending upon the entirety of the message. We are to resist evil, but we are not to resist evil with evil. Evil is usurping God's powers, taking God's authority into our own hands under our own will, which is always misguided and ends in calamity. It is done knowingly and ignorantly at the same time. Righteousness is asking God for mercy. Done in earnest, it is never done in ignorance. These truths apply to every human, leader or not.

Jesus didn't call for violent revolution. He called for repentance of all.

The high priest and the rest of them could have repented. They were blind to it. They suffered wrath but not from Jesus.

Cutting down the tree that brings forth evil is not a wrathful act on the part of the arborist who is the Almighty. Cutting down that tree is an act of salvation for those who suffer on account of the bad fruit of that tree. "Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away." (John 15:2).

Remember, who among us is to say when it becomes too late for that tree to change its fruit? God alone knows that time. God alone in heaven has set that time. It is not for us to change it. It is for us to call for mercy and repentance up to the last. That is what Jesus did. We are to give our all to becoming that spirit only.
Don't get stuck conceptualizing, trying to turn the infinite and divine message into a finite number of mundane pieces. God is perfect justice. We just cannot see the whole through our own eyes alone. We must be shown by God.

If God is good and Satan is evil, how can God do evil?

It is the sticking point for most. It is a learning curve for the whole of humanity. People have become very angry at God for things that have happened. They blame God. God's temper had to be assuaged often in the Old Testament. It fit the mentality of the people at that time. It was wrath. They were wrathful. They didn't have the message of Jesus in mind yet. That word hadn't been given to them yet. It hadn't been unfolded for them. We now though have no such excuse, even though we are still under mercy and are still forgiven for our ignorance. The bar is just higher. The expectation is higher. The sharing is greater accordingly if we become worthy that is if we make our fruit all good.

Jesus, however, teaches turning our minds from wrath-centered godliness to love, mercy, and ultimate justice. Our understanding of God takes on heightened emotional, intellectual, and moral qualities that are really more akin to the innocence of early childhood. It is a return to a natural abhorrence of that which is truly abhorrent. It is a re-sensitization back to the pre-mislead condition and beyond. It does not negate the purging of evil, even whole human souls of those who refuse to turn. It makes clear though that it is for the sake of justice (which is love) and far from mindless anger. We are not to fall into wrath. It is greater light than the Old Testament teachings else it wouldn't have been needed.

"Wherefore ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake."

(Romans 13:5). Verse 5 is correct (with qualifications) but not on account of an unqualified view of the assertions in verses 3 and 4.

Here is Mr. Scalia, a letter-of-the-law man, an originalist, hypocritically qualifying the scriptures out of his own imagination by adding his own words for cover saying, "One can understand his words as referring only to lawfully constituted authority, or even only to lawfully constituted authority that rules justly." This, of course, did not apply to Pontius Pilate, who also sinned concerning Jesus.

To clarify in the current parlance, an originalist is a qualified strict constructionist. A strict constructionist thinks he or she interprets law in accordance with word meanings at enactment. Some originalists add to that the original intent of the author or authors. Other originalists look at how reasonable persons used the words at enactment.

The US Constitution is not a living document

Scalia says the US Constitution is not a living document but rather "dead." He is quite right but in more than the sense he intended. The word of God is living. It brings enlightenment. It brings the real life. The US Constitution does not do that. It brings confusion and license to iniquity and wrath depending upon the interpretation. Scripture interprets itself all the way to the new commandment and from it. The scripture shows the letter of the US Constitution as hypocritical by being inconsistent with the spirit of the law that is the new commandment.

The new commandment is the Holy Spirit. It is huge. It is all that matters. It is alive. It is growing in us. It grows in our hearts. The kingdom is within, and it is growing and branching out.

Interpreting mundane laws via so-called originalism

Originalism views the US Constitution as coming to life only upon amendment. Once the change takes place, the words are dead or frozen again. The exact intent of those who amended it or wrote it originally is the law. Whatever was legal at the time is still legal, unless the document is amended to the contrary.

Originalism, obviously cannot take into account that amendments take time to filter through the rest of the subservient law. The constitution doesn't ratify all then extant subservient laws. The constitution establishes a new standard against which all subservient laws are to be upheld or overturned. Many issues have never come before the US Supreme Court, so there are some laws sitting on the books from the time of enactment of the very constitution that would be found irrefutably inconsistent with the US Constitution. Intent encompasses direction. It isn't necessary arrival. Mundane word meanings fail intention. This is why the US Constitution is so fraught with contradiction.
